The team is composed of Dick Livingston who will preach the sermons as the student minister; a quartet including Livingston, Bonnie Brumbaugh, Barbara Grim, and Ron Dilling; and Elaine Aitken, who will act as accompanist.

Chapel Attitude Noted In Entertaining Poem

A freshman sat in the chapel dim
Stiff and erect and still
And faithfully sang the opening hymn
And read the Psalm with will.
The sophomore sat with a lanquid care
With his arms on the forward seat;
The latest French novel was on his knee
And a newspaper was at his feet.
With back to the front the junior sat;
His seat was the middle aisle,
And cautiously now he waved his hat
As he caught the maiden's smile.
Fervently then the preacher spoke
With his eyes on the senior's chair;
But in that aisle no disturbance broke
For there was no senior there.

Anna Lee Over Will Reign At May Day Carnival

The Juniatian

Vol. 30—No. 26 | Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. | Friday, April 30, 1954

JC To Be In Carnival Array For Gala May Day Festivities

Queen Anna Lee Over will reign over the gay May Day festivities that have been planned for tomorrow. The theme of the entire May Carnival is the Mardi Gras.

As there will be no classes for the day, events will officially begin with open house at 10:00 a. m. Students are reminded to have their rooms orderly. The next event on the days agenda will be dinner in the College dining hall at 12:00 noon.

Clubs Have Concessions

The visiting of campus club concessions [illegible]in at 1:00 p. m. and continue until 2:00, is the first activity planned for the afternoon. From 2:00 to 3:00 the front of Oller Hall will be the site of the crowning ceremony and the court entertainment.

The royal procession of our Queen and her Prince, followed by the maid of honor and attendants promises to be very impressive. Her royal highness will be attired in white, while the maid of honor, Peg Brumbaugh, will be dressed in blue.

Senior attendants, Joyce Mullan and Nancy McCahan will wear gowns of pink; juniors, Jean Baker and Doris Markey will be clothed in aqua; Nancy Freed and Maggie Simms, sophomore attendants, will wear yellow gowns; and lavendar will be the color of the dress worn by frosh attendants, Joy Wenger and Peg McDonald. Ron Clapper, Prince Charming, will be formally attired; he will wear a white dinner jacket.

The highlight of the festivities will be the crowning of the Queen of May, Anna Lee, by Prince Ron.

Hamm Will MC

Bob Hamm, serving as master of ceremonies, will introduce the court entertainers; Doris Wilson, Mim Myers, Jo Feight, Kaydonna Bubeck, and Jim Geary, Spanish dancers; the Varsity Quartet, consisting of Ben Newcomer, "Thorny" Morrison, Wayne Ulsh, and Ken Rockwell; accordionists Norma Hottle and Skip Oesterling; a girls' trio, Bonnie Brumbaugh, Barb Grim and Maggie Simms; and the girls from the freshman physical education classes, who will present the May Pole Dance.

Sports Events Planned

Spectators may then retire to either the tennis courts or the baseball field and witness these sports events with Lycoming College.

Rounding out the day's busy schedule will be the Junior-Senior Reception, to begin at 8:30.

Those who have served on the Central Planning Committee for May Day include; Lolita Carfora, general chairman; Doris Wilson, assistant chairman; Nan Heller and Janet Claycomb, Breakfast co-chairmen; Kass Keller, club co-ordinator; Carfora twins, set construction; Nancy Blanck, programs; Janet Cline, floral decorations; and Joan McClure, publicity. Miss Barbara Cochran has been the faculty advisor.

Foreign Correspondent To Visit Campus Today

Mario Rossi, diplomatic correspondent, is visiting the Juniata College campus today. Under the sponsorship of the American-Jewish Committee on Palestine, Rossi is making a tour of central Pennsylvania colleges.

While on campus, Mr. Rossi will address Dr. Crosby's 11:30 American history class, Dr. Lockwood's 1:45 political science class and the International Relations Club, to meet at 7:00 p. m. in the I. Harvey Brumbaugh House.

For the past two years he has been reporting and interpreting United Nations developments affecting the Middle East, South Asia and Africa for The Christian Science Monitor, and from 1946 to 1949 he was Rome correspondent to The Nation magazine.

During World War II, Mr. Rossi was editor of the Italian Desk of the Office of War Information, and lattr a radio commentator. He studied at the Universities of Venice and Geneva and received his doctorate in political science in this country.

All students and faculty members art urged to attend any or all of Mr. Rossi's lectures.

Jr.-Sr. Reception Tomorrow Night

The annual Junior-Senior Reception will get under way tomorrow night to the music of Bill Shull. In keeping with the Mardi-Gras theme, the gym will be decorattd in a gay carnival mood, according to co-chairmen of the decorating committee, Kay Bubeck and Dick Ikeda.

Entertainment, under the direction of Allegra Forney and Rem Grove will be introduced by M. C., Bill Shull. Tht Boys' Quartet will be on hand, as will Don Witters and Lois Parker, singing a duet. Joan Knapp will round out the entertainment with her baton twirling.

Mickey Mick and Rainy Linn are in charge of refreshments, while publicity is being handled by Phyl Natale and Donna Croft. Telford Knepper, Russ Hill and Bill Garrison are in charge of the clean-up squad.

The dance will officially close the May Day festivities.

Raffensperger To Fill JC Senatorial Position

At the All-College elections held this past Tuesday, the student body voted Dan Raffensperger, a sophomore English major from Elizabethtown, to take over the vacated Senate post of chairman of religious activities.

In addition to his new Senate duties, Raffensperger is a member of the band, the varsity tennis team, the chapel choir, and he automatically becomes the new president of JCA.

A total of 308 votes were cast in the election.

Clubs To Sponsor Campus Displays

On May Day, from 1 o'clock until the May Day Program begins, there are going to be carnival booths set up for the entertainment of college students and visitors on campus. Throwing darts at balloons, a side show, a strength tester, throwing rings on canes, and a puppet show, will make up the entertainment.

The rules for clubs entering in this non-competitive display are as follows: clubs will spend no more than $5.00 from their treasury, and there must be an operator at each booth at all times until the program begins.

Alfarata Ready For Distribution May 10

Juniata's yearbook, the Alfarata, is nearing completion. All the proofs for the book were received on Monday, the twenty-siixth, and should be back at the printer's by the twenty-ninth.

Provided no difficulties interfere, the Alfarata will be distributed on May tenth. The editor for next year, succeeding Janet Claycomb. has not yet been revealed.

Club Changing JC's Darkroom

The Camera Club, headed by Bill Garrison, has undertaken the task of remodeling the darkroom located underneath Students Hall.

The preliminary task of clearance having been completed, the renovators are now in the process of installing blue and gold asphalt tile blocks on the room's floor and new work benches. Several of the walls will be covered with masonite. New wiring and plumbing will complete the remodeling job.

Radio Financing Report Heard By Senate Wed.

Communications, laundry facilities and the tennis courts were the top items of discussion at the Senate meeting held Wednesday evening.

A report from the radio committee showed that slightly over 75% of the senior class members voted to contribute $2.00 of their breakage fee refund to the campus radio project. In addition early reports of student solicitation show over $75 collected. Orders have been made for the procurement of equipment for construction of the project.

The chairman of women's house will take action to enforce the present division of the laundry facilities. Students have been reported for not observing the rule of boys and girls days for using the facilities.

A committee was appointed to take action on the bulletin boards and see that they are properly handled.

Action will be taken in the near future to prevent students using the tennis courts after a rain and thereby putting them in an unfit playing condition.

Dan Raffensperger has been elected chairman of religious activities.

Rosengren Will Appear In Senior Voice Recital

Miss Helen Anne Rosengren, soprano, a senior music major at the College, will present a voice recital this evening at 8:15 p. m. in Oller Hall.

Miss Rosengren, one of the most outstanding music students at Juniata, has chosen a varied program for her recital. Included in the first section of her program will be Lasciatemi morire, from Ariana, by Monteverdi; Gia il sole dal Gange, Scarlatti; Der Nussbaum, Schumann; and Widmung by Schumann.

Helen A. Rosengren

WJAC-TV Plans Choir Telecast

Would you like to be filmed on television?

For the second year, WJAC-TV (Johnstown) is coming to our campus to film our Juniata College Choir and String-Wind Ensemble and the audience. The film will be telecast about a week later so all in this area may see and hear. The filming will be done this Saturday, May 1 at 7:30 p. m. in Oller Hall.

The music to be performed will be both sacred and secular and will include a number by our Varsity Men's Quartet.

So come early and get a front seat to see how a crew audio-video men produce a telecast program with YOU in it!

Ethics In Intercollegiate Athletics Include 'Telling The Participants'

Intercollegiate athletic contests have been a part of the tradition of Juniata College for a good many years, although there have been no attempts to over-emphasize sports. On the contrary the attitude has been one of de-emphasis on intercollegiate sports. This can be considered a sound policy for a College of our size and long-standing scholastic reputation, but emphasis is one thing and complete neglect of standing opposition is another thing!

The scheduled tennis match with Indiana for last Wednesday afternoon was not played and investigation revealed some interesting facts. ISTC had scheduled three matches for the same week and called the Juniata Director of Athletics to propose a change. There was an open date for the College Hill courters last Saturday and the match was re-scheduled for that date. The arrangements had been completed to the satisfaction of both schools, only one little thing had been forgotten.

Good Idea To Tell Team

The tennis team was not informed of the change in schedule. Friday evening the Indiana officials called up the JC director of athletics only to find that he was in Philadelphia at the Penn Relays. They were referred to Dick Fusco, team captain, who for the first time was informed that a match had been scheduled for the following day. Thanks to inclimate weather the match could not be played, but imagine what would have happened if the visitors had come up for the match on Saturday without calling before hand.

The courts and team would not have been prepared for the match and a very unsavory relation could possibly have developed with Indiana after they made the long haul from Indiana, Pa. It is bad enough hat the undefeated netmen should be without a coach except for volunteer work on the part of Dr. Lockwood, but now they don't even bother to tell them about schedule changes. The courts are lined and graded by the members of the tennis team so they will be able to compete with other colleges in a true intercollegeiate sport.

Perhaps it is asking to much of the administration to go out of there way to at least tell the players when a contest is scheduled! However, considering the availability of the modern means of communication it shouldn't involve too much extra labor.

Intercollegiate Chatter

by Nancy Freed

The students at Wilkes College are working hard on their performance of Owen Davis' play, "The Nervous Wreck". If Miss Doyle were casting this play on College Hill at the present moment, I feel sure that she would have little trouble filling the leading role as a glimpse at the juniors trying to get everything done for May Day, the Senators trying to scrape up enough money to set up the radio station, or the seniors as they prepare for their oral comps would certainly reveal.

Indiana State Teachers College recently had a two day vacation from classes, clubs, and makeup work for no other reason than just to give the students time to read anything they want for their own pleasure and education. The vacation (called "Reading Daze") has no strings attached. No one is to check up on the students to see if they are reading or not, nor is anyone to dictate what a student should read (shades of Mad comics). Man, that's what I call a co-operative and understanding faculty. Well????

The brilliant mind of the college student has triumphed again. It seems that the boys down at Southern Mehodist were having a little trouble with an expensive water fountain found on campus. They couldn' run it in the winter 'cause it might freeze and nothing doing in the summer as there's a water shortage in town at that time of year. Sooo, how to get the water fountain watering? Simple, anti-freeze was put in and the thing was left bubbling for the rest of the winter. That's fine, except who in the world is going to drink anti-freeze?

The chains of habit are generally too small to be felt until they are too strong to be broken.

Wife of Missing Flier Still Hopes To Recover Body

Mrs. Dorothy E. DeHart, the wife of missing flier Edward S. DeHart has not given up hope that her husband's plane may be found. In a letter to Pennsylvania papers Mrs. DeHart states, "the Navy has concluded an intense all-out search, but we, his family cannot accept the fact that no wreckage of any sort has been found. Perhaps, on March 30, between 11:20 and 11:30 a. m. some Pennsylvania resident saw or heard something he considered unimportant at the time. Perhaps by some miracle, someone has found Ed and taken him in. Perhaps he is lying somewhere in the western mountain area."

In the letter she went on to explain that at last report the plane was headed in a northwestern direction from 60 miles out at sea. The CAP has taken up the chores of searching for the plane after the Navy concluded its search of the area.

She urges anybody that could possibly have any information that might deal with the former JC student to contact the Pennsylvania State Police.

McCarthy-Army Display Not Just Personal Feud

The American system of democracy depends largely on a trust by the voting population in the representatives they place in the offices of administration. When this trust is terminated they simply do not re-elect the representative. Such a system is simple enough when you examine it as a theoretical object, but what happens when the American people lose faith in their administrators as a collective body, as a function of a federalist government.

The present McCarthy-Army controversy threatens to do just this; already we must concede the witch hunts and internal scandals have set the pattern. Perhaps, it can be the privilege of a governing body to have a little 'graft and corruption' which is supposed to be kept from the people. Naturally we don't feel that this is the function of the government, but historically it has been very true that nearly every administration whether they be Republican or Democrat have had a degree of self-seeking administrators interested only in their personal welfare and not that of the people they represent.

Ever since the end of World War II the situation has become increasingly bad and now the climax appears to be on the horizon. No matter who wins the upper hand in the present controversy (both sides will undoubtedly feel that they did) we feel that the harm will be great to the voters in America.

McCarthyism has put a fear in the hearts of many people. Some because of the feeling that they may elect men who will only add to the corruption and bad deals in the government, others simply because they don't know how to interpret the results of all the investigations being conducted in Washington. Mass hysteria, a death blow to the promoters of true democracy can find a home in a situation in which the people lose fath in their own ability to elect competent men to run their own country.

The results of all the investigations in Washington to correct the infiltration of subversives in government and our own corruption will come to nought unless the American people retain the confidence in their own abilities as selectors of administrators. They regain faith in the government to handle internal and external matters to the betterment of the country. Unless they do reaffirm their confidence in democracy and unite to forward the American government as a peaceful agency of the World the fifth amendment communists and McCarthyism will be of little consequence.

Perhaps McCarthyism and faith in democracy seem on the surface to have little connection, but they are the cornerstone of two varying movements that will determine America's future. Whether we move to a period of fear and hysteria which dictate only trouble or that area of faithful support of a government that must work for the peace of the World and the United States will hold the answer to the H-bomb problem and all the atomic guns and warlike developments that have been and are continuing to be made.

Running The Gauntlet

by Fritz Heydrick

Tomorrow the traditional May Day activities will hold sway on College Hill, and as always sports activity will play an important role in honoring the Queen of May. This year Lycoming will provide opposition for both the Indian Diamondmen and the tennis team. Little is known of the power of either of these teams, but in last year's activities, the Indian baseballers whipped the Warrior team twice, 14-8 and 15-5. The netmen were also successful in their bid for victories over the Warriors as they won 5-4 and 7-2. A year ago tomorrow only one athletic contest was held during May Day, and it was the tennis team that stood in the limelight. The University of Pittsburgh was their opposition, but the Panthers played the part of poor visiters as they drubbed the Indians to the tune of 7-2. Let's all hope the weatherman will give us a break tomorrow so that this May Day will be acclaimed as the best ever staged at Juniata.

The Indian Cindermen will not be idle tomorrow, although they will not be at home. The track squad will journey to Reading where they will meet Albright and St. Josephs in a triangular affair. St. Josephs is known to have one of the most powerful squads in the East, while the Lions of Albright have shown no indication that they will be any push over. In fact the Lions have won their first three meets, bumping such opponents as Swarthmore, Muhlenberg, and F & M. Big point gun on the Lion squad is versitile track and field man, Jim Croke of Brooklyn, N. Y. He has amassed a total of 54 points in those three meets. The Indians are really going to have to hustle to make a good showing in this kind of company!

RANDOM NOTE—Glad to see that the administration approved the eight game 1954 football schedule. Since the Tribe lost only four men through graduation and one or two dropped out here and there for various other reasons, the undefeated squad of '53 should be virtually intact for the '54 season. This should prove to be an incentive to draw the average Joe Fan of small college football through the "clicking turnstiles" of College Field, as well as those at the fields of the various opponents.

Three Teams Cop IM Softball Wins

Rain cut down the schedule in intramural softball games during the past week but three games were played Wednesday evening. The Moosers, Jabberwockys and Day Students came out on top in the twilight encounters.

The undefeated Moosers exploded for four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to defeat the Blasters 8-3 to draw into a three way tie for first place. Bill Haushalter paced the winners with three bingles. Svitil was the winning pitcher.

The Jabberwockys broke into the win column by defeating the Doormats by a 11-6 count behind nine hit pitching by Jim Hunt. Three hits by Larry Confer led the Jabbers to their first win.

With six hitters getting three or more hits the Day Students romped over the Sunbrookers 19-12 in the other contest. Hutchinson was the winning pitcher for the Day Students as they grabbed their first league win.

—LATE FLASH—

Three games were played last night in the Men's IM softball league. Sunbrookers defeated the Jabberwocky's 8-5 behind the clutch pitching of Nick Rocco.

The Day Students defeated the West End Kids 11-7 while the Doormats and Blasters had to settle for a 3-3tie.

Krazy Kids Win Girls IM Volleyball Crown

by Florence Wenzel

The girls IM Volleyball season came to a successful close on April 22 with a short round of games. The Tourney was decided after three nights of play, with a schedule of five games each night.

On the last night of play the Pygmies defeated the Rowdies, the latter team also beaten by the Red Devils. The Red Devils then took on the first place Krazy Kids, and although putting up a stiff battle, lost a close game to the league winners.

In the last two games of the night, the Tri-delts beat the Spoofers but then were set back by the undefeated Krazy Kids.

Final Standings	W	L
Krazy Kids	5	0
Pygmies	4	1

Juniata Golfers Post Win in Opening Match; Annihilate Lions 9-0

Juniata's scalp-happy golf team entered the new season in fine style when they outpointed the toothless Lions of Albright 9-0 at the Berkshire Country Club at Reading last Monday. The Indians downed Albright by a similar score last year, and the victory was the sixth consecutive win without a setback over the Lions since the teams first met in 1948.

All six of the JC teemen racked up impressive wins, with Thumping Tom Cherok and Bill West piling up the widest of victory with 9 and 8 and 10 and 8 counts respectively. Barry Montgomery, who substituted for Bob Fahrney, found the going a bit rough when he met Joe Czutno, but came out on the long end of a 4 and 3 verdict.

Tom Cherok was medalist for the day with a two-over-par 74, while Phil Lankford came in one stroke behind with a 75. Bill West ended up in third position with a 76, whle Frank Arasin and Keith Birmingham carded 77's for the afternoon work.

The summary:

Frank Arasin (J) defeated Jack Lewis 7 and 5, and Tom Cherok (J) defeated Ernie Broadbeck 9 and 8.
Best ball, Juniata 9 and 7.
Keith Birmingham (J) defeated Mike DePaul 7 and 5, and Phil Lankford (J) defeated Bruce Mengel 8 and 7.
Best ball, Juniata 8 and 7.
Bill West (J) defeated Bill McHugh 10 and 8, and Barry Montgomery defeated Joe Czutno 4 and 3.
Best ball, Juniata 8 and 7.

Indian Thinclads Participate In Penn Relays At U. of Pa.

Mike Snider's warriors returned late Saturday night from Philadelphia and the Penn Relays without any medals, but rather with much needed experience which can be obtained by competing with and watching some of the nation's best track and field performers.

Coach Snider and his charges left College Hill early Friday morning and were on hand for the opening festivities. Gene Rothenberger, hampered by the foul weather, failed to qualify for the broad jump by leaping only 21¼ feet. A jump of 22 ft was needed to qualify. Al Nyce also failed to qualify for the discus. The necessary mark for this was 150 ft., which is far above the present Juniata record.

The Indian relay team made an appearance later in the afternoon, and found the muddy track too much competition as they ran last in that event. n Saturday morning the same team faired a bit better as hey finished ahead of Lehigh in the Middle Atlantic Relay Run, but still finished out of the chips. The team was composed of Flory, Tarquinio, Trimber, and Norris in that order, with Froisland subbing for Norris on Saturday.

Coach Snider was not displeased by the showing of the JC thinclads, because he is sure that the experience and knowledge gained will be put to good use in the forthcoming meets. The next action for the cindermen will be tomorrow at Albright when they participate in a triangular meet with Albright and St. Josephs.

JC Bumps Bucknell 6-5 For Second Win of Year

Joe Hinish's single to right field with two out in the bottom of the ninth scored Jake Handzelek from second with the winning run in a thrilling 6-5 victory over Bucknell. Handzelek survived a shaky finish on the mound to post his second victory of the season and even the team's record at 2-2.

Tom Cherok

Juniata got off to a fast start in the second inning. Fran Zimmerman singled inside third, Hinish walked, and Jack Golden rapped a double to right-center scoring Zimmy. Bernie Oriss then lined a single to right to score Hinish and Golden. The Indians added another run in the fourth when Handzelek led off with a single, went to second on Don Pheasant's sacrfice, and scored when Hinish greeted Bucknell reliefer Paul Flurer with a pop fly to single to left.

Handzelek, who had hurled a no-hitter for four innings, began to weaken in the fifth. He walked the first two batters who scored when center fielder Puglisse tripled to right-center. Puglisse scored the third run on Flurer's sacrifice fly.

Juniata added a run in the bottom of the fifth when Handzelek got on on an error and scored on Zimmerman's third hit of the day, a double over the track in right field. In the seventh, however, Bucknell tied the score at 5-5 with two walks, a fielder's choice, and two singles.

In the top of the ninth Bucknell loaded the bases for the second consecutive inning on two walks and a single, but a perfect throw home by Bernie Oriss after he had fallen fielding a ground ball, and a fly ball ended the inning. Handzelek then opened the bottom of the ninth with a single to center and moved to second on Pheasant's sacrifice to set up Hinish's game-winning hit.

Although Handzelek gave up 8 hits and 9 walks, his clutch pitching left 12 Bucknell runners stranded.

1954 Football Card Announced

Juniata College's 1954 football team will face an eight game schedule when the season opens next fall. Since the Indians compiled a fine unbeaten season last year in playing only seven games, it was decided to increase the number of games by one to a complete schedule of eight.

Two new teams put an appearance on the Indian schedule. The Lycoming Warriors, by virtue of their entrance into intercollegiate football again, return to the schedule in an away game on October 16. This will be Lycoming's first grid team since 1950. The other team to engage the Indians in 1954 will be the Swarthmore Garnet. Swarthmore will replace PMC, and face the Braves for the first time since 1951. That year the Indians dropped the Garnet by a score of 13 to 7.

Only three home games are scheduled, with Homecoming falling on October 9 and Parents Day on October 23. The other home contest is with Moravian on October 2.

The schedule:

Oct. 2 ——— Moravian
Oct. 9 ——— Haverford (Homecoming)
Oct. 16 ——— at Lycoming

Tennis Team Wins

It will take more than Huntingdon's monsoon season to stop Juniata's 1954 tennis team. This was shown Wednesday afternoon when the J. C. net squad literally swamped the Indiana State Teachers in the swamps to a tune of a 9-0 victory.

The outstanding victory of the day occured when team captain, Dick Fusco, bounced back after a 0-6 defeat to take the next two sets 7-5 and 8-6.

Miser Receives Good Review 'Players' Dream Comes True

When the five-year-old repertory company Players Incorporated romped their way through the 286-year-old classic The Miser last Friday night in Oller Hall, the result was a boistrous, charming, devastating comedy which left the spectators breathless from laughter. But it was more than that—for Moliere's The Miser possesses the stature of a great classic, and the Players proved themselves true artists, in their skillful and imaginative production of it.

Delight Was Obvious

The obvious, hearty delight of the Oller Hall audience was, in itself, adequate endorsement of this outstanding group of players. Their beautiful performance, so precisely timed and so perfectly executed, was, in a word, "tremendous." Without a doubt, seasoned Oller Hall goers will agree that this definitely topped any dramatic performance that any of us have seen in Huntingdon in recent years.

Directed by Broadway's Alan Schneider, these players, all former students of the speech and drama department of Catholic University, Washington, D. C., employed every trick of the drama trade in their production of The Miser.

Acting Praised

J. Robert Dietz, as the Miser; Joan Delehaunty, as his daughter, Elsie; Edward Garzero, in the role of Valere, her lover; Bob Waters, as Cleante, the Miser's son; Pat Barnett, as Frosine, the Miser's matchmaker; and on down the list of performers—one and all, they were superb. It seems almost anti-climatic to single out the performance of any one actor, for the entire production was so well coordinated, and each, in his own way, was so very outstanding.

Players Incorporated was begun with a dream, but a very sound one—the hope of bringing the very best theater to persons all over the nation who otherwise would have been denied the chance to see theater at its best. And, in this dream, was embodied the belief that classics, well presented, could prove to be the very choicest of entertainment. With every performance which the Players have given, this dream has come true—over and over again.

The enthusiasm registered by the audience, and the thunderous applause which greeted the Players on Friday night leaves no doubt in our minds. This is the best—and the sooner the Players return to Huntingdon, the better we'll like it.

Johnson's Pupils Present Recital

The Advanced Organ Students will present a public recital as part of the May Day weekend this coming Sunday afternoon, May 2 at 2:00 P. M. in Oller Hall. All students faculty, and campus visitors are invited. Included on the program will be organ solos, and two organ-piano duets.

Those organ students participating are: Elaine Atiken, Jean Baker, Rae Bamforth, Jay Bowser, Rita Peck, and Sylvia Schuler. Jacquelyn Hayes and Alice Jean Hoffman will be assisting pianists.

Butler Represents JC At Penna. Association Of Student Teaching

Miss Gertrude L. Butler, professor of home economics at Juniata College, will represent the College at the first annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Association for Student Teaching to be held at Susquehanna University April 30 and May 1.

Included on the conference schedule is a panel discussion on The Cooperating Teacher—A Guide in Student Teaching Experiences, in which a Juniata graduate, Miss H. Marie Pentz, '31, Drexel Institute, will participate.

A number of study groups on various aspects of student teaching have also been organized.

A former Juniata professor, Margaret Lindsey, now at Teachers College, Columbia University, will present the closing address of the conference. She will speak to the group on the Challenge to Cooperating Teachers.

Teachers from colleges and universities throughout Pennsylvania will be present at the meeting.

Rosengren—

Next on the program, Miss Rosengren will sing The Black Swan, from the Medium by Menotti; Ave Maria, from Otello, by Verdi; Pace, Pace mio Dio, from La Forza Del Destino by Verdi.

Following the intermission, the vocalist will sing Hark! The echoing aria, Purcell; Awake, sweet love, Dowland; When childher plays, Davies; May Day Carol, an English folksong arranged by Taylor; A feast of lanterns, Bantock; and Dover Beach, Op. 3 by Barber.

Miss Rosengren, of Philadelphia, was graduated from the Germantown Friends School in 1950. She has studied voice with Miss Mary E. Brewer of Philadelphia and Prof. Charles L. Rowland, professor emeritus of Juniata College. At present, she is studying with Mary Jo Pfotenhauer at the College.

Miss Allegra Forney of Martinsburg, a junior music major at the College, will accompany Miss Rosengren.

In The Clubs

DEBATE CLUB

April 26 found the debaters at Penn State where they had two rounds of debates. There was no judging as these were practices, but the discussions were thoroughly enjoyed by all. This brings the club's active season to a close as there are no more scheduled debates.

IVCF

Another organization travels to Penn State and the purpose of this trip is to visit the University's Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship on April 30. Dr. David Adency, a missionary to China will be the guest speaker.

LAMBDA GAMMA

Lambda Gamma's banquet was held Friday, April 23. Twenty-two club members and two faculty advisors were present at Helfrich's and all were reported to have had a nice time.

WAA

The WAA meeting was held on Thursday, April 29. Definite plans were made for the annual picnic which is to be held on May 16.

JCA

Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of JCA a group of students will discuss Pacificism following which the meeting will be thrown open to the entire group.

Student Whines For More Sleep

Six-thiry a. m. and time to rise,
I washed and dressed with sleepy eyes,
At breakfast drank coffee and nothing more;
(I had four hours sleep the night before.)
I started for school at seven fifty-five,
And certainly felt more dead than alive.
An eight o'clock class, a horrible chore,
(I had four hours sleep the night before)
Arriving at Founder's, I found out to late.
I had a nine instead of an eight.
I wonder what the rest of the day has in store?
(I had four hours sleep the night before.)

Two Speakers, Orchestra To Appear In Chapel

Monday's talk will be given by President Ellis, Wtdnesday's by the Reverend Marlin C. Bottiger, the Protestant chaplain at the Huntingdon prison.

On Friday the College orchestra, directed by Prof. Brammer, will present the chapel program.

New Pennsylvania FTA President Is JC Junior

A delegation of Juniata's future teachers last weekend, April 23 and 24, attended the 6th Annual Convention of the Pennsylvania F. T. A. During this two-day convention, the more than wo hundred delegates who attended, elected as their president for the coming

Kaydonna Bubeck
● Elected President ●

Miss Bubeck is a junior elementary education major from Schuylkill Haven. In addition to her F. T. A. activities, she is a majorette, secretary of the WAA, and a member of the Alfarata staff; and also took part in the recent production of The Skin of Our Teeth.

Four Among Duties

Part of her new duties as State President will include a tour of several major cities, to begin June and continue until July 2. Before attending the N. F. T. A. meeting in Delaware, Miss Bubeck will attend preliminary meetings in Washington, D. C., Albany, West Point, Philadelphia, and New York.

Other JC Representatives

Other Juniata representatives to the convention were Audrey Weber, former president of the Juniata F. T. A.; Marilyn Walters, vice president; Barbara Phennicie, sophomore representative, and Lois Mezey, representative of the freshmen class. Miss Miriam Schlegel, who, with Dr. Kiracofe, co-advises the F. T. A., accompanied the Juniata delegation to Slippery Rock.

Music Scholarship Set As Memorial

A new scholarship fund for music students has been established at Juniata College as a memorial to the late infant daughter of a former member of the music department's faculty.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Linton, the parents; Mrs. O. R. Myers and Mrs. Stewart Linton, both grandparents, have contributed to the fund as a memorial to Barbara Ann Linton. Mrs. Linton was piano instructor from 1942 to 1951 at Juniata.

Plans For Annual Charity Ball Set

The Fifth Annual Charity Ball will be held on Wednesday, May 12 in the Memorial Gymnasium. This is the third time that Juniata College has played host to this event.

One of America's favorites, Johnny Long, his orchestra and vocalists, have been engaged to play for the affair. Dancing will be from 9:00 to 1:00.

The proceeds from the Charity Ball will be given to the J. C. Blair Memorial Hospital of Huntingdon.

Four Faculty Members Leave; Biology Instructor Appointed

John R. Comerford, 24-year-old alumnus of Juniata College, has accepted an appointment as instructor of biology in the Juniata science department. He will fill the post vacated by Alexander S. Bartha, who has been granted a leave of absence.

Mr. Comerford was graduated from Juniata College in August, 1950, with a bachelor of science degree. He is now a graduate student in physiology at the Georgetown University Graduate School in Washington, D. C., and will receive his Ph.D. from there in August, 1954.

The new biology instructor is also a research assistant in physiology at the Graduate School, and is doing research in endocrinology.

John Comerford married the former Doris Eichelberger in 1950. Elected to the Juniata College Honor Society while he was here, he is also a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Bartha Leaves

Mr. Bartha, who is leaving to do graduate study at the Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois, joined the Juniata faculty as instructor of biology in 1949 and was later promoted to assistant professor.

He did graduate study at the Illinois Institute of Technology and Northwestern University, where he received a master of science degree. He plans to work on his Ph.D. at Northwestern.

Davis Resigns

Another revision in the science department is the resignation of Dr. Raymond T. Davis. Dr. Davis, who will join the U. S. Steel Corporation Research Lab in Pittsburgh, came to Juniata in 1946 as instructor of chemistry. He was promoted to Professor of Chemistry in 1952.

Dr. Davis received his bachelor of science degree from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Blacksburg, Virginia in 1936, his M. S. from the same Institute in 1941, and his Ph.D. from the Johns Hopkins University in 1943.

Tausch Granted Leave

The third faculty change for the coming year is in the language department. Miss Mildred A. Tausch, assistant professor of languages, has been granted a leave of absence for either travel to Europe or further graduate study.

Appointed instructor in German in 1948, Miss Tausch was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Rochester in 1947. Since then she has received her master of arts degree in German, also from Rochester.

Progress Report 'Very Good' On New WJC Radio Project

A report from members of the radio committee reveals that big strides have been taken in the building of the campus radio station. A three point program has been outlined by Joe Hinish, committee chairman.

The primary point in the program is well on its way to completion according to reports from Hinish. The financial end of the radio which includes solicitations from the student body and a two dollar donation from the members of the senior class (to be deducted from room breakage fees) has been progressing smoothly with several reports from solicitors still to be turned in.

Room Selected

The second block in the way of successful completion, that of obtaining a suitable room and having it repaired to fit the needs of a broadcasting booth, has been cleared away with the radio committee receiving complete cooperation from the administration.

Wall board has been ordered and will be used to cut down the reverberation in the studio which is located under Dr. Kiracofe's office.

Construction Underway

The actual construction, which was started last week is making excellent progress according to technical engineers Willie White, Maurice Henry and Gene Hyssong. Most of the console table has been built, the amplifier has been completed and tested and the trio are working on the transmitter at the present time.

Hinish concluded his report by attributing some of the rapid action to the trio and the volunteer help they have received from interested students.

Registration Schedule For Mon.; Procedure Released to Students

Registration for both the Summer and Fall terms begins Monday, May 17 in Students Hall according to the following schedule:

Monday, May 17—1:30-3:30 p. m.—Summer term for all classes and all students concentrating in home economics and music.

Tuesday, May 18—1:30-3:30 p. m.—Juniors and all students concentrating in Elementary Education.

Thursday, May 20—1:30-3:30 p. m.—Sophomores.

Friday, May 21—1:30-3:30 p. m. —Freshmen.

Students are requested to register at appointed times. If a class or lab conflict prevents a student from registering at that time, it will be necessary to appear either at registration on Monday or in Founders' Chapel Tuesday, May 18, at 10:00 a. m. with a written request to register.

After Friday, May 21, all registrations of students currently enrolled will be considered late and subject to a late registration fee of $5.00. Registration will follow the same procedure as previously used. Financial settlement will be made at times to be designated at the opening of Summer and Fall terms.

All students are urged to arrange for consultation with faculty advisors or department chairmen before registration to formulate a program for the Fall term.

Oral Interpretation Class To Give Recital

The oral interpretation class, under the direction of Miss Esther Doyle, will present a recital Thursday, May 20, at 8:15 p. m. in Swigart Hall.

The program will include a reading of Coleridge's Ancient Mariener by Dick Fusco, Longfellow's Falcoln of Ser Federigo by Si Dubbel, Hamlet, by Fritz Blechschmidt, Romeo and Juliet by Betti Brumbaugh Henry, lyrical poems of Herrick, Shakespeare and Dryden by Helen Stutzman, a prose reading of Wodehouse by Kay Kuehne, and a selection from Tennyson's Idylls of the King by Jeanie Tait.

The recital is open to students, faculty, administration and townspeople.

Larry Davis Receives Rubber Co. Award

A Juniata College student was recently awarded a copy of a handbook of mathematics for his progress and achievement in the course in math analysis.

Larry Davis, a freshman and a native of North Braddock, was the recipient. The book, which contains mathematical tables, was awarded tby he Chemical Rubber Co. of Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Davis, who is now enrolled in mathematics analysis II, was chosen to receive the awad by J. Clyde Stayer, the professor teaching the course.

'House Party' Set As Sat. Program

Come stag or drag... but do come! to the "House Party" featured in the Women's Gym on Saturday night. If that special date has asked you out, and you'd like to cuddle-up in his arms all night, then come and dance on the terrace. If you're in a gay mood then play a game of darts. If you'd like to show your skill, then "lay your cards on the table" and beat that buddy at a game of canasta.

If you've flunked a test and this just isn't your day, then don't take it out on your best friend, come on over to the party and whack a ping-pong ball. Come in jeans and play charades or come in a fluffy cotton dress and join the gang, but whatever you do or however you come, be sure to be a part of the "House Party" at 8:30 on Satuday evening.

Library Note

All books, pictures, pamphlets, and documents are to be returned to the Library by Wednesday, May 19.

Commencement Period Includes Many Events

1954's Commencement Weekend has been schduled for June 5, 6, and 7. Alumni Day, which falls on Saturday, June 5. Thirteen classes will be holding reunions.

Golf Match

Events will open with the annual golf match between the alumni and varsity teams at the Huntingdon Country Club. Starting time is 9:00 a. m. Following this, the Alumni luncheon will be served at 12:00 noon in the College Dining Hall.

A second sports event is scheduled for the day, as the alumni will again meet the varsity in a baseball game at 2:00 p. m. on the varsity field.

Library Tea

The Friends of the Library tea, open to students and faculty as well as the friends of the library, will feature a panel discussion by Dr. Theodore Lockwood, Dr. at 10:30 a. m. in Oller Hall. George Clemens, and Dr. Homer Will. The tea will get underway at 3:30 in the Carnegie Library.

Reunions

At 5:30 the classes will hold their respective reunions at various places. After these reunions, the Oller Hall program, to begin at 8:15 p. m. will be held. This program will include the Juniata College Orchestra, a program of readings, and Candle Lighting and Mantle Ceremonies. The Oller Hall Program will be the concluding event of the day.

Sunday, June 6, has been set for the baccalaureate service.

The service will be conducted in the Stone Church of the Brethren, beginning at 10:45 a. m. That evening, at 8:15, a concert will be given in Oller Hall.

JWSF Exceeds Goal of $ 1954

A financial report of the 1954 Juniata World Service Fund Drive shows that the grand total for the Drive is $1961.30, exceeding our goal of $1954 by $7.30. This is a $442.82 incease over last year's $1518.48. This year no funds were solicited outside of the College community, as was done in previous years.

Of this total, the students themselves contributed $625.45; women led men by $100.55. Clubs and organizations contributed $423.00, and the Gondoliers production accounted for the biggest share of the money, having raised a total of $536.96.

Other Sources

Other sources of funds were the faculty and administration, $308.00, classes, $15.00, the lost and found auction, $8.04, Lincoln Caverns of pennies, $39.85, and a friend of the College, $5.00.

The printing of solicitation cards, amounting to $6.00, was the only expense.

Funds have been distributed in the following manner: the Reverend H. Stover Kulp, $556.47; Juniata College Foreign Students Fund, $537.42; World University Service, $428.95, and the International Christian University of Japan, $428.95.

This report was submitted by Helen Stutzman, Chairman of the Drive, and Telford Knepper, treasurer.. It has been approved by Robert Godshall, Treasurer of the Student Senate.

Faculty Group Selected To Head Commencement

An announcement from the Registar's Office reveals that Dr. H. C. Binkley will head the General Committee for Commencement. Other members of the Committee are H. B. Brumbaugh, A. B. Dove, E. M. Doyle, J. T. Fike, D. S. Johnson, F. J. Mathias, J. F. Penney, A. G. Smith, and John Cook, senior class president.

Others Named

In addition to these members, J. C. Stayer will take care of academic costume, P. M. Snider, the ushering, H. C. Will will serve as College marshall, with a student marshall assisting, and P. R. Yoder will be in charge of technicalities.

H. L. Fisher will assist Dean Dove and Mr. Fike in the provision for campus guests. Decorations will be taken care of by M. L. Joseph, M. Dickey, and J. B. Wilson.

Miss Doyle and Prof. Brammer will take charge of the Saturday night program, and D. S. Johnson, the Sunday night program.

Publicity Heads

Taking care of publicity will be Mr. Brumbaugh, A. W. Engel, and Mr. Smith. S. S. Hettinger will be in charge of the Library Tea.

Student committees for the Senior Picnic, Senior Class Gift, Senior Picture, and Student gowns will be coordinated by Dean Penney and Dr. Crosby.

Rounding out the list of committee members are J. F. Padgett and M. J. Pfotenhauer, who will be in charge of senior chapel, step-singing, and vespers.

Program Listed For Final Chapel Services

Dean Mays will open the final week of chapel services with his address on Monday. On Wednesday, Miss Marie Jaeger will be featured in a solo recital at the keyboard. The concluding service of the year will be the Senior Chapel. Dr. Ellis will be the speaker, and attendance of all students is required.

Editorially Speaking —

Once again during the past week the students on College Hill proved they are intensely interested in the affairs that affect the government of the United States. The enthusiastic response to requesting WFBG Altoona to continue broadcasting the McCarthy-Army hearings shows that this generation of students are particularly concerned with the world they are a part of. Td

In statements by educators, statesmen and other concerned individuals we find the students of today being accused of laxness in acquainting themselves with the problems they will face upon graduation. We firmly believe they have been extremely harsh in the judgment of student attitudes. The results of an inquiry to see how many people were interested in the hearings showed that Juniata students are alive and interested in the future of their country.

It is evident that this one incident is insufficient to dispose of the criticism directed against today's college students. However, with so much of the future of the world resting in the hands of the people being educated today we must take it upon ourselves to associate ourselves with the internal and external problems facing the United States. Unless we make it a habit to keep infromed and critical in analyzing the situations as they arise while we are in college it can easily become a habit to accept lightly the events that affect us.

You owe it to yourself to keep abreast of the events that are formulating the situation that will exist when you become a member of the voting populus of the United States.

Alfarata Delayed

Alfarata Editor Janet Claycomb has announced that the 1954 edition of the Alfarata will be released sometime during the coming week.

The yearbook was expected to be ready for publication May 10 but difficulties at the printer necessitated the delay.

The publications Office located in the basement of Students Hall will be the scene of distribution.

Robin Hood Tales In Modern Setting

(ACP)—It was a brisk breeze that blew the month of March onto the University of Indiana campus, and tiny blots of green fluttered smartly in the wind.

Buttons, leaflets and hundreds of green feathers proclaimed the arrival of "Robin Hood's Merry Men"—a group of five students with definite ideas about Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

For months the Merry Men had plotted their attack. It began when Mrs. Thomas J. White, a member of Indiana's textbook commission, demanded the removal of "Robin Hood" from state textbooks because "he robbed the rich and gave it to the poor. That's the Communist line."

The Merry Men conceived their plan over coffee cups, and this month flooded the campus with green. Students were urged to wear buttons that said, "They are your books; don't let McCarthyism burn them."

One pamphlet asked students to "Join Robin Hood's Merry Men, who are concerned about both Communism and the McCarthyism threat to American freedom." Another suggested that Army Secretary Robert Stevens "take extra long arrows and use the long bow."

Said the Daily Student, campus paper: "When it's over the McCarthy era will leave a bad taste in the mouth. Maybe the Hoods will have some of their chlorophyll green for the occasion."

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS By BIBLER

"Don't select one of th' professors for th' commencement speaker . . . We're limited for time."

From The Mail Bag

Dear Editor:

Before I leave for Germany I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who has helped me to make my stay at Juniata a very pleasant one. I am sure that I shall forever remember the many wonderful experiences I had in classes, extra-curricular activities and free time.

I feel sorry today that due to my crowded schedule my free time and the possibility to get to know everybody here was somewhat limited. However, I am grateful for a solid education which I surely got in the lecture rooms and labs of Science Hall and which I consider a good basic training for my further medical career. At this time I particularly like to express my gratefulness to the professors who especially in the starting time showed admirable patience for my language difficulties.

After arriving in the United States I soon found out that life in America and particularly at College is very much different from our life in Germany. The two years I stayed here gave me enough opportunity to learn to appreciate many things and to dislike some others. But above all, this time has helped me a lot to widen my understanding and to believe in a friendship among some people in all countries.

I am leaving from here with partial feelings. On one side, I am looking forward to see my folks again after two years, on the other hand I know that I have to leave many friends here. I am almost positive that someday, even it might be only for the short time of a visit, I will be back again in the Unted States.

Those of you, who in the meantime should come to Germany should not miss to contact me. Everyone is heartily welcome at my home and, maybe, I can repay a small bit of that what you have given me.

If any of you have a spare moment (I know you seldom do) please drop me a line. I will be always interested in any news from the College.

Yours gratefully,

Volker Hiemeyer

The resignation of Mrs. Joyce Thomas Hines completes our list of faculty changes. Mrs. Hines will join her husband at the University of Kansas, where she will do further graduate study.

Prof. Claims Collegiate Students Determined To Cheat Themselves

College students ae the only people in the world who work all summer pinching pennies to enable them to buy something, namely a college education, and then do all in their power to avoid receiving it. How often the remark reaches one's ears, "I slept through my eight o'clock class again" or look around a classroom and see all the bored expressions or busy letter-writers and note passers.

Students in today's educational institutions simply do not see or realize the great responsibility which is theirs when spending their own or other people's money to attend college or a university. When you spend money to receive an education, you are not only paying for a service to be received, but you are accepting a responsibility to recevie that education and agreeing to better yourself for the benefit of the world.

The basic definition of a university is that it is "An institution organized for teaching and study in the higher branches of learning." The student, YOU, are not excused from this definition.

The next time your alarm goes off, remember that it is worth your while to get up. The next time you're temped to go to the movies, remind yourself on the approaching finals and stay home and "hit the books." You have a responsibility! What you do with the world today will be the problem of your children tomorrow.

Golf Team Loses Cherok's Service Due To Operation

Former Middle Atlantic Golf Champion Tom Cherok, will be lost to the JC golf team for the remainder of the season due to an attack of appendicitis.

The number two man on this year's golf squad was displaced as M[illegible]C by teammate Frank Arasin last week at the Juniata Invitational Tournament. It is reported that Cherok was suffering from early effects of the attack during the later stages of the tournament.

Monday afternoon he was taken to the dispensary for observation and from there to the Blair Memorial Hospital.

Thinclads Bump Dickinson For First '54 Win

Indians Extend Streak To Eight With LH Victory

Snidermen Grab Ten First Places In First Victory Since LV In '52

by Walt Vanderbush

The JC track team upheld what seems to have become a trend on College Hill during the past two years by soundly defeating arch rival Dickinson Tuesday by the score of 69½ to 56½.

The victory was particularly sweet to all those who remember the overwhelming defeats the Red Devil Cindermen have become accustomed to handing the Indians in recent years; this is especially true of Coach Mike Snider whose hard work has finally paid dividends.

As usual, Gene Rothenberger was the individual star of the meet, winning the broad jump, 100 yard dash and 220 yard low hurdles. He easily captured wins in these events demonstrating the outstanding ability possessed by the 'Boyertown Flash'. He also took third place in the javelin throw. He finished the afternoon with a total of 16 points to lead the winners.

Al Nyce, reliable weight man came through with thirteen points, winning the shotput and discus while placing second in the javeln. It was thought that Al might break the all time Tribe discus mark because of his fine performance last week but he failed to display that form and took the event with a toss of 124 feet which was 10 feet below last week's mark.

Ray Grim, scrappy freshman, turned in a real plucky performance, coming from behind to win the 440 by a hair to thrill the spectators on hand. Bob Flory turned in two easy victories by capturing the mile and 880 yard run. Joe Trimber in the 220 and Herb Lehman in the two mile were the other winners for JC giving the Indians ten first places in 14 events.

Pat Tarquinio, Trimber, Torry Froisland, Wil Norris, Lehman, Doug Wilson, Ray Ono and Geoge Beard aided the Snidermen cause with much needed seconds and thirds.

The next stop for the cindermen will be the Middle Atlantic Championships today and tomorrow on the LaSalle College track.

Underkoffler Captures Girls' Tennis Tourney

by Florence Wenzel

Despite the bad weather, the girls intramural tennis season drew to a conclusion this week after starting May 5.

Those girls participating in the schedule of matches were: Kayddonna Bubeck, Kass Keeler, Kitty Underkoffler, Sue Jamison, Jeannette Lowe and Carol Abrahamson.

In the opening round of play, Kitty Underkoffler defeated Kayddonna Bubeck and Jeannette Lowe beat Sue Jamison in a close match.

The second round of the tournament saw Jeannette Lowe defeat Carol Abrahamson and Kass Keeler bowed to Kitty Underkoffler thus qualifying for the finals.

The final match was played last Tuesday when Kitty Underkoffler defeated Jeannette Lowe 6-2, 6-3 to gain the girls' intramural tennis championship.

Unbeaten Covites Continue To Pace IM Softball Loop

Covites	8	0
Mountaineers	5	3
Day Students	4	2
Moosers	4	2
Lodge	4	2
Rose Buds	5	3
Doormats	4	4
Jabberwockys	4	6
Sunbrookers	2	6
Blasters A. C.	1	7
West Side Kids	0	7

The undefeated Covites added three wins to their total during the past week taking decisions from the Lodge, Blasters A. C. and the Mountaineers. George Pote pitched a sharp two hitter for the Cove boys against the Lodge and then topped off the performance with a one-hitter against the Mountaineers Wednesday evening. Dick Godshall picked up the other win in a 4-2 overtime battle, scattering 12 hits.

Covites Dump Mounts

In the contest that was rated as the game of the week between the Covites and the second place Mountaineers, the front runners bounced from behind an early inning deficit to pulverize the Hilltoppers 19-3. Eleven errors by the visitors coupled with 14 hits and 10 stolen bases by the Covites proved sufficient to overcome an early 2-0 lead by the Mountaineers.

Beside the loss to the Covites the Mountainers played a busy schedule during the past week, picking up three victories. They dumped the Jabberwockys, West Side Kids and Blasters on a one hit job by Mel Nycum.

Jabbers End Season

The Jabberwockys brought their season to a close during the week by winning a pair and dropping two. They defeated the Rose Buds 7-6 and the West Side Kids 9-4 while losing to the Mountaineers 14-4 and the Day Students 6-5.

The Rose Buds moved up a notch in the standings by beating the Blasters 9-5 and upsetting the Moosers 15-3 while losing to the Jabbers.

The Day Students only played a single game during the past week and managed to squeak out a 6-5 triumph over the Jabberwockys. They were outhit in the contest 10-8.

Braves Gather More Scalps With Wins During Past Week

by Bill Smith

Another big week for the baseball team saw a new school record of 8 straight victories set after wins over Pitt, Indiana STC, and Lock Haven STC.

Saturday's 10-4 win over Pitt was number six, as Lefty Alderfer tossed a six-hitter. Juniata scored in the first on a walk, Lee Hallman's triple, and an error, but Pitt tied it in the second on two hits, an error, and two walks. Juniata came back to score twice in the third, bat around in the fourth for five, and add one in the eighth. Pitt added its last two in the ninth on a two run home run.

Barry Drexler led the hitters with 3 for 4.

Tie School Record

The Indians tied the school record of seven in a row, Monday when John Criswell turned in the first shut-out of the season, a 2-0 win over Indiana STC. Criswell scattered 6 hits and struck out 3.

Ken Leonard was safe on an error in the first, moved to third on Drexler's single, and scored on Zimmerman's sacifice fly. In the fourth Jack Golden belted a triple to left-center and scored on Bernie Oriss's squeeze bunt.

Indiana threatened in the ninth but a missed base cost them their scoring opportunity.

Defeat Lock Haven

The big one, number eight, was Wednesday's 9-2 victory over Lock Haven STC on the Teachers' field. A thirteen hit attack enabled Jake Handzelek to chalk up his fourth win of the season. Jake allowed eleven hits but in only one inning was Lock Haven able to get more than one.

Juniata took the lead in the second on singles by Zimmerman, and Pheasant, an error, and a single by Joe Hinish. Handzelek lost his chance for a shut-out in the third when Lock Haven tied the score on a single, a double, and a disputed infield hit.

A walk to Phes, and singles by Handzelek and Golden in the sixth put the Indians ahead. In the seventh they broke the game wide open with a four run inning on four walks and singles by Zimmerman, Phes, and Golden with two out. Single runs were added in the eighth, on a single by Zimmy and a double by Phes, and in the ninth, when Bernie Oriss singled and came home on a series of bunts.

Zimmerman and Pheasant led the attack with three hits apiece, while Handzelek had 2 for 2 including a double.

Pitt Defeats Golf Team Following JIT Triumph

The Juniata College golfers won two major victories and then saw their winning streak shattered in a downpour of rain in one of the heaviest weekend schedules of spring sports on College Hill.

In preparation for the Juniata Invitation tourney which was held on the Mount Union links, the golfers easily outpointed one of the competitors of the tourney, Johns Hopkins, last Friday by the tune of 8½ to ½. Only No. 5 man Al Birtch averted a shutout for Johns Hopkins when he carded a birdie on the No. 9 hole to even the best ball in the last foursome. The teams split the low ball point. Widest margin of victory was turned in by Frank Arasin, when he thumped Joel Fine 10 and 8. Bill West found the going the roughest with his man Birtch, but managed to pull a 3 and 2 decision out of the fire.

JC Wins JIT

Under gray skies, the linksmen scored their biggest victory of the week as they won their own last Juniata Invitational Tournament with a sizzling four man-36 hole total of 616. This chopped off 11 points from the previous record of 627 set by the Indian team of 1951, and in addition marked the first time in the history of the tourney that the medalist was a member of the winning team. This year the honors went to the Indian's No. 1 man, Frank Arasin. Frank fired a blistering two-under-par 146 to better the record in that department which was set in 1951 by John Dyniewski of Temple with a 148 for 36 holes.

The favored Lehigh Engineers also broke the record with a 618, and No. 1 man for the Engineers, Joe Kyrla tied the individual total with a 148, but their efforts were not enough to stop the red-hot Indians.

Hofstra followed third with a 644 total in the combined JIT and Middle Atlantic State Conference tourney. Fred Grieve of Hofstra was third in medalist play with a 150, while Tom Cherok of JC, who was last year's medalist, and Bob Buhner of Iehigh tied for fourth with 154's.

The outcome of the tournament narrowed down to Juniata's Phil Lankford and Bill Jackson of the Engineers, both No. 4 men on the teams. The final result was in doubt until Lankford bested his opponent on the final hole, giving him a 78-80 nod over Jackson.

This was the last invitational to be sponsored by Juniata, and if a tournament is held next year at Mount Union, it will be under the sponsorship of the Middle Atlantics Conference.

Lose To Pitt

Playing without the services of ace No. 2 man Tom Cheok, the Indian teemen absorbed the worst defeat in the history of the squad when they dropped a 7½ to 1½ decision to the University of Pittsburgh. This snapped a four match winning streak for the Tribe. Last year Pitt also broke a 25-match win streak on the Indians' home course, 5-4. A further blow was dealt to the squad when it was learned that Cherok would be lost for the remainder of the season. Tuesday he underwent an emergency appendectomy at the J. C. Blair Memorial Hospital.

Rothenberger Favored To Hold Championship

Middle Atlantic Broadjumping Champion Gene Rothenberger is favored to retain his crown when the annual track competition begins today at LaSalle College. The two day event will feature the outstanding track stars in the Mid-Atlantic district including seven defending champions.

St. Josephs of Philadelphia and Lehigh College are the two team favorites with close to a clean split obvious in their superiority. St. Josephs is expected to dominate the runnng events while the boys from Lehigh will place strong favorite in the filed events.

The officials for the annual track event are looking for Rothenberger to break the 33 year old Middle Atlantic Broadjumping record of 23 feet, 4 inches at this year's competition. During the tri-meet between St. Josephs-Albright-Juniata Rothenberger broke the Albright and Juniata records with a leap of 23 feet, 1 inch.

Shakespeare's Dramas Given New "Bop" Twist By Students

Dr. Binkley has remarked in his Shakespeare class that each generation tends to interpret Bill's plays according to the times. Perhaps that explains and apologizes sufficiently for the take-off on "Romeo and Juliet" and "Macbeth" written by several college students.

Romeo and Juliet

Romeo: (entering stage in chopped coupe) Dig that chick on the sun deck. She's frozen, man, frozen!

Juliet: (noticing Romeo) Yo! That's a pretty jazzy set of wheels there.

Romeo: Yo! I'd bomb off the passion pit with you, but gee, Dad, my old man doesn't feature your last name.

Juliet: It's O. K., Daddy-O. A Ford by any other name would be neat, especially if it has a Bermuda Bell and duals. You've really had the purple shaft if my old man sees you.

Romeo: Don't panic! I've made it in the shade before. Say, doll, I could go ape over you.

Juliet: You're a pretty kool kat yourself. Do you want to get hitched, or are you just aiming for a make-out? Get on the stick!

Romeo: You don't have to make a federal case out of it. I know a fabulous justice of the peace. I'll clue him in.

Romeo: This I feature! Gotta scratch now, though.

Juliet: It's been real!

Romeo: Take it slow!

(Romeo digs out)

Macbeth

Lady: Out, out, I say. Out, brief candle! Come, my lord, let's bump off the king. Quick, quick, quick, quick. Push, pull, click, click. There is blood on my mit. It won't wash off. The thane of Fife ... had a wife. He was married. (rubs hands together) This isn't catsup. Wash, wash.

Dr.: Always washing her hands. She must be very vain.

Lady: All the Duz in Arabia will not sweeten this little hand. Banquet is buried. He's stone cold grave in the market! Knocking at the gate!! To bed, to bed, sleepy head.

Dr.: This is unbelievable. What a treatment I can make.

Gent: Can you cure here?

Dr.: No, of course not. But what a wonderful treatment I can make of this to the Vienna society. Good-by.

Gent: Good-by. Parting is such sweet sorrow.

Date For Draft Test Announced

Selective Service National Headquarters announced today that it has authorized a special adminstration of the College Qualification Test on Thursday, May 20, 1954, for the benefit of students prevented by illness or other emergency from attending one of the regular administrations on November 19, 1953 and April 22, 1954.

May 20 is the last date upon which the College Qualification Test will be held during the prjesent academic year.

Although applications postmarked May 10 or earlier will be accepted, students wishing to apply are urged to secure, complete, and mail their applications at once. Early filing will insure a test and other necessary supplies for the student at the center he selects or at a nearby center, according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test.

When filling in the application, available at Selective Service local boards, the student should cross out "April 22" opposite the space reading "Center No." and write in "May 20".

Full Term's Schedule To Include Revisions

A look at the schedule of classes for the Fall term reveals a few minor couse changes.

Advanced Composition 42, which has not been offered for some time, is going to be taught, on sufficient demand, by Mr. A. William Engel. This course will give instruction and practice in the more highly specialized types of Englsh composition, concentrating especially on the study and practice of modern newspaper writing. Competence in English is the only prerequisite.

English History has been changed from a one-semester to a full year course. Dr. Theodore D. Lockwood, who will teach the course, has pointed out that, contrary to the explanation on the Class Schedule, constitutional development will be stressed throughout the year. Also stressed in the course will be political background, social trends, and the like, in an attempt to make it of value to English majors, as well as those majoring in history. History 7 will cover to 1603, as stated, and History 8 will cover from 1603 to the present day. Dr. Lockwood will also take over a course in the Nature of Society.

A system similar to the one used in this semester's Biblical history course has been devised for the Fall term's course in Ethics. There will be two weekly lectures in Oller Hall and several discussion sections, possibly four, will be arranged. Dean Morley Mays will be the professor.

Mr. Comerford, the newly appointed biology instructor, is scheduled to teach four courses—the Nature of Science, Comparative Anatomy, General Physiology, and Genetics.

In The Clubs

by Nan Heller

Here are the activities of the final club meetings. Most of the organizations are winding up the season with something special so let's find out what's on the agenda.

JCA

The next Tuesday's JCA meeting will be a vesper service on Round Top. This will climax the year's activities and everyone is invited to attend. So if you're interested the group will meet on Founder's Porch at 7:30 P. M.

Masque

The next meeting of the drama organization will be held Thursday, May 20. It will be in conjunction with the recital of the Oral Interpretation Class. This, the last Masque meeting of the year, will take place at 8:15 in Swigart Hall.

Pyrenees Club

May 21 finds the language club members having their picnic supper at Sherwood Forest. Three skits (in French, German, and Spanish) will provide entertainment for the club members.

J Club and WAA

The J Club and WAA picnic will be held at Whipple's Dam on May 16 at 2 P. M. Miss Cochran, the Engel family and the Snyders will also attend. The fifty participants will depart from Memorial Gym for an afternoon of swimming, eating, and fun!

Activities Cancel Senate Meeting

Due to the Charity Ball Wednesday, the Senate picnic, last night, given by Dr. Crosby and Dr. Rockwell, and conflicting extra-curricular activities tonight, no Senate meeting has been scheduled for this week.

Main topic for next week's meeting will be Leadership Conference. Work has been done choosing the students to go to the Conference in the Fall, and their names will be released in next week's Juniatian, after they are confirmed by a vote of the Senate.

Senate members are currently busy writing up materials to be discussed at Leadership Conference. Joe Hinish, the Vice President, gathers the material from each Senate member, and draws up a general list of special isues of concern to everyone.

In addition, the Senate is presently considering choosing an All-Class Night assistant chairman, and the proposal to collect dues from next year's freshman class at registration in the Fall.

Intercollegiate Chatter

by Nancy Freed

Agnes Scott College down in Georgia has literally turned its campus upside down with a "Suppressed Desires Day". Students attended classes in old shirts and jeans and screamed with fanatical joy in the library whenever they pleased. Not content with this, they proceed to add insult to injuy by greeting professors with "Bon jour, Pierre" or "Nice day, isn't it Willie Joe?" Some even answered class questions with such beauts as "Well Thomas, I see it this way ..." Anything went and nobody got in trouble—it says here.

A Dartmouth student picked up $30 on a bet recently. All he had to do was slip a goldfish or two into his highball glass and gulp them down. Some guys will do anything for money.

A lass at Cornell has really got troubes. A freshman coed, she has offered to buy all available copies of the freshman directory. It's her contention that a picture of her published in the directory stands to ruin her social life. She was tryng to remove a shread of stringy substance from her teeth when the camera clicked.

Oh, how sweetly sing the birds
Oh, how drab these printed words
See how green the trees have turned
How I wish my books were burned!
—Conscientious Objector

Point of View by Joe Driscoll:

"... The female animal has a natural talent for becoming obsessed with the ridiculous. In a department store, she'll buy anything that is not nailed down, as long as the tag, SALE, is affixed. And if the dollar price is reduced to $3.98 or $1000.98, it makes no difference. She wants it.

Can you imagine that cute little blonde as president of the U. S.? At a conference table she would probably trade Nevada and California for Bermuda because so many women want to honymoon there." Now's there's the thought of the week.

Of course, I love you, darling,
I've told you that before!
You know I think of you alone,
How can you ask me more?
What do you mean, the other girls?
You're different, they're the same.
I'm hurt to think you doubted me.
By the way, what IS your name?

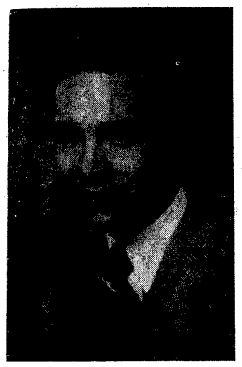
Dilling And Pote Appointed To Positions As Business Managers Of Publications

The Faculty Committee on Publications has approved Bill Dilling as business manager of next year's Juniatian, and George Pote as business manager of the Alfarata. They will succeed Dick Myer and Fran Zimmerman, this year's managers of the Juniatian and Alfarata, respectively.



Bill Dilling

● Juniatian Manager ●

Dilling Selected

Dilling, a native of Roaring Spring, has participated in all intramural sports, in All-Class Night his sophomore and junior years, and was a member of the Juniatian staff during his freshman year.

He is the recently-elected treasurer of the Tycoon Club. Dilling is a junior, majoring in economics and business administration.

Pote Approved

Pote, who also hails from Roaring Spring, was a member of the J. V. basketball team in his freshman year, has participated in all intramural sports, the Outing Club, and All-Class Night this past year.

He was also advertising manager of the Tomahawk and Scout and did advertising work on the Indian, and he will be next year's Juniatian advertising manager. Pote is a junior economics and business administration major.

Members of the Publications Committee are Dr. Harold C. Binkley, Registrar A. William Engel, and Harold B. Brumbaugh.

George Pote

● Alfarata Manager ●

Hamm, Hyssong Named To Head Station WJC

Bob Hamm and Gene Hyssong were appointed program director and technical director respectively of the new radio station WJC. The two will direct the activities of the station under the direction of the chairman of publicatns.

Hamm, who has been active in Juniata College Presents over WHUN during the past year will coordinate the programs that will be presented during the coming year.

The technical operation of the station will fall into the hands of Hyssong who was one of the leading promoters of the station when the idea was originally inaugurated. He helped considerably on the construction.

In addition Bill Shull was appointed by the Senate to serve as assistant program director during the coming year.

Claycomb Appointed To Head 1954 JWSF

Miss Janet Claycomb received the appointed at Senate meeting Wednehday night to head next year's JWSF fund drive. The only approved drive on campus JWSF has annually set their goal at the total of the year and Claycomb goal will be set at 1954.

A junior from Johnstown Miss Claycomb is majoring in elementary education. She edited the 1954 Alfarata and is active in JCA and WAA.

The JWSF drive may be moved to the fall term next year according to reports from the calendar committee which is studying the proposal.

Pielstick Appointed To Assistant Editor Post

Elinor Pielstick, sophomore elementary education major, has been named assistant editor of the 1954-55 Alfarata. She will aid Sue Jamison, recently appointed editor of that publication.

Miss Pielstick, who hails from Madison, New Jersey, is a member of the F. T. A., the Scout staff the Juniatian staff, and the J. C. A. cabinet. She also helped in All-Class Night, and at present is serving as chairman for Area Five of the Student Christian Movement, an asociation with which the J. C. A. is affiliated.

The various sub-editors, as well as the rest of the staff will be announced at the opening of the Fall term.

Dr. N. Cousins, Magazine Editor, To Speak At June Commencement

The highlight of the many Commencement activities that have been planned will be the Commencement address, to be given by Dr. Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, on Monday, June 1 at 10:30 a. m. in Oller Hall.

Dr. Cousins, who is listed in the 1954-55 edition of the Who's Who in America, was born in Union, New Jersey in 1912. He has attended Elmira College, Ripon College, Columbia University, where he received a doctor of letters degree in 1933, Boston University, which also awarded him a doctor of letters degree, and American University, where, in 1948, he received a doctor of letters of humanity degree.

Dr. Cousins began his writing career with the New York Post in 1931. From 1935 to 1940 he was literary editor and magazine editor of the Current History Magazine. In 1940 he became executvei editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, and he has been editor of that same magazine since 1942.

In addition to his journalistic achievements, this year's Commencement speaker was a U. S. government lecturer in India, Pakistan, and Ceylon in 1951 and

Seniors And Parents Will Be Ellis' Guests

Listed among the many activities that have been planned for Commencement weekend is the reception, to be given by President and Mrs. Ellis for the graduates and their parents.

The affair is scheduled for Sunday, June 6, from 3:00-5:00 p. m. at the Ellis' residence in Taylor Highlands.

Round Top To Be Site Of Vespers

On the evening of Sunday, June 6, the seniors will hold the annual "step singing" service in the front of Founders' Hall. Following this will be a brief vesper service on Round Top. It will consist of an invocation, scripture, two speeches, one from a senior student and one from an alumnus, and a senior quartette.

At the close of this service, the seniors will walk down from Round Top, as the alma mater is played on the chimes of the Stone Church. Step singing will begin at 8:15 p. m., and vespers at 6:30. In charge of coordinating these programs are Miss Mary Jo Pfotenhauer and Mr. Jack F. Padgett.

Sixty-Five Students Appointed By Senate To Leadership Conference

A total of approximately 65 delegates were approved for leadership conference at the Wednesday meeting of the student Senate during the past week. The group also appointed student leaders to various functions for the coming school year.

The class and club officers, Senate and JCA cabinet will all be invited to attend. Other delegates that were approved include: Seniors, Irene Davis, Allegra Forney, Dottie Kettering, Doris Markey, Joy Rinehart Sue Jamison, Gene Hyssong, Gene Rothenberger, Telford Knepper, Myron Sevick, Dennis Deegan, Chuck Gross and Neil Spangler.

The Junior delegates will include Kass Keeler, Ernie Lashlee, Bill Collins, Bill Crowley, Howie Kerstetter, Joan Swartz, Bill West Joyce Warfel, Sylvia Peterson, John Yates and Elinor Pielstick.

Bernie Cohen, Rod James, Les Querry, Bob Hamm, Jim Montgomery, Gipp Ciminera, Lucille Frey, Jeannette Lowe, Peg Mc Donald, Roselie Langer and Joan McClure will represent the sophomore class.

Bob Hamm, Gene Hyssong, Alma Skinner and Janet Claycomb all received appointments to campus posts at the meeting. (See stories on page one)

A second system for awarding spring sports letters will be presented along with the earlier Senate plan to the athletic council for their approvel.

The Senate passed a motion to collect freshman dues in the fall at the time of registration. The figure was set at 50¢ for the class of 1958. The action was taken to facilitate the work of the other class treasurers and give the frosh a treasury to operate from during the fall term.

Constitutional changes by the IVCF were approved by the Senate.

The final item of business was a proposal made to the Senate to request Miss Mathias to post a menu before each meal. A committee headed by Joe Hinish was appointed to investigate the feasibility of the project.

Sub-Frosh Program Closes Successfully

Juniata College played host to the final group of Sub-Freshmen on the weekend of May 8 and 9. At this time the thirty-five guests on campus attending meetings, sports events, meals in the dining hall and the moonlight hike. This weekend was the largest of the five scheduled Career Conferences. Altogether 120 students from high schools in New Jersey, Delaware, D. C., Maryland, New York and Pennsylvania visited Juniata from February to May. The guests expressed their gratitude for the help and interest shown to them by students and faculty members. The spirit of friendliness won many new friends and students for the College.

The Sub-Freshmen plans for next year are under consideration at this time. The Committee plans to organize as a club with a charter and definite plans for the future. Co-chairmen will head the club this coming year to lighten the work. Rod James, sophomore from Merchantville, N. J. will hear the men's committee. The chairman for the women's committee has not yet been selected.

The club is looking forward to the next season and hopes that all interested persons will join in the organization and operation of the Sub-Freshman Committee.

Skinner Selected All-Class Nite Ass't.

At the Senate meeting Wednesday evening Miss Alma Skinner was selected to fill the position of All-Class Nite assistant chairman for next year.

Miss Skinner is a sophomore science major who at present is the managing editor of the Juniatian. She has been active in JCA and past All-Class Nite performances.

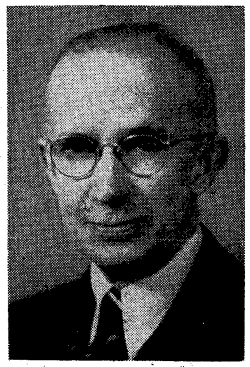
The newly appointed assistant will serve under chairman Allagra Forney in coordinating the program for next year.

OMMISSION CORRECTED —

The story in the May 14 edition of the Juniatian about the Senate picnic failed to report Dean Dove and Dean and Mrs. Penney were the sponsors in addition to those listed. The editors regret this error.

Professor Dubbel Will Retire; Will Teach During Fall Term

Silas E. Dubbel, professor of English, has announced that his retirement will become effective at the end of the 1954 Spring Term. However, by special action of the Juniata Board of Trustees, he will continue to teach for the ensuing Fall Term. He is scheduled to teach Fundamentals of English, Seventeenth Century Literature, and The English Language.



Prof. S. Earl Dubbel

● Announces Retirement ●

Professor Dubbel, who was born in Waynesboro in 1889, attended Waynesboro High School, Juniata Academy and College, Harvard College, where he received his A. B. degree in 1912, and Princeton Theological Seminary, where he received a bachelor of theology degree in 1925. He was a fellow in Apologetics at Princeton from 1925 to 926 and received his Th. M. degree from there in 1926.

In addition, Professor Dubbel was ordained as a minister in the Presbyterian church in 1930, and has written a number of articles for publication, including Wisdom from Wordsworth; The Centenary of T. H. Huxley; a review of Dante's Conception of Justice; The Puritan's Conception of Worldliness; and He Searched the Past, a critique of the writings of Irving Babbitt.

In a citation at the Faculty Club in 1951, it was said of the Professor, "Professor Dubbel is our shining example of a paradox. He is both a big and little man. His training encompasses literature, philosophy and religion, a big order on any man's intellectual menu. Beyond these his interests extend in many directions, to music, art, and the wide open spaces of nature. When he teaches, he speaks with authority and conviction. When he counsels, he expresses warm human sympathy and helpful insight. His heart and mind are sapacious."

Prof. Dubbel came to Juniata as assistant professor of English in 1915. His present appointment was made in 1940, and he was advancer to Professor of English in 1953.

New Supreme Court Action Returns Educational Segregation To Spotlight Of National Contention

The government of the United States has taken one of the biggest steps in the history of the young nation in the fields of education and race differences in one single swoop during the past week. It is thought provoking to consider the implications and background and probable results of this step.

It will directly affect eleven and one-half million school children in seventeen states and the District of Columbia and in addition probably every thoughtful adult in these as well as a large percentage of Americans. When the Supreme Court unanimously passed the order barring any segregation in school districts in the five contested cases before the high tribunal of the land they set a precedent that leaves the way open for non-segregation in 11,000 of the districts. Only a simple appeal suit filed with the courts will clear one district after the other from segregated schools.

JIM CROW DEAD ?

Many leaders of our country see the eventual abolition of all areas still operating under a Jim Crow set of educational values. It is not a new, unheralded move, because since the time the 14th amendment recognized the negroes as citizens with equal standing in the United States their leaders have been struggling for equal educational opportunities. These aims of educational freedom have been bitterly opposed by opponents of the movement particularly in the Southern states where the problem is particularly acute. Many cases have been encountered where negroes were denied what were considered equal opportunities to receive the level of education available to the white people.

The Supreme Court ruling will not abolish struggles of this type between the white and negro races in the South but it forbids the whites to segregate theschools as the practice has been. There will be bitter battles as exemplefied by South Carolina's threat to close all public schools. But the barrier has been removed and the firm American belief in the equality of man regardless of the color of his skin or his religion will be cleared of the skepticism that many of our international neighbors attribute to the American capitalists.

Effects on Three Levels

We recognize the strides it widd envelop in the developement of non-differentiated American education. It will not be an immediate and drastic step for the leaders of the movement that have fought so long for this action will take it upon themselves to step wisely and surely to bring a complete and final end to race segregation. If they do not the situation will only increase in complexity and dire results can be foreseen in the states immediately involved in the struggle.

In the category of race segregation it should serve as the removal of the last big obstacle to equality of races. It will remove the fearful difference many have maintained and for little reason because they have proved themselves intellectually equal.

Last but not least we feel that it will remove one big talking point for the successful indoctrination of Communism in theUnited States. In the series of articles run in the Juniatian we recognized the fact that Russia feels the American bourgouise was discriminating against the negro. Now, once again a propaganda weapon has been removed from the Communists by true American citizens who felt the dire need for the end of the evil segregation of races in the United States.

The biggest step since Abraham Lincoln emancipated the slaves has been taken for the abolishment of racial differences in the U. S. The implications are vast and far-reaching although as 'Yankees' we don't feel the forces as strongly as Southerners. After the Civil War the United States was again united as a strong nation and the problems that face one section are problems that affect all of us. A strong and dramatic step has been taken but only the strong vision and fair minded American people can make it truly a nation of equality.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS By BIBLER

Writer Recalls Totem-Inn Then, Totem-Inn Now!

As I think back over the outstanding events which have occurred in my brief life as a co-ed, I recall the eagerness with which the students looked forward to a student center. Everyone hurried to see "Totem Inn" as they came back to school in the fall. Their pride swelled to know that it was theirs.

Yet how fast the novelty wore off. If one were to walk into Totem today he might suppose that the tables and floor had been mistaken for trash cans. He might come to the conclusion that it was above the mentality of the students to read and respond to so simple a request as "Please clear your tables."

There is no excuse for the litter found lying around. It must be stopped! It is really no trouble at all to throw away the debris when through eating and it is easier on the next occupant's nerves and stomach if the table is clean.

Cribsheet Ready As Bargain Offer

For sale: One slightly used cheat sheet. In good condition and with all the correct answers. It can be used in modified form the next year in the same course.

This sheet was obtained by hard work, honest endeavor, diligent politicking and under false pretenses. It has helped immensley. The value received was worth all the efort and all the lying used in obtaining said cheat sheet.

The problem now is to pass this little jewel onto some deserving soul who doesn't have the time to study—to a person who spends his time moon-gazing or drive-in socializing. Yes, it must be given to someone who really rates it.

Maybe it will cause them as much sorrow as it has others in the past. Nothing can help a person learn less in more time than the cheat sheet. Ask around and see.

School Year Comes To Close; Signs Of Wear On Students

Just 168 hours and the first lucky test-ridden shudents will be through--on their way home. Of course, they'll be leaving with shattered nerves, chewed off fingernails, and a prayer in their hearts that those last nights of cramming were not in vain, but they will be leaving.

There will be certain evidence to clue you in on their exit from "College Hill" for another term, perhaps for "foreer." They'll be squirming through their last test, probably leaving in two hours 'cause after four other exams they couldn't take another 60 minutes of looking at that dreadful old gym. (Somehow it's lost the spirited atmosphere it contains on the night of the basketball game.) They'll be wearing the same old, dirty "jeans" and plaid blouse or shirt 'cause it seems senseless to wash clothes when Mom can do it as soon as you arrive home. Besides, who's had time to wash?

They'll have that "starving" look 'cause they will have missed the last four meals in order to read the last eight chapters for the first time before the test. Circles under their eyes will tell you the students couldn't afford to be "sack-rats" for the past week but lived on cigarettes, coffee, and sooo-ooo-ooo many No-Doz. A far sry from the familira cigarettes, wine and wild, wild woman. The guys will be unkissable (well, maybe not) with three day old 5 o'clock shadow and the girls hair-do's will begin to resemble Audrey Hepburn's.

It will take home, 48 hours of undisturbed sleep, and Mom's home-cooking to restore everyone to their natural state. But then who's got a craving to be normal? It's much more fun to pay 1200 dollars a year to suffer and be odd. If you don't think so, then you'd better look for a new way to spend your forth-coming years 'cause let's face it, kids, THIS IS COLLLEGE!

Fike States Dorm Progress Little Ahead Of Expectations

The new $349,000 dormitory being constructed as a men's residence hall in the upper end of Sherwood Forest is "coming along pretty well" according to reports received from John Fike,, College treasurer. He added that the construction company of John Yenter is "as close to schedule as possible" and voiced confidence in the construction coming to an early conclusion.

This coming week will see the completion of the outside walls of the dorm although there might be a slight delay when this portion of the work has been completed. The fabricated steel door bucks for the interior walls have not arrived and schedules call for their delivery late in May.

Work will be held up on the exterior until these supports can be installed but once they are obtained there should be little delay in the construction.

300 Day Contract

The contract awarded to the Yenter Company called for a 300 day contract which will expire near the end of November. Mr. Fike expressed confidence that the work will be completed close to this date unless held up by unforeseen obstacles.

"We feel certain the dorm will be ready for occupancy by the beginning of the second semester of the 1954-55 school term and have high hopes of it being ready before the Christmas vacation", he related.

May Be Done Early

If the dorm is completed before the vacation period resident men may be permitted to move into the new dorm before they leave for their homes over Christmas. He quickly added that occupancy at this early date "will depend on the breaks we receive from the weather man and the steel firms."

Mr. Fike also explained that the two wings of the dormitory were purposely made about two and one-half feet different in level in order to break the lines in the building and prevent a monotonous exterior view.

Double Fireplace

The social rooms for the new dorm will feature a double faced fireplace designed in the center of the room. The front of the social area will be faced in glass with the back wall the same as the rest of the dorm exterior.

Dick Ikeda, chairman of men's house reports that exact plans have not been competed in regard to room drawings for the new dorm. The complete plan will be organized in the fall before the dorm is ready to be occupied. All the rooms will be the same with no difference as is evident in the Cloisters. There will be suites available for a proctor in each wing.

Remember Your Role —

Several times before we have taken space in the Juniatian to impress upon you, the student body, the essential role you must play if the campus radio station WJC is to be a successful project. Now once again we feel obliged to remind you of the part you have been acked to play, this time as individuals with your service.

Disc Jockeys will be the mainstay of the station since it has been designed primarily to provide good listening in a variety of musical styles. Unless there are sufficient people who volunteer to spend some time behind the mike the project will fall flat. We must emphasize the fact that it is a volunteer service because there cannot be any type of conscription. We own the project and have put our own money into the building of the project; if we neglect the radio now we will be rejecting faith that earlier was displayed.

Any person that has had the opportunity to look in on the bustling activities that are going on at a furious pace in the radio studio must realize the time that many interested people are donating to the project to make it a success. Now that it is almost completed we must get on the job and organize ourselves to take over the responsibility of operating the station.

Although WJC will broadcast for a little while this year the big first year will begin in September under the direction of Program Director Bob Hamm. We have the utmost confidence in his efficiency and purposefulness in regard to the project but he cannot be asked to man the mike himself. Plan to donate a little of your time to bring music through the airways to the students of Juniata College from the students of Juniata College.

We can feel extremely proud of the tremendous strides that have been made in this project. Encourage the incoming frosh to accept the radio as theirs and as they become acquainted with JC to devote some of their constructive ideas and labor to our radio station. This is our part of the program for a progressive College, we must rally to the opportunity and the longlasting success of WJC broadcasting from Juniata College.

Fashion Show Planned By Lambda Gamma For Saturday Evening

Entertainment for Saturday evening, May 22, will be provided by the Lambda Gamma, which is sponsoring a style show at 8:15 p. m. in Totem Inn.

The clothing students will model blouses, dresses, and suits which they have made in class. In addition, a wardrobe of clothes designed by leading American Designers will be modeled. There will also be on display some of the projects done by the advanced and Applied Design class.

After the showing of "Fashions for '54," refreshments will be served. There will also be informal dancing in the women's gym.

Rules, Regulations Listed For Finals

1. Students are expected to remain in the examination room until they are finished with the examination and have submitted their blue books to the proctor.

2. No student may leave an examination room unless he is ill and explains to the proctor in charge. A student who is forced to leave because of illness will submit his examination book to the proctor who will make a notation of the illness.

3. Students taking the same examination should be distributed throughout the examination room. They should not sit in neighboring seats.

4. Chairs in the examination room should be kept in proper alignment and position. There should be at least one chair space between desks.

5. Notebooks, textbooks, and other materials obviously not necessary to writing an examination must not be taken into the examination room.

6. Only one examination booklet is given each student at the beginning of the examination. Additional booklets may be acquired later.

These regulations are set forth "in justice to those who desire honestly to do their best..." The administration further emphasizes the importance of all students "avoiding all acts that might raise suspicion of dishonest intention."

Committee Announces WJC Ready To Begin Broadcasting Operations

The radio committee has express hopes of putting WJC on the air for a test broadcast next Monday evening. The event will mark the successful completion of a student project started several months ago entailing monetary and time sacrifices by the students on College Hill.

Technical heads, Willie White and Maurice Henry submitted a report to the committee this week which details the work completed and includes further work to be finished.

Studio Nears Completion

The studio has been cleared and cleaned by the students while College maintenance men have repaired the wiring. The acoustic tile donated by the E. B. Endres Lumber Co. has been placed on the ceiling and part of the walls. The main console unit is essentially completed according to the report. All masonite board has been installed and some units are already mounted.

White also lists the transmitter as completed. The modulator which was built from a commercial kit is now working and the two power supplies, one high voltage and one low voltage have been finished.

Cost Below Estimate

All the necessary parts have been either bought or ordered. The total amount spent so far amounts to about $210 which is slightly below the amount originally estimated. There should be very little more cost involved.

When the report was made Monday evening there was a number of minor tasks awaiting completion but they have since been finished.

The report was concluded by expressing the hope of having the station operating Monday evening if no further difficulties are encountered and disc jockeys can be found during final exams period.

JC Library Tea Planned June 5

The annual Library Tea will take place on June 5 this year from 3:30 until 5 p. m., in the afternoon. There will be a display of the library's books which are used in connection with the freshman orientation courses.

There will be a panel discussion which will commence at 4:15. Those on the panel will be Dr. Will who will reveal the history of integration courses in higher education; Dr. Lockwood who will discuss the work in this field which is being done in other colleges and universities; and Professor Clemens who will elaborate on what we hope to accomplish by the integration program we employ.

Colonel Henry Shoemaker who is president of the Friends of the Library Association will preside over this annual event.

Refreshments will be served after the discussion and all students, alumni, and friends of the library are invited to atend.

JC Alumni, Faculty Plan To Attend Church Conf.

A score of alumni and faculty members of Juniata College will appear as leaders in progress at the Church of the Brethren Annual Conference, June 15-20. The six-day conclave, the 168th recorded, will be held at Ocean Grove, N. J., under the auspices of the Eastern Region of the brotherhood.

Alumni who will deliver addresses or chair sectional meeting include: H. Stover Kulp of Garkida, Nigeria, who will address the Conference on recent mission developments; Frederick C. Hollingshead, Harrisburg, chairman of the Bible planning hour; and Ronald Rowland, Hanover, chairman of the national Men's Work.

Also speaking before sectional meetings will be Levi K. Zeigler, Martinsburg; Don Snider, Kassel, Germany; Kenneth Morse, Elgin, Ill.; George Detwiler, Waynesboro; Charles Bieber, Lassa, Nigeria; J. M. Blough, Tampa, Fla.; and John C. Middlekauff, Huntingdon.

On the 82-member Standing Committee, which processes business for the Conference delegates, are E. Myrl Weyant, Rockhill Furnace; Wayne H. Dick, New Enterprise; and D. Alfred Replogle, Philadelphia.

Juniata faculty and graduates who are members of the General Brotherhood Board, which directs the over-all program of the church, are: President Calvert N. Ellis, chairman of the Board, and Professor T. F. Henry of the college; Paul M. Robinson, president of Bethany Biblical Seminary, Chicago; Bernard N. King, pastor, Ashland, Ohio; John D. Long, pastor, Dayton, Ohio; W. Newton Long, businessman, Baltimore, Md.; and George L. Detwiler, Waynesboro.

Choir To Present Full Joint Recital

On Sundy evening, June 6, at 8:15, the final choir concert of the year will be presented in Oller Hall. The program has been divided into three parts.

Juniata College Choir

First is Hulse's Beatitudes, to be sung by the Juniata College Choir. Soloists will be Ben Newcomer, tenor; Carol Lowdermilk, alto; Betty Shearer, soprano; and Paul Morrison, baritone. They will be accompanied by the string wind ensemble.

Organ Recital

The second part of the program will consist of an organ recital by Bill Weyandt. He will play Watchman, Tell Us of the Night by Seth Bingham; Carillon by Leo Sewerby; and finally, Choral in A minor by Cesar Franck.

Commencement Chorus

The final part of the program will be given by the Commencement Festival Chorus. This is composed of one hundred singers, including the chapel and touring choirs, and several faculty members and students. They will sing He Who Would Valiant Be by Elmore; Allelua by Thompson; The Omnipotence by Schubert; Open Our Eyes by McFarland; and Psalm 150 by Cesar Franck. The soloist in the Elmore number will be Ben Newcomer, and Helen Rosengren will do the solo work in The Omnipotence.

Profesor Donald S. Johnson and Miss Mary Jo Pfotenhauer will conduct the concert. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Grads Name Petrusky 1954 Representative To Alumni Association

For the past 69 years, Juniata graduates have kept in contact with each other through the Alumni Association which is made up of both graduates and former students of the college, the former preparatory school, and its predecessor, the Brethren's Normal College. The alumni council meets at the Fall Alumni Homecoming annually.

Each year's senior class elects a member to represent them in this association. This year, the class of '54 has selected Bernard Petrusky to receive this honor. Petrusky, the ex-president of the Student Senate and an active member in I.R.C., the Masque, Scapel And Probe, and F.T.A., is a native of Brisbin. Bernie has shown keen school spirit in every phase of extra-curricular activity life on college hill. His new position will place upon him the task of helping strengthen the bond of interest between the college and its former students.

Dupler Scheduled For Top Speaker At Alumni Dinner

The Juniata College Alumni Office has announced that the speaker for the annual Alumni Luncheon, part of Commencement Weekend Activities, will be Dr. Donald A. Dupler, outstanding Philadelphia physician and former Juniata student.

Dr. Dupler was graduated from Juniata in 1936 with a bachelor of science degree. After leaving here, where he majored in pre-med, he continued his education at the Medical School of Harvard University, located in Cambridge, Massachusetts. Then from 1939 to 1940 he was assistant house officer at the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, Massachusetts.

From there Dr. Dupler went to the Graduate Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, where he was an interne from 1940 to 1942. At present he is practicing internal medicine in Philadelphia.

Mr. LeRoy Maxwell, president of the Alumni Association and also a '36 graduate, will preside at the luncheon.

Records Fall As Golfers Capture W. Maryland Invitational

MA Broadjumping Crown Retained By Rothenberger

The Rock still reigns. Gene "Rocky" Rothenberger Juniata's jumping junior, retained his broad jump crown in the Middle Atlantic State's Collegiate Athletics Conference's annual track and field meet on Saturday at LaSalle College, Philadelphia.

In retaining his crown, Rothenberger jumped 22 feet, 2¼ inches, which eclipsed his winning mark last year by two inches. His efforts however, were still a foot shy of the present record. His greatest jump to date was a record breaking 23 feet, 2½ inches at a triangular meet at Albright. He is undefeated in three years of competition.

The other tribe contestants did not fare so well as Rothenberger in the 14 team field. Both Rothenberger and Joe Trimber were eliminated in the semi-finals of the 100 yard dash. Trimber was fourth in his heat, just missing competition in the finals.

The other three Juniata contestants failed to gain a place in the finals. Bob Flory failed to place in the mile run, Herb Layman found the competition too strong in the freshman mile and failed to gain a berth, and Al Nyce failed to hit paydirt in the discus throw.

Rothenberger's first place gave the tribe a total of five points in the team standings, and garnered them 12th place in the competition. LaSalle amassed 49 points to lead the field. The other teams finished in this order: Lehigh 38, St. Joseph's 36, Lafayette and Delaware 12, Scranton 10, Albright 9, Ursinus and PMC 8, Bucknell and Gettysburg 7, Haverford 6, Juniata 5, and Dickinson 2.

John Staley Victorious In Golf Tournament

Freshman John Staley shot a beautiful 80 on the Huntingdon Country Club course last Thursday to defeat Al Nyce in the intramural golf tournament. Organized under the direction of chairman of athletics Dick Godshall it was the first tournament of its kind in the intramural circles for a number of years.

Twelve entries filed for the opening round of the tournament which ended with John Staley, Al Nyce, Fran Zimmerman and Dick Mumma coming out with the top scores to enter the final round. Nyce carded an 84 in the finals to finish second just one stroke ahead of Dick Mumma's 85 while Zimmerman pulled in fourth.

The excellent play of the top four contestants drew praise from spectators for none of them had much opportunity for practice previous to the tournament.

Other entries included Bob Richards, Bob Crispen, John Curson, Jim Pfhitzinger, Phil Shriener, Moon Mullen, Don Replogle and Bill Straughn.

Undefeated Covites Crowned Intramural Softball Champs

The all-victorious Covites were officially crowned intramural softball champions at a meeting held Monday afternoon. The pressure of final tests forced the postponement of several games remaining on the schedule but the new champs had the title sewed up with one game remaining to be played.

Sweeping through nine straight victories the Cove Boys pounded out 88 hits in 255 trips to the plate for a team average of .345. Pressed hard in only a couple of games they had little truble goining the title spot.

Cleanup hitter Bob Godshall paced the individual hitters on the team with 13 hits in 26 trips for an astounding 500 batting average. Remle Grove with .458 and Dan Replogle with .414 both topped the .400 mark while only one player on the squad fell below the .300 mark. Evidence in itself to the reason for the Covite victories.

George Pote and Dick Godshall shared the pitching chores for the champs with the latter picking up five wins and Pote four.

The Covites will lose only infielders Bob Motisher and Bob Bridanbaugh when the 1955 season rolls aroud and promise to be a strong contender for the crown.

Competition High As Field Narrows In IM Tennis

A dual tennis tournament featuring competition in singles and doubles matches is slowly drawing to a conclusion according to reports from chairman of athletics Dick Godshall. Heavy schedule of varsity competition along with the pressures of late tests has caused several delays in the progress of the tournament.

The field has narrowed down to Jim Phitzinger and Sam Brumbaugh versus Fran Zimmerman and Lefty Alderfer with the winner to meet Bob Motisher and Don Replogle in the one flight. Walt Vanderbush and Torry Froisland go against John Staley and Bill Burchfield on the other field. The winers in the two flights will meet for the tournament doubles championship.

Godshall also reported that the tournament is in danger of falling short of completion unless he matches are played at a better rate of scheduling.

Calender Group Change Recess

The Calendar Committee has announced a major change in next year's schedule, as announced in the College Catalog. The 1955 Spring hrecess will begin at 12:30 p. m., April 6 and end April 14, 8:00 a. m., rather than lasting from March 26 to April 4, as previously planned. This was done so that Easter, which will fall on April 10, will be included in the vacation.

Seven Trophys Awarded To Braves For 36 Stroke Win In Tournament

Juniata College's golf team proved last week end that they were still one of the best small college teams in the nation, as they successfully defended their title in the Western Maryland Invitational Tournament Saturday at Westminster.

Earlier in the week the Tribe had dropped a disheartening 7½ to 1½ decision to the Pitt Panthers, and the odds of repeating as tourney champs took a sharp nosedive. However the Indians gave the fans a hint of what was to come when they breezed to a 7½ to 1½ win over host Western Maryland in a dual meet last Friday.

Although Frank Arasin, ace No. 1 man of the Tribe, was defeated for the first time this season, the rest of the team came through with victories to make up the deficit. Arasin bowed to Bob Steelman 1 up, and went over 80 for the first time this year with an 83.

Biggest margin of victory was Bill West's defeat of Tink Davis, 5 and 4, in the No. 5 spot. Western Maryland picked up the half point when best ball of the foursome ended even.

Saturday the Tribe caught fire from the first tee, and when the totals were added at the tourney's end, Juniata had eclipsed three records and were in possession of no less than seven trophies.

The Teemen fired a blistering 578 for 36 holes, which bettered their own mark of 586 set in 1950. The nearest competition during the tourney was second place Loyola of Baltimore, who finished 36 strokes behind the red hot Tribe. Host Western Maryland was third with 631, Gettysburg was fourth with 668 and Johns Hopkins took fifth with679.

Frank Arasin came out of his slump to grab medalist honors for the day by firing a grueling one over par 137. This performance shattered the tournament record of 139 set by Dave Baldwin of Lehigh in 1950.

The third record was set by Juniata's Bill West. In the morning session West shot a one-under 67, breaking the record of 68 for 18 holes set by Art Allen of Juniata in 1951, and also tied by Arasin in the morning round. West was also runner-up in the medalist play with a 143.

The Indians placed four men in the top five positions in the fifteenth annual tournament. Phil Lankford was tied for third with Al Pearson of Loyola, as each carded 148's. Steady Keith Birmingham of the Tribe nailed down fifth position with an even 150.

Juniata first entered the Western Maryland Invitational Tournament in 1949, Only in 1952 did they fail to capture the tourney crown.

Final In Contest Slated Between All-Stars, Covites

This afternon a contest between the intramural loop softball champions, the Covites, and a team composed of league all-stars will engage in the final game of the year. The all-star team was chosen by the managers of the various teams at a meeting Monday afternoon and will feature the best in the league.

Battery Named

A trio of pitchers will twirl for the all-stars when the contest gets under way today. Fred Hutchison (Day Students), Herb Harris, (West End Kids), and Dwight Good (Lodge) will carry the pitching burden for the stars. The battery will be completed with either Bob Gambos (Rose Buds), Carmen Ciarroca (Jabberwockeys) or Tom Appleby (Day Students) behind the plate.

Tom McNeal (Blasters) or Herb Law will take over the first base chores for the evening with either Maurice Henry (Doormats) or or Bill Haushalter (Moosers) performing at second base when the call goes up for 'play ball'.

Torry Froisland (Moosers) or Dick Fusco (Blasters) will hold down the third base spot teaming up with either Joe Veto (Doormats) or Harry Samuels (Blasters) at the shortstop position.

Outfielders Picked

The outfield will consist of Henry Gibbel, Walt Vanderbush and Arnold Olt. Gibbel played during the regulad season for the Mountaineers, Vanderbush with the Blasters and Olt for the lodge. Dick Ikeda (Doormats), Ken Barkdoll (West End Kids) and Ron Clapper (Sunbrookers) were selected to share the outer pasture duties.

Skip Osterling, manager of the second place Mountaineers will serve as manager for the all-stars.

Thinclads Beat Shippensburg For Second Straight '54' Win

by Walt Vanderbush

The JC track team did itself proud Tuesday by administering a 73 2 3 to 52 1 3 defeat to the Shippensburg State Teachers thinclads breaking the string of eighteen consecutive dual meet triumphs which the Red Raiders had compiled.

The 1954 season thus ended with the Snidermen holding a two and one mark in dual competition, a definite sign of progress considering the dismal seasons which the past few years have produced.

The Shippensburg boys walked on to College Field expecting no competition and had no qualms about letting everyone concerned become acquainted with the fact. The final verdict found them a sad and sorry lot who had run into a determined Indian squad which had no intention of being awed by the Teacher's impressive record and certainly showed it as they methodically undertook their afternoons work.

Rothenberger High

Gene Rothenberger again was the individual standout capturing the astounding total of four of the fourteen events carded for the meet. To his wins in the broad-jump, 100 yard dash, 220 yard low hurdles and 120 yard high hurdles, Rocky also added a third in the javelin. Along with his stellar performance Gene's value as an inspiration to his teammates throughout the season has been immeasurable.

Steady Al Nyce garnered thirteen points, taking first in the discus and shot while finishing in the runnerup position in the javelin. Joe Trimber, Sonny Kaylor, Bob Flory and Herb Lehman also brought home firsts to give the Snidermen a total of ten wins to Shippensburg's four.

Kaylor Takes High Jump

Kaylor's victory in the high jump was of special significance, since this event has been a thorn in Mike Snider's hair all season and Sonny was performing with a bruised foot.

The visitors showed two of the outstanding athletes to appear on the home track in some time in Bob Reese, ace middle distance man, and Percy Grimes who, like Rothenberger, seemed to be able to do a little bit of everything.

Baseball Squad Loses 2 Games In Final Week

by Bill Smith

Juniata's baseball team saw its winning streak came to a halt this week as the team dropped games to Susquehanna and Lock Haven after winning number nine against Lycoming.

The Indians won their ninth straight victory at Williamsport Saturday 6—0 over Lycoming College. Lefty Alderfer fanned 14 batters and scattered 4 hits in winning his third victory.

Lee Hallman's homerun in the first got Juniata off to a quick lead. The Braves scored once in the third on two singlesand a sacrifice and two more in the fourth when Joe Hinish homered with one on. The final two runs came in the fifth.

Don Pheasant and Barry Drexler each had two of the Indians nine hits.

Lose To Susquehanna

Susquehanna stunned Juniata by breaking the Indian's nine game winning streak 10-7 at Selinsgrove on Monday. Eight runs in the first inning off starter John Criswell and Lefty Alderfer were too big an obstacle to overcome.

Four singles, four walks, two sacrifices and a wild pitch accounted for the Crusader's runs, while three hits in the eighth accounted for the other two.

Juniata scored once in the second on two singles and twice in the fifth on two walks, a wild pitch, an error and two each in theseventh and eighth as the Indians outhit the victors 10-9.

Don Pheasant collected three for four to pace the Tribe hitters.

Bumped by Lock Haven

Juniata lost its second in a row as Lock Haven STC avenged an earlier setback 7-2 at College Field on Wernesday. Neil Spangler, the second of four Juniata pitchers, was charged with the loss.

The Tribe scored in the second on singles by Spangler and Jack Golden, but Lock Haven came back with three in the third on four walks, a single and a sacrifice fly.

The Teachers scored once in the sixth on a single, two walks and a fly ball and added three more in the next two innings off John Criswell on three hits and some loos e fielding. Don Pheasant pitched the ninth and allowed one hit.

Juniata scored its only other run in the ninth when Ken Leonard bounced a home run over the right fielder's read.

Courtmen Break Present JC Mark With 6-1 Record

Juniata's 1954 tennis team turned in a very successful road trip last week. On Friday the Indians journeyed to Williamsport to defeat the net men of Lycoming 9-0. Saturday the Indians met Albright of Reading and came out on top by a 7 - 2 count. It was the second win of the season against as many starts for Juniata against Lycoming. The Indian victory last Saturday against Albright marked the first time since 1933 that Juniata has defeated Albright in tennis.

Since Juniata's tennis match with Pitt was rained out and will not be rescheduled Saturday's meet with Dickinson marks the end of the season for the tennis team.

Summary of the Lycoming match

Running The Gauntlet

by Fritz Heydrick

With the exception of the baseball game and tennis match against Dickinson tomorrow, and a golf match with Bucknell May 29, the 1953-54 intercollegiate sports picture for the Juniata Indians is complete. All in all, the Tribe teams amassed a record of 45 wins and only 16 losses, for a neat average of .737.

Biggest winner percentage wise of the season was the football team with their first undefeated season. Following in order is the golf team, tennis team, basketball squad, baseball team, and the track squad.

Not only have the teams put Juniata on the sports map, but they have virtually proved to their opponents that they are unbeatable in athletic events played on College Hill. In a total of 30 contests which were staged on home grounds, the Tribe teams came through with 26 victories. Dickinson College, which will provide the opposition for tomorrow's double windup, is perhaps the most aware of this fact. So far, in four athletic contests through the year, the Red Devils have failed to notch a win over the Indians. The Gridiron Braves took them to camp by a 43-13 margin, the basketball squad hung a 51-49 defeat on them, while the golf squad and track team sewed up 8-1 and and 6911 — 5611 victories respectively. Here's hoping the Tennis team and baseball squad contribute their share tomorrow!

One of the big improvements which is being done in the Memorial Gym is the removal of the famous "rippled" basketball floor. The Ritter Brothers Construction Company began repairs early this week and expect to complete the job in about a month. A completely new floor will be layed, with exception of the area under the baskets and near the folding stands. It certainly will be a welcome sight for Indian fans to see a smooth expanse of floor instead of one filled with spikes!

Wednesday's game with Lock Haven STC saw a new moundsman added to the sparse Indian staff. Versatile catcher Don Pheasant relinguished his mask and glove to Max Ardary in the ninth inning, and took over the pitching chores for the Indians. Only one teacher reached base in his one-inning stint, and Pheas showed the fans that he possessed a sharp curve ball as well as a speedy fast ball. When Pheas is not flinging them in from the mound or crouching in his familiar catching position, one often finds him relieving veteran Ken Lenard at second base. The stocky soph also holds down the tailback position on the Indian football squad.

Congratulations are in order to Chairman of Athletics Dick Godshall for outlining and carrying out a highly successful spring intramural sports program. Included was an 11 team softball league and competition in golf and tennis. This afternoon the program will wind up with the First Annual All-Star game between the Covites, IM softball loop winners, and a team chosen from the best players on the other teams in the league.

Top Awards Presented To Best 1954 Athletes

At the Annual Sports Award Banquet, which was held Wednesday evening, May 19 in the Oneida Dining Hall, students, faculty members, and guests paid tribute to the varsity athletes, who have given Juniata College "its most successful year in the history of sports."

Following the dinner, toastmaster Dr. Ellis opened the program by presenting, to those in attendance, the recently appointed football coach, Bob Hicks. Mr. Hicks acknowledged the introduction and the toastmaster continued the program by calling on sports' coaches, advisors, or personalities, who awarded letters tnd stars to members of the varsity athletic teams.

Miss Cochran, girls physical education adviser, was the first to make presentations. She gave awards to the W. A. A. members and the cheerleaders.

Following her was Prof. Stayer, Chairman of the Athletic Committee. He awarded letters and stars to the 1953 undefeated football team. Next Doc Greene presented the basketball awards to "the winningest basketball team in the history of J. C."

Mike Snider, track coach, was called upon to present the track awards; Bill Germann, golf manager, the golf awards; Dr. Lockwood, who assists the tennis team, the tennis awards; and Doc Greene, baseball coach, the baseball awards.

Highlight of the program was the presentation of the special awards to the year's outstanding athletes in each of the sports. The recipients of these awards were chosen by vote of their teammates.

Winners were Ron Clapper, the George Weber Trophy for the outstanding lineman of the year; Carl "Joe" Trimber, the J. Harold Engle Trophy for the outstanding back; Jake Handzelek, the Jack Oller Trophy for the outstanding basketball player; and Gene Rothenberger, who was selected as the outstanding track man of the year.

A new trophy, for tennis, has been added to the list of special sports awards. It will be given on Alumni Day, along with the baseball and golf awards.

Registrar Announces Test Site Changes

An announcement from the Registrar's Office urges all students to check carefully the revised room assignment for final examinations. The change was caused by the repairs being done in the Memorial Gymnasium.

The Women's Gym, Founder's Chapel , rooms A, B, C, in Student's Hall and rooms 104 and 204 in Science Hall will be the sites for the majority of the exams.

The revised list is posted on the bulletin boards.

Roomitis Inflicts Coed Squawkers

As the last symptons of depression in the form of "transferitis" slowly disappear and the problem of room-drawings is over, authorities report the signs of a new epidemic effecting in general only the "fairer sex", namely "roomitis." This disease is defined as "A special disease that is prevalent on the college campus every year sometime during the spring term. As in the case of "transferitis" the sickness is infectious, liable to spread among students when the facilities of human reasoning are not functioning to their best degree."

Symptons Sifilar

According to medical authorities the symptons are very similar in most cases.

1. The complaint of hurt feelings, refusing to be rational (Typical statement of a patient in this state: "Polly's rooming with Sue next year instead of me, so I just won't bother to stay with the gang.")

2. An apathetic attitude on the part of the patient. She refrained from offering reasonable suggestions as to the choice of rooms, room-mates, etc. just so the wishes of the crowd would be carried out and now she's displeased.

3. The "I'm somebody" feeling revealed in her general degrading of the low-classed kids who had the nerve to choose rooms on the same hall.

4. The self-pitying complex. The poor patient drew number 27 and consequently got the worst room in the dorm, or their roommate is transferring and as a result they got stuck with a roomie who is simply "impossible.

No Patent Cure

Doctors have failed to discover a patent cure for the disease. The remedy lies with the patient herself. If an atmosphere of calmness was maintained the student has no doubt escaped the illness. If you are one of them who has, be careful not to let yourself open. You may still contact it. The best preventive is to remember one fact—as a college student you are an individual and an adult. Use your head and when you've made a decision, as you already have concerning this matter, stick to it and don't regret what you've done.

Two Faculty Members Will Be H. S. Speakers

Two Juniata faculty members have accepted invitations to be guest speakers at near-by high school commencement exercises.

Dean Morley Mays will speak at the commencement exercises of the Replogle High School, to be held Monday, May 31 at 8 p. m. in the Church of the Brethren, New Enterprise. A class of 26 will be presented diplomas at that school.

The other faculty member, Dr. Edgar S. Kiracofe, has accepted an invitation to speak at the North River High School. He is a native of the area now served by that school. The topic of Dr. Kiracofe's speech will be "Education for a changing world."

Spring Fantasy

When home sends an extra check for that very special "last" week-end you've got to spend together—

When you pick up a little card that assures you you've passed your comprehensives—

When you discover an envelope post marked Penn State disturbing the dust in your mailbox—

When you see the flowers burst forth and the sun makes the morning dew look like diamonds—

When you hear that the baseball team has gained another victory—

When that certain someone asks you to write to him this summer—

Then you're sure that the Spring Pixies have been sprinkling the world with their magic powder of happiness and all's well with the not-so-weary-world.

Intercollegiate Chatter

by Nancy Freed

In the last elections the students of Millsdale College pulled a weird deal. Voting on a double ballot, they repealed their old government constitution and failed to pass a new one. The net result of this shrewdie was much sound and fury and no more student government. "A state of nature exists on this campus," exclaimed the surprised student newspaper. "We've committed political suicide."

Two Pittsburgh Cats were sitting in the back of a class at one of the universities when the prof began scratching his head vigorously. Suddenly one cat jumped up, started clapping his hands, and yelled "Go, Man, Go!"

Trumpeter Rafael Mendez was the soloist with the Westminster College band in a concert on Tuesday evening. If some attempt were to do such spectacular things in connection with the JC band, undoubtedly more interest would be shown in this college organization.

Some imes it happens that teachers sit in on their students. A fellow doing his student teaching, gave his pupils a test in which they were to match a list of famous men with what they did. Appearing on the list was his own name and on the other "a poor, humble school teacher." By investigation (grading) it was found that half the class missed the question.

Some co-eds received quite a charge one evening when they smelled smoke in the dorm. Figuring that someone had recided their luck was with them and so they'd have a "Lucky", the gals went to investigate and perhaps join the party. As it turned out one roomie was trying to get some sleep-eye while the other studied. Consequently the one girl put a towel over the light to shade it. Anyone interested in a slightly used, slightly scorched towel ?

Ya know, college is a place where if you get up early enough and work late enough, you'll get straight A's -- if you collaborate with someone else in getting the assignments done, if you copy old themes from previous years, and if you forget there's an opposite sex.

Isn't it strange how spring seems to bring out the natural ability in fellows to pick up every word a poor innocent gal utters and twist it into the line he desires, as for example:

She: "I'm just a babe in the woods, I guess."

He: "Honey, meet an old forest ranger."

Registrar Releases Comp Distinctions

Twelve senior students were awarded distinction in the recent comprehensive examinations. Those achieving this honor were: Jean Hostetter, Latin; William B. Wevandt, French; and Rae Bamforth and Helen Rosengren, music education.

In the other divisions were Harry Martin, Tom & Bob Richard economics and business administration; Naomi Kulp and Audrey Weber, elementary education; Chuch Knox, history and political science; Marjorie Fish, sociology; and Charles Kipp, biology.

FINAL ISSUE TODAY

This week's Juniatian will be the final issue of the 1953-1954 publication series. The first edition next year will be printed Saturday, September 17, after which the Friday schedule will again go into efect.

GRADES DUE BY JUNE 15

Final grades for all undergraduates will be mailed out June 15 or later, acording to an announcement from the Registrar's Office. They will be sent to each student's home address.

Graduating seniors will receive their marks by commencement, June 7.

Miss Homecoming VIII Will Be Chosen Mon.

The Juniatian

Vol. 31—No. 2 Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. Friday, October 1, 1954

Ten Nominees Compete In Homecoming Election

Juniata students will choose Miss Homecoming VIII, in an All-College Election on Monday.

Four seniors and six juniors have been nominated for the royal position. They are Jean Baker, Lucille Eshelman, Allegra Forney, Nancy Freed, Barbara Swyers Gombos, Mary K. Jackson, Doris Markey, Lois Parker, Sylvia Peterson, and Sylvia Shuler.

Voting Monday

Election polls will be open from 7:45 to 12:30 in front of Students Hall, from 1:15 to 1:45, and 6:45 to 7:15 in Totem Inn. All students are eligible to vote. Results will be announced in next weeks Homecoming edition of the Juniatian.

The new queen will be crowned at halftime of the Homecoming Day football game between Juniata and Haverford.

Juniatian Affair

The ten candidates were chosen by the male members of the Juniatian staff, which sponsors the election. Criteria kept in mind were "personality, appearance, and college activities". Only juniors and seniors were considered by the nominating committee.

Jean Baker, a senior from Waterside, is a music major. She was a member of the chapel choir in her sophomore year, and since then has been a member of the A Capella Choir. Miss Baker has worked on the operetta all four years, and this year is cast in the leading feminine role. She also played the lead in "The Skin of Our Teeth", has participated in All Class Night three years, and last year was a junior representative on the May Court.

A senior from Everett, Lucille Eshelman is majoring in elementary education.

Allegra Forney, a senior music major hailing from Martinsburg, has been a member of the J C Cheering Squad for two years and this year captains the squad. Miss Forney was recently appointed by the Senate to student direct this year's Operetta. Last year she served as assistant student director to All-Class Night, and was in Skin of Our Teeth. In addition she is a member of the Harmonettes, girl's trio, and in her sophomore year was a member of Women's House Committee and Leadership Conference.

Nancy Freed, Telford junior, is concentrating in English. From March to June last year she served as Chairman of Social Activities. She is a member of the Juniatian staff, and last year was feature editor. She was also a member of the All Class Night Committee, the Alfarata Staff, chairman of the sophomore Valentine dance, and a sophomore attendant on the May Court. Miss Freed is presently a member of the Social Committee and the Operetta Publicity Committee.

Mrs. Barbara Swyers Gombos, med tech major from Yeagertown, is a junior here. She was a member of the Scalpel and Probe, the WAA, the Chemistry Club, and the J.C.A. last year, and the Chem Club and the J. C. A. in her

Choir Directors Name Members

Professor Donald Johnson, and Miss Mary Jo Pfotenhauer have announced the results of tryouts for the A capella and Chapel Choirs.

Members of the 1954-55 Touring Choir include sopranos, Jeanne Baker, Bonnie Brumbaugh, Lois Parker, Sylvia Shuler, Judy Gearhart, Mary Jane Hershberger, Alice Jean Hoffman, and Mildred Mandeville; altos, Ann Beers, Barbara Grim, Jacqueline Rowland, Allegra Forney, Jacquelyn Hayes, and Doris Markey; Ronald Deamer, Gary Mowery, Andrew Pastuzek, Ernie Lashlee, Harvey Ressler, and Charles Winter, tenors; and basses, Ron Dilling, Dick Livingston, Don Lowdermilk. Donald Brinaon, Ken Rockwell, and Earl Stutzman.

The Chapel Choir will be composed of Susan Fawcett, Sue Hart, Patricia Parker, Joan Schwartz, Barbara Orner, Lois Van Eerden, Aliceann Wohlbruck, and Ann Yesko, sopranos; altos Mary Jane Bridenbaugh, Nancy Grace, Jeannette Lowe, Helen Herr, Barbara Maurer, and Lois Mezey; tenors Phil Lankford, Bruce Bennett, and Joseph Senft; and Bradley Nicholas, Peter Wright, Joe Hinish, Bryan Staufer, Klare Sunderland, Bruce Dickey, Charles Fox, and Jay Guyer, basses.

The Touring Choir opened its 1954 season with a first rehearsal last week. Under the direction of Prof. Johnson, the Choir will tour the western Pennsylvania area during the mid-year period, singing in churches and schools.

Following this extended tour, several short trips will be taken and the student body on campus will have a chance to hear the choir sing.

PEP RALLY TONIGHT

JC's first pep rally of the year will be held this evening on Round Top.

The affair, which will be a bonfire is being sponsored by the Sophomore Class. Music will be provided by the band, and the cheerleaders will lead the student body in the usual program of yells. Refreshments will be served.

Cast Selected For Operetta; Rehearsals Now Under Way

"Mademoiselle Modiste", by Victor Herbert, has been chosen as the All-College Operetta for this year, and will be given, Friday and Saturday, November 12 and 13, at 8:15, in Oller Hall.

This light opera has been called one of the peaks in Herbert's career, and contains six lasting "hits", one of which is "Kiss Me Again". The music director is Prof. Johnson, dramatics director is Mary Jo Pfotenhauer, and the orchestra will be directed by Prof. Jack Brammer.

The action in the first scene takes place in Paris. There, Fifi, a salesgirl in a millinery shop, who is played by Jean Baker, has two ambitions. One is to become a great singer, and the other is to marry young Captain Etienne, played by Gary Mowery.

However, Etienne's rich old uncle, the Count of St. Mar, disapproves, and, to further complicate matters, Madame Cecile, the proprietress of the hat shop, wants Fifi to marry Gaston, her son, who is an artist. John Carson portrays the Count; Alice Jean Hoffman, Madame Cecille; and Andy Pastuzek, Gaston. Then, Hiram Bent, an American millionaire, played by Ron Dilling, comes along and gives Fifi the opportunity to take vocal lessons.

Things progress rapidly in the second scene, which takes place in St. Mar. Fifi becomes a prima donna, and there is a great deal of doubt as to whether she will be able to see Etienne again.

Others in the cast include: Don Britton as General Le Marquis De Villefrenche; Richard Livingston as Lieutenant Rene La Motte, who is engaged to Marie Louise, Etienne's sister, played by Judy Gearhart; Dottie Stricker as Bebe, a dancer; and Mildred Mandeville and Lois Parker are Fanchette and Nanette, daughters of Mademe Cecille.

Allegra Forney, student director, announced the names of the committee chairman. Committee members will be announced later. The assistant student director is Joan Schwartz. Stage manager is Lona Beabes; assistant stage manager, Klare Sunderland. Jack Golden is business manager, and set construction is under Marilyn Walters.

Properties are in charge of Elsie Hausler, and Dot Kettering is in charge of tickets. The chairman of costumes is Mim Myers; makeup, Joy Rinehart; programs, Doris Wilson; lights, Bill Braunsworth; stage crew, Klare Sunderland; and publicity, Joan McClure.

Jamison Names Alfarata Staff

Plans are well underway for the 1955 edition of the Alfarata, according to Editor Sue Jamison, who has announced her staff for the coming year as follows.

George Pote, Business Manager; Doris Wilson, Assistant Business Manager; Pat Henry and Joan McClure, Co-Literary Editors; "Goose" Gray, Sports Editor; Joann Feight, Copy Editor; Sylvia Peterson, Makeup Editor; Mary Kay Jackson and Betty Beatty, Class Editors; and Carol Abramson, Club Editor. Photography will be handled by Les Querry and Bill Garrison.

Members of the Literary Staff include Blynn Garnett, Judy Gearhart, Dotty Stricker, and Carol Olbrich. Makeup and Layout will be taken care of by Nancy Bachman, Norma Hottle, Lois Speice, Marian Fairbairn, and Joan Merklinger.

New Social Chairman Schedules Sat. Dance

Tomorrow night, at 8:30 p.m., an informal dance, sponsored by the Social Committee, will be held in the Women's Gym.

Decorations will feature a patio. One side of the gym will be used for dancing, while on the other, card tables will be set up. There will be a pinochle elimination contest which anyone may enter by putting his name on the list posted in Totem Inn.

Put on your dancing shoes, and come to the Women's Gym Sat. night.

KEEP TOTEM-INN NEAT

The recently activated Totem Inn Committee urges all students to cooperate in clearing off their tables in the student center. This policy was established when the Inn was first opened in order to facilitate the work of employees there, and students are requested to continue this practice.

Senate Plans Drive For Blood Donations; Pep Rallies Planned

Additions to the Social Committee, pep rallies and a campaign for Red Cross blood donations were among the issues discussed at the weekly Senate meeting held Wednesday evening.

Bill Shull added the names of Reed Reynolds, Cindy Zonies, Pat Torton, Nancy Freed, Gipp Ciminera and Nancy Nevins to the staff of the social committee.

The pep rallies for the three home contests were designated. Sophomore class wil have charge this evening with the Juniors responsible next week. The final cheer session will be handled by the freshmen.

The group decided to engage student help in sponsoring a joint faculty-student blood donor drive preceeding the annual blood collection on College Hill by Red Cross representatives.

Band Members, Cheerleaders Brammer, Cochran Announce

J. C. gridders will have plenty of backing this year when the 1954 Blue and Gold band performs at the first home game. This edition of the band is well reinforced with freshmen, reports Prof. Jack Brammer. According to Dr. Brammer, 42 players have signed up, 19 of which are frosh.

Leading the band in half-time manuevers will be three majorettes— Betsy Swope, Shirley Bardody, and captain Janice Mertz. As there are not a sufficient number of uniforms available, it is necessary for the marching band to be somewhat smaller. This band will be chosen from the regular band on a comparative basis.

The entire band consists of Frank Ehrenfield, Jay Faust, Jay Guyer, Andy Ross, Dick Wenger, and Glenn Williamson, trombones; Spencer Ward, tuba; Joseph Senft and Bon Bon Barboni, baritones; and Rash Isenberg, Wayne Drake, Bill Peterson, Don Brinton, Fletcher Walls, Bill Shull, and Paul Adams, trumpets.

Ross Wees, Dewey Mays, and Jackie Hayes will play snare drums; Kass Keeler, cymbals; Jim Beckley, bass drum; Carol Olbrich and Shirley Nace, french horns; and Wayne Patterson, Dan Raffensperger, Bill Seaman, Andy Pastuzek, Richard Lantzy, and Ed Schlosser, Saxophones.

In the clarinet section are Joanne Haines, Norma Hottle, Melba Smith, Sarah Hawbecker, Ronald Deamer, Carol Holsopple, Barbara Phennicie, and Charles Fox. Flute players will be Mildred Mandeville, Caroline Merroth, Marjorie Lentz, Ray Chilcott, and Bonnie Bhumbaugh.

A Welcome Addition

We note in our travels during the past week that an old member of the Juniata community is attempting a comeback. The planned reorganization of the Veteran's Club, if successful, will be a welcome addition to the groups on College Hill.

Approximately 41 of 43 veterans on campus attended the initial meeting Tuesday afternoon and all indications point to complete success.

In a different area of attraction we urge every student to exercise their option and come to the polls Monday to select Miss Homecoming VIII. Consider the merits of each candidate before voting and cast your ballot for the co-ed you want to reign at the annual fall festivities. Vote for your choice but be sure to VOTE!

Intercollegiate Chatter

by Nancy Freed

The North Carolina Daily Tar Heel reports an acute problem developing due to the diminishing number of scientists. Perhaps one of J. C.'s braver "brains" who are seen entering that building across the street at an hour too early for even chickens to be out of bed and leaving just in time to wash the putrid odor of a preserved (?) fish off his hands before hurrying into the dining room to discover the evening meal consists of fish, could explain the reasons to you. Of course, don't stop to ask him when he is dilligently trying to remember that the latissimus dorsi is not a red wagon with two wheels.

All colleges everywhere seem to be faced with too many faces . . . new and old. Guess everyone has suddenly gotten "institution" inspiration. Remember all you Sherwood Lodge members who are living like "three men in a tub" and you gals who are "packed like sardines in a can" that you are not alone. But then it's all worth it to keep your feet dry and know you'll never be a fish lost in the turbulent waters of this world, ISN'T IT?

Have you ever dreamed of your name being on the Dean's List? Impossible! No! But highly improbable! Apparently you've got better odds on the Bucknell Campus. 268 students were named to the list for the past semester, a close 20 per cent. Either we haven't "got it" upstairs or our standards are comparatively high.

The girls for Pennsylvania College for Women are not afraid to smoke according to a campus survey. The question of the week was, "Had the recent disclosures that cigarettes might be a cause for cancer affected your smoking in any way?" The PCW'ers said they enjoyed th habit too much to worry. Our JC gals are even more persistent. They don't even let stanling on a street corner to smoke (because the college provides no other place) stop them.

Dynamite In Newsprint . . . .

by A. William Engel, Jr.

"Dynamite wrapped in newsprint" was the description of an undergraduate newspaper in an article in Editor and Publisher magazine.

That's an interesting headline to scan.

At its best, the undergraduate newspaper is a pretty smooth piece of journalism by anybody's standards, and a solid academic achievement. It's a builder of campus morale and a public relations medium of high order.

At its worst — wow!

More stresses and strains, more dissatisfactions and resentment seem to whirl continuously about the college newspaper than almost any other undertaking on the campus. Great variation exists from one college to another in the nature and amount of control-- or lack of it — granted the student staff.

The "faculty control" demand is foolish. Censorship produces bad student morale, resentments, flare-ups, evasions in proportion to its severity. Actually, the student paper becomes a "weak and spineless thing" lacking in the strength and force to speak effectively for the group it represents.

Censorship, in most instances, has proved to be an educational self-contradiction if the college proposes to be a training ground for effective participation in a democratic society.

When Alexander Hamilton was asked back in 1788 to define "liberty of the press" he threw up his hands and admitted he couldn't do so.

Hamilton was both a journalist and a statesman, and if he couldn't pin things down, surely it is understandable why there has been widespread confusion about the "freedom of the college press".

Despite Hamilton's perplexity, there is a simple, clear-cut way of expressing this so-termed freedom today. It is: YOUR RIGHT TO KNOW what is going on at Juniata College.

Hence, first of all, the college newspaper — in this case The Juniatian — owes primary allegiance to its student audience.

But, as one journalist has so well put it: "When complete campus coverage is a fact, when the molding of student opinion is accomplished, when the defense of free expression is successful, when all student knots are tied—the college journal has yet to bear in mind that there remains an added responsibility to the college as a whole . . . . "

The college newspaper does become an institutional asset by: 1-Realizing the important role it can play in the public relations work of its college; 2-offering conshructive criticism o f student, faculey and administrtive activities; 3-supporting the cause of academic freedom; 4-emphasizing quality in the fundamentals of journalism.

The question how far the college paper may carry its right-to-know before it runs into the blockade of the individual's un-

THE RELIGIOUS ASPECT

by Dick Livingston

Exactly one month ago in Evanston, Illinois, one of the greatest meetings that the world has known was adjourned. Many of the thousands of delegates and visitors who attended it have already returned to their homes. These people were virtually from every country in the world. They spoke many different languages. They wore different kinds of slothes. Yet they were all united in the belief that Christ is the hope of the wirld.

The meeting which these people attended was the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches. For over two weeks this body discussed topics of great importance to Christian faith and witness in the world today.

How much effect the Evanston meeting will have on the world will not be known for some years. It is quite probable, however, that its impact will be sufficiently great that every person who wishes to be informed must know something about it, whether or not he agrees with the Council. In case you have allowed this momentous event to pass by unnoticed, you can read a complete summary of it in the September 22 issue of The Christian Century now in the Library.

One of the ninety members of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches will speak in the Chapel Monday.

He is the Rev. M. R. Zigler, who has spent the past several years in Geneva, Switzerland, representig the Church of the Brethrei at the Council's headquarters. He is one of twenty-two Americans who are on this worldwide, interdenominational planning committee.

Because of his unique position in world religious affairs, Mr. Zigler's ideas should have real significance for everyone on College Hill.

Accent On Reading

HITLER; a study in tyranny, by Alan Bullock. This is the first full accout of Hitler's life in any language; a detailed, dramatic canvas of world history in days when men drifted toward totalitarianism; the incredible story of the formation of the Axis. Here are the men, the events, the documents, and the records.

SIX UPON THE WORLD, by Paul Douglas. An absorbing social and economic study of how the lives and convictions of six American men have interacted with the cultural life of the nation. The author draws up a case study of each man's life, his philosophy of life, and his influence upon the nation. Men discussed are Paul G. Hoffman and Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., industrialists; William Z. Foster, head of the Communist party of the United Ctates; Walter Reuther, labor leader; Roman Catholic Francis Cardinal Spellman; and educator and scientist, James B. Conant.

SYNGMAN RHEE; the man behind the myth. by Robert T. Oliver. A biography of the Korean president, based on documents, letters, diaries, as well as the author's recollections of his intimate association with Rhee. The account covers Rhee's aristocratic Korean background, his education by American missionaries, the awakening of his interest in Korean politics, his revolutionary activities, and his career as a statesman.

Tribe Faces Moravian In Opening Tilt Tomorrow

Intramural Football League Opens With Eight Teams In Fold

Three games were played this past Wednesday afternoon, with the Sun Brookers, the Horse's Men, and the Covites each registering wins over their respective opposition.

The Horse's Men literally had a field day, as they romped over the "tired" All Purpose Vets to the tune of 35-0. Joe DeNicola was the key man for the "Men", as he and his passing arm continuously connected for long gains, with his ends and backs; O'Neill, Quarentillo, Smeltzer, and Kimmel.

On the field across the creek, the Sun Brookers had a rough time defeating the Scrawny Six, seven to nothing. Alderfer's pass to "Shorty" Balog, and Dick Fusco's extra point, were the highlights of the game.

In the other games, the Covites won over the Spaghetti Benders, 24-0. The Covites won by a forfeit when the "Benders" failed to field a team.

The intramural games will be held every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, starting at 3:45 p.m. The games will consist of four-15 minute quarters with no time-outs, and will be governed by regular football rules, with the following exceptions:

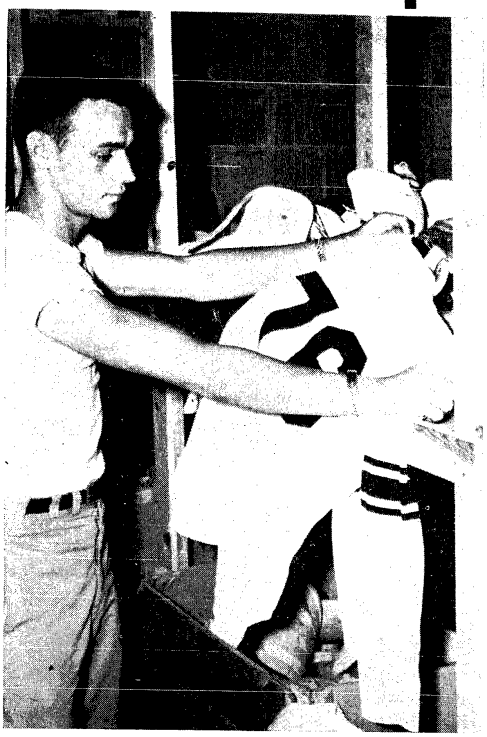
1. Everyone is eligible for a pass.
2. Six men per team.
3. Twenty yards for a first down.
4. Two hand touch, simultaneously above the knees.
5. No passing on the kick-off.
6. No rushing punts.
7. Free substitution.

All games must start by 4:00 p. m. at the latest, or the team holding off must forfeit.

A committee of three, Dick Godshall, Torry Froisland, and Vern Johnson, have been appointed to take care of any disputes, arguments, or protests.

The teams and their respective managers are:

All Purpose Vets—Gipp Cimenera.
Collegians—Howie Kerstetter
Covites—Bob Godshall
Freshmen Dinks—Vern Johnson.
Horse's Men—Joe DeNicola
Scrawny Six—Ed Schlosser
Spaghetti Benders—Sonny Koehler.
Sun Brookers—Herb Harris



Football game tomorrow! No one knows this better than team manager Henry Gibbel shown above inspecting the Indian's game uniforms

Running The Gauntlet

About this time every year King Baseball steps down from his throne in favor of another colorful monarch, King Football. But the former bows out in a blaze of glory, that is namely the World Series,

This year Joe Baseball Fan has to take something else besodes a subway to see the complete series. Yes, there is no joy in Yankee Stadium this year, as it is the Cleveland Indians and the New York Giants who are battling it out for the championship of the world.

The Indians could well be named the "before and after" team, as they won the pennant the year before the Yankee regime came into power, and then ended the New Yorkers streak this year. The Giants, in the meantime, managed to lose to the Yanks in six games in 1951 after winning the pennant onahome run. The 1954 pennant makes a total of 15 for them since the National League was officially organized in 1903. A strange note is added in the fact that they have played in only 14 world series. This is because there were no series held in 1904.

Despite the attention the world series is receiving, football will be in the limelight tomorrow on many campuses over the country, and College Hill is no exception. The high-flying Indians will tangle with what is said to be the strongest Moravian team for many a moon. Reports from the Bethlehem school indicate that all positions are filled by lettermen.

In a similar practice scrimmage as was held between the Indians and LHSTC, the Greyhounds outpointed a fast Franklin and Marshall squad.

The Indians will find the going rough this season, but JC fans are assured that they will see not only a rugged and ready ball club, but a team that has the fight and determination to prove to the skeptical with what is said to be the shrongest Moravian team for many a moon. personnel.

Every sports column is not complete without some prognostication of the coming games, and this one is no exception. So without further comment, the results of tomorrow's games will be:

JUNIATA 7, MORAVIAN 6; Aclose one, but we'll stick with the Tribe.

Washington & Jefferson 20, DICKINSON 7; The Terriors take it on the chin for the second straight time.

HAVERFORD 27, Wagner 13; The Fords look rougher this year.

URSINUS 25, SUSQUEHANNA 0; Another poor year in the making for the Crusaders.

Penn State 14, Syracuse 13; A jinx team to the Nittany Lions.

Penn 20, Wm. and Mary 14; Could easily go the other way.

Minnesota 28, Pitt 7; The Panther growl is worse than the bite.

Notre Dame 34, Purdue 14; The Irish roll!,

(Juniata opponents are capitalized)

Indians Open 1954 Season; Hounds Have Veteran Squad

Local fans will get their first glimpse of the 32nd edition of the Juniata gridiron Indians tomorrow at College Field.

The Moravian College Greyhounds will be invading the Reservation for the 11th meeting of the two rivals. The Indians hold the edge in the series with five wins, four losses and one tie. Last year's contest ended with the Braves on top of a 20-6 score.

The Greyhounds will face their schedule this year with 15 lettermen returning from a 1953 squad which compiled a 3-4 record. Possibly the most outstanding of the returnees is Champ Storch, junior center from Catasaqua.

Coach Jim Shreve's main problem will most likely be a lack of bench strength, a deficiency Xwhich may easily be remedied by the developement of last year's reserves and new freshmen.

Coach Bob Hicks. in his first season as head coach of the Tribe, was greeted by 10 returning lettermen from last year's undefeated team. Seven of these letter winners were regulars.

This number has been depleted seriously by calls to the military service. Included on the Juniata squad of 32 men are three seniors: Joe Veto, tackle: Myron Sevick, guard: and Fran Wampler, wingback.

Two Tribe Opponents Lose In Saturday Tilts

Two of Juniata's future opponents started their football wars with a rather unsuccessful note last Saturday. The Red Terrors of Dickinson dropped a 25-0 verdict to Western Maryland, and Grove City was shut out 26-0 by Indiana STC.

Long runs sprinkled liberally with pass plays spelled defeat for Dickinson. The Terrors, notoriously weak in pass defense, played Western Maryland on even terms in the first quarter, but gave up a pair of touchdowns in the second frame and one each in the last two rounds. W. Maryland also outgained Dickinson on the ground as they rolled up 284 yards to only 79 for the visitors from Carlisle.

Indiana scored all their points in the first half in shutting out the visiting Grove City team. Most of the point-getting revolved around ISTC quarterback Norman Lewandowski. In the first quarter he heaved a 33 yard pass good for a TD, scored on a 35 yard end-run, and then added insult to injury by intercepting a Grover pass and dashing 35 yards to paydirt. The final Indian tally came late in the second frame on a 10 yard pass.

Tomorrow three other opponents of the Indians will open their seasons. Haverford, the Braves Homecoming opponent will tackle Wagner, and Ursinus will host the Susquehanna Crusaders at Collegeville. In other games Dickinson will oppose W&J at Carlisle, and Grove City will travel to Geneva to play the Covies.

Four Teams Vie For Crown In Hockey League

by Marjorie Snyder

With one game already in their scorebooks, the girls hockey league is anticipating one of their best seasons. Games are scheduled for every Monday and Thursday afternoon.

The second game of the season is slated for Monday afternoon, Oct. 4, at 4:30 when the frosh will lock horns with the sophomores. The four teams represented by the four classes; freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors, are under the supervision of Miss Cochran, girls athletic instructor.

Sue Jamison, chairman of the hockey league, announced the following schedule for the intramural games:

Oct. 7 freshmen vs. juniors
Oct.11 freshmen vs sophomores
Oct. 14 sophomores vs juniors
Oct. 18 seniors vs freshmen
Oct. 21 sophomores vs juniors
Oct. 25 seniors vs freshmen
Oct. 28 juniors vs freshmen
Nov. 1 seniors vs sophomores
Nov. 4 fresh. vs sophomores
Nov. 8 seniors vs juniors

Miss Jamison also stated that the annual Blue and Gold contests will be held on Nov. 11, 15, and 18. The WAA cabinet will select the most outstanding players from the hockey league to participate in the Blue and Gold games.

The officials for the hockey league are as follows: J. Ludwick, Doreen Fyock, Florence Wenzel, Jeanette Lowe, Norman Hottle, Patience Kimlock, Nancy Dilling, and Margrette Davis.

Players Inc. To Bring To JC Shakespeare's Julius Caesar

Juniata College will sponsor the internationally famous Players Incorporated of Washington, D. C., in their production of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" on Wednesday, October 13, 1954, at 8:15 p. m., in Oller Hall.

The Players, who have won nation-wide acclaim during their five seasons of touring, are well-remembered by the Oller Hall audience for their superb production of Moliere's "The Miser" last April. Now in their sixth annual tour, they are offering two new productions, Shakespeare's great "Julius Caesar" and Moliere's hilarious comedy, "The Would-Be Gentleman."

All members of the company are former students of the famous Speech and Drama Department of The Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., noted for the many Broadway hits which have originated from its University Theatrs.

Their goal is to bring back to the American scene the traveling repertory company, offering the best in theatrical productions to people who have never seen a professional production, and seasoned theatregoers alike.

Warmly Received

Always, they have been warmly received by enthusiastic audiences and have won the acclaim of drama critics in such major cities as Chicago, Philadelphia, Washington, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Dallas, and Huston.

Players Incorporated's production of "Julius Caesar" was directed by Leo Brady, author of the famous novels "The Edge of Doom" and "Signs and Wonders." A prolific playwright, his "Brother Orchid" (written when he was 22) is still a popular choice for little theatre groups all over the country.

Mary Kay Jackson, a senior elementary education major from Jersey Shore, is secretary to the FTA and has been a member of that organization for the past three years. She has also been secretary of her class for the past two years, and last year was a member of the Alfarata staff and the Sub-Freshman Committee.

A senior elementary education major from Bunkertown, Doris Markey has been a member of the A Capella Choir or the past three years, the Harmonettes' Trio for four years, the J.C.A. for three years, and she is on the Council this year. She has also been a member of the All-Class Night committee for three years, the Operetta cast for four years, and a May Day attendant for the past two years.

Lois Ann Parker, a junior music major from Huntingdon, last year was a member of the Chapel Choir and this year is in the Touring Choir. She is also a member of the J.C.A.

Sylvia Peterson, a junior sociology mojor, hails from Clearfield. Miss Peterson is a member of the five-man Totem Inn committee, the W.A.A., the Social Committee, is layout editor of the Alfarata, and last year was in Lambda Gamma. She also attended Leadership Conference this year.

Sylvia Shuler, a junior elementary education major calls Huntingdon her hometown. She has been active in the Chapel and Touring Choirs, and was at Leadership Conference this year.

Homecoming Brings Freshman Initation

Beware Frosh! This warning should be taken quite literally, because the sophomore have joined forces in order to make 1954 the biggest and best year in the way of initiation.

The initiation committee has already begun working on the plans for the affair under the leadership of their chairman, Bob Hamm.

Cheerleading Squad Set

Results of the cheering tryouts, announced early this week, show that the 1954 squad will be composed of Kay Beltzhoover, Norma Cale, Janice Gilroy, Barbara Maurer, Lois Mezey, Mikey Mick, Ann Willson, and captain Allegra Forney.

Chapel Speakers Named For Week

Chapel services for the week of October 4 will be as follows:

On Monday, Dr. M. W. Ziegler, who is Director of the Brethren World Council will speak.

Dr. Kiracofe, a member of the faculty here will address the student body on Wednesday morning.

President Calvert N. Ellis, will bring the week of chapel services to a close with his address on Friday.

questioned rights is of serious concern. The reader's right-to-know is one thing— and that readers curiosity is quite another.

As Editor and Publisher magazine explained, the college paper "reaches and influences in their formatice stages a group of young men and women who go on to positions of responsibility and leadership in American society.

The Juniatian, like so many other college newspapers, is an interpreter of the institution— a chronicler of the activities . . . a training laboratory . . . . . an advertising medium. It is no "journalistic peewee."

Juniatian Staff Named; New Reporters Chosen

Alma Skinner, Managing Editor, has announced two changes in the Editorial Staff of the Juniatian for the Fall Term.

Nan Heller, who last year served as Club Editor, will take over the job of Feature Editor, and Carol Newborg, sophomore from Bryn Mawr, will fill the vacancy of Club Editor. Miss Newborg completed a year of service as a news reporter.

News Editor, Joan McClure, has announced the following additions to her staff. Freshman Edna Rairigh, Janet Schall, Janice Hoyer, and George Fattman: and sophomores Jackie Hayes, Eileen Gipprich, and Eloise Holsinger will report the news. Veteran reporters include sophomores Judy Gearhart, Helen Schmidlen, and Alice Waite.

New feature reporters will be Sandra Ewing, Joyce Burket, Ann Wilson, Gail Gallegher, Rebecca Guyaon, Aliceann Wohlbruck, and Ron Runk, all freshmen. Junior Nancy Freed will again handle Intercollegiate Chatter.

Three new additions have been made to the sports staff, according to Fritz Heydrick, sports editor. Marjorie Snyder, Dabbe Euloff, and Dick Lantzy, all freshmen, will report sports during the Fall Term.

Jim Hunt enters his second year as Juniatian Editor.

On The Club Scene

In coordination with the Club Week program we continue this week with a roundup of the purposes and activities of the various clubs on campus.

Meeting the first and third Thursdays, the Camera Club is open to anyone interested in photography. This club provides a place where students may do their own photographic work and is responsible for providing pictures for some College publications.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

Persons who have completed four hours of chemistry are invited to join the Chemistry Club. To provide additional knowledge and extra-curricular chemical activities there will be various lectures an a few trips to neighboring plants. In December, the club plays host to an American Chemical Society meeting.

To promote an interest in public speaking and to improve speaking ability, the Debate Club was formed. Debating will begin at the next meeting.

The International Relations Club is affiliated with the Pennsylvania and national associations. The club is primarily designed for history and political science majors but membership is extended to all interested.

J CLUB

One of the oldest organizations on College Hill is the varsity J Club. Membership includes any letterwinner in an intercollegiate sport. Striving toward better student-athlete relations the club sponsors the annual Homecoming dance, sells football and basketball programs, booster tags and trys to get sweaters for athletes winning two letters in the same sport. Meetings are held every other Monday.

Students who have completed four hours in biology may join the Scalpel and Probe. The purpose of the club is to provide extra-curricular activitiy in biology. Members will receive a glimpse of the practical side of their field thru contact with persons active in biological and medical research and trips to hospital and clinical labs. An organization meeting will be held Friday, October 15, with a Huntingdon taxidermist as speaker.

WAA

The Women's Athletic Association is open to all college women interested in sports. Members are not required to play sports but are expected to participate in other club activities. The schedule includes intramural hockey, basketball, volleyball, softball and tennis, as well as co-sponsorship of the Homecoming dance, college playdays, J Club—WAA basketball game and picnic. At the first meeting it was decided that freshman girls be permitted to join the WAA the first semester rather than wait until second semester as in previous years. The next meeting will be Monday at 7:00 p.m. in Students Hall. Dues will be collected. The first and third Mondays of every month have been set aside as the regular meeting nights.

IVCF will meet Friday, October 1, in Founders Chapel.

Vol. 31, No. 4 | Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. | Friday, October 15, 1954

College Senate Improved By National Association

The Juniata College Senate voted last week to join the United States Student Association. Steps to join the national group were forwarded from last year's student government body and entail a major step in progressive student management of student affairs on College Hill.

Senate President Dick Fusco calls the move one that "will broaden the progressive programs of this year's Senate and the groups that follow. The entire outlook of student government at Juniata will be improved through an interest and participation in a group devoted on a national scale to problems that effect student bodies throughout the United States."

The association, with the watchwords— citizenship, scholarship, and fellowship, performs a variety of functions for the member groups. The main function being that it serves as a nerve center to filter the ideas and problems that are solved individually by a college group and can be used as solutions by other member student governments.

Quoting directly from the association it was "created to serve the long-existing need for a representative intercollegiate organization designed to serve the American student community and to promote student's interests and welfare.

From the preamble of the constitution comes the aims and purposes of the association which include, "maintain academic freedom, stimulate and improve democratic student governments, develop better educational standards, improve student welfare, promote international understanding, guarantee to all people equal rights and possibilities for education and foster the recognition of the rights and responsibilities of students to the school, the community, humanity and God, and to preserve the interests and integrity of the government and constitution of the United States of America."

Rey And Gomez To Begin 54 - 55 Concert Series

Federico Rey and Miss Pilar Gomez, world reknowned Spanish and Latin-American dancers, will appear on the Oller Hall stage Monday evning as the first of thre prsentations of 8he Community Concert Association

JC students will gain admission to the pedformance by showing their activities card at the door. Fourteen numbers will be performed to the accompaniment of Silvio Masciarelli at the piano. Masciarelli will also offer several piano solos during the course of the program.

French Native

A native of the Basque Country of France, Rey studied in theacademies of Madrid and Seville and from the great Spanish dancer La Argentina received his first leson in the castnetts. After touring Europe he came to America where his own company Rhythms of Spain, enjoyed success for three seasons in United States, Canada, Cuba, and Central America.

Miss Gomez is a native of Mexico City and is a product of the National Theatrs School located there. She made her debut at the age of nine in the ballet of the Mexican National Opera and rose to become its Prima Ballerina and choreographer until the New York City Opera Company lured her away to fill the same positions there.

Having joined forces the team has toured Europe as well as America. Ray and Gomez developed their routines only after extensive observation of their execution of the people of Spain and Latin America. Many of the costumes are originals and were obtained directly from those who taught them the dances.

The Comunity Concert Association will present two more productions this season. On January 24, the Baltimore Symphony will appear here, and on April 19, JC students may see the Songmasters.

The team of Rey and Gomez pictured above will appear Monday evening in Oller Hall. This is the first of a series of Community Concerts to come to the JC campus.

Committee Announces JC Concession Awards For Ensuing Semesters

The concessions committee has announced the clubs and persons in charge of the concessions this year.

Dry cleaning and laundry in the Men's Dorm will be taken care of by Myron Sevick. Ann Yesko will be in charge of the same in the Women's Dorm.

The sale of flowers for Homecoming, Parents Day, the Christmas, junior and senior heceptions will be under the jurisdiction of the Social Committee.

The J Club will handle soft drinks in the Men's Dorm, the sale of the "Indian" and booster tags, and chair rental at basketball games.

The Camera and Chemistry clubs have the cigarette machine in the Men's Dorm.

The Camera Club is also responsible for the sale and delivery of Sunday papers on the campus.

Refreshments will be sold at basketball games by the cheerleaders, peanuts and soft drinks at baseball games by Lambda Gamma, and soft drinks, candy and coffee by the Pyrenees Club.

In addition to refreshments at baseball games, Lambda Gamma is in charge of the sale of hot dogs at football games, laundry soap in the Women's Dorm, sandwich spread in Totem Inn, and the Bake Sale.

The WJC staff will sell cider and peanuts at home football games.

The candy machines in the Lodge, Cloisters, and Men's Day Students Room will be taken care of by the IRC, those in the Women's Dorm by the FTA.

Soft drinks in the Women's Dorm will be sold by the WAA.

The sale of milk and donuts in the Women's Dorm will be handled by the Women's House Committee.

Men's House will publish and sell the Student Directory.

Plans Underway For 'Mille Modiste'

If hats of all shapes and sizes have been floating around JC campus, it's only because students and faculty are plunged head-on into the musical comedy, "Mille Modiste." The show will be presented on the nights of November 12 and 13, and the tickets will be $1.00, tax included.

Premier Performance

The play was originally performed in the Knickerbocker Theater in New York on Christmas night, 1905. Fritzi Scheff, the Mary Martin of yesteryear, led the cast. "Mille. Modiste," one of the most beloved of musical comedies, was written by Victor Hervert, and its libretto by Henry Blossom.

Modernized Costumes

The somewhat modernized costumes and impressionistic props are either here or on their way and all the committees are functioning efficiently to make this year's All College operetta the biggest success.

As yet the music, directed by Professor Johnson, and the speaking parts, coached by Miss Pfotenhauer, have not been put together. However, concerted effort has been made on acts I and II of the three act play, and the entire cast and chorus will soon be rehearsing together. Much work of individual rehearsing behind the scenes has also been done.

"Kiss Me Again"

The music promises to be some of the best of its cycle ever heard in Oller Hall. The main feature song, "Kiss Me Again" and "The Time, The Place, and The Girl" are sure eo be two of the top tunes heard on our campus after the 1954 operetta is over.

Schedule Of Pictures For Alfarata Posted

Club pictures for the yearbook will be taken in the next two weeks after dinner. All club members and prospective members are urged to be present in order that the entire organization might be represented in the yearbook next spring.

Because the Alfarata staff is emphasizing uniformity in pictures this year, it is suggested that all women wear hose and all men wear a coat and tie. Your cooperation would be greatly appreciated. Following is the schedule for the coming weeks pictures.

Women's House Sub-Committees Named By Mick

On Sunday, the annual fire-lighting ceremony will be held in the social rooms of Founder's Hall. This event tells the story of the Indian princess Alfarata and her maidens, and will be under the direction of Doris Markey, with Joyce Warfel, Pat Torton, and Carol Jenkins assisting.

Throughout the year the Women's House Committee, with Mikey Mick as chairman, will conduct many activities. Among these will be the regular fire drills, directed by Janet Claycomb, fire warden. All students on the various committees are members of the house committee.

As in past years, milk and doughnuts will be sold in the dorm, and this year for the first time, the concessions will be sold in the off-campus houses. The chairman of concessions is Mary Ann Bailey, assisted by Ann Yesko, Betty Beatty, Shirley Dickson, Carol Titus, and Doreen Fyock and Violet Peters in the off-campus houses. The house committee will take on some big project under Charlotte Detwiler The others on the committee are Pat Turner, Shirley Smith, Lee Davidson, and May Tai.

The formal dinners at Christmas and Thanksgiving are in charge of Mim Myers, chairman, Cindy Jones, Phyl Davis, Jane Ellenberger, and Janice Gilroy. Janet Claycomb heads the committee for exam teas, with the others on the group including Loana Beabes, Rosalie Langer, Ruth Perestam, and Janice Mertz.

MARRIAGE COUNSELOR WILL SPEAK IN CHAPEL

Mr. Jack Padgett has announced the chapel programs for the week of October 18.

The JCA Cabinet will appear in chapel on Monday. Wednesday's program will feature an address by the Reverend Mr. M. Guy West, pastor of the First Church of the Brethren in York.

On Friday Dr. Robert S. Hicks, marriage counselor and a member of the staff at the American Institute of Family Relations in Los Angeles, will speak to the student body.

Seniors Taking Honors Courses

Seniors who have demonstrated their ability to do superior work in any department may enroll for an honors course in that department.

An honors course, which is directed by a member of the faculty, provides for independent study or research beyond the scope of listed courses. Admission to the honor courses is granted by the Academic Policy Committee upon application of the student and on recommendation of the faculty member who will direct the study.

This year there are seniors enrolled in the courses. Two senior science majors, Gail Roach, studying Fourier Series and Boundry Value Problems and John H. Martin, Jr. taking work in Vector Anaylis, are under the direction of Prof. Phillip Bedient. The third student, William E. Garrison Jr. is studying Organic Chemistry under the direction of Dr. Donald Rockwell.

ETS Releases Dates For Graduate Exams

According to an announcement from the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, New Jersey, Law School Admissions Tests and Graduate Record Examinations will be administered at more than 100 centers throughout the U. S. on the mornings of November 13, 1954, February 19, April 23, and August 6, 1955.

Last year more than 16,000 prelaw and graduate students were directed to take one of these tests in partial fulfillment of admission requirements.

Candidates should check with the schools of their choice to see whether the examinations are required, and if so, when he should take them. Candidates for admission to next year's classes are ordinarily advised to take either the November or the February test, if possible.

Bulletins and applications should be obtained four to six weeks in advance of the desired testing date, and they must be completed and returned to the ETS at least ten days prior to that date.

For further information, contact the Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, N. J.

Hamm Reports WJC To Broadcast Game

Bob Hamm, program director of WJC, has announced that the Juniata-Lycoming football game to be played at Williamsport tomorrow, will be on the air this Sunday afternoon at 2:00 P. M. over 1210 kilocycles in a special WJC broadcast.

The radio staff will journey to Lycoming tomorrow to tape record the entire game in preparation for Sunday's broadcast. Hamm will do the sportscasting, with Fritz Heydrick as his spotter, and Gene Hysong, WJC technical adviser, will handle the technical end of the show.

Social Includes 'The All-American'

"The All-American" is the title of the film to be shown at the College social Saturday night at 8:30 in Oller Hall, according to Bill Shull, chairman of cocial activities on the campus.

The movie, which stars Lori Nelson and Tony Curtis, is the fighting, thrilling story of a guy and girl from the other side of the tracks; the story of a football hero who leads a private life even more provocative than his gridiron exploits.

Following the movie in Oller Hall, there will be dancing to records in the Women's Gym until 11:30. The Social Committee takes care of planning and executing these affairs. Nancy Freed and Clint Betz have charge of this week's program.

"The All-American" is the first in a series of four movies, scheduled on this year's social calendar.

Bird Dog For Sale!

There may have been many well-known dogs in the history of the World that have committed famous or infamous deeds but for the time being they will have to take a back seat to the theoretical 'bird dog 'of Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson.

Political observers spent the period of the presidency of the man from Missouri, Harry S. Truman, accusing him of actually talking himself into constant turmoil with the American public. Taking for an example the incident with the Marine Corps. But it would be hard to find a single statment by a high public official in the post-war era that will voke more controversy than Wilson's 'bird dog.'

You will recall that at a news conference Monday Wilson replied to a question on joblessness and the possibility of alloting defense contracts in distress areas with the reply that he "always liked bird dogs better than kennel-fed dogs myself". Grinning he elaborated "You know, one who'll get out and hunt for food rather than sit on his fanny and yell."

In a statement the following day he accused the 'rival' party of distorting the meaning of his words and building political timber out of them. He even went so far as to change 'fanny to haunches' but irregardless he commited a blunder that considering the November election date will put more weight than ever on the drive for a Democratic Congress.

The employment problem has been a constant thorn in the side of Republican officials since they came into office two years ago and started the return to non-war economy. At the best a situation that should be handled with kid gloves, the Wilson incident will provide the 'Democratic Bob Hope' with a liberal source of wise-cracks.

From The Mail Bag

President, Student Government Association:

We students at Lycoming College are pleased to resume our grid relationships with Juniata after an absence of four years, and we hope the same sportsmanship that exists in basketball and tennis will prevail in football.

Since this is our first home game of the season, Theta Chi Fraternity of Lycoming is sponsoring a "Kickoff Dance" to be held the evening of October 16. If any Juniata students come to the game they will be welcome at the dance which is $2.00 per couple.

Sincerely yours,
J. LAWTON WINTERS, Secy.

LITTLE MAN ON THE CAMPUS By BIBLER

"_____ On the other hand this "F" JUST MIGHT reflect a pretty poor job of teaching."

THE RELIGIOUS ASPECT

by Dick Livingston

Last week we came to the conclusion that college days offer many unique opportunities for us to develop our religious faith. In the course of that discussion we cited J. C. A. meetings as one such opportunity. Let us now discuss briefly what the J. C. A. is.

Several years ago there were quite a few religious organizations on campus. Many of these groups had similar objectives and overlapping activities. In order to remedy the complex situation and to achieve more efficiency and unity, these groups were merged into the all-campus Juniata Christian Association.

The aims of the J. C. A. are these:

1. To strive to lead students to faith in God through Christ.
2. To bring them into active relationship with the Church.
3. To promote their growth in Christian faith and character.
4. To influence students to devote themselves in a united effort with all Christians to make the will of Christ effective in human society.

Beginning with next Monday you will have the opportunity to join J. C. A. If working toward the above goals seems to be worthwhile to you and worthy of a vital place in your life, it is your obligation to become a member.

Before making your decision, think seriously whether or not you sincerely want to seek these goals. There is no value in merely handing out membership cards and collecting dues,

We present to you, therefore, not another organization, but an invitation to follow Christ and His way of life. The choice is yours.

Accent On Reading

WHO SPEAKS FOR MAN, by Norman Cousins. The author makes it clear that a spokesman for man in this age is possible and that world citizenship can become a reality. The book can be called a definition of hope for man because it demonstrates the need, reasonableness, and justice of a world organization capable of speaking for all men.

THE STRUGGLE FOR INDO CHINA, by Ellen J. Hammer. This overall view of political developments in Indo China in the past twenty years traces the role of the French, Vietnamese, Japanese, Viet struggle over the small but strategic area.

CHRISTIANITY, COMMUNISM, AND HISTORY, by William Hordern. The author examines and compares the two religions and methods used to achieve their goals, and notes that Christian movements for social betterment tend to entrench themselves in ultra-conservatism and concludes that the dangerous half-truths which have been communism's best selling points must be met by the positive, dynamic use of Christian principles rather than by negative anti-communism.

These and other timely books are available in the Juniata College Library.

Bliss To Appear For JC Lecture

H. Huntingdon Bliss, well-known educator from the Near East will be the guest speaker in a special chapel service scheduled for October 22.

The principal of the Damascus Preparatory School, Damascus, Syria, Mr. Bliss is a member of the family that for a number of years have devoted themselves in the interest of better education in that area of the Workd. He represents the Near East College Assiciation and the Near East Foundation.

This year, Mr. Bliss is in the United States to place before the public the challege of overseas American education and to explain the permanent results which can be obtained from the continued support of American-sponsored schools in the Near East.

Tribe Trips Haverford, 14-6; Face Warriors

Poor Ford Pass Defense Sets Up Both TD's In Ninth Straight Win

Juniata College's gridders won their second victory of the 1954 season last Saturday by defeating an agressive Haverford team, 14-6 at College Field before a large Homecoming Day crowd.

Coach Bob Hicks had both a smooth working offense and a tight defense working efficiently as the Indians rolled up 298 net yards from scrimmage while holding the Fords to 92.

Following the Haverford kickoff Juniata moved to the Ford's 21 with some fine running by Bob Sill, but Hal Weaver intercepted a pass to kill off the Tribe's first threat. A few plays later Don Hopkins of the Fords fumbled and Drexler recovered on the visitor's 41 but for the second time in the first quarter the "big white" were stopped inside the Mainliner's 25.

In the second quarter the Tribe started rolling again after Haverford punted to the Juniata 29. It took just eleven plays for the Tribe to strike pay dirt, the drive terminating with an excellent 24 yard pass from Tarquinio to Drexler in the end zone. The Juniata end did a clever bit of faking on this play to out manuever the Haverford secondary. Joe "the Toe" Veto added the one-pointer and the Indians had a 7-0 lead.

Once again the Indians threatened just before half time as one of Juniata's watchcharm guards, Myron Sevick, intercepted a pass on the Haverford 29. The next play nearly backfired however as Nauman grabbed a Don Pheasant flat pass and raced to the Juniata 29. The half ended with Haverford on the Juniata 25.

The third quarter was scoreless but the Fords set up their lone tally of the day on a fumble by Tarquinio recovered on the Juniata 23.

Pass set up Ford TD

On the second play of the fourth quarter Regan hit end John Thomas with a crucial spot pass that took the ball to the Tribe's one yard line. Regan found pay dirt on a quarterback sneak but the attempt for the extra point failed.

An inspired Hicks coached eleven took the ensuing kickoffff and went 63 yards in eleven plays to put the game on ice. The ground gainer of this series of plays was a 31 yard Tarquinio to Drexler pass which Barry took amid two Haverford defenders at the visitors 19. The remaining yardage was ground out with Winterstein and Tarquinio alternating the ball toting. Pat hit right tackle for the score and once again Veto added the extra point to make the final score 14-6 in favor af the blue and gold of Juniata.

The Tribe came out of Saturday's contest riding a nine game winning streak, and also with a record of 6-3 over Haverford in the nine games in which the two schools have competed.

Sophomores Capture First Place In Girl's IM Hockey League

Jeanette Lowe's great defensive play enabled the sophomores to take over undisputed possession of first place in the hockey league Monday afternoon as they defeated the freshmen by a 3-1 score. Margie Moyer was the pace setter for the freshman team but it was not quite enough to get past the powerful sophomores. This loss dropped the frosh into a second and third place tie with the seniors.

On Wednesday of last week, the sophomores edged out on top of a close one with the seniors 1-0 to end the seniors long winning streak. Captain Patience Kimlock led her freshmen team to a 5-0 victory over the juniors the following day.

The hockey spotlight will be on that freshman-senior game this coming Monday as the two teams battle for second place. On Thursday afternoon the sophomores will encounter the juniors.

Here are the league standings through Monday's game:

Team	Won	Lost	Tied

Indians Meet First Lyco Team Since 1950 Season

by Bill Smith

Tomorrow the Juniata Indians will try to extend their winning streak to ten when they face the Lycoming Warriors at Williamsport.

This will be the second game on the Lycos' first intercollegiate football schedule since 1950. The only previous meeting between the two schools was in 1950 when Juniata won 33-0.

The Warriors are starting from scratch with a 41-man squad composed of 34 freshmen, seven sophomores, and one junior.

None of the members of the squad had had any college football experience until their baptism-of-fire in last Saturday's 27-0 defeat at the hands of Lincoln University.

Re-enters Football

It was an unusual move on the part of Lycoming to re-enter intercollgiate competition in a time when many small colleges are finding it necessary to drop the sport. To build up its team the Williamsport school has hired as coach David Busey, who had had a wealth of experience. He was assistant coach at Illinois in the early 40's, coach of the Iowa Pre-Flight team during the war, and lately had been coach at various naval bases round the country.

Composed mostly of boys from the Williamsport area, the squad has plenty of depth, weight, and according to Busey, the will to make the grade. A regular starting lineup has not yet been found, but from 26 of the most promising candidates Busey could field a fast, heavy backfield and a line averaging 190 pounds.

A familiar figure to many Juniata upperclassmen will be one of Lycoming's linemen, Ray "Hooch" Hoover, 260 pound tackle, who was used at center and saw limited action in the Lincoln game.

Warriors Lose Saturday

In Saturday's game Lycoming was out-classed by the veteran Lincoln team, but made a creditable showing considering the difference in experience. Two first quarter fumbles enabled Lincoln to jump off to a two touchdown lead as its passing attack clicked and accounted for all the scoring in the game.

Lycoming faces an herculean task in playing through its new schedule which, in ddition to Lincoln and Juniata, includes Drexel, PMC, Geneva, and Lock Haven.

Tribe Opponents Show Losing Mark Saturday

The opponents of Juniata slipped under the .500 mark in games played last Saturday, as three teams won games and four squads lost their tilts.

Tomorrow's opponent, Lycoming, opened their first football season since 1950 with a 27-0 loss to a rough and ready Lincoln University team. Fumbles and a poor pass defense led to all the Lincoln touchdowns.

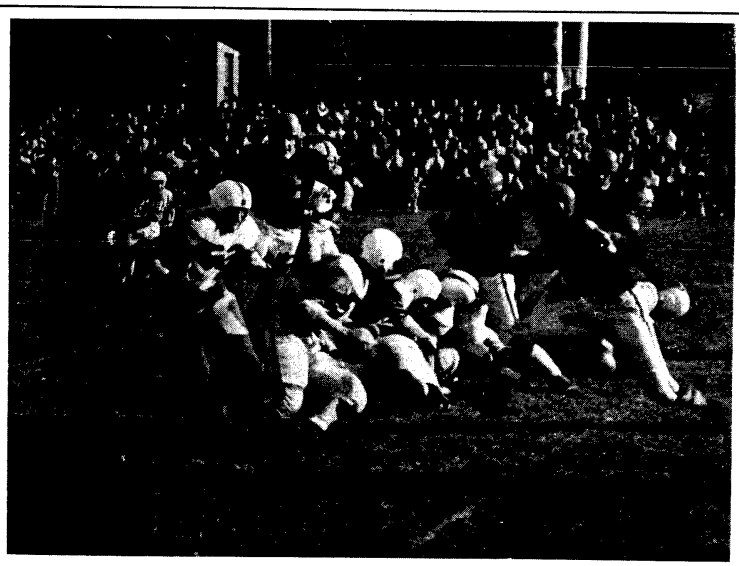
Meanwhile Dickinson, the Indian's Parents Day Foe, was finding the going a bit rocky against a big F&M team as they bowed 21-14. The Devils led at the half 14-7, but an 87 yard run by the Diplomat's John Tullai made the lead short lived. F&M also scored the winning TD in the third period.

Susqueranna's hapless Crusaders continued on their losing and scorless way as they lost to a strong Swarthmore team 27-0. The Garnet hosts the Indians on Nov. 13, while the Crusaders oppose the tribe at Sellinsgrove on Ost. 30. The Garnet scored in every period to open their 13th season under Coach Lew Elverson.

At Collegeville the Ursinus Bears hosted Drexel in what was supposed to be a close contest. When the final whistle had blown, the Dragons were on the long end of a 41-13 count. Drexel scored at least once in every period to take the win.

Juniata's only Western foe, Grove City, got into the win column after two consecutive defeats by shutting out Hiram College, 12-0. The Indians will meet the Grovers at Grove City on Nov. 6.

The Indians' first 1954 victim, Moravian, won their first game by stopping a previously undefeated Upsala squad, 7-6. Champ Storch, who missed one of the important conversions here at College Field was successful in his try against Upsala, and it was good enough to win the ball game.



Pat Tarquinio goes off tackle for yardage against Haverford. About to block out Ford back is Fran Wampler, hard running wingback of the Indians.

Running The Gauntlet

by Fritz Heydrick

For the second straight week the Juniata Indians went through ball game using just 14 men. Shades of Red Grange! Why we oldsters here on College Hill can recall a couple of years ago when the field was full of Indian players, and then many people wondered why some of the offensive men stayed in on defense.

But the days of the two platoon system are gone. However even in this modern game of limited substitution, a so-called "60 minute" man is a thng of rarity. That s, except at JC. Here it is a rule and not the exception.

• ★ • ★ • ★

The baseball type of weather in which the Tribe was forced to play the first two games didn't help matters much either. The temperature on the field in both games has ben estimated around 80-85 degrees, but to the squad it probably seemed twice as much. It is really gratifying to see a team with so much determination and fight. Regardless of the temperature the Indians are going all out on every block, every tackle, and every play, and needless to say, loafers are unheard of on this team.

• ★ • ★ • ★

Congratulations Department— A particular salute to Myron Sevick, the Indian's watch-fob guard. In last weeks Haverford coniest not only did Sev play 60 minutes of hard football, but for the first time in his football career he got his hands on the ball. Late in the second quarter Sevick filched a Ford aerial near the visitors bench and managed to return it one yard before being smothered by Mainliner tacklers. Says Sev, "If I'd only had some blocking I could have gone the whode way!

six correct. The seven games prognosticated

Last weeks predictions turned out as the best yet. Out of seven games prognosticated, we managed to get six correct. The only game that outfoxed us was an upset by Moravian as they edged Upsala 7-6.

So we carry an 11 right, 4 wrong average(.734) into this weeks games. Here we go for the .800 mark! Juniata's opponents are capitalized!

JUNIATA 35, LYCOMING 6; Should give the reserves a workout, but let's not get overconf dent!
MORAVIAN 20, Penna. M. C. 13; Hounds to win their second.
HAVERFORD 12, URSINUS 7; The Fords rebound.
DICKINSON 20, Wooster 7; The Devils prep for JC.
Nat. Agies 14, SUSQUEHANNA 0. Perhaps the Crusaders will score.
Westminster 33, GROVE CITY 14; Too much power for the Grovers.
SWARTHMORE 13, Hamilton 6; We'll keep our fingers crossed.

Collegians Continue To Pace Men's IM Football League; Hallman Stars

One game was played Friday and a full schedule played Monday in the IM Football League. Because of Mountain Day no games were scheduled for Wednesday.

Friday the Covites were shut out by the Collegians, 20-0. Vince Minelli was the big gun for the Collegians as he scored two of the three TD's recorded. Both of his scores were on passes from Lee Hallman.

Monday's action showed three games being played. In the first contest the Spaghetti Benders outscored the Scrawny Six by a 20-13 count, while the Covites and the Horse's Men were playing to a thrilling 7-7 deadlock. The Covites scored their tally when Glenn Burkett hit Joe Hinish with a pass in the end zone. After the addition of an extra point, the HM came right back to score on a pass from Joe DeNicola to Jim Kimmel. The EP was good and that was the score when the game ended.

Kollege Kids' Class Notes Cut Up Lectures; Pained Pedagogs Can Read 'Em And Weep

by an Heller

Class notes seem to be a traditional hiding place for bits of wisdom, so we've decided to reveal the true facts about notebooks. Only the names of profs and note-takers have been changed to protect the innocent.

Prof. H. I. Story—"When Lafayette forst came to this country, he discovered America, and Americans needed his help if their cause was to survive, and this he promptly supplied to them."

In the book—"Lafayette discovered America."

Prof Red— 'It is possible that we do not completely understand the Russian viewpoint.

Written—"Prof Red is a Comunist."

Prof O. P. Tomist— "Pages 7 to 15 are not required, but will prove of inestimable value to the student in preparing for his comprehensive."

Student Notes— "Omit pages 7 thru 15."

Prof E. X. Am— "The test will cover the student's overall comprehension of the subject and thorough knowledge of theories behind the facts and their relevance to other fields will be necesary."

Comments— "Bull exam."

Prof Nie Eve— "The class on Friday will consist of a lecture by an outside speaker. He will have a general discussion after the speech on opportunities in your particular field. Attendance will not be taken."

Notebook— "No class Friday."

Prof Ound— "They weren't making any money; hence they had economic difficulty."

Notes— "Now there's an intelligent statement."

Prof— "A ship carrying maidens arrived from England to further the domestic atmosphere and raise morale in the new colonies."

Joe College— "Some girls landed in the U. S. A. and the guys went ape."

Prof. I. Bragg— " 'The best laid plans of mice and men' is the proverbial saying in America; in France it's 'Cest la vie!"

Personal comment— "The prof took an English Lit course and knows some French."

Prof D. Tales— "In the examination on Friday general topics will be avoided and an effort will be made to emphasize details and the minor points which tend to be ignored."

Expectant crammer— "Little things mean a lot."

Prof— "I realize the bell has rung, but there is still some additional information I will gladly give to those who remain."

You write— "Um-mm-mmm Bye."

Greenwood Furnace Source Of Historical Significance In Pa.

The annual Mountain Day excursion held last Wednesday was held in an area abounding with the history of Pennsylvania. The area may also be given credit with holding a typical piece of the history of the United States.

Greenwood Furnace was built for the Freedom Forge Company in 1837-38 and for a while was known as Logan No. 2. Where the name Greenwood came from remains obscure in the history of the area. Some sources credit it to a man of that name and others simply to the area which abounds in evergreens.

The little town that grew up around the furnace had a rapid growth since only Birmingham, Alabama (at that time) made soft-fossil ore into charcoal pig iron with cold-blast. Of the eighty other furnaces in Pennsylvania only Greenwood used this process.

Wood was plentiful in the surrounding area so charcoal became the chief source of fuel for the new enterprise with the crude ore coming from the Belleville banks or the later Brush Ridge open pit mines.

300 Employed

In the year 1863 there were a total of 300 men employed at the furnace. The community was almost a self-sufficient area which produced nearly all of their own wants. Including the wagons that hauled the pig iron over the mountains to The Logan.

A shortage of wood forced the closure of the furnace in 1904 and the State bought 500,000 acres for the price of one dollar per acre. Today this bustling industrial area of a day gone by is one of the four state parks in the Huntingdon area and only old remains show where it once stood.

On The Club Scene

There is both past and present news on the club scene this week. Several clubs have held organizational meetings and there are more meetings scheduled for the near future.

This past Saturday, three members of the Debate Club journeyed to Pittsburgh to attend a meeting of the Pennsylvania Association of College Debate Clubs. The meeting took the form of a panel discussion of this year's subject, "Should the United States adopt a policy of recognition toward Red China?"

A tape recording was made of the discussion and will be heard at the first club meeting. On October 20, Dr. Lockwood of our faculty will speak on the question.

Lambda Gamma

The Lambda Gamma, club for home economics majors, has held two business meetings this fall. Fall concessions now in operation by the club are sandwich spreads in Totem-Inn and hot dogs at the football games.

Sigma Gamma

On Thursday, October 21, Sigma Gamma and Lambda Gamma will hold a combined meeting which is open to anyone interested. Dr. Robert Hicks from the California Family Institute will be the speaker His subject will pertain to marriage and the family. Refreshments will be served.

Pyrenee's Club

The Pyrenees Club will hold a meting on November 5. In addition to a business meeting there will be French and Spanish games and a novel guessing game. There will also be refreshments served.

I V C F

There will be a meeting of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship Friday, October 15, at 7:15 PM. in Founders Chapel. The Bible study will be on Matthew 8:1-20. In addition to the Bible study, there will be a hymn sing. Everyone is invited to attend.

Vol. 31 No. 5 | Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. | Friday October 22, 1954

Glenn Schnittke To Sing For Parents' Enjoyment

Glenn Schnittke, a young tenor who is particularly well-known for his oratorio work, will present a recital in Oller Hall tomorrow evening at 8:15 p.m., winding up the special Parent's Day activities here.

A graduate of Baldwin-Wallace Conservatory, Mr. Schnittke has done graduate work at Eastman School of Music, University of North Carolina and the Berkshire Music Center. At the latter he sang Bach's "St. John" Passion under the direction of Robert Shaw, and a role in Stravinsky's "Oedipus Rex" under the baton of Koussevitsky.

Bach Festivals

In addition to appearing since 1948 as soloist at all annual Baldwin-Wallace Bach Festivals, Mr. Schnittke has been re-engaged annually for the St. Louis Bach Festival. Numerous engagements with leading orchestras have also been filled.

His voice has been described as "revealing a beauty of tone, notable expresive artistry, certainty of pitch and vocal technique to spare."

Varied Program

Quite naturally, a Bach aria will be included in Mr. Schnittke's program. He will also sing a German and French group, an Italian aria and end with songs of English and American composers.

Mr. Schnittke's visit to Juniata is arranged and sponsored by the Arts Program of the Association of American Colleges. There will be no admission charge for this program which is open to the public. ,

Freshmen To Take Pre-Engineering Test

The Pre-Engineering Ability Test will be given at 3:45 P.M., Monday, October 25, 1954 in Room 104 Science Hall. Freshmen who have enrolled as pre-engineering students are requested to take this test at this time and have been individually notified.

If any other students interested in engineering wish to take this test they may do so provided they so indicate by seeing either Prof. Yoder or Dean Mays' secretary before noon Monday, October 25. This examination will take 80 minutes and no previous preparation is required.

Publication Magazine Offers Golden Chance To Journalistic Genii

Would you like to work for a top magazine while you're still in college, putting your ideas in writing, promotion or advertising while experiencing the excitement of gay New York town, invesigating job possibilities, and meeting all the well-known celebrities? If you're a coed and under twenty-six, read on.

Mademoiselle offers you these wonderful opportunities. By doing three assignments, the kind you would meet as a regular staff member of Mademoiselle, you may win up to $50 on any one assignment. You may also become one of the top twenty and find yourself on the way to New York, transportation paid, to spend the month of June 1955 as a guest Editor on Mademoiselle's staff.

While there you will work with nineteen other Guest Editors from all over the country in helping to write and illustrate the 1955 August College issue. You will attend fashion openings, the theatre, parties, interview celebrities, and visit advertising and publishing offices.

These opportunities are waiting for you if you will write a 1500 word criticism of Mademoiselle's August 1954 issue, or the September, October, or November issue if the August number is not available. Discuss the issue in general first, noting your likes, dislikes, and suggestions which you have for changes or improvements. Then choose the field in which you are most interested(e.g. fiction, features, fashions, art, promotion) and criticize it in greater detail.

615 Cherubs Don Halos Tomorrow As Parents Invade Juniata Campus

When Ma and Pa breeze into town tomorrow, bearing lavish gifts, goodies for the sweet tooth, coin for the pocket, and the inevitable kid brother, it might be well to impress them with the virtues of their growing child by keeping in mind the Ten Commandments of Parents' Day.

1. Thou shalt carefully clean thy room, being sure to tuck all the dirt under the beds and rugs, or if necessary, even shoving it on thy roommates side of the oorm.

Little Dusty Maybe

2. Thou salt remove last week's laundry from the line, change September's sheets, and put the rest of the clothes in dresser drawers, which, of course, are already as neat as a pin.
3. Thou shalt return everything thou hast borrowed.
4. Thou shalt get back everything thou hast lent.
5. Thou shalt remove from thy wall and other conspicuous places, all pictures and objects of "questionable" character, replacing them with family portraits.

Looks Good Anyway

6. Thou shalt scatter on thy desktop textbooks (first purchasing them from the bookstore, if necessary) and other evidences of the many hours thou hast been putting into studying lately. Simultaneously, thou shalt hide the deck of cards.
7. Thou shalt borrow money to carry in thy wallet so that thy parents won't suspect that thou hast spent the $20 (we should live so long!) they sent thee last week.
8. Thou shalt instruct thy friends as to what they may say when meeting thy parents.

And after their arrival:

9. Thou shalt remove from the family car a valuable part (say maybe the engine), necessitating the family's making the trip home by train, and leaving thee with a car on campus.)for which you'll need a permit, procurable at the Dean's office.)
10. Thou shalt buy thy Mom a mum, and show thy parents a wonderful Parents' Day.

Seniors Reminded To Sign For Test

The attention of all seniors expecting to proceed to Graduate School next year is called to the fall administration of the Graduate Record Examination which will be given on November 20. Dean Morley Mays is the local advisor for Educational Testing Service, which sponsors the examination.

Applications for the examination must be received in the Princeton, N.J., Office of Educational Testing Service not later than November 5. Application forms and bulletins of information are available in the Office of Dean Mays.

The results of the Graduate Board Examination are required by some graduate schools and are recommended by others for consideration along with other admission credentials.

Dean Mays suggests that any senior contemplating graduate study should discover the attitude of each institution to which he may make application.

JWSF Plans Finished Set To Start Drive

Preparation for the 1954-55 JWSF Drive beginning November 15 have been made by Janet Claycomb, chairman of the drive, and her committee. Dr. Theodore Lockwood is advisor to the group which consists of, in addition to Miss Claycomb, Bill Smith, chairman of solicitations; Mary Kay Jackson, chairman of general publicity; Don Lowdermilk, chairman of club solicitations;; and Jack Golden, treasurer.

The 1954-55 JWSF proceeds will be used for the same purposes as last year's. Two of these used were the aid of foreign students on campus and contributions to the World University Service.

Bliss To Appear At College Wed.

H. Huntingdon Bliss, principal of the Damascus Preparatory School, Damascus, Syria, will be guest speaker at the chapel service here Wednesday.

Near East

Mr. Bliss is a member of a family which for many years have devoted themselves to the interest of better education in the Near East. Many of his relatives have dedicater their lives to the building of a university which is recognized today for its high standards and liberal thought.

In 1945 the newly organized Syrian Government asked for the assistance of the American University of Beirut in founding a school in Damascus and two years later Mr. Bliss was appointed to the leadership of this important work.

Attended Hill School

Born in Beirut, Mr. Bliss attended the Hill School in Pennsylvania, was graduater from Amherst College in 1926 and received his M.A. in English Literature from Columbia University. Since 1938, Mr. Bliss has been in the Near East teaching at several member schools of the Near East College Association. He attained his present position as principal of Damascus Prep School in 1947.

Places A Challenge

This year Mr. Bliss is in the United States to place before the public the challenge of overseas American education and to explain the permanent results which can be obtained from the continued support of American-sponsored schools in the Near East.

JC Welcomes Parents; 700 Visitors Expected

The Juniata campus will be set to welcome approximately 700 parents on Saturday, the traditional Parents'Day.

Registration in Founders Chapel will begin the day's events for all parents visiting the J. C. campus this weekend. Parents can register any time after 9 a.m on Saturday morning and this year small name tags will be given to all parents so that the students will recognize the "Moms and Dads" of their friends. The names will be printed on small colored tags which will be worn by all the parents.

Complimentary meal tickets and name tags may be obtained at the registration desk. These meal tickets must be presented at the dining hall which will be open from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Welcome In Classes

Parents are welcome to sit in on classes in the morning. Rooms in which there will be classes that may be attended will be listed on the Founders' bulletin board.

The dormitories will have open house from 10 in the morning until 1:30 in the afternoon. Room judging will occur during this time. Rooms will be judged on the basis of— 1. Originality of room plan; 2 Adaptability to the given physical limitations, and 4. Suitability and utility values. Cash prizes totaling $30 will be awardedto thee occupants of the best single and double rooms in both the men's and women's residences.

Game Scheduled

The Juniata-Dickinson kickoff will take place at 1:30 to provide the afternoon's diversion and after the game cider and doughnuts will be served to all in the Women's Gymnasium.

Evening entertainment will be a performance by the well-known tenor, Glenn Schnittke. This program will begin at 8:15 in Oller Hall. (See story elsewhere). After this concert an informal dance will be held in the Women's Gymnasium to which parents and students are invited.

A schedule of the days events will be posted on Founder's bulletin board as a guide for visitors.

'58 Stages Pep Rally For Juniata Students

Tonight the freshmen will receive an opportunity to really prove that "they've got a class" and are proud of it. The last home football game is tomorrow, the opponents being Dickinson, and complete charge of the pep rally is in their hands.

Everyone is asked to meet at Oller Hall at 7:00 for a short skit and some cheering after which the most ambitious of the group (and this includes everyone) will go up to roundtop for some more cheers around a bonfire.

Poets' Contest Open To College Students

All JC students are invited to submit original verse to the twelfth Annual College Competition. If the original is accepted, it will be published in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry. Over one hundred thousand manuscripts have been submitted in the past ten years, and of these, four thousand have been published.

The stipulations for entering the contest are as follows:

1. Manuscript must be typed or written in ink on one side of a sheet of paper.
2. The home address, name of college and college address of the student must appear on each manuscript.

There is no limit to the number of entries per person, however, shorter poems are preferred so as to give an equal chance to all who enter the competition.

The deadline for submission of manuscripts is Friday, November5 fifth.

Ass't. Editor Chosen

Betty Ann Beatty has been chosen as assistant editor of the 1955 Alfarata, editor Sue Jamison announced recently.

Miss Beatty comes from Philadelphia, and is concentrating in secondary education here at Juniata. She is the secretary of the junior class, is on the Women's House Committee, the Underclassmen's Committee, and the Social Committee. Miss Beatty is also a member of the F.T.A.

CHAPEL PROGRAMS SET

Chapel programs for the week of October 28 will be as follows: On Monday Dean Morley Mays will speak; Wednesday's service will feature H. Huntingdon Bliss (see story elsewhere); and on Friday Dr. Henry will address the student body.

Operetta Stars Are Seasoned Stage Vets

Jeannie Baker and Gary Mowery should prove to be two big drawing cards when the 1954 operetta, Mademoiselle Modiste, is staged here on Nobember 12 and 13.

Miss Baker, a senior from Watertown has had much musical experience in various activities at Juniata. Mowery, who hails from Lewistown, sets foot on the Juniata campus with a fine high school music record a behind him.

The musical score for Mademoiselle Modiste provides these two young talented stars with a fine opportunity to display their wares. Some of Victor Herbert's best-loved songs, including Kiss Me Again, are featured. Be sure to reserve your seats early!

Senate Committee Considers Veterans' Club Constitution

Consideration of the constitution for the newly reorganized Veteran's Club, report of the menu committee were the main items of business at the Wednesday Senate meting this past week.

Senate President Dick Fusco presented the constitution to the group. The Senate voted to take action of approval if the committee appointed by Fusco to read the draft reported nothing contrary to College standards.

A committee headed by Joe Hinish was appointed to edit the constitution for the group.

Mens Report Given

A report was heard from the menu committee. The committee headed by Fusco approached Miss Mathias and received a negative answer to their inquiry.

Several reasons were reported by the committee for the denial. The main problem involves forward planning which proves inoperative because of ordering difficulties. Miss Mathias was quoted as sayinged as stating "I positively will not consider this proposal because of the ordering difficulties which will often make it impossible for us to fulfill the menu we planned, thus causing ill feeling on the part of the students."

The menu committee was initiated at Leadership Conference when the proposal was made.

Campus Signs Discussed

The problem of placing adequate signs to advertise the location of Juniata was brought before the Senate group Wednesday evening.

Definite action on this problem was delayed until next week when the committee plans to have definite progress reports on action and financial problems.

editorially speaking

What Is The Truth?

Politics of one sort or another seem to be the big topic in the news this week. This subject promises to stay as the numbee one subject for several weeks to come. As the national tempo picks up with the November 2 date drawing near the political teams will dispense the practice scrimmages and prepare for the real kickoff.

But when it comes to preparing for the eventual encounter their doesn't seem to be any place in the nation to compare with the scouting activities now going on in Pennsylvania. Leader and Wood have been barnstorming the state for a considerable time now in an effort to secure this political storm center. A victory for the Democrats in Pennsylvania would end a 16 year Republican domination and set the stage for what might be a return swing in the 1956 presidential elections.

With the political future of one of the nations 'key three' states in considerable doubt it is no wonder that national figures as well as the most influential in the state are participating in this election. But the resort to 'truth squads' presents a conflicting picture to potential voters in this state. A quick look at the present situation will provide a confusing look at a confusing situation.

Republican bigwigs (assorted units of the party to be sure) became worried about the remarks the Democratic campaigners had been making. In order to retaliate they organized a 'Truth Squad' to follow the Democrats campaign wagon and revoke these lies, "half truths and distortions". Four of the more prominent state republicans were organized under Robert C. McCormick, press agent deluxe under Jim Duff's reign to carry out this task.

At this point brass from both parties were carrying the election story to the Commonwealth with the Republican 'truth squad' tailing the Democrats. A counter attack was evident and it soon came when the Democrats organized a 'super truth squad' with Senator John Dent of Jeanette in charge. The idea of this group was to expose the 'untruthful truths' the Republicans were making and so it goes.

There seems little doubt why the gubernatorial vote seems a toss-up at this point.

COMMITTEE SELLS MUMS

Those who have ordered "mums" for this weekend may pick them up tomorrow morning at 10 in TOTEM1Inn, it was announced by Bill Shull, JC social chairman.

Also for those who failed to place an order, but who wish to purchase a "mum", they will be on sale at the same place. The committee in charge is headed by Pat Torton and Bernie Cohen.

Worries of Students Multiply Like Rabbits

by Nan Heller and Nancy Freed

In college there are only two things to worry about: either you will pass or you will flunk. If you pass, than there is nothing to worry about. If you flunk, then there are only two things to worry about: either your parents will accept the fact or they will disown you. If your parents accept the fact, then you have nothing to worry about. If they disown you, then you have only two things to worry about: either you must find someone to support you or you must get a job.

If you find someone to support you, then you have nothing to worry about. If you must get a job, then you have only two things to worry about: either you will be successful at your job or you will be fired. If you are successful at your job then there is nothing to worry about. If you are fired, then there are only two things to worry about: either you must find someone to support you or you must get another job. If you find someone to support you, then there is nothing to worry about. If you must get another job, then there are only two things to worry about: either you will be successful at your job or you will be fired.

We just decided that this could get monotonous but don't worry about it 'cause in college there are only two things to worry about . . . . .

LITTLE MAN ON THE CAMPUS By BIBLER

"Now that we have boiled your theme down to relevant material . . .!"

Intercollegiate Chatter

Jacques Fath and Christian Dior with their latest creations are certainly in the limelight on most college campuses. These plus burmudas, kilts, and knee-socks have become the typical attire of the co-ed. Even the hair-dressers have had their fling. Westminster elected Sandra Keeley as their "crew cut queen": A word to the wise: JC is traditionally a conservative college. You'd better stick to 13" skirt hems and dungarees unless you would like to see the administration get all hot and bothered.

Sister Matilda Mary, in charge of casting for "The Young and Fair" at Holy Names College, Spokane, Wash., was quick to explain her criteria. "When I give a girl a certain part it is because I think she can do it well," she said, "not because I think it fits her personality." Characters in the play included a bully, a liar, two women who value material security more than a clear conscience and a kleptomaniac.

At Oklahoma City University a co--ed placed a want ad in the school newspaper to recover some lost articles. Among the items she advertised were two mechanical pencils, a purple formal, a $3.00 check, one shoe, a pajama button, a suit of long underwear, and a white shirt. It's normal for a girl to lose these things," she said.

Macollege students were "tickled pink" with the newest pupil on campus who was unofficially attending classes and annoying profs. He would sit in the middle of the room and look-up at the profs with innocent eyes. His down-fall was some good home-made food, the weakness of many JC'ers. The little pupil was only a mouse, but remember gals, "man or mouse" you can usually trap him via his stomach

From any college comes this befitting quip for many students: "Why that black shroud on your roommate's bed? Did he die?" "Black shroud, nothin'—that's his sheet!"

THINGS THAT COUNT

by Dick Livingston

Do you realize that there is a fight going on right here on campus? Although the number of fatalities is small, there is a rapidly growing casualy list. It is probable that even you are being victimized by the conflict. The situation is highly complex, for here are as many factions involved as there are classes, organizations, activities, and students on campus. The battlefield of this fray is your daily schedule. The fight is for your time.

Almost everyone has long been aware of this undesirable situation; but here, as in the conflicts of the world little has been done to settle matters. To carry the analogy further, we can say that a treaty is necessary.

If there be those who, preferring anarchy, maintain that some sort of agreement is not needed, let them face the consequences. Isolationism is a possibility, but it results in a selfish stagnation of mind and spirit which ends in the death of a personality. The opposite extreme a.ttempting to take part in everything, eventuates in "entangling alliances" and frustration.

Not all students find themselves in such states. Some people have learned to use their time well. Since each person has but the same amount of time, is it not the moral obligation of every one to make the most of his time?

So that you emerge from college without unnecessary battle scars inflicted in the fight for your time, decide now how your time will be spent. The advantages of consciously making such an agreement are many: you will be able to do more, you will do those things which are of most importance to you, you will keep yourself "in condition."

When you negotiate your treaty of time, do not overlook the fact that all areas of life meet in religion, that religion aims to build ordered, consistent lives, and that time spent developing the spiritual life adds peace and contentment to a busy life.

Dickinson Opponent In Crucial Parents' Day Tilt

Running The Gauntlet

by Fritz Heydrick

Although the boys in the weather bureau have only reached the letter H in the naming of hurricanes, the football coaches throughout the nation must be wondering if they haven't missed one; namely Hurricane Upset.

The gridiron season, which has reached the midway point in many schools, shows a total of 70 teams throughout the nation which can boast perfect records. Of these only 18 are major football powers. Latest local power to fall by the wayside was Penn State as they dropped a heartbreaking 19-14 loss to West Virginia. Strangely enough the only defeats chalked up against the Nittany Lions in their last 11 starts were administered by the Mountaineers.

The state of Pennsylvania contains eight of the 70 national college teams that are undefeated. Actually only six of these are unbeaten and untied. Heading the list are the powerful Bucknell Bisons with four straight wins, and right behind them are the Indians with a 3-0 mark. Bloomsburg STC, Carnegie Tech, F & M, also come in this division, while Swarthmore is the only team with two wins. The National Aggies have won three straight but have tied one, as has King's College taken two and tied one.

However, the distinction of having the longest winning streak in Pennsylvania collegiate circles goes to our Juniata gridders. With 10 straight wins under their belt the Indians are six games ahead of their nearest competitor, Bucknell. And with a Parents' Day win over Dickinson, the Tribe may be able to keep this distinction the rest of the season.

Reportedly quarterback Dick Anderson will not start against the Indians tomorrow because of a head injury received against Wooster.

Sophomores Remain Undefeated In Girls' IM Hockey League

The sophomore team under the guidance of captain Jeanette Lowe banged out another victory on Thursday, October 14, by defeating the juniors 2-0. The game proved exciting until Dolly Strickler put the game on ice with the second goal for the sophs for the afternoon.

The freshmen and seniors are still tied as hurricane Hazel prevented Monday's game from being played. This game will decide temporarily the second and third positions in the hockey league standings. The game as yet has not been rescheduled.

Next week will find the seniors against the freshmen on Monday afternoon and the juniors will play the freshmen on Monday afternoon.

Red Devils Sport 1-3 Record Ten Lettermen In Lineup

Juniata will face "a real tough ball game,, says Coach Bob Hicks when the Indians face Dickinson in the Parents' Day game tomorrow on College Field. The Red Devils, holders of a 1-3 record, will be gunning for revenge for last year's 43-13 trouncing at Carlisle.

Dickinson has greatly improved over last year, with 15 lettermen, nine linemen and six backs, and a bench stocked with players from last year's fine freshman team.

Leading the Red Devil line are veteran tackles Andy Cominsky and Hugh Haughney, guards Jim Nellas and Dave Orbock, and four fine ends headed by Don Allegretto. Only at center is the line inexperienced.

Anderson Big Threat

In the backfield the standout this season has been quarterback Dave Anderson. Out for his first two years with an injury, Anderson's brilliant work at the quarterback spot has been responsible for most of Dickinson's scoring this year, throwing eight touchdown passes.

Anderson suffered a slight brain concussion in Saturday's 33-12 defeat at the hands of Wooster but is supposed to be ready for tomorrow's game.

Dickinson's lone victory came over Washington and Jefferson 42-0, while they were defeated by Wooster, Western Maryland 26-0, and strong F. & M. in a close 21-14 contest.

Oldest Rival

The oldest rival on Juniata's 1954 schedule, Dickinson holds a 6-4 edge in the history of the series, but the Indians have taken three of the last five.

After Saturday Dickinson will have three games remaining on its schedule with Randolph-Macon, P.M.C., and John's Hopkins. Saturday's game will also mark the final home appearance for the Tribe, as it will take to the road for four consecutive away games at Susquehanna, Grove City and Ursinus.

Tennis Team Loses In MA Competition

For the second straight year, Swarthmore swept the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference tennis championships.

Earlier, Jim Coss refeated Dan Raffensperger of Juniata 6-0, 6-1. Don Ruhl, Juniata, was also dereated earlier by Parker Hall, 6-0,6-0.

Juniata's only other entry was a doubles team composed of Chuck Gross and Dick Fusco. Gross and Fusco were defeated by Coss and Hall, 6-3, 6-0.

Pheasant Scores Two TD's Birmingham One As Indians Stop Lycoming 20-0 For Tenth Straight

Juniata's gridiron Indians added the third '54 scalp to their continually growing collection as they blanked the Lycoming Warriors 20-0 at Williamsport last Saturday.

The victory was the tenth over a two year period for the tribe, and the second against the Warriors in a short series.

Although the Indians were in complete charge throughout the contest, the sharpness that led to victories over Moravian and Haverford was missing.

Lycoming missed a chance to chalk up their first 1954 score early in the game. After they had kicked off to the Tribe, John Winterstein fumbled on the first play and the Warriors recovered on the Indian 35.

The home team drove to the Tribe 20, but could go no further when the Brave defense stiffened. The ball then went over to Juniata and this time the Lycoming defense took on the appearance of a sieve. Fran Wampler shot around end for 36 yards on the first play to the Lycoming 44, and then with Pheasant, Winterstein, and Wampler carrying in that order, the ball was moved to the enemy 10.

Four plays were required to push the pigskin across, as Don Pheasant finally cracked over from the one. Joe Veto added the extra point to give the Indians a 7-0 lead.

In the second quarter Lycoming started a mild threat when George Walker, who gained all but three of his team's net yardage, had dashes of 13, 15, and 20 yards to put the ball on the JC 28. Here the fine play of Barry Drexler caused the Warriors to lose 16 yards, and end the drive.

After a short kick, the Tribe advanced the ball to the Lycoming 24, but there the attack bogged down. After the ball changed hands, the Warriors suddenly with a five man backfield, as Keith Birmingham, the hard charging JC end, obligingly took a hand off from Warrior quarterback Bob Schneider when the lat-

State Analysis Reveals That Pa. Leads Juniata Enrollment

Geographical distribution of JC students is heavily dominated by Pennsylvania residents according to reports from the Registrar's Office. 615 are enrolled for the Fall Term.

Pennsylvania dominates the enrollment on College Hill this year with 81.5 per cent of the 604 college-level students this fall.

The usual runner-up, New Jersey is again second this year with 65 students or 10.7 per cent.

Three foreign countries—China, Jordan, and Korea also are represented this fall at JC.

Huntingdon Tops

In the Pennsylvania contingent of 492 students, Huntingdon and Blair counties continue to rank one-two among the 48 represented Allegheny county moved into third place.

Jerseyites Second

The top ten counties in Pennsylvania in the report isued by the office of the registrar are: Huntingdon - 79; Blair - 51; Allegheny - 35; Mifflin - 29; Bedford - 26; Cambria - 23; York - 20; Montgomery - 19; Philadelphia - 18; and Westmoreland - 18.

Pennsylvania's down under neighbors from Maryland are the only other state to break into double figures with fifteen attending Juniata.

Juniata Fem's Score Two Wins, One Loss In Bucknell Play Day

Margie Moyer's outstanding offense and Jeanette Lowe's great defense paved the way for two Juniata victories in three contests at Bucknell's Hockey Play Day

The first game for Juniata was at 1:45 with Penn State. The Lionettes came out on top 2-1 to hand the Juniata lassies their only loss of the afternoon. Polly Fowler, an ex-Juniatian, scored both of the Penn State points while Marge Moyer tallied the only goal for Juniata.

At 1:45 the Juniata team bounced back and stung Lock Haven for a 2-0 set back. Again Margie Moyer scored all the Juniata goals with the aid of Jeanette Lowe's remarkable defensive play.

The JC squad broke loose in the final game with Bucknell at 3:15 by defeating the hometowners 4-0. Freshman Patience Kinlock scored two of the four points with Nancy Shirky, a westerner from Illinois, and Margie Moyer coming in with the other two.

The co-captains for the Juniata team were Janice Ludwig and Jeanette Lowe. Each game lasted twenty minutes with a ten minute break between each contest.

Pheasant Scores —

ter's halfback failed to get there first. Birmingham romped the remaining 24 yards for the srore. This time Veto missed his first EP of the season, and the Tribe led 13-0, at the half.

Juniata tallied their final score at the beginning of the second half when center John Staley recovered a Lycoming fumble on the home team's 35. This time the Tribe required six plays to score, with Pheasant taking a pitch-out and going over on a wide end sweep from the eight. This time Veto's kick was true to give the Indians their 20-0 margin of victory.

In the last quarter the Warriors drove to the Tribe one yard line, but fine line play and a tackle good for a 12 yard loss ended the threat.

For the first time this season Coach Bob Hicks used more than 14 men in the contest. Many reserves saw action in the final frame.

On The Club Scene

The big news on the club scene this week ie the approaching Halloween party to be given by the FTA.

FTA

Friday, October 29, from 1:30 to 2:30, the future teachers will entertain the children of the first grade of William Smith School. The party will be in front of the Women's Gym or inside in case of rain. Chairman, Jo Feight, has announced that there will be games, jurging of costumes and refreshments. Everyone in FTA is urged to help. Please sign the paper on Founders Bulletin board.

IVCF

The regular meeting of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship will be held Friday at 7:15 p.m. in Founders Chapel. The Bible study this week will be on James 1: 1-18. Everyone interested in studying the Bible is invited to attend these weekly meetings.

IRC

A student on our campus, Chul Song Juhn from Seoul, Korea, will speak to the International Relations Club. The meeting will be held Thursday, October 28. Following the meeting there will be refreshments.

Remember club pictures are still being taken for the Alfarata. Be sure to check the schedules on the bulletin boards.

Brother this prognosticating game isn't what it's cracked up to be. Last week my coin should have landed on edge instead of heads or tails! Instead of hitting .800, we almost dropped below .600! With four out of seven right last week, we slipped to 15 right and 7 wrong for a .654 average for the season. Predictors never say die though, (It says here!) so with JC opponents capitalized, here we go!

JUNIATA 21, DICKINSON 13; Parents'Day special.
MORAVIAN 26, Lebanon Valley 7; This week for sure!
Hamilton 20, HAVERFORD 6; Too much power for the Fords.
Drexel 27, LYCOMING 0; Warriors out of their class.
GROVE CITY 7, Allegheny 0; An upset!
SWARTHMORE 14, URSINUS 6; Garnet continues unbeaten.

The Juniatian

Vol. 31 No. 6 | Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. | Friday, October 29, 1954

JC Students Vote Tuesday; Leader, Wood Head Slate

Voters in the Keystone state will go to the polls Tuesday to determine the immediate political future of Pennsylvania. In line with Juniatian policy to stimulate interest in the future of the United States among College Hill residents a similar election will be held at JC.

● George M. Leader ● Democratic Nominee

● Lloyd H. Wood ●
Republican Nominee

According to the Juniatian editor, Jim Hunt, "the election is being conducted to stimulate in our college community the interest that every American citizen should have in his government whether it be on the state or national level and to begin the habit of voting to which every American is entitled."

Wood VS Leader

The gubernatorial election in Pennsylvania is contested by George M. Leader (Democrat) and Lloyd H. Wood (Republican). (See biographical sketches on the two candidates for governor on page 2) In addition the Congressional seat in the 18th district which includes Huntingdon is open to the voters.

"The problem of Juniata's interstate student composition will not be permitted to deter from the All-College aspect of the election," stated Hunt. "The polls will be open to all members of the student body, faculty and administration. Our election day is a theoretical aspect of the present two-party system and the issues at stake should be vibrant enough to stimulate student interests."

Polls Open Tuesday

Polls will be open from 7:45 A. M. to 12:00 noon in front of Student's Hall and from 1:15 until 1:45 P. M. in Totem Inn. Voting will also be permitted in Totem-Inn from 6:45 to 7:15 P. M. after the evening meal.

Renowned Editor Will Speak In Special Assembly Friday

J. Donald Adams, contributing editor to the New York Times, will be guest speaker at a special assembly service Friday, Nov. 5 in Oller Hall.

A well-known author and editor, Mr. Adams served as editor of the New York Times Book Review from 1925 to 1943. He has held his present position of contributing editor since July 1943, conducting page two with the weekly column, "Speaking of Books."

He is the author of "The Shape of Books to Come," published in 1944, and "Literary Frontiers," 1951.

Mr. Adams is also editor of a work entitled "The Treasure Chest: An Anthology of Contemplative Prose" which was published in 1945.

This is the first in the series of special assembly services during the 1954-55 year which have been arranged by the Public Events Committee of the College. Other special programs include Carl Weinrich, organist, Feb. 28; and Robert Hermes, lecturer, March 16.

ACP Judges Juniatian First Class Rating Won

Results of Asociated Collegiate Press rating of college newspapers for the 1954 spring term place the Juniatian among the top twelve in their class in the nation. The JC weekly publication received a First Class (excellent) rating for the term.

The collegiate papers associated with this national group are arranged in classification dependent upon school enrollment with the Juniatian falling in the 750-501 category.

The papers are judged from three broad areas, content, coverage and physical properties.

Juniatian scores in the three areas and subsequent breakdowns were consistantely above standard marks.

The editorial board of the paper during this term consisted of Jim Hunt, Editor; Alma Skinner, Managing Editor and Dick Meyer was Business Manager. Joan McClure and Nancy Freed served as News and Feature editors respectively. Nan Heller was Club Editor with Jim Holsopple and Fritz Heydrick co-Sports Editors.

Classes To Be Short For Saturday's Game

In response to a request from the Student Senate, the administration has decided to abbreviate the class schedule for Saturday, October 30. The abbreviated schedule will enable students to attend the football game with Susquehanna at Selinsgrove.

Each class period will be 40 minutes in length. The complete schedule for the morning is as follows:

First Period ..... 8:00 to 8:40
Second Period ..... 8:45 to 9:25
Third Period ..... 9:30 to 10:10
Fourth Period ..... 10:15 to 10:55

The noon meal in the college dining hall will be served at 11:00.

Operetta To Kickoff Yearly JWSF Drive

JWSF, the Juniata World Service Fund, will begin its annual drive for funds on Monday, November 15. The drive is usually held in the spring, but since the proceeds of the operetta go to the fund, it will serve as a kick-off on November 12 and 13.

Part of the proceeds are used for a foreign student on the Juniata campus. The fund supports two missionaries, contributes to the World University Service, which gives financial aid to students throughout the world, and also helps to support the International Christian University in Japan.

Janet Claycomb is chairman.

WJC To Broadcast Tomorrow's Contest

WJC's program director, Bob Hamm, has announced that the Juniata - Susquehanna football game will be able to be heard in a special broadcast Sunday afternoon at 2:00 P. M. over 1210 kilocycles.

Tomorrow the radio staff will travel to Sellinsgrove to tape record the game for Sunday's broadcast. Bob Hamm will do the sportscasting, while Goose Gray supplies the color. Gene Hyssong, WJC technical advisor, is in charge of the technical end of the show.

CLASS SCHEDULE FOR NOV. 5

A special schedule of classes will be in effect on Friday, November 5th, in order to provide ample time for an address by J. Donald Adams of the New York Times, at 9:45 o'clock a.m. in Oller Hall.

Each period will be 45 minutes in length. Following is the complete schedule for the morning:
First Period ..... 8:00 to 8:45
Second Period ..... 8:50 to 9:35
Convocation ..... 9:45 to 10:40
Third Period ..... 10:50 to 11:35
Fourth Period ..... 11:40 to 12:25

Conference Elects Ellis To Head Church District

President Calvert N. Ellis was elected moderator of the Middle District of the Church of the Brethren at the District Conference held last Tuesday and Wednesday at the Everett Church of the Brethren.

President Elis, who succeeds Prof. T. F. Henry in this position, will hold the post of moderator for the 1954-1955 year.

Elected to the position of treaurer of the Middle District was Prof. J. Clyde Stayer, who will serve a three year term. Prof. Paul R. Yoder was chosen to be a member of the Regional Council, a position which he will hold for two years.

Prof. Henry, who delivered the Wednesday evening address on the "State of the Church" was also chosen to be a delegate to the Standing Committee of the Annual Conference of the Church of the Brethren to be held in June at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Adso appearing on the program of the Conference were Rev. John Middlekauff, who spoke on Wednesday morning; and Harold B. Brumbaugh, president of Men's Work, reporting on the activities of the men's organization.

Penney Reveals Assembley Plans

Dean Penney has announced the Freshman Assembly schedule for the next few weeks. On November 1 the main feature will be a psychology test.

Next weekend several experts on Rural Life will be on the campus so the frosh plan to follow this up on November 8 with a panel discussion on vocational opportunities in rural areas.

By November 22, the class will be ready for the nomination of their class officers, which will take place after a talk by Miss Doyle on parliamentary procedure.

New Men's Dorm Nears Completion

John T. Fike, Treasurer of the College, reports that work on the men's new dorm is progressing rapidly.

This past week the New Enterprise Stone Lime company completed the grading around the structure. This project entailed removing the hill from the back of the dorm site.

By Tuesday the heating contractor will have completed his installation. After the building has been heated, workers will begin to lay the Vinyl Plastic Floor, and the interior painting will be started.

The new residence hall, which will house 132 men, was designed by the architect firm of John B. Hamme, York, Pa. The red brick structure is constructed in two units with a connecting lobby. Located in this lobby will be an attractively designed fireplace, and rest rooms for men and women.

To date 80% of the work on the dorm has been completed, acording to Mr. Fike, and present plans are to have the building ready for occupancy by the beginning of the 1955 Spring semester.

Ride the 8:15 Broom To the Women's Gym

Frost is on the pumpkin, witches are on their broomsticks, and a hobo dance is on for all frolic makers on campus this weekend.

Clint Betz, student co-ordinator, has announced that an informal hop will be held this Saturday night at 8:30 P. M. in the Women's Gym.

Music will be provided by the name bands of the nation, (on record, of course!) while cider and pretzels will be available for all healthy Halloween appetites.

Jeans are in order for everyone.

Work Proceeds On Comic Opera

Allegra Forney, student director of the operetta, reports that work is progressing rapidly on the All-College production, Mademoiselle Modiste.

The chorus and cast will be put together in rehearsal tonight for the first time.

The chairman of the ticket committee, Dottie Kettering, announces that tickets will go on sale in the Public Relations Office and in Totem Inn beginning Wednesday, October 27; the time will be announced later. They will also be sold at the Box Office on the evenings of the performance.

Students may obtain their tickets beginning November 1 by showing their Activities Card at the Public Relations Office or the Box Office.

MIDDLEKAUFF TO SPEAK

The chapel programs for the week of November 1 will include a talk by the Reverend Mr. Middlekauff, pastor of the Stone Church on Monday.

Wednesday, Mr. Padgett of the Juniata faculty will speak.

Friday's program will feature an address by Mr. J. Douald Adams. (See story elsewhere.)

Keio University Students Fight Use Of H-Bomb

Students in Keio University in Tokyo have become actively involved in the A & H Weapons Prohibition movement which seems to be gaining strength in Japan.

Officials of the movement started a donation campaign last June and attracted "general attention." During the campaign, this anti-blind-weapon organ gathered the signature for the prohibition of the blind weapons such as a H-bomb from Keio students and men-on-the-street. The signatures have amounted to 5489.

A certain amount of the money derived from the campaign has been donated to the crew of the Fukuryu Maru, the Bikini victims, who have been suffering from the radiation disease in Tokyo University Hospital and the First National Hospital.

Susquehanna Game Top Item On Senate Agenda

Problems connected with tomorrow's football game with Susquehanna University took the foreground at the Senate meeting Wednesday evening. A financial report on Totem-Inn for the 1953-54 period was presented by Joe Hinish among other business conducted.

The Senate received a directive from Dean Morley Mays for a shortened class schedule which the administration had arranged. The Senate voiced approval of the 40 minute classes for tomorrow to enable students to make the trip to Selinsgrove for the game. (A breakdown of class periods is found in separate story).

Celebration Day

The second item of business under the Susquehanna business was consideration of a request to the administration for a ray free from classes in the event of a victory over the Chusaders. Although final decision on the projected victory reward will be left to College officials the Senate formally requested choices in the matter of days. A one day extension of Thanksgiving vacation was first choice with next Monday ranked number two. The possibility of the Saturday of the Grove City game was ranked third by the group.

Senate president, Dick Fusco stressed the point that "the final decision on this matter rests with College officials and of course the Indians must be victorious" A formal statement will be issued by officials after the outcome of tomorrow's contest has been settled.

Band To Make Trip

Transportation for the College band to the game was also considered by the Senate. Arrangements have been made to charter a bus. It will pick up the band members at 11:30 tomorrow for the trip.

Chairman of Athletics Dick Godshall also announced in connection with the game details that students will be admitted to the game at reduced rates of 65 cents JC students are required to present their activities cards at the gate to gain admission under the reduced rates.

Totem-Inn Finances

A report on the financial status of Totem-Inn and the payment of student debt in connection with the Inn was given by Joe Hinish.

editorially speaking

Will You Vote?

Election polls will open throughout the nation on Tuesday morning with Senate, House of Representative and gubernatorial positions to be decided by the time the polls close in the evening. Great issues are at stake in this mid-term election The fervor of the campaign has illustrated the importance of the balloting to take place on Tuesday.

For that reason we feel the students of JC should be given an opportunity to consider the issues at stake, integrate the capabilities of the existing candidates and cast their vote for the person who will best conduct the desires of the American people in the public office he seeks.

Many times during your collegiate career you will be confronted with the concept that you are in reality the future of the United States. Don't scoff the people who put forth this statement. Simply consider the implications of what they say and the truth will be evident. It is up to us to develop thoughts of good government and theories of practice. But above all we must develop the habit of voting. Not just voting for the sake of saying we did, but voting constructively with the idea in mind of upholding the ideas we feel will benefit the country under the existing government.

George M. Leader was born January 1918 on a farm outside of York. Brought up as a farmer he now owns one of Pennsylvania's largest poultry farms, the Willow Brook Poultry Farms near Dover. He graduated from the University of Pennsylvania with a Bachelor of Science in Education. After serving for several years on the county Democratic Committee he launched his political career in 1950 when he was elected to the State Senate. Two of his most notable points in the group was his fight against the Loyalty Oath and the State Sales Tax.

Lloyd H. Wood, the present Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania was born in Clearfield County. Stepping out of his family tradition of farming he entered the law profession. A State Senator for six years he worked for a bonus for World War II veterans and the passage of the Loyalty Oath. As a member of the Fine administration he was instrumental in the passage of the State Sales Tax.

On Tuesday be sure to vote. VOTE AS YOU PLEASE BUT VOTE!

Obligation To Be Met

"He who pays the piper calls the tune" and from out of the musty corners echoes JC's most famous quote of this student generation. A financial report on Totem-Inn issued by Mr. Fisher shows that the student obligation is being fulfilled.

The report shows that the total debt which reaches a figure close to $27,000 was reduced through Totem-Inn profits in the 1953-54 operating term by a total of $1,851.43. This does not include the amount subtracted from the total through the student actovities assessment.

A breakdown of the report shows that total sales in the bookstore amounted to $31,770.35. Total expenses for the same area amounted to $29,237.68 which leaves a net operating profit of $2,532.67. The post office received rents totaling $826.00 with total expenses amounting to $410.30. Placing the net profit at $415.70.

A deficit is noted in the report for the snack bar during this period. Total sales reached $22,147.22 while total expenses were tabulated at $23,244.16 leaving a net operating loss of $1,096.94.

This report shows that the profits received for the year will go directly to reducing the student debt on the project.

Don't Quit Now

Classes will be short tomorrow! A welcome announcement to nearly everyone on College Hill. But how many of us realize the significance of the short periods?

The administration did not shorten classes to pave the way for people to make a homeward exodus from the campus. They were shortened to give the student body an opportunity to support the team that has the longest winning streak in the state , one of the longest in the nation—the gridiron eleven that is the pride of everyone connected with Juniata!

We have become the main target of every collegiate team on our schedule, the big game, the upset that would make the season complete for any team. Now more than ever as JC's grid fortunes for this year turn the crucial corner we must show the gridders we are completely behind them.

While on the subject of tomorrow's contest with Susquehanna it becomes necessary to comment on the big subject on campus. Let it be known that a day off in the event of a victory over Susquehanna is not a tradition! It is a special disposition given by the administration at their discretion.

Behind The Smoke

With the 1954 elections only three days away both parties are making last ditch bids to bring out the vote and control of the national legislature. Democrat and Republican bigwigs are making a last attempt to secure doubtful elections in varying sectors of the country.

Virtually every prognosticator is predicting a Democrat gain in the House with a strong possibility of majority control in the Senate. It is an off-year phenomena that has lead the minority party to pick up power in the non-presidential elections. Ths year appears to be no exception.

But it is surprising that with control of the lawmaking body in doubt that journalists all-over the nation are devoting an outstanding amount of time and space to discussion of the 1956 presidential elections. Here lies the real plum of Tuessay's voting.

Adlai Stevenson has done more campaigning this year than he did in 1952 as he attempts to solidify his position as the nation's number one Democrat. The big test of Averell Harriman as a vote-getter in the New York gubernatorial election mght serve to indicate his future position. Stevenson's cheif convention rival in 1952, Estes Kefauver has worked long and hard on the election train this fall and figures to be high on the list. Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio, up for a fifth term, G. Mennen Williams and Robert G. Meyner governors of Michigan and New Jersey respectively rank as other top candidates.

Our personal choice of the Democrat candidate rests oddly enough on a Republican decision. Will Ike decide to run for re-election?

This question might be answered by the American voters Tuesday for control of the legislature by the opposition party could produce a rugged two years for Ike and might prompt him to hang a 'gone fishin' sign in 1956. But if he does decde to run it will be W. Averell Harriman on the ballots as his opposition. This of course depends on Harrimans ability to beat Senator Ives and break the Dewey regime. If he does we rank him the Democratic selection.

An Eisenhower decision to drop out will leave the way open for Adlai Stevenscn to lead the Donkey slate when election time rolls around again.

LITTLE MAN ON THE CAMPUS By BIBLER

Free Men In College

By Dr. Harold C. Binkley

A college, like any other enterprise that depends on economic trends, must constantly look into the future. If it over-extends itself in the face of bad times, it faces grave danger of collapse. If, on the other hand, it is unable to accomodate a flood of new students when the tide comes in, it stands condemned for failing of its obligations to society. The past two decades, covering the depression of the '30's and the war years, produced one crisis after another for higher education. First, enrollments dropped to a point where some small colleges were on the yerge of starvation. Then, with the return of the veterans, enrollments suddenly swelled, dormitories overflowed, and enough faculty could hardly be found.

Earlier this month the American Council on Education, in its annual meeting in Chicago, took a long look at what seems to lie ahead for colleges. The educators saw enrollments coming in numbers which they compared to a tidal wave. By 1970, they told each other, five or six million students would be storming the college gates—more than twice the present total. Various solutions were offered, none of which seemed to give much comfort. Fortunately for us, at the present, the crisis lies far ahead with the forecasters.

More significant and immediate, however, were the implications lying behind the Chicago proposals. They may well lie heavy on the academic consciences of colleges and students alike in these days.

It was stated with almost the authority of an axiom that the more people who came to college the greater the danger that standards of performance will fall. In fact, most of the proposals focused one way or another on the idea of restricting the number to be accomodated in the four-year college course. Some urged that by expanding the "junior college" the pressure on the four year institutions would be eased.

But one speaker took a strong position in favor of raising the bars high enough to keep out all but the top flight candidates for higher education. He argued that education for all must result ultimately in education for none. As it is, he said, we were well on the way to this degraded state. Illiteracy, even at the graduate levels, was already a common scandal in our colleges and the only way to recover some of the former strength and value belonging to "higher education" was to harden the requirements for students and teachers all along the line. "The public must be convinced," he said, "that higher education is neither a birthright nor a necessary badge of respectability."

Intercollegiate Chatter

By Nancy Freed

Dr. William Heard Kilpatrick, an apostle of progressive education, was a recent speaker at Keuka College in New York. As a grammar school teacher he revolted against report cards. Sounds wonderful, doesn't it, but wait a minute! He is really fighting against individuals who can pass exams but are unable to translate their learning into desirable human action. Says he, "Criticized experience is the final test of all knowledge." Perhaps we'd better stick to report cards. I'm sure more A's are obtained that way.

The Frosh and Sophs of Hood College are permitted to take exemption tests if they feel they have sufficient knowledge in a particular field to waive the course. This rule applies to courses similar to our integration courses. It sounds like an excellent idea, but can you imagine anyone on the JC campus with enough gumption to waive Ds. Binkley's Arts and Humanities course?

I predict that Max Shulman who generally writes a fairly sensible column for the "San Francisco Foghorn" will set off a chain reaction among teachers and prospective teachers by his recent and distasteful article on college "mumblers". He advises one never to cram under any circumstances or to get keyed up over such collegiate trivials as lessons. Perhaps all this could be taken with a grain of salt until one reaches his last statement which is and I quote, "Relax. Be poised. Stay loose. And remember— if things really close in, you can always take up teaching."

C. G. Fithian of the Bell Telephone Company spoke to the Engineer's Club of Grove City on the "Mighty Midget". He predicts that in the near future everyone will be born not only with a name but with a telephone number, for everyone will be equipped with a miniature phone with colored television, and a portable unit as common as a wrist watch on which he will be able to call anyone anywhere in the world in a fraction of a second.

If this be the case, the boys' "little black books" will be large as dictionaries. Dave Garroway will get more attention during class than the profs, and Moms and Deans will keep closer tabs on straying sons and students. We'll all be wishing for the good old days at that point.

Hey co-eds! If your'e only going to college so you can eport a degree, why not try marriage. According to the "Log" of the U. N. Naval Academy "marriage is an institution in which a man loses his bachelor's degree and his wife acquires a masters."

Accent On Reading

THE END OF INNOCENCE, by Jonathon Daniels. A picture of American political life during the Wilson administraton, chiefly an interpretation of the relationship between Josephus Daniels (the author's father) as Secretary of the Navy and F. D. R., his assistant, with relevant observations on the backgrounds of both men, their characters, attitudes and approach to national affairs, and their relationships in later years wher. Roosevelt became President.

REALITIES OF AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY, by George F. Kennan. The author, a member of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton and a former Foreign Service Officer, presents presonal philosophy of American foreign policy. He faces the hard facts of Soviet power and expansion, of disunity in the non-communist world, of weakness in our own society, but in the end pro--vides a unifying factor that offers hope and a basis for constructive action.

AMERICAN LIFE: DREAM AND REALITY, by W. L. Warner. The story of a great democracy trying to become more democratic and at the same time solve the problem of unifying vast populations and diverse enterprises. The author examines the American dream "from rags to riches"suc-

Tribe Thumps Dickinson, 31-0; Crusaders Foe Tomorrow

Tarquinio, Sill, Wampler Score In 11th Victory

The JC Indians extended their winning streak to 11 straight games, the highest in Pennsylvania, this past Saturday by thumping Dickinson 31-0 at College Field. The game witnessed by a large Parents' Day crowd.

The win by Juniata gave the Indians five triumphs in the 11 game series between the two schools, and made this the third straight year in which Juniata has beaten Dickinson.

After a sluggish initial period, the JC gang opened up with two TD'S. Fran Wampler scored first on a pass from Pat Tarquinio. Joe, the Toe, Veto added the PAT, and the score read 7-0, Juniata.

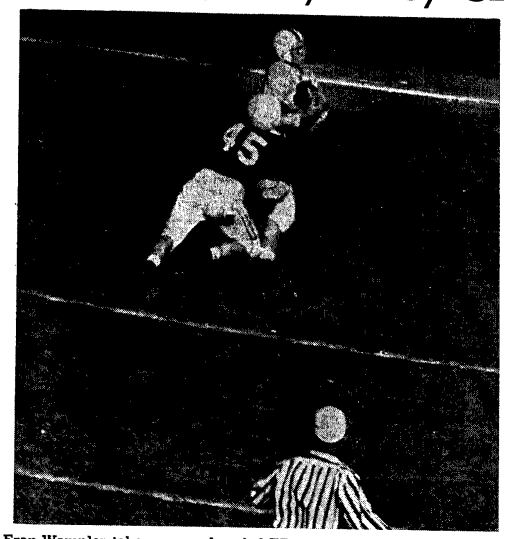
Several plays later, Bill Haushalter of Juniata fell on Fred Hamilton's fumble to give Juniata posession on the Red Devil's 23. Eight plays later Tarquinio went over on a T-formation sneak play. Joe Veto added another EP, and the Indians led 14-0.

Late in the second period Dickinson threatened as they drove to the JC 15, but there a fourth down pass fell incomplete as the half ended.

Juniata kicked off to start the third period. In the first series of plays Dickinson was held to almost no gain, and the Indians gained posession of the ball on their own 47. After one play gained a yard, Fran Wampler took the ball on a reverse and raced 52 yards for the third score. Veto split the uprights giving Juniata a well padded lead of 21-0.

Later in the period a JC drive stalled on the Red Devils 22 yard line. Veto proved that his three PAT's were not flukes as he kicked a perfect field goal from the 32 giving JC a comfortable 24-0 lead

After the kickoff, Juniata was penalized 15 yards back to their own 13. On the first play from the infraction, freshman Bob Sill broke into the open and raced 87 yards for the tribe's final six-pointer of the afternoon. Veto again added the PAT, and Juniata led 31-0.



Fran Wampler takes a second period TD pass from Pat Tarquinio. This touchdown provided all the margin needed for an Indian victory as they smothered Dickinson, 31-0. About to make the futile tackle is Frank Campanelli.

Running The Gauntlet

by Fritz Heydrick

Tomorrow's tussle with Susquehanna should really produce some razzle-dazzle type of football, since the charges of Amos Alonzo Stagg, Jr. are famous for coming up with unorthodox formations. Running primarily from the T formation, the Crusader's have found their ground attack virtually ineffective against their first three opponents. This leads us to speculate that the Staggmen will be pulling all kinds of tricks out of the bag in a desperate effort to knock off the Indians, or at least to give a better showing than in the first three games.

By using the word desperate, we are not exaggerating. The Crusaders have failed to score a single point so far this season, while the opposition has piled up a total of 54 markers. The closest they have come to touch-down land is the four yard line; that in the game against the National Aggies two weeks ago. Last week the Crusaders were idle, thus giving them a full two weeks in which to prep for the annual "Game for the Goalpost".

Speaking of unorthodox plays, Swarthmore has come up with a single wing version of the T option play. In the T option, the QB runs parallel to the line (either right or left) and has the ball in plain sight. It's almost like saying to a lineman: here, try and get it. If an opposing defender does just that, then the QB tosses it back to an accomplice who is trailing him. Otherwise the QB keeps it, and makes yards. The same holds true on the single wing version, only the tailback (deepest back) receives the ball and runs directly at the defensive end. He thus has an option, either to pitch the ball back to the fullback who is trailing him, or if the end fades back with him he may keep the ball. Experts say the play adds deception to the single wing, but also increases the chances of fumbles.

Here we go again this week, sticking our neck out on seven predictions of interest to Indian fans. Last week we picked all five games correctly, since we didn't count the 20-20 tie between Ursinus and Swarthmore. This gives us a season average of 20 right and 7 misses or .740. Juniata opponents are capitalized.

JUNIATA 28, SUSQUEHANNA 0; Scoreless season for the Crusaders?
Albright 12, MORAVIAN 7; The Lions are up for this one.
Wesleyan 20, SWARTHMORE 14; Should be close!
Randolph Macon 26, DICKINSON 13; Devils still groggy from JC!
Thiel 27, GROVE CITY 6; Too strong for the Grovers.
Penna. M. C. 41, LYCOMING 0; Another shutout!
URSINUS 20, Wagner 12; Bears confident after last week's tie.

Susquehanna Features Heavy Line In Contest For Goalpost Trophy

The "goalpost", a symbol of the rivalry between Juniata College and Susquehanna University, will be the prize at stake when the Indians travel to Selinsgrove tomorrow for their game with the Crusaders.

The idea of placing this trophy in competition grew out of an incident at the Susquehanna-Juniata game of 1952 during which some exuberant Juniatians tore down the Susquehanna goalpost. Last year, when it was first introduced, Juniata walked off with it 39-0.

With their winning streak now standing at 11 the Tribe will be heavily favored to make it 12 at the expense of the victory starved Selinsgrove eleven. Susquehanna, in fact, has yet to score this year, being blanked by Ursinus 12-0, Swarthmore 27-0, and the National Aggies 15-0.

Juniata will also be trying to pass Susquehanna in games won in their traditional series which dates back to 1923. Going into tomorrow's 23rd meeting the teams are tied with ten victories apiece and two ties.

Last year's 39-0 slaughter was the most one-sided in the history of the series. The Indians have never had the lead in the series, having won five of the last six to even it up.

Coached by Amos Alonzo Stagg Jr. the Crusaders employ a wide-open spread formation offense that could turn the game into a scoring free-for-all. Although impotent so far, Susquehanna's fortunes cannot get much worse. Therefore Stagg has nothing to lose by shooting the works.

The starting lineup for the Crusaders is an unusual combination of experience and inexperience with three seniors, three sophomores, three freshmen, and two juniors. On the line are ends Jim Anoia, sophomore, and Vergil Milroy, freshman; tackles Bob Chamberlain and Lionel DeSilva, sophomores; guards Bruce Bill and Gerald Wilson, juniors; and 200 pound center Charles Coates, a senior. Together they average a hefty 190.

Collegians Seize Football Pennant

The Collegians were officially named champions of the Men's IM football league after they finished the season with an unblemished mark of seven wins and no defeats. Howie Kerstetter managed the winning club.

In the final round of action, the Covites sewed up second place with a resounding 33-0 triumph over the Scrawny Six. Denny Deegan turned in the longest run of the day as he scampered 70 yards for one of the five Covite touchdowns.

Covites Block Punts

Blocked punts also helped bring the curtain down around the Scrawny Six. Throughout the afternoon they managed to only get one punt away, while having four blocked. Joe Hinish proved to be effective in the passing department, as he hit his receivers for four TD's.

Benders Upset Brookers

The Spaghetti Benders pulled a mild upset as they stopped the Sunbrookers, 6-0. Ray Ono was hero for the Benders as he raced 75 yards for the wining TD.

There was some discussion about its legality, since there were some minor disturbances on the field at the time. The win gave the Benders a firm grip on fifth place, while the Sunbrookers retained their hold on the third rung in the standings.

In the only other game played the Freshmen Dinks landed a fourth place by trouncing the All Purpose Vets, 20-0.

The final standings

Covites	5	1	1
Sunbrookers	3	3	0
Horses Men	2	3	2
Spaghetti Benders	3	4	0
Scrawny Six	1	5	1
All Purpose Vets	1	6	0

Girls' Hockey League Tied As Seniors Win Two, Sophs Beaten

by Marjorie Snyder

Two senior wins and a defeat for the sophomores during the past few days has tied the girl's hockey league up in knots. The sophs and seniors are now tied for first place with the freshmen and juniors fighting it out for the cellar position.

The big game of the week was the October 21 affair between the juniors and the sophomores. The juniors who previously seemed doomed for the cellar position knocked the sophomores for a 2-1 setback and enabled the seniors to back into a first place tie. Nancy Phillips was the whole story as she racked up both tallies for the juniors. Strickler came in with the lone sophomore point.

The seniors pushed the freshmen down to a last place tie by defeating them twice 1-0 and 2-1. Kay Bubeck was just too much for the frosh to handle as she scored all three points for the seniors. The first game between the two teams on Oct. 20 was all seniors as they held the frosh scoreless for the entire game. However, the seniors had to make a fast comback on Monday as the frosh held a 1-0 lead at halftime. Kay Bubeck's game-winning tally didn't come until the final few minutes of the game.

Next week will find the seniors and sophomores banging one out on Monday afternoon to decide temporarily the holders of first place. The freshmen and sophomores will tangle with each other on Thursday afternoon.

Search Reveals Letters Never Found In Mailbox

By Nan Heller

Many times in the history of the World letters have been written but never received. Research revealed two such letters that we even doubt were written!

Dear Son,

Your report card was received yesterday and Mother and I realize that school is hard and therefore we feel that you did very well in failing only one course. After all you got two C's and two D's to compensate for this one rather poor grade. To show our appreciation of your efforts we are enclosing a blank signed check which you may cash if you think you'll need any extra money. We thought you might like to have the family car for awhile too, so we are driving up and taking the train home next week so you may keep the car.

I want to emphasize that Mother and I feel you should not exclude extracurricular and social activities for studying.

Leaving you with these words and a blank check,

Your Dad

Reply That Never Gets Written

Dear Folks,

Thanks for your letter and your generosity, but I cannot accept any money. I tore up the check because I do not feel worthy of it. And if it inconveiences you, don't bother bringing the car; the few dates I have time for like me for myself, they don't care if I have a car or not. I promise to study and forget all other pleasures so that I might be worthy of your loving kindness to me.

I'll write again tomorrow to tell you all the news.

Your Humble,
Son

Whatever the outcome fifteen years from now, it is of some present importance to every person concerned with giving and getting a higher education whether the "democratic way of life" truly guarantees all hgih school graduates four years of happy preoccupation in a cloistered environment of sports, social trivialities, and relaxed mental routines world." Or is it possible that the obligations resting on free men and women in a free society should hold them to a much more strenuous achievement as they undergo four years of intellluctual discipline—which alone can justify the existence of this or any other college.

Old Fashioned Hen Made Slick Chick

With apologies to the latest issue of Compact magazine we'd like to present to you a version of Henny Penny that is really out of it. Hope you enjoy it'

One cool, purple summer morn a slick chick called Henny Penny was evaluating peas in her green grotto.

Out of a tremendous blue sky crashed a pea on her noggin. Cool Hen decided that the sky was real gonc to fall on her bean. She felt simply dubble bubble and perambulated over to the King's shack to spill the info.

Along the way she dug a crazy mixed-up cock who jived, "Where you jumpin to, Hen gal?"

"I'm diggin the news to the King that the sky is gone."

"Count me in,pash pie!" said Cock.

This setup increased 'til by the end of their crazy trip there evolved a delicious duck, seven cool cats and a fox who was the most to say the least.

Friend Fox on digging this spectacle gave with shreiks of the "Sheik" and questioned the mad group.

"I just want to get the facts", said he.

"Whats the gismo here, you guys?"

"Man! You haven't lived. The sky is hanging on by one crazy thread and we're relaying the statistics to the King."

"Well, paint me a stripe and call me stinky, if this isn't the maddest ," howled Fox.

Whereupon he jumped the crowd, plopped all into his cool stomach, and got the facts in the end.

On The Club Scene

It seems that many clubs are featuring a change of pace this week as different type meetings are planned.

Mrs. Beck, of Taylor Highlands, has invited the Inter-varsity Christian Fellowship to hold its weekly meeting in her home on Friday evening. Mrs. Beck is an invalid who has long been interested in the work of this campus organization.

The program for the evening is the usual Bible study. This week it will be James 1:19-27. The theme of this section is "Hearing and Doing".

All those members planning to go to Mrs. Beck's will meet in Founder's Hall at 7:00. The group will walk up and the meeting will begin as soon as possible.

The Masque, too, has a special program planned in place of the regular meeting November 4. Saturday night, November 6, interested members of the Masque will journey to Penn State to see the play "Mr. Roberts." A bus has been obtained. A small deposit with treasurer, Klare Sunderland, will reserve a seat for any member desiring to go.

Remember, Friday, October 29, is the date of the Halloween party given by the FTA. First grade children from the William Smith School will be entertained in front of the Women's Gym. In case of rain the party will be held indoors.

THINGS THAT COUNT

by Dick Livingston

Work is ever with us. Not a person is able to go through life without doing some sort of work. The maxim, "He who does not work shall not eat," is excepted by some extent by almost every society.

The choice as to what will constitute one's life's work is indeed one of the basic decisions that a person must make. From childhood to college days we are confronted with the question, "What are you going to be?" It is this problem which gives college students some of their feelings of greatest insecurity and frustration.. Yet, this issue cannot be evaded. Each of us must face it now.

What will my dife's work do for me? What are my obligations to other people? How can I make my job a Christian vocation? These are some of the issues that face mature students as they decide on their careers.

During November the JCA meetings will deal with the area of Christian Vocations. Outside speakers, as well as discussions, will provide an opportunity for us to plan wisely for the future.

Vol. 31 No. 7 | Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. | Friday, November 5, 1954

Engel And Mays On Staff Of Radio Station WHUN

A second Juniata instructor has set out to prove he can handle a mike as well as a classroom. College registrar and English instructor A William Engel has taken over as head of WHUN's sports department.

Station manager, Bill Germann, announced that Engel will present a 15 minute sports commentary daily at 4:30 P. M. The program which started Monday features both local and national sports coverage.

Joins Dean Mays

Joining with Dean of the College, Morley Mays, who brings to a close the broadcasting day of WHUN with a 15 minute news commentary, Engel presents up-to-the-minute happenings in the sports' world.

Engel has served as a military correspondent with the Pittsburgh Press, a reporter with the Evening News, Harrisburg, a sports writer for the Sewickly Herald, Sewickly, Pa. and a field representative in publicity for Penn State's extension services.

Penn State Grad

A graduate of Penn State he took a position as director of publicity and instructor in English at Juniata in 1946 after military service in India. He became registrar in 1949.

Often called 'JC's number one booster' he is director of sports information and edits a weekly sports letter which is sent to over 600 "J fans."

Juniatian Passes 30th Anniversary

The Juniatian celebrated its 30th anniversary this past week.

Begun in 1924 as a result of a student petition for a weekly paper, the Juniatian was a continuation of the "Juniata Echo", a monthly paper which had existed since 1891.

Its aims, as listed by the first editor Stanley Stroup, were as follows: 1. to mold student opinion, 2. to report campus events, 3. to portray student opinion, and 4. to cement the relationship between students and alumni.

From 1926 to 1934 the paper was a six column one, several inches longer than the present issue.

Bermudae Made Legal At JC; New Fashion Gets Underway

by Nan Heller

The topic of the day in JC fashion circles seems to be the compromise between shorts and slacks, actually not only at Juniata, but at almost every college in this fair country of ours. Yes, Bermuda shorts and kilts are the "new look" on campuses.

The latest New York Times Magazine described kilts as "a natural development of Bermuda shorts, but more flattering". Anyone who observed the charcoal and gold be-kilted co-ed at the Haverford game would agree that she sure looked like something that stepped out of Mademoiselle magazine.

Say, speaking of this guidebook to garb for gals, let's see what they think of the latest attire. Some seem to feel the fashions reflect a "be-a-woman-and-settle down" trend, while others condemn them as revival of the "prosperity-here-let's-play" attitude of the flapper age.

Most of the college editions of these periodicals feature page upon page of the new above-the-knee skirts or kilts. (Mademoiselle advocated buying snug woolen panties in matching colors also. For windy days, I guess!)

Some of the JC comments have been gems. Since they're now legal here gals, we'll give you a taste of the opinions of the male species (whom we supposedly dress for!). One fellow said, "Some gals look nice in them, but they're not the ones who wear them!" Another opinion was, "Well, girls look okay in them, but Ted Grothe looks like a living doll!" Then another of our mailmen came up with these words of wisdom, "There's a time and a place for everything, but Juniata in the winter is neither the place nor the time!"

Even the most avid Bermuda fan would chuckle at the fashion magazine's recommendation of four pair for the well-dressed college girl's wardrobe.

Vogue claims that "any young woman with an ounce of fashion initiative is bound to give it a try". Well whether you're daring or doubtful it's an interesting subject about which to speculate.

Dorms Provide Scene For Ice Cream Sale

In order to raise funds for their annual drive, the 1954-55 JWSF Committee has made plans for the selling of ice cream in the dorms after 10:30 P. M. every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday nights.

The ice cream will be sold in the Lodge by Don Lowdermilk and in the Cloisters by Jack Golden and Bill Smith. Janet Claycomb and Mary Kay Jackson have charge of its sale in the girl's dorm.

If the sale is successful it will continue indefinitely after the close of this year's drive.

Mather To Speak In Chapel Monday

Dr. William G. Mather, professor of Rural Sociology at the Pennsylvania State University, will be the guest speaker at the chapel service Monday. This popular speaker will be on campus November 8th for the Rural Life Conference.

A graduate of Dennison University and Colgate-Rochester Seminary, Dr. Mather received his M. S. and D. S. from Cornell University. Since 1945 he has held his present position as a professor of Rural Sociology.

As an ordained minister of the Baptist Church, Dr. Mather recently retired as president of the Pennsylvania Baptist Convention. He also has served as chairman of the Commission on Social Progress of the American Baptist Church for the past few years.

ETS Will Administer Teacher Exams Soon

The National Teacher Examinations, prepared and administered annually by the Education Testing Service, Princeton, N. J., will be given at 200 testing centers throughout the United States on Saturday, February 12, 1955.

At the one-day testing session a candidate may take the Common Examinations, which include tests in Professional Information, General Culture, English Expression, and Non-Verbal Reasoning; and one or two of nine Optional Examinations designed to demonstrate mastery of subject matter to be taught.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information describing registration proceedure and containing sample test questions may be obtained from Dean Penney or Dr. Kiracofe.

Six Regulations Listed For Dining Hall Notices

Several years ago the Juniata Senate made six regulations concerning announcements in the Oneida Dining Hall.

The following rules are still in effect:

An event may be announced twice, but not more than once per day.

Announcements must not include lists of individuals' names, nor shall any announcement be read which involves less than six people.

There will be only one reading of announcements at each meal.

Announcements must be presented within ten minutes after the start of the meal to the head waitress, her assistant or, if necessary, to the table waitress.

The president of the Senate or other Senate members will review announcements and consider emergencies which necessitate an exception to the rules.

All announcements must be typed or neatly printed.

College Policy On Class Cuts Restated By Mays

Re-enactment of existing regulations concerning class absences was undertaken by the faculty at its meeting dast Monday, according to an announcement by Dean Morley Mays.

This step was taken with a view to acquaint more fully all concerned with provisions which have been in effect for many years. It is the hope of the faculty, Dean Mays said, that the faculty action will bring to the attention of all students the necessity of regularity in class attendance in order that the college experience may be a maximum significance.

The "provisions now in force" with respect to class attendance are as follows:

"1. Students are expected to attend all class and laboratory sessions.

"2. When absence is unavoidable the dean of men and the dean of women are entrusted with certifying the reason to all instructors concerned (at present through the agency of the student).

"3. Unavoidable absence is classified under the following heads:
Own Illness
Illness in immediate family
Death in immediate family
College approved activity
Emergency

"4. A certificate of unavoidable absence implies that each instructor will help the absentee as far as may be possible, and will provide make-up tests for announced examinations leaving the handling of unannounced quizzes to the discretion of the individual instructor."

The above actions are based on the belief that "for the vast majority of our students regular attendance at classes is necessary to reasonable progress." The faculty agreed that only in extreme circumstances is a student justified in missing a class.

Students who are named to the Dean's List, however, are given special consideration in the interest of "allowing them to develop a sense of personal responsibility and self-direction."

Rose Marie Proceeds For Scholarship Fund

Stars, music, romance, laughter and adventure are in store for Juniata filmgoers with the showing of Rose Marie, the first musical to be filmed by MGM in Cinemascope. Rose Marie will be presented November 8, 9, and 10 at the Clifton Theatre by the Huntingdon Music Club as a benefit for its scholarship fund.

Based on the world famed musical play, Rose Marie stars Ann Blyth, Howard Keel, Fernando Lamas, Bert Lahr, and Marjorie Main with a big supporting cast.

The story is photographed in color against the grandeur of the Canadian Rockies at Jasper Park in Alberta, Canada, with other sequences filmed at Mammoth Lakes, California, against a background of the high Sierras. It is the story of a girl of the woods, who is "tamed" by a Canadian mountie, Included in the musical score from the picture are Indian Love Call, Song of the Mounties, and Free to be Free.

Tickets for this show can be purchased at the Public Relations Office.

Juniata's Clubs Have Scheduled Guest Speakers

This coming week presents rather a special picture on the club scene. Five of Juniata's clubs are sponsoring a program with the theme; "Opportunities of Service In Rural Communities." Activities will be confined to Monday November 8.

The chapel speaker on Monday will be Dr. William G. Mather. Dr. Mather ,who is professor of Rural Sociology at Pennsylvania State University, will open this special program.

Freshman Assembly at 1:45 P. M. will feature a panel discussion. The five members of the panel will eat in the college dining hall. Their hosts will be presidents of the five clubs participating in the program.

At 7:15 P. M. Monday, there will be separate meetings of each of the five clubs. Each of the five panel members will address the club most allied with his particular field. (See club column for individual places and speakers.)

The members of the panel will be as follows: Dr. Warren Hershberger, a physician from Martisburg; Professor Henry J. Stoudt, high school principal from Petersburg; Reverend Robert G. Mock, pastor from Everett; Mrs. Rhoda Margritz, a child welfare worker in Huntingdon County; and Mrs. Katharine Keith of Entriken, a home making teacher at Saltillo.

JC Talent Highlights Booster Club Dinner

Juniata College students provided the entertainment for the Booster Club football dinner held this past Wednesday in the Elks Banquet Room.

Robert A. Newcombe, Director of Admissions here, lined up the following program of entertainers for the affair: Bob Hamm, master of ceremonies; the Harmonettes, composed of Allegra Forney, Jean Baker, and Doris Markey, who sang four numbers; vocalist Andy Pastuszek, and Dick Livingston, who led the group in singing, with Peter Wright as accompaniest.

Speaker at the dinner was Harry Stuhldreher, a member of Notre Dame's 'four horsemen' and assistant to the vice-president of the U. S. Steel Corporation.

Republicans Sweep Field In College Mock Election

Student voters on College Hill missed the general tempo of Pennsylvania voters when the Republican candidates swept the mock election conducted by the Juniatian. In balloting Tuesday, 298 students went to the polls with Lloyd H. Wood defeating Democrat George M. Leader by a close 156-135 margin.

Although Republican candidates were placed in all the major offices in balloting the margin was decidedly down from the margin rolled up by the Republicans on the campus during the 1954 presidential campaign.

Lieutenant Governor went to Republican candidate Frank Truscott who rolled up a 152-115 margin over his opponent Roy E. Furman. Gaynelle M. Dixon ran up a 186-105 margin over Genevieve Blatt in the contest for Secretary of Internal Affairs. (the selection of Blatt in the general election is the first time a woman has held the Pennsy post.)

The incumbent Richard M. Simpson rolled up a big vote in the 18th Congressional District race to defeat Meyers.

Charles R. Mallery and Maurice L. Banker won seats in the state Senate and Assembly respectively in the balloting Tuesday.

Republicans swept the three seats in the Superior Court.

editorially speaking

Now Is The Time!

Just like November 1953, football is the number one topic of discussion on College Hill this month. Rightly so with the Indians holding possession of the longest winning streak in the state. But lets take time out to objectively consider another representative unit of Juniata, a group that is oftimes is synonomous with football. The College Marching Band.

Every time the Indians take the field to do battle on the home gridiron the band is on hand to lead the student rooting section. They provide the basic elements of halftime entertainment for each game including the weekends when parents and alumni visit College Hill. We have a football team that is collegiate in appearance and definitely in action but a band that has led visitors to "question the origin of that Salvation Army band." (No dire insults directed at that worthy organization but there obviously is a difference between their band and usual collegiate groups.)

Musically, we say the JC band compares favorably with any small college instrumental group we have encountered. Therefore, we place the reasons for such remarks with the items of attire. There are a large number of reasons why the band uniforms should receive top consideration in plans for next year. Because of space limitation we will list only seven.

The first and foremost reason is the present condition of the uniforms which are probably made from good material but look like they belonged to 'Battle Hymn of the Republic' days. If it is possible to acquire outfits anywhere that present a more drab picture, well we are from 'Missouri' and have to be shown. The second reason is a real standard. They are representative of Juniata College. Are you proud of their appearance? Remember, its your College.

We have had the pleasure of viewing bands from the group of small eastern colleges we play in football, often referred to as the 'Little Ivy League.' They have adopted the idea of the blazer with contrasting skirt or trousers. An outfit that presents about as snappy a small band as you want to see anywhere!

The fourth reason is the lack of pride the student body of Juniata has in its own band. This is perhaps the most disheartening thing any musical group can experience. It is bad enough to have outsiders look over their noses at our marching group but when we ourselves do it then something is definitely wrong.

A simple question among incoming freshmen provided the fifth reason. When queried as to why they hadn't joined the band the standard answer was—"We thought JC had a college band, not something that looked like a hand--me-down high school group." Before we hear too many more people come through with "well if they were really interested they would participate anyway" we would like to ask just one question. How many of you would like to get out at midfield at halftime before a crowded stadium in grandmother or grandfather's clothes?

Provisions for new uniforms in the collegiate vein would also lift many of the limitiations placed on the selection of numbers that the band would play. We realize that the trend has slipped away from the standard marches to swing numbers. Can't you see a real snappy JC band whipping up enthusiasm next September?

What better way can we bring this chapter to a close than to point to the Dickinson band that performed here this fall. 'Nuff said.

(Next week we tackle the timing aspect and the following week the problem of finance. We welcome your letters to the editor on this subject and will print acceptable letters not exceeding 250 words.)

Isotopes In Biochemistry

by Dr. Eva Hartzler

The biochemist has long sought for a tool with which he could follow the pathway of a given material through the body. In recent years such a tool has been provided in the form of isotopes. Isotopes are different forms of the same element which have identical atomic numbers but different atomic masses. Certain isotopes are radioactive and therefore give off radioactivity which can be detected and measured by means of Geiger counters.

If a material containing radioactive carbon, for example, is given to an animal, the pathway of the carbon from that particular compound can then be determined by following the radioactive carbon. Since it is the atomic number and not the mass that determines the chemical properties of an element, it is reasonable to assume that the pathway of the radioactive carbon is the same as that of ordinary carbon. The biochemist has to make the further assumption that the two forms of carbon also behave the same physiologically. The evidence to date indicates that this assumption is justified.

One area in which this tool has been particularly fruitful is in studies of the thyroid gland and its metabolic product, thyroxine. Either over- or underactivity of this gland leads to physiological difficulties manifested by various forms of goiter. The isotope used here is radioactive iodine which emits fairly strong radiation. In this particular example the isotope has been useful not only in research studies, but also in both diagnosis and treatment of dysfunction of the thyroid gland.

When a test dose of iodine is given to a subject most of it is found very shortly thereafter in the thyroid gland where it is incorporated into organic material. It is this ability of the body to concentrate this element in one area of the body that has made radioactive iodine so useful in the diagnosis and treatment of goiter. Overactive glands take up iodine even more rapidly than normal glands and since it is possible to measure the rate of uptake by means of Geiger counters placed under the neck, it is obvious that this provides a relatively simple and rapid method for detecting overactivity of the thyroid gland.

Use is made of the fact that the emitted radioactivity is destructive to living tissues in the treatment of cases of overactive thyroid glands. For this purpose relatively large doses of radioactive iodine are administered. This active iodine will then be concentrated in the gland at levels high enough to damage this particular tissue and thus reduce the overactivity of the gland.

This is only one of the many examples of the use of isotopes by biochemists. The isotopes, which have been made available for these purposes as a by-product of research on atomic energy for other purposes. This is one of the many possible constructive uses of atomic energy.

Intercollegiate Chatter

By Nancy Freed

Kueka College recently sponsored a "Dipsy Droodle Contest" which resulted in the selection of the three winning droodlers and their droodles. Pat Driscoll's droodle, "Two fleas walking up a cat's back", captured the third prize. Pat's comment on her talent: "In my four years at college the one thing I feel I have developed more than anything else is the art of droodling droodles." I bet her parents were enthralled with her fine accomplishments and her attitude toward her own success. After all, what parent wouldn't gladly sacifice $1,000 a year so that his off-spring could learn to droodle more efficiently.

Bucknell recently honored their former football greats. The gentlemen's physiques revealed they were no longer in shape, but they still possessed that same old spirit. I don't know how many football players from JC's past are worth honoring, but if the present trend in victories continues, our children and our children's children (we should live so long) will have many such deserving old men around.

From the University of Rhode Island comes this Chemical analysis of a woman:---- ---- ---- Symbol: Wo.
Accepted Atomic Weight: 120
Physical Properties: Boils at nothing and freezes at anything. Melts when perfectly treated and very bitter if not well-used.
Occurence: Found wherever man exists
Chemical Properties: Possesses a great affinity for gold, silver, platinum, and precious stones. Violent reaction if left alone. Able to absorb a great amount of food batter. Turns green when placed beside a better looking specimen.
Uses: Highly ornamental. Useful as a tonic acceleration of low spirits and an equalizer of the distribution of wealth—is probably the most effective income reducing agent known.

"Why did the professor flunk you?"

"The professor is the man who stands around and watches others work."

"I know, but why did he flunk you?"

"He got jealous. A lot of students thought I was the professor."

Accent On Reading

HEROES, HIGHBROWS, AND THE POPULAR MIND, by Leo Curko. This book is a study of American distrust of intellectuals and intellectual life. The author shows how a split between men of thought and men of action has damaged our national interests and suggests a problem for closing the gap.

MAN'S UNCONQUERABLE MIND, by Gilbert Highet. Here the author deals with knowledge its power, its limits, its dedication. He creates a new understanding of the strength and limitations of the mind, a clearer definition of knowledge and a fresh evaluation of the hope which lies in the tradition of university scholarship.

INDIVIDUALISM RECONSIDERED, by David Reisman. Essays in defense of individualism, by a sociologist who wants to rescue Americans from the conformity imposed by the "lonely crowd." He looks at populer culture, utopianism, totalitarianism, Freudianism, and the methods of the social sciences; he stresses the need to develop persons, who instead of trying to escape freedom, thrive on it. They are, he claims, the saving element in any society.

Running The Gauntlet

by Fritz Heydrick

When the Indians invade Grove City to meet the Wolverines tomorrow, it will mark the ninth meeting since the series got under way in 1927. The Tribe has lost but two of the eight games played to date. The only other team which appears on the 1954 Grover schedule to hold a win advantage is Hiram College, Ohio. They have won 11 out of 20 tilts played.

* * * *

Doubtful starter for the Grovers in tomorrow's contest will be captain Buddy Wise. The big 215 pound fullback from Mercer was injured in the Homecoming tilt with Allegheny, and has been on crutches for the past two weeks. Although participating in light workouts this week, Wolverine officials expressed doubt as to whether the hard-charging senior would be called upon for full time action.

* * * *

Publicity Director of the college, Bill Engel is slowly winning his battle with the radio and TV announcers to pronounce JC as "Joo-nee-a-tuh" and not "Wanee-tuh" as did one commentator for a whole quarter while broadcasting the Lycoming game. Biggest victory in the campaign so far was Jack Lescoulie's correct pronunciation on Dave Garroway's TV program, "Today".

Lescoulie picked the Indians to beat Susquehanna in the small college game of the week.

While unbeaten Juniata is tied for state honors with Carnegie Tech and Pennsylvania Military College, a few other Pa. colleges are in the exact opposite position with no wins. Top honors (if they could be called that) go to Lycoming College who has been victimized four times without scoring a point. The opponents have scored a total of 168 markers against them, including a 20-0 defeat at the hands of the Indians.

Last week's Tribe victim, Susquehanna falls next in line as they have scored only six points as against an even 100 racked up by the opposition. Lebanon Valley is also winless in five games, scoring 12 points against 122 for the opposition.

* * * *

Going into the home stretch of the football season this column is doing quite well for itself in the prognostication game. So far we have picked a total of 26 games correctly and only missed eight for a percentage of .763, an increase of 23 points over last week. With this in mind, lets move into this week's action. JC opponents are capitalized.

JUNIATA 21, GROVE CITY 6; Score will depend on the condition of the field.

MORAVIAN 20, URSINUS 0; Hounds after third straight.

Union 13, HAVERFORD 6; Fords will make it close after a week's rest.

Penna. M. C. 27, DICKINSON 7; Soldiers continue unbeaten.

Wagner 25, SUSQUEHANNA 13; An opportunity for the Crusaders.

Geneva 34, LYCOMING 0; A blank!

SWARTHMORE 20, John Hopkins 18; In a squeaker!

Favored Indians Risk Prestige Against Grovers

KEGLERS KORNER

by Larry Confer

The newest activity in Athletic Chairman Dick Godshall's intramural program, the IM Bowling League, got off to a swift start Friday evening as three matches were rolled.

In all of the contests, the winning team registered a shutout by winning all four match points. These four points are gathered by winning each of the three games and by having a higher pinfall total for the entire match.

Rinso's Boys, led by Walt Vanderbush, trounced the I.F.T. in the early match. Vanderbush was the top bowler for the night by virtue of a neat 457 series. His score for the individual games were 141, 150, and 166. He was ably assisted by Jack Golden while Bill Shull and Larry Confer paced the losers.

In the middle match, the Tycoons blanked the Whips as the winners turned in the best team performance of the evening, both single game and match. Pheasant, Ikeda, and Douds turned in top performances to aid the winners.

The final match pitted the Flames against the Alley Cats. Bill Garrison and Al Nyce paced the victorious felines as they smothered the Flames. George Cline turned in the best performance for the losers.

Following are the standings of the teams which have seen action thus far and the outstanding per-

Tribe Tramples Crusaders, 46-6; Retains Possession Of Goalpost

The Juniata Indians, Pennsylvania's most winning collegiate team, added another scalp to their rapidly growing collection as they downed the hapless Susquehanna Crusaders, 46-6 at Selinsgrove last Saturday.

The Tribe showed its mastery over the Amos Alonzo Stagg Jr. coached team from the opening whistle. It took the Hicksmen just seven plays to score after they got their hands on the ball. Winterstein rambled 19 yards through the whole SU team to give the Tribe the lead. Veto split the uprights for the EP.

From here on, the Indians crossed the Crusader goal line as if they owned it. The Maroon and Orange had just begun to roll when Keith Birmingham pounced on a loose ball which had eluded Erdley on his own 20 yard line. On the next play, Pheasant hit Barry Drexler on the goal line and the shifty end made a flypaper, one handed catch of the slippery oval for the second score. Veto again converted.

Off To Races

Early in the second quarter the Tribe was off to the races again. Taking the ball on the midfield stripe they drove to the SU 10 yard line where the ball was almost lost in a shuffle of penalties. Ron Bechtel finally took a hand-off on the one and cracked over for the score. Veto added the PAT and it was 21-0

Most of the fans were already on their way for hotdogs when Pat Tarquinio, aided by a 15 yard penalty, scooped in a buck lateral pitch-out and sped 25 yds for the fourth score. This time Veto's EP attempt was blocked and at the half the score read: JC 27, SU 0.

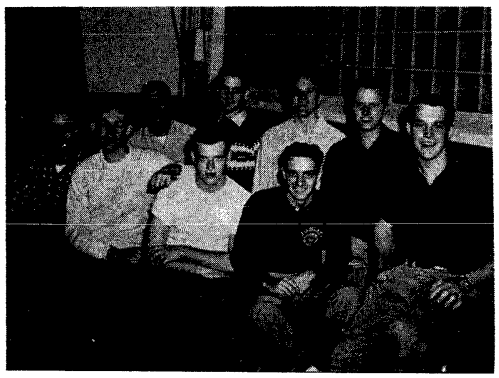
If the Crusader fans expected any letup in the second half, the first eight plays proved them sadly mistaken. The Tribe ate up 65 yards, with Don Pheasant galloping the final 34 for the score. Keith Birmingham's bid for the EP was wide.

Hicks Empties Bench

At the start of the fourth quarter, Coach Hicks began to empty his bench in earnest. Freshman Ed Kohl intercepted a Crusader pass on the JC 26, and a few plays later, the Tribe accumulated their sixth TD via a Tarquinio to Sill pass that covered 40 yards. Birmingham again missed the EP, but the Indians lead 39-0.

Less than two minutes later, Ray Baker, frosh center, recovered a SU fumble on the Crusader seven. George Zeh did the scoring honors this time on a five yard jaunt through right tackle, and Glenn Hassinger booted the PAT.

Both JC and Crusader fans cheered when Susquehanna scored their first TD of the season on a 59 yard gallop by freshman Dick Purnell, as he made the final score read 46-6.



Pistured above are the members of the champion Collegians who went undefeated in the IM football league.

Grove City Points For Upset; Braves Hold Edge In Series

The Juniata Indians will travel to Grove City tomorrow in search of the 13th consecutive victory.

Ever since Fran Wampler's punt return against Moravian the Indians have been gaining momentum. Last Saturday the "winningest team in Pennsylvania" not only brought back the "goal post" from Susquehanna but also rolled up the most points scored in one game by a Juniata team since 1938, when the New York Aggies were mauled 66-0.

With such one-sided victories as those over Lycoming and Susquehanna the reserves have been getting a chance for some seasoning. On Saturday alert defensive play by freshman end Ed Kohl and center Ray Baker set up scoring opportunities, while backs George Zeh and Glenn Hassinger broke into the scoring column.

So far the Grovers, coached by Al Pesek, have a 2-4 record, having lost to Indiana STC 26-0, Geneva 16-7, Westminister 48-6, and Thiel 26-0, while defeating Hiram (0) 12-0 and Allegheny 25-19.

Sophomores Regain First Place In Girls' IM Hockey League

The scene has changed quite a bit in the girls' hockey league the past week as the freshmen downed the juniors 2-0 and the sophomores threw the seniors back for a loss by the identical score. This put the sophomores in sole possession of first place again and the juniors were pushed back into the cellar.

The Nov. 1 affair which saw the sophomores recapture first place, got off to a somewhat shakey start but settled down after the halftime period. Dottie Stricker scored both sophomore tallies as she kept up her latest rampaging streak.

The freshmen jumped back into their former third place position on Oct. 28 by downing the juniors 2-0. Pat Parker and Marge Moyer came through with the frosh points.

The final game of the season will be on Monday afternoon when the seniors will tangle with the juniors. Later on in the week the Blue and Gold games will be played.

Standings through Monday, November 1.

On The Club Scene

Most of the club news for this week has been included in another article. However, following are the individual places and speakers for the clubs participating in the special program.

Professor Henry Stoudt will speak to the FTA in Room C.

Mrs. Katherine Keith will address the Lambda Gamma.

The Ministerium will meet in the Stone Church with Reverend Mock.

Dr. Warren Hershberger will meet with the Scalpel and Probe in Room 104.

Sigma Gamma will have as its speaker Mrs. Margritz. The meeting will be in Room A. All of these meetings will take place at 7:15 P. M., Monday.

Last weekend, Indiana State Teachers College played host to the Province II Workshop for Home Ec. Clubs. The meetings were held on the campus in the Home Ec. Dept., and the delegates stayed at two motels in Indiana.

Members of the Lambda Gamma attending the conference were Helen Herr, Lucille Frey, Jane Elenberger, Shirley Smith and Mrs. Joseph, club advisor. This year Mrs. Joseph is filling the position of assistant state advisor to college clubs in Pennsylvania.

Hamm To Handle Mike For WJC's Broadcast

Juniata students who are unable to travel to Grove City to witness the Indians' sixth contest of the year against the Wolverines, will be able to hear a play-by-play description of the game on a special broadcast Sunday afternoon at 2:00 P. M. over 1210 kilocycles, according to an announcement from the WJC newsroom.

Bob Hamm will be at the microphone, with Goose Gray doing the color, and Gene Hyssong handling the technicalities.

Committee Sponsors Card Games, Dancing

Social Committe chairman Bill Shull anounced that an informal dance to records will be held in the women's gym tomorrow evening beginning at 8:15 and lasting until 11:30.

For non-dancers, tables will be set up at one end of the floor, and various card games will be played during the course of the evening.

This Saturday night affair is one in a series of socials sponsored by the JC Social Committe throughout the college year.

JC Operetta, Mademoiselle Modiste, On Roster For Coming Week

Mademoiselle Modiste, this year's operetta, to be presented November 12 and 13, is now taking its final form. Tuesday of this week, the cast, chorus, and orchestra were combined for the first time.

General director of the production is Professor Johnson, assisted by Miss Mary Jo Pfotenhauer, who, in turn, is assisted by Jim Kimmel and Allegra Forney, student coordinator. Dancing sequences are under the supervision of Mrs. Donald S. Johnson. According to Miss Forney, rehearsals have been progressing smoothly.

The score of Mlle. Modiste, written by Victor Herbert, contains many catchy tunes with equally interesting titles and lyrics. Some examples of these are Furs and Feathers, Love Me, Love My Dog, and Large Hats, Small Hats.

Chapel Features Ellis

Chapel programs for the week of November 8, as announced by Mr. Padgett, are:

On Monday, Dr. William Mather will speak (see story elsewhere); Wednesday's program will feature Dr. Kenneth Crosby; and President Calvert N. Ellis will deliver the address to the student body on Friday.

GRADES READY NOVEMBER 15

Bill Engel, Registrar, announces that mid-term grade reports will be available to students about November 15.

The report period officially ends tomorrow, with grades being due at the Registrar's Office on November 10.

Operetta Begins Drive For JWSF $1954 Goal

The Juniatian

Vol. 31 No. 8 Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. Friday, November 12, 1954

JWSF Sets Goal At 1954 Dollars For Annual Drive

The senate has set up four areas that will receive the benefits of this drive. Three of these aid students, The International Christian University, The Foreign Student Aid Fund, and the World University Service, while the fourth area receiving funds is two missionaries who are Juniata graduates. This year they are Dr. H. Stover Kulp and Dr. Paul Hoover.

Aid To Students

In contributing to the International Christian Univtrsity we are aiding outstanding Japanese students to attend the recently opened Liberal Arts School at the new Tokyo University. A scholarship fund is applied to stuaents of any religious faith in the hope of training new leaders for the future. ICU is striving to check the dangerous trend of "return to the old and familiar" on one hand and the strengthening or democratization of education on the other hand.

The Foreign Student Aid Fund enables students from other countries to study here at Juniata. Not only are these students given an education, but it gives a chance for the other students to become familiar with foreign peoples. At present there is one student.

Professors Contributed

Under the World University Service professors and students in America and other countries contribute to aid students and professors at foreign universities who are in need by supporting projects in such fields as student health, student housing or obtaining equipment and materials for universities.

The only area af J.W.S.F. not helping needs is the contributions given to the two missionaries who are Juniata graduates. Dr. H. Stover Kulp, a pioneer missionary of the Church of the Brethren to Nigeria, West Africa, and Paul Hoover, M.D. who has been located at the Bulsar Hospital in Bulsar, India since 1951.

The J.W.S.F. goal is met by the combined efforts of students, members of the faculty, administrtion, class and club contributions.

Planning tht organization of the 1954-55 drive have been Bill Smith, Chairman of Solicitations, Don Lowdermilk, Club and Class Solicitor; Mary Kay Jackson, Chairman of Publicity; and Jack Golden, Treasurer; with Dr. Lockwood serving as advisor.

Curtain To Rise In Oller Hall For Comic Operetta

Climaxing nearly two months of planning and rehearsing, the curtain will rise on this Victor Herbert production at 8:15. The majority of Juniata studtnts are expected to attend the opening performance tonight, but the musicale will play Saturday evening as well.

Probably the peak in Herbert's career, Mlle. Modiste was first produced at the Knickerbocker Theater in New York, December 25,1905. It starred Fritzi Scheff, "the Mary Martin of yesteryear."

The Plot

The action takes place in modern day Paris, and Act I opens in a high class millinery shop. One of the sales girls, Fifi a pert little Parisian designer, has two ambitions. She wants to be a great operatic soprano, and she also wants very much to marry a young captain, Etienne de Bouvray, who has been paying much attention to her. However, the captain's rich old uncle, the count, has something to say about this; his plans do not include the salesgirl.

Another obstacle is found in the person of Madame Cecile, owner of the millinery shop, who seeks to make a match between Fifi and her artist son, Gaston.

Cast Includes Baker

Members of the cast include Jeanne Baker, Fifi; Gary Mowery, Captain Etienne; Andy Pastuzek, Gaston; Alice Hoffman, Madame Cecile; John Corson, the Count; Ron Dilling, Hiram Bent; Barbara Maurer, Mrs. Bent; Don Britton, Lt Marquis de Villefrenshe; Dick Livingston, Rent La Motte; Judy Gearhart, Mary Louise; Dottie Stricker, Bebe; Mildred Mandeville, Fanchete; Lois Parker, Nanette; and Bruce Dickey, Francois. Mickey Mathews portrays the dog.

Highlights of the musical score are "Kiss Me Again", to be sung by Jeanne Baker, Gary Mowery's "The Time, the Place, and the Girl", and "Ze English Language" a solo by Andy Pastuzek.

Brumbaugh in Chorus

In the chorus are Bonnie Brumbaugh, Susan Fawcett, Mary Jane Hershberger, Barbara Orner, Sylvia Shuler, and Ann Yesko, sopranos; and altos, Lois Mezey, Jeanette Lowe, Doris Markey, and Jackie Rowland.

Bruce Bennett, Bill Collins, Ron Dtamer, Ernie Lashlee, Harvey Ressler, and Charles Winter comprise the tenor section; basses are Bon Bon Barboni, Jay Guyer, Don Lowdermilk, Ken Rockwell, Bryan Stauffer, and Klare Sunderland.

Johnson Directs

Musical director of the production says, "Rehearsals have been going rather well. We got the rough spots smoothed out by the beginning of this week. I predict a fine performance tonight."

Assistant to Prof. Johnson is Mis Mary Jo Pfotenhauer. "We've

Masque Visits State To See Mr. Roberts

Saturday evening, November 6, students from our campus journeyed to State College to see the Penn State Players' presentation of "Mr. Roberts." A bus was chartered by the Masque to take the sixty-one interested persons.

The students felt the Players did a good job of acting. Though somewhat out of the ordinary for Juniata College students, the play was very well received.

Because of the interest displayed, students may again have an opportunity to see a play at Penn State.

Wolfgang Mendel Will Speak About WUS Next Week

Mr. Jack Padgett has announced that the chapel programs for the week of November 15 will be in charge of the JWSF Drive.

The kick-off day for the drive will be on Monday. In chapel Miss Claycomb will speak on the purpose of the drive and where the money goes and Bill Smith, chairman of solicitations, on how the drive will be conducted on the campus.

Wednesday there will be a movie showing what youth groups can accomplish.

On Friday the guest speaker will be Wolfgang Mendl, a brilliant student and lecturer and an "internationalist" by both birth and conviction. Wolfgang Mendl offers the qualities which best equip a World University Service travtler to visit colleges and universities in this country for the purpose of interpreting student needs abroad.

WJC To Do Broadcast From Swarthmore Sat.

WJC, in cooperation with WHUN, will broadcast a play-by play description direct from the Juniata-Swarthmore game, beginning at 1:20 Saturday afternoon.

Bill Germann, manager of WHUN, has agreed to carry the game, because of the intense interest of local fans in the Juniata team, which sports the longest college winning streak in Pennsylvania. The team takes a 6-0 season record into the Swarthmore game, and students who are unable to travel to the gridiron contest will now have a chance to hear each play as it happens.

Germann has secured Swigart Associates, Inc. as a sponsor for Saturday's broadcast, which will be heard on 1150 kilocycles over WHUN and 1210 kilocycles over WJC. Bill Engel, Registrar here, made the plans in cooperation with WHUN.

Clubs' 'Rural Community' Guests Speak On View And Experiences

The FTA met Henry Stoudt,a high school principal and teacher of social studiesfi As Mh. Stoudt put it, "Teaching in one profession in which there is never a dull moment." I guess many of our profs agree wholeheartedly with that statement. To him, the teacher is a friend of the students and not a tyrant. One advantage of being a teacher, is the fact that one is able to tave a direct contact with each student which is not easily done in an administrative office in the field or education.

TheMinisterium was honored to have Reverend Mock, who incidently is Dick Livingston's brother-in-law, as their guest. Being a graduate of Juniata of the class of '49, he approved of the new plan of admitting girls interested in church work to the Ministerium organization.

Scalpel and Probe met with Dr. Warren Hershberger, a graduate of Juniata and later of Pitt Medical School. Dr. Hershberger broke the ice immediately with humorous tales of dining hall episodes which ocured during his school days. At the meeting later he talked on the advantages and disadvantages of being a rural doctor.

Sigma Gamma's guest was Mrs. Rhoda Margritx who is a child welfare worker in Huntingdon, her headquarters being well known to many of us who help to wrap Christmas gifts each year for underprivileged children. The club's informal meeting in the evening made it possible for everyone to ask any questions they had concerning her work.

Mrs. Katharine Keith, a home economics teacher was the guest of Lambda Gamma. From her many experiencts in the Grange and 4-H Club work she was able to give a god account of rural wohk. One of the more enjoyable asjects of her work was a sewing club she organized which was made up of fourth, fifth, and sixth grade boys and girls. Don't laugh, girls! one of the boys won second prize in an apron making sontest.

We're sure that each club profited by the helpfulness of their guest and would like to see another conference similar to this one held again somttime.

Keichline Donates Gifts To JC Library

Dr. John M. Keichline, Huntingdon radiologist has presented to Juniata College books and material from his medical library and collections.

An osteological item is a skull with a lower mandible which the late Dr. Sears used in preparing a research paper on a syndrome at the base of the brain.

The gift in osteology is in the Biology Department for use in the pre-medical courses. The books have been placed in the College Library.

Senate Sponsors Rally Today To Boost Undefeated Indians

Pep rallies, dining hall regulations and plans for vacation meals were the main items of discusion at the Senate meting held Wednesday evening.

Mikey Mick and Dick Godshall were appointed to make arrangements for the pep rally for the departing football team today. Tentative plans were also made for holding a pep rally before the team embarks for the Ursinus game the following week.

A report from the Deans regarding neglect of dining hall regulations was considered by the Senate. All men are reminded that they are expected to wear coats to evening meals Monday through Friday and to the noon meal on Sunday. Women are also expected to wear hose to these meals. These regulations will be enforctd in the future.

Alternate plans for conducting meals for students who return early from vacation were considered by the Senate. A committee consisting of Rainy Linn, Mikey Mick and Joe Hinish was appointed to investigate the various possibilities.

President Dick Fusco appointed two committees to begin work on the comprehensive examination and disciplinary committee programs outlined at leadership conference.

A request was also presented to the Senate urging students to refrain from harmonizing on the glassware during the meal.

Now, Time Is Money!

Last week we managed to list the outstanding reason for re-outfiting the Juniata College Marching band and promised this week to handle the timing aspect. "We reckon hours and minutes to be dollars and cents", and quoting from the Clockmaker states simply that the time is now!

Once again we have reasons! Simple reason that bear the brunt of argument to substantiate this stupulation.

There are approximately sixty musicians in the freshman class that had first or second chair positions in their high school musical organization. A substantial group to form the backbone of a vigorous collegiate group. Organizing a percentage of this group under the banner of a progresisve JC band could set a precedent of quality and spirit for years to come.

Keeping this thought in mind we can look forward to the 1955 football season with the possibility of five home contests. If the present ratio continues we can look forward to outstanding attendance at the games. Thus next year would be an ideal time to launch a 'new Juniata marching band.'

Reverting once again to our lead quotation we realize that we have the time between now and the beginning of the 1955 term to activate means of financing this excelent program.

A True Scholar!

The death of Dr. Harry H. Nye cast a somber note on the usual bustling activities on College Hill this week. Relatively unknown to most of the student generation now residing at JC the professor of history emeritus will be sadly missed by many Juniata graduates.

Although he has been in ill health the past two years his passing stunned many people who cannot think of Juniata without 'Prof' Nye.

An integral part of Juniata tradition Dr. Harry Nye as a true Christian educator will be missed deeply in the years to come.

THINGS THAT COUNT

by Dick Livingston

This is the time of the year when it's easy to "let things get you down." Mid-term exams, football, themes, operetta rehearsals seem to change a healthy, lively, fun-loving crew of college kids into a run-down, tired, complaining bunch of bores. If you are one of these frustrated individuals, read on.

nning a way we mus lea ing away, we must learn to make the best of the situation which all of us are in. We generally agree with Fulton J. Sheen's phrase, "life is worth living." At times like these, however, we have to remind oureslves that btlief A buoyant, "great," feeling naturally results when we take a few deep breaths of the invigorating November air and sing, with the composer Mana-Zuca, "I love life!"

When work bogs us down, we must take time to relax and to inject some variety into our schedules. Weekends provide a good opportunity for this. It is highly probable that a student can do better work during the week if he ocasionally reads a book just for fun, listens to some good music, goes for a walk, or just "goofs off".

Another way to keep up to par is to forget ourselves. None of us really has as much more to do than others do as we would like to believe. The student who gets a lot done, although he plans his work, does not spend as much time pondering his problems and bemoaning his burdens. Helping someone else and worship, one purpose of which is to direct one's thoughts away from one's self, are ways of getting out of a "self-ish" world.

Undoubtedly, this is a time of crisis in the college year. Nevertheless it need not be the time of our downfall if we follow a few simple suggestions like these for keeping our spirits high, full of zest and vigor.

From The Mail Bag

Editor, The Juniatian
Dear Sir:

After having read your editorial "Now is the Time", I believe you have hit upon one of the chief disappointments of many JC students.

The band, a representative of a college known for its outstanding athletic teams and exceptional traveling choir, is an utter disappointment to those who expect an equally fine musical organization. Somehow, the spirit and fine music produced by the J. C. Band does not coincide with its outmoded appearance. A good "pep band" should look, as well as play sharply.

Sincerely yours,
W. C. P.

I read with interest your article concerning the JC band and while I intend to remain loyal to the group no matter what the condition of the uniforms would be, I wholeheartedly agree with you that the present ones are inappropriate, dilapidated, and definitely not in keeping with the usual up-to--date, high quality equipment used in the various campus activities.

Furthermore, since the band has grown to the point where its members outnumber its uniforms by ten, and since it appears to be better than average in other respects, and since it is such an essential part of the JC program, it is my opinion that immediate action should be taken to investigate the need for new uniforms.

When it is proven, as I am sure that it will be, that the purchase of new uniforms is a necessity, I feel that they should be predominately light colored and snappy. Wouldn't a golden blazer with royal blue trousers be just the trick to really show off the band next fall?

Sincerely
A band member

DEAR SIR:

This campus is fortunate in having some very good musicians in their presence. Our college band is a great organization. It has the director, the spirit, the quality but hardly the good looks. How old are the nuiforms presently in use? Who knows?

In the words of the immortal Shakespeare, "To be or not to be" seems a fitting phrase to apply to our marching band. Seriously, though, the band has some great talent in it right now, and with all the talent elsewhere on campus think what an attraction new uniforms would be. When on the field performing the band receives a great amount of criticism. Public appeal is what makes a band and you have to look good if you expect to get it. During the season there are approximately thirty-five members with a possibility of close to fifty. Wow! what a crack outfit we could have representing us.

Manchester College is using brains and imagination to rtach their world service fund goal. Boys are going to wash cars and donate the fes and their tips to the fund; there will be a lost and found auction; the book store is selling an accumulation of old things: AND certain cf the faculty membtrs will go on the auction block at specified times. They will become the slaves for one hour of the highest bidder. They are under obligation to do "most" anything commanded by their master. The coach has consented to act as a housemothtr for half a day for the small sum of $10. (I bet the girls will suddenly develope all sorts of problems.)

Students may collaborate to raise the money

Another prof will consent to be thrown, literally, into a fountain on the campus if a fee of $15 is donated to the fund. Certainly we would have less trouble meeting our JWSF goal if we were eo initiate a similar program instead of merely asking everyone for a $2 contribution. What say? students and faculty? Let's co-operatt. Why make the JWSF solicitors squeeze blood from stones. Let's reach our goal and have fun too.

The San Francisco Foghorn reports the change of its policy concerning mid-terms. Seems they used to hold two mid-ttrm weeks in each semester thus dividing the semester into thirds rother than halves, Can you imagine going through two such weeks as the one wt are all recuperating from!? They have now adopted a policy similar to ours. It's been said that if all the professors in the United States were to stand in a straight line, they would rtach from the coast of California to the shores of China. The San Francisco students were probably considering proving this theory. Hence, a change in mid-term policy.

NEW FRONTIERS FOR FR-E-DOM; the American answer to Marxism, by Erwin D. Canham. The editor of the Christian Science Monitor analyzes power and responsibilities, actual and potential, of mid-century American capitalism and its relations with government, labor and international problems. He traces the developement of a philosoiphy of social responsibility in business and suggests that by promoting more widespread understanding of the enterprise system at home and abroad, Americans can correct the misconception that it is based on materialism, rather than on spiritual and moral foundations of cooperation.

Action in the second week of the IM Bowling League has resulted in a five way tie for the top rung. Shutout victories by the Covites and the Buckeyes, the latter team winning by forfeit, boosted both teams into the top bracket along with last week's winners.

The Covites took the measure of the Big Five as Joe Hinish and "Lefty" Alderfer found the range for the winners and Al Nyce had high score for the losers. Hinish was the best bowler of the week as he connected for a match total of 447. The Covites, in winning all four match points, turned in the best performance for a single game with a 634 total in their first game.

The Mountaineers had a bit more trouble in their match and could not quite muster a shutout as they trounced the Wildcats 3-'. Don Replogle Dick Hite and Bill Jacobs paced the winners while Dick Geiger had a 416 match for the 'Cats. The Mountaineers came up with the best team effort ofr three games with 1795.

The Buckeyes were assisted into the scramble for first place when the Crusaders failed to produce a full team.

The standings and outstanding performances of the week:

Grove City Scares Indians Before Succumbing In Rough Battle, 29-20

A fired-up Grove City eleven came within 10 points of national prominence last Saturday.

The Grovers behind the pasing of Dick Fehrs, gave the unbeaten Juniata College gridders their roughest battle to date, and only in the last quarter did the Indians wrap up the game, 29-20.

Don Pheasant started the fray by returning the Wolverines kick-off 65 yards to the home teams' 25 yard line. Six plays later fullback John Winterstein bulled over from the four, and it looked like the Indians were on their way to an easy 13th straight triumph.

Winterstein Recovers Fumble

The rosy atmosphere started to collapse as dependable Joe Veto mised the EP. The Wolverines put the finishing touches on this outlook as they tok the ensuing kick-off, and with big 215 pound Buddy Wise doing most of the carying, roared to the JC one. Here Winterstein saved the Indians from a possible defeat as he recovered a Joe Gullo fumble.

However the Tribe was out of hot water only for a few minutes. Pheasant booted the ball to his own 36. From this point it took GC only three plays to rack up their initial score. Gullo kicked the PAT, and the opposition was ahead of the Braves for the second time this year.

The Blue and Gold corrected the situation in the second quarter, as they scored the first two times they got their hands on the ball.

Pheasant went over from eight yards out, and Veto missed his second straight EP. The second score came on a one yard sneak by Pat Tarquinio. This time Veto tagged on the point and at the half the Tribe led 19-7.

Veto Kicks Field Goal

Joe Veto gave the Indians what appeared to be a healthy 22-7 lead early in the third quarter when he booted his second field goal from 30 yards out.

The home team pulled within two points of the Indians in the fourth frame when they recovered a fumbled punt on the Tribe 19. Gulo hit Damico in the end zone, for the TD and then tossed to Larrabee for the EP.

The victory margin was accounted for on a spectacular catch and run on a 76 yard pass from Pat Tarquinio to Barry Drexler. Drex snagged the oval on the GC 45, eluded the safety man and loped in to the end zone final point to make the score for the score. Veto added the 29-20.

Battle Swarthmore In Quest Of 14th Victory

A bruised and battered Juniata football team will travel to Swarthmore tomorrow hoping to up its winning streak to 14 in a row. Riddled by injuries the weary Indians will face a formidable obstacle in a Swarthmore team whict is much stronger than its 2-2-1 record indicates.

The biggest blow to the Tribe has been the loss of fullback John Winterstein because of a wrenched knee while reserve wingback "Hoot" Gibson may also be out for the rest of the season. Guard Myron Sevick has been working out at the blocking back spot as a precautionary move in case of further injuries.

Use Single Wing

The red and black of Swarthmore boast a strong single-wing attack centered around tailback Paul James, fullback Tom Simkin, and end Charles Cooper. James, e 165 pound senior is the key man in the Garntt's offense which features a single wing option play on which the tailback operates in the same fashion as a split-T quarterback.

Simkin, a 205 pound senior is leading the Philadelphia area in scoring with six touchdowns and 10 extra points, while Cooper, a 6' 3" senior has caught five touchdown passes from James.

Line Experienced

Other probable starters are backs Sam Criswell and Bill Bruce,, a veteran safety man. An experienced lint is headed by senior tackels Dick Burtis and Dick Kohl, a senior guard Hank Bode, working for his fourth letter, Stan Spitzer, 195 pound junior, and center Sam Boswell.

Swarthmore started out with victories over Susquehanna 27—0 and Hamilton 21—13, was tied by Ursinus 20—20, and thtn lost two in a row to Wesleyan 20—34 and Johns Hopkins 19—21.

This will be only the second time the teams have met, Juniata having won the first one in 1951 13—7.

Sophmores Nose Out Seniors For IM Hockey Crown

The sophomores barely nosed out the seniors for first place in the final standings of the hockey the past week as they played the freshmen to a 1-1 tie on Tuesday afternoon. The seniors blanked the Juniors 1-0 on Monday afternoon to set the Juniors deep into the cellar. The final standings show the sophomores only one-half game of the late-to-take ifre seniors.

In the final game of the season on Tutsday, Nancy Bochman broke loose for the sophomores to tally a point which appeared to have paved the way for another sophomore win. However, in the late stages of the second half Margie Moyer came through for the freshmen and tied up the game.

The Monday affair which featured the juniors and seniors proved to be one of the best played of the season, despite the muddy field. The game was scoreless until a few minutes before the end of the last half when Pat Henry scored the winning point for the seniors.

Final Standings:

Sophomores	4	1	1
Juniors	1	5	0

by Fritz Heydrick

The plague of injuries which the Indians had successfully avoided through the first six gamts finally caught up with them at Grove City. The game featured good, hard, but not so clean football, as was apparent by the number of times out taken for injured players, and the exercise gotten by the refertes stepping off 15 yard penalties for personall fouls.

As a result, the Tribe lost hard--charging fullback John Winterstein and reserve back Hoot Gibson for the remainder of the season. Winterstin had several ligaments torn in his knee while Gibson suffered a painful shoulder separation. Freshman Bob Sill will replace Weasel at fullback.

Two more weeks to go! perhaps we can hit the .800 mark yet! Last week we hit six right and one wrong for the second straight wtek. That gives a season aeerage of 32 correct and only nine wrong. Let's look at this week's action. JC oppontnts are capitalized.

Under current faculty regulations, it will not be possible for any student to receive an approved "Application to Make Up Assignments" for classes missed prior to the work Christmas holiday because of work. Students who feel they must miss classes in order to work will do so at their own risk. Faculty members are not obligated to provide make-up work or credif for such absences.

On The Club Scene

Three clubs have contributed news for this week's club column. A chemistry field trip, play reading, and voley ball are on the agenda for next week.

T8he Chemistry Club wiit take its first field trip of the year Friday, November 19. Dr. Rockwell will conduct interested members to the Prismoplant.

This plant, one of the few Huntingdon industries, manufactures the glas that makes road markings visible at night. Those going on the field trip will meet in front of Science Hall at 7:00.

Masque

Thursday, November 18, the regular meeting of the Masque will be held in the I. Harvey Brumbaugh house. Members will be divided into groups for the reading of plays. Three of the plays the groups will do are "Winsome Winnie, " "Minor Miracle." and "Arsenic and Old Lace" Members of the individual groups will actually read parts from the different plays.

The bi-monthly meeting of the WAA was held November 1. During that time it was decided that WAA members would form a volley ball team to play against the girls from Huntingdon High School. The games will be played in the old gym, November 15, beginning at 7:15. Refreshments will be served following the games.

It was also decided to give individual points to the girls on the bowling teams. A total of five points per season will be given toward earning a letter.

The next busines meeting will be held December 6. Intramural basketball will begin soon after the Thanksgiving vacation.

JWSF Campaign For $1954 In 1954 Starts Second Week

AN EDITORIAL

$1954 in 1954. A considerable amount of money for a college community the size of Juniata to raise in a space of time covering one month. The drive presents a goal that is not unattainable. But we must realize that this objective is attainable only if we dig deep into our pocket and contribute.

The Juniata World Service Fund swings into the second week of soliciting and the crucial part of the drive looms in sight. Your contribution will determine whether $1954 will be available for the outstanding services designated for the funds. We have already reminded you of the recepients of these funds and the use that will be made of them, but lets go a bit further on one division.

The International Christian University in Japan holds perhaps the greatest interest to the students on College Hill. The money from that section will go to students in the form of scholarship funds to aid them in receiving an education. The value of the educated young person in a country rebuilding from a destructive war cannot be under estimated. The Japanese still have a long way to go before they will be in a solid social and economic position. If they are provided with competent leaders in the years of a formation of the new Japanese outlook on world matters we can look for a peaceful Christian nation in the years to come.

The gift you give to JWSF is a gift to humanity and in return a gift to yourself. You will be helping the people of the world who have been having a rough go of it. By helping to educate a youth, assistance for the needy, or promoting the Christian faith through the work of missionaries you help pave the way for a free and peaceful world.

You still have time to "Invest in Humanity" by contributing to the Juniata World Service Fund.

November 23 Deadline For Draft Test Nears

The deadline for submitting applications for the December 9 Selective Service College Qualification Test is midnight, Tuesday, November 23, according to a reminder from the National Headquarters of the Selective Service System in Washington, D. C.

Application blanks and information bulletins, with sample questions, may be obtained by students from the nearest local board. They do not have to write to their own local board to secure an application. Students are to mail their completed applications in preaddressed envelopes to Science Research Associates, Chicago, Illinois.

To be eligible to apply for the college qualification test a student must (1) intend to request deferment as a student; (2) be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction; and (3) must not have previously taken a Selective Service College Qualification Test.

Test In April

The next scheduled test for this school year will be April 21, 1955. Students whose academic year will end in January are urged to take the December 9 test so they will have a test score in their cover sheets before the end of their academic year, at which time their boards reopen and reconsider their cases to determine whether they should be again deferred as students.

The present criteria for deferment as an undergraduate student are either a satisfactory score (70) on the Selective Service College Qualification Test or specified rank in class (upper half of the males in the freshman class, upuer two thirds of the males in the sophomore class, or upper three fourths of the males in the junior class.)

NO PAPER NEXT WEEK

There will be no Juniatian published next week because of the Thanksgiving vacation. The next issue will appear December 3.

SENIOR MEETING

According to an announcement from the Office of the Registrar, all seniors who will be candidates for degrees in January, June, or August, 1955 will meet on Tuesday, November 23.

The meeting will be held at 10 A. M. in Room C, Students' Hall, and attendance is required.

Dr. Priestley, English Historian, Will Speak In Oller Hall Monday

Dr. S. E. Girard Priestly, historian, humanitarian, and educator, will address the Juniata student body in the chapel service Monday, November 22.

Dr. Priestly is intensely interested in the fight against illiteracy, disease, hunger, and poverty in the undeveloped areas of the world. As an authority on international, social, political, and economic affairs, he analyzes the current problems and trends that divide our world into conflicting camps of fear and suspicion.

Presents Complex Information

He presents complex information in a clear and interesting manner, illustrating major points with stories of people, places, and events he has known. Dr. Priestly is a dynamic and stimulating speaker who brings to his audience intimate, firsthand knowledge of the world in which we live.

As a student of world affairs, Dr. Priestly has met and worked with people in all walks of life in 37 countries, following closely the march of history on four continents during the past 20 tumultuous years.

Born In England

Born in the Royal Borough of Windsor, England, not far from where King John signed the Magna Carta in 1215, he has traveled to the new Turkey, standing guard for the free world at the eastern gateway to the Mediterranean; to the reborn land of Israel; to Greece, birthplace of democracy; to Spain, Yugoslavia, Italy and the countries now behind the iron curtain.

Dr Priestly has traveled over the Andes in Peru, across the pampus of Argentina, through the forest and lake country of Chile, in tropical Brazil and the islands of the West Indies. He spent a year of research in rural Mexico, living in primitive Indian communities.

From 1948 to 1953, he served as vice-chairman of the Speaker's Research Committee for the United Nations and has participated in many United Nations institutes and workshops.

There will be no chapel Wednesday, because of the shortened schedule of classes.

Co-Eds Sacrifice To Help Science

(ACP)—Six UCLA coeds are on a daily diet of one muffin, capsules of minerals, vitamins and amino acids, butterscotch pudding and a handful of gumdrops now and then washed down by a bottle of soda water.

It's all in the interest of science, Dr. Marian E. Swenseid, of the UCLA department of home economics, says. The project may determine requirements of the body for the approximately 20 amino acids, the basic "building blocks" which make up protein necesary for health.

She said six girls who lived on a similar diet last semester neither lost nor gained weight. Their energy level remained high and they had no difficulty keeping up their busy college schedule.

Station WJC Will Broadcast Football Game From Ursinus

The Juniata Football Network, that is the combined facilities of radio stations WHUN and WJC will once again broadcast Saturday's away football game between Juniata and Ursinus.

Bob Hamm, WJC's Program Director, has announced that the broadcast will begin at 1:50; game time is 2:00. Sponsors for the play-by-play description will be Swigart Asociates, according to WHUN manager, Bill Germann, who made arrangements for the broadcast with Bill Engel, Juniata publicity man.

Radiomen who will journey to Collegeville for the broadcast, to be heard over 1150 and 1210 kilocycles, are Hamm, play-by-play announcer; Goose Gray, "color" man; Ray Ono, field spotter; and Gene Hyssong, technical director.

Trouble Explained

The difficulties which were encountered in broadcasting last Saturday afternoon resulted from interference by the Swarthmore College radio station. However, chances that this situation will occur again this week appear slim.

The entire play-by-play description, plus an after the game locker show with the Goose if we're victorious, will be heard over WJC, 1210 kilocycles, on Sunday afternoon at 2:00. The tape recording will be made at Collegeville on Saturday.

Workers Continue Drive For Funds To Further World Wide Projects

Solicitations for the Juniata World Service Fund move into the second week with reports showing a favorable rate of return. The campaign was launched last Friday night with the production of the student operetta.

• Janet Claycomb JWSF Drive Chairman •

According to Janet Claycomb, chairman of the Juniata World Service Fund drive, those who pledged donations this week will have until December 11 to pay them.

It is hoped that the goal of $1954 will be attained by that time. During the past week committee members have been approaching members of the student body, faculty, and administration for donations or pledges. Those who have not yet been contacted should see Miss Claycomb or another member of the committee, which includes Bill Smith, Don Lowdermilk, Mary Kay Jackson, Jack Golden, and Dr. Lockwood.

At a meeting Thursday evening reports were made by soliciters concerning the progress of the drive.

Thanksgiving Recess Begins Wed. At Noon

On the day when the Thanksgiving recess begins, Wednesday November 24, the Saturday schedule of classes will be in effect. That is, the third and fourth periods in the morning will begin at 10 and 11 o'clock, respectively with the Chapel Period omitted. The noon meal will be served in the dining hall at 12:15.

After noon on Wednesday there will be no further classes or laboratories until Tuesday morning, November 30. Monday, November 29, was a recently added holiday in recognition of the success of the football team.

Dancing Session Slated For Sat.

By Sandra Ewing

"Big Doings" Saturday night, sponsored by the Social Committee. Yes, be it square or round dancing that is your delight, you will find both at this Saturday night's frolic, which promises to be a "must" on every student's social calendar.

You can swing your prettiest girl in the square dances called by Dr. Rockwell, or whisper sweet things into her ear with the music of famous orchestras in the background (via the disc, of course).

Most people like to dance, but all people love to eat, especially the refreshments to be served this Saturday evening, so circle November 20 on your calendar and add this memorandum: Saturday Night Frolic — Womens Gym — 8:15 P. M. — Round and Square Dancing — Refreshments Promise of a delightful evening.

Capable College Critic Commends Comedy As "Charming", "Convincing", "High Caliber"

by Dr. Kenneth Crosby

Both the residents of Huntingdon area and the students of Juniata College have come in recent years to expect a musical comedy production of high caliber as part of the Juniata World Service Fund campaign.

To begin with, the choice of the show this year was fortunate. Victor Herbert's tale in song and dialogue of Mademoiselle Modiste, the vivacious Fifi who rises from a Paris shop girl to glamorous opera star, is credible as musical comedy goes. In the process several engaging characters emerge and their spoken lines, often mere filler in a musical show, add a refreshing bit of good comedy.

Perhaps these are stock characters—the poor but beautiful and ambitious Fifi, the rich American who befriended her, the scheming shop keeper and her shiftless yet amiable son, the simple and charming captain-hero and his irascible, domineering uncle, the count—but then one does not attend musicals for serious drama. Two evenings of pure fun and generally good musical entertainment, however, were presented in Oller Hall last Friday and Saturday. The show created a jovial mood and left the recurring popular waltz, Kiss Me Again, ringing in the ears of the audience.

This was of course, a student production, one for which a critic is prepared to make some allowances. However, these shows have achieved high standards in past years, and the 1954 production met successfully the challenge of previous performances.

Space forbids a detailed recognition of individual players, but operetta-goers enjoyed Alice Jean Hoffman as a wholly convincing matron, Ronald Dilling as a benign American businessman and Barbara Mauer as his haughty, supercilious wife; John Corson deserves particular mention as the redoubtable bachelor, the

Let's Start Some Action !

Steeped in the academic tradition of the liberal arts education, Juniata prides itself in providing her students with a basic background that prepares them substantially for the competitive world of today. The classroom and the extracurricular activities provided for the student body are all based on a carfully weighed plan. Each is designed to expose the ideal student to a situation or perhaps experience that will help to strengthen his outlook on life's basic principles. What we have been stressing in the past two weeks is not out of the ideals of JC. It does indeed fit into the general reason for Juniatian's existence.

The condition of the Juniata College Marching band should be of concern to even those with a narrow outlook on the composition of an education. The band is a part of JC's liberal arts education! It provides an opportunity for a segment of students to cooperate and work together. To gain pride in the school they represent and what can be so important, pride in themselves. Therefore we must point out that we are not endeavoring to start an organization that will undermine the scholarship tradition of Juniata. We are attempting to strengthen the overall body by repairing one limb of the structure.

The band is in dire need of a face-lifting. This conclusion we found to be standard among the faculty and administration we have talked to on this subject in the past few weeks. The intangible subject of pride always came into the discussions. Pride can be so important in the make up of a group or an individual—pride in what you are doing, and why you are doing something and particularly pride in the manner you achieve this subject. We contend that we can help develop the pride of the members of their organization and the student body's pride in the band. What better argument can be presented for re-outfitting the College marching band?

One thing seems certain, the band would have to integrate their organization more effectively. Taking on a more active atmosphere of getting help by helping themselves. This is the point where strong directorship from the music department could and would prove beneficial. Several times before we have advocated the band concert open to the community with a nominal admission fee and revenue going to the band uniforms. Now we urge the band leaders to activate such a program and stimulate interest within your own group to the principle you represent.

The concessions at athletic contests have always been a steady source of revenue for campus organizations. It seems strange to suggest to a group that is part of the college program to step out and help yourself. It can be done!

The actual cost of the new uniforms (we hesitate to classify them as uniforms) could be cut down considerably by dealing through a wholesale house or possibly one of our Juniata-interested local merchants.

Basically though we realize that the bulk of the funds for this improvement must come from the college itself. The same college that has outlined a ten-year building program that will change the face of this little hill. A school dedicated to providing its students with the basic ingredients conductive to a good life for the four years they spend at JC so that they will be able to step into the roles they have outlined for themselves after college.

We hope that in the past three weeks we have presented the problem in such a light that the Student Senate will feel the desire to accept the problem and show the proper officials the real benefits derived from a real collegiate marching band. Speak to your student representatives and urge them to encourage this task.

From The Mail Bag

Dear Editor,

The purpose of this letter is to express the feelings of a group of the students of Juniata College toward the present conditions of the food being served in the college dining hall.

Before putting forth any argument on the subject we acknowledge the fact that Juniata serves better balanced and probably better all around meals than the average college dining hall. However at times the standard of food served in the dining hall dips far below the average. In the past month this has happened consistantly.

Color Tells Tale

When we pay for our meals at the beginning of the year we possibly expect food not as good or tasty as we have received at home—when we get vegetables warmed over two or three times, this is exceeding our expectations. It gets to the point that one can tell the age of his food by the color. We know for a fact that the food served in the dining hall last year was not as mutilated or rehashed as this year's cisine.

We sincerely feel that when vegetables are served at the evening meal and not completely eaten, they should be thrown out rather than being returned to the kitchen to be saved, reheated, and reserved as much as a week after they were originally cooked. By this time the vegetable no longer has any of the qualities which at one time made it platable.

Another sore spot in the menu this year is the repetition of veal. Veal is undoubedly a good nutritious meat, however when it is served two and three times a week—this is pushing a good thing too far.

Since tradition plays such an important part in campus activities—just what has happened to the traditional chicken dinner on Sunday? Veal twice a week is more than enough, but then again on Sunday—it's just too much.

About the only plausible remedy we've heard for the situation is the suggestion that the students write home to their parents and have them write to the administration about the food situation.

Remember—the only way to change things is to take action.

THE PENTHOUSE & SOME OF THEIR FRIENDS

The three music faculty directors of MILLE. MODISTE wish to say a sincere "thanks" to each person who helped in any way with the production; and especially to the students of the committees, crews, cast chorus, and orchestra. With all our work we still had fun with music, and our two audiences enjoyed our show.

Accent On Reading

THE PHILOSOPHY OF JACQUES MARITAIN, by Charles A. Fecher. This is the first full length study in any language of Maritain's thought, an attempt to bring that thought within the range of the average reader. It reveals Maritain, not as a cool and detached thinker, but as a man who has labored in the blood, sweat, and tears of the market place and whose philosophy is grounded firmly upon two principles—love and the grace of God.

THE GOD IN YOU, by Kermit Eby. A Christian teacher and preacher who has been active in social welfare and labor oganizations testifies to his belief that God works through each individual who commits himself to the search for truth and to the idea of brotherhood. He points out that it profits a man nothing to gain the world and lose his soul, nor must he lose concern for his brother while seeking his own salvation.

Intercollegiate Chatter

By Nancy Freed

The Temple pep rally for the Rutger's game had an unusual twist. Miss Joy Valderrama, Hawiian hulu dancer, performed with a band from the Hawiian Cottage in N. J. Wow! Quite a bit of encouragement for the team.

Washington University

During the long weeks of football Washington University has had two befitting mascots, George and Martha Washington, wandering about the campus. They are students who have been hidden from view by costumes wigs and masks. The lucky person guessing their identity wins a clock radio. The primary question is "are they he's or she's and which is which?"

" Braisez-Moi"

The students from Manchester College have finally gotten something useful out of French class. They've discovered that the phrase "Braisez-moi" literally translated means "kiss me". I'm sure JC students who habitually inhabit the bell and fire tower don't speak French, but according to an old Juniatian they have their own version of a kiss. It's "a mouth full of nothing that tastes like Heaven and sounds like a cow pulling its foot out of the mud."

Costume Party

At a costume party on DePaul's campus one couple certainly were novel in their choice of attire. They were dressed in outfits entitled "Strangers in a pair of dice"

Co-ed Minds

An extemporaneous speaking contest for women held recently on the Allegheny Campus served to point out the one track minds of many co-eds. The titles of some of the speeches were; "Should We Lock Up Men And Let Women Go Free?"; "Should Women Marry For Money?"; and "Do Gentlemen Prefer Blondes?"

Model UN

Delegates from eleven Pennsylvania Colleges have met on the Bucknell campus for a model UN session. They discussed very pertinent questions concerning the world situation and carried on according to the proceedure used at the real UN sessions. Truly an excellent and realistic approach to keep our students on their toes.

Band Uniforms

Band uniforms are occupying the limelight on many a college campus. The most popular solution seems to be oxford gray trousers and white blazers with the school insigna. This certainly gives any band a snappy and collegiate appearance and is easy on the school budget since many student wardrobes already contain these items of clothing.

The week's activities on the bowling lanes saw the Alley Cats and the Covites continue in their winning ways to remain in the thick of the battle for first place in the IM Bowling League.

The Alley Cats cleaned up the alleys with IFT as they turned in the best team performance of the week, both for single game score and match total. They were led to their victory by Jane Logan, Bill Garrison, and Al Nyce while the losers' best scores were piled up by Dewey Mays and Bill Smith.

The Covites remained in the fight for the top of the league by taking all four match points from the hapless Whips. Joe Hinish and Flo Wenzel led the winners and Arnold Olt was the high scorer for the Whips.

The other match this week resulted in the Mountaineers and Rinso's Boys taking two match points apiece. Walt Vanderbush and Lee Hallman paced the Boys while Ed Pallo and Dick Hite led the way for the Mountaineers.

Following are the outstanding performances of the week and the standings of the teams:

Team	Won	Lost
Alley Cats	8	0
Tycoons	4	0
Buckeyes	4	0
Rinso's Boys	6	2
Mountaineers	5	3

Co-captains Play Last Game Tomorrow

• Myron Sevick • • Joe Veto • • Fran Wampler •

These three seniors will end their collegiate playing careers tomorrow against Ursinus. Sevick and Veto both hail from McKees Rocks, and are four year letterwinners. Fran Wampler calls his home Pottstown, and is a three year monogram winner.

Indians Crush Swarthmore, 39-0 For 14th Win; Tarquinio Scores Three TD's, Passes For Another

Working with precision-like smoothness, Juniata's football machine steamrolled over Swarthmore College last Saturday by a 39-0 count on the latter's Alumni Field.

The game featured top line play by the Indians' "Seven Little Mountains" and the patched up backfield left little to be desired. It was the 14th straight triumph for the Indians over a two year period.

Juniata wasted little time in solving the Garnet defenses, and by the time the half rolled around, they sported a 33-0 lead. Keith Birmingham returned the initial kickoff to the Indian 43, and on the fourth play from scrimmage, Fran Wampler ripped off a 43 yard TD run on an inside reverse. Veto's attempt for the EP was no good.

JC Gets Quickie

The next score also proved to be a quickie, as the Tribe drove 76 yards in five plays. Pat Tarquinio did the carrying chores this time as he clicked off five yards for the touchdown immediately after he had galloped 55 yards to set up the play. Joe (the toe) Veto followed with one of his three conversions.

This tally put Swarthmore behind 13-0, even before they had run their fifth play of the game. Not even Coach Elverson's highly publicized single wing option play could gain yardage for the Garnet, and before the first period was over they trailed 20-0. Keith Birmingham set up this TD as he filched a Paul James pass deep in the home teams' territory and returned it to the 12. On the first play "Tarq" passed to Barry Drexler for the score. Veto booted the EP.

Early in the second quarter the Tribe scored again in five plays, this time going 61 yards. Pheasant carried for 11 from the 39, Tarquinio raced for 30, and Wampler put the ball on the Garnet one with a 29 yard gallop. Two plays later "Tarq" crashed over for the tally.

Tarquinio Scores Third

The Garnet squad went to the dressing room at the half with the notion that Tarquinio had leased their end zone, since a few minutes before they had again found him there after a 25-yard sprint with an intercepted pass for the Indians' fourth touchdown.

Swarthmores defenses stiffened in the second half, as they limited the tribe to only one TD, that coming in the final period. Myron Sevick, guard-subbing-at-quarterback, snagged the 13th pass attempt by the Garnet on their 32. Eight plays later, Juniata's hugh 158 pound fullback Don Pheasant went over from the one. Veto's EP attempt was blocked.

The Indians amassed a total of 305 yards on the ground while they limited the Garnet to just 16 in that department. Swarthmore continued to average 20 pases per game as they tosed 21 and completed 10 for a total of 127 yds.

Running The Gauntlet

by Fritz Heydrick

Tomorrow will tell the tale! When the Indians take the field against the Ursinus Bears, they will be out to break three records. First they will be seeking their second successive undefeated and untied season—a feat which has never been accomplished in Juniata's 78 year history. Secondly they will try to run the state's longest winning streak in collegiate football to 15 straight. Last but not least, they will try to surpass the scoring mark of 196 points set last year. In seven games this season they have scored 193.

Although the Indians are trying for their second straight undefeated season, they are not alone in that department. Former sports editor Jim Holsopple informs us that two other colleges in the country are working on two season win streaks.

Northwestern Wisconsin has already completed its schedule by winning all six games. They won the same number last year to go undefeated. Tennessee A&I is unbeaten in eight games this season, and has two contests to go. Last year they won eight games and tied one.

CONGRATULATIONS DEPT. To Pat Tarquinio who has personally acounted for 72 of the Indian's 193 points. He has scored seven himself and heaved passes "little mountains" who after limiting Swarthmore to only 16 yards rushing, reduced the rushing average per game allowance to 93.4 yards—and to the three senior lettermen, guard Myron Sevick, tackle Joe Veto, and wingback Fran Wampler, who will be starting their final collegiate game as "tri-captains" tomorrow.

Second Unmarked Season, Scoring, Hinge on Final

The undefeated Juniata Indians will try to close their second undefeated season in a row tomorrow when they meet the Ursinus Bears at Collegeville. The Tribe's 39-0 trouncing of Swarthmore last Saturday made it 14 in a row and brought them within four points of breaking last year's scoring record of 197 points.

Injuries Hurt

Another flock of injuries has failed to dampen the team's confidence that it can go all the way again. Ron Bechtel may miss the game because of a shoulder separation, while Joe Veto will be hampered by a broken finger. Bob Sill may be ready to start at fullback, while the blocking back post may be of necessity be filled by Myron Sevick.

Ursinus has a 4-2-1 record so far this year. The Bears have rolled over Susquehanna 12-0, Haverford 12-0, Wagner 34-7, and Brooklyn College 19-0, tied Swarthmore 20-20, and lost to Drexel 41-13 and a resurging Moravian team 47-6.

Do you think the rules and regulations at JC are rough today? Can you imagine following these from the 1925 Scout: "Young men and young women may associate after lunch until 1:15, and from 4:15 to 6. On Saturday afternoons young men and young women may go into town together from 1 to 5."

"Women may be permitted to go auto riding in the afternoon with an approved chaperone." The juniors and seniors really had it easy—they could "go auto riding in the evening with an approved chaperone." "Senior women may go out or receive a caller one night a week unchaperoned." Junior women were permitted one caller in two weeks; sophomores one in three weeks. But, woe to the poor frosh—freshman women were not allowed out without a chaperone.

And, what about these freshmen regulations: "Freshmen during the first semester shall not accompany ladies to or from any social function on campus or in town; nor at a program shall they be in constant company with any lady or ladies. Freshmen shall not appear in public with their hands in their pockets." (It must never have been cold.)

Lights had to be out by 11, and you think the dorms are noisy now? This is from the 1925 Juniatian: "Of course everyone realizes it was not upperclassmen who were responsible for dropping bags of water and shooting blank cartridges in the dorm. . ."

And now one final phrase from the Scout: "If you smoke, drink, chew, dance, or play cards— just erase the habit during your stay here— or it may be a short one."

Did someone say they wanted "the good old days?"

Indian fans will be just catching their breath from the football season when they begin to root for the Tribe basketball squad who open their season against Ursinus two weeks from today. This year promises to be a big one for Coach Arnold Greene as all the members of last year's winning squad are back. There are indications that the freshman squad will make fans sit up and take notice, as they provided one bright spot in a rather dismal scrimmage recently with Penn State.

Last week of prognosticating coming up, and we are sporting 38 games right and 10 wrong for a healthy .791. Let's see if we can hit the select .800 mark this week! JC opponents are capitalized.

JUNIATA 28, URSINUS 6; Anybody for the Rose Bowl?
MORAVIAN 34, Wilke 13; Fifth in a row for hounds.
SWARTHMORE 13, HAVERFORD 6; Garnet rebounds.
Notre Dame 27, Iowa 14; Irish roll.
Ohio State 14, Michigan 0; Buckeyes go unbeaten.
Pittsburgh 21, Penn State 20; Your guess is as good as mine.
UCLA 41, So. Cal 14; No stopping the Bruins.

JC Grad Norris Spends Holiday At German Univ.

November 25 was Dies Universitatis, a celebration of the university here in Germany when the Rector proclaims that all regular lectures shall be suspended for a day and special lectures and events shall take place. For the approximately fifty Americans in Tuebingen, however, November 25 meant Thanksgiving Day. Therefore, it was for us a double celebration.

I got out of bed, and shaved, and went to my breakfast of rolls, marmalade, and cheese where I suggested to my Swiss friend, Emmanuel Dupraz, 'etudiant en droit, that we go to the morning celebration where Herbert Hoover was to receive an honorary doctor's degree. Immediately after breakfast we departed from the house, walked the few blocks to the university, and went to the auditorium where the celebration was to take place at 11 o'clock.

A Little Crowded

The hall outside the auditorium was packed. Thinking that they had not yet opened the doors, Emmanuel and I joined the crowd as it packed closer and closer. It was not long until we found ourselves completely surrounded by an ocean of people which waved to and fro as they attempted to go into the auditorium by the single door which was opened for a few minutes.

● Wilfred Norris ●

ED'S NOTE

Fulbright scholarship winner, Wilfred Norris who graduated from Juniata in 1954 recently passed along a letter depicting how he and fellow students selebrated the Thanksgiving Holiday. We felt it would prove interesting to our readers so it has been broken into a two part series.

However, before those in our immediate neighborhood could enter, it was announced that the auditorium was full and the door was closed. Many, including Emmanuel, gave up hope of seeing anything of the celebration and left.

Some of us remained, clinging to the idea that we might still be able to see something. We were indeed correct, for at five minutes to eleven several policemen broke a path through our crowd to the door and held us back until the academic procession had gone into the auditorium.

Academic Procession

The procession was led by two men in bright red academic gowns with red three-cornered hats to match. They were followed by the Rector, equivalent to the president of a university but elected every year from the faculty, and Herbert Hoover.

Penney Announces '58 Election Date

Dean Penney has announced the plans for the freshmen assemblies during the month of December.

On the sixth of December, Miss Doyle will speak on the topic, "Parliamentary Procedure". Following her talk, nominations for class officers will be held. The election wlil be conducted by the Vice-President of the Senate during the week of the sixth.

On December 13, Mr. William Engel will speak on the topic "Registration for the Spring Term".

* LATE FLASH *

Senior tackle Joe Veto has been named first team tackle on the Associated Press Little All-American Football Team for 1954.

EBY Will Address Chapel Next Wed.

The chapel services for the week of December 6 have been announced by Mr. Jack Padgett.

Monday's service will feature an address by President Ellis.

One of the year's special programs, an hour in length, will be presented on Wednesday. Dr. Kermit Eby, the guest speaker, will present an address which he has entitled, "Forgive Us Our Temptations". The student body is already acquainted with Dr Eby through the review of his book The God In You, in the last issue of the Juniatian.

On Friday, the program will be in charge of Prof. Johnson, who plans a program of Christmas carol singing, designed to arouse the holiday spirit of JC.

JC Spring Semester Registration Planned For This Coming Week

Copies of the schedule of classes for the Spring Semester are now available in the Registrar's Ocice, acording to an announcement from Bill Engel.

Registration will begin next Friday, December 10, when seniors and those whose concentration field is either the music or home ec department will report to Room C of Student's Hall.

Juniors and sophomores will register on Monday, December 13; freshman on Tuesday.

Freshman especially should check with their advisors as soon as possible to determine the program they will take during the Spring Term.

After Tuesday, December 14, registration will be considered late and a $5 fee will be charged.

By special arrangement with the Academic Policy Committee the General Psychology course will be continued next semester. Dr. John Comerford will be the instructor of this two credit course.

English history, which is taught by Dr. Theodore Lockwood, will be continued during the Spring Term. Physics 10, a follow-up course to statics, will be known as dynamics.

Graduate Exam Date Announced

The next administration of the Graduate Record Examination will occur on Thursday, January 27, 1955. This date is the most popular of the four during a year when the Graduate Record Examination is given.

Application forms for the January administration will be available in the office of Dean Mays within the next few days. There are twelve centers in Pennsylvania at which the examination may be taken, the closest being State College. Registration closes two weeks before the date of the examination, or January 13, 1955.

The results of the Graduation Record Examination are used by many graduate and professional schools in considering applications for admission. Further information may be obtained at the office of Dean Mays.

Xmas Party Date Set

Allegra Forney and Doris Markey, chairmen of the JCA Christmas Party for underprivileged children have announced that this annual event will be held Friday evening, December 10.

Any two students may sign up to act as parents' to one or more of these children for that evening. Lists for this purpose have been posted on Founders' Bulletin Board.

Actual "Women's World" To Commence On Sunday

By Joan McClure

Get ready to stalk your prey, Girls! Sunday at noon the annual Twirp (The Woman is Requested to Pay) Week officially gets underway on the JC campus, and women receive their special permits to trap two-legged deer.

Dr. Kermit Eby

Yes, for one solid golden opportunity week, boys must feign a blushing reticence while the weaker (?) sex leaves their waiting-for-the-telephone-to-ring post and descends en masse upon the Cloisters (well, almost!) The Social Committee, with Twirp Week activities being headed by Judy Gearhart and Sylvia Peterson, has planned a busy agenda for the seven day affair. So boys, put your wallets away, nervously bite your nails and hope that some kind maid takes pity on a fair male in distress and asks you out.

Gals Get Pep Talk

As a preliminary to the main event, last night Bill Shull, Social Chairman, and Gipp Ciminera spoke to the girls in an informal meeting, urging them to "join in the spirit of fun". (Who needs urging, anyway?)

Next Wednesday the weekly after-dinner dance will feature a new attraction—dancing, as the men will be lining the walls while the women draft the dancing partners of their choice. Even if you don't have a date, boys, come to this dance. You can be sure there' ll be plenty of stags there.

Christmas Party Scheduled

For Friday night, the annual JCA Christmas Party has been scheduled. Girls, this is the chance for you and whatever man you can persuade to play Mommy and Daddy to an underprivileged child.. And if you do have to twist his arm extra hard (the fella's not the child's), remember that it's for a worthy cause (you and the child).

Culminating this year's Twirp Week will be a "Twin Dance", to follow Saturday night's basketball game with F & M. Dates are asked to dress as nearly alike as possible (within reason). Matching colors, similar outfits (for instance, sleeveless sweaters over blouse and shirts), and the like will be the fashion for the evening. Dancing to records will last until 11:30 in the Women's Gym, and girls are reminded that "Juniata men are asked to be in their rooms by 12:00).

The Juniata World Service Fund, whose goal for this year is $1954, has received $1543.56 in money or pledges. The girls have donated the largest amount, $369. 25, of which $84 was pledged. Boys have donated $112.50 and pledged $176.25.

Other than the $345 clubs contributed, money has been received from the following sources: classes, $5; gift, $10; school, $100; and faculty, $292.04 and a pledge of $20.

Proceeds from the sale of icecream in the girls' dorm totaled $28.52. Due to an increased demand, ice cream will continue to be sold in the dorm on Tuesday and Thursday evenings until Chrstmas. These proceeds will also go the the JWSF Fund.

Wed. Classes Have Shortened Schedule

A special class schedule will be in effect on Wednesday morning, December 8th in order to provide a lengthened Chapel period at which the speaker will be Dr. Kermit Eby of the University of Chicago.

Periods will be 45 minutes in length. The complete schedule follows:

First Period	8:00-8:45
Second Period	8:50-9:35
Chapel	9:45-10:40
Third Period	10:50-11:35
Fourth Period	11:40-12-25

Ellis At Conference With College Group

President Calvert N. Ellis spent November 25-27 in Atlantic City attending the annual meehing of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and the meeting of the Commission on Institutions of Higher Education, of which he is a member.

This week President Ellis is in the Philadelphia area, where he and thirty other college presidents, representing the Foundation for Independent Colleges, are soliciting industry in support of liberal arts education.

Christmas Pageant Features Modern Setting For Old Tale

by Mary Jane Hershberger

"Petit Noel", a dramatized Christmas Canata for mixed and solo voices is being presented by the Chapel Choir and a small cast selected from the student body, Sunday afternoon, December 12, 3:30 P. M. in Oller Hall Plans for the production are well underway and the choir has begun rehearsing the music.

Unusual Presentation

This year the pageant is being presented in an unusual and completely different style. The cast will portray present day French villagers as they take part in the scenes synonomous with the story of the birth of Christ.

French Carols

The French carol writers picture the Christmas story as something actual and present instead of long ago and far away. Throughout the canata the villagers participate in the Christmas story and finally find their way home to worship and rejoice to the music of the Christmas bells. All this is accompanied by the music of old French carols sung by the choir.

Chairmen

The entire presentation is under the direction of Miss Mary Jo Pfotenhauer. Miss Jean Baker, a senior music major, is student coordinator. Her assistant is Miss Bonnie Brumbaugh, a junior music major.

The chairmen of the various committees are Mary Jane Hershberger, publicity; Eileen Gipprich, make-up; Joan Feight, costume; Dorothy Fogle, properties; Bill Braunworth, lighting; John Corson, Andy Pastusek, set construction; Lona Beabes, stage manager; Jane Logan, ushers.

Plans For Decorating Campus Set Forth In Senate Session

Plans for co-ordinating the Christmas decorating projects of the various classes into an all-College work and social affair tomorrow evening highlighted the Senate meeting held last Wednesday evening.

Plans for co-ordinating the Christmas decorating projects of the various classes into an All-College work and social affair tomorrow evening highlighted the Senate meeting held last Wednesday evening.

General activities chairman, Nan Heller, and social chairman Bill Shull presented a program in which all students are invited to participate in preparing the campus for the Christmas holidays.

Classes In Charge

The senior class will be in charge of decorating the Social Rooms; juniors taking Totem Inn; sophomores the front porch of Founders and the freshmen are in charge of decorating the front campus entrance.

The various groups will begin to work immediately after supper on Saturday. When the projects have been completed the social committee has planned a dance in the Women's Gym.

A report was received from the committee in charge of arranging for the post-vacation meal in Totem Inn. The apparent success of the project after the Thanksgiving vacation led the Senate to request the arrangement be continued for the Christmas vacation.

Dan Raffensperger was named to head a committee to continue work on the band uniform project.

Win Or Lose — Support!

With the fervor created by the second undefeated football team barely subsiding in the background it is hard to realize that the 1954-55 basketball season officially gets under way tonight. It will be hard to adjust to hoops instead of goalposts and the systematic bouncing of the sphere compared to the crazy bounding of a football.

However, as spectators, we won't be the only ones to find the going tough, for the charges of Doc Greene face a schedule this year that is undoubtedly tougher than last seasons'. For two years now the basketball team has been faced with the added hazards of taking over the sport scene in the wake of a 'better than usual' football campaign. The pressure from the suddenly 'win-minded Juniatians' has been great but it takes only a careful glance at the records to show that they have really come through.

Records flew in every direction last year when the sophomore studded cage squad won 15 while losing six. The student body gave good support to the courtmen and in turn were treated to several really outstanding ball games including of course the eventful Lebanon Valley victory here in Memorial gym. Now as we roll into the 54-55 season the Flying Dutchmen are missing from our schedule but new names like Akron U., Gettysburg and American U. have been added.

Last year's team is back intact and we sincerely hope the spirit that prevailed last year among the student body will return with added emphasis.

Many times we have pointed out the important part all-college spirit plays in the winning and losing of collegiate sport teams. We must pledge ourselves to support the men of Doc Greene this year whether they win or lose. If this support is forth coming and continues throughout the entire season we feel that once again the Juniata record books will be altered. SUPPORT THE INDIANS! THEY'RE OUR BASKETBALL TEAM!

Nature Boy Is Red?

Chalk up another one for the Great American Midwest, home of McCarthy and Jenner and Dirksen, home of the lady who said Robin Hood was a Communist and should be stricken from our books, home of the harassment of great institutions like the University of Chicago and Ohio State by state loyalty commissions and of the attack on Girl Scouts by the big, bad American Legion.

Add to the list the fact that this week, the Indiana State Athletic Commission decided to require a non-Communist oath of all professional boxers and wrestlers on the grounds that "the state has no business sponsoring the public appearance of Reds."

—Daily Tar Heel (University of North Carolina)

Christmas For All

Only a brief period of two weeks faces us before the suitcases are again dusted off for the Christmas vacation. But this is one brief period of the college year that can prove especially meaningful to every resident of College Hill.

The past two years we have experienced with a wonderful feeling the way the spirit of Christmas invades Juniata during this intra-vacation period. Decorations appear in abundance in every area of the college community as classes, groups and individuals sacrifice time and energy to spruce up Juniata.

This year let's make Juniata a true example of the living Christmas spirit. Contribute a little of your valuable time to help prepare the season decorations.

However, these outward decorations, no matter how elaborately planned and carried through, are not sufficient to set the personality mood that is necessary. That is one thing that must be done individually. Each Juniatian will have an opportunity to express the good feeling that is part of this time of year. In your relationships with fellow students or in planned group activities such as the JCA party for some Huntingdon children, the early morning carol singing and the all-college banquet you can help make Juniata a real pleasant place to spend the early days of the Christmas season.

Tough Line To Hold!

President Eisenhower's recent statement, that he would endure almost anything but national dishonor to avoid involving the U. S. in another war, coupled with Dulles' foreign policy speech present an interesting glance of what has become typical American diplomacy.

Traditionally the U. S. diplomatic core has been hampered in international dealings by the adherence of many public figures to the doctrine of letting the voters know exactly what is happening. Diplomatic dealings between nations have always presented interesting aspects of high-level intrigue as the various countries conduct their business.

By these long-standing standards the diplomacy of the United States has constantly been in for criticism from the experienced diplomats from the European countries. They find it hard to understand the American idea of popular approval through the sentiment of the voters.

Actually the recent announcements by the executive and state department heads revealed very little for the position of the U. S. has been made clear through our actions. It serves merely to point out the difference in the operations of the diplomats of the many countries involved in the cold-war tussle.

Exactly how far the Communists will be allowed to go before they enter the realm of dishonor is a theoritical question that must be settled by Ike and his staff as the crisis arises. The Chinese Reds appear to be the people who will push for an early answer!

"The Mighty Midget"

by Dr. Donald Rockwell

The word, "transistor" has only appeared in the language in the last few years, but it is probably already familiar to many, though they may not be versed in Science. These tiny devises bid fair to displace the more familiar vacuum tubes of radios and other electronic devices which have become so much a part of our social economic structure.

Because of their small size, (many are as small as a pea) it is literally possible to construct "wrist radios" which would gladden the heart of "Dick Tracy" and his cohorts. One can envision as wholly practical "giant" calculating machines, using perhaps hundreds of transistors, yet small enough to be placed on an ordinary desk instead of occupying a whole room as do those presently in use. In fact, a whole new era in electronics may be just around the corner.

Now it may seem a far cry from these tiny, but important electronic "gadgets" to the chemical laboratory; but, in fact, it has only been through chemistry that they have become possible. The elements Germanium, Selenium and Silicon are of special significance in the construction of transistors. These must not only be available in very pure form, which involves some very tough problems in chemical separations, but, in order to function properly, they must often be modified ities,—again a chemical problem

One of the three elements mentioned, Silicon arouses unusual interest because of its great abundance. Approximately one fourth of all the matter making up the crust of the earth is Silicon; however, this element is found only very firmly united with other elements in the form of compounds. To liberate pure Silicon from these compounds has been a knotty chemical problem.

Recently the DuPont Company, one of the chief producers, announced that, as a result of recent developments, the price has been reduced by $50 a pound,—but you would still have to pay $380 for a pound of pure Silicon. Roughly speaking, that means that there is about $1140 worth of Silicon in every shovel full of Atlantic City beach—IF YOU COULD ONLY GET IT OUT! Despite this difficulty, the DuPont Company states confidentially that, in time, it will be possible to reduce the costs still further. Actually, the expense is not too formidable when one realizes that a single transistor may contain a bit of Silicon scarcely larger than a pencil point.

THINGS THAT COUNT

by Dick Livingston

Calendars of many kinds are found in our culture. All of us are quite familiar with the Gregorian calendar which hangs on walls in most buildings.

Here at college there is a calendar of school activities. Corporations operate financially according to a fiscal year. Astronomers concern themselves with the zodiacal calendar. In the church, also, there is a Christian year with its own calendar.

Virtually all Christians observe part of the Christian year, namely Christmas, Good Friday, Easter, and, frequently, Pentacost or Whitsunday. At the present time only the so-called "high" churches adhere closely to the entire Church Year. Gradually, however, more and more Christians are becoming conscious of the religious calendar.

We are now in the season called Advent. It begins four Sundays before Christmas and marks the begining of the Church Year. Its purpose is to emphasize the prophecies fortelling Christ's birth and to prepare for the Christmas season itself.

It is very easy for us to become confused and frustrated in the holiday hustle and hurry and miss the significance of the season. Therefore, may each of us be aware of Advent and so get into the Christmas spirit.

Intercollegiate Chatter

By Nancy Freed

Bucknellians will once again be given the opportunity to provide one lucky male student with the title of "Bucknell's Ugly Man". This office was created only last year. A candidate for "Ugly Man, 1954" can be nominated by any Bucknell group, social or athletic, as long as he fits the following requirements: he must be enrolled at the University and attend at least one hour class a week; he must have a scholastic average of .000. The Joe-College who is declared ugliest of them all by a vote of the student body will be crowned in a grand cornation on December 10. Watch this column for further developments on the bitter fight for the much coveted position, "Bucknell Ugly Man".

The following quip was published in the "Blue and Gray" paper of Hood College: "Nothing is impossible to the man who doesn't have to do it himself!" Wonder if they had had the elite group of persons entitled college faculty in mind at the time of the writing!?

Girls from a particular dorm residence on the E-town campus were disturbed one evening by the consistant ringing of the doorbell afted hours. Supposing it was some pranksters, no one paid any attention. The constant ringing finally jarred their nerves and someone went downstairs to face the unknown foe. Much to her surprise she found the housemother who had just stepped outside to check the lights and had locked herself out. Wonder how it feels to be a housemother and come in late?

"An English prof." says Moravian College, "is an otherwise decent man who earns a living teaching otherwise decent students to despise good language."

21,000 composing the body of tuition payers at the State University of New York are out to defy the highest judicial body is the United States. The Supreme Court recently made a decision that the University officials have the power to ban national sorities and fraternities from the campus. University officials claim the reason for the rule is to stop operation of any social organization that bars students "on account of race, creed, color, religion or any other false criteria". The students feel that they are being denied civil rights and freedom of speech, assembly, and religion by this ban, and that while the Supreme Court did not set a precedent when it upheld a law abolishing fraternities and secret societies on the U. of Mississippi campus, their decision does not determine whether a policy is morally or ethically right.

From the Naval Academy's "Log" comes this line which might be worth remembering to certain people: "Just because my eyes are red is no sign I'm drunk. For all you know I might be a white rabbit."

In the last action in the IM bowling league before the Thanksgiving holidays, the Flames smothered the Wildcats 4-0, the Wildcats & Crusaders split 2-2, and the Whips and the Big Five also rolled to a draw.

The Big Five and the Whips both won their first match points in the league as they battled to a draw. The Whips were aided with good bowling by Arnold Olt and Neil Beefelt and the Five were ably abetted by Bob Motisher and Al Nyce. In winning the Big Five rolled up the top team scores for the week.

The Crusaders also earned their first points to pull them from the league cellar as they fought to a 2-2 draw with the Wildcats. Phil Stefanini, high individual scorer for the week, was high for the Cats and Harry Swope and Chuck Phillips paced the Crusaders.

The league standings and the top performances of the week follow:

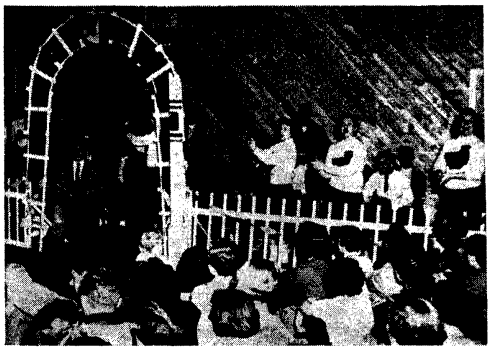
Juniata Cagers Open Tonight Against Ursinus



Some of the spirit which backed Juniata's undefeated football team is captured by photographer Bill Garrison during the pep rally which was held in their honor.

Success Of Undefeated Football Season Was Never-Say-Die Spirit

By Bill Smith

The Juniata Indians, proud possessors of a 15 game winning streak, have put away their gear for another year and a well-deserved rest.

It is almost impossible to fairly hand out credit for the success of the season. Plaudits go to seniors Joe Veto, Fran Wampler, and Myron Sevick for four years of steady ballplaying; to Coach Bob Hicks for nursing the team along so patiently; and to every individual player for never giving less than his best.

Seven Regulars Start

With seven regulars and two former letter winners as a core, the squad had to weather a series of shoulder separations and other injuries which caused some hasty juggling of the lineup.

Ron Bechtel made the switch from full to blocking back successfully while John Staley filled the shoes of Ron Clapper at center and linebacker beyond all expectations, doing a "slam-bang" job.

Having only three or four substitutes to depend on, Hicks nursed his freshmen along until they were able to fill in in the late quarters of several ball games.

The season opened with Moravian, which eventually proved the most dangerous team of the year. Fran Wampler pulled this one out of the fire with a last quarter 65 yard punt return that won 14-12. From there on the team gained momentum each week. Haverford and Lycoming fell 14-6 and 21-0.

The Indians broke loose against Dickinson on Parents' Day 31-0 as Winterstein, Wampler, Pheasant, and Tarquinio ran wild. Veto booted a field goal and freshman fullback Bob Sill rompea 85 yards for a TD.

Susquehanna Falls

Hapless Susquehanna gave the subs a workout as they were trampled 46-6. Grove City then dealt what should have been a disastrous blow. Although they went down 29-20 the Grovers put backs Winterstein, Sill, and Gibson on the shelf with their "over spirited" play.

Pheasant took over at fullback though and "sub" tailback Tarquinio led a 39-0 rout of Swarthmore. Bechtel was put out of action however and Sevick had to move from guard to blocking back. Sev played like he loved the backfield and Charlie Haines filled in at guard.

A nervous first half at Ursinus saw the Tribe hampered by fog, rain, and a fired-up Ursinus team. Key interceptions by "Moon" Mullen and Staley took the fire out of the Bear attack and gave the Braves a 28-6 margin. Leading 7-6 in the second quarter Tarq tried a daring pass deep in his own territory and completed it to Birmingham for 52 yards. This broke the ice and Tarq soon scored the first of his three TDs for the day. Veto finished out his kicking career with a perfect 4-4 on extra points.

Tarquinio Stars

Offensively for the year Pat Tarquinio led the team, both in total yardage and in scoring with 72 points.

Defensively honors must go to the whole squad, especially the "mighty mite" line, which frustrated so many bigger opposing forward walls.

Congratulations to the Indians of "54" for matching the undefeated record of "53", sometimes on guts alone, and to Coach Hicks for such an auspicious debut as head coach.

Dr. T. Arnold Greene Begins Sixth Season With Nine Lettermen In Fold

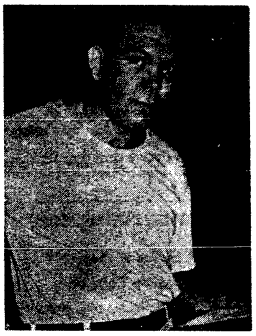
Juniata's 1954-55 cagers under the leadership of Doc Greene make their first appearance of the season tonight against Ursinus in the Juniata College Memorial Gymnasium.

Last year the Indians, in compiling a commendable 15-6 record, bettered Ursinus by a 77-65 count in Juniata's second home game of the season. This game started Greene's cagers on their winning ways as they won nine straight games on the home court including the triumph over Ursinus.

Veteran Squad

A squad of veterans would be the best way to describe Juniata's courtsmen. Coach Greene has nine lettermen back for this season which should mean a strong starting five backed by a highly potential bench.

The lettermen are: Jake Handzelak, Walt Vanderbush, Lee Hallman, Chuck Gross, Bernie Oriss, Jim Boulton, George O'Brien, Tory Froisland and Howie Kerstetter. Jack Golden and Bill Burchfield, although not lettering last year will add needed depth to the Indian basketball squad.



Dr. T. Arnold Greene
Head Basketball Coach

Starting Five

The probable starting five against the Ursinus cagemen tonight: At the guards; Chuck Gross, a senior this year who compiled a very respectable 45.7 per cent shooting average last year, and Howie Kerstetter, a steady junior ball player from Shamokin. At center, Walt Vanderbush, the tallest man on the roster hitting 6 ft. 6 in. At the forward spots; Jake Handzelak, Juniata's scoring ace with 553 points last season, and Lee Hallman, smooth working back court ace.

Ursinus is reported to have nine out of ten of their last year's varsity team back and is looking forward to a successful season.

However the outlook for the coming basketball season of our Juniata cagers appears to be very bright and as one member of the team so ably phrased it, "This should be our year!"

Blue - Gold Hockey Teams Deadlock In All-Star Playoffs

Due to the weatherman the Blue and Gold hockey games ended up in a tie as the Blue team won the first game on Nov. 15, 1-0; the Gold team won the second affair on Nov. 17, 1-0; and the finale on Nov. 18 coming out as a 0-0 tie. Patience Kimlock scored the lone point for the Blues while Nancy Bachman tallied for the Golds.

IM Soccer Loop Tied; Basketball League Started

The newly formed IM soccer league wound up regular play with the Frosh and All-Stars tieing for first place. Each of the three teams played four games. Both winning squads had two wins, one loss, and a tie during regular season play. The Upperclassmen posted a mark of two losses and two ties to come in third.

The playoff game will take place this afternoon. Ken Henry and Dick Moffett are co-captains of the Frosh while Bill Hartman and Dave Suloff head the Stars.

In other IM action, the basketball league got under way with four games being played Tuesday night. The strong Covites blasted the Ramblers 104-41, while the Jaberwockies clobbered the Players Inc. 119-53. In other games, last year's champs, the McKees Creekers rolled over the Day Students 117-43, and in the closest game of the evening, the Wolverines topped the Deadshots, 73-58.

Comm. Plans Sub-Frosh Weekends; Elects Beltrame To Chairmanship

The chairman of the Sub-Freshman Committee, Charlotte Beltrame, has announced the plans to be followed during the annual Sub-Frosh Weekends.

Sub-Freshmen arriving December 11, January 15, and February 19, will be entertained by Juniata's All Star Five. The Masque Play will be the main attraction during the weekend of March 11, and the last Sub-Frosh weekend, April 23, will be topped off by a dance.

Charlotte Beltrame, who is being asisted by Dick Mumma, has anounced her committee chairmen as follows: Harriet Detweilder, Table Heads; Don Murdoch, Tours; and Barbara Leuthold, Registration. Carol Jenkins has accepted the position as Committee Secretary.

A sophomore Home Ec. major from Harrisburg, Charlotte is also an active member of Inter-Varsity, J.C.A., Lambda Gamma, and the Outing Club.

Anyone interested in the work of the Sub-Freshman Committee, is invited to attend the meetings in Founder's Chapel the first Monday of every month.

JUNIATA MEN TO TAKE SELECTIVE SERVICE TEST

The Selective Service College Qualification Test will be given at Juniata College on Thursday, December 9, in the Memorial Gymnasium. A number of students have applied for this examination, the results of which will be used in determining draft status with a local selective service board.

Thanksgiving —

The Rector and Mr. Hoover have about the same build, not very tall and rather round so that the Rector had to step aside to let Mr. Hoover through the door. They were followed by a long train of professors in their black gowns, purple velvet stoles, and purple velvet, four cornered caps with gold trimming. At the end of the procession the door was again closed.

Later I learned from another student who was lucky enough to get in that the auditorium was full an hour before I came and that then there was only standing room.

Since I knew it was futile to wait longer, I left, headed toward the shopping district and purchased some postcards on which there were reproductions of Picasso paintings. The cards were made in England, France, Italy, and Germany I discovered when I returned for Mittagessen.

(Con't. Next Week)

Twirp Week —

Nights when nothing else has been planned, gals may date guys for walks, movies or cokes in Totem, always, of course, footing the bill. Fellows may not ask girls out at all during this week; they have their chance the other eight months and three weeks of the college year.

Twirp Week, which had its origin in Al Capp's comic strip character, Sadie Hawkins, has become another tradition here on campus. Students look forward to it each year and have always taken the turnabout proceedings in good humor.

Of course, girls, you don't have to date the guys. As one witty coed remarked, "Turnabout's fair play". Then there was also the suggestion made by another caustic JC lass, that "the girls should either bring in fellows from home or ask out the town guys,"

However, since females who are frustrated 358 days of the year now have their chance to run wild in JC's "Woman's World", why not pack up your modesty, (which is probably false, anyway), girls, and dial 9907 and 9930? "

Midget —

And what may this "Mighty Midget" hold in store? Cheaper television sets, telephone service in the remotest rural areas and easier long distant calling; feather weight radios for aircraft which will operate on the power of a couple of storage batteries; vastly improved electric mowers; even changing the energy of sunlight into electric power.

On The Club Scene

On December 6, Juniata's Chemistry Club will play host at the 204th meeting of the Central Pennsylvania section of the American Chemical Society.

This meeting will be devoted to a subject which, although it has received qualitative attention ever since man first stuck a prehistoric paw in a bit of pine sap, presents an element of novelty when discussed quantitatively.

Mr. Frank W. Reinhart, the speaker, will show how adhesion is attributed to the forces of attraction between atoms and molecules, namely, electrostatic, covalent and metallic bonds, and secondary or van der Waal's forces. The subject is "The Nature of Adhesion."

Mr. Reinhart will show how the strength of the bond is dependent on the nature of the adhesive and adherend, surface characteristics, physical properties of the components, and design of the joint. A diagram showing the interrelations of the various factors will be presented, along with a critique of pertinent literature.

Central Pennsylvania is by no means strange territory to Mr. Reinhart, for he was born in Bellwood, attended Juniata College from 1926 to 1930 and taught at the same institution from 1930 to 1937. He has also studied at Columbia University and at the University of Maryland.

From Juniata College, Mr. Reinhart went to the National Bureau of Standards in 1937, where he joined the section concerned with research and development on organic plastics, coatings and adhesives. He is now Chief of the Plastics Section. In 1946 he received The Superior Accomplishment Award of the Department of Commerce.

Interview Reveals Busy Schedule Of Small College Pres.

By Jim Hunt (Editor)

Want to become a college professor? If you consider that position as the ultimate goal of relaxation in life it might be wise to investigate a bit further.

From the view of a student it certainly presents a rosey picture. Why it actually appears that a college president has little to do besides sit behind a plush desk and casually watch the happenings of the college community. Traveling around the country on one vacation after another!

This might be the life that is encountered by the prexy of a large university when he has a corp of men to complete the necessary tasks. We found out it just isn't that way in a small college like Juniata.

Personal Attention

A continual stream of people flow into the office of President Calvert N. Ellis and the problems they have ranged from minor significance to major importance. Each is handled personally by the president.

This fall has been a particularly busy one for our head man. The important business of furnishing the new men's dormitory is a persistant problem that must be solved quickly and efficiently. JC's financial problems, like so many of the small colleges in Pennsylvania and the United States, are always a touch and go affair.

$400 Per Room

The furnishings in a single room in the new dormitory will cost $400. At the present time the expense of 20 rooms have been assumed by the alumni and friends of the College.

The job of recruiting these donors falls upon President Ellis and Harold Brumbaugh. Soliciting money for a private institution is a necessary evil and one of the main reasons for the frequent absence of the president from College Hill.

Two pertinent examples of this constant and time consuming process were pointed out by the president during the interview.

Presidents Solicit

Last week President Ellis joined with 29 other college presidents from the state. Representing the 40 members of the Foundation of Independent Colleges in Pa. they were soliciting industry in the Philadelphia area. "The woes of our state colleges are only in common with those throughout the nation" he pointed out. The Pa. group is similar to 32 organizations formed for the same purpose throughout the U.S.

Several days later the president joined forces with Harold Brumbaugh to attend a meeting of the Middle Atlantic Church of the Brethren group at Worcester. That evening they were presented a check for $2,500 to help furnish the new dorm. "We must constantly be in contact with people interested in the College" pointed out the president for "they are our life blood."

Constant Pressure

At this point in the interview the phone had interrupted our conversation three times and requests or problems were laid in the lap of the president. The brief time alloted for the interview was quickly coming to a close and from the anteroom came constant sounds of visitors being cared for by Mrs. Anna G, Smith, the president's secretary.

The phone conversation came to a close and the president remarked "I speak in the interest of Juniata College." A simple statement that was accentuated when he added another note to the long list of engagements he had to make in the coming month.

Along with this amazing list of duties that he somehow manages to keep straight, during the month of November he also attended three major meetings with groups in which he holds major positions. The Presidents of Pennsylvania Colleges and Universities had their annual meeting in Hershey during the past month.

"This group", he explained, "deals with the educational means of Pa. in the next decade when the tremendous increase in young people of college age will present a major problem to educators."

He also attended the autumn meeting of the General Brotherhood Board of the Church of the Brethren in Elgin, Ill. Serving as chairman of the board of this administrative agency of the church, he is given additional duties to perform.

On Evaluation Comm.

For six years he has served as a member of the Commission of Institute of Higher Education, a group associated with the Middle Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Last month his commission completed the evaluation of George Washington U.

The phone rang again and we brought the interview to a close. The anteroom was crowded with people waiting to speak to the president as soon as he was free.

If you want to become a college president it might indeed be an envious position but consider the tremendous tasks carried on by our own president. And we think we have problems just being students at this small liberal arts college!

Choir And Cast Add Final Touches To Christmas Cantata, Petit Noel

By Mary Jane Hershberger

Miss Mary Jo Pfotenhauer has announced that the finishing touches have been added to the annual Christmas Pageant.

This year's pageant, presented by the Chapel Choir and a selected cast under the direction of Miss Pfotenhauer, will be performed in Oller Hall, Sunday afternoon, December 12 at 3:30 P. M. All students and faculty are cordially invited to attend this production.

Based On Carols

Written by Pearson Underwood and Lawerence Perry, "Petit Noel" (Little Christmas) is a Christmas Cantata as simple, reverent and occasionally, uneffectedly gay, as its name and the old French noels, or carols, on which it is based.

The scheme of the Cantata is suggested by the carols themselves. The old carol writers possessed the native attitude of children; to them, the Christmas Story was actual, not far away. Just as the medieval artist always portrayed the Shepherds at the cradle in the costumes of his own day so do the writers of carols. Bethlehem never seemed far away.

Bethlehem Near

It was perhaps two villages distant. Thus, quite naturally, in carol after carol, the French villagers wind their way to the manger, there to watch with their own eyes the arrival of Joseph and

Annual 'Christmas Carol' Scheduled For Mon. Night

Christmas activities will follow the usual JC tradition this year, according to Nan Heller, chairman of general activities.

Highlighting the Yuletide events to be held during the coming week will be the annual reading of Charles Dickins' "A Christmas Carol" by Dr. Harold Binkley. Monday at 7 P. M. he will present an abridged version of this famous English tale in the social rooms before a lighted fireplace.

The tradition was initiated by the late C. C. Ellis, former president of Juniata, and has been continued for the past several years by Dr. Binkley.

Caroling Tonight

The first of a series of informal carolings will be held tonight after dinner in the social rooms. Other such affairs will be held at the same place at corresponding times on Sunday and next Friday evening.

Wednesday evening at 8:30 a party of carolers will be organized in the social rooms by Jeanne Baker and Andy Pastuszek. The group will circulate through the streets of Huntingdon singing Christmas carols. At approximately 9 o'clock its members will return to the library where they will continue their singing.

Morning Caroling

Next Saturday morning, December 18, at 5:30 A. M. a group of JC students will convene in the social rooms and from there will move to the homes of faculty members where they will blend their voices in a cheery carol or two. Next they will go to the home of President and Mrs. Ellis. From there they will return to campus just in time for breakfast.

All students are invited to help continue JC Christmas traditions by participating in these activities.

Basketball And Dance To Close Twirp Week

Tomorrow, December tenth, is the girls' last chance to Twirp the guy of their dreams.

Following the basketball game with Franklin & Marshall, the girls will drag their Twirpees over to the Womens' Gym for a Twin Dance. Each couple is expected to wear look-alike outfits. For example, sweaters of the same color, skirts and trousers of the same material, and so forth.

The time will be immediately after the basketball game, refreshments will be served in Totem Inn. We urge everyone to attend—after all, gals, opportunity knocks but once a year.

Nels Griffith Combo To Play At JC Dance

The annual Christmas Banquet and Dance, both formal, have been scheuled for December 14.

Dinner, sponsored by Women's House will begin at 6 P. M. Everyone is to meet in the Social Rooms at 5:45, where group singing will preceed the meal. Banquet entertainment, for which Dick Livingston will serve as toastmaster, includes a faculty speaker and the Harmonettes.

Nels Griffith, a Juniata alumnus, and his combo, will provide the music for dancing from 8:30 to 11:30. By a vote of the Social Committee corsages will not be in order.

Mim Myers heads the committee in charge of the dinner, while Jeanette Lowe will take care of decorations, and Bud Douds, refreshments, for the dance.

Thursday's Christmas Party To Provide Fun For Children

The annual Children's Christmas Party, sponsored by the J. C. A., will take place in the Women's Gym, Thursday evening, December 16, from 7:30 to 9:30.

The program as presented by Allegra Forney and Doris Markey, co-chairman, will include: carol singing, children's games, and a Christmas story, with refreshments being served throughout the evening.

Highlighting the party will be the arrival of Santa Claus, who will be portrayed by Ernie Lashlee.

The purpose of the party is to provide underprivileged children with an evening of enjoyment.

The children who are obtained by the Salvation Army, will have Juniata students acting as their parents for the night. The "parents" are expected to surprise the child with a gift not exceeding $2.00.

Working to make this Christmas Party successful are the following committee chairmen: contacts, Dorothy Stricker; decorations, Lois Van Eerden; entertainment, Joan Schwartz; refreshments, Alice Waite; gifts, Carol Jenkins; and clean-up, Bill Collins.

Decorations Show JC's Xmas Spirit

The Christmas Spirit has hit College Hill as is proved by the transformation which occurred last weekend.

Cheers to the frosh who, under the direction of Andy Pastuzek did such a fine job of decorating the front steps with Christmas trees and icicles. Not only did this industrious class fulfill their obligation, but they went one step further and decked the front windows of Student's Hall with a gigantic Santa Claus.

Les Querry led the sophomores in giving Founder's Porch a Christmas atmosphere. The main features are two hugh wreaths on either side of a silver bell. Above the porch a "SEASON'S GREETINGS" welcomes all JC students and visitors.

Kass Keeler was in charge of the junior class project of decorating Totem Inn. They chose as their theme "Twas the Night Before Christmas," The juke box has been miracuously converted into a fireplace with stockings, while the columns have become snowmen.

Seniors, under Bill Garrison, took over the Social Rooms, completing the definite change of our campus. Entering under an arch of pine and colored lights, the first thing one sees is a beautiful, blue lit Christmas tree. Not neglected is the manger scene which helps us think of Christmas not only commercially, but also spiritually.

Chapel Choir To Sing In Chapel Wednesday

Monday the Reverend Mr. Marlin G. Bottiger will speak to the student body on the topic Christian Symbolism, which will be centered about the Christmas season.

Wednesday the Chapel Choir will present a musical program.

Friday the chapel service will be conducted by President Ellis.

Wet Weather Delays JC Pond Undertaking

Former chairman of athletics, Joe Hinish, announced this week that 'Operation Recreation' fell victim to inclimate weather conditions this fall. The project planned by the 1953-54 Senate is now in a stage of partial completion.

"The continued wet condition of the pit will not permit the use of a grader", he explained, "which is necessary to complete the job.

The unusual wet weather this past summer and fall made completion of the project impossible.

He emphasized that plans for the project have not been abandoned.

The cost of the project is underwritten by the college with labor being provided by the student body.

Hospitality Is Our Job

The story released in this publication last week concerning the reorganization of the sub-frosh committee should serve to remind us of an important duty each Juniatian must accept. Hospitality to the guests on campus, whether they be strangers or old friends, is a function for all.

Hardly a day passes when we fail to encounter someone on the campus who is not a member of the Juniata community. The treatment the guest receives from his hosts dictates the attitudes he will assume about the college. Each student on College Hill automatically becomes the host of each visitor to JC.

It matters very little whether he is the personal guest of a Juniatian, a businessman dealing with the college or the parent of a student; each and every visitor is impressed by courteous displays of hospitality.

Your responsibility as a student at Juniata does not end with courtesy and friendliness to everyday acquaintances. It extends to the people who are visiting our campus. We all know and appreciate the value of first impressions. The students themselves dictate whether a guest at Juniata is favorably impressed.

In the weeks to come the sub-frosh committee along with the offices of the director of admissions will bring a number of high school students to Juniata. We don't need to attempt to sell them on the idea of attending JC. That is not our purpose as individual students. The evaluation they draw concerning the college depends upon the students that compose the College.

The work of the sub-frosh committee will be lightened considerably if we simply obey the rules of hospitality when these students arrive on campus.

Use The Facilities

Trash cans have been placed at strategic places on campus during the past week. The reason for their appearance on College Hill is obvious!

There is also little need to explain the purpose they are to serve.

We simply want to remind you to use these facilities for the disposal of trash. Nothing degrades from the appearance of our campus more than a display of paper on the ground.

The Juniatian

Entered as second class mail at the Huntingdon, Pa., post office, this is an independent undergraduate newspaper published weekly throughout the College year except during vacation and examination periods by the Students of Juniata College.

The Juniatian is serviced by Associated Collegiate Press and is represented for national advertising by National Advertising Service.

This Week's Headline Review

Adlai Stevenson apparently opened the back door to the Democratic nomination for the presidential election in 1956. The appointment of Butler as national committee chairman vividly displayed his control over the party. The museum apparently holds Truman's last memories as a party spokesman!

A plan by Ike to utilize and not buck the new congress through use of partisan polotics seems to have encountered a new obstacle with the formation of the elbow club. The McCarthy backers and Senate majority leader Knowland's break with state department policies clarifies a Republican split which has been in the formative stage for two years. Attempts to reconciliate the factions seems at present to have ended in a bad stalemate.

Communist China launched a program early this week that appears certain to lead to a test of America's guts. A prelude of propaganda in true Communistic style seems to point to a move against Formosa and Chinese Nationalists. The U.S. landmark in the straits separating the island stronghold from the Red mainland, the Seventh Fleet has found the water getting hotter with each passing day.

In collegiate circles the prize debate of 1954 centers around the attempt in some schools to eliminate the debate question for this school year. The recognition of Peiping, according to some educators, if debated on collegiate levels could produce undesirable effects on the students involved. Interesting to note that several JC profs have shown a great interest on this attack on free debates in America colleges. Perhaps this new fear by some educators is simply another sign of our times.

Accent On Reading

A FABLE, by William Faulkner An Allegory of the events of Holy Week. The action takes place during the week of the false armistice in May 1918 and is filled with figures and events symbolic of the Passion and the few days preceding. The mutinous regiment, the old general, the corporal and his twelve deciples and the last supper of the condemned all fit more or less easily into a carefully patterned narrative.

THE MAGICIANS, by J. B. Priestley. A lively, unorthodox story of a middle aged man who believed his life was over and discovered it had just begun. A strange tale, and a humorous touching, dramatic, sharply satirical fable of modern contemporary value and feelings of old age.

THE FOUR CONTINENTS: entertainments and reflections on travel, art, and life, by Osbert Sitwell. Oyer Europe, Africa, Asia and America, the author's sharp eye has recorded impressions of people, places, and incidents with startling vividness.

Intercollegiate Chatter

By Nancy Freed

(ACP) A student from Michigan State drove his car into the dark woods near East Lansing and turned on the headlights the other night. Abnormal behavior, you may think. But this student was taking entomology and figured the lights would attract all kinds of bugs for specimens. The cops who buzzed in a few minutes later weren't thinking of this academic vein, however. They thought he looked mighty pecular running around i nfront of the car with a butterfly net. He explained that he really wasn't ready for the men with the white coats. Hope the professor gave him an A.

At the University of Cincinnati they have a new method to help deserving undergraduates through college. Seven undergraduates received scholarships for 1954-55 because fellow students failed to park their cars in the correct maner. There is a two dollar penalty for each offense.

Pennsylvania State University will be celebrating its centennial in 1955. Highlight of the occasion will be President Eisenhower as commencement speaker.

Many of the surrounding colleges are now sponsoring clothing drives for Korean people along with their Christmas parties for orphans and their World Service Fund (or similar) drives. Washington University has come up with a new way of putting spunk into their clothes collection drive. Any organization or group may choose a gal to represent them. Officially she becomes a candidate for Rag Doll Queen. A gayly decorated box representing each girl is placed some where on campus. At the end of the drive the girl's box containing the most clothing becomes Rag Doll Queen.

Macollege has assured their athletic teams of support through foul and fair weather by the formation of a pep club. The members must do various things such as help in pep skits, sell programs for the games, and wear the school colors at all the games. Points are given for the activities in which the members participate. When any one has reached a goal of 150 points he becomes the proud owner of a Pep Club jacket. Next in line is a sterling silver Bulldog, their teams being nicknamed the Bulldogs. 700 points is the requirement. The fame of the club is spreading; the spirit on Mac campus is zooming.

From Manchester College comes this cute litle quip. Some folks are born poor, but parents of college students get that way by degrees.

Gals! Some colleges are giving one lesson on how to catch your man at the yuletide dance.

Breathes there a man
So far abnormal
That he can't be stirred
By a low-cut formal?

Indians Outshoot Ursinus, 78-56; Handzelek Scores 20 In Inaugural

The JC basketball team opened its 1954-55 season last Saturday in the Memorial Gym by thumping Ursinus, 78-56. The Indians had a little trouble hitting the hoop in the early minutes of the game, but came to life late in the second quarter and the beginning of the second half.

Jake Handzelek, playing with a sprained right elbow, chucked in 20 points to lead the JC attack which netted 39 points each half. Ursinus scored 29 in the first half, while they hooped 27 in the second.

The JC cagers jumped to an early 2-0 lead when Lee Hallman scored on a neat tip-off play which caught the Bears napping. The Indians continued to a 6-3 lead, before Ursinus took a 7-6 lead. This was the one and only time in which the Bears held a lead throughout the entire ball-game.

Chuck Gross sent Juniata ahead to stay with a one-hand push shot from the corner. From this time until the half, the Indians held a five to six point lead, with the exception that Ursinus cut the lead at one time to 23-21. Just before the first half ended, Juniata widened the margin to 39-29, on six straight points by Vanderbush, Hallman, and Handzelek.

When the second half opened, the Indians continued their drive as Handzelek dunked a set shot, and Vanderbush added two free throws. The score at this point was 43-29, Juniata. Kerstetter, Handzelek and Vanderbush made the gap wider as they controlled the boards to make it 63-39. Coach Greene then sent in subs who finished the game, and held the starting Ursinus five on an even basis.

In a preliminary game, the Juniata JV's overcame an early deficit to win over the Altoona Undergraduate Center, 77-63.

The All-Stars celebrate their 2-0 victory over the Frosh in the I. M. soccer league. Great enthusiasm was shown in the sport's inauguration, and it is hoped that soccer will become a permanent sport on campus.

Three Old Names; One New, Lead In Basketball Loop

By Bill Smith

Three familiar names and one newcomer paced the boys I-M basketball league after two weeks of play. McKees Creek, Covites, Sunbrookers, and the Wolverines each won their first two.

The Creekers rolled over the Day Students 101-32 as Staley scored 25. They had a close one with the Jaguars though, needing 19 points in the last quarter to win 57-47. Paul Stevenson paced the promising Jaguars with 16.

Cove Wins Easily

Another team hit the century mark as the Covites walloped the Ramblers 14-36. Spangler 26, and Burkett, with 19 topped the scoring. The Cove also toyed with Players Inc. 73-12 as Spangler hit for 17.

Paced by Andy Balog the Sunbrookers beat the Deacons 53-35 and the Day Students 88-20. Balog scored 16 and 18, while Jack Padgett led the Deacons with 15 and Fritz Heydrick scored half of the commuters' 20.

Wolverines Surprise

The surprise team so far is the Wolverines. Led by Ed Kohl, who scored 54 points in two games, they have beaten the Dead Shots 73-58 and the Jabberwockys 43-32.

In the other games teams were better balanced. The Jabberwockys, after setting the season's high score 119-53 over the Players, were knocked off by the Wolverines and the Whips 65-39.

In other games Ron Runk with 21 points led the Jaguars over the Whips 76-50; the Deacons beat the Vets 59-37; the Pioneers won their only game 78-53 from the Bermudas. The Vets handed Players Inc. their third loss 34-24; and the Dead Shots then laid it on the Vets 66-36.

Kohl Leads Scorers

Top scoring performances in one game have been turned in so far by Kohl, 34, Kaylor and Smith of the Jabberwockys, 28 and 25, and Staley of the Creekers, 25.

Tarquinio, Three Others Receive State Honors

Joe Veto, recent senior captain-elect of the 1954 Juniata undefeated grid squad, added two personal triumphs to his final college playing days by garnering first team tackle positions on the Little All-America and All-State eleven.

● Joe Veto ●

High school and college teammate Pat Tarquinio also placed on the first team All-State selections. A third Stowe High member of the Juniata squad, Myron Sevick, was nominated for the third team.

Sevick On Third Team

Tarquinio accounted for 1,427 yards in eight games for the Tribe from his tailback spot, while Sevick was a senior standout on both offense and defense at the guard position and later at quarterback.

Barry Drexler, the pass-snagging end of the Indians received honorable mention, as did hard playing center John Staley.

Veto Only Pa. Player

In being nominated to the All-American squad, Veto was the only player from Pennsylvania on the first team. The extra-point kicking tackle proved to be one of the heaviest men on the squad.

Veto teamed with Penn State's Lenny Moore as the leaders of the All-State aggregation. The two major state powers, Pitt and Penn State joined Juniata in having more than one player on the No. 1 team.

Girls Basketball Loop Begins Season; Red Devils Defend Crown

The girl's intramural basketball league started off with a bang as Thursday Dec. 2, produced the first three games of the season which were followed by three more last Thursday night.

The first game on Thursday night was won by the Rowdies over the der Chums 30-23 and proved to be the closest contest of the night. Helen Schmedlen aided the Rowdie cause by tossing in 16 points. The Squaws assisted by the capable guarding of Nancy Grace, Becky Guyton, and Margie Moyer, shoved the Spoofers back for a 48-17 loss. Kinlock led the winners with 20 points while Wenger and Bridenbaugh led the losers with six points each. The Tri Delts managed to get by Minniehaha guards, to trounce them 44-2. Lee Englehart paced the entire force of forwards of the night with 22 points.

The top game on Tuesday night was the Red Devil-Krazy Kid battle. It was rough going all the way with the Red Devils coming out on top in the last few seconds by a 38-25 score. Jeanette Lowe was top for the losers with 16 points and Joyce Warfel led the winners with the same number. The der Chums rang up their second victory as they pushed the Punchy Pack back for a 55-19 loss. After their opening game defeat on Thursday night the Tri Delts spoiled the Spoofer's evening by downing them 26-14.

Next weeks action will find three games on Monday night; the Red Devils and the Squaws at 7:00; the Rowdies and the Tri Delts at 8:00; and the Minniehahas and the Krazy Kids at 9:00.

German Thanksgiving Festivities Include Typical American Meal

(Part Two)

In the afternoon on the way back from the post office I saw the wife of one of the American students here and I stopped to greet her. While we were still talking, the bus from Stuttgart stopped and three American music students got off. Since I was the only one in the group that knew everybody, I introduced them. Another student joined the group and I left to change my clothes since it was only an hour and a half until our Thanksgiving celebration

At 4:15 I took my umbrella (it was raining) and walked through the narrow crooked streets of the old city by old stone and wooden buildings that smelled like wine, past the centuries old church, through the market place where people peered from a very narrow street that led to the Schloss which is the castle of Tuebingen.

I crossed over a moat and went through a hugh stone door-way in the castle itself which led into the court.

Christmas Mood

I found that I was a little early so I waited in the court and soon the three music students came in. Together we went to the other side of the Schloss and looked over the stone fortifications down over many red tile roofs into Tuebingen which was resting in a bed of mist and fog. It was growing very dark and the lights from the houses through the fog gave more of a Christmas mood than Thanksgiving Day mood.

Other students had arrived so we all went into the Schloss chapel and had a Thanksgiving service led by two of our theological students. It was pleasant to sing the American hymns accompanied by the Baroque-type mechanical organ. The sermonette was well-thought and appropriate for the occasion and the group seemed inspired at the close.

American Feast

Following the close of the service we went down to a cafe by the edge of the Nackar river and had a real American feast with turkey, cranberry sauce, vegetables, potatoes, salad, and pumpkin pie. It was the first American meal I, and perhaps most of the others, had had since we left the States.

There were about fifty Americans present, mostly students, but also a couple of professors, and representatives of the American Information Service here. After listening to the experiences of one student who went to Paris, and the plans of another who wants to bicycle to Italy, those at our table accompanied the Stuttgart students to the bus, saw them off, and separated ourselves as we walked back through the city to our respective homes.

Sincerely yours,

Wilfred G. Norris

Sub-Frosh Will Spend Weekend At Juniata

This weekend will usher in the first of a series of sub-freshmen weekends at Juniata.

Approximately twenty - five prospective students will be on campus Saturday and Sunday getting a clearer picture of college life.

Registration for the weekend will be in the Social Rooms from 9-12 A. M., after which sub-frosh are free to attend the various classes for a sneak preview of what the profs expect of college students. Following dinner in the college dining hall, guided tours of the campus will be conducted.

The remainder of the afternoon will be given over to conferences with members of the faculty and mingling with upper classmen in the holiday atmosphere of Totem Inn. The home basketball game with F & M and an informal Twin Dance will climax the day's busy round of activities.

Pageant —

Mary, to hear the tidings from on high, and join in with their flutes and bagpipes, in the music of the angel's song.

Then as they like to imagine, they all return to their own village, to praise God in their church while the bells ring for Christmas morning. This is the framework of the Cantata; and while it differs from the usual presentation, it seems both natural and appropriate, considering the nature of the musical background.

Soloists Named

The Cantata is written for both mixed and solo voices. Those who have solos are: Barbara Orner, Aliceann Wohlbruck, Ann Yesko, Barbara Maurer, Phil Lanford, Bryan Stauffer, Bruce Dickey, and Jay Guyer.

Dramatization of the Cantata will be done by the following members of the cast: Joy Wenger, Mary; Barbara Phennicie, Hostess; Jackie Rowland, Betty Swope, Shirley McNitt, Angels; Sylvia Schuler, Janice Mertz, Villagers; Ron Morgan, Joseph Harvey Ressler, Jack Golden, Neil Spangler, Shepherds; Paul Amash, Harry Garber, Mark Beech, Kings; and Ron Deamer, Villager.

Registration To Start This Afternoon At 1:30

Registration for the Spring Term will be held in Students Hall December 10, 13, and 14.

On Friday, between 1:30 and 3:30 p. m. all seniors and students concentrating in home economics and music are expected to register. Juniors and sophomores whose last names begin with letters A-L are to register on Monday between 1:30 and 3:00, while those from M-Z are to register from 3:00 to 4:30.

Education majors are also expected to register at this time. Freshmen will register from 1:30 to 4:30 on Tuesday.

Students are requested to register at the appointed times. If a class or lab conflicts with the proper time appointed for registration, the student must appear either at registration on Friday or in Founders' Chapel on Tuesday at 10 a. m. with a written request. All registrations after Tuesday, December 14, will be considered late and subject to a late fee of $5.00.

Before coming to registration, students are urged to arrange for consultation with their faculty adviser or a department chairman. Students are also reminded to bring a pen to registration. Procedure will be as follows:

Upon entering Room C, students wil obtain the forms at Station 1 and work sheets at Station 2. They will then proceed to the advisers, who will be located in various rooms in Students' Hall. After all forms have been completed and initialed by the adviser, students will report to the check desk in Room C.

Registration is not officially completed until clearance by the Office of The Treasurer. Forms for this purpose will be available in that office from January 17 to 29.

On The Club Scene

Juniata's clubs are capturing the spirit of Christmas in their meetings this week.

On Thursday, December 16, the afternoon of the JCA Christmas party, members of the FTA will go caroling at the JC Blair Memorial Hospital. Those members of FTA who wish to make the trip are requested to sign the list posted on the bulletin board.

The group will leave from Founder's porch at 3:00. After the carol singing refreshments, including something hot to drink, will be served.

Friday night, December 10, the IVCF will hold its regular Bible study. It will be a continuation in the book of James. There will also be hymns. At this time the club will make complete plans for the Christmas party to be held Monday evening. The meeting will be at 7:15 in Founder's Chapel.

The following Friday, December 17, the meeting will also consist of Bible study and the singing of Christmas songs. In addition there will be a moving picture on the Christmas story.

This Friday night, December 10, there will be a combined meeting of the Outing Club and Scalpel and Probe. Mr. Chirk from Huntingdon will show movies of outdoor life which should interest both clubs.

The meeting will be held in Room C at 7:15.

The monthly meeting of the Tycoon Club will be held Friday, December 10, at 7:15 P. M. in the I. H. Brumbaugh House. The guest speaker will be Mr. C. R. Dillen, a Juniata graduate and representative of the Ward Trucking Company of Altoona.

Don't forget! The annual JCA Christmas party for underprivileged children in Huntingdon will be held Thursday evening, December 16.

Busy Spring Term Ahead Says JC Social Calendar

For students who wish to spend their Christmas vacation getting their social engagement book up to date, following is a list of the activities which have thus far been planned for after Christmas and for the Spring Term.

On Sunday, January 9, the advanced organ students will present a recital in Oller Hall. Later that same week, on Saturday evening, the Juniata basketball team plays host to Dickinson in the Memorial Gym at 8:30. Also for that weekend a career conference has been scheduled, and Fall Term classes end.

For the next two weeks, January 17 to January 31, students forego practically all other activities in order to cram for final examinations and then spend several days at home before the new term begins. However, psychological breaks, in the form of a Lycoming basketball game on Jan. 22 and a Community Concert, featuring the Baltimore symphony on Jan. 24, are on the agenda.

The Juniata College Touring Choir takes to the road for its annual trip, this year to western Pennsylvania, beginning January 29.

During February home basketball games with Shippensburg, Bucknell, Elizabethtown, Susquehanna, and Westminister are slated. On February 6 Spiritual Life Week, with Dr. Joseph Haroutunian as Spiritual Emphasis Leader, begins. A sub-freshman weekend has been planned for February 19, and on Monday evening, February 28, Carl Weinrich, organist, will present a recital in Oller Hall.

Students To Pay Bills As Registration Closes

Registration for the Spring Term will not be officially completed until clearance by the Treasurer's Office. Forms will be available in that office from January 17 to 29, 1955.

After financial settlement, students will receive the Student Copy Card stamped approved and one set of class cards. The appropriate card for each course must be presented to the instructor as a ticket of admission to class.

Students who have not obtained properly approved registration forms will not be admitted to the opening session of classes.

Classes for the Spring Term begin Monday, January 31, 1955.

Radcliffe Ruling Called Big Insult By Harvard Men

(ACP)—The current argument between Radcliffe and Harvard, according to the Wellesley College News, concerns the Radcliffe Social Committee's plan for a Christmas Formal with stags invited.

Chairman of Harvard House Dance Committees feel that this plan is an insult to undergraduate manhood. The tentative system would allow each girl to invite two stags to the dance in addition to her escort. Counter suggestions offer invitations to two Radcliffe girls apiece to the House dances.

Other dissenters at Harvard feel that stags will turn a quiet, sophisticated evening into a rat race, and they refuse to go to the Radcliffe dance as a spare.

Intro. To Stat. Class To Take Totem Poll

Instructor Nolan's Introduction to statistics classes are formulating a survey concerning Totem Inn. Questionnaires will be used in giving personal interviews to a random sample of students after the Christmas vacation.

All information will be strictly confidential. Each interviewer will give a number to each person interviewed and he and he alone will know for whom the number stands.

Cooperation from the rest of the student body is needed for this venture to be a success.

No Schedule Change In Effect Saturday

Dean Morley Mays has announced that there will be no change in the class schedule for tomorrow. The regular Saturday schedule will be in effect, with classes lasting from 8 A. M. until 12 noon. Lunch will be served in the Oneida Dining Hall at 12:15 P. M.

Classes will resume at 8:00 A. M., Monday, January 3.

Christmas Celebrations Vary In Countries Around The Globe

by Sandra Ewing

EED MILAD! CHRISTOS RODILSIA! No matter what language you say Merry Christmas, it proves to be the seasons greeting that prevails on an international basis, regardless of language, race, or creed, because of the birth of the Christ Child so many years ago.

On campus, there are a number of students from foreign countries, whose traditions vary from ours. I was fortunate to catch a few of these busy bees, who told me some interesting facts that I now pass on to you.

Christmas In China

May Tai, of China, tells us that the same Christmas transformation is taking place in her country, complete with shoppers touring the decorated stores, church programs, and homes being trimmed in the finest holiday style.

But this is a divided Christmas, for the non-Christians celebrate it merely as a holiday and many seek their holiday spirits from bottles. As for the poor, they never know of the joys of Christmas, simply because they cannot afford it.

A New Tradition

Finding industrious Chul Song Juhn was a difficult job but after chatting with him, I conclude that it was worth all the effort I put forth and then some. Juhn informs me that Christmas day is a national roliday in Korea, which has become popularized since the end of World War II in 1945.

Many of their customs are similar to ours, such as, special worship services, Christmas programs, gift exchanges between

Frosh Ingenuity Makes Lodge Cheery And Gay For Christmas Season

A bit of Christmas spirit today reigns over the Lodge.

In hopes that some small amount of cheer could be added to the place, Vern Johnson and a committee of volunteers set up a little tree in the social room of the west hall.

However, the guys didn't have a thing to put on it. That didn't seem to matter too much, though, for they decided to make their own decorations.

A brigade was set to cutting Santa Clauses out of magazines, while another group solicited aluminum foil to be used for balls and icicles. Blue tinsel and a huge star completed the decorations.

In keeping with JC colors, a gold colored drape was placed around the base of the tree and a blue crepe paper background was hung. The tree and a little fireplace erected in front of it are lighted by a couple of study lamps covered with blue paper.

It may not be the grandest tree in the world, but the spirit of Christmas certainly prevailed in the Lodge during and after its erection.

Editors Release Date For Next Juniatian

The editorial board of the Juniatian has decided that the next issue of the paper will be published Saturday, January 8, 1955. This is because of the fact that classes do not resume until Monday, January 3.

Identical Twins, Quads Debut At Twirp Dance

Last Saturday night's Twin Dance, sponsored by the Social Committee, saw the emergence of many identical duos on campus.

However, Eileen Gipprich and Bob Sill were chosen most nearly alike by a board of impartial judges, and were gifted with matching silver cuff links. The cuff links were sold to the Social Committee at a reduced rate, through the courtesy of Bernie Swartz Jewelers.

The winning couple wore identical red sweaters, with a blue and white stripe, gray slacks, and matching argyles. Receiving honorable mention as most comically-attired were the Bermuda Quartette, composed of Rosalie Langer, Bernie Cohen, Dottie Stricker, and Sam Douglas. These four students were dressed in matching khaki bermudas, white shirts, black ties, charcoal blazers, and white knee socks.

The Twin Dance, which followed the Juniata-F&M basketball game, climaxed this year's Twirp Week.

TEXAS REGISTRAR LISTS WRONG ROOM NUMBER

(ACP)—Everybody wondered why girls hesitated to attend the Speech Workshop at the University of Texas. For several weeks the workshop had been listed in the Daily Texan What Goes On Here column as meeting in Speech Building 121.

A quick check revealed the reason: the workshop meets in Room 122, not 121.

Room 121 has MEN printed on the door in bold, black letters.

Miss E. Doyle Is Director For "John Brown's Body"

Miss Doyle, Masque advisor and head of the speech department, has announced that the annual Masque production will be an original reading based on John Brown's Body, Stephen Vincent Benet's popular Broadway Hit.

• Miss Esther M. Doyle •

Tryouts, open to the entire student body, will commence the end of the week of January 2. The production will be presented in Oller Hall the evenings of March 11 and 12.

This type of play, which uses a minimum of scenery, was originated professionally by Charles Laughton when he presented Don Juan in Hell. Its run was so successful that the next season he decided to use poetry. Judith Anderson, Tyrone Power, and Raymond Massey starred in John Brown's Body that year.

The first time this type of drama was presented at Juniata was at Commencement two years ago. JC students, faculty, and administration were reportedly delighted at the reading of Evangeline, a narrative poem by Longfellow.

It was exciting because of its newness, Miss Doyle commented. She went on to point out that if enough campus talent appears at tryouts, this year's production will be equally successful.

She emphasized that in this type of drama physical characteristics are unimportant. We want people who can read, she added. They should have rich voices which are sensitive to mood.

Among the characters needed are Abraham Lincoln, John Brown, the two heroes of the Civil War, their sweethearts, and the Confederate hero's mother. A choir which will speak, sing, and provide sound effects will also be used.

Among the scenes to be depicted are the Battle of Gettysburg; the burning of Wingate Hall, a southern plantation home; the exchange of prisoners across the Ohio; and John Brown's raid on Harper's Ferry.

The audience, aided by the intonation of the readers' voices and the background provided by the choir, visualizes the scenes in their minds.

Miss Doyle issued a special appeal for ball room dancers who are proficient at waltzing.

Library Auction Begins Jan. 10

From January 10th through the 14th, the Pennsylvania Room of the library will be transformed from a studying place into the spot for the annual book auction.

Approximately five hundred books concerning many fields such as fiction, science, literature, history and art will be auctioned off by a silent bidding method. There will be a slip of paper in the flap where the student may write his name and indicate the amount of his bid. Bidding starts at five cents except for special or very new items and collections.

Bidding Begins Friday

The silent biding will cease at exactly 4 P. M. Friday, the 14th, and the auctioneer's job will begin. Active bidding will be held at this time for all books which were in demand. The highest bidder will be sold the books and a cashier will be there to receive the payment.

Students are reminded to check the books they want each day to make sure nobody is overbidding them.

Silent Bidding

Books which are obtained through silent bidding may be gotten from the library the early part of the next week.

The Pennsylvania Room will not be open to people who wish to study during the week of the auction as the tables will be used to display the books for sale.

Stauffer Will Speak In Chapel January 3

According to Mr. Jack Padgett, the chapel program schedule for the week of January 3 has been set up as follows.

Since Student Recognition Day is Sunday, January 2, Juniata will observe this day on Monday, the 3rd by having as its guest chapel speaker, Lloyd Stauffer, a junior pre-ministerial student on campus. Mr. Stauffer is the pastor of two churches.

On Wednesday, the Rev. Mr. Clarence Rosenberger, head of College-Church relations will deliver the chapel address.

President Ellis will speak on Friday.

Freshmen Elect Johnson Pres. Cline, Hess, Fassnacht Picked

Vern Johnson, Emporium pre-law major and football player, was elected president of the freshman class on the second ballot of the election Monday.

Other officers include George Cline, vice-president; Nancy Hess, secretary; Ken Fassnacht, treasurer; and Glenn Hassinger, chaplain. These too were elected on a second ballot in a close race dominated by much enthusiasm on the part of the frosh.

Johnson, attending Juniata on a football scholarship, was president of the student senate and his junior and senior classes in high school. He participated in football and basketball in both his school and community and was active in several other organizations as well. Because of an injury incurred during practice early this fall, Johnson was unable to participate in this year's gridiron activities.

Cline, whose home town is McConnelsburg, is a pre-med student. Miss Hess, Phillipsburg, is majoring in secondary education. Fassnacht comes from Denver and is a business major. A pre-ministerial student, Hassinger's home town is Huntsdale.

The first election, preceded by a talk on Parlimentary Procedure by Miss Doyle, was held during Freshman Assembly. The second ballot was held in Founder's Chapelafter dinner Monday evening.

The Season's Greetings And A Joyous New Year

From The Editor's Notes-

The notebook appears empty this week with vacation beginning tomorrow. However, we managed to pick up a few items of note to comment on this week.

We notice that the administration had absolved themselves from responsibility for student welfare traveling to and from school. It seems to us that this is an obvious conclusion. Didn't realize until they brought the subject up, that they were involved in that period of time.

Quote From Ike

One of the best comments we took note of during the week was made by Ike. When one of his aids noted that the McCarthy censure would end their worries from that angle he simply remarked, "I haven't been worried about that man for months." We imagine he was about the only person in Washington that hasn't been.

Westinghouse Corporation took up the banner of the small colleges this week. The officials of the company announced that they would add $1,000 dollars to each donation of the same amount one of their employees contributed to a college. Big industry has really taken the problem of finances of the small endowed college to heart.

Holiday Greetings

We would like to take this opportunity on behalf of the Juniatian staff to wish everybody on College Hill a Merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year.

WHAT PRICE EDUCATION

(ACP)—Gloria Mosolina, class of '49, studied hard for her pre-law degree at Syracuse University.

She then enrolled in New York University College of Law.

Success came at last to Miss Mosolina. She is now a stand-in for Marilyn Monroe in Hollywood. She hopes to be a stand-in for Zsa Zsa Gabor and finally be a star herself, the Syracuse Daily Orange reports.

"Great Expectations"

by Calvert N. Ellis

There has been a feeling of excitement and expectation on the campus this week! It is the week before Christmas,—and we are going home! No other time of the year creates such great expectations!

The stores have been decorated for more than a month and the advertisements have been larger and more enticing. There is so much from which to choose as we plan our Christmas shopping and to raise our hopes. Each day of the vacation is planned. Mother is making arrangements for the dinner—and all is in anticipation of Christmas eve and the day!

This is as it should be! The person without expectation is to be pitied. The future belongs to those who live in anticipation. We can cultivate our expectations and watch them grow. They are the dreams from which success and achievement are born. If we are looking for beauty we will find it. If we trust our fellows we will be surprised by their integrity. The glorious opportunity of youth is that we have time to see our expectations become realities.

Great expectations are not common. Our hopes and dreams are too often earth-bound and confined to conveniences and luxuries. The religious leaders of Palestine in the first century were looking for a powerful Messiah to throw off the burden of Rome and restore the kingdom to Israel. They missed the Babe in Bethlehem and never did get the chance to celebrate Christmas!

It is our privilege to recognize Christmas as a holy day,—God's chosen day on which his Son came into the world. It is a day for worship as well as feasting,—a time of sharing as well as expecting.

May our holiday be all that we anticipate in joy and relaxation! May it include understanding and acceptance if our dreams and expectations are not realized as we had hoped! And may we see again in the Christ Child our Saviour and the world's hope!

Intercollegiate Chatter

By Nancy Freed

At the University of Alabama a few years ago, a student received 13 B's and one F for work done during one quarter. The single failure was in a psychological course, "How to Study".

At the University of Washington it is now compulsory that all expestant graduates take tests on natural sciences, the humanities, and social studies. The examination is designed to test the general knowledge of the graduating student. The purpose is to get an idea of what the student has really learned in his four years of college. What a way to deflate one's ego!

Feel like dancing? Feel like cuddling up to that certain someone? Then you might take a long jaunt up to the Hotel Statler tonight to hear the new Sauter-Finnegan Orchestra make dreamy, danceable music for the University students of Buffalo at their annual Silver Ball.

The S award for study abroad during the summer months is once again being offered by the fraternity men at Pitt to one of the schools most deserving third year students. A very worthy project of the University of Pitt's affiliated men.

The following poem taken from the "Harvard Lampoon" is appropriate now that final exams are coming up:

I think that I shall never see
A mark as lovely as a B
A B whose fat and luscious curves
Will please the eye and sooth the nerves.
A B that drives away dull care
And bringeth gladness everywhere:
A B that may in time I wist,
Increase fourfold to make Dean's List.
D's are probably made by fools,
But not according to my rules;
For in this place it seems to me
That only God could get a B.

A Frosh from Westminster College made a short but to the point comment on Socrates after taking Humanities: "He talks too much."

From the Ursinus Campus comes this comment on Christmas: The avenue of approach to the wondrous message of Christmas is through the ties of family and home." . . . . to a lonely man, irregardless of his speech or color, the home to which he returns on Christmas eve is to him "he symbol of the Christmas spirit."

The Mail Bag

Ed's note— Volker Hiemeyer spent two years on College Hill as a German exchange student. The letter is addressed to the many friends he left here when he returned to Germany to complete his medical studies.

Dear Friends:

It has been six months now since I have left Juniata and I hope you will forgive me for not having written sooner. There were many letters which I have sent to the States in the meantime but you must realize that it is impossible to keep in touch with everybody. I therefore would like to take this chance to say hello to all my friends who have helped me to make my stay at Juniata College such a pleasant one.

Indeed, I am honestly often feeling homesick for Juniata. The thing I miss most about JC is the spirit which obviously has become a permanent part of the college. There is no spirit here at our Medical School, the reason probably is the fact that Munich has the largest Medical School in the country.

After I had taken up my studies in Germany again I realized that I had gotten a real good premedical training at JC and I gladly heard that the German university officials would give me credit for two years of medical studies.

Of course, I still got to do a lot here presently preparing myself for the first State Board Exam which I am going to take this coming February. If everything will work out alright I'll be finished with my medical studies 5 years from now.

I was very much interested in watching the college's football season. As a matter of fact I did not even have to wait until the Juniatian sports news reached me. On American Forces Network the broadcasting station for American troops in Europe and I add, German Exchange Students, I could hear the scores of most American college teams. I don't think I have to tell you that hearing each Sunday our team was still unbeaten, made me very happy.

If I have not written to everyone who has sent me a letter, please, be patient with me until I get all settled down again in Germany since it almost takes me longer to get readjusted here than it took me to adjust myself to the life in the U. S. A. Be sure, however, that I am glad for all the news and letters which tell me whats going on on College Hill.

Best wishes to all of you
Yours sincerely,
Volker Heimeyer

Christmas Poem Stated JC Style

By Nan Heller

T'was the week before Christmas
And all through JC
The creatures are stirring
As busy as can be.
No stockings get hung
On the drying rack bare
There's no time to wash stockings
Or blouses or hair.
No students are nestled
All snug in their beds
They're too busy cramming
Some facts in their heads.
They're going to parties
And banquets and such—
Let's face it! This Christmas
Is just too, too much!
With readings and themes
And buying gifts,too
This Christmas time brings
Just too much to do!
So Santa to cause
A real great sensation
Just bring us real quickly
That Christmas vacation.

KEGLERS KORNER

by Larry Confer

Only two games marked the action in the IM Bowling League last week as the Mountaineers and the IFT carted off 3-1 wins over the Alley Cats and Wildcats, respectively.

The Mountaineers were paced to their victory by Jim Cain and Ed Pallo, the latter having the best scores of the week, with a high single game of 189. The Alley Cats were led by Al Nyce and Dale Baugher. The loss dumped the 'Cats from a three-way deadlock for first place.

The IFT scored their first points in the league and moved out of the cellar in defeating the Wildcats Bill Shull was high for the winners and Doc Geiger set the pace for the losers.

Running The Gauntlet

by Fritz Heydrick

In a recent meeting held between the chairman of athletics and the Intramural basketball managers and players, one of the big problems discussed was the competancy of the officials who have been handling the games.

Many complaints have been received in this still young season. We have reason to believe that some of them should receive attention, while others are groundless. One of the most frequent gripes is about the ability of the referees to handle the game properly. As one of the players put it, "Our game was a mixture of football, soccer, track, and very little basketball."

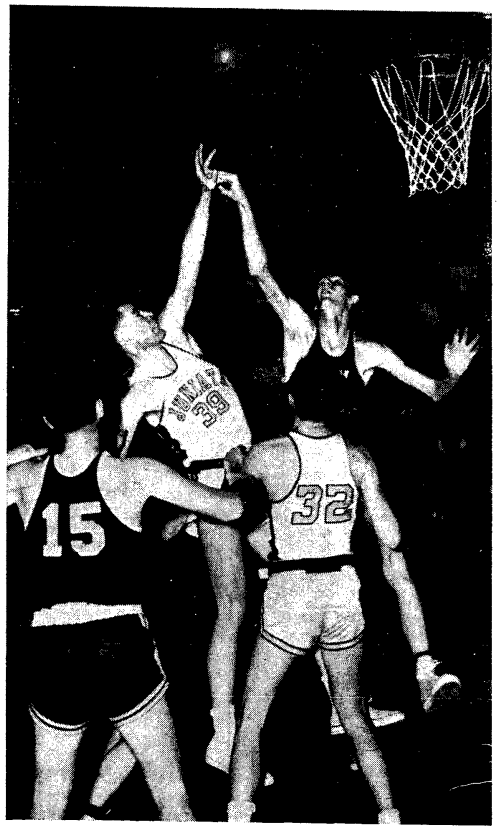
* * * *

The only solution to this situation is through the participants themselves. Chairman Godshall expressed his hopes that more fellows would volunteer for the officiating job, since his present list is too small to take care of all the games played. He also added that since it was a student organized and student-run league only student cooperation could improve the league. So what say, fellows?

* * * *

Another problem, although minor, which we would like to see corrected is type of whistles given to the officials. Since there are two games going on at once, it is rather confusing to the team on floor 1 when a foul is called on floor 2, because of the police type whistle used by both sets of officials.

This situation was avoided last year by having a horn substituted in one of the games for the conventional whistle. Certainly the same thing could be done this year!



A snap of the wrist and Walt Vanderbush racks up two points for the Indians in action on the home courts.

Three Way Tie Continues In Men's Intramural Loop

The Wolverines, Covies, and Sunbrookers rolled on at the top of the IM basketball league while the depleted McKees Creekers tumbled out of the first five. The Creek was passed by the Jaguars who continue to press the leaders.

John Staley's 35 points paced the Creekers to their third win of the season 89-28 over the courageous Players Inc. Don Bottomley had 18 for the Creek while Herbie Layman did his usual steady job for the Players with 11.

Brookers Stop Creek

The Sunbrookers ended the Creekers reign as top dog when they pulled away with a 58-47 victory in a preliminary to the varsity game Monday night. Andy Balog led the Brookers with 15 while Pat Tarquinio led the losers with 14.

Wednesday night the Covites made it two defeats in a row for McKees Creek with a 60-56 win. Bob Motisher hit for 13 for the Cove while Don Pheasant sunk 20 in a losing cause.

Wolverines Win

Meanwhile the Wolverines continued their winning ways to stay in the fight for first place. Ed Kohl again paced the Wolves with 20 in their 60-37 romp over the Ramblers. Glen Williamson scored 17 for the losers. Wednesday night Kohl again topped the scoring with 23 against Players Inc. in a 58-33 afair. Dick Lantzy backed up Kohl with 19 while Layman and Stan Conner each had 12 for the Players.

The Jaguars also kept in the running for a top spot with an easy 81-55 win over the Vets. Milan hitting with 28 and Ron Runk with 25 led the scoring parade. Ron Sklar with 17 and George Zeh with 15 kept the Vets in the game.

Jabbers Win Two

A revamped Jabberwocky team got back on the winning beam with victories over the Day Students and Dead Shots. Smith led their scoring with 17 in the 48-32 victory over the Day Students. It took a third quarter rally though to down the stubborn Shots 56-46. Gary Jackson paced the Jabers with 12 while Phillip of the Shots led all the scoring with 18 in a rough and tumble battle of rebounds.

In the only other game of the week the Bermudas downed the Deacons 48-28. Dale Baugher of the Bermudas was high for the night with 10 points.

Ed Kohl leads the individual scoring race so far with 97 points in four games.

Indian Cagers Beat LHSTC, F&M; Handed First Defeat By E-Town

The Juniata College cagers traveled to Elizabethtown Wednesday night looking for their fourth straight victory of the season, but found themselves on the short end of a 103-79 score.

Using only five men throughout the entire game, the Blue Jays took an early 8-0 lead before Jake Handzelek dumped in the initial Juniata bucket. In the uphill part of the first half E-Town had taken a comfortable 24-10 margin. At half time the Blue Jays had upped this lead to 18 points, and held a 44-26 advantage.

Game Opens Up

In the second half, the game became a wile open affair, with both teams scoring at will. In the last 10 minutes, the Braves lost the services of center Walt Vanderbush via the personal foul route, but managed to find their scoring punch in racking up 34 points.

This flurry also seemed to stimulate the E-Town five, since they rose to the occasion by scoring 37 tallies in this same period of time.

Blue Jay freshman star Jim Chase garnered scoring honors for the evening with 26 points. Of the other four E-Towners that participated in the game, three hit for over 20 points.

Hallman Stars

Lee Hallman led the Indian attack with 21 points, followed closely by Jake Handzelek with 20, and Walt Vanderbush with 17. The Tribe continued the amazing foul shooting percentage by cashing in on 19 out of 26 attempts.

The Indian JV's pulled their game out of the fire in the last few seconds by virtue of Doc Kramer's five straight points, which gave the papooses a well earned 69-68 win. They remain undefeated in three contests.

F&M - LOCK HAVEN

Juniatas cagers conquered their second and third rivals of the 1954-55 sesaon last Saturday and Monday nights. Franklin and Marshall proved to be a tough foe Saturday evening but the Indians battled their way to a 64-60 count. Monday the Lock Haven State Teachers furnished the competition and were vanquished by the Indians to a tune of 85-63.

Jake Handzelek was high scorer for Juniata against F&M followed by Kerstetter and Vanderbush, who played some inspired ball. Oriss, Boulton and O'Brien came off the bench to pull the Indians out of what looked like a severe tailspin.

Monday night proved to be somewhat of a repetition of the Franklin and Marshall game although Lock Haven was subdued a little earlier and easier by Doc Greene's cagers. Once again the terrible trio of Oriss, Boulton and O'Brien combined forces and with some applause-worthy offensive and defensive play stopped the spirited Lock Haven five. Handzelek repeated as top scorer for the third consecutive game dunking 28 points, his season's high.

Dickinson, G-City Hosts To Tribe In Post-Xmas Tilts

After a two week Christmas vacation from the basketball wars, Juniata will continue their road schedule by meeting Dickinson at Carlisle on January 5 and Grove City at Grove City on January 7.

Both teams will provide plenty of competition for the high flying Indians. Dickinson will carry a 2-2 record into the fray with losses to Penn State and Lebanon Valley, and wins over Elizabethtown and Johns Hopkins. Grove City is looking for their first win of the season after five successive setbacks.

The Red Devils from Carlisle are short on manpower this year, but already have given a good account of themselves. Football star Al Barilar broke his ankle in early season drill, and thus left Coach A. C. Ransom with a squad of 14 men, six of them lettermen. Of these six, three of them were starters last yaer. They are: John Dudas, 5-8 guard; Lee Huber, 6-1 forward; and Bob Varano, a 6-1 guard. All are seniors. Rounding out the rest of the lettermen are Tom Hester, 6-4 forward; John Kohlmeirer, 6-4 center; and John Pedkner, 6-1 forward.

At Grove Ciey, Coach Al Pesek is banking on a starting lineup of one senior, one junior, and three sophomores to carry the scoring punch of the Wolverines. Dick Mawhinney, senior; and sophs Del Hopkins, along with Jim McElrath are the tallest men on the squad, going 6-2, 6-4, and 6-3 respectively. The rest of the starting team is composed of 5-9 soph Bill Zacur, and 5-8 junior Bob Camel.

Wolverines Set Pace In Basketball League

At the beginning of the Christmas holidays, the Men's IM basketball league shows the Wolverines leading the field of 15 teams with four straight victories. Close berind them are the Covites and Sunbrookers, each with three successive wins. The three squads comprise the only unbeaten teams in the circuit.

Standings as of December 15:

Team	W	L	Pct.
Wolverines	4	0	1.000
Covites	3	0	1.000
Sunbrookers	3	0	1.000

Nace, Simons and Zimmerman To Attend Illinois Conference

Juniata will have three representatives among the 1600 college students attending the International Student Missionary Convention at the Universiy of Illinois campus on December 27.

This will be the fourth of such gatherings sponsored by the Intervarsity Christian Fellowship in cooperation with Foreign Missions Fellowship and Nurses Christian Fellowship.

What these missionary-minded collegians expect to do at Urbana is to face squarely the world's spiritual need and to consider what they should do to help meet it. In adition to more than 80 missionaries representing both denominational and independent boards, Christian leaders from a number of countries will take part in the program.

Group Meetings

One feature of the convention anticipated by students is the opportunity to discuss problems relating to their own life work, to conditions in various countries, and the requirements for different phases of missionary endeavor. All of this will be handled in small group meetings. Films presenting work in many countries will be shown each day. Off hours will provide time for interviews between students and Missionaries.

Christmas —

the men and women, and a type of caroling in which the church choirs serenade their ministers and choir members, who reward them with refreshments. Public planes, especially in the large cities, are decorated in the gayest holiday mood, but do not grace the private home.

Some of the biggest events are the performances of the three choral societies of Korea known as the Pilgrim Choir, Holy Bearer Choir, and the Oratory Society of which Juhn was a member and prominent in the bass section.

Holy Land Celebration

A Christmas celebration, which is indeed enviable, is that which takes place in Paul Amash's country of Jordan. Paul's home is what we call the Holy Land and is the recognized birthplace of Jesus, thus it becomes the center of world attention during the Christmas season.

Their celebration is entirely on a religious and even the gifts given have a religious significance. On Christmas eve, the people gather at the gate of the Shepherds, where a lamb is roasted on an open fire and distributed to the crowd. This ceremony signifies Christ as the lamb and all who partake of his flesh taste salvation.

At midnight they go to the Church of Nativity, where they sing and celebrate around the manger until dawn, when they will all depart to their homes.

Christmas Has Significance

Anastasis Shchirow gives us this information concerning the Christmas celebration of the Russian Orthodox. Their Christmas is scheduled by the Gregorian calendar and falls on our January 7. The whole emphasis of this day is the idea of giving not receiving.

Hospitality and Charity are the keywords during this season as the wealthy open their doors to share their homes and distribute hommade gifts to the poor. Also the unfortunates in prison and hospitals are remembered, and visited.

The day before Christmas, the people fast until they see the first star on the Holy Night, after which they celebrate with their family and friends.

In interviewing these people, I found what very wonderful young people they are and would like to remind the students of JC how fortunate we are to share our Christmas of 1954 with these cream of the crop students from across the sea.

Eight Juniata Seniors To Take Comps In Jan.

Eight seniors who will be candidates for degrees in January, and three other Juniata students, are scheduled to take comprehensive examinations on January 4 and 5, according to an announcement from the Registrar's Office.

In Division I, Joseph F. Moist and Jean E. Runnion will take comprehensives in English, and Margaret A. Hershey in languages.

Six Division II students will be taking the exams. They are James R. Kimmel, music education; Robert C. Motisher, economics and business administration; Elsie M. Haussler, elementary education; George J. O'Brien, history and political science; and Neil A. Spangler and Heidi Campbell, sociology.

In Division III, Frances M. Graupensperger will take comps in biology,as will May Len Yuk Tai.

Art Exhibit Planned

On March 2, Juniata hosts Indiana in a basketball tilt, the last basketball game of the season. Beginning on February 7 and continuing until March 26, will be the Liberal Art exhibit, to be held in the Pennsylvania Room. Also scheduled for that month is the Masque play, which will be presented on the evenings of March 11 and 12.

Group Caroling Set For 5:30 a. m.

Nan Heller, Chairman of General Activities, has announced that a program of Christmas caroling has been planned for tomorrow morning at 5:30. Students will gather in the social rooms and from there move to various homes, including the residences of the faculty members, where they will raise their sleepy voices in song.

After singing at the home of President and Mrs. Ellis, the carolers will return to campus in time for a hearty breakfast, which Miss Mathias will have prepared.

All students, and even faculty members, are invited to join in this activity.

Rowdies On Top In Girls League

The Rowdies took over first place in the girls' intramural basketball league last Thursday night when they down the Punchy Pack 37-30. The second game was forfeited to the Der Chums when only four members of the Minniehahas showed up for the game.

The Krazy Kids won the finale of the night by defeating the Tri-Delts 42-17. The Monday night games were postponed because of the boys' varsity game.

Annabelle Poneroy, Punchy Pack forward, led the scoring for the night with 18 points. The guards, however, were the show of the night as was evidenced by the low scores.

On The Club Scene

Anoher club has appeared on Juniata's campus. The newly formed German club has recently held two meetings.

Wednesday night the club, under the direction of Mr. George Dolnikowski, had a meeting in Swigart Hall. German cookies were served, carols were sung in German and Skip Osterling entertained with his accordian.

The regular meeting of the Intervarsity will be held tonight at 7:15 in Founder's Chapel. This week's Bible study will be concerned with the book of James, Chapter 5, verses 12 through 20. In addition to the short Bible study there will be a social. Members will go caroling to a few homes in the area. They will also deliver a basket of groceries to a needy couple. Upon returning to college there will be light refreshments and group singing.

The regular meeting of the Masque will be held on Thursday, January 6. The theme of the meeting will be centered around John Brown's Body. Dick Livingston will present a short acount of the historical significance behind it. Featured will be selections from the recordings of the Broadway show.

The meeting will be held in Founder's Chapel at 7:15.

The Camera Club meeting will be held Thursday, January 6, in Room B at 7:00. Room 104 at 7:00 on Friday, January 7, will be the scene for the Chemistry Club meeting. Definite plans for these two have not yet been set.

Don't forget these club meetings scheduled for the first week after vacation.

Comm. Reports Main Business List On Agenda

A series of reports from committee chairman constituted the major business handled by the Student Senate at their Wednesevening session.

Chairman of general activities Nan Heller reported that the attempted collection of dues in correlation with class registration produced varying results. Incomplete reports from two classes indicate excellent results while the other two failed to achieve the desired results. A further study of this program will continue.

Juniors Win Prize

The award for the best Christmas decorations was won by the junior class according to a report submitted by Bill Shull, chairman of social activities..

President Dick Fusco presented a summary of his meeting with department heads in an effort to secure several requests concerning the comprehensive question. He reported that in the near future the administration will issue a general statement explaining what the comprehensives will entail.

March 16 has been set as a tenative date for the Bloodmobile visit to the College, Joe Hinish co-chairman of this program reported. Hinish and co-chairman Nancy Nevin have been working on a publicity campaign for the projected visit.

Band Reorganized

The band committee, headed by Dan Raffensperger, has begun action in reorganizing the Juniata College Band. A constitution will will be submitted in the near future for Senate approval.

Two dates were presented by President Fusco for open-house in the new men's dormitory. (see story elsewhere)

Class Conducts Student Survey

The statistical survey on Totem Inn conducted by the Introduction to Statistics class is well underway. This week personal interviews have been given to a random sample of the JC student body by members of the class.

The survey committee, headed by junior sociology major Joyce Warfel, has made a study of various methods of correlation. The actual classification of data and correlation will begin today when the survey forms are given to the committee by the interviewers.

Objectives of the survey are to find correlations between the amount of time spent in Totem Inn and fields of concentration, between scholastic averages and the amount of time spent in Totem Inn, and enumeration of the average weekly student expenditure at the snack bar, the hours most often spent in Totem, the most popular reasons for going to Totem, and the most frequent criticisms of Totem, both favorable and otherwise.

Kistler Slated As Convocation Speaker

Dr. Raymond M. Kistler, president of Beaver College, Jenkintown, Pennsylvania, will be the guest speaker at mid-year convocation services. Known as a churchman, lecturer, author and educator he assumed his duties at the college in 1940.

● Dr. Raymon Kistler ●
Convocation Speaker

Dr. Kistler's abilities have been used in many positions in church and educational circles. He has been President of the Historical Society of the Presbyterian Church and a member of the General Council of that denomination.

Member of PACU

He has served as a member of the Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities, and as a member of the Executive Committee of the Presbyterian College Union. He is director of the Abington YMCA and of the Rotary Club of Jenkintown.

Before coming to Beaver, Dr. Kistler was pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church in Rochester, New York. He has held pastorates at the Eleventh United Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, the First Presbyterian Church, Warren and the First Presbyterian Church in Haddonfield, N. J.

Westminister Grad

A graduate of Westminister College and the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, Dr. Kistler has been awarded honorary degrees by Westminister College and Beaver College.

He is married and has a son and a daughter.

Mrs. Kistler is noted for her inspiration and friendliness.

Traveled On Continent

Dr. Kistler's travels in Europe, Africa and Palestine present a background for his lectures on strategic countries in current history, which gave the history, aims, ideal, conditions, and Christian influences of the nations now focal points in world events.

Winter Convocation

President Calvert N. Ellis will confer degrees on mid-year graduates at commencement services Monday, January 31.

A tentative lineup shows that nine students expect to be candidates for degrees at this time.

The commencement excercises will take place during the Winter Convocation at 9:30 in Oller Hall.

The main speaker for the event will be Dr. Raymon M. Kistler, President of Beaver College.

Classes will be shortened according to a schedule which will be released next week.

The Winter Convocation and commencement excercises will kick-off the new semester.

Masque Play Tryouts Will Commence Today

General tryouts for the major parts of the Masque performance of "John Brown's Body" will be held Saturday, January 8, in the afternoon from 1:30 to 3:30, and in the evening from 6:30 to 8:00.

If it is impossible to attend Saturday, tryouts will be held Monday, January 10 from 4:00 to 5:50.

You are asked to read some narration and a character part from the book which is now available in the library. The main emphasis will be on the ability to read narration and do characterization.

The chorus parts will involve both reading and singing, if interested see Miss Pfotenhauer or leave a message in the mail box.

Plans Announced For Final Chapel Services

Chapel programs have been announced for the week of January 10.

Monday, Miss Esther Doyle will give spiritual readings while on Wednesday an address by Reverend Himes of the Baptist Church in Huntingdon will be presented. Friday, the last chapel service of this semester, will feature Dean Morley Mays.

Students Will Testify: A College Education Is Actually Quite Flexible

by Joan McClure

It's all a matter of interpretation-
Poetry, symphonies, art, and inflation-
"There's nothing objective," says
the college professor,
Hence from Eisenhower back to Geoffrey Chesser
And even Genesis, we must treat as subjective.
Lest we foment the good Doctor's invective.
So around and around our teeming brains spin,
And we wonder if it matters at which end we begin,
For each course that we study is one vicious ring
That we're soon back where we started, without learning a thing.
What did Keat's mean when he said "Truth is beauty"?
To explain this is not your dear
pedagog's duty.
He merely evades it by assigning an analysis,
Then critizing your paper for innumerable fallases.
Each one is to draw his own personal conclusion
As to what factors give way to the French Revolusion.
Existentialism, relativity, the prof
raves and rants,
And most of the time it doesn't make too much sanse.
So the profs give vague hints
and make obtuse suggestions,
And barrage you with highly interpretative questions.
No doubt after fathoming, with no great facility,
Our way through four years of deep intangibility,
We'll leave the old campus with BA's and BS's
To don Army uniforms and faded housedresses.

Traveling Choir Plans Western Penna. Tour

The Juniata College Choir and String-Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Professor Donald Johnson, is at present preparing for a nine-day tour through western Pennsylvania, beginning January 29.

Their nine day tour will include appearances at churches and high schools in Rockwood, Meyersdale, Somerset, Uniontown, Washington, Pittsburgh, Ambridge, Sharon, Freeport, Irwin, Indiana, Shelocta, Windber, and Johnstown. They will present a program of sacred music for church audiences and a mixed program of sacred and secular music in high schools.

Now in its twenty-third season, the choir has a vocal section of 26 voices, in addition to a seven member string-wind instrumental ensemble which accompanies some of the choir's selections.

The College musical group is scheduled to give 36 concerts during the 1954-55 season.

Weeks Social Agenda Features Film, Dance

Everybody will be there, so why not come? The time? This Saturday night at 8:15. The place? In Oller Hall. The occasion? The showing of the movie, "The Leathernecks Have Landed".

It is the story of a happy-go-lucky and careless Marine, who was kicked out of the service and of his struggle to be reinstated. Make it the first social "must" for the new year.

Afterwards there will be informal dancing to records in the Women's Gym.

New Dorm Set To Open Soon Date Tenative

Dean of Men, James Penney has announced that the new men's dormitory will be ready for occupancy Monday, January 24.

Men who are planning on entering the dorm for the Spring term have been requested to move in at that date or the following day.

Private Homes

At the same time Penney announced that men moving out of private homes must make the move before Sunday, January 30. If the men fail to move before this date they will be required to pay additional rent to the householder.

Those planning other changes in room assignments not involving the new dorm or private homes may make the move before Tuesday, February 1.

Open House Planned

A full scale open-house program for the new men's dormitory has been tenatively scheduled for the first Friday and Sunday afternoons in February..

John Fike, Harold Brumbaugh, Dick Fusco and Dick Ikeda have started work on the program.

Dates Tenative

Friday afternoon, February 1, and the following Sunday afternoon have been set as the tenative dates.

During the afternoon hours the new dormitory will be opened for the inspection of students, faculty and administration of the college.

Town Folks Welcome

Contributors to the construction of the new resident hall have been invited to visit the premises at this time.

Refreshments will be served at the afair.

Music Students To Give Recital

There will be two recitals this weekend by organ students at Juniata College, to which all interested persons will be welcome.

The first recital will be this Saturday, January 8, at 1:15 P. M., in the Pipe Organ Studio, on the second floor of Oller Hall. These students will perform: Barbara Grim, Mary Hershberger, Alice Hoffman, Kerin Narbut, Lois Parker, Marlene Sterner, and Margaret Sims.

The second recital will be this Sunday, January 9, at 2 P. M., in Oller Hall. Students who will play then will be: Elaine Aitken, Jay Bowser, Lois Guldin, Jacquelyn Hayes, Richard Livingston, Marian Sue McElwee, Reta Peck, and Mary West.

The College String-Wind Ensemble will be heard in three selections during the Sunday recital.

Winter Wind And Snow Halts Debate Over Bermuda Shorts

(ACP)—The case of the "unsanforized pants," to quote a phrase from the Miami Hurricane, is losing ground on northern campuses with the arrival of winter, but north or south it was a dilly while it lasted. Look for a revival of the Bermuda shorts question next spring, although some campuses may try to skirt the whole issue.

Editorials, letters to the editor, pronouncements by deans of women, and numerous opinion polls in college papers marked the fray from week to week. As matters now stand, the fate of the long shorts, or short slacks, depending on your viewpoint, has been clarified in some schools.

Texas State College women may now wear Bermuda shorts on campus under certain conditions, the Daily Lass-O reports. The Student-Faculty conference unanimously voted that they may be worn for on-campus activities such as sports, picnics, production rehearsals, and "other specially designated situations subject to the dean of women's discretion." They may not be worn to labs or classes or most campus stores.

"Personally, I agree that Bermuda shorts do look better than blue jeans," said College President John A. Guinn, who presided at the meeting.

Meanwhile, the Ursinus weekly, at Collegeville, Pa., reports that the perplexing question has been solved. The student government women's council decided "to treat Bermudas separately." The Dean advised that they should not be worn to meals, in classes, in the library, to chapel, or in her office. Motion made, passed, and adopted.

Mlle. Art, Fiction Competition Presents Challenge To Coeds

The editors of Mademoiselle Magazine report that Mlle. is presently sponsoring a fiction and an art contest for college coeds. Any woman undergraduate under twenty-six years old who is regularly enrolled in a degree-granting college is eligible to participate in these contests.

Fiction Contest

For the fiction contest, stories that have appeared in undergraduate publications are acceptable if they have not been published elsewhere. They should run from approximately 2,500 to 5,000 words. Entries must be postmarked no later than March 1, 1955.

Art Work

Samples of any medium of art work will be acceptable in the art contest. A maximum of five samples of work previously done or work done especially for the contest should be submitted. The deadline for this contest is also March 1.

Prizes

Prizes will be $500 each to the two top winners in each contest and publication of the winning entries in Mile.

For further information contact the Juniatian office or write to Mademoiselle Magazine, 575 Madison Ave., New York 22, N. Y.

Editorially Speaking

Lets Be Considerate

The bi-annual period of reckoning is at hand. Within the next 18 days the work of one semester will pass in review for each student on College Hill. To a certain select few the struggles of four years of education will focus at this time.

During this exam period each semester it becomes the duty of each Juniatian to exert his best behavior. Dorm character at this time is extremely essential.

To many students the period of final exams appears as a moment of crisis. Others move into the final exam period with few worries.

But each of us must keep in mind a consciousness of our fellow students as we conduct ourselves in the next few weeks. Don't let some of your friends pass by the wayside because you were a rowdy.

Views On The News

The 84th Congress opened its deliberations, last Wednesday, with a number of new faces in both chambers. The notable thing about the new members happens to be that the majority of them were Democrats. Each in turn promising support to the Eisenhower administration when they find it feasible.

This friendly feeling ought to last until Ike presents his legislative hopes to the combined chambers this week. 1955 will be an interesting real for the legislative branch of our government.

* * * *

Yesterday Ike gave the annual State of the Union address. The main item of business seemed to be the request to up the minimum wage scale from 75 to 90 cents.

* * * *

Gun-slinging screen performers displayed an ability last week of outplaying real life 'cop and robbers'. Detective Mary Schanley spied pickpocket Henry Orlando working his trade in the Capitol Theater in Washington.

While putting the pinch on Martin he broke away and ran back into the theater. Detective Schanley fired two shots after the fugitive but only a few of the patrons in the movie house were detracted.

It seems the blazing guns on the screen outplayed the real bullets whizzing overhead.

End Of An Era!

The year 1955 will mark the end of an era in Juniata College history. A period of years aptly featured by the little green structure affectionately called 'The Lodge'.

Those of us who 'served time' in Sherwood Lodge still recall many memories of the experience. About as often these memories are illustrated with non-too-attractive adjectives of the descriptive nature. But we tend to forget the tremendous influence on the present life of the Juniata student that this green building symbolizes.

With the erection of the Lodge in the post-war period came the erection of a new, standard revised edition of social activity on College Hill. Some heretofore unheard of activities became part of JC and have remained an important segment of student life.

Our 'little green shanty' also symbolizes an outstanding increase in student population at Juniata. The end of World War II brought in the large influx of veterans to the educational institutions of America. Juniata was no exception and early figures of an ideal enrollment were altered to reach 600. For the past several years the 600 figure has become stabilized. Now with the new dorm, proper allocation has been made for the male population.

So this coming year, 1955, will indeed mark the end of an era for Juniata. The Lodge will no longer serve as a resident hall—but it will be long remembered as the incubator of social activity on College Hill. Those of us who invariably criticize the social lull on College Hill must pause when the Lodge is removed to pay tribute to the original inhabitants.

Long, Hard Haul!

The report from Dan Raffensperger on the progress of the band committee at Senate meeting Wednesday evening marks the beginning of work which we hope we emancipate the Juniata College band.

The band begun re-organization steps that should lead to internal strength among the members themselves.

It seems like the long way around in our attempt to secure new uniforms but it is the best way to avoid nasty pitfalls.

THINGS THAT COUNT

Ed's Note—During the vacation Dan Raffensberger and Sam attended the National Student Assembly of the YMCA and YWCA in Kansas City, the theme of which was "Where Are You?"

The curtain rises; the play begins. It is time immemorial. The scene is a quiet,, peacful garden. A lone man, clothed in a simple garment of leaves, crouches fearfully behind a low hedge. Suddenly, from nowhere, a voice calls, "Where are you". The man starts, looks fearfully around, and answers, "I am hiding." The curtain closes.

Soon it re-opens and Act II begins. The time is the present. The scene is a bustling city thoroughfare. Evidences of advanced technology are everywhere. High on the left a Gothic spire rises heavenward. Gaily chatting, a group of people make their exit from the doors of a large church. Again, from nowhere, a voice calls, "Where are you?" One man starts, looks around fearfully, and shrugs his shoulders, continuing down the street. The curtain closes.

There is a striking difference between the man in Act I and the man in Act II. The man in Act I heard the question, realized where he was, and answered. The man in Act II, however, heard the question, closed his mind, refused to answer, and lost himself in the crowd.

The first man in the play is, of course, Adam just after he had tasted the Fruit of Knowledge in the Garden of Eden. Adam knew that he had done wrong, so he tried to hide from God. However, at God's call, Adam answered. He realized where he was—not just hiding, but that by sinning, he was alienating himself from his Creator.

But who is the man in Act II? He is Man, 1955. However, he is unreceptive to the call of God, so unreceptive that he shrugged it off.

This man had let the pressures of conformity push from his mind the message from the past which lives in the present and which is the hope for the future. He had closed himself to the will and call of God.

Act III is now to come. The actor in it is not Adam or Average Man, 1955. In it You are the man. Where are You? Will you answer?

Accent On Reading

THE CENTURY OF TOTAL WAR, by Raymond Aron. In a sustained view a French commentator surveys the history of the twentieth century, analyzing the causes and results of its wars, the ambitions of its people, and possible future alternatives to worldwide conflagration. Neither unduly pessimistic nor overly optomistic, the author appears convinced that the future can be met and shaped by overcoming a tendency toward resigned defeatism with faith, courage, and cooperative planning on the part of the free world.

REPORT ON AFRICA, by Oden Meeker. A comprehensive report on what Africa is like today—a paorama of a changing Africa, a continent of great and rapidly increasing importance in the world scene. Not only a political study but also a revelation of the character of the place and people—descriptions of customs in dress, architecture, and entertainment.

Tribute To Sliderule Stated By Engineers

The sliderule's my guardian, I shall not fail;
It letteth me lie down before morning.
It giveth me the right answers;
It restoreth my calm.
It leadeth me in the paths of correctness for my grades sake.

Even tho I walk thru the valley of the shadow of an exam,
I fear no problem; for my sliderules with me;
Its slide and its hairline
They comfort me.

It preparest an answer for me in the presence of my questions;
It anointest my head with knowledge,
My paper runneth over.

Surely answers and A's shall follow me all the days of my life:
And I shall dwell with my SLIDERULE forever.

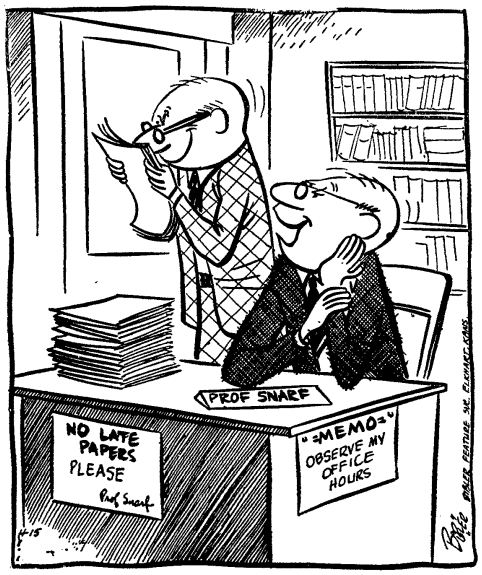
LITTLE MAN ON THE CAMPUS By BIBLER



"I always write my remarks illegibly, it makes it harder for them to complain."

Intercollegiate Chatter

By Nancy Freed

A faculty member from Allegheny College, on demonstrating the principles of a slide rule, dropped this little gem: "2x3—5.999999—let's call it 6."

The following formation appeared in the Alliance College paper. It may be of value to you. "The Christophers are offering $4,000 in cash for the best short stories of one thousand words, on the following subjects: 1. Teenagers can shape the future; 2. Changing the world through the housewife; 3. Improving labor conditions; 4. Private property is the right of all. The winning entries will be used for basic scripts for dramatic half-hour presentations on nation-wide Christopher TV programs.

Students interested in entering this contest should forward their inquiries to the Christopher Contest, 18 East 48 Street, New York 17, New York.

Westminister seems to have the typical social problem of all small colleges—three dates with a certain guy or gal and you are automatically labeled. Susan Scott, author of the article appearing in their paper on the matter, says "the girl who san date? ? ? ? "the girl who can date a different guy every weekend and still keep her legitimate popularity and sanity is getting awfully hard to find these days." Needless to say, the problem will continue to perpetuate on their campus and ours as long as those "labeled persons" permit the members of the opposite sex to develope a "laissez faire" or "admire from the distance" attitude.

Students at Hood College find the Japanese vocabulary "new and different". To their best gentleman or lady friend they say, "Honey you are really ichi-ban!" That means he's strictly number one or the greatest. When you discover we're having warmed over thrice times brussel sprouts you can say, "Skoshi please". It means "only a little bit please," The list of words they have adopted is long. Isn't it strange how college students are always more eager to learn that which is not assigned.

One of the most pathetic and heart-rendering tales that is being scattered among the unformed intellects of informed Villonavans concerns the plight of three unhappy ink drops. It seems that they were sad because "their mother was in the pen and they didn't know how long the sentence was going to be."

KEGLERS KORNER

by Larry Confer

In the final week of action before the Christmas vacation only two scheduled matches were run off in the IM Bowling League. Both matches were marred by ties which necessitated, for the first time in the league, the use of the half-point scoring system.

The Mountaineers dropped theirtwo games to the Alley Cats and then came back to take the third game and gain a tie for total pins thus salvaging for themselves 1½ points to the 2½ collected by the Cats. Ed Pallo rolled the highest match of the season (497) to lead all Mountaineer scoring. Al Nyce and Dale Baugher were high scorers for the Cats.

The IFT and the Flames rolled to a stalemate in the first game then each team took one of the next two games. The IFT also captured a point for total pins giving them 2¼ points for the four possible. Bill Smith and Bill Shull were high for the winners and Klare Sunderland stood out for the losers with a 464 series.

150 Games—Pallo 189, 163 Nyce 183; Sunderland 170, 151; Baugher 152; Confer 158; Smith 150.

High Individual Scores—Pallo 189, 497.

High Team Score (Single)—Mountaineers 664

High Team Score (three games) Mountaineers, Alley Cats 1844

Handzelek Leads JC Hoopsters In Scoring

Scoring figures for the first four basketball games played by Juniata's hoopsters show Jake Handzelek leading the Indian offense with an even 90 points.

Handy Jake has dumped in 35 field goals in 86 attempts for a 40.7 percentage and added an amazing 20 fouls in 24 attempts for a 83.3 percent. This is the third straight year that Handzelek has led the Tribe offense.

The JC point getter is well behind his record breaking season average of 26.3 last year, although he has an average of 22.5 points in the first four contests. His best night was a 28 point effort in the 85-63 victory over Lock Haven STC.

Lee Hallman and Walt Vanderbush are closest to Handzelek in scoring with 42 and 41 points respectively. Captain Chuck Gross holds the best shooting percentage among the regulars with 42.7.

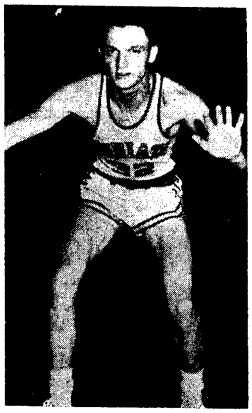
Indian Cagers End Road Trip At Geneva; Lose Second To Dickinson Five, 73-63

The Juniata College cagers dropped their second straight away game of this season Wednesday evening to a tune of a 73-63 defeat at the hands of Dickinson.

However the Junior Varsity came through with their fourth straight win under the leadership of Coach Hicks.

The Red Devils of Dickinson jumped to a 17-10 advantage at the mid-half largely through the efforts of Conor, who held the hothand throughout the game. Connor was high for the evening with 11 field goals and 5 fouls for a total of 27 points. Five men hit double figures for Juniata but the total was just not enough to overcome Dickinson on the latter's home court.

The Juniata JV's had little trouble downing the Red Devil's Junior Varsity. Led by McLaughlin with 23 points and Minelli with 19, Coach Hick's little varsity presented him with his forth victory in as many games.



Pistured above is Chuck Gross, returned Korean War veteran, who was recently elected captain of the 1954-55 Juniata Basketball team.

Doc Greene's Indians will close out a two day road trip and play their third away game of the week at Geneva tonight. They met Grove City last night in the first leg of the trip.

The Gold and White Covies of Geneva are not the powerhouse they were for the past two years. Twice small-college champions of Pennsylvania, the Beaver Falls team has been hit hard by the loss of two key performers, Howie Stewart and Bill Blair. Stewart, captain and playmaker for two years, has graduated, while Blair, their great shooting ace, has dropped out of school.

Geneva is still a potent contender but blows hot and cold. They beat Baldwin-Wallace by 18 points but were upset by Indiana STC 89-82.

Heading the squad is 6'5" junior center Stan Yukica, a main cog in the Covie attack last year. At forwards are 6' Lenny Clarke and 6'4" Ken Woodeshick. At guards are two sophomores 6' Otto Prichard and 5'8" Tony Bernardi.

If Geneva coach Cliff Aultman can mould his young team around center Yukica successfully, they will be nearly as dangerous as last year.

Covites, Wolverines Lead IM Loop; 'Brookers Lose First To Jaguars

The men's IM basketball league turned into a two team race as play reached the half way mark this week. The Wolverines and the Covites continued unbeaten, while the Sunbrookeds suffered their first loss and dropped to second place.

In pre-Christmas activity, the Covites picked up one of their wins at the expense of the Vets, 72-41. Sklar was high man for the night with 23 points, all for the losers. The Whips outscored the Deacons for their third win, 58-46. Staufer led the Deacons and both teams in scoring with 15 markers. The other game showed the Pioneers taking advantage of the hapless Day Students, 77-30. Bill West bucketed 16 points to lead the winners.

Wolverines Stop Whips

Last Monday night, the Sunbrookers gave the Players Inc. a sound thrashing, 104-43, thus shoving the Players deeper in the cellar. Lefty Alderfer burned the cords for 36 counters to lead the Brookers, while Herb Layman swished 30 for the losers. The Wolverines found the Whips a bit stubborn, but at the final whistle, they held a 54-47 advantage. Fassnacht led the Wolverine scoring with 23. Finally, the Vets took it on the chin again as they dropped a 52-36 decision to the Bermudas.

Two games played Wednesday proved to be thrillers. The hard-fighting Jabberwockies almost upset the Sunbrookers, but lost a tough 51-49 decision although they put on a twelve point splurge in the last frame to counter a 43-37 Brooker lead at the three quarter mark. Andy Balog hit for 23 for the winners. The other contest pitted the Pioneers vs. the Ramblers, with the Pioneers coming out with a 61-54 win. Chuck Seely led the losers and both teams with 20 points.

Jaquars Surprise Sunbrookers

A fired up Jaquar team finally halted the Sunbrooker win streak at five, when they pulled a 47-41 upset on Thursday. Getting led the winners with 17 points, while Balog led the surprised Brookers with 10. The Jabberwockies found themselves in rough company for the second night in a row, as they lost to the revamped McKees Creekers by the same score, 47-41. The scoring was evenly divided, with Ron Bechtel of the Creekers leading the way with 12.

Other action saw the Pioneers taking the measure of the Deacons, 64-42. Fran Wampler and Al Nyce led the winners with 17 markers apiece. Finally the winless but happy Day Students dropped their sixth game in a row to the Covites, 74-39. Russ Hill paced the victors with 14 points.

Fifteen Varsity "J"s Awarded Football Team

A total of 15 varsity letters were awarded to Juniata College's 34 man football squad which romped through two seasons without a defeat.

Heading the list was Joe Veto, senior tackle and captain from Stowe High, McKees Rocks, who gained special recognition for being named to the first team Little All America and All-State.

Another singled out was Pat Tarquinio, triple threat tailback also from Stowe High, who was named to the first team backfield of the All-Pennsylvania squad.

In addition to Veto, two other seniors received letter awards. Myron Sevick, another Stowe High product and a guard on the third team All-State, and Fran Wampler, wingback from Pottstown, completed their grid careers.

The list of lettermen:

Ends—Keith Birmingham, Coraopolis; Bud Douds, McKees Rocks; and Barry Drexler, McKees Rocks.

Tackles—Charles Mullen, Altoona; Joe Veto, McKees Rocks.

Guards—Charles Haines, Conemaugh; Bill Haushalter, McKees Rocks; Myron Sevick, McKees Rocks.

Center—John Staley, Tarentum

Backs—Ron Bechtel, Roaring Spring; Don Pheasant, Mill Creek Bob Sill, Altoona; Pat Tarquinio, McKees Rocks; Fran Wampler, Pottstown; and John Winterstein, Shickshinny.

Squaws, Rowdies Fight For Top Spot In Girls IM Basketball League

The girls' intramural basketball league resumed play Monday night with three games on tap. The Squaws nudged out the Red Devils 31-29 in the first game, the second game was forfeited by the Tri Delts to the Rowdies 2-0, and the Krazy Kids took the final game 59-7 at the expense of the Minniehahas.

Vinnie Burdge was the sparkplug for the Squaws as she dropped in a grand total of 21 points. Doreen Fyock was high for the losers with 14 points. The Squaw guards in Margie Moyer, Nancy Grace and Becky Guyton, appeared to be the two points difference in the ballgame as they held the Red Devil forwards well in tack.

The final game of the evening featured the smooth shooting forwards of the Krazy Kids. Their slick passing enabled Jeanette Lowe to toss in 25 points, high for the night, and Norma Hottle racked up a total of 22 points.

Games on tap next week will be the Der Chums vs. Red Devils (7:00); Punchy Pack vs. Minniehahas (8:00); and Spoofers vs. Krazy Kids (9:00) on Monday night. On Thursday night the Punchy Pack meets the Red Devils at 7:00; the Squaws play the Tri Delts at 8:00 and the Spoofers and Minniehahas tangle at 9:00.

Interested Residents Attend Community Education Series

Last Monday evening 41 Huntingdon area residents registered for courses in Juniata's fourth annual series of short courses "designed to meet the needs and interests of the adults of the community."

Courses to be offered include Oil Painting, a twelve week course to be supervised by Professor Wilson; Income Tax Problems, a six week course taught by Miss Miller; and World Politics, a ten week course presented by Dr. Crosby and Mrs. William S. Livengood.

Because interest was shown in sewing and cooking classes, possibilities of offering them will be investigated, Mr. Engel, Registrar, disclosed.

Courses are intended to meet once a week for two hour classes, There are no formal requirements for admission and no academic credit is awarded.

Book Auction Starts Monday In Pa. Room

At 7:45 Monday morning silent bidding will begin in the annual library book auction. Friday at 4 p. m. the sale will be concluded by an auction of special items by Mr. Bedient, head auctioneer.

Silent bidding will continue from January 10 to January 14, with bids for most items beginning at 5¢. The student should enter his name and the amount he is offering on a slip of paper that will be located in every book which is being sold.

Another feature will be a collection of special items including text books on a separate table in the Pa. Room. Bids for these will begin at a rate slightly higher than that asked for other books.

The Pa. Room will be closed Saturday and Sunday so that preparations for the auction can be made.

On The Club Scene

With vacations over, Juniata's clubs are back on the calendar with meetings scheduled for this week.

The Intervarsity Christian Fellowship will not hold their usual Bible study. Instead there will be a panel discussion on missionary work. This is in preparation for the visit next week of missionary Dr. Whipple. He will speak through his own experience on missionary work. This week's meeting will be held Friday at 7:15 in Founders Chapel.

FTA To Meet

The FTA will hold a meeting Jan. 14 at 7:15 in Room C. The meeting will be turned over to several of Juniata's student teachers who will tell of their recent teaching experiences. Plans will also be started for the convention to be held on our campus in the spring.

There will be a meeting of the Tycoon Club next Friday evening, Jan. 14 at 7:15 P.M. in the I. H. Brumbaugh House. A guest speaker has been engaged and plans will be discussed for the Spring Calendar.

Officers Elected

At the last meeting of the newly formed German Club, officers were elected. Don Davis was chosen president; Jim Cummins, vice-president; and Barb Maurer, secretary-treasurer.

Short Story —

At Miami University, Coral Gables, Fla., Bermuda shorts on boys made their fall debut amid howls of protest from indignant coeds, whose pretty knees have been restricted. An investigation by Evelyn Savage of the Hurricane staff revealed that girls think they should be able to wear Bermudas on campus.(On campus, short shorts on girls are classified as bathing suits and must be worn with a skirt to and from cars.) Bermuda shorts have been placed in the same catagory as slacks and pedal pushers, "and one may traverse only to and from a car without a skirt." (Girls that is.)

The girls feel they look more attractive in shorts "than the usual knobby-kneed, bow-legged male." (The Hurricane story was written, of course, by a girl)

"One unbiased boy" claims that "Boys like to look at girls' legs, but do girls like to look at boys' legs?" (Who among us would cry "Nay!"?) The female viewpoint chosen for the Hurricane survey (written by a girl) continues, "Why can men with their boney, hairy legs go around campus in colorful Bermudas while the more shapely cosmopolitan misses aren't allowed to wear them?"

Indian Broadcasting Company Given New Dior Look

Radio Station WJC, pictured above, has been given the new, fashionable Dior look through the efforts of staff members. Compactness has become the keyword for the 'Voice of Juniata College'.

G. Hyssong Directs Big Studio Reconstruction

WJC Radio Station has been given the new Dior look—everything's still there but it's more compact.

Yes, the campus "radio bugs", Gene Hyssong, Jim Kimmel, Bob Hamm, Ray Ono, and Maurice Henry sacrificed the last four days of their Christmas vacation (excluding New Year's Eve, of course) to give the broadcasting room that "streamlined look".

The console was rebuilt and made about two-thirds of its original size, and the transmitter and modulator have been installed in a box attached to the wall above the console. (see adjoining picture) A third turntable, one on which transcription records are able to be played, was also added.

The extra space that these renovations made available has been utilized to build a larger console table, which is covered with black inlaid linoleum and bordered by chrome strips.

At present the technicians are designing an audition system, by which one record will be able to be played in the studio, in order to "cue it in", while another record is being heard on the air.

In line with this efficientcy program, the filing system for records has been modified, too.

Hyssong, WJC technical director is in charge of these operations.

College Students Get "Back In The Saddle"

Back to books and back to curfews.
Back to tests with grades that hurt youse.
Back to beds with sags and lumps.
Back to Bell Curves with their bumps.
Back to roommates with their jokes.
Back to candy bars and cokes.
Back to bluebooks with their woe.
But soon—Back home again we'll go.

130 Resident Men To Move Into New Dormitory Jan. 24

A Juniata version of a 'rags to riches' story will come to a successful conclusion next week when 80 men move from the barracks-type Lodge to the new, modern men's dormitory.

Along with 50 other men students, this group will occupy the red-brick structure valued at $425,000. The dorm is located on the hillside site overlooking the northeast campus beyond Oller Hall and the Cloisters.

June 4 Dedication

The building is scheduled to be dedicated on Alumni Day, June 4, as a highlight of Commencement weekend activities. However, the dorm will be occupied this semester with a 'moving day' planned for Monday, January 24. Two days will be allowed for the 130 men to transfer their belongings to the new hall.

Divided into two units, the dormitory will house 78 in the three-story East wing and 52 in the two-story West wing. In addition, an apartment has been provided for Dr. William D. Fairchild, Jr. who will be faculty proctor in charge.

The dorm was constructed by the John C. Yenter Construction Company with architectural designing by John B. Hamme, York, Pa.

Compact Rooms

Each of the dormitory rooms is approximately 12x15 feet. Built in dressers, closets and storage facilities—all maple finished—are provided for each of the two men in every room. Single beds, separate desks and chairs for each man, and a lounge chair have also been placed in all rooms.

The rooms have been painted in one of four colors—blue, green, red or brown. An appropriate trmonizing tile—tan brown or red tint on gray and green—has been placed on the floors in all rooms. Each room contains a central lighting fixture and another over a large mirror above the bureaus. Beige colored pull drapes have been provided for all windows.

Future plans for the Lodge, revealed yesterday by John Fike, indicate the building will be reassembled and used as maintenance and storage headquarters.

The pre-fab type building will be dismantled and moved to a new location where the lumber will be used to construct a utility building.

Mr. Fike also pointed out that the Lodge will be used in March 25, to house delegates to the FTA conference. He strongly urged "reasonable treatment" of the Lodge by present residents to avoid unnecessary repair costs for the College.

Facilities Provided

Each of the two main sections is 101x42 feet with the connecting building designed to fit into the central portion of the angled wings. Included in the central building is the main floor lobby 36 x 32 feet, dean's office, powder room for women, telephone booth and storage rooms. The boiler room, trunk storage, and laundry rooms are located in the basement of the central building.

Comm. Concert Assoc. Brings Baltimore Orch.

The Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Massimo Freccia, the second of this season's Community Concerts, will appear in Oller Hall Monday evening, January 24.

It is anticipated that many JC students will take time out from studying for finals to be present at this performance, since it is seldom that such entertainment is brought to Huntingdon.

"I think it is marvelous that a town of our size can bring in a symphony orchestra." These words of Miss Kathryn Langdon, president of the local association for the past four years, are indicative of the views of other Community Concert enthusiasts.

Program Released

Prof. Jack D. Brammer, member of the board of the Huntingdon group and director of publicity, released the following program to be played by the orchestra:

Overture to "Egmont," Opus 84 Beethoven
Symphony in D Minor—Franck
Lento; Allegro non troppo
Allegretto
Allegro non troppo
Dance of the Seven Veils, from "Salome"—Richard Strauss
Four Viennese Violin Solos—Kreisler
Liebeslied
Schon Rosmarin
Caprice Viennois
Tambourin Chinois
(Arranged for orchestra by Massimo Fercia)

Organized In 1940

The Huntingdon Community Concert Association was organized in May, 1940 through the efforts of a group of local citizens. In past years it has presented such outstanding personalities as Todd Duncan, star of Porgy and Bess; the Robert Shaw Chorale; and the Columbus Boys Choir.

The Baltimore Symphony Orchestra will present a concert in Oller Hall Monday evening, January 24, as a part of the Huntingdon Community Concert Association's 1955 concert series.

EDITOR'S NOTE

Today's issue of the Juniatian will be the last one published this semester, due to the two-week final examination period. The next Juniatian will appear on campus Saturday, February 5.

Office Of Registrar Announces JC Rules For Final Examination

The existing procedure for the proctoring of final examinations, as released by the Office of the Registrar, is as follows.

1. The students are expected to remain in the examination room until they are finished with the examination and have submitted their blue books to the proctor.

2. No student may leave an examination room unless he is ill and explains to the proctor in charge. A student who is forced to leave because of illness will submit his examination book to the proctor who will make a notation of the illness.

3. Students taking the same examination should be distributed throughout the examination room. They should not sit in neighboring seats.

4. Chairs in the examination room should be kept in proper alignment and position. There should be at least one chair space between desks.

5. Notebooks, textbooks, and other materials obviously not necessary to writing an examination must not be taken into the examination room.

6. Only one examination booklet is to be given each student at the beginning of the examination. Additional booklets may be acquired later.

These regulations are set forth "in justice to those who desire honestly to do their best. . ." The administration further emphasizes the importance of all students "avoiding all acts that might raise suspicion of dishonest intention."

Classes Will Begin At 9:30 On First Day Of 1955 Spring Term

Due to the Spring Convocation, to be held January 31, the following shortened period schedule will be in effect on that day.

9:30 — 10:25 a.m. Winter Convocation — Oller Hall.

10:30 — 10:55 a. m. First Period Class (M—W—F 8)

11:00 — 11:25 a.m. Second Period Class (M—W—F 9)

11:30 — 11:55 a.m. Third Period Class (M—W—F 10:30)

12:00 — 12:25 p.m. Fourth Period Class (M—W—F 11:30)

12:45 p.m. Lunch

1:45 p.m. Laboratories and classes as scheduled.

Upon entering class, under revised procedure, all students must obtain class cards with payment of fees and present the appropriate card for each course to the instructor as a ticket of admission.

Students may obtain a copy of their schedule card and one set of class cards after fee settlement in the Office of the Treasurer from Monday, January 17 to Saturday, January 29.

Drama Castees Win Play Parts

Narrator's for John Brown's Body, written by Steven Vincent Benet and to be presented in Oller Hall March 11 and 12 have been chosen by the Masque tryout committee. They are:

Judy Gearhart, a sophomore music major from Philadelphia, Pa. Miss Gearhart is remembered for her performance in The Skin of our Teeth. last year's play. She has also appeared in various musical productions on campus.

Mary Jane Hershberger, a junior music major from Everett, Pa. Miss Hershberger, who has participated in various College musical events, is a member of the Touring Choir.

George Carnahan, a sophomore business administration major from Dayton, Ohio. appeared as a Muse in The Skin of our Teeth, and also participated in All Class Night. He is a member of the Masque.

Richard Livingston, a sophomore pre-ministerial student from Johnstown. Livingston, another member of the Masque, appeared in last year's play and took part in the All-College Operetta.

Klare Sunderland, a junior psychology major from McVeytown. Sunderland appeared as an announcer in The Skin of our Teeth, and worked on the Operetta.

The story will be narrated by the cast with a chorus in the background taking the place of scenery, properties, and sound effects.

Anyone interested in singing in the chorus should contact Miss Pfotenhauer by the end of the week.

Juniata Touring Choir Ready To Make Western Pa. Trip

The Juniata College Choir and String-Wind Ensemble, which will appear first at the Stone Church for a practice concert on Sunday, January 16, has a full itinerary planned for the 1954-55 season.

In addition to the nine-day tour of Western Pennsylvania from January 29 to February 6, the choir will make one-day trips to present programs in Gettysburg, Waynesboro, Hagerstown, Md., Lewistown, Bloomsburg, Bellefonte, Williamsport, Jersey Shore, Leamersville, Altoona, Roaring Spring, and Hollidaysburg.

Several Huntingdon appearances later in the second semester are scheduled for the group, including an evening program in the Abbey Evangelical and Reformed Church and the Commencement Concert in Oller Hall.

Johnson Will Direct

Under the direction of Prof. Donald S. Johnson, the choir will sing a selection of classical and contemporary sacred music for their church concerts. One of the outstanding numbers on this year's program is a cantata, "Our Glorious King" by Camil Van Hulse, which will be done by the choir and ensemble.

The string-wind ensemble will play the prelude and offertory music for the service while an organ composition, "Grand Triumphal Chorus" by Alexandre Guilmant, will be used as the postlude.

For their high school audiences, the choir has prepared a number

Saucy Coed Reveals Info On Sub-Frosh Program

by Sandra Ewing

Attention! It is important that your rooms are sparkling clean this week-end (at least the parts that show) and that every individual polishes himself into a Joe or Katy College (the kind you read about, not the real ones).

Why you ask? The reason is because of the thirty seven prospective students expected on campus, who want to look at the happy-go-lucky, romantic way of living they call college life (don't be a squealer, let them dream while they may).

From 9-12 A. M. Saturday morning, the sub-frosh will register for the week-end in the social rooms, after which they are free to attend the various classes (I'm thinking of one class I hope they miss). Dinner?? (Oops! a typographical error) will be served in the college dining hall.

During the afternoon there will be guided tours of the campus with Don Murdock in charge (the tour does not include Sherwood, Don). Also there will be conferences with members of the faculty and mingling!! (another typographical error) with upper classmen.

The home basketball game with Dickinson and an after-the-game informal dance will climax the day.

And now it is time to give some credit to the guys and gals, who lost sleep over this program. They are the members of the Sub-Frosh Committee, who do a fine job, for it was because of their seductive ways that many of us are here today. As for who they are, I give you the line-up.

National Printing Week Observance Planned To Emphasize Free Press

Now is the time to pause! A brief respite in the years activities to consider some of the implications of our existence. In this sense we are referring to the 'existence' of the Juniatian. One very small segment of the volumes of publications printed each year in the United States.

This coming week has been set aside throughout the nation as National Printing Week. A short, seven day period when each American will be reminded of the role played by the printers in the historical records of the country and in the twentieth century.

During this coming week the American newsprint consumer will be flooded with reminders to always protect his right of 'Freedom of the Press'. The implications of this statement in these days of Communist censorship, in many countries, have been made clear in a number of vivid examples. But here at Juniata this statement also has a meaning distinctly clear to each person concerned.

The Juniatian is often described in the College publications as a weekly newspaper, written and edited by the students! We didn't realize exactly how true this was until we came upon an Intercollegiate Press report of press censorship on the collegiate level. It is shocking to realize how many of our fellow papers must pass the scrutiny of faculty or administration advisors before they can be published.

We know there are a number of people on this campus who would express a desire for censorship on the collegiate level. They would utilize the Juniatian as a 'House Organ' to further propaganda campaigns of a limited nature.

So, in this week commemorating the role of the printed matter in America we thank our lucky stars for those high-minded individuals at Juniata that demand only accuracy and honesty in controversial material.

Antioch Profs. Plan College Literary Book

(ACP)—A new national review of the best college student writing will be edited by Nolan Miller and Judson Jerome, members of the Antioch College English department. First issue will be published by Bantam Books in 1955. Subsequent issues probably will appear annually.

Contributors probably will be limited to students at North American colleges, or those who have attended such colleges within the past three years.

Plans for the review, to be called Campus Writing Today, include sections to cover stories, poems, portions of novels, short plays and sketches, essays and articles. Material must be unpublished, except in a campus publication, and must be recommended by a member of the teaching faculty, the editors say. Deadline for the first issue is May 1, 1955.

Professors Accused Of Double-Talk Use

by Nan Heller

What the professor says and what he means are often two entirely different things. Around the time of finals one can read even more meaning than usual into these pedagogic gems. For example . .

A guy named 'Jim Evans' thought up some real clever ones so here we take the liberty of sharing them with you who've been reading into JC Profs' quotes.

The Prof says:
'The final test will be very brief and to the point, so don't worry about it at all. If you've even attended half of the classes you'll find the test simple.'

The Prof says:
"There will be no unannuonced quizzes in this course ."
"This textbook is one of the finest ever written."
"There will be very little outside reading in this course."
"Now don't worry about your grades. I'm not interested in that. I just want you to get something out of the course."
"I think you'll find me an easy grader."
"My students tell me this is a snap course."
"There is no limit on cuts."

"You won't be responsible for Chapter 10 on the test."
"If this test takes you a half hour to complete you should flunk it."
"I grade on a lenient curve".

What he actually means:
'There will be one question in your final—"Briefly, but thoroughly, outline the course.'

The Prof means:

"Hah! Just wait until tomorrow."
"I wrote it".
"Read any 35 of the following books and report orally on each of them."

"I flunked forty out of forty-two last semester."
"I flunked forty out of forty-two last semester."
"I flunked forty out of forty-two last semester."
"I flunked forty out of forty-two last semester."

"For sixty five points: On what line on what page in Chapter 10 did Washington cross the Del aware?"
"I've got nothing to do all afternoon, anyway."
"90% F's, 8% D's, 1% C's, ¾% B's and ¼% A's."

Kansas Sociology Experiment Gets Strange Reaction

(ACP—When a Kansas University coed discards her white socks and saddle shoes and puts on high heels, stockings, and a dress for three days on campus and in class, things are likely to happen.

And when a male student goes against the taboo of ties and wears one for three days with a white shirt and jacket, there's bound to be a hullabaloo.

Dress Up Experiment

Forty-eight sociology students here found out the hard way what it means to "go against society" the Daily Kansan reports. At the urging of their professor, the students agreed to "dress up" for three straight days, not tell anybody about the experiment and keep logs on the reactions.

Log reports "showed how by satire, sarcasm, laughter, heckling, ridicule, and name calling the campus sub-culture attempted to enforce and keep intact its rules," the article said. One sociology sophomore reported that her best friend said "I think you're crazy. Crazy people do crazy things—and you're crazy."

Social Outcast

"My roommate," said another coed, "didn't even want to walk with me to class because everybody was staring."

A male student recorded the following comment: "I think a tie is all right if you have a picture taken or go to a funeral or a wedding or something—but not every day. If you keep that up, it'll be a funeral for you."

The comment to end all comments was "It's so unKansan!"

To the instructor, the experiment was a "rousing success."

Scanning The Headlines

by Dr. Homer C. Will

In World War II science stepped into the middle of the stage and organized science became a major element in military power. The new factor in warfare was the laboratory.

In the light of the achievements of science during the war it was expected that with the close of hostilities the task of the scientist would be to alleviate and eliminate disease, to ensure and guarantee military security, to enfold sustained economic prosperity, and to continue to expand the boundries of knowledge.

To obtain these objectives the Federal Government established the National Science Foundation and contributed to universities and nonprofit institutions for scientific research.

In spite of this support many scientists are uneasy with respect to governmental actions and public attitudes, although they recognize the reasons for the actions in the strains and stresses of contemporary times. Some implications of the Oppenheimer case and the recent suspension of clearance of Edward U. Condon have been a source of worry. One famous scientist is on record as wishing that he had become a plumber or a peddler.

Scientists do react to the political and social environment in which they work. Many of them do have a bad conscience about the atomic bomb. They are disturbed about the failure of the government to distinguish between science and technology. And they are profoundly convinced that science does not grow because of superheated patriotism. The creative process cannot be hurried by imposing fright, coercion, or high pressure upon scientists.

Ideas are not manufactured like automobiles on a production line.

Finally, the work of science is impaired by secrecy regulations on basic research. For in secrecy science suffocates.

Intercollegiate Chatter

By Nancy Freed

In the wee hours of the morning, someone has been taking parked bicycles at a Michigan State College dormitory and piling them atop one another into jumbled mounds of handlebars. The prankster's first pile was only a small one about 10 feet high, the Michigan State News estimated, and contained about 20 bikes. He got braver on his second try and made a pile a little higher, with a few more bikes added. The third time he really reached new heights. Students awoke to find their bicycles piled in a heap that reached the windows of the first floor of the dormitory. My only comment: imagine JC students riding bicycles!

"Contact", the monthly publication of Belmont Abbey (N. C.) College, headlines a story on dormitory menus "What Food These Morsels Be."

So you think our band's got troubles! Anyone with old clothes to spare is asked to please donate them to the Muhlenberg band who couldn't meet the payments on their uniforms.

Mighty strange things happen out in Kansas at the end of the year. A pretty, blonde freshman coed at the University of Kansas didn't know what to do because as many as 1,200 men students ganged up at 1 P. M. on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays in front of her classroom building to cheer and whistle as she walked by. "She caused mass near-riots," the Daily Kansan said. Over at Emporia the student council president of the State Teachers College felt she would be much happier on his campus. "Our men like to look at pretty girls, you understand, but beauties are not rarities on our campus," he wrote. "In other words," he continued, "you will be appreciated but not conspicuous."

Susquehanna University's art department has sponsored an unusual and outstanding exhibition of the woodlocks which have made Japan famous for years. These prints were imported directly from Japan and were offered to the University not only for its pleasure and enjoyment but for purchase by anyone who so desired.

From the Moravian paper comes this quote made by a modern day Confuscius: Student, it is as I have always thought. The frailties of man are many times his own worst enemy. Go to your next class with this thought in mind: that you are what you are, and that your tutor can neither make a better nor a worse man of you, lest you so will it. Is that not true?

APPROACHES TO GOD, by Jacques Maritain. One of the greatest living Catholic philosophers illuminates the methods by which man comes to know his Creator. He says that there are as many pathways to God as there are byways on earth or or roads to the human heart. He expounds and discusses the famous five ways to God of St. Thomas Aquinas in the light of modern thought and science, then offers a "sixth way" based on the spiritual nature of the intellect, and deals with three other approaches.

I PROTEST, by G. Bromley Oxnam. The record of Bishop Oxnam's experiences with the House Committee on Un-American Activities based solely on the official transcripts of that historic hearing plus his reflections during it, his musings on what preceded it and his comments after it. JC Takes Unrestricted Stand In Television Fight

by Bill Smith

Juniata joined Notre Dame, Penn, and Ohio State in voting in favor of unlimited television of college football at the annual meeting of the NCAA last Friday in New York City. This has caused some publicity which has misconstrued the meaning of our vote and needs an explanation.

P. M. "Mike" Snider, Juniata's Athletic Director explained the circumstances of the vote and defended his position as a matter of principle.

Five Resolutions

The situation centered around a report presented by the television committee which offered five resolutions for consideration; last year's national plan, the Eastern Collegiate Association's plan for a combined national regional program, the Big Ten's regional or national plan, the "one rule" plan limiting a team to televising of one home and one away game, and the "no restriction" plan.

On the preceding day a secret ballot had been taken on all resolutions up for discussion. Before continuing Friday, the delegates, in protest of the committee's right to withhold the results, demanded an unofficial standing vote to indicate the prevailing sentiments.

Four In Favor

Snider was one of the first to vote for the no restriction resolution. As the vote progressed and this resolution seemed doomed, many potential voters dropped out rather than prolong the vote. When the voting ended, last year's plan held 82 votes, the ECAC plan 84, the Big 10's 37 and the four for no controls.

This week Snider explained his reasons for voting against controls, thus opposing the accepted small college position (the ECAC plan). First the television controls under the 1954 plan were intended to benefit and protect small colleges financially through a "pro rata" cut of the weekly game, and attendence wise. Neither of these panned out.

Secondly the controls are technically illegal, monopolistic in nature by allowing only a few sponsers to take part in the program. Finally there is no co-operation with industry, which is willing to pay for television rights. Thereby we antagonize a source of aid which is invaluable to small colleges.

KEGLERS CORNER

by Larry Confer

A shakeup in the top three places marked the action in the IM Bowling League last week as all teams which previously had perfect records came out of the scramble with blemishes on their records. The Covites and Tycoons, previously tied for the top rung in the league, met with the result that the boys from the Cove marched off with three points to retain sole possession of first place and drop the Tycoons all the way to fourth. Joe Hinish and Rem Grove paced the Cove while Bud Douds and Barry Drexler were high for the losers.

The Alley Cats continued in their winning ways as they won four points from the last place Whips and gained sole possession of second place. Bill Garrison and Al Nyce were high scorers for the Cats and Arnold Olt rolled high for the losers. Olt's performance for the match, 430, was tops for the week.

In the only other match, the IFT strengthened its position on seventh place by capturing three points from the Big Five. Bill Smith and Dewey Mayes were high for the IFT and Bob Motisher paced the losers. Mayes' high game of 172 was the best single game performance of the week.

120 Games (girls)—Wenzel 138; Logan 122.

Cagers Split Two Road Contests

Grovers Fall, 80-67; Geneva Five Reverses Scrappy Indians, 81-67

A strong Geneva team downed the Juniata College hoopsters last Saturday evening to a tune of 81-67 at Geneva. The Covies, however, met some strong opposition from Juniata and found the Indians playing their best game of the season, even in defeat.

Sparked by Jake Handzelek, who displayed some of his preholiday form, the Indians battled the Covies on even terms throughout most of the first half and were only eight point underdogs at halftime. Jake dumped 26 points for the Blue and Gold of Juniata.

For the second straight game Lee Hallman was a mainstay of the Greene coached team. Lee made seven out of twelve tries from the field, and added a foul shot for 15 points.

Woodeshick with 26 points and Yuckica with 25 points were the determining factors for the Covies, as they compiled 63% of the teams total points.

GROVE CITY

Juniata's cagers snapped a two game losing streak at Grove City last Friday by downing the Wolverines 80-67.

Coach Greene's hoopsters jumped to an early lead, thanks to six quick points by Vanderbush, and were never in hot water throughout the rest of the ball game.

The fine rebounding of Chuck Gross combined with the accurate shooting of Lee Hallman were contributing factors in the Indian victory. Lee dunked seven of 11 tries from the floor in scoring 16 points. Jake Handzelek collected 17 markers to pace the Juniata attack. In addition to Jake and Lee, Walt Vanderbush also hit double figures with 12 points.

Courtmen Host Dickinson In Return Tilt Tomorrow Night

The Juniata Indians will try to even the score with the Dickinson Red Devils tomorrow night in Memorial Gym. The Red Devils, sporting a 3-3 record, downed the Tribe 73-63 at Carlisle last week.

Dickinson got off to a strong start upsetting Elizabethtown, John Hopkins, and the Indians, losing only to strong Penn State and Lebanon Valley. Last Saturday, however, they were downed 88-66 by F&M, one of the Tribes earlier victims.

Sophomore forward Jim Connor, who killed the Indian's hopes at Carlisle with 27 points, still leads Dickinson in scoring, averaging 15.2 points per game. Rounding out the starting squad are Lee Huber, 6'1" senior and last year's high scorer, 6'4" center John Kohlmeir, 6'1" forward Bob Varano, and 5'8" playmaker John Dudas, all holdovers from last year.

Coach A. C. "Slim" Ransom has plenty of bench strength to back them up. Tom Hester, a 6'4" junior who specializes in making hook shots, John Gould a 6' foot member of last year's freshman squad and Don Leggett, a transfer from Lehigh, all gave the Tribe trouble at Dickinson. In addition there is Al Barilar 5' 10" a junior, a letterman hampered by an ankle injury.

Last season the Red Devils posted a 7-11 record which was one of the best in recent years. Ransom claims this season's squad to be his "best team in three years at Dickinson" and should top last year's record.

Two Teams Battle For First Place Honors In Men's Basketball Loop

The Wolverines and Covites continued their battle for first place in the IM basketball league, as both teams remained unbeaten. The Wolverines have won seven straight, while the Covites have taken six in a row.

In action last Friday, the surprising Dead Shots outlasted a favored Bermuda five, 66-61. Cassilly led the winners with 22 points. The Sunbrookers rebounded from their defeat the night before to take a close 64-60 decision from the Pioneers. Andy Balog led the Brookers with 20 markers, while Bill West dumped in 17 for the losers.

Sunbrookers Lose Second

Saturday's game saw the Sunbrookers playing their fourth contest in four days, and going down to their second defeat at the hands of the league-leading Wolverines, 42-37. The game proved to be a see-saw affair, and only a 14 point rally in the last frame saved the eventual winners from defeat. Ed Kohl was high man for the afternoon with 12 counters for the victors. In the other game the now-hot and now-cold Jaguars were blasted by the Covites, 76-52. Big Bob Motisher burned the cords for 26 points, and Joe Hinish hit for 19 to subdue the troublesome Jaguars.

At the other end of the league, The Players Inc. lost their seventh and eighth games respectively to the Dead Shots, 78-46; and to the Ramblers, 81-56. Big gun for the Players in both games was Herb Layman with 24 and 22 points. His scoring was overshadowed however, by the efforts of Tom Cassilly of the Shots and Chuck Seely of the Ramblers, who both

Indians Hold Scoring Lead Over Apponents In First Seven Tilts

Statistics released for the first seven varsity basketball games show Juniata holding a slight lead over their opponents in total points scored. The Indians have garnered 516 markers while yielding 503 points to opposing factions. This gives them a slight lead in average points per game, 73.7 to 71.8.

Individual scoring shows Jake Handzelek far out in front with 147 counters in the seven contests giving him an average of 21.0 per game. Closest to Handzelek is steady Lee Hallman with 75 points followed closely by Walt Vanderbush with 68.

Among the starting five, captain Chuck Gross leads the field in shooting percentage with 25 field goals in 51 attempts for 49 per cent. Lee Hallman follows with 31 out of 77 tries for a 40.2 average, and Jake Handzelek has made 54 out of 149 attempts to take third spot with 36.2 average. Senior Jim Boulton leads the squad with 11 buckets out of 20 attempts for a nifty 55 per cent. George O'Brien follows with 15 out of 32, giving him a 46.9 average. The team average is 36.8.

In the free throw department Jake Handzelek leads the first five with 39 points out of 46 attempts for an amazing 84.8 per cent. Walt Vanderbush follows with 8 out of 11 for a 72.7 average. George O'Brien leads the team with 87.5, having seven out of eight.

On The Club Scene

Most of the club activity will cease in the next few weeks as first semester finals arrive. However, a few clubs are holding meetings this week.

IVCF

The speaker for the last Intervarsity meeting of the semester will be Mr. Eden Whipple. Mr. Whipple was a missionary to Inland China and is now Candidate secretary of China Missions. Everyone is invited to Founders Chapel on Friday nite, Jan. 14 at 7:15 to hear Mr. Whipple speak. Refreshments will be served after the lecture.

Sigma Gamma

Sigma Gamma, Juniata's Sociology-Psychology club, will hold a brief meeting in Room A on Friday night, January 14, at 7:15. Pat Henry will give a talk on "Old People". This is a resume of an honors course in the study of the aged.

WAA

WAA held a special meeting on Monday evening, Jan. 10. The members voted to accept an invitation to the Penn State Sports Day to be held on March 5. Plans were also discussed for the annual WAA-J Club basketball game. It will be held one Saturday night in February. The WAA will also sponsor a dance after the game.

Cluib activities will resume after exams.

of secular favorites, including "Barn Dance" by Donato; "The River," Chilean folk song; and a medley from Victor Herbert's "Mademoiselle Modiste." Selections will also be sung by the girl's trio, "The Harmonettes," and the Varsity Male Quartet.

Twenty-Third Season

This is the twenty-third season for the Juniata College Choir, which is composed of 26 musical voices. However, the seven-member string-wind ensemble is a fairly recent addition to the organization. The instrumental group was first used during the 1951-52 choir season and proved so effective that it has been used every year since.

There are seventeen music majors among the 33 members of the group. United by a love for music, academic interests of this heterogenous group range anywhere from biology to pre-ministerial students.

The Juniatian

Entered as second class mail at the Huntingdon, Pa., post office, this is an independent undergraduate newspaper published weekly throughout the College year except during vacation and examination periods by the Students of Juniata College.

Spiritual Emphasis Week Begins Here Sunday

The Juniatian

Vol. 31 No. 15 | Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. | Saturday, February 5, 1955

Dr. William Beahm Will Speak At Week's Special Programs

"Why Christianity?" has been chosen as the theme for Spiritual Emphasis Week, February 7 to 13, a period of introspection of the spiritual values of life.

Dr. William M. Beahm, Dean of Bethany Bibical Seminary, Chicago, will be on campus Monday through Thursday of next week to guide Juniata students in their quest for spiritual truth. He will be aided by members of the JCA and the faculty.

Dr. Beahm will speak in chapel Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday (instead of Friday) mornings. The three topics tentatively listed for presentation by him are What Is A Christian?, How Do I Become A Christian?, and A Christian? So What?

Topics Listed

In addition he will speak at a series of evening meetings in charge of Bonnie Brumbaugh. His topics include "What Is A Twentieth Century Christian?", Monday; "Is Christianity the Final Answer?", Tuesday; "Christianity Social or Personal?", Wednesday; and "Hope—In This World and the Next.", Thursday. Meetings begin at 7:15 P. M. The place will be announced later.

Personal interviews with Dr. Beahm may be arranged by contacting Ernie Lashlee, or any JCA cabinet member. All student problems will be welcomed.

Teas, in charge of Charlotte Detwiler, at which informal discussions of spiritual problems will be featured, will be held in the I. Harvey Brumbaugh House Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons from 4 until 5 P. M. Dr. Lockwood will lead the discussion Tuesday, and Dean Mays, Wednesday.

Dorm Discussions

Dorm discussions will be held Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in each of the dormitories. Two faculty members will lead the discussions at each meeting. In charge of this activity are Sam Douglas and Barbara Maurer.

Morning devotions in the Stone Church Monday through Friday are being arranged by Lona Beabes. These will begin at 7:30 A. M. and will last approximately 20 minutes.

Faculty Round-up

Sunday evening, February 13, follow-up discussions will take place in the homes of various faculty members and will be led by students. Lists will be posted for interested persons to sign indicating to be present at one of the discussions.

Dan Raffensperger, JCA president, commenting on the week's program, said, "This will give all students a chance to do something they've been putting off. It will give them a chance to do a little exploring of values and will help them mature spiritually."

Dr. Beahm was born in Virginia and spent his early years in California and Pennsylvania as well. After an early call to the ministry, he prepared for his work by attending and graduating from

Bell, Book And Candle Will Be Masque Production In March

With the burial of John Brown,s Body comes the anouncement of a blessed event on J C's campus—the birth of Bell, Book, and Candle. Tryouts began yesterday at 4:30 and will continue on Monday afternoon for this play, written by John van Druten, who has also written I Remember Mama and Old Acquaintance.

The play was considered by the Masque two years ago, but at that time was not available for college production.

Bell, Book, and Candle is a light, gay comedy centering around a young girl who is really a witch, and the powers she uses to make the man who lives upstairs fall in love with her. Not only are there witches in the story, but also warlocks, or male witches.

Not at all resembling or acting like witches, the characters give their identities away only by means of conversation. The leading roles, when given on Broadway, were played by Lili Palmer and Rex Harrison.

The cast of the play is small, consisting of five characters: Gilian the witch, the man upstairs, Gilian's brother and her aunt, who incidentally are also witches, and an author.

Performance nights of this production have been re-scheduled for March 18 and 19. Miss Doyle and the play reading committee wish to thank all those who gave their time and talent in trying out for John Brown's Body and hope that that effort will now be directed toward the newly-selected Masque production, Bell, Book, and Candle.

Newton Wins Bond In Essay Contest

Eleanor Newton, a freshman home economics major from Hagerstown, Md., has won second prize in a Hagerstown essay contest.

Miss Newton, who received a $100 war bond, wrote on The Advancement and Opportunities for High School Graduates in the Washington County Community. The contest was sponsored by the Pangborn Foundation, a Hagerstown industrial firm.

PLAY TRYOUTS MONDAY

Tryouts for this year's Masque production, Bell, Book, and Candle, will be continued on Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Play books are now on reserve in the library.

Move-Up Date Set By Senate In Wed. Session

Wednesday, March 23 was set as the date for Move-up Day at the regular meeting of the student Senate Wednesday evening.

Nan Heller, chairman of general activities, will be in charge of the program when new Senators and club officers will take over positions.

The constitution of the reorganized college band was submitted to the Senate for approval. Dan Raffensberger, chairman of the band committee reported that the group has been given tenative permision to organize and give a concert with proceeds going towards the fund for the purchase of new uniforms.

In other action dealing with the band the Senate forwarded a recommendation to the Concessions Committee calling for the band to be awarded the Mum Concession for 1955.

The men students are reminded that they are expected to wear coats to the evening meals. Memos from the Senate will be posted reminding resident men that consisdent infraction of this rule will invite administrative action.

A request was forwarded to administratioin officals to open First Brumbaugh Hall as an entranceway for men at the noon and evening meals.

Plans for the New Dorm openhouse were discussed and organizezd.

JC Safety Committee Lists Insurance Rules For Students' Benefit

The Health and Safety Committee of Juniata College wishes to call to the attention of the student body the existing policy concerning accident injury on the campus.

All students are included in a coordinated two-fold medical program. This provides for prompt, adequate care in cases of illness and injury arising while the student is enrolled at college.

The Infirmary Program provides infirmary board and care for a period of ten days, the services of the College physician, regular nursing care and ordinary medicines at the infirmary.

The accident insurance plan protects the parent against the expense of the more costly injuries by reimbursing the student up to the limit of $1,000.00, excepting injury resulting from air travel, eye treatment, dental treatment, injury sustained in military service, injury for which the insured is entitled to benefits under any Workmen's Compensation Law, and injury sustained prior to the effective date of the insurance of the individual insured.

Students are protected by the Juniata College Student Insurance Plan twenty-four hours a day throughout the school year.

For further information or for a list of the procedures to be followed for treatment, students should stop by the Infirmary or see the Dean of Men.

All Participants Pass January Comp Tests

According to an announcement from the Office of the Registrar, all seniors who took comprehensives in January passed their examinations.

Margaret Hershey, a modern languages major and a Dean's List student from Lititz, was the only student to receive distinction.

Other students taking January comprehensives were Joseph Moist, and Jean Runnion, English; James Kimmel, music; Robert Motisher, economics and business administration; Elsie Haussler, elementary education; George O'Brien, history, Neil Spangler and Heidi Campbell, sociology; and Mai Tai and Frances Graupensperger, biology.

ETS Gives Date For Med Exams

Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1956 are advised to take the Medical College Admission Test in May, it was announced by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J.

These tests, required of applicants by almost every medical college throughout the country will be given twice during the year— May 7 and October 31. However candidates taking the May test will be able to furnish scores to institutions in early fall, when many medical colleges begin the selection of their next entering class.

The test will cover general scholastic ability, a test of understanding of modern society, and an achievement test in science. All questions are of the objective type. Applications must be completed and returned to the ETS by April 23 and October 17, respectively, for the May and October administrations.

For applications forms and a Bulletin of Information, write to the Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, N.J.

CHAPEL THEME SONG FITS JUNIATA CASE

(ACP)—Orville Riggs, noting that Carthage College students are checked for attendance at chapel by secretaries sitting in a balcony, suggested the students adopt the theme song:

"When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder, I'll Be There."

Miss Butler Will Spend Semester In Nicaragua

Gertrude L. Butler, professor of home economics has been granted a leave of absence for the Spring term, in order that she may visit with her sister in Managua, Nicaragua.

In her absence, Helen L. Fisher, assistant professor of home economics, will be acting chairman of the home economics department.

Mrs. Paul F. Friend, a Juniata graduate holding a degree in home economics, will teach the two classes, Economics of Consumption, and vocational home economics administration (beginning on March 24), previously scheduled for Miss Butler.

JC Travelers Reveal Opinions Of Summer Tours In Europe

How many of us have not at one time or another dreamed of going abroad either during our college career or in the near future? Nine students here on campus have had the experience of touring Europe and have consented to give us a "sneak preview" of what the "Old Country" is really like.

These students are Sue Jamison, Sandy Johnston, Becky Guyton, Vinnie Birdge, Stella Morgan, Sue Paxson, Bill Smith, Dan Raffensperger, and Brad Nicholas. With this issue of the Juniatian we are beginning a series of articles on the various European countries and student reactions to them.

But first let us look at the general impressions of Europe as a whole. According to Bill Smith, Europe was, above all, "warweary". This attitude was expressed in the cynicism, resignation, despair, and in some cases hope based on a Christian approach to peace.

Vinnie Birdge liked the way people accepted you for what you were and not who you were. She thought the difficult language barrier could be overcome because of identical purposes, ethics, and ideals of all countries. Vinnie learned quickly that souveniers, though desirable had to be passed up due to the lack of room while traveling. To her, touring Europe was much like living out of a history book. Agreeing with Vinnie was Sandy Johnston who said that now such courses as "Arts and Humanities" held much more meaning.

Sue Paxton noted that people all over the world are much the same—some friendly and some not so friendly.

All in all the students found Europe exciting and fascinating on the surface. But when the first impressions wore off they found people much like themselves—people who had lived through disappointments and tragedies, yet were facing the future with new hopes.

Olt Takes Spot On Paper Staff

Juniatian Business Manager Bill Dilling has announced that Arnold Olt has been named to the position of circulation manager of the paper.

Olt, a sophomore business major will assume his new assignment with todays publication.

WAA-J Club To Stage Basketball Frolic Sat.

This week's social agenda will feature the annual basketball contest between the members of the WAA and the J-Club tonight at 7:30 P. M. in the Memorial Gym.

Immediately following the game until 11:30 there will be a record dance in the Women's Gym. Refreshments will be served.

Doreen Fyock, president of the WAA, extends an invitation to the entire student body, faculty and their families to attend both these events.

E. J. Stackpole Contest Opens; Deadline For Entries Is May 2

The Stackpole History Contest, initiated by the late Dr. E. J. Stackpole, is open for entries again in 1955, as it has been for the past thirty-five years. By submitting an outstanding literary contribution on the history of he Juniata Valley, a student makes himself eligible for the $25 cash prize.

E. J. Stackpole, former editor of the Harrisburg Telegraph hoped that eventually the best of all the entries over the years would be combined into a book on Juniata Valley's history. The Valley includes all the teritory drained by the Juniata River and its tributaries.

If the Juniata College committee who reads and exaluates the entries does not consider any of them worthy of merit, no prize will be awarded. The last presentation was made in 1949 for a paper on the subject of "The Geology of Huntingdon County".

There are many available topics from which to choose as one can discover by browsing through the past entries in the library. Any reliable source may be used and the college library offers much information in many areas. Further help may be gained from members of the college history department.

The length of the manuscript is not limited; however, it must be more than mere descriptions or generalizations.

Work will be judged on the basis of:

1. Logical arrangement of materials such as table of contents and bibliography.
2. Relevant facts.
3. Diagrams or pictures.
4. Paragraphing, spelling, diction.
5. Proportion of subject.

Entries are due May 2, which allows all those interested sufficient time to participate.

What's Happening In Asia?

Political maneuvering in Asia have assumed characteristics that stimulate the area to a theatrical production. The spotlight swings on the dominant participant for a brief, but hectic session, and then on to another character. These appearances also resemble a play in that one in itself is conclusive; each in turn seems to lead to a dramatic conclusion.

India, Korea, Indo-China and now Formosa have all been pinpointed and then replaced in the spotlight. But, once again similar to a climactic play, they only drop into the background. Not one of these primary actors leave the stage, they simply move off to the side as a supporter to the primary actor at that time.

The United States foreign policy has been strategically involved in the spotlight placed on each of the areas of the vast play. To push our simile further, the Chinese Reds pose as the producer of this play and the United States as the demonstrative audience. However unlike the experienced playgoer, the U. S. policy has been to regard each segment of this play as an entity in itself and not as a part of the whole.

Consequently we have managed to conclude a cease-fire in Korea, dictated a French cease-fire in Indo-China, and now are working energetically for a similar arrangment as a conclusion on the Formosan situation.

A conclusion similar to the previous two will undoubtedly be concluded for Formosa, but when we contrive this arrangement it is going to become apparent that we have talked ourselves into the very position we have attempted to avoid. That of recognizing Red China and admitting her to the United Nations.

Red Chinese agression has been stopped in Korea and we have forbidden the South Korean Republic from attempting to regain the rest of the peninsula. On the Malay Peninsula a line has been drawn which marks what we consider the point of deepest penetration for the Reds. Now we are attempting to check Red China's destruction of Nationalist forces in Formosa; but a cease fire would completely put a halt to the plans of Chiang to retake the mainland.

Thus a termination of this policy will leave us with a Red China that will turn to internal improvement and an undeniable request for U. N. admission; a small republic of Formosa and an embarrassed United States.

In checking the encroachment of Red China we have cut off the people who we feel have the right to rule that Asiatic stronghold and ruled out any possibility of intervention.

Intercollegiate Chatter

By Nancy Freed

Syracuse University men will again seek the "Mr. Formal" title in the nationwide "Mr. Formal" contest to be held in the spring. The sponsors, "After Six" clothing manufacturers, are seeking the male student on college campuses who makes the best appearance in a dinner jacket.

Here's a bit from the North Manchester "Oak Leaves" that has a lot of thought in it:

God has created you with two ends;
One to think with and one to sit on.
Your success depends on which
You use the most; A case of Heads you win; Tails you lose.

Everyone seems to be taking a hand at writing poetry these days. A student from Madonna College in Livonia, Michigan, wrote the following poem on a classroom blackboard:

"Now I lay me down to sleep.
The course is long, the subject deep.
If the bell rings before I wake,
Someone give me a gentle shake."

Students of Sociology at Kansas University followed the urging of their instructor and agreed to dress up in hose and heels instead of socks saddles and sweaters and in ties and white shirts instead of sport shirts. The purpose— to test the reaction of students on campus watching the metamorphosis. The results— the instructor commented on the experiment as being "a rousing success". One sociology sophomores's best friend said "You're crazy. Crazy people do crazy things". Another coed refused to walk to class with her roommate 'cause everyone was staring. The Daily Kansas newspaper said the student's actions were so "UnKansan!"

College students throughout the country will have the opportunity to witness the National Sports Car Races on an American campus for the first time when the University of Miami plays host to more than 100 of the nation's top drivers on February 12 and 13. Many interesting exhibits will be featured besides the races, such as James Melton and his world collection of antique cars, and experimental and new development in the world of sports cars.

Villanova has been chosen one of 30 educational institutions to receive grants from the Bethlehem Steel Company, under the company's Program of Financial Assistance to Colleges and Universities. Such manner of assistance is being given because Bethlehem Steel feels that privately endowed colleges, many of which are today in serious financial difficulty, must be preserved as industry must have graduates of these institutions to train and develop and to carry the responsibility in years ahead. Limitations on the manner the money is to be used are placed on the grants. They may be applied to scholarships, facilities, or other purposes "that in the judgment of the college will best meet its needs."

Tufts' Student Body Decide Red 'Sexiest' Collegiate Color

(ACP)—Red was declared the "sexiest" color by 66 per cent of those sampled in a poll by the Tufts College Weekly. Slinky black garnered 25 per cent of the votes. Nine per cent of the voters all men—gave their preference to lavender.

Women polled by the college weekly were almost unanimous in voting for "fiery, brazen, and active" red as the most sexy color.

Analyzing the data, the Tufts Weekly concludes that "the bold red color of the Stars and Stripes still represents courage, as it did in the days of Betsy Ross."

Waynesboro Engages O'Brien As Teacher

George J. O'Brien, a mid-year graduate of the College, has been employed to teach social studies in the Waynesboro Area High School.

O'Brien, whose hometown is Hollidaysburg, was a history major here. He has also been a center on the varsity basketball squad for four years and has three letters in the sport.

The recent Juniata graduate is married and is the father of two children.

THINGS THAT COUNT

by Dick Livingston

Someone has said that the small college environment is not conducive to a Christian manner of life. Certain people would immediately reject such a thought, for most of our colleges and universities have been founded by Christian Churches. But I believe that this idea is really a rather valid observation of American college life.

The college community offers a security such as can be found in few other places. A college student seems to live in another world where he doesn't come into contact with many of the harsh realities of life. He has no pressing need for anything beyond himself. The college situation, with its emphasis on individual achievement and competition, often breeds selfishness.

The objective, inquiring atmosphere of the college brings to light inadequacies of childhood faiths with the result that many students become doubtful and mistrustful of all religion.

Thus, in spite of over attempts to emphasize the Christian related college, there are many factors in a college which subtly undermine Christian principles within it.

Nevertheless, a college education can bring about a very strong religious faith. Its emphasis on the rational approach can result in a more adequate, more meaningful view of the essence and purpose of life. College living offers unique opportunities for group living and fellowship.

During Spiritual Life Week let us seek for that in college life and thought which is really worthwhile and lasting.

Recent action in the IM Bowling League has resulted in a shakeup in the standings of the first division teams of the league. The Tycoon's, Rinso's Boys, and the Mountaineers all improved their standings with impressive victories.

The Tycoons boosted themselves into a deadlock for second place as they upset the Alley Cats, previous holders of the second slot, by a score of 4-0. Barry Drexler and Rich Ikeda paced the winners and Bill Garrison, high with a 452 match, led the Cats. The loss shoved the Alley Cats into a tie for third in the standings.

The Mountaineers were catapulted into the deadlock for third place on the strength of the season's best team performance as they swamped the Flames 4-0. Their 711 for the first game and 2018 for the entire match are both season highs. Jim Cain, Jacobs, and Ed Pallo all pitched in with high scores for the Mountaineers while "Doc" Geiger and Klare Sunderland stood out in a losing cause.

Rinso's Boys moved into a second place tie by taking a match from the Buckeyes 3-1. Walt Vanderbush was high scorer for the "Boys" and the losers were paced by Herb Layman.

150 Games — Jacobs 178, 153; Ikeda 175, 161; Layman 173; Garrison 169, 154; Sunderland 166; Drexler 162; Vanderbush 152; Cain 152; Pallo 150; Pheasant 150.

Greenemen Edge Lycoming 63-62; Victorious In Four Of Five Games

Juniata's Greene coached cagers had a great deal of trouble in downing the Warriors of Lycoming 63-62 Thursday evening. Although the Tribe led all the way and had a 10 point spread at halftime, the Warriors made a close game of it in the second half by outscoring Juniata 39-30.

The Tribe emerged on the top of a high scoring contest in a Tuesday evening encounter with the Red Raiders of Shippensburg. The Red Raiders came from 30 points behind at half-time but could never catch the high-flying Indians as they rolled to a 99-83 victory.

Akron handed the Tribe a 71-67 defeat but the men from Ohio were hard pressed in doing so. The Greene coached team outscored Akron from the field 27-26 but Akron scored 19 of their points via the foul line to give them the ball game.

The cagers of Juniata were forced to stage a second half rally to defeat the Warriors of Lycoming 82-67 in their first encounter of the season. This was the 14th straight win for the Tribe on their home boards. Handzelek with 22 and Kerstetter with 19 paced the Indian attack.

Juniata literally swamped the Red Devils of Dickinson 91-79, with a fast breaking second half in the Indians 1955 home debut. Dickinson led at halftime by a 46-38 count but was overcome largely through the rebounding efforts of Walt Vanderbush, who pulled in an amazing 33 rebounds for the evening.

Indian Courtmen Travel To Meet Moravian, Lions

Juniata's Indians face two strong opponents on the road this week, meeting Moravian tonight at Bethlehem and Albright ednesday night at Reading. Both teams have losing records but have faced strong schedules.

Wolverines Win Tenth; Sunbrookers Move Up While Jaguars Fade

Four games were played in the Men's IM basketball league as the spring semester action got under way.

The undefeated Wolverines chalked up win number 10 by pasting the Jaguars, 63-44; the Sunbrookers jumped into second place by handing the Covites their second loss, 59-57; the Pioneers won their fifth game at the expense of the Vets, 53-32; and the Day Students absorbed their eighth straight reversal at the hands of the Bermudas.

Andy Balog paced the victorious Sunbrookers with 22 counters, although he was overshadowed by George Pote's 24 point effort in the losing cause. Teammate Glenn Burket followed Pote with 18 counters.

Wolverines Win

Bill Hartman, Ed Kohl, and Dick Lantzy scored 18, 15, and 14 points respectively to lead the Wolverines in victory over the scrappy Jaguars. Phil Lankford was the big gun for the losers with a 12 point effort.

Al Nyce's 24 markers paved the way for the Pioneers in their win over the Vets. Harry Samuels dunked 10 points for the losers, as did John Criswell and Henry Gibbel for the winners.

Randall High

A 19 point splurge by Don Randall was good enough to give the Bermudas a win over the hapless Day Students. Teammate Dale Baugher added 15 markers to the cause, while Barry Stayer dunked 16, and Jim Hunt and Larry Confer 12 apiece for the losers.

Running The Gauntlet

by Fritz Heydrick

Football coach Bob Hicks is all smiles over the return of three former Juniata grid players. "Lighthorse" Lundy Loschavio, Bill Waryck, and Don Brumbaugh will see action for the first time since 1951 next season.

Loschavio sparkpluged the 1951 gridders to a 3-3-1 season from the tailback slot, while Waryck was an outstanding defensive guard Brumbaugh has not seen college action since 1950 when he played with an Indian squad which compiled a 4-4 log.

A fourth returnee to the squad is fullback Harry Campbell.

The Indian cagers and Coach Greene are impressive off the floor as well as on, according to a recent letter received by Alumni Secretary Harold Brumbaugh from William N. MacClay of the class of '47. He complimented the team on their conduct while visiting Akron University last Saturday. Mr. MacClay said: "I am not personally acquainted with Coach Greene and I could not get to him at the game for a word; I know him only for his exploits in the fields of sports. But never have I seen a coach with better conduct while his team was in action. This action was, in turn, reflected by his team. Juniata College may well be proud to send out ambassadors such as these into unknown territory Moravian has lost to Albright 72-70 and such opponents as Lebanon Valley, St. Joseph's and Muhlenberg.

Lions Beat E-Town

Albright sports a 3-11 record with victories over other Juniata opponents Elizabethtown 71-68 and Bucknell 76-70, while losing to Scranton 56-55, Lafayette 88-71, West Chester, Dickinson, and Temple.

Coach Eddie Gulian's Lions had been hampered earlier by an injury to last year's high scorer Mike DePaul. DePaul missed five games but has managed to score 110 points in nine games for a 12.2 average.

Conrad Top Scorer

Leading Albright's scorers is Captain George Conrad who has hit for 253 points in 14 games. The junior forward has scored over 20 points in each of his last three games.

Junior Bruce Riddell is second high scorer with 151 points for the Lion squad, which is composed entirely of underclassmen. Also in the starting lineup are lettermen Bernie Krick and Don Pryor.

Rounding out the squad are letterman Bill Spaide and freshmen Bruce Storms and Ernest Firestone, who have seen a lot of action.

The Lions have been averaging 68.5 points per game as against their opponents 78.5.

High Scoring Squaws, Red Devils Win In IM

Two large scores were racked up on the 13th to terminate the girl's intramural basketball league play until after exams. The Red Devils took the first of the two games from the Punchy Pack by a 76-13 score and the Squaws came on in the second game to down the Tri Delts 92-8. Vinnie Berdge, Squaw forward, was high scorer for the night with 40 points followed by Red Devil forward Doreen Fyock with 28 points.

The Krazzy Kids captured the first post-exam game Monday night by knocking the Punchy Pack back for their second straight loss 63-22. The night-cap saw the Der Chums take the Tri Delts 31-23.

Jeanette Lowe led the scoring by dropping in 34 points followed by Jane Summy of Der Chums with 19 and Flo Wenzel and Norma Hottle of the Krazy Kids with 15 and 14 points respectively.

Next week will find six games on tap. On Tuesday night the Der Chums will encounter the Spoofers at 7:00; the Squaws and Krazy Kids square away at 8:00; and the Spoofers and Red Devils clash for the finale of the night.

Thursday night finds the Punchy Pack against the Squaws at 7:00; the Rowdies taking on the Krazy Kids at 8:00; and the Red Devils and Tri Delts climaxing the night.

A FAR CRY FROM SHERWOOD LODGE is the new Juniata men's dormitory picture above. Built at the cost of $425,000 the new building houses 130 men and a faculty proctor. Divided into two wings, the new resident hall is joined by a large lounge area. Featuring modern heating and room facilities the new hall was occupied for the first time January 24.

On The Club Scene

As the second semester gets underway, Juniata's clubs also resume their regular activities.

On Thursday, February 10, the regular meeting of the German club will be held. Mrs. Heidi Campbell, a student at college, will speak on customs in her native Germany. In addition there will be singing of German folk songs. The meeting will be held in Swigart Hall at 7:15.

Masque

The Masque is sponsoring tryouts for the Intercollegiate Reading Festival to be held at Penn State the first weekend in May. Tryouts will be based on 3 or 4 minute selections which can be prose, narrative poetry, lyric poetry or drama.

All students are eligible to participate and anyone wishing to do so should plan to attend the tryouts on Thursday, February 17. The meeting will be held at 7:15 in Founders Chapel.

Pyrenees Club

The regular meeting of the Pyrenees Club will be held next Friday, February 11, at 7:15 in Women Day Students' Room.

According to tentative plans, there will be either a play or a puppet show. Members of the club will present it in either French or Spanish. Refreshments will be served.

On Monday evening the WAA held a meeting in the Women's Gym, at which time final plans were made for the WAA-J Club basketball game. It will be held this evening at 7:30 in the Memorial Gym. (see story elsewhere)

More club news will be given in each issue of the Juniatian.

Music, Elementary Ed Majors Now Teaching In Area Schools

by Sandra Ewing

There are seventeen who reached the mountain's peak that day. At that point they donned their armor, buckled on their swords and went forth into the valley of the dragons.

This might well describe the seventeen J.C. students who began their student teaching in the fields of music and elementary education this semester. And here is a little "who's who" in student teaching.

The four music teachers are "serving their time" (this can be taken both ways) in schools in Huntingdon. They are: Jeanne Baker, JC's own nightingale, who is claimed by the Pennsylvania town of Waterford; Allegra Forney, our vivacious cheerleading captain, whose hometown is Martinsburg; the active secretary of the touring choir, Barbara Grim of York; and the lone (but indeed not lonesome, male of the group, Donald Brinton of Port Penn, Delaware, whom we remember for his role in the operetta.

There are thirteen elementary student teachers this semester. (All girls—lucky students!) Five are at the Mount Union schools. Two of these hail from Everett; they are Lucille Eshelman and Joann Feight. From Schuylkill Haven is Kaydonna Bubeck, a very active individual, who needs introduction to no one. Haddon Heights, New Jersey, claims Doris Wilson, who is the president of the Masque, and Framingham, Massachusetts is the home of the last (but not least) of the group, Anna Andrews.

The remainder of the elementary teachers are in the Huntingdon schools. At Alfarata there are Eleanor LaTulipe, a newcomer this semester, who came to us from her home near Hartford, Connecticut; Doris Markey, our pretty 1954 Homecoming Queen from Bunkertown; from Johnstown we have Janet Claycomb, whose activities are too numerous to mention; Marilyn Walters of Mt Penn, our I.V.C.F. president; Treasurer or FTA and member of the touring choir, Janice Ludwig of Royersford; an IVCF member, Reta Peck of Myesdale; from Media is Jeanne Snively, an active member in both Masque and FTA; and Mary Kay Jackson of Jersey Shore, who is not only secretary of her class and on the yearbook staff, but is prominent in many other organizations.

New Dorm Open House To Be Held Feb. 19, 20

Open House for the men's new dormitory has been arranged for the entire College community on February 19 form 2 to 5 o'clock, according to an announcement from the Public Relations Office.

February 20 the general public will be invited for an open house from 1:30 to 5:00 p.m. Arrangements for these affairs have been made by the Senate and Men's House.

Receptionists will greet the visitors and then turn them over to the guides, who will direct them on a tour of the new structure. Refreshments will be served by the Senate on both days.

Dr. Beahm —

Manchester College and Bethany Bibical Seminary. He later received graduate degrees from the University of Chicago and Manchester College.

After several years of work with the Brethren Church in America, Dr. Beahm served for 13 years as a missionary to Nigeria, West Africa, and during this time translated the New Testament into the Bura language of Northwestern Nigeria.

Vol. 31 No. 16 | Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. | Friday, February 11, 1955

Spiritual Emphasis Week's Climax To Come In Faculty's Homes Sun.

Spiritual Emphasis Week, now drawing to a close on campus, will be climaxed on Sunday evening with discussions taking place in the homes of various faculty members.

These discussions will be led by students. Those persons interested may sign the posted lists indicating they will be present at one of the discussions.

The history of Spiritual Emphasis Week dates back to early after the founding of Juniata. The first week in December of each year was set aside and designated as Bible Term. In later years, this has come to be known as our present Spiritual Emphasis Week.

Endowment Made

In the year 1921 an endowment of five thousand dollars was established by Mrs. May Oller Wertz of Waynesboro to provide a means of securing leaders for this week.

During this year's Spiritual Emphasis Week, February 7 to 13, "Why Christianity?" has been the theme of discussion.

Dr. William A. Beahm, Dean of Bethany Bibical Seminary, Chicago, was on campus Monday through Thursday to guide Juniata students in their quest of spiritual truth.

Chapel Speaker

The guest speaker addressed chapel during the past week on the subjects What Is A Chrisian?, How Do I Become A Christian?, and A Christian—So What?

Evening meetings were held, at which Dr. Beahm spoke, and on two afternoons there were teas in the I. Harvey Brumbaugh House, led by faculty members.

Finally, as is the cusom during every Spiritual Emphasis Week, morning devotions were held in the Stone Church of the Brethren, Monday through Friday.

Dean Names 16 Scholars To Fall Term Honor List

The Dean's List of Distinguished Students for the Fall term has been released by Dr. Morley Mays, Dean of the College.

Four seniors, one junior, seven sophomores, and one freshman were named by the Dean. The group includes eight men and eight women.

Those achieving the necessary 2.75 or above average for the term just completed were seniors, Margaret A. Hershey, French, Lititz; J. Scott Hommer, pre-med, Tyrone; John H. Martin, Jr. physics; and Joyce E. Rinehart, English, Taneytown, Md.

The only junior named to the list was Nancy F. Freed, an elementary education major from Telford.

Sophomores included Anne A. Appleby, languages, Mt. Union; Lawrence W. Davis, North Braddock; Jacquelyn A. Hayes, music education, Ebensburg; James M. Martin, science, Colver; Newton C. Taylor, pre-law, Huntingdon; Carol E. Titus, elementary education, Paulsboro, N. J.; and Joyce Ann White, liberal arts, Lewistown.

Freshmen who achieved the honor roll were L. Nonnye Huddleston, home economics, Ambridge; Robert C. Moore, chemistry, Aitch; Wilfred B. Staufer, liberal arts, Greensburg; and Carl L. Taylor, chemistry, Sinnemahoning.

All-Class Nite Nearing; Students Pick Leaders

Allegra Forney, All-Class Night chairman, has announced that the various classes have chosen their chairmen for the annual event, to be held April 2.

Paul Wingert, a senior pre-medical student from Altoona, has been selected to head his class skit.

The juniors have chosen Nancy Freed, elementary education major from Telford, for their chairman.

Sophomore co-chairmen for the affair will be Judy Gearhart and Jackie Hayes, music education majors from Philadelphia and Ebensburg, respectively.

Freshman president Vern Johnson, has announced that the freshman class will have as their chairman the person who submits the best idea for the skit. Entries are being judged at present.

The theme for this year's All-Class Night will be music. Alma Skinner, a junior from West Whiteland, is the assistant chairman.

A CUP OF TEA and some healthy discussion led by Dr. William Beahm like the one pictured above highlighted Spiritual Emphasis Week which draws to a close Sunday.

Students Total 598 For Spring Semester

As of February 2, thirteen students less than the enrollment of the Fall semester had registered for the spring term.

A grand total of 598 students, 362 men and 236 women, had been enrolled by that time. This means that for every girl attending Juniata there are slightly less than 1.533475 boys.

The day students of this semester outnumber those of last semester by six, 100 to 94. There are 498 resident students this semester, 19 fewer than in the Fall.

Play Will Feature Martin, Gearhart

Last week the birth of Bell, Book, and Candle was announced, and at this time it is maturing rapidly. The Masque tryout committee announces the following as members of the cast and that rehearsals will soon begin for the production on March 18 and 19.

Judy Gearhart, who charmed us with her portrayal of Sabrina in last year's production of The Skin Of Our Teeth, will play the role of Gilian the witch, in this year's production. Judy, who is veryactive in various College musical events, is a sophomore music major from Philadelphia.

Hershberger As Aunt

The role of Gilian's aunt, Miss Holroyd, was given to Mary Jane Hershberger, a junior music major from Everett, who is very active in the various musical groups on campus. This is Mary Jane's first role in a Masque play.

Richard Backus, a chemical engineering student from Dayton, Ohio, will play the role of Nicky, a worlock. Dick is also an active member of the Debating Club, and for the second year will represent Juniata at the State Debating Tournaments.

Redlitch, the author, will be played by Dave Amidon, an English major from Lititz, who is also a member of the Debate Club.

Pastels Provide Music Sat. Nite

The Social Committee, headed by Bill Schull, has announced the agenda for Saturday night, February 12. A Valentine Dance and movie are the main features.

The dance, sponsored by the senior and freshman classes, will take place from 8:30 to 11:30 in the Women's Gym. Music will be provided by The Pastels.

Entertainment Set

Half time entertainers include Judy Gearhart, Vocalist; Nancy Nevin, Vocalist; Peter Wright, pianist; and Ann Wilson. Refreshments will be served.

In keeping with Spiritual Emphasis Week, the showing of "Driftwood" has been arranged. It is a Republic picture co-starring Natalie Wod, Walter Brennan, Ruth Warrick, and Dean Jagger.

Movie At 7:00

It is the heart warming story of an eight year old girl whose advent into a sleepy community causes considerable upheaval.

Having a strong faith, this little desert waif helps save a whole town from a dread epidemic and in so doing changes the viewpoint o fmany of its citizens.

The picture will be shown from 7 to 8:30 P. M. in Oller Hall.

Research On Valentine's Day Discloses It's 'For The Birds'

by Nan Heller

Once again it's time for Dan Cupid to aim his bow and arrow and he'll undoubtedly take a potshot at quite a few of us (that is, if he hasn't already!)

But did you ever know that Valentine's Day is actually a day "for the birds"? Yes, February 14 was originally chosen to represent lovers because that was supposedly the day that birds start mating.

Pot-Luck Theory

Another theory of the day's origin is that it stems from the ancient Roman feast called Lupercalia. On this holiday the name of the available young maidens were placed in a box and each young Roman male chose the name of a partner for the Lupercalian feast. This haphazardly joined couple was expected to in modern terms "go steady" till next year's festival.

The Danes have a quaint custom for this day. On February 14 tokens consisting of pressed snowdrops and original verses are sent by a secret admirer. This Gaekkebrev (their name for the message) is signed with a series of dots, each dot standing for a letter in the name of the sender.

Morse Code

If the recipient guesses the person who sent the Gaekkebrev the sender must reward him with a chocolate or sugar egg at Easter time. However if the sender wasn't recognized by the dot signature, the one receiving the Valentine must give the Easter gift. Confusing, but think of all the Easter candy!

'Nother note of interest! You know the sacrificial comic Valentines that can be bought for a penny? They were once quite the nasty craze and in the early part of the century, 25,000 were rejected by the Chicago Post Office on the basis that they were "unfit for distrbution.

Chapels Will Feature Three Juniata Profs

Chapel programs have been released for the coming week.

Dr. Tobias F. Henry will address the student body on Monday, while Professor Paul Yoder is scheduled to talk on Wednesday.

The week's services will be brought to a close on Friday when the program will feature an address by Mr. Jack Padgett.

State Sponsors Reading Events

Tryouts for the Seventh Annual Pennsylvania Reading Festival to be held at Pennsylvania State University Thursday, April 28 and Friday April 29, will be held on Thursday, February 17.

It is to be made known that the Festival is not a contest there will be no judging or rating. As was the practice of previous years, scripts are to be used. The preliminary readings are to be three to four minutes in length, whereas the final readings are variable, ranging from eight to twelve minutes, acording to the subject one chooses. Students should not exceed the time limit in order to keep the program on schedule.

Each college taking part in the event is permitted to have a stuparticipating in three of the four reading events listed below:

Prose Narrative-10 to 12 min.
Poetry (long poem) 10 to 12 min
Group of short poems 8 to 10 min. (modern poetry welcomed)
Drama 10 to 12 min. (interpreted, not acted)

Registration

Registration will be held at 12:45 P. M. on Thursday, April 28in the Foyer of Waring Hall (west dorm) on North Burrows Street. No registration fee will be collected.

Those interested may obtain furthur information concerning hotel reservations, banquet and miscellaneous from the notice posted on Founder's bulletin board.

'The Choir Is Back' — Now Only Memories Remain

About 12:00 Sunday night a weary delegation of Juniata musicians came "home." Each dragged his suitcase of dirty clothes to his room, memories of a wonderful time erased any tired feelings. Every member of the Juniata choir and ensemble had some tales to tell of the tour through western Pennsylvania. Of course the most enjoyment came from singing a program of inspirational music to very appreciative audiences, but the good times had by all from just traveling and the experiences in different homes were the main topics of conversation.

by Jackie Hayes

Bus rides are so much fun, especially when everyone is hepped up. Naps during the trips were practically impossible, for the choir had a self-appointed cheering section.

Frost Bitten Singers

Everyone suffered from cold feet, especially on Friday morning when the bus heater froze. One restaurant on the road to Indiana will not forget the horde of Juniata students which invaded it to literally "take the heat". After the heater was repaired, we were kept awake by the melted ice which dripped from the ceiling of the bus. Believe me, some of those memories bring chills!

Before each concert, "on the risers" was the battle cry. It seemed to the fellows that they were invited along merely as furniture movers. After the concerts, we "bull-dozed" our way to the front of the church and were assigned to our homes, or "sold to the highest bidder" as it seemed to us.

In the morning, which was usually too early, roll call was followed by a general discussion concerning the night before. Sometimes the topics were about how far from the church each was situated, or about someone's bed falling down, or perhaps the antics of the family pet.

Not College Chow

After the trip it is quite obvious that the members carry a little extra weight around campus. This is the result of the fabulous quantity of food consumed at all the meals. Bacon and eggs hit an all-time high as breakfast food, but the other meals were varied. It seemed that each host tried to outdo the last. Fortunately the after-dinner singing revived our voices.

All in all the trip was really terrific and every member of the choir is looking forward to the next concert when we again can sing together "on the risers."

Dining Hall Problems Aired

Larceny?

Despite the availability of inexpensive shopping centers in Huntingdon the College dinning hall still seems to provide salt and pepper shakers and silverware for many students.

The practice of removing the dinnerware from the dinning hall has risen to a point this year where the staff is encountering a serious shortage.

There is absolutely no justification for anyone taking such dinner articles from the area. No matter how we try to explain the situation it boils down to nothing but plain, unadulerated theft.

Just like so many other instances that arise when stealing is involved in a college community; you are in reality simply hurting yourself.

Obey Now Or—!

About twice each year it is necessary to remind Juniata's male students that they are expected to wear a dress or sport coat to the evening meals.

Administrative and Senate anxiety indicate that this is one of those times.

We hesitate to use the word tradition in connection with this problem because in this case the wearing of coats is more than just tradition. It is an expected mode of behavior on the part of every male student.

The Senate took up the problem last week and expressly warned that failure to wear coats to the evening meals will invite disciplinary action on the part of the College oiicials.

We understand that eforts are being made to open the First Founders Hall for an entrance way for men at noon and evening meals.

On our part we urge you to take advantage of this additional entrance and abide by a rule that will be enforced.

What's Happening In Russia?

The recent resignation of Soviet premier Georgi Malenkov has raised many questions. Russia has been accustomed to long and stable regimes as characterized by Lenin and Stalin. The short rule of Malenkov is in strange contrast to this precedent.

Perhaps part of the answer may be found in the recent economic condition of Russia. Last year's crop was poor and heavy industry fell short of its production quotas. The politburi had to go back on its promises of an increase in the availability of consumer goods. Malenkov, in his resignation addres took full blame for the low condition of the country's economy. "I see . . . my guilt . . . for the unsatisfactory state of affairs which has risen in agriculture," he said.

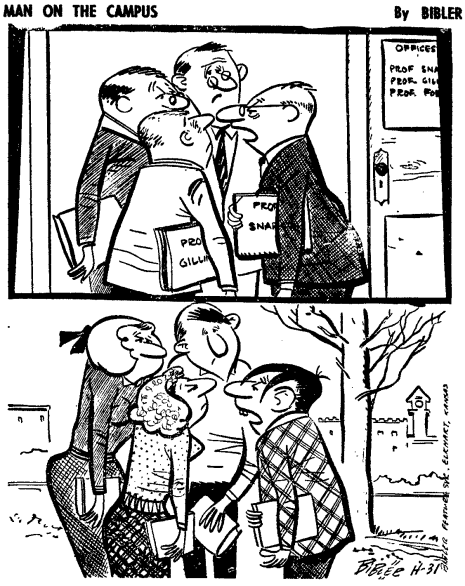
The Communists are well noted for their practice of producing scapegoats upon which to blame their shortcomings. Who could more effectively and dramatically fill this role than the Premier himself? The importance of the whipping boy could be an accurate indicator of the severity of the economic crisis.

—Of immediate concern to the Western world is the foreign policy of the new regime. In the last few weeks Russia has expressed concern over the actions of Red China. The prevalent opinion in western diplomatic circles is that this move indicates a tougher foreign policy on the part of the Soviets. How far will Russia go in backing up the expansionistic ideas of her Chinese allies. ?

A longer range outlook on the resignation may indicate a fundamental weakness in the Soviet governmental framework. One must be careful not to let his optimism run rampant, but the possibility is valid enough for some consideration.

In a dictatorial set-up such as Russia, extremely capable and strong men are needed to fill the top position. The appearance of one such man is unusual; and when two appear, it is phenomenal. Stalin and Lenin were such men as these. The relatively speedy remise of Malenkov may well indicate that the power-political struggle within the Kremlin is getting out of hand. We must be careful not to become blinded by the immediate aspects of this question. In doing so we might pass up an opportunity to further aggrevate this sore spot on the complexion of Russian government.

LITTLE MAN ON THE CAMPUS By BIBLER



Thank goodness its Friday, just one more day of classes!

Intercollegiate Chatter

By Nancy Freed

McPherson College went strictly medieval when it held "Castle Capers", a banquet for all history students. A barbecued pig was one of the main items on the menu. All those attending had to be dressed according to the custom of the day, and they were served and used the table manners in keeping with the medieval atmospheric setting. Chairman of decorations even went so far as to have straw on the floor and dogs and cats around the table. As part of the publicity two fellows gave singing commercials to the various history classes.

Stan Getz and his combo will be the main features of the jazz concert to be held on February 12 on the Dickinson campus as a part of their Mid-Winter Ball weekend. Stan and his combo will be followed by a Dixieland Jazz group composed of college musicians and finally a forty minute treat with Mr. Getz on the tenor sax. For five consecutive years Stan has been voted by "Downbeat" and similar magazines as the iation's greatest tenor sax artist." Quite a treat for modern jazz lovers.

Did you ever know the historical background of why examination periods were added to the college year? Some ambitious student at Hood College decided to investigate the matter. It seems "it happened many years ago when colleges were first organized.

The faculties of various colleges, after a few years of observance came to the conclusion that the lag between Christmas and Easter was detrimental to the student mind. Hence . . . the faculty delighted their students with on exam period. At first it was a wholesome intellectual experience." Today, Well ? ? ?

It's hard to find a student who has a feeling of delight in regard to those "blue books" (which always end up being green or some other color than blue), it's more of a cramming experience than an intellectual one for most students, and who ever lags between Christmas and Easter anyway?

Villanova's sharpshooting NRO TC rifle team did a fine job of firing itself into second place in the annual Hearst competition among Navy units across the country. They were surpassed in marksmanship only by the top-notch performance of ROTC team from the University of California.

North Manchester's college nurse made a slip of the tongue several weeks ago when giving instructions to the "models" for X-Ray photography. She said, "If you have anything around your neck that may show in the picture, take HIM off.

Accent On Reading

POWER AND POLICY, by Thomas K. Finletter. A former secretary of the Air Force presents a readable, objective analysis of factors to be considered in formulating American foreign policy and defense strategy. Believing that the public should be informed as to possible consequences of various policies that have been advanced or pursued, he discusses such alternatives as friendly alliances, preventive war, possibilities of action against further communist expansion, and enforced disarmament programs under international control.

THE FUTURE OF AMERICAN POLITICS, by Samuel Lubbel. This book deals with the underlying and seldom understood forces which are shaping our political life into an entirely new pattern, not party squabbles and intrigues. It is based upon a non-partisan study of election trends and political attitudes in three thousand counties, plus first hand investigation in key cities and rural areas from coast to coast.

THE AGE OF CONFORMITY, by Alan Valentine. In this study of American culture the author points out that the cult of conformity is destroying the very ideals on which this country was founded. He attacks our worship of the machine, our concentration on material standards of living, and watered-down education. He suggests that we develop more absolute standards, regain a more elevated, workable form of democracy, and prepare a foundation for a genuine American culture.

The Covites continued to reign supreme in the IM Bowling League as a result of their 3-1 win over IFT Friday night. The Tycoons retained their tie for second place as they beat out the Big Five 3-1.

The only other match scheduled for Friday went to the Wildcats by the forfeit score of 4-0 when the Whips failed to show up.

Joe Hinish, with 485 for the three games, and "Lefty" Alderfer led the Covites as they nosed out the IFT led by Bill Shull and Dick Fusco. The IFT could salvage only the second game of the match as Shull came through with a 205, high single game for the season.

The Tycoons were paced by the high Pinfalls of Dick Ikeda and Don Pheasant to drop the Big Five, led by Denny Deegan.

J-Club Defeats WAA; Outclown Girls In Annual B-ball Game

One could sense the excitement of the crowd as they witnessed a battle of the sexes in the Memorial Gym last Saturday night. In other words, the WAA—J Club basketball game, played according to the girl's rules and boys handicapped by boxing gloves.

Never before in the history of J.C. has a game so corrupt and unfair been received with such enthusiasm by the fans. This enthusiasm was shared by the players also, for, in the three minutes overtime the court became the scene of a "free-for-all" in which any fumble, intentional or accidental, was counted two points. But as in the past, the so-called stronger sex triumphed over the lassies by a 38-37 score.

Official Refs

Referees Kinloch, Mullins, and Snider, when questioned on some decisions that were debatable, gave this statement to the press. "Due to the lack of uniforms, discrimination between the players was extremely difficult, making those debatable decisions forgivable."

Although the WAA, led by high scorers Huttle and Derstine, lost the game by a narrow margin they gave me this bit of info which I promised to keep secret. May I quote, "We like men, 98% of the male composition is ego, thus to keep the dating situation at J.C. at its best (which is a little bit better than the worst) we had to defend their ego".

One of the game's highlights was, when due to the lack of fans in the J Club section, it was nessessary for the (boys) (men) (it depends of whom you're thinking of) to call time and give themselves a cheer. After witnessing their efforts I urge them wholeheartedly to stick to football.

And Here We Are

When the crowd roared "drop it in" (Miss) (Mr.) (take your pick) Barry Drexler accepted the challenge literally, and as fast as (her) (his) (its) size thirteens could carry (him) (her) (it), (he) (she) (it) carried the ball into the mezzanine, where (he) (she) (it) dropped through two points for the J Club. Ref's decision "good ball"!

(His) (her) (its) (we're just kidding, Barry) spirit was picked up by Birmingham, who carried on the enthusiasm, no matter what side he happened to be playing on at the time. These were only a few of the antics that delighted the audience and provided a fine evening of entertainment.

Running The Gauntlet

by Fritz Heydrick

Possibly it's a wishful thought, but, depending upon the outcome of the Albright game, Doc Greene's Indians have a chance to duplicate last year's 15-6 record; but only by winning all but one of their remaining games.

At this time last year the Tribe had an identical 8-5 record; then proceeded to win seven of their last eight games, losing only to Bucknell 84-77.

This year's squad finds a stronger schedule facing them, with powerful Westminster the most imposing obstacle. One advantage will find the Titans, and such dangerous opponents as Bucknell, E-town and Indiana STC, scheduled for the Indian's home court.

On the road the Greenemen have to face Susquehanna, American University, and Gettysburg. The Crusaders have been strengthened by the addition of George Romano, a transfer from George Washington, but should still prove ineffective. American U. has been having a so-so season, while Gettysburg has been suffering from a lack of height, depending upon 6'2" Bill Snyder to carry the scoring and rebounding load.

Some men, even after death, continue to live on in the eyes of the public. Such a man was Albert K. (Rosey) Roswell, veteran sports announcer and the number one Pittsburgh Pirate fan.

Many of us have laughed at and with Rosey because of his unique jargon in describing baseball games. His third strike term, "the old dipsy-doodle," or his home run bit"open up the window Aunt Minnie cause here she comes," will be sorely missed in the radio broadcasts of Pirate games this coming season and for many more to come.

Perhaps we, the students of Juniata College should take a lesson from this man's team loyalty, which was so well illustrated when he unashamedly called the Pirates, whether they be winners or losers, "my Bucs."

Cagers Lose Two Games To Albright, Greyhounds

The cagers of Juniata dropped their sixth game of the current season last Wednesday when an aggresive Albright team handed the Tribe an 81-63 defeat on the Albright home court.

Tribe Returns Home; Face Bucknell Here Wednesday Night

Doc Greene's courtmen come home again for a game with Bucknell Wednesday night in Memorial Gym.

The sophomore dominated Bison squad has not won a game since its opening night 102-87 win over Albright. Since then they have lost 11 straight to Lehigh, Colgate, Rochester, Rutgers, Penn State, Muhlenberg, Gettysburg, Lafayette, Albright, Iona and NYU.

Coach Ben Kribbs is still rebuilding in his third year as Bison mentor. Kribbs, who came to Lewisburg after a successful reign as coach at Clarion STC, is pointing to next year as the year for his five sophomores to come into their own.

Balanced Team

Although they lack height, 6' Marty Tannanbaum, 6' Joe Bacelli, 6'4" John Beatty, 6'2" Mike Corrigan, and 6'1" Norm Voohhees, are all averaging over 10 points a game, with Bacelli leading the squad with a 14.3 average.

Also likely to see action are 6'4" sophomore Al Kenzie, a transfer from North Carolina State, and seniors Dick Bradway, a 5'11" set shot artist, and 6' Ben Slavitt.

Play Tomorrow

Before coming to College Hill the Bisons have a chance to break their losing streak. They meet Dickinson tomorrow and hapless Susquehanna Monday night.

Last year Bucknell recorded a 4-16 record, splitting their two games with the Indians.

Stayer Paces Whips To Win Over Players; Sunbrookers Win Two

Jim Stayer had his best scoring night in the IM league Thursday night, leading the Whips to a 65-43 win over Players Inc. with 22 points. Herb Layman's 30 points for the Players went for naught as usual.

The Whips followed up with another win, 74-58 over the Vets. Olt paced the Whips this time with 22, while Drexler hit 23 for the Vets.

Covites Win

Meanwhile the Covites kept winning despite the loss of three key players. Joe Hinish's 22 points helped edge the Dead Shots 63-60, who were paced by Chuck Phillips with 25. Glen Burket's 27 sparked a 78-43 romp over the Bermudas.

The Sunbrookers strengthened their hold on second place by winning two. Gene Rothenberger's 31 points helped beat the Ramblers 72-55, while Balog and Fusco scored 16 in a foul-shooting contest over the unfortunate Dead Shots 57-54. Tom Cassily scored 19 for the Shots, 13 on fouls.

In other games the Pioneers split two, beating the once mighty Jaguars 44-38, and losing to McKees Creek 51-41. Steve Ulsh was high for the Creekers with 16, as the scoring in both games was thin.

Jaguars Dump DS

The Jaguars won their other game with an effortless 102-41 romp over the Day Students. Phil Lankford scored 33 to almost match the cellar dwellers offense.

One other game saw the Jabberwockys pull a sluggish contest with the Bermudas out of the fire 42-39. Smith was high for the Jabbers with 13.

Coach Doc Greene's revised Indians got off to a fast start and built up a 13-4 lead with the game only 4 minutes old. This point-spread was overcome by Albright at 6:05, largely through the accurate shooting of DePaul, a 5'10" guard.

Lions Lead

The Indians only hit 10-42 from the field the first half giving Albright a 32-25 point advantage.

In the second half Hallman hit for 14 points to lead the Indian attack but the surge was not potent enough to overcome Albright as DePaul continued to show fine shooting ability.

DePaul Has 28

DePaul countered 28 points to capture the individual scoring honors for the evening. Hallman had 16 and Froisland 13 in a losing cause for the Tribe.

Drop Fifth Game

Juniata was handed its fifth setback in 13 encounters this season when Moravian whipped the Indians 68-53 at Bethlehem last Saturday night.

Moravian led in the contest at halftime 27-23, the score being indicative of the poor shooting of both teams.

Three-Way Clash For First In Girl's I-M

There was only a solo game in the girl's intramural basketball league on Thursday, February 2nd which featured a 25-19 victory for the Squaws over the Der Chums. It was the fifth consecutive victory for the Squaws and leaves their season's record unmarred by a loss.

Patience Kimlock, Squaw forward was high for the night with 15 points, followed by Jane Summy of the Der Chums with nine and "Poodle" Wohlbruck of the Spuaws with seven points. The best performance of the night, however, was in the Squaw guards of Nancy Grace, Becky Guyton, and Margie Moyer.

Games this week were postponed due to Religious Emphasis Week. Next week the Der Chums and the Spoofers will begin play at 7:00 Monday night. Other games of the night find the Squaws vs the Krazzy Kids at 8:00 and the Spoofers against the Red Devils at 9:00.

Thursday night finds the Punchy Pack against the Squaws at 7:00, the Rowdies and the Krazy Kids at 8:00 and the Red Devils vs the Tri Delts at 9:00.

Student Day of Prayer Planned For Sunday

by Bonnie Brumbaugh

Sunday, February 20, has been set aside by student groups and congregations in many countries as a Universal Day of Prayer for Students.

This is a call of all Christians everywhere, whether Protestant, Jewish or Catholic, to join together in common intercession for students and Christian work amoung them in all parts of the world.

Juniata College students are being given the opportunity to participate in this observance. Each morning next week students are invited to go to the Stone Church for prayer and meditation. This will be a preparation for the observance of the Universal Day of Prayer Service which will be held in Founder's Chapel on Sunday afternoon, February 20, at 1:45 P. M.

In this call for prayer we are asked to remember the many students who are not able to study in the normal way because of the conditions in which they have to work. We are asked not only to remember these students who have difficulty and suffering, but also those students in the so-called Christian countries of the West who never heard of the hope in Jesus Christ.

Each person participating in this observance should also recieve spiritual blessings. At the same time, all those participating will be in prayer for one another and for all others.

When we observe the Universal Day of Prayer for Students, we will sing in our tongue; while students in other countries will be singing in their own tongue; we will be praying in much the same way but in different tongues; we will worship and intercede together with others coming from different Christian traditions.

Through this universal observance, we can perhaps better understand in a new way how all christians are one in God.

Masque Play —

Jim Martin will assume his first role in a Masque production when he portrays Shep, the object of Gilian's affection and witchcraft. Jim is a pre-med student from Colver.

Understudies Listed

Understudies of the cast are: Gilian, Lona Beabes; Shep, George Carnahan; Nicky, Clint Betz; Miss Holroyd, Barb Maurer; Redlick, Klare Sunderland.

Miss Doyle and the Masque tryout committee wish to thank all of those who participated in the try-outs and, also would like to urge anyone interested in the staff and crew of this production, to contact Miss Doyle in the near future.

Ohio St. Astronomers Report Radio Center

(ACP)—A precise position for the center of our island universe or Milky Way system has been announced by radio astronomers at Ohio State University here.

"Position of the nucleous has long been sought by optical astronomers," the Daily Lantern reports, but it is hidden from view by vast clouds of interstellar dust. However, the nucleous is a potent transmitter of radio waves, which are unhindered by the dust clouds that are readily received by radio telescopes.

"Our own sun and billions of other stars revolve at great distances around this hub, forming a gigantic wheel turning slowly in space."

"In a new report entitled 'The Radio Position of the Galactic Nucleous,' Dr. John D. Kraus and Research Assistant H. C. Ko, of the electrical engineering staff, pinpoint the position of the hub to a hundreth of a degree. Here tofore it has been estimated not much closer than the nearest degree."

Juniata Frosh Is New Vocalist

A freshman lad from Chester, Pa. this week set out to make a big name for himself in disc jockey circles throughout the country.

Two pop tunes, What Is Paris and I'm Crying Alone on the flip side, have been released by the Cadillac Record Company. Backed by the Ray Charles Singers and the Sy Oliver Orchestra, this platter features vocals by Andy Sheppard.

To JC students this up and coming singer is better known as Andy Pastuszek.

MINNESOTA QUIZ KIDS FAIL ON ALMA MATER

(ACP)—The University of Minnesota Quiz Bowl Kids, who have mowed down twelve universities in the weekly College Quiz program Saturday nights over NBC, come up with a complete blank on one question last week.

Not one could repeat the second stanza of the University's alma mater, "Minnesota, Hail to Thee."

Interviews With Tourists Show 'I Love Paris' Is Song Of JC'ers

by Alice Waite

From all the students who visited France we received one unanimous decision- the food was delicious! —even the broiled snails. For a typical meal of about $1.50 one can get salad, rolls, vegetables, steak, wine, and dessert.

Vinnie Birdge said France was the best country which she visited. Along with 1500 other Girl Scouts, she spent most of her visit on the Riviera. Many sailors were stationed nearby at Marseoille. According to legend if a girl touches a pom-pom on a French sailor's hat he will kiss her and according to Vinnie he did!

Romantic City

On her first visit to Paris it rained continuously so the "romantic city" did not live up to its reputation in Vinnie's opinion. On the other hand Sue Paxson thought Paris was just as beautiful as everyone said it was. Her disappointment was in seeing Notre Dame which was "the darkest thing I've ever seen."

Becky Guyton's introduction to France was at the customs which left her with a poor first impression. The strangeness of an unfamiliar country and language, along with the long holdups, were soon compensated for by the French cooking which, according to Becky, was "even better than home cooking."

Holiday Time

Several of the students visited this country while it was celebrating "Bastille Day", a holiday celebrated by merry-making, parades, dancing in the streets, a display of fireworks which "told a story in the sky", and dressing in native costumes.

Sue Jamison and her friend decided to try an experiment while in Paris and sat for two hours just watching the people pass by. In that time they did not see one happy face. The cold, bitter expressions reflected the inlaid fears of ruin and insecurity that the French people had.

Although the country of France was not one of the favorite ones of the students, Paris received their votes for being a top city in anyone's book.

On The Club Scene

Juniata's clubs are taking on an intercollegiate atmosphere as Penn Sate enters the scene.

Debate Club

On Monday afternoon, February 14, at 4 P. M. in Student's Hall, the Debate Club will hold a practice debate. It will be on the national debate question, "Should the United States Adopt A Policy of Recognition Towards Communist China?"

Another practice debate will be held on Wednesday, February 16, at 7 P. M. in Student's Hall. The club has extended an invitation to the Penn State club to debate the national question. The debate is set for February 23.

Masque

Remember Thursday, February 17, is the date for the tryouts sponsored by the Masque. This is for the Intercollegiate Reading Festival to be held at Penn State the first weekend in May. Tryouts will be based on three or four minute selections. These can be either prose, narrative poetry, lyric poetry or drama.

All college students are eligible to participate. Anyone wishing to do so should come prepared with a selection to the Masque meeting. It will be held at 7:15 in Founders Chapel.

IVCF

The regular meeting of the Intervarsity Christian Fellowship will be held on Friday, February 11, at 7:15 in Founders Chapel. This week's Bible study concerns Joshua 1:9-18. Anyone interested in Bible study is invited to attend these meetings.

Bill Smith Named '55 Scout Editor

Bill Smith, a junior history major, was named to edit the Scout for 1955 by the Senate in action taken at Wednesday's meeting.

A resident of Waynesboro he is co-sports editor of the Juniatian, junior class treasurer and active in intramural sports.

Joe Hinnish announced that the Red Cross Blood Drive will be held on campus March 16. He reported that 165 contributors must be signed up to make the trip successful. A special request has been made for ten Type O contributors.

Valentine Day —

But through all this — birds, Roman "Pigs in a poke", and Danish dots—today we have Hallmark and Norcross helping us to say especially nice things to our especially nice friends. But without their help we'd just like to wish all our readers a happy Valentine's Day, and may we suggest you go along with the birds on February 14—you might find they had a pretty good idea after all.

Dorm Unveiled In Open House Tomorrow, Sun.

Nevin To Address Students Fri. About Blood Donation Campaign

George A. Nevin, Assistant Director of Fund Raising for the Eastern U. S. area of the American Red Cross, has been scheduled to appear in chapel next Friday morning.

Sponsored by the American Red Cross, he will address the student body on the subject of blood donations, in order to start the ball rolling for Juniata's blood contribution campaign, slated to begin here in early March and run until March 16, when the actual blood will be given.

Born in Sunbury, Mr. Nevin was graduated from school there and then attended Pennsylvania State Uuniversity, where he pursued the pre-medical program of studies.

Joe Hinish and Nancy Nevin, chairmen of the campus drive, report that they will need 160 donors to insure success of the drive. A particular request has been made for type O blood.

From the time he left college until the outbreak of World War I he was engaged in show business as a theatre manager. With the advent of the World War however, he joined the American Red Cross and for four and one-half years served this organization in the Phillipines.

Returning to the United States, he became Assistant Director of the Red Cross Blood Program, stationed in Alexandria, Va., from where he now conducts his fund raising activities.

The chairman of the Juniata blood drive is Nancy Nevin, daughter of George Nevin and an elementary education major here. Anyone interested in soliciting for the campus blood drive should contact Miss Nevin.

Script Deadline Nears; Freshman Choose Head of All-Class Night Scit

The freshman class has named Andy Pastuzek, a music major from Chester, as chairman of their All-Class Night skit.

Scripts and committees for All-Class Night, which will be held April 2, must be chosen by this Monday, according to Allegra Forney, chairman of the event.

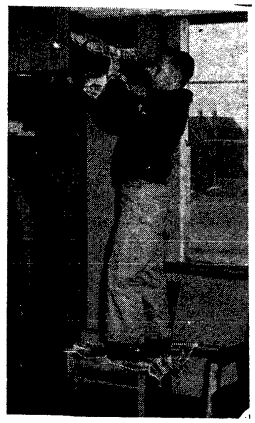
The central theme of the skits this year is music. Each class will have 22 minutes to present its production. The budget per class must not exceed $15.

Exhibitions will be judged on the originality, continuity, and integration of words and music in the scripts, the direction of the performance, as well as the interpretation and ability of the cast, and the costuming, lighting, set, and make-up.

It is emphasised that the production must not be merely a talent show. Skits should have universal appeal and be simple in scope.

Saturday Afternoon Set For Student's Inspection

Open house for the new men's dormitory has been arranged for tomorrow and Sunday afternoons by the Senate, Men's House Committee, and Public Relations Office, it was announced recently.



Freshman Tom Gasper cleans house for visitors.

The new dorm will be in full array for the visitors, which will include sub-freshmen and those here for the Elizabethtown basketball game, as the arrival of desks, headboards for the beds, and lamps this week completed the furnishings for the $425,000 structure.

Student Guides

Student guides will show the guests through the building, after they have been greeted by a reception committee.

They will be shown the modern automatic laundry, the electronically operated heating system, the large storage facilities, the natural brick lobby, complete with 27 inch television set and two-sided fire place, and the tile showers and wash rooms.

Modern Rooms

They'll also see the ingeniously planned rooms graced by built-in furniture, seven foot picture windows, and sound proof ceilings.

Rooms are finished in colorful hues with floors of plastic tile in complimentary colors. Also in the rooms are marble window ledges, built in recessed tile racks, and buzzers for communication purposes.

Students and faculty are invited to inspect the dorm on Saturday afternoon, from 2 to 5 p. m., while the general public is welcome from 1:30 to 5 p. m., on Sunday afternoon.

Punch, cocoa, coffee, tea, and cookies will be served by the Senate on both days.

Three Performances on Sun. Next on Agenda of JC Choir

This Sunday, February 21, the Juniata College Choir and ensemble will present the first of five short-trip concerts in three churches.

Chapel Program Set

Chapel programs have been announced for the week of February 15. On Monday Dr. Kenneth Crosby is scheduled to address the students. Dr. Edgar Kiracofe will be the speaker on Wednesday.

The student body will be addressed on Friday by Mr. George A. Nevin concerning the blood donation program.

Following the morning concert at Gettysburg, the choir crosses the Mason - Dixon line to give its program in Hagerstown, Maryland. Waynesboro will hear the choir in an evening concert.

The program which the choir and ensemble will present this year is varied and most enjoyable. It begins with the prelude, "Allegro and Adagio", by Hayden, played by the ensemble. The choir processional, "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah", a Welsh air, follows.

On the risers, the choir begins with a choral invocation, written by Professor Johnson. Next are the following selections:

"Song of Loyal Brotherhood"— Mozart

"Amazing Grace"— Southern White Spiritual

"Let Us Break Bread Together"— Negro Spiritual

"Alleluia"— Will James

The men sing two numbers, "Mighty God We Praise Thy Name", by Ritter; and "God's Son Has Made Me Free", by Grieg. The women also have two selections, "Let Thy Mercies Come Also Unto Me", by Davis; and "A Faithful Shepherd is My Lord", by Nogeli. The ensemble follows with the offertory, "Melody in F", by Gluck.

The choir and ensemble join together for the cantata, "Our Glorious King", by Camil Van Hulse. It is divided into four sections— "The Transfiguration", "The Prophecy", "The Ascension", and "Epilogue—Let Us Give Thanks".

After the choral benediction the choir recesses with the organ postlude, "Grand Triumphal Chorus", by Guilmant.

Students Off Campus For Practice Teaching

Four Juniata seniors are living off campus for eight weeks this semester in order to do their home economics student teaching.

The group includes Phyllis Davis from Huntingdon and Dorothy Stauffer from Pottstown, both teaching in Altoona; Lina Galushko of Vineland, N. J., teaching at Black Lick Township High School in Twin Rocks; and Miriam Myers of Carlisle, doing her practice teaching at Myersdale.

Committee Announces Plans For Sub-Frosh

The third sub-freshman weekend of the 1954-55 school year will be held this Saturday and Sunday, February 19 and 20.

Approximately thirty-five sub-frosh guests are expected. They will register upon arrival Saturday morning and will be given the opportunity to visit classes, meet faculty members, tour the campus, and generally become acquainted with life at Juniata.

Bill Shull Announces Informal Disc Dance

According to Social Chairman Bill Shull, an informal dance to records will be held in the Women's Gym this Saturday night after the basketball game with Elizabethtown.

Sub-freshmen, who will be on campus for open house week-end, are invited to attend this dance, as well as regular college students.

Dancing will begin as soon as the game is over and will continue until 11:30.

Tomorrow night's affair is another one of the regular College events scheduled on the annual social calendar and under the direction of the Social Committee.

JC Traveler's Give Impressions Of Germany's People and Places

The students who toured Europe found the Germans to be "helpful, understanding, and friendly". Brad Nichols added to this by saying that the Germans were interested in anything concerning America and had a first rate educational system. Dan Raffensperger said that, although the Germans appeared to be "down on their backs" they did not like it and were willing to fight back. Their difficulty lies in the need of a good leader. Perhaps the most characteristic feature of these people is that they will not give up hope.

While staying in Heidelburg, Becky Guyton had a lot of trouble with the difference in languages. She was staying in a house that was similar to many others and, and, on one occasion, asked directions to find it. Due to difficulty in understanding the language, Becky ended up in a very "out of the way" part of town.

Conservation Tough

The conservation of water was another element which caused Becky trouble. It seems the people of Heidleburg have to save water and use it over many times. Because of this they did not appreciate Becky's desire to wash her hair. While visiting Germany Becky heard lectures at Bond University on the subject of what German students think of Americans and why.

Students said the vineyards bordering the Rhine were planted straight up steep mountain sides where one almost had to crawl while tending to them. Wiesladen was reported as being like a fairy town with houses fashioned after miniature castles. This town was one of the most unusual ones in Germany.

Sue Jamison's ride along the Cologne River was marred by the rain, preventing her from seeing the castdes along its banks. Sue noted that, although ruins of the war were evident, these friendly but serious people held no resentment.

'All Black'

Stella Morgan saw her first chimney sweeps in this country. She said that they were "all black and carried little brooms". The farmers here used old fashioned tools, whole families working in the field together. Stella said the people roll out the "red carpet" for Americans but she was not sure whether it was because they like us or want our trade.

The consensus of opinions then were that Germans were friendly and happy people living not in the past, but in a more prosperous future.

Hinish Announces College Campaign Election Dates

Joe Hinnish, Senate vice-president, announced tolay that petitions for candidates to the upper four Senate offices will be available Wednesday.

In a complete roundup of election and campaign dates for the annual campus election was also released by Hinnish.

Class Officers

Class officers for the 1955-56 school year are to be chosen by March1. They will take office on Move-up Day.

Officer petitions will be due back to the director of the election by March 1and campaigns will begin the following day.

Chairman Petitions

Chairmanship petitions will be available March 2 and will be due March 11.

March 7 marks the end of the campaign period for officer candidates with the elections scheduled for Tuesday, March 8. Run-offs if necessary will be held the following day.

Club Elections

In addition Hinnish announced that all club elections should take place between March 15-19.

All elected officers will take positions at Move-up Day which is scheduled for March 23.

CIO-AFL Labor Merger Will Increase Pressure

Pressure groups seem to be an integral part of the American political philosophy. From the very beginning of self government in this country we have had interest groups applying pressure on the governmental structure.

Last week, down Florida way, a reconciliation took place that wedded the Congress of Industrial Organiation and the American Federation of Labor into a common unit. Thus two of our most prominent pressure groups in the last decade combined to form the most gigantic and inevitably industrial and political force in America.

Feuding between the two has managed to alleviate some of the pressure that they have always wielded. Now that they have formed bonds that will join together 65,000 local unions and 15,000,000 members under a common banner and with similar objectives.

George Meany is the head of the new coalition and the man who is generally contributed with the leading role in consummating the merger. An outstanding personal leader, who was able to overcome the grievances that had prevented the merger, he will now rank as one of the most influential leaders in America and in many ways throughout the world.

Even though the new labor federation commands such potential strength it seems far from reaching the peak which its leaders hope to achieve. Walter Reuther, hard-hitting CIO head, will probably head the organizing drive which hopes to gather 10,000,000 new members.

To American politics the coalition presents a force that must be reckoned with at every step. Labor policy has been a controversial sorespot for many years in the political campaigns but now it takes on a new light. A balance between big business and labor has been the aim of many far sighted leaders in the last decade.

Legislation has been tipped to provide better conditions for the working class without the national injury of strikes; but now we may see the scale tipped in the opposite direction. Labor pressure on representatives in Congress and men with ambition to gain a seat in Congress will have to recognize at least the CIO-AFL. Their present strength dictates this, but if they can manage to carry out plans to organize white collar workers under their banner and increase their membership by ten millions through expansion in the South and South-west their power will be immeasurable.

Several of the more radical individual union chiefs have expressed hopes that this new coalition will be able to harness big business by a wave of strikes that marked the early days of the CIO in 1936-37. However considering the immense power latent in this merger they will probably find their way clear to gain benefits through legislative pressure on big business and may even result in fewer large scale strikes than under the split demands of the two separate labor groups.

Where Do We Stand?

by Jimm Montgomery

In our headlong drive to rid the world of the evil spectre of Communism let us stop at times and consider just what we are opposing. Is it the idea of equality of income? Is it the classless society? If it is these, we are guilty of violating the American ideas of free expression.

We do however, oppose that in Communism which is totalitarian, dictatorial and barbarian. These are the discriminations that must be made, but too often are not.

The tendency to enlarge Communism to the proportions of a myth and develop a self-righteous crusading attitude toward it are all too prevalent. People who ten years ago spoke with a fellow traveler and professors who fail to live up to the current ideas of orthodoxy are all suspect of subversion and liable to investigation.

It must be remembered that the real dangers of Communism are not peculiar to that system alone. Such things were to be foud in the utterly democratic French Revolution. These perversions of governmental functions are the product of many similar revolutions and periods of internal stress. This is by no means an excuse for such actions, but rather a clarification of our own thinking.

It is only as the situation is understood in its true context that any realistic approach to the problem can be made. Moscow

Mays Prepares Juniata Catalog

Dean Morley Mays, Editor of the Juniata College Catalog, has announced that the 1954-55, 1955-56 issue of that publication is nearing completion.

It will follow much the same format as the one of two years ago, with no major revisions being made. Descriptions of the new campus buildings, new scholarship funds, and a few new courses will be included.

The catalog, which is being printed by the Evangelical Press of Harrisburg, should be ready for distribution in Mid-March or April.

The Juniatian

Entered as second class mail at the Huntingdon, Pa., post office, this is an independent undergraduate newspaper published weekly throughout the College year except during vacation and examination periods by the Students of Juniata College.

The Juniatian is serviced by Associated Collegiate Press and is represented for national advertising by National Advertising Service.

The Vet Says

Senate Prexy Top Korean Vet

by Stan Cipar

Since it is usually the policy of the JUNIATIAN to allot a certain amount of space to outstanding visitors to Juniata, we feel that it is only fair that we begin the practice of donating some space to some of our outstanding permanent campus figures. We believe the person most deserving of first consideration in this manner is Dick Fusco, President of our Student Senate. We know him in this capacity, but what about his background?

The first of five Fuscos, Dick was born on August 13, 1931. His hometown is Perkasie, Pa. In 1945 Dick entered Perkasie-Sellersville High School. Although he was acclaimed as a leader and athlete during his high school days, he was able to maintain a "B" average for the four year period. He was captain of the football and track teams, played basketball, and served as President of the Student Council. For his outstanding endeavors during this period, he was the recipient of numerous citizenship awards.

In 1949 Dick entered Juniata and, in his words, "he was a long way from home and mighty lonely." His first year was spent with the usual courses of study, J.V. basketball, track, and a sports-writer's job on the JUNIATIAN. We see already that Dick had a flair for activities.

Along came the Korean conflict in 1950, and Dick marched off in a new capacity—that of a soldier. He continued marching until he arrived in Korea in the role of Intelligence Specialist. He returned to the States after his tour was completed and was stationed at Fort Devans, Mass., until his discharge made Sergeant Fusco over into just plain Mr. Fusco.

That was June, 1952, and in September Dick decided to return to J. C., where he resumed his studies and activities. He became a member of the SCOUT staff, played football, and started to play tennis. Prior to that time, Dick had never even held a tennis racket. In 1953, Dick had progressed to the editorship of the SCOUT and captaincy of the tennis team. His outstanding tennis performances earned him a letter and a trophy.

We now find Dick in his senior year and far from lonely. He represents his fellow students as President of the Student Senate. He is a member of the J. Club, the Veterans' Club, and the tennis team (where we'll be watching him this spring.

About our college, Dick says, "Juniata offers a well-rounded education through its Liberal Arts requirements. Although I objected, at first, to integration and required courses of study, such as Ethics, I now find them more than beneficial for a well-rounded education and open mind."

After graduation Dick plans to seek employment in the personnel or administrative fields with one of the industrial concerns. We are sure of Dick's success in any field he pursues; his record with us is proof enough that he is the type of "go-getter" that U.S. industry welcomes with open arms. We are sure that he has the thanks for a job well done from students and faculty, alike, at J.C., and their wishes for a successful future.

The Alley Cats and the Mountateaineers have continued to press the Covites for first place while at the same time Rinso's Boys were dropped in the standings as a result of last week's IM Bowling League action.

Tom Appleby replaced Ed Pallo, who had been top bowler of the Mountaineers before he transferred, and led them to a 4-0 victory over the IFT as he rolled a nice 498 match. Jim Cain aided in the victory while Bill Smith and Bill Shull paced the IFT.

The Alley Cats borrowed Rich Ikeda from the Tycoons and Rich along with Dale Baugher and Bill Garrison, teamed up to shutout the Buckeyes led by Herb Layman and Ray Burket. The loss dropped the Buckeyes into a deadlock for last place

The Flames, borrowing Joe Hinish and Flo Wenzel from the Covites, rolled up the best team performances of the setson as they swamped Rinso's Boys 4-0. Hinish's 526 match total was also a season high. "Doc" Geiger assisted with a neat 493 match while John Criswell had a high pinfall for the losers.

This week the Whips currently holding last place, and the Crusaders, who were tied for eleventh announced they had elected to drop from the league.

Tribe Comes From Behind, Upsets Bolling AFB 65-62; Hallman Gets 27

Lee Hallman's 27 points sparked Juniata's Indians to a thrilling 65-62 win over the Bolling Field Generals in a March of Dimes charity game in Memorial Gym Monday night.

The Tribe put on a tremendous team effort in 40 minutes of fast hard-fought play.

Bolling shot off to a fast 12-0 lead, threatening to run the Indians off the court. The Tribe blew shot after shot until Howie Kerstetter made a "peepie" after seven minutes of play. The Generals led 16-2 when a sustained drive led by Hallman's 16 points closed the gap to 26-25 at halftime.

Lead Changes Hands

In the opening seconds of the second half Jack Golden put JC ahead for the first time 27-26. For the next six minutes the lead changed hands at a furious pace before Hallman's jump shot put the Tribe ahead to stay 38-36.

The airmen's husky center Ernie Warlick came alive to score 20 points in the half but Golden and Kerstetter kept the Indians a step ahead until Bernie Oriss, Barney McLaughlin and Hallman combined to push the lead to 62-53 with three minutes to go.

The Generals applied a full court press but they ran out of time, still three points short.

Only Hallman hit double figures for the Indians, while Warlick with 24 and a deadeye forward Jay Peterson with 12 led the Generals.

Indians Stave Off Rally to Beat Bucknell 70-66

Juniata's Indians held off a Bucknell rally to save a hard fought 70-66 win over the Bisons Wednesday night in Memorial Gym.

Jake Handzelek and Walt Vanderbush returned to the lineup and led the scoring with 13 and 12 points apiece in the second straight display of teamwork by the Tribe!

The first half spurts built up a commanding half-time lead as Doc Greene shuffled the lineup combinations successfully.

After five minutes the Indians broke loose for nine straight points and a 12-5 lead. Bucknell closed the gap late in the half, but another nine point break, led by Bernie Oriss and Chuck Gross, put the skids on the Bison drive and the half ended 36-29.

Early in the second half Handzelek and Barney McLaughlin scored eight to open the gap to 48-35. Bucknell whittled away steadily at the lead, while Vanderbush and Lee Hallman kept the Tribe ahead.

With three minutes to go the Bisons cut the lead to 63-59 with a press and fash break, but clutch baskets by Hallman and Handzelek iced the game.

Gross with 11 and Hallman with 10 points also hit double figures for Juniata, while center John Beatty and Norm Voorhees with 21 and 18 led Bucknell.

The Indians record now stands at 10-6, while Bucknell suffered its 14th loss against two wins.

E-Town Here Sat. For Return Game; American U. Next

Tomorrow evening Juniata meets the cagers of Elizabethtown on the Juniata Memorial Gymnasium floor. The Blue Jays of E-town handed Doc Greene's Tribe their first defeat of the current season as the Blue Jays battered Juniata on the E-town College court, 103-79.

Donald Smith, E-town's basketball coach, is in his initial season of college coaching. Smith, a native of Milton, Pennsylvania, has previously coached at Nazareth High School in Pennsylvania and has also had some experience in pro-ball with the Philadelphia Sphas.

The Smith-coached Blue Jays leave little to be desired as they have speed in playmakers Jacobs and Paone along with height in Stine, Lauris, Crumbling and Jim Chase, a freshman who has shown up well.

Next Wednesday the Tribe meets American University of Washington, D. C. on the latters home court. The Indians will be meeting one of their toughest foes of the season in American University who, since 1948, have compiled a record of 57 wins against only 1 1losses on their home court. In the six year span, only six teams have been able to beat the Eagles at home. Penn State has turned the trick three times; David & Elkins and Layola of Baltimore have won twice, while Georgetown, Mt. Saint Mary's and Fairleigh-Dickinson have won a single game.

Running The Gauntlet

This year's intramural basketball league has had an otherwise good season marred by the problem of poor officiating and occasional rough play. In most cases the effects are short lived, but several crucial games have been unfair tests because they turned into "free-for-alls."

Although Chairman Godshall has tried to alleviate the problem by assigning each team a pair of games for which it must supply the referee, the fact remains that the most competent players refuse to volunteer for the job, leaving the way wide open for more poor reffing, poor games, and complaints.

The players excuse their rough play by saying that a referee should control the game. Yet the responsibility must be shared by the teams. It is asking too much to expect an amateur referee to have the power to control ten short-tempered players.

Any suggestions ??

Wolverines Win Twice Continue Undefeated; Whips Pass Covites

by Dave Suloff

The men's IM basketball league neared the end of another season, and it began to look as if the Wolverines will be the champs.

In the action this past week, the Wolverines won two more games over the Day Students 41-25, and the Deacons, 84-36. In the first game Hartman was high for the Wolverines with 25, but in the second game, Ed Kohl garnered 24 points in one half. Dave Suloff was high for the Deacons.

Covites Romp

Other action Thursday, saw the Covites run over the Bermudas to the tune of 78-43. Burket was high for the game and the evening with 27 for the Covites. The Sunbrookers topped the Bermudas in a later game 64-46.

The only close tussle of the evening developed between the players Inc. and the Deacons. The Deacons, however, took the heat again, as they were edged out 48-46. Herb Layman led the Player attack with 24.

Creekers Win

Saturday saw McKees Creek win number 7 as they bumped the Bermudaes 75-56. Steve Ulsh sank 23 to lead the Creekers. The Vets meanwhile were winning the precious number one, as they downed the Jabberwockeys 51-42.

The fourth game of the afternoon saw the doomed day students go down to defeat again, this time at the hands of the Whips, 88-47. Olt and Fassnacht led the Whips with 20 apiece, while Deegan and Stayer dunked 12 individually to lead the Students.

Tuesday night's action saw the Creekers take the measure of the Dead Shots 76-65. Staley and Ulsh paced the Creekers with 23 and 22 points respectively, while Cassilly was top man for the Shots with 17.

The Whips continued their winning ways by squeaking by the Covites 49-48. Bowser, Fassnacht, and Schnably scored 14, 13, and 12 in that arder for the Whips, while Hinish and Burket hooped 13 and 12 respectively for the Covites.

In the remaining game of the evening the Jaguars completely outclassed and outplayed the Players, Inc. 90-31. Phil Lankford was high for the Jaguars with an amazing 40 points. Herb Layman countered with 13 to lead the Players.

E. Doyle Names Committees Of Masque Production Staff

The production staff of Bell, Book, and Candle has been announced by Mis Esther Doyle, Director. The staff is made up primarily of members of the Masque and the Play Production class.

Dick Livingston has been chosen as executive assistant and George Carnahan as stage manager. The assistant stage managers are Alice Jean Hoffman and Bruce Bennett. Set committee members include Maggie Simms and Lona Beabes, co-chairmen; Jan Schall, Flo Wenzel, Joyce Burket, and Willie Long.

The publicity committee consists of Ann Yesko and Ron Fink, co-chairmen; Joan McClure and Bob Reader. On the committee of hand properties are Dorothy Fogle, chairman; Jane Ellenberger, Dawn Kieferle, Barbara Maurer, and Edwina Lantz.

Klare Sunderland has been named business manager; ticket sales will be handled by Dick Livingston and Carol Holsopple; programs Dick Livingston, Edwina Lantz, and Mickey Matthews; and house management Dick Livingston, Irene Miller, Sandra Ewing, and Marge Evans.

The production date of Bell, Book, and Candle is set for March 18 and 19.

This Sun. To Be Day Of Universal Prayer

This Sunday afternoon at 1:45 all Juniata students, whatever their denomination, are invited to attend a 15 minute prayer service in Founders Chapel.

The day has been set aside by various student groups throughout the world as a Universal Day of prayer. Catholics, Protestants, and Jews alike will congregate to pray for students everywhere. The service will be non-denominational and non-sectarian.

Information Quiz Will Test JC IQ's

Again the time nears for that tester of knowledge, the general information contest. All Juniata students are eligible to enter this contest which will occur on March 14 in the library. The test will start at 4 p. m. but anyone entering before 4:30 will be admitted. The latest an entrant may start is 5:30 pm.

The winner will receive a prize of $15 with the runner-up also getting $10. Scores will be kept secret except to the entrants themselves.

Sample questions of this brain-tester are as follows:

1. Who won the Nobel prize for his contribution to the research that led to the discovery of the atom bomb? (Enrico Fermi)
2. Who painted "View of Toledo"? (El Greco)
3. The folk musical, "Plain and Fancy," which recently opened on Broadway, concerns what group of Pennsylvania's people. --(The Amish)

Dean's List Includes Soph. Ramon Burket

The name of Ramon C. Burket has been added to the original Dean's List of Distinguished Students, published in the Juniatian last week.

Burket, a pre-med sophomore from Roaring Spring, achieved the 2.75 or above average necessary to make the honor roll.

The list now includes a total of eight sophomores.

has made a secular religion of her doctrines of economics. This religion is complete with state worship and the intolerance of the inquisitorial M.V.D.

If we lose faith in our democratic tradition that we adopt the same fanatical measures ourselves, the battle is lost by default. The world is now divided into two armed camps.

The question now is; shall we attempt to live with them or shall we initiate a campaign which will prove mutually destructive? One of the camps has gone berserk with power, it is up to the other to remain steadfast if there is to be any hope.

Sheppard Murder Case, Dog Show Includes Names Of Former Students

A Juniata alumnus and a former student, presently residents of California, have recently been making national headlines.

Both Dr. Paul L. Kirk, famed criminologist in the Sheppard murder case and Dr. John Saylor, owner of the bulldog who this week walked off with top honors in the Madison Square Garden Dog Show, formerly attended Juniata College.

Kirk was a student here from 1916-1917, when the institution was known as Juniata Academy. He went on to obtain a B.S. from Ohio State University, an M. A. from the University of Pittsburgh, and a Ph. D. from the University of California.

The noted criminologist, whose headquarters are at the University of California, is the outstanding exponent of using science to solve crimes. He is the author of Crime Investigation, Physical Evidence, and the Police Laboratory. Dr. Kirk, who is a native of Fuiton County, is the latest in a list of investigators to be called in on the Sheppard case.

Saylor, who received a B.S. in pre-med from here in 1942, obtained his M.D. from Harvard Medical School. He is originally from Pottstown but now has a practice in Long Beach, California.

His bulldog, Champion Kippar Fearnaught, was awarded first prize in the 79th Annual Westminster Kennel Club Dog Show. The dog, who was imported from England 14 months ago, is known as "The Waddling Champion of Bulldogs."

Vol. 31 No. 18 | Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. | Friday, February 25, 1955

Rainy Belle Linn, Senior JC Coed, Will Spend Summer In Luxembourg

Rainy Belle Linn, a senior home economics major here, is one of three former 4-H Club members from Pennsylvania who have been chosen for International Farm Youth Exchange goodwill missions abroad during 1955.

Miss Linn, 1953 Pennsylvania clothing project winner in the National 4-H awards, will be stationed in Luxembourg. She will exchange language skills and rural life customs with host farm families abroad with whom she will live as a working guest. She will leave for Luxembourg from Canada in June and return in November.

In addition to her 4-H activities, Miss Linn is secretary of the Juniata Student Senate, a member of Lambda Gamma and former president of that organization, a member of the W.A.A., and head waitress in the dining hall.

As a result of the clothing project contest last year, she received an expense jaid erip to the 4-H Congress sessions in Chicago.

JC Graduate, Bieber, Conducts Exploration Of Iwo Jima Caverns

, "What a place it was — jammed with petrified bodies, their faces still recognizable!"

That is the way Capt. George S. Bieber, an Air Force Chaplain and a graduate of Juniata, described the fortress of the read beneath Iwo Jima. Since arriving on Iwo Jima, Capt. Bieber has spent his spare time mapping the underground passages where the remains of about 10,000 Japanese soldiers lay in the maze of caves.

Air Force Study

Chaplin Bieber conducted his unusual explorations from October, 1953 to September, 1954 in order to produce a Far East Air Force Staff Study in the subject. At times the Captain was forced to use oxygon due to the noxious fumes that made of the lower levels of these grim caves certain death traps. At all times the presence of ancient correded Japanese ordinance: hand grenades bonmbs, shells, and bullets, made the Captains task one of great danger.

Captain Beiber estimates that there are easily from 10,000 to 15,000 mummies and skeletons still inhabiting the caves of Iwo.

Statistics Reveal Intellectual Boom

According to a report recently released by Mrs. Sarah Hettinger, hear librarian here, the number of books borrowed from the Juniata library from June 15 to January 31 of this year exceeded the number borrowed last year during the same period by 5,450.

Contrary to the students' intellectual boom is the record of faculty borrowing, which has decreased during the past year. The report would seem to indicate that the students are becoming more conscientuous.

The library now contains over 150 magazines more than it did last year, and the government documents outnumber those of 1953-54 by over 1000.

Mrs. Hettinger reported that last February, after grades had come out, there was a definite slump in library attendance. This year, however, there have been as many as 78 in the library at one time, and it is usually comfortably full every afternoon and evening.

All-Class Nite History Began Back In 1937; Silver Cup Is Trophy

The All-Class Night committees are diligently at work perfecting their scripts, holding tryouts, and, in general, getting their productions ready for the big night, which, this year has been set at April 2.

Already the skits show signs of keen competition for the coveted silver cup. A board of judges from out of town will determine which of the four 22 minute music skits will receive the

All-Class Nnght was originated in 1937 to "allow the inventive genius of the students to be stimulated in nonstereotyped programs." A new policy was initiated last year by dividing the types of skits into four categories—History, Music, Drama, and Comedy. These will rotate every four years as themes for the class productions. Last year the seniors were awarded first prize for their historical Greek drama.

Allegra Forney, All-Class Night chairman, anounced that this year the skits may range from a minsteral to an opera. The proceeds from the production will be used to cover the expense of May Day in the spring.

Central State Students Give Opinions Of Quizzes

ACP—True-false tests took a beating and were characterized as "sometimes presented in a tricky manner," according to results of a faculty-student survey taken among approximately 300 Central State College students. "Pop Quizzes" drew even more unfavorable reaction.

Two hundred and eighteen students considered true-false tests "inadequate to measure the knowledge of a subject," while 69 students disagreed. Sixty nine students thought that "pop" quizzes should be given, while 272 voiced objection.

A report in the University of Buffalo Spectrum gave the following figures:

Sevenhy percent of those questioned thought that at least three to nine tests should be given during a semester before a semester grade was given. Fifty seven per cent thought that from four to nine or even more tests should be averaged to estimate a final grade. Tests frequently given were thought to be written for past classes rather than for the current semester, 199 students said, while 136 felt that all tests appear to be current.

Suggestions offered included study sheets which would indicate material a test would cover; and frequent tests to enable students to become familiar with the type of test presented by professors and to give better understanding of what to study.

"The survey seemed to reveal that if the instructors would give more tests the student would study for each individual test and thus keep his studies up to date," the Spectrum report concludes.

Game, Dance Feature For Saturday Night

Immediately following the Susquehanna basketball game tomorrow night there will be an informaldance in the Women's Gym.

Music will be provided by records, and the dance which is sponsored by the Social Committee, will last until 11:30.

All students are invited to attend this affair.

Janet Claycomb, JWSF Head, Gives Final Report For Drive

Masque Selects Trio For Reading Festival

George Carahan, Robert Reader and Klare Sunderland were selected to represent Juniata at the Intercollegiate Reading Festival.

Selected from 11 participants at last week's Masque meeting, the trio will take part in the annual event at Penn State April 28 and 29.

Weinrich, Renowned Artist To Appear In Oller Hall Mon.

Carl Weinrich, world famous organist and said to be one of the three greatest living interpreters of Bach, will perform in Oller Hall Monday morning at 10:00.

Carl Weinrich
At the Console

While his program will contain two of the works of Bach, "Concerto in A Minor" and "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor," works by other outstanding composers will be played as well.

Born in Paterson, N. J. in 1904, he has studied in New York, Philadelphia, and Paris. His organ studies were completed under Lynnwood Farnam, organist at the Church of the Holy Communion in New York.

At the present Weinrich is Director of Music in the University Chapel at Princeton. In 1950 he was invited to Harvard University to give eight recitals as Lamb Visiting Lecturer—the first time this Lectureship had been awarded to a performer.

He is also noted as an authority on organ construction and design. Mr. Weinrich was engaged as one of the advisors in the reconstruction of the old Boston Music Hall organ.

Among the works he has edited is the Schonberg Variations, called one of the greatest contemporary works for the organ.

Masque Prepares For Annual Show

The Masque presentation, "Bell, Book and Candle," is still just a name and an idea to most people here on campus. To those who are concerned with its production, however, it is a real, living thing, with funny and solemn facets.

This week and every week until March 18 and 19, the dates of production, the members of the cast will be busy rehearsing. In these rehearsals are worked out all the problems of movement and placement, as well as acting.

The players, for several hours each week, work at becoming a little like themselves maybe, but who is an entirely different personality. Does it sound confusing? Well, it is a very complex task, requiring much effort on the part of everyone concerned.

Incidently, this concentration must be working, because Miss Doyle, who is directing "Bell, Book, and Candle"is very pleased with the progress the characters have shown in working together as five people who won't really exist until the performance before an audience.

Mon.'s Performance Begins At Usual Time

The regular schedule of classes will be in effect on Monday morning, when Carl Weinrich, organist appears in assembly, beginning at 10:00 A.

However, as the program will probably extend past the normal half hour, the loss in time will be shared between the remaining two class periods. Plans are to run morning classes to 12:40 if necessary, in order to keep the loss of class time at a minimum

JC Choir To Appear In Chapel Next Wed.

Chapel programs for the week of February 28 will present a special emphasis on music. On Monday Carl Weinrich, a noted concert organist, will give a recital on the Oller Hall console.

The Juniata College Choir will present a half hour program of acappella music on Wednesday.

The speaker for Friday will be the Reverend Mr. Frederick Hollingshead, of Harrisburg. Rev. Hollingshead will be conducting the services for the Spiritual Emphasis Week in the Stone Church.

American Travellers Remember Italians' Welcome and Spaghetti

If you would ask Becky Guyton what her impression of Italy was she probably would respond with the remark that the only thing wrong with this country was its love for spaghetti. Because they thought it would please American tourists, the Italians served Becky and her friends no less than twenty-four spaghetti dinners while they toured the country!

Becky's first sight of Venice was at the worst section of the city where it was very dirty. Because of this she formed a bad opinion of the whole city but after traveling around she agreed with Sue Jamison who found it very lovely and artistic.

Gondoliers

Sue went on a four hour gondola ride accompanied by the singing of the gondolier. (This may bring back memories to many Juniatians who had a "taste" of Venice in last year's operetta, "The Gondoliers".) To Becky the canals were only one outstanding feature, the other being that this was the first place she found real "honest to goodness" American ice cream.

While visiting the American Embassy in Rome, Becky felt much more at home, for here she did not have to be so careful of her manners or actions because of it being American territory.

Sandy Johnston liked the Roman people she came in contact with but added that their charming ways could have been due to their jobs of entertaining tourists. Since Sandy spent a good many weeks in Africa, Rome with its beautiful green lands was a pleasant relief. In contrast, Sue Jamison found Rometo to be let down after having seen Paris. Rome to her was classic whereas Paris had been definitely on the romantic side. Sue saw the steps in the Roman Forum from which Mark Antony was to have given his famous speech.

Italians Concerned

Dan Raffensperger said the Italians were gay and lazy people but had a sort of "concern" for affairs going on around them that made one respect them.

Italy, though not a favorite of the students, was well liked due to the people's doing their best to welcome American visitors.

Editorially Speaking

Old Chestnut Used

Democratic leaders in Congress seemed to have backed Ike up against a wall in the income tax squabble. Faced with the prospect of a bill cutting $20.00 a person in income taxes starting next January 1, Ike would like to veto the bill and hold the additional income for necessary expenditures.

House leaders expected the Eisenhower veto and put him in a ticklish spot by incorporating into the bill a section that would postpone corporation tax cuts which are set to expire April 1.

A veto by Eisenhower would jeopardize hope to have corporation taxes kept at the 52 per cent figure instead of the automatic drop to 47 per cent in April. To add to the tight spot the House Ways and Means Committee have incorporated the excise tax portion of the old bill in this new proposal.

For Ike not to veto the bill would mean a loss of two billion dollars for the treasury through the drop of $20.00 per person. If he does the Treasury will stand to drop one billion through the excise tax. There seems to be little worry that the Congress will let the corporation tax drop to 47 per cent so Ike will be forced to veto the bill and thus cut the Treasury loss by a billion. The bill to continue corporation tax at the present rate may be passed any time from April to December 31 and be retroactive for the entire year.

But consider the powerful propaganda weapon his refusal to sign this bill will make at the polls next year. Income tax reduction is a real hot potato for the politicians and each administration in office finds it extremely difficult to live up to election promises along the line.

This bill will be particularly valuable as a political weapon if Eisenhower decided to run in 1956. He has taken up the problem in a personal battle with the Democratic controled House and is thus pictured as opposing tax reductions for the American people.

Important Period of Year!

The most important period of the College year began yesterday and will continue for four weeks. During this period you will select the people of the student body who will be the directors of student affairs on campus.

It would be hard to underestimate the importance of this one month period of each year. Club, class and Senate officers are chosen at this time. Thus the functional efficiency of these student organizations can be determined for the next year by the people you pick to head them.

Responsibility for good leadership lies with the voters. In this case, as a member of the Juniata College Community, you happen to be the voters. With you resides the responsibility to vote and to vote wisely.

Complaints of lax leadership become prevalent each year. The only true way these complaints can be eliminated is by careful selection of competent leaders.

During the coming month remember the problems that may come up next year. Compare and evaluate the candidates for each position as a serious job that you alone can perform. Responsible leadership in the coming year can make it a banner year for Juniata and us as students.

Muskets To Atoms

The birthday of George Washington always manages to bring out the patriotic aspects of American politicians as they capitalize on the holiday to expand personal motives.

A delegation of our national representatives were treated to a different type of observance last Tuesday. They witnessed the explosion of a rocket type atomic weapon on the White Sands proving ground.

Must have been quite a demonstration of the strides that have been made since the Minute Men of 1776 'fired the shot heard round the world' with their hand loaded muskets.

The Vet Says

WelcomeBack---BillWaryck!

By Don Speck

One of the additions around campus at the start of the Spring Semester, who may seem new to many of the students at Juniata, but who is in reality not a stranger to these parts, is Bill Waryck. Bill has just re-joined our student body after an interruption of some two years in his scholastic endeavors. By this article we wish not only to acquaint the students with Bill, but we also wish to welcome him once again to Juniata College.

Bill is a graduate of Aliquippa High School. During the time he attended high school, he took an active part in sports and was a member of the Varsity Club. He played guard on the football team and participated in the javelin and discus events on the school's field and track team. During his senior year he served as manager on the outstanding basketball team, which conquered the Pennsylvania State championship.

He started to Juniata in the fall of 1949, at which time he made a good showing at the guard position on the football team. He became a member of the J Club, and continued his studies and activities until 1951. At that time he received a call from the U. S. Army.

Bill reported to Fort Knox, Kentucky, for basic training, and was then sent to Fort Devans, Massachusetts, to the radio operator's school located there, to become a full-time member of the U. S. Army Signal Corps. After he had completed the intensive training given at this school, Bill was reassigned to Korea, where his outfit contributed outstanding performance to our cause in the recently ended hostilities. Bill is not particularly fond of his memories of Korea, but he does look back with some pleasure at the times he spent in Japan (Tokyo and Kyoto) on rest and recuperation leave from the combat area.

At discharge date, Bill was a corporal and the holder of the United Nations Service Ribbon, the Korean Service Ribbon with two combat stars, the National Defense Ribbon, the Korean Presidential Citation, and the Unit Citation for Meritorious Action.

Leaving these memories to the past, Bill again entered Juniata in February, where he hopes to pursue the field of secondary education, with majors in physical education and history. Also, he hopes to rejoin the football team next fall, and we are sure that he will be a welcome addition.

When asked if he had noted any changes about JC since his last visit, he stated that there seems to be more school spirit than ever around campus, and, also, that social activities seem to have hit a new high compared to prior years. Bill has said that he intends to place primary emphasis on his studies for his remaining year and a half, in order that he will be better suited after graduation to take his place in the progressing yorld. Although he intends to participate in activities, he realizes that his prime motive for being here is to acquire knowledge, and he has made this his first concern. With this attitude, we are sure of his success during his remaining days at J.C.

Intercollegiate Chatter

By Nancy Freed

The students of MacPherson College have an opportunity to add credit hours to their record by enrolling in a summer course of "Field Session in Mexican History," which contains travel and residence in Mexico. The class meets on the campus on August 3. They remain there 3 days during which time they read 500 pages of outside material to acquaint the members with Mexico's history. The group then travels to Mexico where they will see bull fights, floating gardens, and the pyramids north of Mexico City. What an ideal way to be educated!

The home ec students of Keuka College have turned home "dec". During the year the students will plan and execute various projects to put to practical use the skills they are learning in class. In this manner the social rooms and living quarters of the college are to be kept in good condition. An idea worth considering.

The School of Education at Cornell has announced the annual grant of fellowships amounting to $1800 leading to the master of education degree in an experimental program in elementary teacher education. This program was inaugurated to determine how best a graduate school can contribute to the preparation of liberal arts college students for teaching in the elementary grades. Fourteen awards are available to students who have maintained a B average and who have not taken professional education courses nor had any formal teaching experience.

Something new and different was recently added to DePaul University's social activities. The main attraction at the Vanentine's Day Dance was the choosing of Mr. Fraternity on the basis of popularity and personality. This Sir Knight contest was aimed at providing recognition for the popularity of a fraternity man. The contest is a unique feature of DePaul as it is the first time any organization has run men instead of women in a University wide contest.

An inquiring reporter recently presented the populace of Dickinson College with this question: "What would you do if this were your last day on earth?" Here is a cross-section of the many and varied answers that were received.

Party, party!

I'd attempt to write all I learned in life so people wouldn't make the same mistakes and so they would realize how great life is.

Pray

Kill myself to end the agony or read Alexander Pope until I die.

Gather all my assets and divide the day into six periods of 4 hours each. I'd spend the first and last with my family, the second and third with my friends, the fourth with sex as the motive and the fifth by myself.

Accent On Reading

THOSE WONDERFUL OLD AUTOMOBILES, by Floyd Clymer—This volumn describes the endearing characteristics and oddities of the automobile's first years; the weird laws, the early gasoline stations, first roads, and diabolic speed traps; it also includes automotive novelties, outlandish auto fashions for women, and a section on restoration.

TREASURE DIVING HOLIDAYS by Jane and Burney Crile.—An authentic, lighthearted recital of the Crile family's adventures in diving for pleasure. The authors experimented with homemade equipment in Lake Erie and the waters off Florida's west coast, but soon graduated to a variety of more expertly devised equipment and made themselves at home in the waters of the West Indies, the California coast and the Mediterranean.

KEGLERS KORNER

by Larry Confer

The rising Mountaineers continued to gain on the first place Covites in the IM Bowling League last week as they shut out the Tycoons while the Covites were barely able to capture three points from the Buckeyes.

Tom Appleby and Jim Cain turned in top performances for the Mountaineers as the team once more went over the 2000 mark. Appleby turned in the top individual performance for the week. Bud Douds was high for the losing Tycoons who slipped deeper into fourth place as a result of their loss.

In the only other match played, the Covites hung on to first place as they took the Buckeyes 3-1. Joe Hinish again sparked the Covites and Ray Burket paced the losers.

A LOOSE BALL produces a royal scramble as JC cagers fight to gain possession.

Greenemen Lose 65-62 To American University

The cagers of American University handed the Juniata Indians a 65-62 defeat in Washington, D. C. last Wednesday evening.

Kerstetter and McLaughlin kept the Tribe in the ball game throughout the first 8 minutes with some spirited offensive play. Frand Weiss, talented American University center, was the thorn in the side of the Indian defense. He emassed 28 points in the ball game, 18 of them coming in the first half, which accounted for the score at halftime being 34-29 in favor of A. U.

Handzelek Hot

In the second half Greene's court-men came back strong led by Jake Handzelek, who hit for 23 points in the second period. Jake literally kept the Indians in the game as he hit 10 of 17 attempted shots from the field.

With three minutes left to play in the game Juniata held a 62-59 advantage. Frank Weiss came through for American University's winning bucket and led his team to victory over the hard fighting Indians.

Jake Handzelek was once again the bright star in the Juniata attack as he hit for 31 points, which was high individual total for both teams in the contest.

Streak Broken

The Greene-coached Juniata cagers, with a 16 game winning streak at home, were finally defeated on their home court when a strong E-Town team turned the trick 68-64 last Saturday evening.

The near capacity crowd was treated to one of the better Indian games of the season, seeing the Tribe outscore the Blue Jays by 10 points from the field only to be beaten at the foul line.

There was never more than a seven point spread in the first half and the count at intermission was 33-33.

36-33 At Half

E-Town got off to a 33-36 lead early in the second half and the Indians never caught the Blue Jays from that point. E-Town managed to keep the lead through a slow deliberate type of offense and by employing a full court press on defense.

Handzelek dumped 26 for the Tribe with Vanderbush, Hallman and Kerstetter each getting 10. Sal Paone, Jim Chase and Dick Stine contributed the crux of the E-Town attack.

The Elizabethtown Junior Varsity upset the Juniata Hicks-coached little Indians by a 69-65 count.

Indians Face Crusaders, Rangy Westminister Five

Doc Greene's courtmen face two, and possibly three, games this week, starting with an encounter with Susquehanna tomorrow night in Memorial Gym.

Monday night the towering Westminister Titans come in, while a scheduled game with Indiana STC Wednesday night is in abeyance awaiting an NAIA decision.

Poor Record

Susquehanna will come in with a mediocre record and a varied lineup. At forward are 5' 1" senior Dick Owen and 6' 2" sophomore Frank Romano, a transfer who has become the Crusaders' leading scorer. 6' 6" freshman center Dwight Huseman and guards Gerald Herbster and Richard McCarty round out the starting lineup.

The powerful Titans from Westminister sport a 12-9 record and an all underclass lineup, led by center Jim Riley, who is averaging 23.6 points a game.

In addition to the 6' 5½" sophomore star, Coach Grover Washabaugh can start a lineup averaging 6' 3½". At forward are sophomore George Strehler and junior Tom Schrecengost, both 6' 4" and the third and fourth individual scorers from last year.

At the guards will be 6' 2" sophomore Harold Davis, second high scorer of last year's 17-6 squad, and either Bob Doran, a 6' 2½" junior, or 6' 1" sophomore Charles Garrett.

Among their losses the Titans can count two close games with Duquesne, the latest being a 55-53 thriller. Before coming here the Blue and White must face Geneva, Baldwin-Wallace, and Carnegie Tech.

The game with the high scoring Indiana Teachers may be postponed, as they are under consideration for the District 30 NAIA playoffs.

Whips Drive Into Third As Stayer Stars Again, Jabberwockys Win Two

Jim Stayer's new season high of 24 points sparked the Whips to a 92-64 win over the Romblers last Thursday night. Chuck Seeley scored 16 for the losers. The Whips then continued their drive for second place with a hard-fought 61-60 victory over the Dead Shots.

The Shots blew the game in the closing seconds when they were unable to sink three "crips" in a row. Even up in field goals at 26 apiece the Whips won at the foul line 9-8. Ken Fassnacht led the Whips scoring with 20, but the league's top scorer, Chuck Phillips of the Shots, hit 27.

A 66-50 breeze over the Deacons got the Jabberwockeys back on the winning track. Kaylor scored 17 for the Jabbers, but Brian Stauffer was high for the Deacons and the game with 18.

Monday the Jabberwockys made it two in a row by coming from behind in the last quarter to edge the Jaguars 51-47. Smith and Veto led the Jabbers with 14 apiece, while Phil Langford got eight of his 15 in the last quarter to keep the Jaguars in the game.

In the other games the Covites rolled along with a 69-48 romp over the Pioneers. Pote with 21 and Burket with 16 led the scoring.

The Ramblers put the heat on in thelast quarter to clinch a 59-45 win over the Bermudas. Williamson led the scoring with 19 while Murdock and Grothe were high for the losers with 14 apiece.

A three quarter thriller finally blew up as the Day Students lost to the Vets 58-52. As close as 3 points most of the time, the Students couldn't offset the 26 point effort of Lundy Loschiavo. Jim Hunts 20 led the Students attempt at win number one.

Three Team Scramble Continues in Girl's I-M

Two top notch games in the girls' basketball league made Thursday, the 17th, an exciting night as the Spoofers whipped the Der Chums 35-34 and the yet undefeated Squaws downed the Krazy Kids 43-39. On Monday night was featured by a 68-22 triumph for the Red Devils over the Spoofers, a 44-30 win for the Krazy Kids over the Rowdies and a 2-0 forfeit by the Punchy Pack to the credit of the Squaws.

Joy Wenger tossed in 19 of the Spoofers 35 points to pace the way to victory in the first game Thursday night. Jane Summey racked up the same number of points for the losers.

Joyce Warfel, Red Devil forward, led her team Monday night with 32 points followed by teammate Doreen Fyock with 29 and Jeanette Lowe, Krazy Kid forward with 23 points.

The season will draw to a close Monday night with two top games coming up. The Squaws will attempt to hold on to theor undefeated season's mark at 8:00 when they encounter the Rowdies and at 9:00 the Spoofers and the Punchy Pack will bring down the final curtain.

On The Club Scene

Four of Juniata's clubs furnish news for the column this week

FTA

The regular meeting of the FTA was held February 18. The purpose of the meeting was to nominate officers for the coming year and to discuss the plans for the State FTA Convention. President Kaydonna Bubeck briefly outlined the plans and reported the progress that was being made. There will be a meeting next month previous to the Convention for a last minute check.

Debate Club

On March 3, members of the Debate Club leave for Allegheny College in Meadville, Penna. The State Debate Tournament is being held there on March 4 and 5. The debating will be on the national question concerning the recognition of Communist China.

Dick Backus and Newton Taylor are taking the negative position. Clint Betz and Jim Montgomery are debating on the affirmative side. There will be five rounds of debate. Twenty or thirty Pennsylvania schools will be represented at the tournament.

Miss Dickey is also going as advisor to the group. In addition she will represent Juniata as a judge.

If war breaks out in Formosa before the tournament, the question will be changed to one concerning government aid for superior students.

Masque

The next meeting of the Masque will be held on Thursday, March 4. The program for the evening will be the reading of short plays. The group will break up into four or five smaller groups with each one taking a different play. The meeting will probably be held in the I. Harvey Brumbaugh house.

IVCF

The subject for Bible study in IVCF is Joshus 3:1-17. The meeting will be held this evening in Founders Chapel at 7:15.

Dead Mans Cave

He mapped and explored some 18 caves in all. One, dubbed "Dead Man's Cave", contained over 500 bodies, most of them skull-less, piled one upon the other or lined up in death along the walls of winding passageways. Another cave opened up had served the Japanese as a small, underground hospital. Bodies, still on litters, lined the passageways.

George Bieber, who received a B. A. degree from here in 1943 was also graduated from the Theological Seminary of Boston University; he is a Methodist Minister. Formerly a resident of Williamsport, Capatin Bieber now resides in Westminister, Md. with his wife and three children.

Behind the scenes, much is going on, too. The construction and painting of new flats, or scenery, is currently under way. The property committee is also hard at work now. They are looking especially for a friendly, well-mannered cat to portray Gillian's companion and pet, Pyewacket.

Mademoiselle Names Juniata As Good Residential College

Juniata was one of 14 Pennsylvania colleges included in "a selected list of 137 small residential colleges" published in a recent report by Mademoiselle magazine's College and Career department.

"These colleges think of themselves as representatives of the small-college tradition: devoted to the liberal arts, primarily residential, for the most part privately supported, usually religion conscious if not church-related," the report states.

"With a few exceptions they are glad they are small . . ." according to writer, Rachel Mellinger.

Colleges listed from Pennsylvania included: Albright, Allegheny, Beaver, Bryn Mawr, Chestnut Hill, Dickinson, Juniata, Lebanon Valley, Pennsylvania College for Women, Rosemont, Seton Hall, Swarthmore, Ursinus, Wilson.

The report, printed originally in the January issue of Mademoiselle, was designed primarily to provide "some facts and feelings to help high school seniors make the big school small school choice."

Among the advantages pointed out for the small college were: advantageous student-faculty ration; more personalized counseling, smaller classes, friendlier atmosphere.

The report refers to "a broadening of the function of the small college."

In an era of mass education "the small college has become the laboratory for experimental techniques and new approaches to subject matter. The survey shows that "along with traditional advantages, the small college offers some mid-20th century dividends."

Campus Officer Lists Classified In Senate Action

Rules for campaigning in Student Senate elections were outlined by Joe Hinish at the Wednesray night Senate meeting.

According to Hinish; all candidates are encouraged to submit a platform to be printed in the Juniatian; restructions of campaigning include; nothing in the dining hall, nothing inside or on the doors of Totem, nothing in Social Rooms or administrative part of Founder's. Posters are not allowed to face Moore Street and no posters are permitted on front of Oller Hall.

All candidates for the top Senate offices must have 87 hours by the end of their junior year. Chairman candidates are expected to have 57 hours. Good academic standing with the College is also required.

The positions of program director and technical director of the radio station were recommended for elevation to minor positions in the classification system in other Senate business. The chairman of the Totem Inn committee is also under consideration as a minor position.

College Students Elect Hunt, Beatty, Drexler To '55 Senate Offices

At an All College Election held last Tuesday the Juniata College student body named Jim Hunt President of the Senate for the year March, 1955—March 1956

Other officers named to the Senate were Betty Ann Beatty, secretary and Barry Drexler, treasurer. On the first ballot none of the vice presidential candidates received a majority of the votes cast; thus a run-off election had to be held yesterday. (See story elsewhere.) Approximately 460 students voted in the Tuesday election.

Hunt, a junior history major from Johnstown, will succeed Dick Fusco to the position of president when offices are formerly taken on Move-Up Day, March 23. The newly elected president has been editor of the Juniatian for the past year, and before that he was managing editor and news editor. He is also presently Chairman of Publications on the Senate, treasurer of the IRC, and is active in intramurals.

Miss Beatty, a junior elementary education major from Philadelphia, will succeed Rainy Belle Linn as secretary. Miss Beatty is assistant editor of the yearbook, co-chairman of the May Day breakfast, a member of FTA and JCA and secretary of her class.

Succeeding Bob Godshall as Treasurer is Barry Drexler, a junior business major fom McKees Rocks. Dexler is a member of the varsity football and baseball teams, is active in intramurals is a member of the Tycoon Club and the treasurer of the J Club.

Bill Smith, a junior history major from Waynesboro, won the vice-presidential spot in a run-off election yesterday.

Classes Elect Martin, Sunderland, Johnson

Results of the elections for clas officers held last Thursday are as follows.

The Juniors elected Klare Sunderland, president; Bernie Oriss, vicepresident; Betty Beatty, secretary; Jack Golden, treasurer; and Jerry Richards, chaplain.

Sophomores elected were Jim Martin, president; Lee Byers, vice-president; Phyllis Marcocci, secretary; and Ramon Burket, treasurer.

Vern Johnson was re-elected president of the freshman class. Other officers named were Bob Murdoch, vice-president; Nancy Hess, secretary; Ken Fassnacht, treasurer; and Glenn Hassinger, chaplain.

Faculty Announces Contest March 14

On Monday March 14 the General Information Quiz will be given in the Library. The test will begin at 4:00 p.m., but entrants may begin as late as 4:30.

The winer will receive a prize of $15 and the runner-up will receive $10. Winners will be announced in chapel sometime during the next week.

For clues to the type of questions that will be asked, look on the buletin board at the back entrance to the library.

The General Information test is made up by a committee of faculty members.

Choir Schedules Concerts Sunday

The Juniata College Choir and ensemble will be traveling to three different churches for a full day of concerts this weekend.

They will leave the campus early Sunday morning for Bellefonte where they are scheduled to perform in the First Presbyterian Church there.

The afternoon concert will be given in the Central Baptist Church in Williamsport. The last concert will be an evening one in Jersey Shore at the Presbyterian Church.

This Sunday will be the last tour scheduled for the choir until April 17, when they have another full day of three concerts.

Ellington To Peform In R.I. Jazz Festival

The officers of the Newport Jazz Festival announce the engagement of Duke Ellington for the second annual Newport Jazz Festival to be held on July 15, 16, 17, at Newport, Rhode Island. Ellington will conduct his orchestra and serve as master of ceremonies throughout the festival.

Already in his 27th year as an orchestra leader, Ellington still works rigorously. Concertising is one of his important activities. One of the outstanding events of the concert season will be the premier of his composition, "Concerto for Dance Band and Symphony Orchestra" performed by the Ellington orchestra with the Symphony of the Air (formerly NBC Symphony' to be conducted by Don Gillis at Carnegie Hall on March 16. Of the diverse publics with whom Duke Ellington has been associated, college students are his perenial favorites.

Duke has been a contributor to the field of musical comedy and at present is collaborating with William Saroyan on a musical.

Sample GIQ Questions Challenge JC Brains

Test your knowledge for the CIQ Contest, to be given this Monday at 4:00 in the Library, on these sample questions.

1. With which country do you associate the following: Jinnah, Nehru, Hammarskjold?

2. Who is the United States Commissioner of Education?

3. On which continent would a person fear Mau-Mau?

Ornithologist Speaks In Chapel Wednesday

Under the euspices of the Audubon Society, Robert C. Hermes will speak in chapel on March 16 at 9:45. "Bonaventure's Diary" is the title of his 55 minute speech which will be illustrated by a colored movie.

Although he lived in the city as a boy, he was always interested in nature and wild creatures, and this trait has carried through his life until today he is considered to be one of the outstanding nature lecturers and photographers in the country.

Van Druten Comedy Provides Humor In the Broadway Vein

Bell, Book and Candle, the John Van Druten comedy that is to be given by members of the Juniata College Masque, March 18 and 19, has a very amusing and novel plot.

The title connotes several implements used by the witches at one time, and the rein lies the essence of the novelty of the play.

Contrary to common belief, witches and their sorcery are still around and will abound on the stage of Oller Hall next week.

Not Morbid

Not at all morbid, the witchcraft in Bell, Book and Candle is practiced by a delightful crew of comparatively average New Yorkers.

When Gillian Holroyd, a young and beautiful witch, falls in love with the man upstairs, Shep Henderson, she loses her powers as a sorceress. Her brother, Nicky, and her aunt, Miss Queenie Holroyd, both witches are horrified and her faithful companion and "familiar", the cat, Pyewacket, runs away.

Bewitched

This isn't too bad, but when Shep finds out from Sidney Redlitch, an author who is interested in witchcraft, that he has been bewitched both literally and figuratively, Gillian is really in a predicament!

To find out how she gets her man, with only normal, human powers, drop around next weekend, when this amazing pot pourrie of witchcraft, feminine wiles, and humor will be staged.

Enthusiastic Candidates Bid For 8 Senate Chairmanships

At the time of going to press, twenty student are in the running for the various Senate chairmanships, to be decided in an All-College election this Tuesday from 8:00 A. M. to 8:00 P. M., according to Joe Hinnish, Chairman of Elections.

Debate Club Defeats Temple's Competition

by Newt Taylor

On March 4 and 5 four members of the Juniata College Debate Club and their coach, Miss Miriam Dickey, attended the State Debate Tournament at Alegheny College in Meadville.

Twentythree colleges and universities from all parts of the state debated the intercolegiate question of the year, Resolved that the Uunted States should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist government of China. Clint Betz and Jimm Montgomery debated for recognition, while Dick Backus and Newt Taylor opposed it.

The results as far as Juniata was concerned were disappointing; the one bright spot, rowever, was the affirmative victory over Temple, the defending title holders. Jimm Montgomery deserves shpecial mention, because he led the way to the victory in the Temple debate and received excellent ratings throughout the tournament.

Descendant Donates Dr. Brumbaugh Clock

The clock of one of the founders of Juniata College once again is ticking away the time for a new generation of students.

An old-fashioned, weighted Gilbert clock, which hung for many years in the doctor's office of Dr. A. B. Brumbaugh in Huntingdon, has been presented to the college by Dr. Brumbaugh's daughter, Mrs. Alfred P. Silverthorn of Sebring, Florida.

Appropriately, the clock is now hanging on the wall in the admissions office . . . . sorta keeps an eye on the new Juniata students of today, just like it did in Dr. Brumbaugh's day.

Padgett Reveals Chapel Schedule

Chapel speakers have been announced by Professor Padgett for the week of March 14 .

On Monday a student deputation team wil present the program. Ernie Lashlee is the speaker.

The Wednesday morning chapel will be one of a series of special events programs in which Robert C. Hermes will be present. (See story elsewhere.)

Dean Mays is to be the Friday morning speaker.

Hamm To Remain As Program Head

The Senate approved appointments for WJC positions at the regular Wednesday meeting.

Bob Hamm will continue in the position of Program Director for the coming year. Les Querry was named Technical Director to replace senior Gene Hyssong. George Carnahan was also appointed assistant Program Director.

Plans were also considered for a ceremony in connection with the painting of a Japanese Cherry Tree as part of the JWSF program.

Shorter Classes Effective Weds.

Dr. Morley Mays, Dean of the College, has announced that a revised class schedule will be in effect Wednesday morning when Robert C. Hermes will appear in chapel. The schedule is as follows.

8:00—8:45 First period
8:50—9:35 Second period
9:45—1040 Chapel
10:50—11:35 Third period
11:40—12:25 Fourth period

Candidates for Chairman of Athletics are Sonny Kaylor, Don Pheasant, John Staley, Walt Vanderbush. Kaylor, a junior business major from Orbisonia, has been a member of the track team for the past three years, as well as a participant in intramural sports. He also served on the social committee last year and this year is a member of the underclassmen committee.

Another junior business major, Don Pheasant, hails from Mill Creek. Pheasant is a member of the varsity football and baseball teams, and he also participates in intramural sports.

The third candidate, John Staley, is a sophomore from Tarentum who is majoring in education. Staley is a member of the varsity football and baseball teams, and he participates in intramural basketball, golf and tennis.

General Activities

In the race for General Activities are Fiore Purrachio, Les Querry, and Alice Waite. Purrachio, a sophomore from Aliquippa, is concentrating in English. He is a member of the Masque, the FTA and was assistant stage manager for the Gondoilers.

Querry, a sophomore French major from Hagerstown, has been a member of the Social Committee and the camera club for two years. He also did the art work for the Scout last year and was on the phography staff of the Alfarata. This year he was photographer for the Indian, is director of photography for the Alfarata, and is on the WJC staff and in the Pyrenees Club. Querry also attended Leadership Conference.

The remaining candidate, Miss Waite, is a sophomore sociology major who hails from Hollidaysburg. She is a feature writer for the Juniatian, a member of the Alfarata staff, on the JCA Council, the Sub-freshman Committee, the All-Class Night Committee, a member of the WAA and in Sigma Gamma.

Men' House

Bernie Oriss and Bill collins are running for Chairman of Men's House. Collins, a sophomore biology major from Orbisonia, was vice president of his freshman Club, a member of FTA, Scalpel and Probe, and the All-Class Night Committee, and is active in intramural sports.

Oriss, who comes from North Braddock, is a junior majoring in history. He is a member of the varsity basketball and baseball teams, the J Club and the FTA, and is the newly elected vice-president of his class.

Publications

Thus far the only candidate for Chairman of Publications is Joan McClure, a sophomore history major from Harrisburg. Miss McClure is Juniatian News Editor, Alfarata Literary Editor, on the Scout staff for the second year, and is a member of the Indian and WJC staffs. She is also on the Social Committee, is May Day publicity chairman, and she attended Leadership Conference in the fall.

Religious Activities

The three candidates for Chairman of Religious Activities are Sam Douglas, Dick Livingston, and Jim Stayer. Douglas, a premed major from Pittsburg, was sophomore class president during the past year. He has been a member of the JCA for two years, this year being on the cabinet, and has also been a JWSF Solicitor for the past two years.

Livingston, an English major from Johnstown, is also a sophomore. He has been a member of the choir for two years, in the Masque for two years, and has participated in the past two opperettas. Livingston has also been a member of the JCA and the Ministerium, both for two years.

A sophomore English major from Denver, Jim Stayer, is the third candidate for this position. He is a member of the varsity football and track teams, the intramural basketball and softball

From The Editor's Notes

Last week's editorial seems to have stirred up a hornets nest among college students and officials. All concerned have expressed interest in the situation and have revealed certain deficiencies on both sides of the fence.

One derivative of the situation which appears headed for an introduction is a program of education for students on what to expect from the infirmary. This will include the bounds of infirmary treatment and areas in which they may expect the college to assume medical costs. We feel that this will aid in clearing much of the resentment from treatment received in the infirmary. Other cases in point are now in consideration by the College Health and Safety Committee.

In line with this development in the infirmary situation we would like to suggest that each student take a little time and associate hemselves with the college policy as stated in the college bulletin.

While considering that section of the campus we want to remind all fellows that they are permitted to use the 1st Brumbaugh hallway for entrance to the dining hall a noon and evening meals. Dean Penney announces that the hallway will be open for use in all types of weather.

* * *

Noticed an article in a neighboring paper the other day that may prove of interest to several Juniata students. The buckshot that was discovered in some meat in the dining hall has been matched. Colonel Tinseley, director of ROTC program at Johnstown Pitt Center recently discovered five number 7 pellets in a piece of beef. Must be some mighty poor shots around.

Intercollegiate Chatter

At the University of Texas, pipe smoking females are not as rare as in the past; in fact, they now wear holsters and belt pouches to carry their pipes and tobacco. The "Daily Texan" reports that some girls are wearing garter pouches just above the knee. A recent estimate of female pipe smokers in the nation is now at 150,000.

The directors of Bucknell University's five student musical organizations are now completing arrangements for the "Festival of Music" to be presented on the campus March 5. More than 275 students are taking part. The program is based on a performance of each of the five groups individually, climaxing with a festival finals in whieh all groups will take part. The program is expected to attract a large audience from Central Pennsylvania.

Susquehanna's women's honorary athletic fraternity sponsored a Bubble Ball to get everyone back into the swing of things. The headlines in the newspaper read "Attend the Bubble Ball With Your Favorite Pal." The last line of the article poured cold water on everyone's rising emotions by saying. "Now girls, don't miss this chance to wear that new dress!"

Accent On Reading

THE WORLD OF ALBERT SCHWWENTZER. by Erica Anderson. Primarily a book of photographs. but it has enough biographical and factual text to provide clear understanding of Dr. Schweitzer's thought and activity. Here he is the man at work, and when the busy day is over, the artist giving expression to his music and thoughts. Here also is the world of his boyhood on the upper Rhine where he relives old scenes, revisits old friends, and finds in the organ music of Bach the passion of a life time.

CRUSADERS FOR GOD. By fifteen men andDana Thomas. The epic story of fifteen men and women who braved incredible hardchips and dangers in the wilderness, jungles, arctic wastelands and island outposts of the world— David Livingston. Wilfred Grenfell. Albert Schweitzer. Tovohiko Kagawa, and others.

FAITH AND FREEDOM. by Barbara Ward. In this stimulating inquiry on political freedom and religious faith the author looks at freedom as it emerged through the long centuries of human development. She shows why it was our own civilization—and there alone— that freedom became established. She links the expansion of freedom with the traditional faith of the West in a God incarnate in History and in men owing their duty to two orders of reality- the natural and supernatural.

The Asiatic Tinderbox

Chiang-kai-Chek and his military potential on the island of Formosa is the most explosive situation that American Diplomacy is attempting to handle. If there is to be a war with China, it will originate in this tension area. What is the cause of this tension?

The political realities of the situation as they stand today are this:—Chiang is in control of Formosa and the Chinese Communists are in control of the mainland. This is the situation as it stands and to all practical purposes it will remain as such for a long time to come. However our refusal to recognize the communitsts as the governing power on the mainland amounts to this:—According to our diplomatic position, we are asserting that Chiang is in control of Formosa and the mainland. Herein lies the tension; the basic disparity between the political realities and our diplomatic position.

This constant threat of an American supported return of Chiang can do nothing but goad Mao against such a situation. By our support of this pretender we are forcing China into an aggressive position. It is an obvious fact that Chiang can't be returned to the mainland short of an all out war; this neither side wants for it will lead to an atomic holoucast. But, our policy in the ultimate analysis supports such a move. Mao is now publicly committed to a nullification of Chiang's claim to rule. With the situation as it now stands this committment can lead to nothing but war. We must basically alter our policy in this area and give Mao a way out.

This way out may be given by an extension of diplomatic recognition on the basis of the pouitical realities of the situation. We must recognize Mao as the government of the mainland and Chiang as the ruling power in Formosa alone. This would do away with the basic contradictions in our diplomacy. This would enable Communist China to back down without a loss of face and mitigate the tension in that trouble spot. Such a course of action is not appeasement. It is taking the diplomatic offensive in the face of unpleasant but unavoidable facts. We must either live with the communists or die in the attempt to do away with them. Recognition is an imperative step along the only possible road—coexistence.

Platforms Stated by Religious Nominees

To the Juniata College student body:

As a candidate for Chairman of Religious Activities, I recognize certain areas of difficulty in the religious life of our campus. It is my firm conviction that positive action coupled with workable ideas will greatly alleviate these difficulties which are:

1. Spiritual Emphasis Week—secure a leader who will have positive campus-wide influence, instead of aiding just a small minority.

2. Chapel—encourage and work for more student participation in Chapel.

3. Interest—promote campus wide interest and student or faculty guided discussions on religious, political and social problems that effect the life of every student in our campus community.

4. Juniata Christian Association strive to make the JCA a more active influence on our campus; strive to make the programs offered by JCA interesting as well as worthwhile contributions to campus life; strive to help the presently functioning JCA sponsored discussion, worship, and social service groups succeed in reaching their goals.

5. Community—strive towards the time honored goals of establishing a Christian community on the Juniata campus.

Respectively submitted
Sam Douglas Candidate for Chairman of Religous Activities

To the students of Juniata College:

Realizing the many problems and the great potentialities of religious activities and spiritual thinking at Juniata, and having had a year's experience as a member of the JCA cabinet, I submit my candidacy for the position of Senate Chairman of Religious Activities and President of the Juniata Christian Association. The following are some of the issues which I will try to fulfill if elected to this office.

1. To enlarge the concept of membership in the JCA to include all students who affirm the Christian faith and are seeking the spiritual values of life.
2. To increase the number and quality of religious events of general nature and to include various types of such programs—intellectual, aesthetic, devotional, etc.
3. To increase the number of specific projects and activities to provide the opportunity to serve the interests and needs of each student (e.g. special topic discussions, "skeptics' night", Bible study groups, etc.)
4. To increase student participation and maintain the cabinet mainly as a clearing and steering committee.
5. To integrate the religious program with the rest of campus activity.

Not only in my specific area, but also as a member of the Senate, I will try to do my best to serve the cabinet body efficiently.

Dick Livingston
Candidate for Senate
Chairman of Religious Activities

The primary difficulty with religion on campus is that, while Christianity professed by the majority of Juniata students, the Juniata Christian Association is a minority organization, both in its ideals and in its membership. I shall try to offer a program of benefit to every Juniata student to whom religion is a vital matter.

1. The JCA should give varying religious opinions a hearing in its annual program, but it should not be slanted toward upholding the views of any Christian denomination or idealogical segment.
2. The small size and compact nature of our student body demands that the JCA social activities program be well integrated with the campus social activities program and have an exclusively religious slant.
3. One JCA meeting monthly should be set aside for discussion of a world or campus issue vital to thinking Christian students. Thus, our common Christian ethics can be shared and applied to the important issue of our lives. This new JCA can be a powerful organ of campus religious opinion.
4. Each JCA meeting should have appeal to the majority of Juniata Christians. Smaller groups with special interests should be sponsored, organized, and encouraged by the JCA.
5. Our campus needs a man of dynamic personality and respected intellect for Spiritual Life Week, whatever his personal religious convictions may be.

This week the Covites moved further into the lead of the IM Bowling League by shutting out the Alley Cats, shoving the latter team from immediate contention for first place. In the only other match, the IFT captured 3½ points from the failing Buckeyes.

The Covites once more knocked down more than 2000 pins in pasting the loss on the heretofore aspiring Alley Cats. Joe Hinish rolled the high match of the week (473) and as a further tid to the winners, Dick Fusco rolled 400 plus, while "Doc" Geiger came in just under the 400 mark. Dale Baugher and substitute Arnold Olt were high scorers for the losers.

The IFT snapped back from a losing streak to take all but ½ point from the Buckeyes. Bill Smith, Larry Confer, and Bill Collins all rolled over 400. The Buckeyes came back in the last game, led by Albert Blough, to garner 618 pins, enough to tie the IFT's effort for that game and enough to capture ½ point. Smith's 193 in the first game was high single game for the week.

Wolverines Win Boys I-M League But Unbeaten Streak Is Stopped

A freshman team, the Wolverines, won the 1954-55 edition of the Men's IM Basketball League. For a while, it appeared that the Wolverines would go undefeated, but the McKees Creek team, composed of upperclassmen, finally did the trick last Monday night as they beat the Wolverines, 58-44. Steve Ulsh and John Staley led the "Creekers" with 20 and 19 points respectively. Ed Kohl was again high for the Wolverines with 29. The game was fairly close, but the few extra points garnered by the Creekrs in each of the last three quarters, netted them the win.

In the other action Monday, the Ramblers downed the Vets, 62-59. Zeh and Warrick led the losers with 20 and 19 each, while Williamson led the winning cause with 25 markers. The final action of the evening saw the Pioneers crush the hapless Players Inc., 71-47. Herb Layman became the evening's high scorer as he dunked 32 points for the losing cause, while Henny Gibbel was adding 27 for the winners.

G-Burg Downs Indians In Final Game 92-73: Tribe's Record 11-10

The Juniata Indians closed their 1954-55 basketball campaign by dropping a 92-73 decision to the Gettysburg Bullets at Gettysburg Saturday night.

After trailing by two points at half-time, the Tribe was snowed under in the second. Lee Hallman and Jake Handzelek were red hot in the first, scoring 16 and 13 respectively. Lee finished with 19, while Jake hit 29.

Hallman got the Indians off to a quick 6-0 lead, but G-burg came back and the lead see-sawed back and forth until Bill Snyder's hook shot put the Bullets ahead 18-17 at the quarter mark.

43-41 At Half

Another torrid shooting quarter saw the Juniata cagers lead by as much as five points, but again Snyder provided the final shot to put the Bullets out front 43-41 at the half.

Led by Al Teti's floor play the Bullets raced through the Indian press in the third quarter to outscore them 20-9, holding the Tribe scorless for four minutes at one time, and built up a 68-50 lead.

In the last quarter Gettysburg continued to pour it on, still sparked by hard dribbling Teti who led the home team with 23 points.

A cold 25 per cent shooting average in the second half offset the Tribe's first half 47 per cent.

Ed Ferrin with 18 and all-time G-burg star Snyder with 17 also hit double figures. Jim Boulton for JC and powerful G-burg rebounder Dick Hockenbury both fouled out in the final quarter.

For Doc Greene this was the second consecutive winning season, 11-9, following last year's 15-6.

Sports Schedule For Spring

FORTY TWO events have been scheduled on the Spring Sports calendar prepared by P. M. (Mike) Snider, director of athletics, for 1955.

On the diamond the Tribe will face eight opponents home and eight away—including the now traditional clash with the Alumni on June 4. A home game is slated with Pitt on May 7. Bob Hicks will coach the team.

Juniata's tennis team, which completed its best season of all time last year, faces a rugged 8 match schedule including home contests with Pitt, Penn State, Carnegie Tech, Albright and Elizabethtown.

The golfers will engage in nine dual matches, including the annual alumni battle, and will participate in the Middle Atlantics tournament at Mt. Union May 7 and the Western Maryland invitational on May 14.

Two triangular meets, three dual meets, the Penn Relays and Middle Atlantics are included in another tough schedule for the trackmen. St. Joseph's and Albright will come to Huntingdon for the opening meet on April 16.

It Could Be You

by James Metcalfe

Perhaps the Red Cross has not done
A single thing for you—
And you are dubious about
The good it strives to do.
But have you been the victim of
A fire or a flood?
Or in some other tragedy
In instant need of blood?
Have you been rendered homeless by
The ravages of war
And prayed a friendly hand might knock
Where once threr was a door?
And have you read the history
Of Red Cross everywhere?
The thousand sacrifices and
The timely tender care?
It could become the answer
How long you have to live
So why not help the Red Cross now
With all that you can give?

Junior Trio Leads 1954-55 Basketball Scoring; Handzelek Among Best in Fouls

A summary of the 1954-55 basketball statistics show a trio of juniors, led by the "Shickshinny sharpshooter," Jake Handzelek, set the pace for the Juniata College Indians by scoring 61 per cent of the points as the Braves topped the .500 mark with a 11-10 record.

Both of Jake's teammates, Walt Vanderbush and Le Hallman scored over 200 points each. Hallman took runner up honors with 286 and Vanderbush tallied 220.

Although Handzelez failed to keep pace with his record shattering average of 26.3 set last season with 553 points, he did edge close to the "select circle" of players with 1458 points for three seasons. In adition, Jake's accuracy at the foul line with a mark of 85.3 per cent place him among the three "free throw percentage leaders" in the National Collegiate's small college tabulations.

On The Club Scene

Juniata's students are preparing for many special events on campus this spring.

The Masque will hold its regular meeting on Thursday, March 17, in Oller Hall. It will be primarily a business meeting. Those interested may stay after the meeting to watch the dress rehearsal of "Bell, Book and Candle."

The Intervarsity Christian Fellowship will hold its regular meeting in Founders Chapel, Friday, March 11. Bible study will concern Joshua, Chapter 5. In addition to Bible study there will be nominations for next year's officers.

Friday, March 18, is the date of the meeting of the Chemistry Club. Nominations and election of officers will be held then. In adition there will be a program.

The Camera Club will hold their next meeting Thursday, March 17. Election of officers will be the main item of business. The meeting will be held in Room B.

The Juniatian

Entered as second class mail at the Huntingdon, Pa., post office, this is an independent undergraduate newspaper published weekly throughout the College year except during vacation and examination periods by the Students of Juniata College.

The Juniatian is serviced by Associated Collegiate Press and is represented for national advertising by National Advertising Service.

teams, has participated in All Class Night and the Masque play. Stayer, who wrote for the Juniatian last year, is also in the Masque.

Social Activities

Judy Gearhart, a sophomore from Philadelphia, is majoring in music. She has participated in two Colege operettas, had a leading role in Skin of Our Teeth, is now in the cast of Bell, Book and Candle, is a member of the Touring Choir, the Social Committee, the All-Class Night Committee, and the Juniatian and Alfarata staffs.

Rosalie Langer is the only candidate for Social Chairman to date. A sophomore elementary education major from Coopersburg, she is on the Social Committee, the Women's House Committee, the Sub-Freshman Committee, the All-Class Night and May Day Committees and is in the FTA. Miss Langer is chairman of the banquet and dance decorations for the coming FTA Convention.

Underclassmen

Five candidates will vie for the position of Chairman of Underclassmen. Charlotte Beltrame, Bob Hamm, Harry Garber, Dick Mumma, and Brad Nicholas are all in the running.

Miss Beltrame, a sophomore home ec major from New Castle, is co-chairman of the Sub-Freshman Committee, a mamber of Lambda Gamma, JCA, the Outing Club, and the IVCF.

Hamm, who will be a senior in September, is an English major hailing from Hanover. He was president of his freshman class, chairman of initiation, and attended Leadership Conference in the fall. Hamm is presently WJC Program Director, a member of the All-Class Night Committee and is on the Junior-Senior Reception Committee. He has also m.c'd at various campus affairs.

A junior biology major from Radnor, Harry Garber is former circulation manager of the Juniatian, is active in intramurals, and is a member of the Alfarata Staff and the Social Committee. He is also in Scalpel and Probe and on the All-Class Night Committee.

Mumma, a business major, calls Harrisburg his hometown. He is co-chairman of the Sub-Freshman Committee, was on the initiation committee, and is a member of the Tycoon Club and the Alfarata Staff.

Nicholas, a junior pre-med student from York, attended Leadership Conference last year, is a member of the JCA Cabinet, president of the orchestra, on the All-Class Night Committee, and in Scalpel and Probe. He is also a member of the Chapel Choir and is in the Touring Choir Ensemble.

Women's House

And finally, in the running for Women's House are Mary Jane Bridenbaugh and Doreen Fyock. Miss Bridenbaugh, a junior home ec major from Martinsburg, is in the chapel choir, the WAA, the JCA, the Lanbda Gamma, and the Outing Club. She attended Leadership Conference this year. Miss Bridenbaugh will be doing her student teaching next year.

Miss Fyock, a junior elementary education major from Johnstown, is President and former Treasurer of the WAA. She is also a member of the FTA, and is on the Women's House Committee. Miss Fyock has attended Leadership Conference for the past two years.

Vanderbush, a junior history major from West Orange, N. J. is a member of the varsity basketball team, co editor of the Indian, and is active in intramurals. He is a former member of the Juniatian and WJC Staffs.

Switzerland's Quaint Towns, Alps Mts. Impress Students

Five Juniata students visited Switzerland while touring Europe. According to Sue Jamison, this country lived up to her every expectation of it. While going from Italy to the Swiss lands, Sue traveled by car and said that the worst part of her trip was the hairpin curves on the mountain pass. The fact that there were no guard rails did not improve matters any. But when the ride was over no one could help liking Switzerland. The cowbells from the hillsides resounded throughout the valleys and snow capped mountains. Sue happened to be in this country when the people were celebrating a national holiday. There was dancing, flag throwing, yodeling, and alpine horn blowing in honor of the special occasion.

Becky Guyton told of Switzerlands countryside where families of farmers lived in little huts and sometimes caves.

The hardiness and vigor of the Swiss was too much for Stella Morgan who said she was completely worn out "going up and down mountains". Stella stayed in the Alps, went swiming in Lake Geneva, and saw the Reformation Wall.

It was obvious that Switzerland was one of the "favorites" of the students who visited there. The breathtaking beauty of the Alps which was said to be indescribable, the friendliness of the people, and the seemingly untouched quaint towns made this peaceful country one of the most appealing.

Senate Duties Outlined For Chairmanship Spots

In an effort to encourage Juniata students to select their Senate candidates with qualifications in mind we have compiled a brief resume of the duties of each respective chairmanship.

One of the most essential offices in the Juniata pattern is that of CHAIRMAN OF UNDERCLASSMEN for it is his duty to introduce freshmen to Juniata. He is in charge of the big-sister, big brother plan and helps the freshmen organize their class. This senator is responsible for representing them on the Senate and is in charge of the initiation program.

The CHAIRMAN OF MEN'S HOUSE is responsible for keeping order and providing good living conditions in the men's dormitory and day student room. He is aided by the Men's House Committee which consists of representatives from each hall. Only men students vote for this chairman.

The CHAIRMAN OF GENERAL ACTIVITIES has the important job of coordinating the activities which include Class Dues Day, Homecoming Weekend, Christmas Activities, All-Class Night, Move-Up Day, May Day, Club Calendar and the election of club officers.

The broad intramural sports program pursued at Juniata comes under the direction of the CHAIRMAN OF ATHLETICS. He is expected to formulate and carry out a comprehensive program of student sports activity. He automatically becomes a member of the Faculty Athletic Committee.

The CHAIRMAN OF PUBLICATIONS is responsible for maintaining high standards of journalism in the campus publications through associating with the editors of the Alfarata, Juniatian and Scout. This senator is given the duty of publicizing the activities of the Senate and serves as chairman of the WJC executive board.

In spirit with Juniata's religious foundations the CHAIRMAN OF RELIGIOUS ACTIVITIES with a committee of five formulates and executes the year's schedule of religious activities. Spiritual Emphasis Week is the greatest responsibility of this chairman as he plans and executes all phases of this program in cooperation with the faculty chairman of religious activities.

The duties of the CHAIRMAN OF WOMEN'S HOUSE is similar to those of the chairman of Men's House. She is elected by the women only.

The yearly round of social activities are under the direction of the CHAIRMAN OF SOCIAL ACTIVITIES. He is responsible for providing a varied and adequate program of social activities. This senator also serves on the calendar committee.

Masque Will Give Production Fri. and Sat. Night In Oller Hall

"There's more magic in this play than any of us guessed." This is what Miss Esther M. Doyle, director, had to say about "Bell, Book and Candle," which opens tonight in Oller Hall.

This story of modern witchcraft is presented as a result of weeks of preparation by about 40 JC students, many of whom are members of the Masque or who are enrolled in a course on play production.

Cast of Five

The cast of five includes the following: Judy Gearhart as Gilian, a flirtatious young witch who dares to defy the laws of witchcraft to catch her man; Jim Martin as Shep, the traditional unsuspecting male and object of Gilian's affections; Mary Jane Hershberger as Miss Holroyd, old hag aunt of Gilian who is set in her ways and religiously follows the principles of witchcraft; Dick Backus as Nicky, the lazy playboy type who is a practical joker at heart and who thinks nothing of selling the secrets of necromancy; and Dave Amidon as Redlitch, the author, who is doing research work on sorcery.

Shrewd Feline

A sixth member of the cast is a cat, Snowball, a white beauty who is filling the role of Pyewacket, source of Gilian's magical powers.

History

Written by John Van Druten, the play opened on Broadway starring Lili Palmer and Rex Harrison. It is the story of a young witch who falls in love. She could use her supernatural powers to win her man, but alas, she loses them.

Left with just the powers of a normal female, she sets out to capture the object of her love in a way which is sure to interest and amuse the Oller Hall audience.

When the curtain rises at 8:15 P. M., an attractive set, 24 feet in width, will be revealed. Many hours have been spent in painting flats, moving furniture and installing lighting. The scene is the living room of Gilian's apartment.

Eight Students Obtain Senate Chairmanships In All-College Election

Eight students, four men and four women, were elected to the Juniata College Senate in an All-College election this past week.

Receiving a majority of the 480 votes cast on the first ballot were Bernie Oriss, Men's House; Joan McClure, Publications; Jim Stayer, religious activities; and Rosalie Langer, women's house.

Run-offs had to be held for the remaining four chairmanships on Wednesday, the following chairmen receiving a majority: Sonny Kaylor, athletics; Alice Waite, general activities, Bab Hamm, underclassmen; and Doreen Fyock, women's house.

Oriss is a junior history major from North Braddock while Miss McClure is a sophomore from Harrisburg, majoring in history; Stayer is a sophomore English major from Denver; and Miss Langer is a sophomore elementary education major from Coopersburg.

Kaylor, a junior from Orbisonia is majoring in business; Miss Waite, from Hollidaysburg, is a sophomore sociology major; Hamm a junior English major, hails from Hanover; and Miss Fyock is a junior elementary education major from Johnstown.

These eight chairmen will join with the four officers elected last week, Jim Hunt, Bill Smith, Betty Beatty, and Barry Drexler in comprising the 1955-56 Student Senate.

The newly elected Senate will replace the 1954-55 Senate when they take office on Move-up Day next Wednesday. Members of the old Senate are Dick Fusco, President; Joe Hinish, Vice President; Rainy Belle Lynn, Secretary; and Bob Godshall, Treasurer. Chairmen were Dick Godshall, athletics; Nan Heller, general activities; Rich Ikeda, men's house; Jim Hunt, publications; Danny Raffensperger, religious activities; Bill Shull, social activities; Mikey Mick, women's house; and Rem Grove, underclassmen.

Wednesday To Be JC Move-Up Day

Wednesday, March 23, the annual Move-up Day ceremony will be held during the chapel period. This is the time when all club and class presidents are introduced to the student body, and the newly elected Senators officially take on their duties.

Immediately following the recessional, the seniors and juniors will meet in front of Oller Hall in their respective groups and with their class ushers. They are to follow the ushers' instructions.

The sophomore class will meet with their ushers on the east side of Oller Hall, and the freshmen will meet on the west side with their class officers.

The seniors will then follow the Senate, proceeding to Founders' Porch and lining the front walk. After them will be the juniors, who will line the walk from Founders' Porch to Students' Hall.

Next the sophomores will line the diagonal, as the freshmen walk up that path, up the side steps of Founders' Porch and down the front steps.

The cheerleaders will conclude the program by leading the frosh in several cheers, followed by the singing of one verse of the Alma Mater.

Students are requested to sit in their regular chapel seats, because attendance will be taken.

Juniata Students Reveal Impressions Of England

We cannot describe a trip abroad without including England. While Sue Jamison was visiting tihs country she saw the White Cliffs of Dover which "really were show white". Sue also saw Shakespear's home at Stratford-On-Avon, Oxford University, the Memorial Theatre where "Romeo and Juliet" and "Troilus and Cressida" were presented, the "Poet's Corner of Westminister Abbey, and the famed changing of the guard.

At the Wax Museum world figures such as Bob Hope, Danny Kaye, and the Presidents of the United States were displayed. The Chamber of Horrors lived up to its name with such things as a gullotine, criminals, and old fashioned methods of torture. "Big Ben" was said to have, in a sense, "ruled the city" with its hourly chimes being heard for miles around.

On her visit to England, Stella Morgan stayed at Hampton Court Palace. The Englanders, surprised at seeing anyone inhabit this building, many times peeped in the windows at her. Because of this Stella felt very strange at first but soon discovered, as the other students did, that the people of England were overly hospitable to American visitors. Stella saw many decorations for the coronation and upon one memorial occasion, saw the Queen mother on her way to Scotland.

The majority of the students found the Britishers to be much like Americans with many of the same customs and habits. The largest difference was found in the governmental procedures.

Date Of Charity Ball Slated For April 20

Once again Memorial Gym will resound to the music of a "name band" as Tex Beneke and his orchestra play for the sixth Annual Charity Ball. His "Music In the Mood" has made the Beneke orchestra a favorite. Tex is featured vocalist of the band once led by Glenn Miller.

The theme of the dance to be held Wednesday, April 20, will be announced in the near future.

Classes To Be Short For Ceremonies Wed.

Because of the Move-up Day ceremonies, classes on Wednesday, March 23, will follow the schedule as used for long chapels.

First period: 8:00—8:45
Second period 8:50—9:35
Chapel 9:45—10:40
Third period 10:50—11:35
Fourth period 11:40—12:35

Engel Releases Plans For Summer Sesions

The program of courses for the 1955 Summer Term has been announced by the administration.

The term is divided into two five-week periods, in each of which six credit hours may be completed. Students enrolled at Juniata College in the term immediately preceding the Summer Term of 1955 need make no special application for admission. All students attending the First Period of the Summer Term are expected to report to the college offices between 8:00 and 9:25 A. M. on the first day of the term, Monday, June 20.

The courses tentatively announced below are grouped and numbered according to the arrangement of the annual catalog. For the descriptions of courses

Dr. Ellis, K. Bubeck Will Speak In Chapel

The chapel program plans for the coming week have been announced by Mr. Padgett. President Ellis will be the speaker for Monday, March 21. There will be a special long chapel Wednesday, March 23, to give sufficient time for the annual Move-up Day ceremonies. The program Friday will be in charge of Kaydonna Bubeck, state president of the Future Teachers of America.

Penn State Spotlights Brubeck Jazz Tonight

The Dave Brubeck Quartet will appear in a jazz concert in Recreation Hall on the Penn State University campus this evening, March 18, at 9:00 P. M., sponsored by the newly formed Penn State Jazz Club. (See letter to editor).

The Quartet features Paul Desmond, recently voted best in the nation by Metronome music magazine, on alto saxaphone. In the same Metronome poll, Brubeck came out as number one pianist in the country, and his quartet named the best small jazz combination.

Tickets will be on sale for the concert at the door. All seats are $1.50.

Mid-Term Ends Wed; Grades Due Mar. 28

MID TERM ENDS

Mid-term will end Wednesday, March 23. Second half term classes will begin the following day, March 24. The grades are due in the registrar's office March 28. Grades are expected to be issued on Friday, April 2.

Skinner, M'Clure Head Paper; Newborg, Fattman Promoted

Alma Skinner, a junior psychology major from West Whiteland, has been approved by the Faculty Committee on Publications to edit the Juniatian for the year 1955-56.

She succeeds Jim Hunt, who has resigned the position because of his election to Senate President for the coming year. However, Hunt will remain on the staff in the capacity of executive editor. He will serve as an advisor to the paper and contribute editorials.

• Alma Skinner •
Juniatian Editor

Miss Skinner has been a member of the Juniatian staff for the past three years, having served as news editor and managing editor prior to her promotion. She is also a member of the Scout staff and is assistant chairman of All-Class Nite.

Other changes announced by the new editor are the promotion of Joan McClure to managing editor, Carol Newborg to news editor, and George Fattman to club editor.

Miss McClure has been news editor for the paper for the past year, is literary editor of the Alfarata and a member of the Scout staff. She is the newly elected Chairman of Publications.

Miss Newborg, a sophomore chem. major from Ardmore, has been club editor of the paper since September. She is also in the Chemistry Club, Scalpel and Probe, and a member of the Masque.

Fattman, a freshman journalism major from Tarentum, receives his promotion after having completed a successful semester as a staff reporter. He is a member of the WJC staff, the band, and the sub-freshman committee.

Senate Officers Are Our Agents; Our Support Makes Their Success

by Jim Hunt

Next Wednesday marks the end of student government under the leadership of President Dick Fusco. The past year has been one of interest and accomplishment for every active Juniatian.

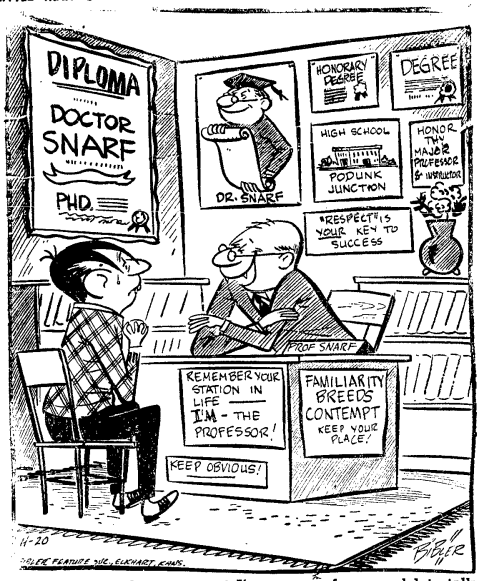
We can look back over the past year and find numerous reasons for commending Senate leadership; but now we are ready to start another governmental tenure under new leadership.

The problems our new Senate will face will seem familiar to many of us but there will be new difficulties to overcome and different challenges to face. How these new situations and the old problems will be handled is only a matter of speculation at this point, but it is also a matter which we must keep in mind.

We have cast our ballots and elected our student leaders for the 1955-56 school year; but our job does not end with this function. The victorious candidates are only symbols of the role we must play in college life. Each and every one of us is the actual fountainhead of student government.

The Senate will be stronger and can accomplish more if we can keep alive our interest. We must remain vitally interested in the work they are doing, and it is necessary to remember that they are our agents.

LITTLE MAN ON THE CAMPUS By BIBLER



"Try to forget for a moment I'm your professor and lets talk your problem over man to man."

Freshman Declines ROTC 'Offer' At Louisiana's State University

(ACP)—You don't say no to Uncle Sam, so the military department was rather nonplussed when a prospective freshman declined its offer of compulsory military training at Louisiana State University.

In reply to an information form explaining that two years of basic military training are required at LSU of all physically fit male students between 14 and 23, one freshman wrote:

"Thank you for your generous offer to let me join the ROTC at LSU. I assure you I would deem it the greatest honor ever to come to me. After giving the matter deep consideration, I have decided that it would be best if I declined your offer."

The freshman refused the offer "because of the advantage that it would give me over the other girls on the campus."

The red faced military department plans no action in the case because the he turned out to be a she.

Accent On Reading

CHARLEMAGNE, by Harold Lamb. Reading like fiction, this colorful biography of the early Frankish king links the political and social history of a time so remote that it seems legendary. The splendid barbaric eighth century and the man who was such a potent force in it are recreated through this reworking of material from legend and contemporary chronicles.

IDEAS AND OPINIONS, by Albert Einstein. A collection of the scientist's most important general writings taken from three previous books, from periodicals, and other sources. Subjects on which he has expressed himself include freedom, education, religion, politics and government, the Jewish people. Zionism, Germany, and science.

Is Peaceful Coexistance Possible?

by Jimm Montgomery

The world is divided into two armed camps. Can they live together or must there ultimately be a fight to the finish?

Those of us who say that we must fight make a false analysis of the source of trouble in the foreign situation. Because of the self-righteous attitude that must be maintained at a high pitch if our opposition to communism is to stay at the maximum point of intensity, we tend to make Russia to be the devil whose eradication would solve all the world problems. This however is not the case as can be seen by the results of the same attitude toward Germany in 1914 and toward Hitler. If the communist world would sink into the ocean our problems would by no means be solved. The source of "evil" in the world lies not with one nation but with the whole of humanity. It would not be long before another group of persons would arise whose conception of the nature of things would be at variance with ours.

Another aspect to be considered is the practicability of military force as an instrument of international policy. Formerly military action was a last resort of coercion with the avowed purpose of achieving some limited gains which were not to be had by more peaceful means. The dissolutionment of this traditional aspect of war started in 1914 and has culminated with the advent of nuclear weapons. War now means mutual annihilation. It defeats its own purpose. The increase of military strength has reached such a degree that its usefulness as an international tool has in fact "withered away".

Communism does not want war, for one of the main tenets of its doctrine is that capitalism is a war centered economy and must collapse in a time of peace. Communism will attempt to bore from within in hopes of accelerating this process of disintegration. Our problem then is to guard against such infiltration by proving that our economy can survive on a peacetime basis. It is only as we attempt to live peacefully day by day that we can hope for peace in the long run. We would solve nothing and it would result in the virtual destruction of mankind. There is nothing to be gained in this direction. In light of the suicidal and futile aspects of war let us now take a calculated risk in the direction of peace. The problem is no longer; Can we coexist? But rather- we must coexist.

Dear Sir;

On Friday evening, March 18 at 9:00 P. M., the Penn State Jazz Club is presenting the Dave Brubeck Quartet in a concert. We, the members of the Jazz Club, wish to extend an invitation to the students of Juniata to come and see Brubeck. We feel that it will be a truly enjoyable event. I have enclosed some pertinent material, and would be grateful for any space you can give us in your newspaper. I can promise you that seats will be available the night of the concert.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Sincerely your,

The Covites clinched the championship of the IM Bowling League last week as they captured three points from the second place Mountaineers. In other league action the Big 5 upset the Wildcats by shutting them out 4-0.

Although pressed hard at times by the Mountaineers and third place Alley Cats, the Covites have held first place since the early weeks of the season. Joe Hinish, one of the only two bowlers in the league carrying an average over 150, has been the spark for the league leaders. Joe, as well, holds the season record for match total.

The team which only in the late weeks of the season has moved into undisputed second place is the Mountaineers. They had to share the spot for four weeks with the Alley Cats. During the early part of the season Ed Pallo consistently rolled around 150 to pace them. When Ed left at the end of the semester they picked up Tom Appleby who has since carried an average of almost 160.

The third place Alley Cats have been led by Al Nyce and Bill Garrison. The Tycoons have leaned on the scoring of a trio: Don Pheasant, Bud Douds, and Dick Ikeda. Walt Vanderbush and Klare Sunderland, of Rinso's Boys and the Flames respectively, both have averages of over 140, while Dewey Mayes of IFT is rolling at a 140 pins per game pace.

WAA Teams Participate In Sport's Day At State, 28 Girls Represent JC

The Juniata WAA was represented by 28 girls who participated in Sport's Day at Penn State on Saturday, March 5. The JC girls participated in basketball, volleyball, modern dance, bowling, badminton and swimming, competing against Bucknell, Lycoming and State.

In this competition the Juniata girls came out on the losing end in all except volleyball, where a 43-29 victory was recorded over Lycoming.

The swimming team came in last, while the basketball team lost to host Penn State 35-8 and to Bucknell 21-16

After the competition, all the participants joined in the social half of the program indulging in a free swimming session and a supper.

Members of the winning volleyball team were; Flo Wenzel, Annabelle Pomeroy, Jill Derstine, Barb Maurer, Phyl Marcocci, Rosalie Langer, Carol Jenkins, Eddie Lantz and Lois Speice.

Other teams and their members were; basketball—Joyce Warfel, Doreen Fyock, Rainy Linn, Lucille Frey, Nancy Bachman, and Patience Kinlock; modern dance Lili Weimar, Gail Steiner, Janice Hoyer, and Ann Willson; bowling—Lee Englehart and Ginny Roos; badminton — Eloise Holsinger Mary Jane Bridenbaugh, and Sylvia Peterson; and swimming—Sue Jamison, Eileen Gipprich, Joan Greenwood and Aliceann Wohlbruck.

26 Report For Baseball Practice; 9 Lettermen

29 candidates including nine lettermen, turned out as "spring training began Monday afternoon for Juniata College's baseball team.

Under the direction of a new coach the Tribe will open a 15 game schedule at Elizabethtown on April 16. Bob Hicks, who led the football team to its second successive undefeated season last fall, will succeed Dr. T. Arnold Greene as head coach.

Outfielders Joe Hinish, Barry Drexler, and Bud Douds; infielders Lee Hallman, Jake Handzelek, Bernie Oriss, Jack Golden, and John Staley; catcher Don Pheasant, and pitchers Ferrill Alderfer and John Criswell were members of last year's squad who turned out.

14 Newcomers

Among the newcomers, mostly freshmen, were four candidates for the outfield, seven for the infield, one catcher and two pitchers. Several more holdovers and new candidates are expected to report as the week progresses.

Looking at last year's squad, the primary need this year will be replacements for Fran Zimmerman in center and Ken Leonard at second, as well as more bench strength.

Last year's team compiled a strong 10-4 record winning nine straight in one stretch, including a 10-4 trouncing of Pitt. Pitt makes a return visit to College Field this year on May 7.

The appearance of the spring sports schedule last week was cut short, leaving out most of the track schedule, so here it is in its entirely:

April 16, Albright and St. Joseph's, home; April 19, Shippensburg, away; April 29-30 Penn Relays, Philadelphia; May 4, Bucknell and Gettysburg, at Lewisburg; May 7, Dickinson away; May 10, Lock Haven, home; May 13-14, Middle Atlantic Championships.

Squaws Win Girls I-M Make Frosh Champs Of All I-M Basketball

The Squaws took the girls' intramural basketball championship crown on March 3 as they downed the Rowdies 74-21. This was the eighth straight win for the Squaws for the season and leaves their record unmarred by losses. The other game of the night was forfieted by the Tri-Delts to the Punchy Pack 2-0.

Jill Derstine, Squaw forward, was high scorer for the night with 28 points, followed by teammates Vinnie Berdge with 26 points and Patience Kinmloch with 20 points. Helen Schmidlen led the scoring for the losing Rowdies by racking up 10 points. Furnished by the best looking trio of guards in the league in Becky Guyton, Nancy Grace and Margie Moyer, the Squaws made the game look fairly easy all night.

The Der Chums backed into fifth place by the Tri Delts forfiet while the rest of the team standings remained intact.

FINAL STANDINGS

Red Devils	5	1	.716
Rowdies	3	3	.500

Running The Gauntlet

Two post-season basketball honors were accorded Jake Handzelek last week, and Lee Hallman received mention in one of them.

In addition to receiving Honorable Mention on the All-State team, Jake was named on Indiana STC's all-opponent team. Jake was third choice behind Stan Yukica, Geneva, and Joe Duffy, Slippery Rock STC. Rounding out the team were Dick Majernik, California, and Ray Chess, Clarion.

Lee Hallman was voted to the Teachers' second team, along with another Geneva player, Ken Woodeshick.

The spring intramural program is getting under way. In addition to the inter-class track meet next Friday, attempts are being made to form volleyball leagues to carry over until the beginning of softball.

The girls already have teams formed, while the boys only have four signed up. Teams are restricted to six players, and the schedule would be run on an elimination basis.

Softball will probably see a minimum of 12 players to a squad, to provide for absences due to labs.

Boys don't forget to volunteer for your class track team!

Boys Brave Icy Stream To Obtain Rock Photos

In order to photograph beautiful formations in an almost inaccessable grotto, several members of the Standing Stone Grotto braved freezing cold water, which would have been over their heads, in McClure Cave Sunday.

A party consisting of 12 members and other JCers, led by Ralph Mumma, acting club president toured the cavern. Carbide lamps illuminated the way, much of which was traveled on the stomach.

Upon arriving at an underground stream, four spelunkers plunged in and floated a camera and flash bulbs into the grotto in a plastic helmet, similar to that worn by each member of such expeditions. Returning from their mission, the fellows, half frozen at this point, scurried up the bank out of the stream—all except Bill Brunkhardt, who slipped and reeled back into the freezing water.

After dragging him out again, the party returned to the cave entrance, having spent over two hours exploring.

Standing Stone Grotto meets the second and fourth Fridays of each month. A caving trip is planned for each Sunday afternoon. Mumma pointed out that all JCers and townspeople as well are invited to make the excursions with the group.

Band Officers

Barbara Phennicie, an elementary education major from Garret, was elected president of the band at its rehearsal Monday.

Also elected were Shirley Nace, secretary-treasurer, and Ron Deamer, librarian. Dan Raffensperger is the retiring president of the group. Members of the band are preparing to present a concert some time in April. New uniforms have not yet been selected.

German Club Officers

At their meeting Thursday evening the German Club elected Skip Osterling, a pre-med major from Indiana, to the presidency of their group.

Eva Wagner was elected vice-president, and Norma Hottle, secretary treasurer. It was reported that a German movie with English sub-titles has been ordered and will be shown in the near future. The meeting consisted of a talent show and was closed with group singing of German songs.

Chemistry Club Meeting

The Chemistry Club will meet this evening in Room 104 for the election of officers.

JCers Describe Faiths In Worship Discussion

In keeping with its theme for this month, "Worship," the JCA invited five JC students to point out various unique factors of their faiths in a panel discussion Tuesday evening.

Entitled "One God and the Ways We Worship Him," the discussion presented features of the Jewish, Catholic, Episcopalian, Friends, and Brethren religions. Representing these faiths were Bernie Cohen, Rosalie Langer, Joan Schwartz, Sue Paxson, and Evelyn Brehm. Ernie Lashlee served as moderator.

Cohen pointed out that there are three factions of Judaism—Orthodox, Conservative, and Reformed—according to embracement of original law and custom.

Langer Describes Catholicism

Miss Langer described the interior of a Catholic Church and told of three types of mass used (mass being their main service): low, high, and solemn high, the difference being the occasion and the amount of the service sung. She also pointed out that Catholics do not pray to statues, but rather have them in the churches as symbolic reminders of the real source of their prayers.

The Episcopal Church is a bridge from the Catholic to the Protestant faiths, according to Miss Schwartz. It is of two general forms, high and low, depending on its similarity to Catholicism. Episcopal churches have two full time ministers.

Miss Paxson stressed the simplicity of the religion of the Friends, sometimes called Quakers. Baptism and Communion are taken spiritually without any accompanying symbols.

Miss Brehm told of several of the distinguishing characteristics of the Church of the Brethren and explained their significance.

Ellis Will Attend Truth Symposium

President Calvert N. Ellis has accepted an invitation from Bridgewater College to attend a symposium on the liberating power of truth at Bridgewater on March 26 and 27.

According to Warrend D. Bowman, President of Bridgewater College. Manchester College's president, Dr. V. F. Schwalm, will also attend this event.

The symposium will climax Bridgewater's celebration of its 75th anniversary.

Yenter Initiates Fund For Scholarship Award

An initial gift of $3,000 has been presented to Juniata College by John C. Yenter, Tyrone contractor, to establish a new scholarship fund.

As a result of this gift, the College now has 34 funds for scholarships in its official catalog listing. This newest one will be known as the John C. Yenter Scholarship.

The scholarship will be awarded each year to "a needy student from Tyrone or Huntingdon" who is eligible on his academc record, according to John T. Fike, college treasurer and chairman of the committee on financial aid.

Mr. Yenter is well known in the Huntingdon and Tyrone areas. He was the contractor for the men's new residence hall just completed here this January.

State-Wide FTA Convention Opens Here Today

The Juniatian

Vol. 31 No. 22 | Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. | Friday, March 25, 1955

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss Will Speak For First General Session Friday

The keynote speech for the state-wide convention of the Future Teachers of America will be given by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of State Teachers College, Bloomsburg, at the opening general session in Oller Hall this afternoon.

The two-day meeting of the FTA will get under way at noon today with Juniata College's chapter of the organization as host to more than 300 high school and college students.

Dr. Harvey Andruss
● Bloomsburg STC Pres. ●

Will Speak At 2

Dr. Andruss will give his address at the session scheduled in Oller Hall at 2 p.m. Kaydonna Bubeck, president of the state FTA will preside.

The speaker has been president of the State Teachers College at Bloomsburg since 1939 except for a six-month leave in 1945 to serve as consultant and department head at the First American Army University in England.

Prior to his position as president, Dr. Andruss was dean of instruction for two years and director of the department of business from 1930 to 1937. He was once supervisor of business education at State Teachers College, Indiana, Pa.

Oklahoma Graduate

A graduate of the University of Oklahoma in 1924, Dr. Andruss received his master's degree from Northwestern University and his doctor of education degree from the Pennsylvania State University.

He was an instructor and lecturer at Northwestern University's School of Commerce and has, on various occasions, served as special lecturer, instructor of consultant at Oklahoma A and M College; Teacher's Colege, Columbia University; Penn State University; and University of Oklahoma.

In 1945, Dr. Andruss was research reader, Bodleian Library, University of Oxford in England. He also was a member of the President's Council, American Institute of Management. He is the author of four books on business education.

Penn State HUB Opens For Public

From Penn State comes news of a ne wbuilding — more than two years in construction and 50 years in planning. The Hetzel Union Building was opened March 15.

The building with a floor space of nearly 148,000 square feet will provide office and meeting room facilities for student organizations; serve as a recreational and educational center for students, faculty and alumni; and make available a complete food service.

Also included in the building's facilities are lounges, a reading room, a studio with a piano and listening booths for the use of rfecordings, a gallery, a small auditorium, game rooms, a television viewing room, a student book exchange and meeting rooms ofr student groups.

Food services include a snack bar, a cafeteria, and private dining rooms.

The building was named in honor of Dr. Ralph Hetzel, former president of the university.

Its purpose is to bring together students, faculty and alumni in an atmosphere of relaxed friendliness.

JCA Plans to Discuss Sex, Love Next Month

by Alice Waite

April, according to J.C.A. is the "month of love" and in order to observe it, programs for the April J.C.A. meetings revolve around this theme.

Many of you were at the dorm discussions last night where you discussed the relationship of sex and religion. These discussions were your introduction to the next three J.C.A. meetings, the first one falling on April 5. At that time discussions will be held on the various phases of this same problem. To add to the informal setting of this meeting, refreshments will be served. The meeting is open to persons of all faiths and creeds.

The next meeting falls on April 19, when a playlet will be presented wherein four students will discuss various opinions and viewpoints on the questions raised at the previous discussion groups.

On April 26 we are privileged to have as our guest speaker Dr. Charles D. Spotts, professor of religion at Franklin and Marshall College. He will climax our series of programs by attempting to answer the many questions J.C.A. students have on the problems of the relationship of sex and religion.

Patients Entertained By Juniata Students

Last Monday a group of Juniata students travelled to Altoona to entertain the men at the veteran's hospital there.

The variety show was headed by Skip Oesterling, who acted as emcee and played several accordian selections. Also featured in the show were Mickey Mick and Sue Jamison, who sang a duet; Ann Willson with a tap dance; Lois Parker and Judy Gearhart, each with several solos; Shirley Baroody with a baton specialty, and Sandy Ewing singing a comedy song.

Honor Society Elects Senior, Four Juniors

On Monday afternoon, March 21, the undergraduate members of the Juniata Honor Society met with a group of faculty and administration for the purpose of electing new members. This year's additions are Paul Wingert, class of 1955; and from the class of 1956, Mark E. Beech, James A. Cummins, Robert A. Fisher, and William Z. Smith.

The Juniata Honor Society was founded in 1941 and since then 101 Juniata graduates have been honored by membership. The constitution of the society provides that members shall be chosen in consideration of their scholarly achievement, moral integrity, and broad cultural interests.

Plans are underway to institute a new and special recognition for outstanding scholarship on the campus. It has been proposed that a chapel period be set aside each year, in May, at which scholarship awards, graduate school appointments, Honor Society membership, and perhaps other noteworthy achievement will be formally recognized. An outside speaker will give added emphasis to the occasion, and the annual dinner of the Honor Society will be held in the evening. Fuller announcement of these plans will come fro mthe Presidents office later in the Spring.

County Contestants Meet For Forensics On Campus Mar. 29

High school students from a 13-county area will compete in the district contest of the Pennsylvania Forensic and Music League here on the Juniata campus on Tuesday, March 29. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. in the Memorial Gym and the activities will continue all morning and until 4 p.m.

Students Hall will be the site of the speaking competition. Public speaking of all types, both individual and team, is to be done. The instrumental solos followed by the vocal solos will be judged in Swigart Hall.

In Oller Hall the chorus and ensemble competitions will be held in the morning and early afternoon. Last scheduled there are one-act plays which will be presented at 3 p.m.

An invitation has been extended by the League to interested students to attend these concerts which are open to the public.

Students To Give 2nd In Series of Recitals

The second in a series of student recitals will be given on Sunday, March 27th at 2:00 p.m. in Swigart Hall. This Sunday's program will be given by voice students and will include Mildred Mandeville, Jackie Hayes, Ron Dilling, Don Brinton, Lois Parker, Ann Yesko, Violet Peters and Barbara Grim.

Music on the program will be varied and includes an aria from the "Barber of Seville" by Rossini, the familiar "Un bel di" from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" and songs by Strauss, Handel, Cowen, Kernochan and other composers.

All students and faculty are corditlly invited to attend this program.

About 300 Future Teachers Will Take Part In Convention

Woven around the theme, "Shakespear in Modern", the Pennsylvania Future Teacher's of America will produce their seventh annual convention on the Juniata College campus March 25th and 26th. Three hundred high school and college F.T.A.'ers are expected to attend this convention sponsored by the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

KAYDONNA S. BUBECK
● FTA President ●

Retiring Pa. FTA Head Is Juniata Senior Coed

Since grade school days, the current president of the Pennsylvania organization of Future Teachers of America has "always wanted to be a teacher." And now that Kaydonna Bubeck, a 20-year old Juniata College senior from Schuylkill Haven, has served as head of the FTA and undereaken her "practice teaching," she likes her chosen profession "better than ever."

Kay will climax her one year herm as president of the state-wide organization when she presides over the annual convention scheduled on this campus today and tomorrow, March 25-26. An estimated 300 "future teachers" are expected to attend the two-day meeting — and no one is busier or happier than Miss Bubeck.

Not only has Miss Bubeck headed the state and Juniata College chapters of the FTA, but she also was elected national historian of the organization at a meeting in New York. In addition, she represented Pennsylvania at a Citizenship Conference in Washington, D.C.

Miss Bubeck will complete her work in elementary education at Juniata College this year and be a candidate for a degree in June.

With Janet Claycomb as chairman, registration will take place from 10:00 A.M.—2:00 P.M. on Friday, March 25th. Following registration the conveners will meet in Oller Hall for the first general session; Kaydonna Bubeck, president of P.F.T.A. will preside. At this time President, Dr. Calvert N. Ellis will extend greetings to the guests.

Nominations

Along with the keynote speaker, (Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, of Bloomsburg State Teachers College), the largest item on the agenda will be the nomination of officers. An ammendment to the Constitution will be presented; if passed it will put a member of the Juniata College F.T.A., to be appointed by Miss Bubeck, on the P.F.T.A. executive council for the next year. This appointee will act in the advisory capacity, The sesion will close following the nominees presentation.

The remainder of the afternoon will be spent in a tour of the campus, conducted by the subfrosh committee, and a Tea sponsored by the Juniata Colege Womens League.

Banquet

Doris Wilson will be the Mistress of Ceremonies at the Banguet to be held at 7:00 P.M. Friday evening. At this time, Jim Hunt, President of the Student Senate, will extend a welcome to the conveners. Greetings will also be extended by Don Scala, new President of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association, and Barbara Phennicie, President of the M. G. Brumbaugh Chapter of the F.T.A. Reverend Richard Church will be the mainETAOI Winters, Pastor of the Abby Church, will be the main speaker of the evening. Dinner will be

Langer Reveals Site For Saturday Social

Rosalie Langer, the new chairman of the social committee has announced that this Saturday take place in the informal atmosphere of Totem Inn.

There will be dancing, cards and checkers for those interested, and also a chance for watching TV. She would like to urge everyone to drop in sometime during the evening as there will be pleasure in store for all.

Wil Norris, '54 Juniata Graduate Tells About Experiences In Europe

Call it plagiarism or anything else you might but as a conclusion to our articles of European countries, we have used comments which Wilfred Norris, a former Juniata student in the class of 1953, has written about some of his experiences in Germany in his letters to Juniaa students.

Wil spoke of the deserted Neutral Territory at Eisenstein where English signs fifty meters away fro mit say "close" which is a definite warning that the Iron Curtain is close at hand. Better known as "No Man's Land", it is enclosed by five feet thick barbed wire fences. You cannot see the police but you know they are stationed nearby and guard the ten miles of fence.

Wil Visits Tubingen

At Tubingen Wil visited Schloss Castle where there are wine casks ten feet in diameter and twelve feet long. Being so huge, the casks have only needed to be refilled once in four hundred years.

The academic freedom which Wil is enjoying at Oberrealschule is unusual for there, after taking exams and entering the university, students go to various courses until they decide which ones they desire to take. Then a student is free to go to class or not at his own choice. After four to six years of study he takes tests, writes a thesis, and if successful—receives his degree.

Europeans Reserved

According to Wil, European students try to act as grown-up as possible. They are more reserved than American students, The clothing styles, as Wil sees them, are horrible. The most popular color is olive green. The typical German wears dull clothes, the Frenchman, conservative but nice ones. Whether a student or not, most Germans carry britf cases. The workers carry lunches in

From the Editor's Notes

Our local chapter of the Future Teachers of America and the entire student body wish to welcome to representatives of the PFTA to our campus. We hope your visit is both a plesant and a profitable one.

The members of Juniata's FTA chapter have worked diligently in preparing for this convention. If they have overlooked anything that would add to your convenience, please do not hesitate to let them know.

Juniata is a friendly school. Try our custom of greeting people on campus with a "Hello".

It may be a source of encouragement for the newly elected leaders of both classes and other organizations when they face conflicts to consider the remarks commending the outgoing officers of one JC organization. Agreement and smooth harmony, said the speaker, were not characteristic of their group, but individual views coupled with respect for their differences promoted greatest insight and therefore made possible a more varied and interesting program.

If we keep off the grass in this muddy season it will improve the appearance of both us and the campus.

Old, New JC Senators Hold Banquet, Meeting

Senate activities for the past week centered primarily around ringing out the old members and officially installing the new.

Following the joint banquet Wednesday evening in the Oneida Dining Hall, a meeting was held, the purpose of which was to illustrate to the new Senate members the procedure employed in the weekly meetings.

Issues discused were the constitution of the newly organizezd art club, which was approved by the Senate and sent on to the administration; the matter of guides for the forensics contestants—it was reported that the sub-frosh committee is willing to furnish the guides; and the reassignment of separate days for men and women in the use of the laundry rooms in the girl's dorm.

The Senate decided to re-assign Thursday as a laundry day for women exclusively. Students are reminded that men only are permitted to wash on Tuesdays and Fridays. It is requested that these designated times be observed, in order to alleviate the laundry condition.

Financial Aid Forms No wAt Treasurer's

Application forms for financial aid to be assigned by the College in 1955-56 will be available in the office of the treasurer beginning today, Friday, March 25, until noon Wednesday, April 6.

Any student who expects to receive any form of financial assistance for next year must obtain an application, fill in the information requested in every detail, and return it to the Treasurer before the deadline at noon Saturday, April 23.

The Financial Aid Committee will take action on applications beginning April 25.

Accent On Reading

IN THE CAUSE OF PEACE, by Trygve Lie. The recollections of the first secretary-general of the United Nations are a valuable commentary on the first seven years of United Nations affairs. This is a straightforward record of the questions that concerned the secretary-general and his reactions to them; issues not personalities are presented. The account indicates the writer's wholehearted efforts for the United Nations and his belief in it.

MY LIFE WITH THE MICROBES by Dr. Selman A. Waksman. Here is the autobiography of the winner of the Nobel prize for his discovery of strepto-mycin—the full, luminous story of the steps in the discovery of antibiotics. Dr. Waksman reveals them in his own personal story— his students days, his sorrows and struggles, his years of travel and teaching, and the consecration to the conviction that knowledge "belongs to humanity and is the torch that illuminates the world."

New Views--Yalta

The most obvious and highly touted lesson that comes from the release of the Yalta papers is that we gave the Rusians too good a deal. But let us look into this popular notion that it was a bad deal for us.

Bad Deal ?

It was bad because Russia did not remain our 'friends' and they used the territories gained at Yalta to our disadvantage. We allowed the French and the British pieces of the territorial pie and that wasn't a bad deal. So, herein lies the 'badness' of the deal: we've changed our attitude toward Russia. Not that this change was unwarranted, but rather it shows the narrow, self centered natude of our attitudes toward vanquished foes.

Basic Mistake

The basic and most profound mistake at Yalta was not the aid of Russia, but the idea that we can with impunity dismember nations at will. At the Nuremburg trials we tried to establish a moral criterion for the handling of agression, but on the other hand we defeat our own purposes by allowing, if not abetting, the willful weakening of Germany. If Germany had won the war she would not have suffered the punishment of dismemberment. And so the punishment is dependent on the outcome of the war and then our whole attempt to establish international affairs on a basis of 'morality' is negated. It is not our part to punish nations and the biter results of just this type of action are now apparent in our foreign relations. The scene has shifted and the nations have taken on different roles. Russia is now the enemy and the two nations, Germany and Japan, which we were so eager to see suffer in 1945, are being wooed by us to be our allies in the fight against the new enemy.

Another Weakness

We now see another weakness in our Yalta policy, the lack of long range planning in the face of Soviet designs. Stalin did not wish to see Germany 'punished' as did we, but rather he wanted any future German threat to his western border nullified. Taking advantage of our short-sighted vindictiveness, he obtained concessions from us which have put the United States in a very bad position today. In our haste to win the war we neglected to make arrangements for the peace.

It is true that there were big mistakes made at Yalta, but let us make no mistakes as to their nature.

Ch'rman Urges All-Class Night Publicity Aids

All Class Night chairman, Allegra Forney, reminds J.C. students to urge the attendance of parentts and friends to the All Class Night program to be held April 2. The proceeds of the event will be used to finance annual May Day activities.

Behind the scenes, the skits are reported to be eshaping up well. The five judges have been contacted, and preparations are in full swing. Each class is responsible for two ushers and also for four posters which are included in the publicity campaign.

TRACK

The Juniata track team showed some improvement by winning two out of three dual meets, but finished last in two tough triangular contests.

Trackmen, Tennis Golf Teams Hope for Warmer Weather for Workouts

JC's track, tennis, and golf candidates are all awaiting a seige of favorable weather in order to get down to brass tacks and pick their squads for the coming campaigns.

"Mike" Snider's track candidates have been working out in the gym, but need an outdoor session to determine how many of the unusually large turnout will be retained on the squad.

Five lettermen, Gene Rothenberger, Al Nyce, Herb Laymen, Sonny Kaylor, and Larry Hartline, form a nucleus, along with returnees Doug Wilson, Pat Tarquinio, and George Beard.

Among the many other candidates, mostly freshmen, Snider can look forward to former JC trackman Don Brinton, a distance runner, and Bob Passmore, a vet and a very promising pole-vaulter.

While doing most of the tutoring himself, Snider has turned some of his instructing over to his veterans. Rothenberger, in the jump and hurdles, Nyce, in the discus and shot, Hartline. in the javelin, Tarquinio, in the sprints, and Laymen. in the distances, are all available for individual help.

Tennis

The netmen, under Dr. Lockwood this year, have Captain Dick Fusco and lettermen Chuck Gross, Dan Raffensperger, Phil Lankford, and Don Ruhl, along with candidates Del McQuade, Paul Wingert and Larry Cape from whom to whip up a squad which will have to face such rugged opposition as Pitt, Carnegie Tech and Penn State.

Golf

Bill Germann's golfers face the task of overcoming the loss of medalists Tom Cherok and Frank Arasin and of Bob Fahrney by graduation. Undefeated Bill West and other letter winners Keith Birmingham, Ted Grothe, and Barry Montgomery will form the nucleus of this year's linksmen.

Hicks Will Cut Baseball Squad to 17; 26 Problem

A squad of 17 baseball players will represent the Juniata Indians in the diamond sport this spring, Coach Bob Hicks announced this week. This means a total of five players will face being cut from the squad before opening game at Elizabethtown April 16.

The team goes into action this year with a nucleus of veteran sophomores and juniors. In addition, the squad now contains seven freshmen battling for positions on the squad. Despite the number of experienced players, Hicks stated that 11 positions are open and that no one is assured of starting in the opening game. Competition for starting berths seems strongest at second base and in the outfield where the competition runs strong and deep.

The two biggest question marks seem to be the weather and the pitching staff. The supply of hurlers this year is definitely limited as the mound corps consists of a mere four candidates. They are Jake Handzelek and "Lefty" Alderfer, veteran's of many performances last season, John Criswell, who saw limited action the past two seasons, and freshman Nick Roth.

The weatherman, an annual troublemaker here this time of year, must smile long enough for Coach Hicks to get an idea of the material he has availible for his first season at Juniata, as well as to give him a chance to put his team together for a tough 15 game intercollegiate schedule plus a game with the alumni June 4.

Running The Gauntlet

Throughout the basketball season the "Harrisburg Evening News" sports page carried a weekly resume of a mythical eight-team collegiate basketball league called the Central Penn Included in the eight were Albright, Bucknell, Dickinson, Elizabethtown, F & M. Gettysburg, Lebanon Valley and Juniata.

Lately talk has been circulating about giving this group official status. One suggestion was made by P. M. "Mike" Snider of JC. "Mike" has been quoted in favor of the idea of forming such a league in the next few years. He has carried it a step farther. Since all the teams are members of the Middle Atlantic Conference, which contains 32 colleges, Mike recommended dividing it into four sections, with playoffs to determine representation in the NCAA tournament.

A northern division would include Wagner, Hofstra, Lehigh, Moravian, Scranton, etc; an eastern, the Philadelphia area; a southern, teams from Maryland and S. Penna.; and a western, the Central Penn group.

The problem seems to be what to do with La Salle and St. Joseph's — put them with Swarthmore, Haverford Drexel and co. or with the stronger northern group.

Such a set-up, should it ever come to life, would provide new incentive for the small colleges in our area..

Here are the final standings of the teams in the mythical Central section. Lebanon Valley, 9—0, and Gettysburg, 5—3, were on top, while Juniata was sixth with 3—5, topping Bucknell and F & M.

Final scoring statistics from Juniata's court foes are not happy reading as far as next year is concerned. Nearly every team featured high scoring sophomores, with little loss due to graduation.

Bucknell's five sophomores all finished with an 11 point per game average or better, topped by Norm Voorhees with 14.0. Dickinson's Jim Connor scored 381 for a 20.1 average, but will have only one other starter back with him. E-town loses only Harvey Jacobs, while holding onto sophs Sal Paone, who led their scoring with 337 points an da 15.3 average, and Dick Stine, and frosh Jim Chase and Jim Sarbaugh.

E-town had some tough breaks. Of their eight losses, all but two were by more than three points, the worst being a 12 point defeat by Millersville. F&M also was paced by three undergrads, led by sophomore Jack Zeigler with a 17.8 average.

For the first time in many years Mike Snider will have to make some cuts in choosing his track squad this year. Whereas he used to have to scour the gym to fill out the squad, he has been flooded by a host of eaber freshmen, vets, and former students. We hope he will find some good prospects to enable us to tackle the tough schedule ahead. which opens with Albright and St. Joseph's in a triangular meet.

Softball Seasons Opens Next Week; Spring I-M Activities are Outlined

"Sonny" Kaylor began his reign as Intramural Chairman by announcing that the boy's softball league would begin action immediately after Spring vacation, and would run until May 13.

Starting tomorrow, however, a short volleyball tournament, initiated by retiring chairman Dick Godshall will be held, running through next week.

The softball league will be run according to the latest revised softball rules, with all games lasting seven innings.

At the completion of the season there will be an All-star game between the number one team and a team of all-stars picked from the rest of the league.

All members of the tennis, track, and baseball teams will be ineligible for competition. Players playing one game for any team will not be allowed to switch to another team.

Other Spring activities will depend on student interest. Tennis and golf will be offered, but will be carried through only on favorable response.

As far as future plans go, Kaylor plans to work for more and adequate ping-pong and horseshoe facilities, both at Cloisters and the New Dorm.

Brammer Will Speak In Chapel Next Week

Mr. Padgett announced the chapel programs for the week of March 28 as follows:

On Monday the chapel speaker will be the Rev. illiam Beal, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church of Huntingdon.

Chapel on Wednesday will feature a musical program in charge of Dr. Brammer. Mr. Padgett, wit ha special theme built around Palm Sunday and Holy Week, will be the chapel speaker on Friday.

JC Passes Quota In Blood Donation

Huntingdon Red Cross Chapter officials gave "A" grades for distinguished attainment to Joseph Hinish and Nancy Nevin for their work in planning the bloodmobile visit. Nurses said it was "one of the smoothest operations" they have witnessed in this region.

Records show that JC students went all-out for the bloodmobile visit, when they donated 144 pints of blood — 19 more than the assigned quota of 125. Another important feature of the bloodmobile visit was the fact that 86 were first-time donors. Of the 168 donors scheduled, 19 did not appear; 18 were rejected; and 13 were walkins.

Many students aided in the bloodmobile program . Registration was in charge of Cynthia Zonies, Norma Hottle, Pat Parker, Lois Speice, Barbara Hootman, Thomas Walker, Joseph Hinish, Robert Godshall, Charles Meyers, Neil Albirght, and George Carnahan.

Each of the 144 donors furnished a pint of blood.

Livingston, Smith Win Gen. Information Quiz

The winners of the recently held General Information contest were announced in chapel Friday, March 18. Out of a possible 250 points, Dick Livingston scored 190 to capture first prize of $15.

With a score of 188, Bill Smith too kthe second prizze of $10. Smith won the contest last year.

As no names are used in this contest, each contestant is given a number. The two winners were announced by number in chapel.

followed by a dance in the Memorial Gym with music provided by the Pastels.

The second general session will be held Saturday morning at 9:00 A.M. with President Bubeck presiding. She will give a report of her F.T.A. activities for the year; this will be followed by the election of officers. Following the business meeting Miniature Conferences will be led by various advisers from different high schools and colleges. Juniata College F.T.A. will serve as hostesses and recorders.

Last Session

The last general session will be held at 11:00 A.M. Saturday morning, at which time the Lebanon Valley College F.T.A. will present the skit "Herby's Day At School." New officers will be presented followed by the presentation of the Plaque. Bill Shoppel, '53 - '54 State and National President of the F.T.A., will present the plaque to Kaydonna Bubeck, and she in turn will present it to the incoming president. Reports in preceding years were given orally at this time, but former procedures will be dispensed with, and the erports will be printed up for a Guide Book for F.T.A. vania. It will be published by the Clubs and Chapters in Pennsyl-- 1954-55 executive council.

Bill Shoppell will close the session with the singing of the Lord's Prayer. This will be the finale for all delegates except the outgoing and incoming officers. They will be served at a luncheon in the college dining hall.

Committee Chairmen

Mention should be made of the following people who have worked hard to make this convention a success: Lois Mezy, General Coordination chairman; Rosalie Langer, chairman of the Banquet and Dance; Carol Titus, chairman in charge of the Min-Cons; Norma Hottle, Chairman of Banquet Programs; Bill Collins, Advertising chairman; Janet Claycomb, chairman of Registration; Phyllis Marcocci and Lois Speice, typists; the sub-Frosh committee, and to the many others who willfully donated their time.

CLUBS

Methodists Form New Youth Group

In order to promote fellowship among Methodist students attending Juniata a JC Methodist Youth Fellowship was organized at the First Methodist Church under the direction of Rev. Bennett.

The group will meet monthly for a service, discussion period, and a social hour. At the next meeting, April 17, a movie will be shown.

Officers of the group include Bill West, president; Jery Richards, vice president; Jan Schall, secretary; Joyce Warfel, treasurer, and Dr. Lockwood and Prof. Bedient, faculty advisors. Any JC student is welcome to attend.

JC Masquers Elect . Livingston President

Members of the Masque, in a recent election chose Dick Livingston to head the group.

George Carnahan is vice president; Jan Schall, secretary; Klare Sunderland, treasurer, and Bruce Bennett, technical director. All those people connected with the production of "Bell, Book and Candle" attended a tea given by Mis Doyle in her apartment Wednesday.

Keeler To Head Athletic Group

Kass Keeler has been elected president of the Women's Athletic Association.

Other executives elected include Joyce Warfel, vice president; Alice Waite, secretary, and Jeannette Lowe, treasurer. The group's first constitution, recently prepared, has been approved by the club. At the present members of the group are participating in the girl's intramural volleyball tournament.

J.C.A. Council

Elected to the JCA Council were Ernie Lashlee, Bible doctrine; Dick Livingston, wroship; Marlene Sterner, evangelism; Karin Narbut, ecumeniacl emphasis; Alice Waite, personal guidance; Charlie Haines, Christian vocation; Carol Jenkins, recreation; Bad Nichols, applied Christianity; and Dick Murphy, higher education.

FTA Officers

Barbara Phennicie was elected president of the campus Future Teachers of America group in a recent election.

Other officers include Ann Yesko, vice president; Lois Mezey, secretary, and Janice Mertz, treasurer.

Debate Club

In a closely contested battle Jimm Montgomery was elected president of the Debate Club, and Dick Backus was elected secretary-treasurer for the 1955-1956 year.

them, the businessman, his papers; the women, their groceries and purchases; and of course the student, his books. The only place Wil has been that brief cases have not been is the movies. Wil thinks that one of the German peoples senses in not up to par for his landlady asked him why he changed his socks every day.

The prices in Germany compare to ours as far as clothing is concerned but their food is cheaper. The average German earns about six marks a day (one hundred enabling him to buy a suit) and eats a noon meal consisting of potatoes, a vegetable, and meat-wurst and an evening meal consisting of soup or fish, bread, cheese, and wurst.

Rivers Meet

While touring Wil went to Passau where the meeting of the three rivers, each of a different color, is known to be a remarkable sight. Two of the rivers, the green "Innes" and the blue "Danube' a'long with a third one which is black, were not living up to their reputation when Wil saw them because at that time they were all gray! Also at Passau he saw the forts used by Napolean and Caesar. In Austria he climbed the Alps being transported part of the way up by trolley car. At the highest peak he reached the temperature was three degrees below zero.

This summer Wil is planning to return to the United States and continue his studies in grad work.

This is the last of our series of articles on student opinions of European countries. Hope you enjoyed travelling with us.

Foundation Mentions Martin and Hercules

A Huntingdon man and two Juniatians received honors March 19, as the National Science Foundation announced its awards.

Harold B. Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark of Huntingdon was awarded a $1600 predoctorial graduate fellowship.

Clark is now teaching in the Chemical Engineering School at the University of Illinois. He is studying for his doctorate at the University graduate school.

Martin

Another Huntingdon student, John H. Martin,Jr., received honorable mention from the foundation. He is a senior here at Juniata majoring in Physics.

Honorable mention was also given to David M. Hercules of Altoona. Hercules was graduated from Juniata in June, 1954. At the present time he is doing graduate work at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Awards Fellowships

The National Science Foundation awarded 715 pre-doctorial fellowships from 2931 applicants in the natural sciences for the academic year 1955-56.

These fellowships carry stipends of $1400 for the first year, $1600 for intermediate years and $1800 for the terminal year of graduate study.

Professors Represent JC at Recent Meeting

Six members of the JC faculty were among 85 representatives of 25 regional colleges and universities who met for a conference at Penn State sponsored by the Faculty Committee of the Student Christian Movement of the Middle Atlantic Region.

Secretary of the Faculty Committee, Dr. Mays conducted one of the discussion groups. Other representatives of Juniata College included Prof. Bedient, Dr. Brammer, Dean Penney, Mr. Padgett and Miss Doyle.

The general theme of the conference, held last week-end in the new Hetzel Union Building, was "Religion in Contemporary Life." Dr. A. T. Mollegen, professor of Christian Ethics, Episcopal Theological Seminary ,Alexandria, Va. was the principal speaker.

Also attending the conference were 65 Penn State professors.

di Napoli Elected President As Over 400 Meet At JC

A delegation of "future teachers" that exceeded 400 cheered the election of Cadet Sgt. Ronald W. deNapoli, a junior from Pennsylvania Military College, as president of the Pennsylvania Future Teachers of America in a climatic end to the state-wide convention in Oller Hall last Saturday.

Prior to the announcement of deNapoli's election, the student delegates from colleges and high schools lauded Kaydonna S. Bubeck, a Juniata senior from Schuylkill Haven, Pa., for her "outstanding performance as state president".

In addition, Miss Bubeck and the FTA chapter of Juniata College received a rousing ovation for the highly successful convention.

Juniata students were hosts and hostesses to the seventh annual gathering of the Pennsylvania FTA held on the campus Friday and Saturday. Registration figures totaled "nearly 420" including the 70 students of Juniata who participated in the convention.

deNapoli, from Yonkers, N. Y., succeeded Miss Bubeck as state president at the closing session.

Elected first vice-president was William L. Bitner III, from Harrisburg, Pa., a junior at the State Teachers College in Bloomsburg.

A high school junior, Jane E. Houtz from Coraopolis, Pa., was named second vice-president.

The secretary-treasurer elected was Ruth M. Stambaugh of York, Pa., a sophomore at State Teachers College, Millersville, Pa.

Other members at large elected to the executive council were: Lois A. Mezey, Wanaque, N. J. (Juniata College); Elmer Moore, Thornhurst, Pa. (State Teachers College, East Stroudsburg, Pa.); Richard Sherwood, Youngsville, Pa. (High School); and Ruth M. West, Philadelphia, Pa. (Cheyney State Teachers College).

The convention closed Saturday afternoon after the announcement of new officers.

JCA Aids Needy Folks In Work Camp Project

Juniata students will be tackling a completely new type of project next month when the JCA initiates its first week-end work camp on April 30. Fellows and girls alike will don dungarees and spend Saturday afternoon helping needy families of this community to improve their living standards.

In all, there will be about ten different projects conducted simultaneously that afternoon, ranging from painting the walls of a room to the hanging of newly made curtains for a shut-in. The Salvation Army House and the local blind association are the two main agencies supplying the names of crippled or blind folks, who have no way of doing things for themselves.

Week-end work camping is not new to many of you, for it has been sponsored by the Society of Friends and the National Council of Churches for many years, and more recently has begun to occupy a larger role in denominational youth programs. For Juniata students, it offers not only an excellent opportunity to really do something about the needs of this community, but it also gives us a chance to help those who are less fortunate than we.

Most of all it gives each one of us an opportunity to put Christian love into action.

Next Juniatian Issue Slated For April 22

Because of spring vacation, there will be no paper on April 8 nor April 15. The next Juniatian will be published April 22.

Charity Dance Has Royal Setting; Beneke's Musicians Will Perform

Ever want to attend a Royal Ball? If so, April 20, will be your chance as once again Memorial Gym will be the scene of the Hospital Charity Ball.

Royalty has been set as the theme for this year's affair and the gym will be transformed into a palace ball room. Even the red carpet will be out for the guests' entrance.

The gym itself will be decorated with such things as a fountain and flower sprays. A grand stairway will make its appearance against the far bleachers while paper mache columns will surround the balcony. To continue the royal theme the bandstand will be covered in majestic red and black.

Beneke Will Play

The music for the royal affair will be supplied by one of the nation's leading bands, Tex Beneke and his orchestra. Tex is also the featured vocalist for the band, a position he occupied under the Glenn Miller regime. When Miller was lost in the war, Tex took over the direction of the orchestra.

In addition to Beneke's music there will be a novelty entertainment act at intermission. Free refreshments — sandwishes and cokes will also be provided.

Tickets Sold In Totem

Tickets for this affair, one of the biggest of the spring season, will be $5 per couple. They will be available in English's Men's Store and in Totem Inn. Dress will be semi-formal.

Of special interest to Juniatians is the special lates permitted that night. Girls going to the dance will be permitted 1:00 lates.

According to Mr. M. B. DeForrest, one co-chairman for the affair, the committees have gone all out to make this dance bigger and better than ever. He extends an invitation for all college students to attend the Charity Ball.

Concert To Present Songmasters Group

The third in the series of Community Concerts will be presented in Oller Hall Tuesday, April 19. The entertainment group scheduled for that evening is the Songmasters. Further details of the concert will be posted on Founders bulletin board.

Spring Recess From April 6 To April 14

The spring recess will begin at noon Wednesday, April 6, Classes will resume at 8 a.m. on Thursdal, April 14.

Classes on April 6 will follow the regular Saturday morning schedule. That is, each class will start on the hour, ommitting chapel. The third period will begin at 10 a.m. and the last at 11 a.m.

The meal will be served in the college dining hall at 12:05.

Monday's Rites Open To All Denomiations

The All-College Communion service will be held at 9:00 P. M. in Oller Hall on Monday, April 4. This service is a traditional Easter celebration at Juniata.

The service is a modified form from the Amsterdam Conference held in 1948 and has been used at Juniata for seven years. President Ellis will officiate with assistance from the faculty ministers.

This ceremony is an inspiring one to which students of all religious denominations are invited.

Choir Will Appear In Chapel Service

The Juniata Choir will tour Leamersville, Altoona, and Roaring Spring Churches of the Brethren on Sunday, April 17. They will sing their regular sacred program, consisting of Allelulia, Amazing Grace, Let Us Break Bread Together, and others.

The Monday following, the choir will sing Our Glorious King, a modern cantata, in chapel, directed by Prof. Johnson, with the string-wind ensemble accompaning. The soloists in the cantata will be Jean Baker, Ron Dilling, Dick Livingston, Gary Mowery, and Ken Rockwell.

Founder's, Tree Services Slated

Mr. Padgett has announced the chapel programs to be as follows:

Monday, April 4, will be a preparatory program for the All-College Communion with Dr. Clyde Meadows of the Evangelical United Brethren Church of Chambersburg.

Friday, April 15, the service will be dedicated to Founders' Day and Pres. Ellis will be in charge.

Monday, April 18, Janet Claycomb and the Student Senate will present the tree planting service.

Wedneseday, April 20, the Touring Choir will present a program.

Friday, April 22, the chapel program will be in charge of Rev. Clarence Rosenberger of Juniata College.

Students To Sponsor Holy Week Devotion

Morning devotion services will be held in the Stone Church during Holy Week on April 4, 5, 6 from 7:30 to 7:55 A. M.

Monday's service will be led by Dick Livingston. Jerry Richards is in charge on Tuesday. Wednesday morning Dan Raffensperger will conduct the last in the series of these services.

The devotions are open to everyone.

Ellis Talks in Phila. On The Silent Generation

President Ellis spoke on "The Church-Related Liberal Arts College", Saturday, March 26 at the 75th anniversary of Bridgewater College, Virginia.

"The Silent Generation" was the subject of a second talk delivered by the president, Monday evening, March 28 when he addressed the Presbyterian Social Union at Bellevue Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia. The name, "Silent Generation" was given to this generation by the author, Thornton Wilder.

In describing the characteristics of youth, President Ellis said that college young people are interested in preparing for a vocation; they are internationally minded; young women are interested in both marriage and career; and they are seeking a faith."

All Class Nite's Preparation To Climax Tomorrow Evening

Everyone on College Hill is buzzing with excitement and preparation for Juniata College's 18th annual All-Class nite—a traditional matching of skits among classes which will be held in Oller Hall at 8:15 P. M. tomorrow night, April 2.

This is an exciting event each year. The only limitations set by the All-Class Nite committee are a 22 minute skit, a $15.00 budget, and a musical theme. The skits will be judged upon a basis of originality, staging, performance, direction, special effects, lighting, make-up, costumes and audience appeal.

Parody

This year's seniors have drawn the opening spot for tomorrow night's show. They will do a first-niter parody on Broadway with the title "Love Is Sweeping the Country". Director of the senior show is Gene Hyssong.

The juniors, in number two position, will present a stylized minstrel portraying the showmanship of the American negro. An all-male cast is under the direction of Lona Beabes.

Main Street

In the third skit, the freshmen will do a "Main Street" scene with a musical beat. Sandra Ewing is the freshman director.

The final skit will be the sophomore class in a review called "Passed, Present and Future" which will give a run-down of the college years. A unique feature of the sophomore skit is the music they will use. Most of it was composed by Jackie Hayes, a music major, who is also directing the skit.

Elaine Aitken will play an organ interlude while the five judges come to their decisions.

Special Party

A special party will be held for the judges and chairmen after the performance.

Allegra Forney, a senior music major, is General Chairman of the show. Assistant Chairman is Alma Skinner, a junior psychology major.

New York Group Gives Opportunity To Travel

What is the significance of the recent change in the palace guard in the Kremlin? What effect will the recurrent French political instability have on changing forces in West Germany? Is Britain stealing a march on this country in the economic applications of Atomic energy?

These and other vital questions will be thrashed out with some of Europe's leading citizens by a group of young journalists, students of international affairs, economics, political science, business management and engineering who will be visiting Europe this summer on one of the most exciting and stimulating missions in years.

Foreign Assignment 1955 is sponsored by Travel & Study Inc., in New York City. The group, to be recruited from the continental United States, Canada and Hawaii, will leave New York on June 29, for a nine week's tour.

After a few days in Holland, members will spend two weeks in Paris. The program continues with attendance at meetings of the specialized agencies of the United Nations in Geneva, round table discussions at the International Press Institute in Zurich, visits from government representatives in Bonn and an analysis of Scandinavian trade and social welfare policies in Copenhagen, Oslo and Stockholm. In England there will be meetings with representatives of the major political parties, radio and television authorities, the weekly and daily press. Everywhere there will be opportunities for informal discussions with local people.

Further details may be obtained from Travel and Study, Inc., 110 East 57th Street, New York City 22.

Trains To Stop Early Next Wed.

The following Pennsylvania Railroad trains will make special stops in Huntingdon on April 6, because of the Spring Recess.

Eastbound—Train 54—12:22 p.m.
Westbound—Train 25— 1:28 p.m.

Dancing To Complete Nite's Entertainment

Immediately after the All-Class night program, Sat., April 2, there will be an informal dance in the Women's Gym. Music will be supplied by records.

Plans are being made for Saturday night, April 16. Students are asked to watch the Totem Inn bulletin board for an announcement of the exact plans.

Everyone is urged to join in the dance this Saturday evening.

New College Queen To Be Chosen Grand Tour, Scholarship, Awards

Are you an undergraduate college girl between the ages of 17 and 24 years? Would you like to win world-wide fame and acclaim for yourself; your school and state?? Also a trophy, a Grand Tour of Europe with all expenses paid; scholarship awards; a screen test; participate in the annual New York City Summer Festival Celebration; and $5000.00 in prizes including an all-purpose wardrobe of designer's clothes?

If so, enter the third annual National College Queen Contest to be held at Convention Hall, Asbury Park, New Jersey over September 9-11, 1955. You may obtain a free entry blank by writing to: College Queen Contest Director, Convention Hall, Asbury Park, N. J.

These entry forms will be judged on the basis of 50% for beauty and 50% for brains. Entry forms will request information concerning campus activities; extra-curricular achievements; scholastic work and personal background. Entrants will also submit an original essay (250 words or less) on the subject, "What College Education Means To Me". They will also submit photographs or snapshots along with entry blank forms and essays.

A few of the nationally noted judges of the finals will be Clarence E. Lovejoy, educational author and counselor; screen star Ida Lupino and world beauty authorities Ern Westmore and Bruno of Hollywood.

Chorus Is Organizing For Commencement

The annual Commencement Chorus will begin a series of eight rehearsals in mid-April following Easter vacation. The first rehearsal will be held on Friday, April 15 at 7:15 P. M., in Oller Hall, with most of the rehearsals on Monday evenings.

Membership is open to all basses, tenors, altos and sopranos on campus including students faculty and office personnel. A willingness to attend the eight rehearsals and a singing voice are the only requirements to join. With the Juniata College Choir and the Chapel Choir as a nucleous, Juniata College has maintained a fine Commencement Chorus for many years.

An interesting group of choral numbers has been chosen by Prof. Johnson which include compositions by Handel, Farrant, Mendelssohn, Liszt, Noble. Miss Pfotenhauer will assist in training and directing. Elaine Aitken, organist; and Alice Jean Hoffman, pianist, will serve as accompanists.

The Grass Is Green --- Stay Off!

Despite the premonition on the part of the weatherman during the past week to disregard the passage of time—its spring! To philosophers, poets and romanticists this period of the year may hold many allusions. But to College administrators it is a reminder of the constant job of keeping College Hill in top-notch appearance.

Landscape designers will soon launch the project of beautifying the outside of the new dormitory. The clay patches that mark any new construction will be removed.

Trees and bushes will have to be tended and prepared for the growing season. In addition the lawn mowers will be put into operation shortly—that is if students permit the grass to grow.

Every year at this time there is cause to remind the residents of JC that a little thought on the part of each of us, during these wet spring months will permit the campus to develop a real velvet green carpet. Attempting to save a few steps by cutting across the lawn during this period can only result in brown slashes cutting through the lawn in later spring.

Before leaving the walks, give a little thought to the blades of grass that are making their annual appearance.

Three Weeks May Be Limit

The cloudy and controversial stand of the Eisenhower administration in the Far East may solidify rapidly in the next three weeks. According to prominent spokesmen in the military we are in the middle of a three week make-or-break period which could see the U. S. thrown into a 'fighting' war, another police action or diplomatic scramblings that could climax our position in the Asiatic area.

This three week period is derived theoretically as the length of time during which the Chinese Reds must decide whether to launch a spring invasion of the Matsu and Quemoy Islands. It is difficult to tell, at this time, what position our state department will take if this happens. Despite attempts by Dulles and Eisenhower to define to the American public our position they themselves appear to desire a number of back doors.

Statements concerning our position are flying fast and furious on Capital Hill with Congress and the Executive departments valiantly attempting to discern the opinions of each other. In the midst of the melee, the military itself has split on how we would defend the islands if decisions fall in that direction.

One of the important splits was emphasized last week when on a popular television show Senator Styles Bridges, senior Republican member of the body, was confronted with defending his stand of sea and air defense of the two key islands. It is interesting to not the attempts on his part to show how we could maintain our role in the Far East without putting land forces into the defense and avoid the Korean conflict which proved such a political hot potato.

The stand the administration may assume is Asia cannot be positively ascertained at this point but you can be sure that the nation alist representatives in Washington are practically living with Dulles at this stage of the manuevers.

Accent On Reading

Angle, Paul C. BY THESE WORDS; great documents of American liberty selected and placed in their contemporary settings. A noted historian gives a brief historical summary of the circumstances responsible for 46 official documents which he considers the best examples of the growth of democratic government and the evolution and defense of individual liberty in American history, together with complete or partial texts of the documents themselves.

Cheever, Daniel S. and H. Field Haviland, Jr. ORGANIZING FOR PEACE. Two foreign experts discuss the history and structure of various international peace organizzations, with particularly comprehensive, comparative treatment of the League of Nations, the United Nations, and regional systems developed within the U. N. They also analyze recurring problems and present recommendations for their solution and for future international peace efforts.

Friends Service Comm. Sponsors Work Camps

Nearly a thousand youth of college age are expected to take part in summer work and study projects in the United States and abroad, sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee. As usual, participants will include members of most races and faiths and many nationalities; only a minority are themselves Quakers.

Work camps are planned in Algeria, Israel, Japan, Central America and thirteen countries of Europe. In this country work will be done with Indians, migrant workers, and in settlement houses. Students will learn first hand about industry by hunting for jobs and working on assembly lines in big cities. Volunteers may also work with agencies dealing with social problems such as housing, and juvenile delinquency, or in mental hospitals or reformatories.

A seminar which will accept six American students, as well as 30 foreign students apiece from ten to twenty countries, will be held from June to August. Also 35 students will meet in Washington to explore problems of government.

Students who are internes in industry or social agencies pay summer costs out of their earnings. Scholarships are available for other projects. More information may be obtained from the AFSC at 20 South Twelfth Street, Philadelphia 7, Pa.

"You'd think they'd want a 'picture window' like that in the FRONT of their house."

Intercollegiate Chatter

Television is an added attraction to the Penn State campus this semester, but not television of the George Gobel type. As part of a project in determining the feasibility of closed-circuit television for college instruction, several courses in psychology and chemistry are being taught in this way. Classes are divided into sections, one attending the class in which the instructor is being televised, and others attending the televised circuit. Success of this project might aid in the teacher shortage problem and also provide for large numbers of students to be instructed by one specialist.

Lawrence W. Wylie, professor of modern languages at Haverford is carrying on a project which should be of interest to the elementary students. He is conducting an experimental French course with students 6-11 years of age. He hopes to determine how much French can be learned if it is introduced in the first grade and is carried on through the sixth grade level. It is his belief that language study should be instituted in the primary grades as the adolescent, who usually samples his first foreign language at that time, is self-conscious and sensitive about expressing himself. Thus far his experiment has been a great success.

The Chemistry department of Bucknell University is hoping to move into its new building in order to be ready for summer school. This new building consists of eight graduate labs, one research lab, three faculty labs, and three special labs. All new equipment is being installed. Anyone care to transfer?

Chemistry seems to be in the headlines on other campuses. A recent chemistry experiment at th University of San Francisco has brought some interesting results. The professor purchased a cup of coffee, poured some into a test tube, and presented it to his class for analysis. After their analysis the class wasn't sure what the solution was, but they were fairly certain it was poisonous.

In the past the bookworms on college campuses used to receive the biggest dividends. Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute is out to prove that it also pays to be a "social bug". At their APO Charity Ball the door prize will be a Chevrolet Club Coupe. At a recent dance held during the big Junior Week-end on Princeton campus the door prizze was a trip to Bermuda for two. That's college!

Ode To Sherwood

With humble apologies to Mrs. Shakespeare's boy.

To sleep or not to sleep: that is the question:
Whether 'twas wiser in the mind to suffer
The trundle bed and dirt of Room Number One,
Or to peek out and see the mob of fellows,
And by our calling please them? To eat: till food's
No more; and by this food we end
The hunger pangs and discourage starving mice
That may have beat us; But cokes and hot dogs
Were devoutly wished. To eat, then sleep;
If sleep: perchance a raid: Man, that's a scare!
For in that raid by guys just anything may come,
But fatigue does make cowards of us all;
And thus we end our day
By plunking ukes and dodging small gray mice;
Yet fondly we'll recall the days we spent
In Sherwood Lodge's ivy-colored walls.

Tennis Team to Battle Albright Minus Fusco; Golfers Face Dickinson

Because of the cold weather, the golf team has been unable to have tryouts for its first match with Dickinson Wednesday, April 13.

There are five men returning form last year's team. Lost through graduation were Tom Cherok, Frank Arasin, and Bob Fahrney. Cherok won the Middle Atlantic Conference championship and Western Maryland invitation medalist honors in 1953, and Arasin won both events in 1954.

Returning for this year's team will be Bill West, Keith Birmingham, Phil Lankford, Ted Grothe, and Barry Montgomery. West was undefeated last year with a 6-0-1 record and has a career total of 14-0-1. Birmingham was 6-1 last year and has an overall 11-4 record.

The tennis squad received an unfortunate break last week when Captain Dick Fusco suffered a severe injury to his right arm in a dormitory accident, and will be forced to miss the first match and possibly more. With Fusco out the burden for the opening match with Albright, April 13, will fall on veterans Chuck Gross, Dan Raffensperger, Phil Lankford, and Don Ruhl. The other two spots will have to be filled by new candidates, possibly Del McQuaide and Paul Wingert.

Last year Fusco had a 5-3 record in singles and was undefeated in seven doubles matches. Gross led the team by being unbeaten in three singles and four doubles matches. Lankford had a 5-1 and 6-0, Raffensperger 5-3 and 5-3, and Ruhl had 2-1 and 2-1.

Albright was upset 6-3 by the JC netmen last year. After this opening match the squad meets E-town away on Saturday, April 16.

The golfers also have a full schedule after their first match, meeing Albright at home April 15, Gettysburg away on the 18th, and Pitt at home on Tuesday, April 21. Pitt was the only team to defeat the golfers last year.

Thinclads Host Albright, St. Joseph's in Triangular Meet for Season Opener

Mike Snider's track team got its first hard work-out at the inter-class track meet, and looks like it will be able to field a well-balanced team when it faces Albright and St. Joseph's in a triangular meet here Saturday, April 16, for the opening of the 1955 season.

Leading the parade will be the versatile Gene "Rocky" Rothenberger, broad jump champion and hurdler, who amassed 78 points last year. Al Nyce, who pulled in 53 points will be back to lead the field events.

Kaylor Hurt

Sonny Kaylor, who won his letter in high jumping and broad jumping suffered a badly wrenched elbow at the class meet, and will be out indefinitely.

Former letter-winner Larry Hartline will be back at his old post on the javeline line, and the distance races will have a one-two punch this year, as letterman Herbie Layman will be joined by Don Brinton who swept the class meet mile and 880.

Freshman Bob Passmore in the pole vault and Peter McConnell in the 440 round out the leading candidates for first place honors.

Backing up thes candidates are a host of returnees and freshmen: in the dashes, Pat Tarquinio, Don Davis, and Dick Moffet; in the distances, Doug Wilson, John Millar, Ken Fassnacht, and Glenn Smeltzer; in the field events, Vern Johnson, Brian Stauffer, Harry Campbell, Jim Corrigan, and Dick Lantzy; and in the jumping pits, Ray Ono, Bob Kimble, George Beard, and Gene Headly.

Seniors Edge Freshman, To Win Inter-Class Meet

The seniors edged the freshmen by less than five points, 45¾ to 41, in the annual Inter-Class Track Meet Wednesday afternoon, by using only three men. Gene Rothenberger led the seniors and the meet with an individual total of 26¾ points, including five firsts.

Don Brinton also captured two firsts for the seniors, while Al Nyce grabbed three for the juniors, last year's winners, who were nosed out for third place, 27¾ to 27½, by the sophomores, paced by Ray Ono.

The well-balanced freshmen had 12 men break into the scoring.

"Rocky" Sweeps

Rothenberger swept the 100 and 220 yard dashes, the 70 and 110 yard hurdles, and the broad jump. Brinton won the 880 and the mile, Nyce made a clean sweep of the field events, the shot, discus and javelin. Other firsts went to Pete McConnell of the frosh in the 440, Bob Passmore of the frosh in the pole vault, and a tie between Ono and Sonny Kaylor of the juniors in the high jump.

The events, winners, and times are as follows—100 yd: Rothenberger, Sr.; Hurley, F; Tarquinio, J; Moffet, F; 10.5 sec.

220: Rothenberger, Sr; Corrigan, So; Moffet, F; Kimble, F; 24.1

440:McConnell, F; Tarquinio, J; Smeltzer, F; Davis, J; 56.7

880:Brinton, Sr; Wilson, So; Fassnacht, F; Smeltzer, F; 2:14.3

Mile: Brinton, Sr; Wilson, So; Fassnacht, F; Miller, So; 5:07.6

Baseball Nine To Face E-Town in Away Game Saturday, April 16

With only two weeks remaining before the opening game at Elizabethtown, the 1955 edition of the Tribe diamond squad is swiftly taking shape. The opener, April 16, is followed with home games with Indiana and Lock Haven STCs on April 18 and 20 respectively.

The largest problem remains to be at second base, where the graduation of Ken Leonard left a big vacancy. Leonard, one of the leading run producers last year, was one of only four graduates from last year's nine which compiled an excellent 10-4 record last spring. Hopefuls trying for the keystone sack starting berth are Harold 'Goose" Gray, Jay Guyer, and John Staley. Gray is a senior, Guyer, a freshman, and Staley, a converted outfielder, is a sophomore.

Returning at catcher are Don Pheasant and Max Ardary. Pheasant was the leading hitter in 1954, compiling a neat .385 average at the expense of opposing pitchers. Lee Hallman, leading man in the runs scored column last season, is working out at shortstop while Jack Golden is holding down first base in practices. All of the last four, except Ardary, are juniors and were starters last year. Ardary is a sophomore.

Bernie Oriss, smooth fielding third sacker, is getting stiff competition at that position from Harry Samuels. Competition is also keen for the outfield position left vacant by the graduation of Fran Zimmerman from the 1954 squad. Juniors Barry Drexler and Buddy Douds, freshmen Bob Sill and Bill Hartman, and senior Joe Hinish complete the field for the three outfield starting berths.

The pitching situation looks bright as all the winners from last years team are back. Only Neil Spangler (0-1) was lost through graduation. Remaining are "Lefty" Alderfer, Jake Handzelek, both 4-1 last year, and John Criswell (2-1). Nick Roth, freshman from Scarsdale, N. Y., rounds out the mound staff.

Crazy Kids, R-Devils Top Volleyball League

The girls' intramural volleyball league continued in full force as the Red Devils downed the Spoofers 21-9 and 21-4 and the Krazy Kids defeated the Dumb Dutchmen in two 21-19 and 21-7 on Thursday, March 24. On Monday, March 28, the Rowdies won over the Dead End Kids in two of three games 21-12 and 21-8 with the Dead End Kids winning the odd game 21-7. The Dumb Dutchmen took two games from the Punchy Pack 21-11 and 21-7 to finish out the night's play.

Nancy Phillips of the Red Devils led the scoring Thursday night with 17 points followed by "Peep" Gipprich of the Krazy Kids with 13 points. Maryellen Blessing, of the Dumb Dutchmen, was top scorer Monday night with 12 points followed by Helen Herr of the Rowdies with 10.

No games are scheduled for next week because of the holidays. On the Thursday night of our return, April 14, there are three double headers scheduled. At 7:00 the Dead Eleven meet the Rowdies; at 8:00 the Dumb Dutchmen meet the Red Devils; and at 9:00 the Krazy Kids meet the Spoofers.

Crossan Romano Top All-Opponents Squad

Captain Chuck Gross of the 1954-55 Juniata basketball team has announced the selection of an All-Opponents team by the members of this year's squad. Jack Crossman of Indiana STC and Frank Romano of Susquehanna headed the list of ten players who were named to the first and second teams.

On the first team, in addition to Crossman and Romano at forward were center Stan Yukica of Geneva, and guards Hall Davis of Westminister and Sal Paone of Elizabethtown.

Each of the players chosen either had a terrific scoring night here, such as Crossman with 34 and Romano with 35, or was instrumental in leading the Tribe to a defeat, such as Paone in both of E-town's victories.

Named to the second team were Bill Snyder of Gettysburg and Ken Woodeshick of Geneva at forward, Frank Weis of American U. at center, and Dick Connor of Dickinson and Mike DePaul of Albright at guard.

IVCF Members Attend Recent Church Meeting

by Shirley Nace

Among the 300 college students present at the Missionary Conference held in Lancaster on March 19 and 20, were 13 students from the JC Intervarsity Christian Fellowship.

Main speaker at the conference, held in Calvary Independent Church, was Eric Fife, an English minister. His topic was "The Spiritual Implications of a Missionary Call." In it he stressed the importance of putting God first in one's life. "Every Christian," he said, "must seek the Lord's will for his life, and then, having found it, he must carry it out."

Besides being strengthened by the inspiring messages of missionaries and by the sincerity and unity of the fellowship with other Christians, the students received a renewed zeal to spread the good news of Jesus Christ to those who do not yet know Him as Saviour and Lord.

Those attending got a vision of the world's need for Christ, and many acknowledged and accepted the call to be God's man in God's place doing God's work in God's way for God's glory."

Next Meeting

The weekly meeting of IVCF will be held Friday evening, April 1, at 7:15 in Founders Chapel. The topic will be "What Is Salvation?" Everyone is encouraged to come prepared for the discussion.

JCA Adds New Group To Cell Group System

A new JCA cell group, the World Relatedness Commission, is being initiated, thus bring the total of such auxilary units to three.

It is a Christian political action group in which the administrationof this campus, our nation, and our world from a Christian perspective will be discussed. Activities will start with the discussion of two booklets, "You, the Nation, and the World," and "Your Freedom Is In Danger". This group will probably give direction to the discussion of political issues and their religious overtones in next year's JCA program.

Another cell group is the Christian Heritage Commission which meets one morning a week from 7:30 to 8:00 A. M. for prayer, silent meditation, and worshipful discussion. This commission is divided into smaller groups including at the most, six people.

The Personal Campus Affairs Commission is dedicated to the discussion of how Christianity effects our roles as students on a college campus. At the present, the problem of sex is being discussed at weekly meetings. Later the group will start discussion on issues presented in the booklets, "Where Are You?" and "Alone In the Crowd."

Those interested in joining any group should contact Jim Stayer, JCA president and chairman of religious activities.

Rev. Long To Speak On Missionary Work

The Reverend J. Henry Long, of the Foreign Mission Commission of the Church of the Brethren, will visit Juniata College on Monday, April 18, for the purpose of interviewing students interested in foreign mission service.

Any students planning to go into missionary activity should arrange an interview with Mr. Long through the office of Dean Mays at the earliest possible moment.

Members Represent IRC In Washington

Charlie Martin and Paul Amash left Thursday for a three-day International Relations Conference in Washington, D.C.

Representing the IRC here at Juniata, the men will hear a talk by New York Times Correspondent Chalmers Roberts, visit the houses of Congress, and talk with members of the Senate foreign relations committees.

Various embassies will be visited by those attending, and a special effort will be made to visit the Russian Embassy. The convention is being sponsored by the American Society of Friends (Quaker), and representatives from all over the nation are in attendance.

Masque To Meet Following Recess

The Masque will not meet again until April 21, since its next regularly scheduled meeting would fall during Easter vacation.

1150 on the Dial

Have you eaten a raw turtle lately? Had a bleeding man die at your feet? Consumed a candy bar, wrapper and all, while taking a midnight shower?

Someone on campus has—and they've revealed their secrets to the WJC audience on the Indian Broadcasting Company's new hit show, "I've Got A Secret," patterned after the popular TV panel program by the same name, which stars Gary Moore.

Congenial George Carnahan and panel, consisting of Joan McClure, Jackie Hayes, Dick Backus, Clint Betz, and various guests are often amazed and amused, as are both listening and studio audiences, each Wednesday evening at 9, when students and faculty members reveal the not-so-awful truth about their pasts.

Complete with mystery voice that breathes the secrets to the radio audience from Studio II, the show has proven to be a favorite with JCers. Often they venture into IBC headquarters, tripping over wires and ducking station engineers to join in on the fun.

Easter Messiah—Handel

Next Tuesday evening on her last edition of "Classic Corner" before Easter vacation, Jackie Hayes will present Thomas Beecham and the London Symphony performing a portion of George Frederick Handel's "The Messiah."

The Easter portion of the work, "Passion and Resurrection," featuring such memorable solos as "My Redeemer Liveth" and 'He Shall Feed His Flock," lasts from 9 to 10 P. M.

Meet The Faculty

George Dolnikowski is scheduled to appear on "Meet the Faculty," the show where it is proved that "all profs are a lot of fun" this Monday evening.

His interesting career in this country and in Europe will provide material for an informative 15 minute interview. The show starts at 8:30 P. M.

Juniatians Shed Tears When Spectacular Fire Turns Lodge To Ashes

Easter Sunday afternoon was a comparatively calm one on the JC campus except for an incident which commenced about three o'clock. The papers called it a 'spectacular blaze' and on Juniata student called it a 'beautiful spectacle. Yes, on this fateful day the east wing of Sherwood Lodge was cremated by a tremendously hot mass of flames.

Approximately 100,000 gallons of water were used on this fire which firemen called the 'hottest fire they'd seen in years'. The tinder-dry pine sidings of the structure went up so rapidly and gave off such an enormous amount of heat that by-standers were forced to keep a good distance away.

A student who witnessed the incident expressed the desire that more Juniatians could have seen it. Miss Mim Grove, one of those fortunate enough to have been on the scene said it was a weird, but beautiful fire.

Now there lies a heap of ashes where there was once the ivy covered home of many Juniatians. Yet no tears were shed because the dwelling was demolished. Wonder why? Look at the half that's left and you'll know!

UP IN SMOKE—Forty-two guys on campus are mighty glad they had moved out of the east wing before an Easter Sunday blaze leveled it to the ground.

Students Will Elect Prince, Queen

All students will vote for two senior girls who will serve as May Queen and Maid of Honor, and one senior boy who will serve as Prince Charming. Students will also vote for two girls from their own class who will act as the Queen's attendants.

The court, and the method of revealing the court, will not be disclosed until the May Day Breakfast, which takes place on Tuesday, May 3, at 7:30 A. M. (Men students will eat at 6.30.) At this time the winners will be announced as part of the entertainment.

The theme chosen revolves around the Old South, with a color scheme of lavender and white. Center pieces and settings will be in keeping with the Southern theme. Following the breakfast girls will line the walk for the procession of the newly elected court.

Ellis Is Speaker At Ohio Church

In the first of several addresses which he will deliver this spring, President Ellis spoke, April 17, at the dedication of an enlarged Church of the Brethren in Youngstown, Ohio.

"The Educated Person" was the subject of a second speech given by the president Tuesday, April 19, before the Assembly of New Jersey College for Women, now known as Douglas College.

Next week, President Ellis will attend a meeting of the Commission of Institutes of Higher Education of the Middle States Association of Colleges at Skytop, in the Poconos; the president will present a report to the commission at this meeting.

The Baccalaureate address at Indiana State Teachers College will be given Sunday, May 22, by President Ellis, who will speak at Baccalaureate services at Juniata next month. In the last of the spring addresses to be delivered by the president, he will be the commencement speaker Monday, May 23, at West Chester State Teachers College.

Frosh Skit Wins '55 All-Class Nite

The coveted gold cup for All Class Night was won by the freshman class on Saturday evening April 2, and received for them by James Cain. The co-directors of the winning skit were Sandra Ewing, Marlene Sterner and Shirley Barody.

The freshman skit included a twenty-four hour day on main street and it featured a modern dance.

The senior class featured two lonesome sailors enheartened by a prima-donna and included such original ideas as creating mist by means of dry ice, having bubbles float from the sky, and carrying the sailors and prima donna off stage on an MG.

The junior class skit was a minstrel show featuring such songs as "Ain't She Sweet" and "The Saints Come Marching In".

The sophomore class did a complete job in portraying four years of campus life at Juniata including initiation, a class, a football game, a dance, and graduation.

Next year Alma Skinner will be Chairman of All Class Night and the subject used will be serious drama.

Seniors Face Comps On April 25 and 26

On Monday and Tuesday, April 25 and 26, eighty-four members of the student body will take comprehensive examinations. Most of these are candidates for June degrees, but others will graduate in August.

Following the written exams, oral exams will extend through a two week period ending on May 7.

Results of the comps should be available in the office of the registrar after Tuesday, May 10.

Frosh Takes First In State Wide Contest

Robert Reader, a JC freshman, recently won the Pennsylvania-wide contest sponsored by the Women's Christian Temperance Union. His original oration was entitled "Whose Responsibility Is It?"

Reader will represent Pennsylvania in the finals to be held in August at Long Beach, California.

Night Life With 200 Coeds Can Be Eventful, says "Mac"

by Sandra Ewing

While JC students are nestled snug in their beds, and dreams quite reasonable dance in their heads, who braves the darkest night, with heart so bold, and the couples in the Firetower, with their stares so cold?

Yes, that's right, the man with all the night life at JC. (32 years to be exact)—"Mac", the night watchman.

"Mac" (his real name being John Clyde McCracken) came to his present position in 1923 and found that being a high school track star was finally going to "pay off". (This skill was soon proven when he caught a JC trackman as he returned one night after curfew). His experiences have been funny, serious, embarrassing and dangerous; his diary would be a best seller.

When he first started he was responsible for patroling the entire campus, but the college expanded so rapidly that it was necessary to hire an assistant. Through these many years of expansion he had the opportunity of observing the conduct of hundreds of students, and states that he disagrees entirely with the idea that today's youth is "going to the dogs", and that the discipline of the present students would put their parents to shame.

His hobby, which is "tinkering" with machinery becomes very useful since with the role of night watchman he assumes the duty of giving emergency aid. (in addition to this talent he gives these other requirements, in case anyone is interested in the job: strong legs, iron arches, ability to stay awake, good steady nerves, an amateur lie detector, prowling ability etc. etc.)

Although Mac says that he likes his job very much, he tells me that night life with 200 co-eds is "sometimes" a little nerve wrecking.

Artist-Lecturer, Carl Holty, To Speak For Special Chapel

Wednesday, April 27, is the date set for the next in the series of special event Chapel programs. Guest speaker will be art lecturer, Mr. Carl Holty.

The topic of the lecture is "The Origins of Modern Art and Architecture." The theme revolves around the tradition of the classical values as opposed to the desire for self-expresion at all cost.

Mr. Holty's background is one of travel an dstudy. Born in Germany, of American parents, he attended Marquette University Schol of Medicine, Chicago Art Institute, National Academy of Deesign, New York and Royal Academy and Hofman School, Munich.

A founder member of American Abstract Artists, he has exhibited his works in Paris, Munich, and New York. He is also represented in important museums thaoughout th eUnited States.

Mr. Holty is a visiting profesor at the University of California and Corcoran Gallery. He also taught at Washington University, St. Louis; was an artistin-residence at the Uniersity of Georgia for two years and the University of Florida in 952-53.

To allow sufficient time for Mr. Holty's lecture, there will be a long Chapel period.

Senate Selects Crosby Advisor

Dr. Kenneth Crosby was re-elected advisor of the JC Senate at the first regular meeting of the Senate on April 4.

Among the other administrative details that were cleared up, it was decided to hold weekly meetings on Wednesdays at 7:15 in Founders' Chapel. Unless otherwise publicized these meetings will be open to the college community. The date for Leadership Conference was also set at September 9, 10, and 11. Bill Smith will head the conference committee.

Other items on the agenda included the use of the New Dorm lobby and the appointment of dining hall announcers. Persons desiring the use of the lobby should obtain permission through the chairman of the men's house, Bernie Orris. Les Querry and George Carnahan were approved as head dining hall announcer and assistant respectively for the coming year.

Finally the senate president appointed several special committees. Bob Hamm will head the band uniform committee, which also includes Jim Hunt and Barry Drexler. Doreen Fyock and Bernie Orris were delegated to sit on the faculty commitee for handling foreign students.

Sub-Freshmen Arrive For Weekend Sojourn

Juniata will be welcoming a group of thirty to forty sub-freshmen this week end, announced Charlotte Beltrame, chairman.

Beginning with registration in the social rooms from 9-12 A. M. on Saturday, this introduction to college life for perspective students will be quite busy. A tour of the campus and conferences with the faculty are scheduled for the afternoon.

Entertainment will include the baseball game and a dance in the evening which will be held in the Women's Gym.

This is the last of the scheduled wek-ends for sub-frosh. However, there is a possibility that another will be planned, due to the fact that many more high school students have indicated their interest in attending a preview of college.

All students are reminded by the Financial Aid Committee that all applications must be returned to the Treasurer's office by noon Saturday, April 23.

Periods To Be Short For Long Chapel Wed.

The class schedule on Wednesday morning, April 27, will be abbreviated to 45 minute periods in order to allow time for the appearance of Carl Holty at 9:45 in Oller Hall.

First period	8:00- 8:45
Second period	8:50- 9:35
Chapel	9:45-10:40
Third period	10:50-11:35
Fourth period	11:40-12:25

Dean Mays To Attend Seminar, June 17-30

Dean Morley Mays, who doubles as Professor of Philosophy, has been selected to attend a national Seminar for Teachers of Philosophy at Denison University, Granville, Ohio, from June 17 to 30. The Seminar is sponsored by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo.

Dean Mays is one of 25 who will attend the Seminar on a scholarship awarded by the Danforth Education covering all expenses. He will also prepare a critique of an address to be given by Professor George F. Thomas of Princeton University.

The Seminar will bring together teachers of philosophy from all parts of the country under the leadership of outstanding philosophers from a number of American universities.

Representatives Attend National IRC Convention

by Charles M. Martin

Ed. Note—Charles Martin and Paul Amash, representing the IRC, recently attended a seminar on foreign relations in Washington, D. C.

The Washington seminar on Foreign Policy in a World of Tension was packed with activity which has left its participants with stimulating impressions and reflections.

The first speaker that the delegates heard was Paul Nitze, formerly director of the State Department Policy Planning Staff in the Truman Administration. Nitze said that the two basic factors in policy formation were objectives and methods. He claimed that our foreign policy should be formed for America's needs, but harmonized as much as possible with the needs of humanity.

I. F. Stone, of the Stone Weekly, who spoke on the possibility of coexistance, said that wars and power struggles are always fought for the most noble aims and that the present American scene fosters hate and hinders peace and negotiation.

At 9 A. M. Friday, March 31, the group interviewed James P. Gleason, administrative assistant to Senator William F. Knowland, who supports a policy of no diplomatic relations with the Soviet sphere and the belief that the "free world" must stand firm to protect itself from "imperialistic communism." This means that in Asia we should avoid losing face and not budge even if force is required.

At 9:45 the group interviewed Chambers Roberts, diplomatic correspondent of the Washington Post and Times Herald. Senator Green of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was the next stop after which the group split to attend the senate session where the Paris Treaty was being ratified.

In the afternoon the delegates were divided and sent to either the French, Philippine or Syrian Embassy.

From The Editor's Notes-

Study hours have been flagrantly violated this year. Is it because of high spiritedness or is it an indication of a general attitude of inconsideration?

Whatever the reason, during these days of concentrated study for comprehensives, it is imperative that unnecessary noise be completely absent from the halls during study hours and kept to a minimum at other times.

The additional music provided by the Founders Tower chimes during the concerts this week has brought about some discussion. Might it be eliminated during such programs?

Quemoy - Matsu Controversy May Cause War In Far East

by Jimm Montgomery

The United States is stumbling down the road to war over two small islands in the Formosa Straits, Quemoy and Matsu. We have allowed ourselves to become entangled to the extent of perhaps becoming involved in the final phases of the Chinese Civil War.

This whole situation reflects the basic ambiguity of our Far Eastern Policy. On one hand we speak of peace and progress, but on the other we refuse to deal with the most powerful nation in Asia in terms other than military. As long as we keep the conflict on the military level we are foredoomed to failure. China can embarrass us in this contest, for although we speak of war with "precise" atomic weapons,we cannot carry such a policy out for many reasons. We would alienate all of Asia and such allies as Great Britain and Canada. Here we see the real "Paper Tigers" of the United States; not that we don't back up our committments, but that the committments are unrealistic.

These islands are not important in a strategic or military sense. War is advocated on two main considerations, we would lose face and the morale of the Chinese troops would suffer. I fail to see any honor or prestige to be gained by maintaining a mistaken position. A decision to fight would spring from fear. A withdrawal would be realistic and yes, even courageous. To fight for these islands would only forestall the deterioration of Nationalistic morale. This morale factor is based on the hope to return to the mainland. Such a hope is unrealistic, short of all-out-war, and Chiang must be made to face up to this hard fact. How can we speak of peace when we support Chiang as the legal government of the mainland thus lending our tacit assent to this proposed invasion of China proper? This is a hard question we must face sooner or later.

Quemoy and Matsu are manifestations of our ambivalent policy. It is only as we admit our mistake here and gear our whole policy to fight the war of ideas that can hope to keep Asia from going Communistic by default.

Final Grades Obtainable Earlier; Postal Card System Approved

Action has been taken by the faculty enabling students to obtain final course grades at a somewhat earlier date then has been customary.

In announcing the action of the faculty Dean Mays stated that students may submit with their final examination book for any particular course a postal card on which the instructor will place the final grade as soon as it has been computed.

The following stipulations are to be noted:

1. Only the final course grade may be reported by the instructor, and that grade is to be regarded as unofficial. The offic- the student and parents as here ial end of term report will go to the student and the parents as hereto fore from the Registrar's Office.
2. A stamped, selfaddressed postal card is to be used for each course on which the report of a final grade is desired. (Cards for the Totem Inn Post Office need not be stamped.) On the message side of the card the student will write the name of the course. The faculty cannot return a report by means of an envelope.
3. The postal card is to be attached by paper clip to the inside front cover of the examination book. After the instructor has graded the final examination and computed the term grade, the final grade for the course will be placed on the card together with the instructor's initials.

In approving this action, the faculty understood that it was only giving approval to a favor which individual instructors may wish to extend to their students. In those cases where the faculty member is willing to accommodate the student, Dean Mays emphasized the neccesity of complying with the special instructions in every detail.

Dr. Will Rechosen As Science Edltor

Dr. Homer C. Will, Professor of Biology, at Juniata College has been re-elected editor of the Pennsylvania Science News-Letter for the tenth successive year. The election was held at the closing session of the 31st annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science held recently at the Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia.

The News-Letter is issued six times a year and Volume 13 is being published this year. There have been two editors—Charles E. Mohr of the National Audubon Society from 1942 to 1946, and Dr. Will from 1946 to the present.

The Academy met last in Philadelphia in 1945 and at that time Dr. Will was president of the State Academy of Science.

Pa. State Jazz Club Presents Armstrong

Louis Armstrong and his famous Allstars will present a jazz concert in Schwab Auditorium on the Penn State Campus Friday, April 29, at 7:00 and a second performance at 9:30 P. M.

Ticket sales are for reserve seats only, and may be purchased at the Student Union Desk on the Penn State Campus. They may also be obtained by writing the Student Union Desk, Hetzel Union Bldg., University Park, Pa.

The Juniatian

Entered as second class mail at the Huntingdon, Pa., post office, this is an independent undergraduate newspaper published weekly throughout the College year except during vacation and examination periods by the Students of Juniata College.

The Juniatian is serviced by Associated Collegiate Press and is represented for national advertising by National Advertising Service.

U. S. State Dep't Sets Date For Examination

The first written examination under the U. S. Department of State's new recruiting program for the Foreign Service will be conducted in 65 cities throughout the United States on June 24.

Through this program, the Department is engaged in carrying out recommendations made a few months ago by Secretary Dulles' Committee on Personnel. One of the major recommendations calls for staffiig virtually all officer positions in Washington and overseas with Foreign Service officers, and for integrating Civil Service personnel now filling these positions into Foreign Service Officers Corps.

To be eligible to take the examination, candidates must be at least 20 years of age and under 31; American citizens of at least 10 years standing and if married, married to an American citizzen.

Starting salaries for successful candidates range from $4000 to $5000 per year depending upon the age and experience of the individual. In addition, generous insurance and retirement benefits are granted, as well as annual sick leave.

The closing date for filing applications to participate in this examination is May 2, 1955. Further information and application forms may be obtained by writing to the Board of Examiners of the Foreign Service, U. S. Department of State, Washington 25, D.C.

Orchestra Will Give Concert Next Week

The chapel services for the following week will offer programs of a different and interesting variety. The Monday service will be a special program by the JCA presenting the work camp project for the following week-end.

On Wednesday there will be a special events program featuring the artist, Mr. Holty, as speaker.

Then on Friday the college orchestra will present a Spring concert under the direction of Dr. Brammer.

Rosenberger Starts Brethren Newspaper

A News Sheet has been prepared by the Rev. Clarence Rosenberger, church relations representative of Juniata College, to be distributed to members of the Church of the Brethren in the Western, Middle, and North Atlantic Districts of the Eastern Region. It will be distributed in Churches of the Brethren on Sunday, April 24, Christian College Day.

The purpose of the paper is to keep church members informed of the activities and opportunities available at their church college. The paper contains articles on Juniata's Church Relations Program, the coming Ministers' and Seniors' Day on May 7, a program of past, present future events at Juniata, campus facts and notes about former Juniatians.

The newspaper, called "The Builder" is to be issued occasionally. No specific publishing dates have been scheduled as yet. It is printed on white paper using blue ink and a red heading.

Golfers Top Albright, Dickinson, Gettysburg

The JC golf squad opened its spring season with a near shut-out win over Dickinson 8½ to ½.

Bill West of JC and George Eisley, a two year veteran from Dickinson, opened the match with a tie. Both fired three over par 73's for co-medalist honors. West still remains unbeaten in his collegiate career on the links in 16 matches, with 14 wins and two ties.

The remainder of the Tribe team won with comparative ease, as Juniata had four men under 80. Keith Birmingham came through with a 74, Larry Shepard fired a 77, and Barry Montgomery walked off with a 79.

At the end of nine holes, Juniata was leading in all the matches but the one betwen West and Eisely.

Albright

Last Friday, the JC teemen again posted a win. This time it was a shut-out over Albright to the tune of 9-0.

Paced by a blazing on-under par 69 recorded by Keith Birmingham, the Indians had three men under 80. Bill West shot a four over 79, and Larry Shepard posted a 77 in medal scores.

West had the most lopsided win of the day over Jack Lewis 10 and 8. Birmingham and Jim Cain, a freshman, had 8 and 7 wins.

The victory over the Lions was the eighth straight since 1948. Albright has never beaten Juniata on the links.

At the end of nine holes West was nine up, Birmingham six up, Shepard four up, Montgomery three up, Cain six up, and Dick Hite five up. Birmingham hit par with 35 at the turn, and toured the second half with one under.

Gettysburg

Juniata made it three for three as they trimmed Gettysburg 8-1 on Monday.

Actually no Juniata golfer suffered a defeat, although Jim Cain, number six man, tied his opponent and best ball was even in the third foursome, giving the Bullets their tally and averting a shut-out.

Larry Shepard, Oakmont freshman, was medalist for the day as he paced the Tribe with a five over par 75.West was the only other Indian golfer to go under 80. Birmingham shot 80, Ted Grothe 81, Montgomery 83, and Cain 87.

SSTC Tops JC Track Team 78 - 68; St. Joseph Romps, Albright Second in Triangular

Eight first places were not enough to save the Juniata track team from defeat in its dual meet with Shippensburg. It was the second straight loss for the thinclads, as they finished third behind St. Joseph's and Albright in the triangular meet last Saturday on the College track.

SSTC fattened up on seconds and thirds to win 78-68, while failure to place in the javelin cost the Tribe second place in the triangular meet, finishing with 35 points to Albright's 39 and St. Joseph's 80.

Gene Rothenberger was the individual star Tuesday as he took five first for a total of 20 points, and missed the all-time JC record for the 220 low hurdles by one tenth of a second, finishing with 25.9

Al Nyce won the discus and shot while Don Brinton took the mile and Herb Layman the two mile.

Softball Season Opens With Low Scoring Games

Twelve teams saw action as the boys' intramural softball league got under way Monday and Tuesday afternoon.

In opening day games the Covites edged the Blunderheads 7-6 the Mumblers squeezed by the Dutchmen 13-12, and the Blasters outlasted the Wildcats 18-17. Tuesday, the Daylighters coasted by the Jabberwockies 10-4, and the AWOL's topped the Wibbers 5-4.

The 12 teams and their managers; Badgers, C. Henry; Covites B. Dilling; Blasters, B. Schull; Mumblers, V. Means; AWOL's, G. Ciminera; Jabberwockies, L. Confer; Players Inc., D. Hancox; Daylighters, D. Appleby; Wibbers D. Kramer; Dutchmen, D. Weist; Wildcats, N. Beefelt; and Blunder Heads, L. Hartline.

Before vacation the volleyball tournament was won by the Collegians managed by Howie Kerstetter.

Baseball Team Edges Indiana STC After Dropping Opener To E - town

After losing to E-town 9-1 in their opener Saturday, the Juniata baseball team bounced back to edge Indiana STC 9-8 Monday afternoon on College Field.

The Tribe fought back from an early 7-0 deficit Monday with a 13-hit attack, including two home runs, after being held to four hits by the Blue Jays Saturday.

Indiana STC

Home runs by Jack Golden and Joe Hinish and a fine relief job by John Criswell highlighted the Indiana game, won on two errors in the ninth.

Jake Handzelek started on the mound, but gave up four hits, a walk and balked twice in one and a third innings, departing with a 4-0 deficit. Criswell was touched for three more in the third but settled down to blank Indiana without a hit until the eighth.

Trailing 7-0 in the third Juniata finally scored on three singles, a passed ball and an error. In the fourth Lee Hallman walked stole second and scored on Pheasant's single. A walk and another single pushed across the fifth run, off the Teacher's second pitcher.

The next inning saw the Tribe tie the score when Golden followed Drexler's single with a drive under the press box in right center that went for a home-run.

John Marefka's triple and a -single in the eighth made it 8-7 for Indiana, but Joe Hinish socked a 22 pitch over the scoreboard in the bottom of the inning to tie it again.

Bernie Orriss led off the ninth with a single, stole second and raced to third on a throwing error. Shortstop Jack Crossan then bobbled Pheasant's grounder to allow the winning run to cross the plate.

Saturday's opener saw the Tribe's bats silenced by E-town freshman Gene Bucher in his first inter-collegiate start.

The Indians drew first blood in the fifth when Bud Douds singled, and pitcher Lefty Alderfer singled him across after Bob Sill's sacrifice. From then on Sill's two singles were the only hits made off Bucher.

Alderfer hurled two hit ball until the sixth, but then tired and was tapped for three singles and a triple by third sacker Jim Sarbaugh. Criswell relieved in the seventh when two singles and a walk and Sarbaugh's single made it 5-0.

In the eighth three walks, two singles, and Sarbaugh's third hit in three inninggs ended the scoring. Nick Roth finished out on the mound for JC.

Saturday the team entertains Bridgeport here, with games next week at Albright on Monday and with Lycoming here Thursday.

Tennis Squad Beaten By Elizabethtown 6 - 3 In Opening Match Sat.

The Juniata tennis team was able to offer no exception to the generally poor showing by the school athletic teams last Saturday as they followed the baseball and track teams to defeat. They bowed to a strong Elizabethtown College team at Elizabethtown by a score of 6-3.

Only two of the visiting Indian netmen were able to turn the trick in their singles matches. Both Phil Lankford and Dan Raffensperger, numbers one and two men, respectively, won their matches easily but E-town captured the four remaining singles contests. Raffensberger teamed up with Paul Wingert to capture the final point for the Indians.

The scheduled contest with Albright on Monday was postponed to May 9 because the rain Sunday rendered the field unplayable. The next match for the team will be Saturday, April 23, at Indiana, Pennsylvania where they will meet Indiana State Teachers College.

Debaters Attain 6-4 Record In Recent Dickinson Match

For the first time in several years representatives of the JC Debate Club have returned from a tournament with a positive record, having tied for fifth place.

The record 6-4 was established at the Second Annual Dickinson Novice Tournament, held at Dickson College last Friday and Saturday for the first year collegiate debaters. Representing Juniata were Jimm Montgomery and Dave Amidon, affirmative speakers; Bob Reader and Jim Stayer negative speakers, and Newt Taylor, one of the judges.

The affirmative speakers defeated St. Joseph's (Philadelphia), Penn State Women B Team, and Bucknell B Team, and lost to Pitt and Penn State Men. While losing to Pitt Women and Lafayette, the negative team won over Lincoln, Bucknell A Team, and Penn State Women A Team.

Saturday four members of the club and its sponsor, Miss Dickey, will go to Carnegie Tech to enter the Fifth Annual Tartan Debate Tournament.

Dr. Spotts, F&M Prof., To Talk At JCA Tues.

Dr. Charles Spotts, well-known speaker from Franklin & Marshall, will speak on thei implications of "Sex and Religion" at the JCA meeting April 26.

On April 19, the JCA furthered their emphasis on "Sex and Religion" with a witty but serious minded panel discussion. On the panel were Dave Amidon, Bernie Cohen, Carol Jenkins and Mary Lou Zimmerman.

IRC Convention

The third camp movement was explained by Tom Warble from England. The third camp is an attempt by the nations who are not concerned with the present Russian-American differences to form a group of people and nations to split the present struggle.

On Friday the delegates heard a talk by Dr. Roderick Davidson on Near Eastern Foreign Policy followed by a visit to the Soviet Embassy. In the large Soviet Embassy, built in Czarist times, the group was received by Yuri I. Gouk, Cultural Attache, who led the group up a hugh staircase past two giant paintings, one of Lenin and the other of Stalin, to a room where a movie was shown of a Soviet cultural fair after which there was a period of ques-

Mr. Gouk turned out to be quite human, and his answers to questions on standards of living international relations, religion, etc. reflected the political ideology and policies of his government. One person asked why the Soviet Union did not have exchange students, and the reply was that the Soviet Union did have exchange student plans with Western European countries, but that the United States has not joined the relationship.

In the evening after a discussion with Walter Griffith on disarmament, the seminar closed.

Chemistry Club To Hear Speech

Eugene Lavery, science lecturer representing the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, will be featured at the April 28 meeting of the Chemistry Club in 104 Science Hall.

His subject, "Words, Wires and Waves," deals with what happens when one speaks into a telephone. He will present the story of modern telephone service and of the vast network of voice pathways which today reach out from each telephone to the far corners of the earth.

Truant Musicians Must Pay For It

by Shirley Nace

"Quarters, please!" That's the price you pay for going to the baseball game instead of band practice.

Actually, those who are economical nevertheless kept pretty well up-to-date on the game, for late-comers brought with them the latest reports as to score, the pitchers, etc.

The practice on Monday, April 18, was especially profitable, for after two weeks without practice, the members were in fine shape for invention of new sounds; in fact, we even heard some that almost resembled "lost chords" (Let's hope they get lost again).

The stop watch made its debut on Monday also. Prof. Brammner started to time various compositions to see which ones and how many of them could be used in the chapel program April 29.

Band members who want to know the other selections to be played in the program should come around to the next band practice!

Organists to Present Recital in Oller Sun.

A chance for student to spend a relaxing and pleasant hour listening to "live" organists will be provided this Sunday at 2 P. M. in Oller Hall when six student organists will play our fine college pipe organ. Besides organ solos there will be two organ-piano duos.

Performers at the organ will include: Elaine Aitken, Lois Guldin, Jacquelyn Hayes, Richard Livingston, Marlene Sterner, Mary Helen West. The assisting pianists are Alice Jean Hoffman and Margaret Sims.

Come to Oller Hall this Sunday afternoon to hear our skilled organists play for you.

1150 on the Dial . . . 'You Asked For It!' to Give Award

This coming Monday evening at 8:45 P. M., "Your Asked For It!" will make the first presentation of the Juniata Spirit Award, otherwise known as "the Betz award for nothing in particular" (as Clint calls it).

This award will consist of a genuine, simulated silver-loving cup, citation and an appearance on "You Asked For It", where the winner will be interviewed concerning the activity or event which has won the award for him.

It is designed to honor those people on campus who in their every day actions best exemplify the true spirit of the Juniata student at work or play. Every JCer is eligible to enter any or all of the weekly contests.

Those thinking that they or someone else on campus have performed some action or activity during the past week worthy of further recognition should write the name on a piece of paper and drop it off at the college post office in Totem Inn. The address is You Asked For It!, Station WJC.

Also those having requests for almost anything in the line of music, information, or just plain foolishness, should drop that off, too, at the same address.

Two Cavers Attend National Conference

by John Barger

On April 14-17 two members of the Standing Stone Grotto, Bruce Bennett and John Barger, attended the national convention of the National Speleological Society at Natural Bridge, Va.

The convention was a meeting of cavers from all over the nation. Many outstanding figures in the field of speleology were present to present papers and lectures. There were also forums, open discussions and the inevitable "bull sessions".

Subjects discussed during the convention included cave diving, cave rigging, photography, oating cave objects, safety and first aid. Also attending the convention were Bill White (former JC student) and Grahm Ward, members of the Pittsburgh Grotto.

The Juniatian

Vol. 31, No. 25 | Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. | Friday, April 29, 1955

ACP Awards All American Rating To Juniatian For First Semester

For the second time in the history of the Juniatian, it has been awarded a rating of All-American for the first semester by the Associated Press rating service.

In criticizing the Juniatian, the ACP's rater wrote such comments as "excellent features", "crisp, fast moving leads", "editorials in an interesting style", and "some of the snappiest headline writing I have seen!"

Superior ratings were won in the department of creativeness, editorial page features, and headlines. Receiving a rating of excellent were coverage, balance, style, leads, editorials, sports coverage, sports display, inside news pages, headline schedule, printing and photgraphy. No rating received in any department was lower than "very good".

The papers are judged in groups acording to college enrollment, and the rating received is based on the scoring scale for that group only. The number of college papers receiving All-American ratings has not yet been released.

Jim Hunt was editor of the Juniatian during the first term, and Alma Skinner was managing editor. Other members of the editorial staff included Joan McClure, news editor; Nan Heller, feature editor; and Carol Newborg, Club editor.

May Day Breakfast Features To Include Naming of May Court

The annual May Day Breakfast, woven around the theme "Old South", will be held Tuesday, May 3 at 7:30 A. M. in the new dining hall. Everyone attending this festive occasion will meet in the social rooms at 7:25 A. M.

The girls, wearing cotton dresses and stockings, will enter the dining hall, which will be decorated with flowers predominating the lavender and white color scheme, and find their places marked by the individual place cards and favors. A faculty member will be included at each table. Men students, excepting the nominees for Prince Charming, will not be included at this special breakfast, they will eat at 6:30 A. M.

Court Revealed

According to tradition, the May Court (including Prince Charming) will be revealed as part of the entertainment, which will be song and dance acts in keeping with the southern atmosphere. Following the breakfast, the girls will line the walks for the processional of the May Court, and then proceed to their classes beginning at 8:30 A. M.

Committee Listed

Co-chairman for the May Day Breakfast are Lona Beabes and Betty Beatty, assisted by: E. Gipprich, R. Langer, centerpieces A. Waite, favors; J. Gray, programs; N. Nevin, entertainment; K. Keeler, place cards; N. Bachman, D. Stricker, invitations; M. Sims, E. Aitken, tables; and F. Wenzel, background.

Odd Jobs To Initiate Work Camp Program

Final plans have all been completed for this weekend's work camp, which is being sponsored by the JCA. Radio station WHUN has been broadcasting the request for cards, puzzles, and games for the Hollidaysburg State Mental Hospital, and the Huntingdon Daily News has been printing articles on the project.

Tomorrow 25 students will spend the afternoon mowing lawns, washing windows, painting for six families of old folks in this community. Others will collect the articles for the patients at the mental hospital.

A short worship service will precede the afternoon's activities and an evaluation session will climax the project on the following week.

Students who have worked on the planning of this first weekend work camp are: Kay Beltzhoover, Sylvia Bounds, Evelyn Brehm, Becky Guyton, Charlie Haines, Jackie Hayes, Dick Livingston, Barbara Maurer, Dick Murphy, Nancy Nevin, Brad Nicholas, Carol Olbrich, Alice Waite, and Spencer Ward.

JC Senate Passes On Totem Inn Committee, Change In Frosh Rules

The appointment of Nancy Freed and Bud Douds to serve as delegates-at-large on the Totem Inn Committee for the year 1955-56 was approved by the Student Senate. Others on the committee are the vice-president, Bill Smith; treasurer Barry Drexler, who will also serve as chairman; and Rosalie Langer, social chairman.

Additional intems included on the agendas for the past two meetings, were the approval of the underclassmen committee and the passing of changes in freshman rules.

Underclassmen Affairs

Charlotte Beltrame, George Carnahan, Sam Douglas, Harry Garber, Judy Gearhart, Nan Heller, Kass Keeler, Dick Mumma, Brad Nicholas, Ray Ono, Alma Skinner, and Klare Sunderland, along with Bob Hamm, chairman, will comprise the underclassmen committee for the coming year.

Changes in regulations include:

1. That blue-and-gold striped knit ties be substituted ofr the traditional bowties; the ties to be purchased for the equivalent price of one dollor.
2. That the freshman class be permitted to organize following the Homecoming initiation.
3. That new freshmen entering in February be required to wear namecards only, for a period of two weeks.

"Clean-It-Off-Yourself"

The Senate strongly urges all students to comply with the "clean-it-off-yourself" policy in Totem Inn. It will facilitate the work of all concerned if Totem Inn patrons will remember to carry their soiled dishes to the counter window.

Other business included the appoiting of a committee to check into the possibility of forming a College dance band.

NSA Representative To Appear In Chapel

A representative from the National Student Association will advise the student body on the proposed plan of adopting a student disciplinary committee in Chapel on Wednesday, May 4.

Dick Fusco, former senate president says: "The senate has been considering such a plan for some time, but we feel that it would be beneficial to have an expert on the subject explain the pros and cons to the student body."

A poll of the student body will be taken, and if the majority is in favor, it will be up to the senate to organize such a committee which will begin to function next semester.

Soviet Student Editors To Visit U.S. Colleges

Eight colleges and universities to be visited by the eleven Soviet student editors will make a three week tour of the United States this spring were announced by the Institute of International Education, New York City.

They are: Columbia University, Fordham University and Hunter College in New York City; Tuskegee Institute in Alabama; the University of New Mexico; Stanford University in California; the University of Chicago, and the University of Michigan. Other colleges and universities will be added to the list.

The student editors, who arrived in New York April 19 on the Queen Elizabeth, are visiting the United States to acquaint themselves with American student life. They have been granted entry into the United States by the Department of State and Justice "in the national interest". Their tour is being made at the expense of the Soviets.

The Institute of International Education was asked by the State Department to administer the tour. In conversations at the Soviet Embassy in Washington the Institute proposed a number of schools to be visited by the student editors. This choice was based on an itinerary submitted by the Russians. The trip is planned to show a cross-section of American higher education.

Swami Will Be Here Tues. To Discuss Hindu Beliefs

There is a unique opportunity in store for those persons who find themselves curious about the nature of things, particularly from a religious viewpoint. This coming Tuesday evening (May 3, 7:30 P. M.) in Oller Hall, the JCA is privileged to present an authentic Hindu source, Swami Nikhilananda of the Ramakrishna-Vivekananda Center of New York City.

Swami Nikhilanana was born in Noakhali, Bengal (India) on Feb. 27, 1895. After studying four years at Calcutta University, he joined the Ramakrishna Order of India in 1921 and spent seven years in its Himalayan monestary being ordained a Monk in 1924. During his stay there, Swami Nikhilananda made a study of Hinduism and other systems of religion and philosophy. In 1933 the Swami founded the Ramakrishna-Vivekananda Center of New York, of which he remains the spiritual leader.

The Swami has since made three trips to India, during which he delivered numerous lectures in Indian Universities. In 1949, as a delegate of the National Philosophical Association, he attended the East-West Pilosophers Conference at the University of Hawaii. For the last three years he has given a course of lectures at Columbia University on "The Wisdom of India". Among his numerous literary works are the Essence of Hinduism (1946) and Vivekananda: A Biography (1953)

Juniata Holds Ministers' Day

Ministers and Seniors ray for the Western, Middle and North Atlantic districts of the Church of the Brethren will be held at Juniata College on Saturday, May 7.

Ministers have been invited to bring seniors and college-minded juniors to the campus for a day with the purpose of providing an opportunity for the students to become familiar with a small church-related college and for the ministers to have a day of relaxing fellowship and inspiration.

Dr. Paul M. Robinson, President of Bethany Biblical Seminary, Chicago, and President Calvert N. Ellis of Juniata College will be speakers for the day.

Included in the events planned are visiting of classes, a forum for ministers on "Problems of the Ministry", a general assembly, guided tours of the campus, District ministers' meeting and athletic events in the afternoon, including baseball, tennis and golf.

A Canine Goes To College Or Living A Dog's Life At Juniata

"A man's best friend is his dog"—an old cliche, but when the dog concerned is a music loving, shower taking, sports enthusiast, journalistic minded canine who becomes a whole college's "best friend", one must admit that we've got a unique campus character on our hands.

Of course we're speaking of that under the twenty ofur hours a day lovable? mascot, Bullet. Bullet , however is not an ordinary mascot, for he has been given all the privileges we students have and many more besides. When the new dorm opened, who wrs one of the very first inhabitants? — not the college students, not the proctors, but Bullet. He even took one and only one unforgettable shower during his sojurn.

Track Star Too

When JC had a triangular track meet with Albright and St. Joseph, who tried to turn the affair into a quadrangular meet by romping gaily over the broad jump pits — you guessed it, Bullet. Bullet is also the only college inhabitant who can go into the dining hall as late as he pleases and still get something to eat. He has been known to poke his head into the Publications Office on several occasions, too — not to write headlines, however, to make them.

Debaters Win 4, Lose 4 at Meet

JC debaters placed eighth in a tournament of 15 college and university debate teams meeting last Saturday at Carnegie Tech.

Jimm Montgomery and Dave Amidon, affirmative speakers, and Newt Taylor and Jim Stayer, negative speakers, represented the Jupniata organization. The negatives made the best record, defeating the University of Buffalo, Dickinson, and Morgan State; they lost to Pitt Women.

The affirmative speakers also defeated Morgan State, but lost to Mt. Mercy, Pitt Men, and Case. Thus the team had a 4-4 record.

The first three teams in the tournament were West Virginia, Pitt Women, and Pitt Men.

On Wednesday evening, May 4, the entire JC club will travel to Penn State for a debate with their women's teams.

Recital On Saturday To Culminate Series

The last student organ recital of the year will be given this Saturday afternoon, April 30, beginning at 1 p.m., on two organs in Oller Hall. Everyone interested is invited to attend.

These students will play on the two manual pipe-organ on the second floor of Oller Hall: Sam Douglas, Mary Jane Hershberger, Shirley McNitt, Kerin Narbut, Lois Parker, Margaret Sims, Laura Ziegler.

The second half of the program will be on the three manual pipe-organ in the main auditorium of Oller Hall with these performers: Barbara Grim, Jacquelyn Hayes, Alice Jean Hoffman, Marian Sue McElwee, Reta Peck.

From The Editor's Notes-

A topic that interests the Juniata student body was recently disclosed by informal discussion groups and finally a letter to the editor.

The problem was that although Juniata sponsors a heterogeneous student body, one consisting of mixed faiths and foreign students which are accepted and even encouraged, the negro is conspicuous by his absence. Is it true, the students wanted to know, that while colored people are permitted to take courses offered at Juniata, they are 'discouraged' from living on the campus?

An interview with President Ellis revealed the administration's policy regarding negroes. There is no discrimination in admission because of race. During the last few years there has been a slack in the number of colored people applying to Juniata. An increase in the number of negro applicants would be appreciated. This would aid the school in furnishing one of the aims of a liberal arts institution, a broader background of understanding for its students.

In respect to the campus living situation, students which the college accepts may live in the dormitories. Negro students have lived in the dorms previously. It is suggested to the accepted negro that he or she try to find a friend to come eo school with him or her. Their acceptance is not impending on this but it is believed that the person will have a better chance making the college adjustment with such an arrangement.

If the negro student decides to come alone, it is true that he is not placed with another student in the usual manner. Other students are asked if they would like to room with him or her and rooming is settled in this way.

Any further questions dealing with this or other controversial campus topics of student concern will be welcome.

Accent On Reading

THEY CALLED HIM STONE. WALL, by Burke Davis. A life of the Confederate general by a southern author who portrays his subject as a family man, professor, military strategist, particularly emphasizing enigmatic contrasts in his nature, which have given him an almost legendary status in American history.

ATOMS IN THE FAMILY, by Laura Fermi. Enrico Fermi, winner of the Nobel prize and the Congressional Medal for Merit, was the leader of the research team that brought about the first self sustaining man-made chain reaction the great experimental step that led to the atom bomb. Mrs. Fermi, in this book, allows the reader to share the adventures of her life in Italy, the process of Americanization, the war secrecy, the achievements, and the back breaking labor of one of the most remarkable episodes in history.

SIR WALTER SCOTT, by Hesketh Pearson. Tre biographer of Dickens, Disraeli, and Whistler here presents a genial biography of Sir Walter Scott which takes as its theme the parallels between Sir Walter, a Napoleon of letters, and his contemporary, Napoleon Bonaparte.

Social Amenities Do Not Include Procuring Guests' Fingerprints

Several months ago, a number of colleges in the United States extended an invitation to eleven Russian students to visit this country for thirty days. Boh governments approved the action and the passports were issued.

Last week our erstwhile guests got as far as London and there it stopped. They emphatically refused to comply with the fingerprinting rule which covers all visitors to this country. We in the United States take fingerprinting as a matter of coure, but in Europe it looked upon as an activity best confined to criminals. We are the only major country which demands this of our visitors, not even Soviet Russia requires such a preliminary. The students may have had read objections to being fingerprinted or it may have been an excuse for the Russian government to cancel the trip and make some propoganda hay to boot. Whatever the underlying reason, we gave the Soviets beautiful material for a propaganda blast against the exclusivist United States.

Other Soviets have entered the United States without the fingerprinting procedure, as in the case of a Russian Chess team. The flexibility was sufficient enough to waive the dule and no real reason has come to the fore to indicate why it should not have been done. The propaganda that will come from this, will fall on sympathetic ears of a Europe that does not consider such procedures mandatory.

In the midst of treaty talks, cease-fires and Hydrogen Bombs, such an incident may appear insignificant, but it could have been the start of a movement of great proportions. What now will be be the status of the Soviet farmers that are scheduled to visit us in the summer? These pepople were invited guests of the United States— they should have been treated as such. We have some thing to sell and we should meke every effort to sell it to those who would most doubt its value.

Intercollegiate Chatter

Larry Edwards, a junior at Rensselaer Polytechnic, probably wound up the other da yas the gayest, if not the most scientific, "guinea pig" on the school's campus. As part of the Interfraternity Council-sponsored safety week, Edwards volunteered to drink a can of beer every 20 minutes from 1 to 5 P. M. in the studen tlounge. Purpose of the xprimnt was to study "reaction time, depth perception, peripheral and night vision and steadiness under the increasing effect of alcohol." Data was recorded throughout the test, designed to show by actual demonstration the detrimental effect of alcohol on the sensory perception of drivers.

Now its possible to digest the day's news along with your supper at Taylor University. To aid students in keeping abreast with current events, a five minute coverage of the most important news items, including weather reports, is broadcasted over the dining hall loud speaker during the supper hour each evening, according to the Echo, Taylor University student newspaper.

Unconvential? Is the 20th century all dull conformity? If your answer is yes, you will have to convince Dave Andrew of Oklahoma A&M. On a dare from a professor, who insisted that unconventionality is dead, the experimenting student look a noon-hour stroll on the crowded co-educational campus in his underwear. It is reported that the feat hardly raised an eyebrow. This venture also proved profitable to Andrew as fellow students presented him with a $5.56 collection to make it worth his while.

Fifteen Russian student newspaper editors have been invited to visit Wellesley College campus next year "in the interest of promoting undersianding and to satisfy our curiosity", the Wellesley News reports if State Department approval can be secured. The News, joining at least 10 other colleges and universities in a project sponsored by the Swarthmore College Student Council, has written to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, asking that the Russians' visas be approved.

Running The Gauntlet

The Major League Baseball season is in full swing and already the cry of "rabit ball" is being heard, rookies are astounding and disappointing, and old familiar faces are pacing the field or drifting out of the picture. Amateur crystal-ballers are having their fling, and before the season gets too far along we would like to present our arm-chair choices.

In the coming weeks we will have as many members of the sports 'crew as can be persuaded to go out on a limb make their prediction for the October standings in the American and National Leagues.

Bill says: American League—Cleveland's "big 4 and more" pitching staff will not prove as cohesive as last year and a better all-around Yankee team will edge them out of first, with both probably winning over 100 games. Nieman and Droppo will keep Chicago in third. Fourth through sixth presents a puzzle. Detroit should pull through on top, Washington next, with Chuck Dressen's managerial skill struggling with the world's worst bench, and Boston fading to sixth. Baltimore, if Richards' pitching jells, will not need an RBI man to finish ahead of Kansas City. The A's home run power will not be able to offset their mediocre pitching and fielding.

National League—Barring a continued strong showing by Brooklyn pitching and power, Milwaukee's well balanced squad should win out in the stretch, with the Giants making it interesting, but not having that "miracle" quality in the clutch this year. If Cincinnati's pitching, Jablonski's fielding, and Greengrass's hitting revive the Reds should edge the Cardinals for 4th. The young, fiery Redbirds, however, could knock the mand even the Giants out of their spots with strong second line pitching. Despite signs of a terrific year by Roberts the Phils will spend part of the year fighting off a hot and cold Chicago team and will have sixth place more or less to themselves. The Buccos? Sure they have the best pitching in the Ntional League Mr. Haney, but the big question is will they lose 100 this year?

Which way will Dickinson's athletic policy go? That will be an interesting thing to watch for in the coming year following the resignation of "Slim" Ransom as basketball and football coach. An investigation by the administration into the school's athletic program led Ransom to believe that it was directed at him and therefore resigned.

"No scholarships" has been the policy of the Carlisle school, and this has seemingly been reflected in its team records. A re-appraisal of their scheduling might be in order. Navy, Penn State, etc. are pretty formidable opponents under such a system.

Rothenberger To Represent JC at Penn Relays Today

Gene Rothenberger will be Juniata's lone track representative at the Penn Relays today and tomorrow in Philadelphia. "Rocky" will be trying to place for the first time in three years in the stiff competition at Franklin Field.

Meanwhile the rest of the squad is hoping for "dry" weather so that it can continue the new system of qualifying heats installed by Coach Mike Snider in preparation for Wednesday's Triangular meet with Gettysburg and Bucknell at Lewisburg.

Mile Relay Team

Rothenberger, although the champion broad jumper of the Middle Atlantics, is still trying to crack the point column at the University of Pensylvania meet. Not since the championship mile relay team of 1938-39 has a Juniata representative been successful at the annual event.

Due to the early application date for the Relays and the bad weather which prevented constant workouts, Snider was unable to prepare any more individuals or relay teams to represent Juniata.

The qualifying marks set up by Snider ofr the Triangular meet will determine who will be taken to Lewisburg Wednesday. In addition these standards will present a chance for those trackmen not participating in the event they like to qualify in any event in which they are able to meet the necessary mark.

Some of the marks, the 100 yd. dash (10.5), mile (4.45), 120 yd. high hurdle (17.0), 220 low hurdle (28.0), pole vault (9'), broad jump (19'), shot put (35'), and discus (110'), have been met and surpassed in previous meets by several JC thinclads. Presenting more of a challenge are the 220 (24.0), 440(55.), 880 (2.08), two mile (11.00), high jump (5'5"), and javelin (145').

Lack of second, third and fourth places have cost the Indian runners dearly in the past, and it is hoped that these challenges will uncover more point winners.

Last year in a similar Triangular meet Juniata finished third with 31 points behind winner Gettysburg with 64 points and Bucknell with 59 points.

Tennismen Beat Indiana ST 7-2 For Initial Win

The Indian tennis team travelled to Indiana State Teachers College Saturday and returned victorious to even their season's record at one win and one loss. The 7-2 victory was even more lop-sided than the team score indicates as all the Indian wins in straight sets and only Del McQuaides loss went to the full three sets.

Phil Lankford, Dan Raffensperger, Chuck Gross, Paul Wingert, and Don Ruhl all captured their singles matches with ease. Lankford and Dick Fusco, the latter playing for the first time this year because of an arm injury, won doubles as did Raffensperger and Wingert. Ruhl and Wyant sustained losses in doubles.

Lankford

Singles

Lankford	Martin	6-0,6-2
Raffensperger	Roberts	6-3,6-2
Gross	Pflum	6-1,6-4
Wingert	Peta	6-2,6-1
Ruhl	Maraccinni	6-3,6-2
McQuaide	Dannels	6-2,4-6,6-8

DOUBLES

Lankford-Fusco	Martin-Roberts 6-1,6-1
Raffensperger-Wingert	Pflum-Peta 6-1,6-3
Ruhl-Wyant	Marraccini-Dannels 7-9,2-6

The next action of the netmen is Saturday when they will travel to Carlisle to meet a strong Dickinson aggregation. An opportunity to see the Indians is coming up on May 7 when they play host to the University of Pittsburgh.

Bridgewater Eagles Top JC 9-2; Miscues Costly. Albright Tilt Posponed

Juniata College's baseball team had its record evened at two wins and two losses Saturday afternoon when it was out-hustled by a visiting Bridgewater team 9-2.

Juniata Golfers Upset By Indiana STC 11-7; West's Streak Broken

A lost ball holds the balance of the decision of the Juniata-Pittsburgh golf match last Thursday. As the match now stands, the score is 4 to 4 but should the Huntingdon Country Club Rules Committee rule in favor of Pittsburgh, the Panthers would carry off the laurels 5 to 4. However, if the Committee should rule for Juniata the score would remain tied at 4½ to 4½.

The ball was lost on the eighteenth hole when Zaccola, playing against Juniata's Larry Shepard, hit a ball which disappeared from sight. Zaccola claimed the ball buried itself in the mud of the fairway in which case he could play without a penalty stroke. If the ball went into the lake in the rough, as Juniata claims, a penalty stroke is in order, and the match would be tied.

Bill West contiued his unbeaten streak by beating Stockdale, the Panther's number one man handily. In addition Keith Birmingham won while Ted Grothe and Jim Cain were held to draws West (J) defeated Stockdale 5 and 3.

Birmingham (J) defeated Fisher 3 and 2 Best ball—Juniata 6 and 5
Ted Grothe (J) and Rybayik even
Shepard (J) and Zaccola no decision Best ball—Pitt 4 and 3
Seigal (P) defeated Montgomery 4 and 3
Cain (J) and Farrell Best ball—Pitt 2 and 1

Tuesday, the Indiana State Teachers College golf team upset the Indian teeman 11-7 as Juniata's Bill West lost his first match in three years of intercollegiate competition.

The Teachers used a scoring system, unfamiliar to the Indians, in which a point is given to the winner of each nine holes and another for winning over the fll eighteen holes. Under this system, Keith Birmingham and Larry Shepard, number two and four men respectively, each gathered three points to account for six of the Indians points. Birmingham turned in the best Indian score with 75.

Red Devils Win Twice But Lose First Place To Krazy Kids in I-M

The Red Devils lost their hold on first place but took two out of three games from the Dead End Kids, Thursday, April 21, to begin the ball rolling again in the girls' intramural volley ball league. The Red Devils won both their games by identical 21-13 scores while the Dead End Kids took their game by a 21-20 score. On Monday night, April 25, the Krazy Kids took two from the Dead Eleven 21-4 and 21-3, and the Punchy Pack getting the benefit of a forfeit in the second.

Joann Feight, Red Devils, led the Thursday night scoring with 13 points, followed by Nancy Shirky and Sara Hawbecker, Dead End Kids, with 12 and 11 points respectively. Norma Hottle and Barbara Maurer, Krazy Kids, led the scoring Monday night with 11 points each, followed by Florence Wenzel, Rowdies, with 8 points.

Next week there are three double headers scheduled. On Monday night it'll be the Punchy Pack against the Spoofers at 8:00 and the Krazy Kids against the Rowdies at 9:00. On Thursday night it'll be the Dumb Dutchmen against the Dead End Kids at 7:00 to wind out the season's play.

Juniata College's baseball team had its record evened at two wins and two losses Saturday afternoon when it was out-hustled by a visiting Bridgewater teams 9-2.

John Criswell, a right hander, started on the hill for the Tribe, and got out of his initial jam in the first inning after he had given up two singles and a free pass to load the bases. Criswell did not face any serious trouble again until the fifth when he gave up five runs to the Eagles and was lifted in favor of freshman Nick Roth.

Owen Wright started the uprising for Bridgewater as he opened with a single. It was followed by three walks, one intentional, sending over the first Eagle tally. The visitors scored their second run on a sacrifice fly. Criswell was finally lifted when Ed Jeffries blasted a two run single and Roth stopped the uprising by retiring the first man to face him.

Roth then got into trouble in the sixth as he gave up two more runs on two singles and two timely errors. Again in the seventh the frosh righthander got into hot water. He made a wild pitch with the sacks loaded letting in one run, with the final Eagle tally coming in when catcher Don Pheasant dropped a throw to the plate from Lee Hallman.

JC's two scores came in the bottom of the sixth. John Staley opened the frame with a single off the pitcher's glove, Hallman walked and Pheasant singled Staley home. Barry Drexler followed with another single to push Hallman across for the last run.

It simply was not Juniata's day against the Eagles. The Tribe ran into trouble in the middle innings and was never in the game after the fifth.

Monday's scheduled game with Albright at Reading was postponed temporarily and finally scratched off the schedule as a result of bad weather.

Middle Atlantic State To Hold Championship Golf Match Saturday

Ten or twelve teams are expected to compete in the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference golf championship Saturday, May 7, at the American Legion Country Club near Mount Union.

Approximately 50 golfers will scramble for medalist honors on the tough par-74 course in the one-day 36-hole medal play.

Juniata College's Frank Arasin will not be defending the individual championship which he copped last year with a record-breaking 146.

University of Pennsylvania won the first tournament in 1950; Juniata copped honors in 1951, 1952, and 1954; Lehigh won in 1953.

Subfrosh Committee Ends Season After 161 Students Visit Campus

Last Sunday the final sub-freshman weekend of this college year was terminated, 161 high school students having visited Juniata under the auspicies of the Subfreshman Committee.

The JC student body and especially members of this committee are to be congratulated for their interest in helping prospective college students discover the aspects of campus life and the qualities of our own institution. Subfreshmen have often commented on the pleasantness and helpfulness of the student body.

Members of the Subfreshman Committee, under the guidance of Director of Admissions Bob Newcombe, spent hours scheduling weekends and taking care of innumerable details so that these weekend programs aperate smoothly. Other people on campus also play definite roles in accommodating subf r e s h m e n. There are those who plan andprepare more food, set up guest tables, make beds, brief subfreshmen on courses offered by Juniata, and handle applications for weekend stays. These and others help to make subfreshmen weekends successful.

Even Dr. Ellis, who welcomes such groups of high schoolers when he is on campus, exhibits a keen interest in the program.

The reader by this time has become somewhat aware of the work undertaken to carry out this project. He may ask, "What are the results?"

Admissions office tabulations show that over 45% of the students who came here on a subfreshman weekend this year have already registered for admission. This is a pretty good average considering that subfreshmen are practically a rando mselection of prospective college students.

Most of these people are impressed not only with the students here, but also with the facillities. They like our newer structures and our plans for future building, the equipment in the laboratories, the beauty of the campus, the efficiency of the dining room waitresses, ets. What better advertising could Juniata have than the optimistic views given by those returning to their respective high schools?

Assistant To Treas. Has Fascinating Past

This week's administrator is the person familiar to any one who has ever paid a bill to Juniata College (and who of us hasn't?). Yes, Hilda Nathan, sometimes known as 'the woman in the treasurer's office', has an extremely interesting background which is unknown to most students.

She was born in Dusseldorf, Germany and also obtained most of her schooling there. In 1939 Miss Nathan travelled to England, and the next year she proceeded to the United States.

In this country she attended Duff's Iron City College in Pittsburgh which enabled her to teach in the Huntingdon Secretarial School for the next five years.

In 1946 Miss Nathan began the jog which we are accustomed to seeing her do — her WORK (capitalized by special request) in the treasurer's office.

So anytime you have a financial problem remember to ask Hilda— that's Hilda Nathan— Mr. Fike's Girl Friday!

Heller Is Brain Behind Plans For JC May Day

Chairman, Nan Heller has announced the committee heads for this year's May Day program. Her assistant chairman is Alice Waite.

Bill Smith is in charge of elections, while Sylvia Peterson is Club Coordinator. Other chairmen are: Flowers, Rosalie Langer; Programs, Nancy Nevin; Publicity, Joan McClure.

Co-chairmen of sets are Mary Jane Bridenbaugh and Bill Newman. Their assistants are Nancy Freed and Eileen Gipprich. Jo Feight has been appointed chairman of costumes.

The Faculty Advisor for the 1955 May Day festivities is Miss Cochran. The theme for this year revolves around the South.

1150 on the Dial

"Quiet, please. Watch for the light."

The record grinds to a stop, the engineer snaps the microphone switch, flashes the light, and the announcer proceeds. "For our next number we will—"

"Just a minute," interrupts the engineer. "The mike's dead."

What follows is a period of untechnical flashing of switches and monkeying around which fortunately reinstates the microphones various parts so that the show can continue.

Few WJC announcers and engineers have escaped this experience while broadcasting from the depths of the Students Hall ground floor. College radio stations, especially if they are as young as the Voice, can afford the kind of equipment it takes to insure that they will be on the air and stay there.

However, this shortage of reliable microphones has been somewhat remedied by Maurie Henry, former JCer and a WJC "father," who built IBC a microphone using two speakers. This most economical way of solving the problem has been welcomed by WJC personnel, and students can now enjoy the station's radio presentations without quite as many interruptions of "dead air."

Broadcasting One Year

WJC will conclude its first full year of broadcasting May 20, Bob Hamm, program director, reports. The voice has come a long way since its first official broadcast in September. Among its assets are a staff of 24, a program schedule to rival that of many a commercial station, a new compact engineering panel, a growing record library, and an increased range of broadcast.

Station managers are hopeful about the future of WJC. This summer a shipment of recordings of classical music will arrive to be added to the studio library. The studio itself will be redecorated, and the program schedule will be revised, perhaps to include even more professionally recorded shows.

If WJC can do as well next year as it did during this one, Juniatians can expect almost anything emot come from IBC.

Juniata Grad Tackles Chicago Slum Problem

In the slum areas of Chicago or any other large city crime is highest. It is into these areas, which are threatened by blight, that community planners come with the idea of restoring the community. One of these idealists is a young Negro Presbyterian minister, Raymond R. Day.

Rev. Day's mission field covers just twenty blocks. Here thirty thousand negros live cramped into a small space.

For Day the hopes of his slum area lie in its children. He focuses on the children, who may yet "learn how to live." Day heads a struggling community center, finds clothes and even furniture for his people. His efforts are often rebuffed by those he is trying to help, but they are a start for the bigger things which are to come.

Rev. Day is a 1945 graduate of Juniata College with an AB degree in Bible and Philosophy. While a student at Juniata, Day was active in many clubs, senior class president and Senate Chairman of Religious Activities.

Spotts Leaves; Hindu To Arrive

Dr. Charles Spotts, authority on the topic of sex and religion, a humorous and vivacious speaker, spoke in Oller Hall April 26.

Seventy-five JCA members were present to witness this, the climaxing program of sex and religion month. Tending toward a conservative view, Spotts cited four dangerous factors involved in premarital sex relations, the one having the widest appeal to the college student being the psychological effect upon the individual.

This Tuesday evening a Swami from New York City will be speaking on the Hindu religion.

Chapel Program Fri. To Feature JC Band

On May 2, President Ellis will be the speaker for the chapel program in Oller Hall.

On Wednesday one of the officers of the National Student Association at Philadelphia will be the guest speaker.

Friday's chapel program will feature the Juniata College Band under the direction of Professor Brammer.

IVCF Will Rediscuss Justification Points

Justification will again be discussed at this week's meeting of IVCF since the subject has not been exhausted at the last meeting of the group.

The meeting is this evening at 7:15 in Founders Chapel. Everyone attending should be prepered to present his views on the subject.

Breakfast Changes Schedule Of Classes

A special class schedule affecting the first two periods will be in effect on Tuesday, May 3, in order to accommodate the May Day Breakfast.

The first two periods of the morning will begin a half-hour later than usual, at 8:30 and 9:30 respectively. The last two periods will remain on the usual weekday schedule.

Bullet —

Now all this is extraordinary in itself but there is more. Did you know that Bullet can cut chapel anytime the program is not agreeable to him? And when he does go he is not made to sit in an assigned seat but literally has the "run" of the place (both aisles front to back).

May Become Scholar

Perhaps the precocious pup will decide to register for classes next semester, at the rate he's going. He'll probably enroll in Principles and Techniques of Bone-finding, History of the Modern Flea since 1815, and Barkteriology.

If yol are worried about the unhealthy aspects of Bullet's nomadic life, just sit back and relax. Georgie Germann, the dog's master, has undertaken the task of making Bullet settle down.

JR. SR. RECEPTION

Plans for the Junior-Senior Reception are well under way, announced Mary Jane Bridenbaugh, chairman. Her committee consists of Klare Sunderland, Ann Yesko, Jane Ellenberger, Harry Garber, Margaret Sims, and Bill Collins.

Swami —

Boutonniere At Tuesday Breakfast Reveals Markey And Boulton Are Juniata's May Queen And Prince

In a setting depicting the old South, Queen Doris Markey was crowned at the annual May Day Breakfast. Her name concealed in Prince Charming's boutonniere, it was discovered by the new Prince, Jim Boulton. Jean Baker was chosen Maid of Honor.

Carrying out the Southern theme the dining hall was arrayed in lavendar and white. The tables had centerpieces of that color while the programs were in the form of lavendar fans. A white crepe paper flower served as each place card. Large cut out figure and lavendar draped steps portrayed a garden and later served as the Queen's throne.

Entertainment, too, carried out the theme. Ann Willson did a "Mammy" tap dance and was followed by Ron Dilling singing "Summertime." A quartet of Lillian Weimer, Lillian Madge, Sandra Ewing and Shirley Barody staged a small scale minuet.

Final aspect of the breakfast was the revealing of the court. Barbara Orner, accompanied by Jackie Hayes, gave directions in her song for finding the name of each court member.

Freshman attendants Ruth Perestam of Yardley and Marlene Sterner of Hanover were the first escorted to the throne. Miss Perestam, an elementary education major, was in All-Class Nite and the Women's House Committee. Miss Sterner, a music education major, is in the chapel choir and was chairman for the freshman All-Class Nite.

The next verse of the song revealed sophomore attendants Joy Wenger and Shirley McNitt. Miss Wenger, a home economics major, was a may attendant last year. She is in Lambda Gamma and WAA. A music major from Milroy, Miss McNitt was in the operetta, JCA and has played for the Chapel Choir.

Nancy Freed and Sylvia Peterson were elected representatives of the junior class. Both were this past years's Homecoming attendants. Miss Freed is an elementary education major from Telford. She was on the May court last year and is on the Juniatian staff and Totem Inn Committee. From Clearfield, Miss Peterson is a sociology major. She is

Senate Approves Leadership Conf. 1955 Delegation

At the May 4 meeting of the Senate, the following students were approved to serve as delegates-at-large to Leadership Conference, which will be held September 10, 11, and 12 at Camp Kanesatake. Senior appointees include Bill Shull, Nan Heller, Nancy Freed, Bill Collins, Jack Golden, Sylvia Peterson, Don Pheasant, Harry Garber, Brad Nicholas, Torry Froisland, and Sam Mollenkof.

Included in the junior delegation are Bernie Cohen, Eileen Gipprich, Leel Byers. Howard Angstadt, Judy Gearhart, Charlotte Beltrame, Don Murdoch Ray Ono, Newt Taylor, and George Carnahan. Alternates will be Carol Titus, Jim Barefoot, and Dick Mumma.

Representing the freshman class will be Marlene Sterner, Sandy Ewing, Sue Fawcett, George Fattman, Barbara Orner, Peter Wright, E. J. Stutzman, Sylvia Shemeld, June Gray, and John Moore. Freshman alternates chosen were Evelyn Brehm, Eleanor Newton, Bryan Stauffer. and Shirley Bardo.y

In addition to these general delegates and the senators, class and club presidents and the JCA Cabinet will automatically attend the conference.

Social Committee Approved

Also aproved by the Senate were the members of the 1955-56 Social Committee, as submitted by Rosalie Langer chairman. Comprising the committee will be Shirley Barody, Nancy Bachman, Lee Byers, George Cline, Bernie Cohen, Bill Collins, Harriet Detwiler, Brucs Dickey, Buddy Douds Sandra Ewing, Nancy Freed, Judy Gearhart, Eileen Gipprich, June Gray, Mimi Grove, Nan Heller, Norma Hottle, Howie Kerstetter, Eddi Lantz, Barb Leuthold, Carolyn Long, John Moore, Don Murdoch, Nancy Nevin, Bill Newman, Ruth Perestan, Sylvia Peterson, Les Querry, Barb Phennicie, Joan Schwartz, Bill Shull, Marlene Sterner, Klare Sunderladn, Steve Ulch, and Lois Van Erden.

Also included on the agenda was the setting of the date for this year's Christmas banquet and dance on Monday, December 19. Classes will recess for Christmas vacation on December 21.

Touring Choir Appears Over WJAC Television

by E. J. Stutzman

The Juniata College Choir and String-Wind Ensemble will make a direct television broadcast this Sunday, May 8, over WJAC-TV at 1 P. M.

Last year's touring choir and ensemble appeared on a filmed program which the Johnstown TV station produced, but this year they will travel to Johnstown to make a live telecast in the stations new studio.

The fifteen minute production will include selections from this year's sacred and secular programs: Song of Loyal Brotherhood—Mozart; an arrangement of the Negro spiritual, Let US Break Bread Together; Alleluia—Will James; a Chilean folk song, River, River; American Barn Dance—Donato, and selections from Victor Herbert's Mlle. Modisto.

Arrangement have been made with Robert Fisher to have the television lounge in the student center open on Sunday for students to view the telecast. Since this is a direct broadcast, not more than one showing will be possible.

Hollidaysburg Concert

Following the telecast the choir will travel to Hollidaysburg for

Dance To Be Held In Oller Hall Lot

When the Spring is sprung
And the grass is riz
This is where the party is—
In the parking lot beside Oller Hall
Come on fellows needn't bring a doll
The moon will be full so gals come too—
Then your evening won't be sorrowful and blue.

Spring has come to JC campus and it seems that everyone wants to spend time in the great out-of-doors. The Social Committee feels the same way about this matter and so this Saturday night they are featuring a dance "under the stars"—Coeds and Campus Joes are invited to dance 9:30 to 11:30 on the parking lot of Oller Hall. In case of rain we will use the Women's gym for shelter.

Chapel Will Highlight Juniata Honor Society

Chapel for the week of May 9 will be as follows:

The first chapel service of the week will feature a special program by the Debate group in charge of Miss Dickey.

Wednesday will be known as Academic Honors Day and the service will be for the purpose of paying tribute to those students elected to the Honor Society on this campus. Dr. Harold Schilling, dean of the graduate school of Penn State will be the speaker.

Then, on Friday, Rev. Clarence Rosenberger, Director of Church Relations in the Public Relations Office here at JC, will speak.

Librarians Schedule Spring Book Auction

A Library Book Auction will be held Monday through Wednesday, May 9-11, in the Pennsylvania Room of the Library.

Many new books are being sold because shelf space is needed for current acquisitions. Included in the items offered for sale will be books on chemistry, physics, foreign languages, as well as sets of literary and historical works.

Immediately after the auction there will be a period of active biding to sell those books which are in great demand.

The Auction closes at 4 P. M. and books may be claimed then or during regular library hours from Wednesday until Friday, May 11-13.

Selective Service Gives Test Again

Selective Service has announced an extra administration of the College Qualification Test this year, to be given on May 19. Applications must be submitted not later than Monday, May 9.

Ordinarily, there are only two testing dates during the college year, but the third date has been announced to provide an opportunity to those men who failed to take the test on the earlier dates. Application forms may be obtained at any local Selective Service office. The address of Board No. 75 in Huntingdon is 707 Washington Street, above the Weis Market.

Any questions regarding this test may be referred to Dean Mays, the campus administrator. The results of the testing are used in determining the draft status of individual men by local draft boards.

Registration Moved To Monday, May 16

Registration originally planned to start May 9 has been postponed until May 16, 17, 18. Details for registration will be announced later.

JCA Speaker Explains Doctrines Of Hinduism

This past Tuesday evening in J.C.A. a curious group of Juniatians experienced a rare adventure into the realm of the spirit. An intriguing and singular personality named Swami Nikhilananda revealed, in a most satisfactory nutshell, "The Spirit of Hinduism". Here in capsule form is what he said.

The Hindu sees ultimate reality in four distinct yet interrelated levels. First there are the eternal truths existing in an unchanging, unknowable Impersonal God. Of this reality there are various manifestations, one of which constitutes the second level, the Personal God who is essentially the God of all religions. He came into being from the Impersonal God at the time of creation; He possesses the usual attributes, is knowable and can be worshipped. A need arising in the creation brings forth at various intervals a third reality, Incarnations or revelations of God via humanity (Christ being one of many). The fourth level then consists of every

JCA Work Project Acclaimed Successful

The first weekend work camp sponsored by the JCA on this campus was termed a great success. Last Saturday, thirty-five students put on their working clothes and really worked.

The fifteen students who canvassed the town for the benefit of the mental hospital collected forty games, one hundred thirty-five decks of cards and eighty-one puzzles, plus magazines and greeting cards.

Twenty other fellows and girls washed windows, mowed lawns, and painted for seven families of old folks in the community. Concerning reactions, it is hard to say who received the most satisfaction — the students or the folks aided.

Men Represent College At PSU

Three men represented Juniata College in the Pennsylvania Reading Festival held April 27-28 at Pennsylvania State University.

Bob Reader, George Carnahan and Klare Sunderland were among the delegates from 13 colleges and universities participating in the affair. Readings presented by our representatives included Dylan Thomas' Reminiscences of Childhood, a prose selection read by Reader and two selections from Benet's John Brown's Body read by Carnahan and Sunderland.

Among the features of the event was a banquet held in the Presbyterian Church in State College.

Mezzo-Soprano Will Perform In Oller Hall Friday, May 13

The Men and Women's Work of the Middle District of the Church of the Brethren will sponsor the appearance of Mrs. Rosa Page Welch, mezzo-soprano, at Oller Hall, Juniata College, on Friday, May 13, at 8:15 P. M.

Her program will range from classical favorites to Negro spirituals which she interprets with a sincere depth of feeling.

In 1953 Mrs. Welch was sent on a tour that encircled the world to help build fellowship among Chrisian women. In her tours as "an ambassador of good will" in inter-racial relations, Mrs. Welch has sung before youth groups and adults throughout the United States.

The singer, a native of Port Gibson, Mississippi, was graduated from the Southern Christian Institute, a mission school of the Disciples of Christ at Edwards, Mississippi. She has taught academic and music courses in southern schools and faced a brilliant career as a concert artist 10 years ago when she chose to devote herself to the field of religion and inter-racial goodwill.

Mrs. Welch has appeared as a guest artist on CBS programs, at sacred concerts, at recent state, international, and world conventions of the Disciples of Christ, at the World Convention of Christian Education (Toronto 1950) and at the meeting founding the new National Council of Churches of Christ in the United States.

Tickets for one dollar can be secured at the door. However, students will be admitted on their activity cards.

From The Editor's Notes-

Many alumni, parents, and other guests pour onto the campus for May Day weekend.

The Chairman of General Activities and the others belonging to the large group organizing the May Day festivities this year need not only the support of the student body in attendance but its interest and work in arrangement for the big weekend.

This year's plans are extensive and will require the help of all those who volunteer to aid the various groups, including the Chairman of General Activities, Alice Waite, the club displays and the junior class preparations for the Jr.-Sr. Reception.

A May Day we all can be proud of will depend on us.

Practically all of us look forward to Saturday because it means that another weekend has arrived. The weekend is a time for pleasure and relaxation. There's that tennis game we had planned, or perhaps a picnic. It's the time for going to church, fixing things around the room and watching television.

The weekends are all of those things—except on the highways. In 1954, 13,980 persons were killed and 678,000 were injured in weekend accidents, according to figures compiled and released by the Traveler's Insurance Companies. Thirty-nine percent of the deaths and thirty-five percent of the injuries were recorded on Saturdays and Sundays in 1954.

The most dangerous day of the week for driving is Saturday. One good reason is that more cars are traveling the highways on Saturday than any other day. There is another important feature which sets this day apart from the others. For too many people, Saturday night is a time when drinking and driving are combined. No one knows how many traffic accidents are caused by drinking drivers, but everyone knows that it is a major problem.

Weekends should indeed be happy ones for everyone. Let's try and make it that way.

Intercollegiate Chatter

(ACP) — The gloomy possibility of substituting pilltime for mealtime in the not-too-distant future inspired Bob Pula, editorial writer for the 'Greyhound", campus paper at Loyola College, Baltimore, Md., to bring you his skeptical outlook on the Dinner of Tommorrow:

EVERY MEAL A PILL.

Consider the prospect of pill consumption in lieu of old fashioned farmgrown vittles. It seems feasible from the botanicallzoological point of view. After all, all you have to do is jiggle the chemicals a bit and you have the one gram equivalent of a hot beef sandwich. But what of the sociological changes such a culinary revolution would bring? Ludicrous, I asure you.

For example, can you imagine yourself applauding an after-pill speaker? Just how silly would you feel if you participated in the following conversation:

"What's for swallow tonight, Mother? (The meal of the future will be a brief affair.

"Oh, I've measured out seven milligrams of pork tablets for the meat course. At least I hope I measured seven milligrams. That Harvard TripIBalance Scale has been acting up lately. Why just yesterday your father complaind of feeling overfed. The scale was three grains off, and he got an ovedose of Bacon X-4. Horrible heartburn."

CORPUSCLES FROM CAPSULES ----

"Well, Father does suffer occasional fits of his old gluttony. Last week I caught him at least three times snitching extra micro-grams of Pie a la Mode Z-7. By the way what kind of pork are we having?"

"Breaded, the little purple ones you know. They're the latest thing—put out by the sponsors of Ann Digestion Faces Life, the story of a young archeologist who is currently tracing the origins of ancient Burp Culture in the Alimentary Canal Zone."

"Thrilling! Any vegetables?"

"Oh, plenty of those left in our handy one-shot dispenser. Broccoli No. 5 with the built-in bicarbonate of soda; irish potatoes in the shamrock capsules with the new tasteless luster preventative. And guess what's for desert?"

"I'm drooling phosphates, Mother!"

'Mars bars, imported!"

Well you get the Idea. Many thanks to the boys at the Institute for Advanced Study, but I must pass when it comes to substituting pilltime for mealtime. Excuse me now. I'm going out and buy me a primitive, paleolithic, phooey-on-the-sea -around-us STEAK!

House of Rep. Votes To Cut Down Student Exchange Appropriations Bill Now Up For Senate Approval

In a move for economy, the House of Representatives has cut the appropriation for the student exchange program from $22 million to $12 million. Economy, when judiciously administered is wise, but can we afford this 'saving'? Amid the talk of H-bombs and mutual security, this, like the 11 Russian students, may seem a minor incident — but let us consider its far reaching implications.

This lack of funds will be felt in the foreign educational circle. It is from these colleges and universities that the future leaders of the world will be drawn. So, in effect, we are alienating the people who in a decade will rule a good part of the world.

Following close behind the fingerprinting incident with the Russian students this can't help but magnify an already bad impression.

The student exchange program has been serving a valuable function It gives foreign students an opportunity to study here and thus gain a fuller appreciation of our way of life. It also gives American students a broader understanding of foreign problems. If anything, the program should have been stepped up and not cut back.

Democracy has a war of ideas to win against Communism. The best way to win is to show, first hand, the superiority of our system to those we want most most to convince. We are not willing, and wisely so, to take the military offensive so we must push the ideological attack. It will cost money but no lives. It will be a sad testimony to our democratic system if we lose this war of ideas to one of the poorer nations for lack of funds.

The bill is now before the Senate and perhaps men like Fulbright can stop it. Every wall, every barrier, every iota of exclusiveness that the U. S.. puts between itself and the rest of the world is but another victory for the international appeal of Communism.

Running The Gauntlet

To continue our series of Major League crystal-ballers here are the predictions of Marjorie, our female baseball enthusiast.

American League: 1. New York 2. Chicago 3. Cleveland 4. Detroit 5. Washington 6. Boston 7. Baltimore 8. Kansas City.

National League: 1. Milwaukee 2. Brooklyn 3.New York 4. Philadelphia 5. Cincinnati 6. St. Louis 7. Chicago 8. Pittsburgh.

Comments: American League- Bob Turley, whom the Yankees picked up during the winter trade has looked real well so far this year and along with Whitey Ford Bob Grim and Ed Lopat, the Yankees look as if they finally have got a top notch pitching staff to go along with their tremendous power. The White Sox are young and energetic and it is quite possible that they will knock the tired out Indians down to third place.

The change from Philly to Kansas City does not seem to have done the Athletics a great deal of good, and I still see them way down in the second division in my crystal ball. Baltimore is not such an improved ball club and it will probably be a couple of years gefore they will become a real powerhouse. It is almost a toss-up for the 4, 5, and 6 spots but I believe Boston is slowly but surely slowing down. Detroit has the hustle to get into the first division with Washington giving them a rough run for it.

National League — Although Brooklyn has gotten off to a good start I am still forced to look into the past and see their record for the latter part of the seasons, which has not been too promising. Milwaukee has had a powerhouse in the past couple years but just have not found themselves. I say this is their year. The Giants cannot be counted out as they will give the same old fight for the pennant. Pittsburgh will settle down in their usual place in the cellar with the Cubs trying to dig them out.

Bucknell Defeats Gettysburg, JC Third In Triangular Meet. Rocky Captures Three Firsts

Juniata's track team again failed to roll up a backlog of third and fourth place points and finished third behind Bucknell and Gettysburg in a Triangular meet at Lewisburg Wednesday afternoon.

Gene Rothenberger accounted for nearly half of his team's 37 points, wining three firsts and a second. Winning Bucknell had 67 against 55 for Gettysburg.

Rothenberger won the broad jump, 100 yard dash and 220 hurdles, and was second in 110 high hurdles. Al Nyce won the only other first for JC with a victory in the discus. Nyce also placed in the javelin and shot put to collect a total of nine points.

Second places went to Don Brinton in the mile and Don Davis in the 880 while Jim Corrigan and Herbie Layman placed third in the 440 and two mile respectively.

Rothenberger Scores With 4th Place Jump In Penn Relay Meet

Gene Rothenberger finally landed in the charmed circle at the Penn Relays when he finished fourth in the broad jump at Franklin Field Saturday.

"Rocky" made his best leap of the year 22' 10", but dropped from is third place qualifying jump when Dale Vaughn of VMI surprised by moving from fifth to second in the final with a jump of 23'3".

It was the first time Rothenberger had qualified or placed in the "carnival of stars".

Joel Shankle of Duke successfully defended his title with a 23'10" jump. Bernard Bruce of Boston U. was third and Dick Goss of Yale fifth.

Eighth Win Chalked Up By Red Devils In I-M

The Red Devils came on to win two games Monday night to take the girls' volleyball league lead in games won but are still behind in the percentage column. The Dumb Dutchmen were the victims of the Red Devils by 21-10 and 21-5 scores. Also on Monday night the Rowdies took two games from the Spoofers 21-4 and 21-3 and the Dead Eleven won over the Punchy Pack in two of three games 21-12 and 21-12.

Ruth Perestem, Punchy Pack; Nancy Hess, Dead Eleven and Holsinger, Red Devils, scored 13 points apiece to lead the scoring for the night. Margie Beaver, Dead Eleven, and Nancy Phillips, Red Devils, followed with 9 points apiece.

Games for next week will be posted later.

Juniata Nine Splits Two, Host To Pitt Tomorrow

Lock Haven State Teachers College outhit the Juniata nine Wednesday to come out on top in a 10-8 scoring contest. The loss was the Indian's third against four wins.

John Criswell started for the Indians and gave up four runs in the first inning on four hits, one of them a home run with two on by third sacker Yelovich, and a walk.

The Teachers scored two more in the second on two singles and a sacrifice off Joe Hinish who came in from left field to replace Criswell. The Havenites continued to pound the ball while scoring one run in each the third and fourth innings.

Juniata came back for one run in the top of the fifth as Bob Sill got on base when the catcher missed a third strike. He advanced on a wild pitch and scored on Hallman's single.

In the Juniata sixth the Indians started pouring it on as they garnered four runs for their efforts. With one away, Golden reached first on an error, Douds followed with a walk, to set the stage for Lefty Alderfer, playing right field in Hick's revised lineup. Lefty drove in Golden with a single. Bernie Oriss drew a walk and with two out, Barry Drexler also walked, forcing Douds home for the second run. Alderfer and Oriss both scored on Lock Haven errors as Hall came to the relief of starting moundsman McMillan.

Lock Haven scored one in the seventh when the second man up got a safety and went around the bases on two Juniata errors. The Indians wrapped up their scoring in the eighth as they picked up three more tallies. Drexler and Hallman opened with back to back singles, two straight walks forced in a run and then Alderfer collected his second hit to drive home the final two

Susquehanna Dumped

Jake Handzelek and Lefty Alderfer teamed on the mound to give the Crusaders only four hits. Alderfer blanked the home club without a safety in the final two frames for his third victory against one defeat. Alderfer also belted in the two winning runs in the ninth with a triple.

Susguehanna scored in the first inning on two walks and a wild pitch by starter Jake Handzelek. There was no more scoring until the sixth when Juniata scored twice. John Staley started it off with a single, followed by Pheasant's walk. That was all for Crusader starter Lefty Sheldon. Rodkey came on and walked Barry Drexler and then, with two out, Jock Golden singled home Staley and Pheasant.

Crusaders Tie

Susquehanna knotted the score in the eighth as Handzelek was taken out after an error. Alderfer came on, and following another error, Susquehanna's second run scored while Juniata ran the runner down between first and second base.

In the Juniata ninth, Jack Golden walked but was out when he overran second on Bud Doud's single to the infield. Bob Sill singled and then Alderfer unloaded his game-winning triple, scoring both runners. The hit gives him 8 for 13 at bat with 13 runs batted in for the season.

Netmen Top Dickinson 5-4 While Golfers Win 4th 8-1 Over Frankies

Juniata's tennis team recorded its second straight victory of the campaign at Carlisle by edging Dickinson 5-4. It was the second straight year the Indians have downed the Red Devils by a 5-4 count. Last year the team battled until 8:00 in the evening here.

Dickinson copped the first three singles matches, but Juniata came back to take the second three. The match was deadlocked when Don Ruhl and Chuck Gross defeated Fred Hamilton and Larry Fink of Dickinson 6-1, 4-6, 6-4 in the final doubles event.

Juniata victories in the singles went to Dick Fusco, Paul Wingert and Ruhl, while the team of Phil Lankford and Fusco recorded a doubles victory in addition to the decisive point earned by Ruhl and Gross.

Tomorrow the tennis team encounters the University of Pittsburgh. Last year's match was rained out.

Golf

Bill Germann's golfers won their fourth straight match in six tries by defeating St Francis of Loretto 8-1 at the Cresson Country Club Monday.

Only Paul Remek's 3 and 2 victory over JC's number two man Barry Montgomery prevented a shutout. Remek, a Mount Union sophomore, fired an 80.

The Indians' second loss of the season was tacked on last week when the Juniata Athletic Department awarded the controversial "lost ball" match to Pitt 5-4, in lieu of a decision by the Huntingdon Country Club.

West Medalist

Bill West took medalist honors in the Frankie's match with a five-over-par 77 to defeat Regis Kozusko 7 and 6. Dick Hite also won 7 and 6 over Tom Folly, while in other pairing Larry Shepard won 3 and 2 over Bob Marot, Ted Grothe 4 and 3 over Bob Villarred, and Jim Cain, in the day's closest affair, squeezed by Frank Ruschauver 2 and 1.

Today the linksmen face Western Maryland in a warm up for the Middle Atlantic Championships at Mount Union tomorrow.

Covites Take First 5 To Pace I-M Softball

The boy's intramural softball season got into full swing during the week as sunny weather enabled the teams to catch up on their schedule. Chairman Sonny Kaylor re-scheduled the rainouts in the afternoon so that, along with the regularly scheduled games in the evening, many teams were kept busy with double headers.

Through Tuesday's games the standings show the Covites and Wibbers fighting for the top rung with eight or ten well-balanced teams fighting for the other first division berths.

Three Health Students Present In Spirit Only

Three well-known personalities were present in spirit, if not in body, in a recent men's hygiene class.

Having misplaced his attendance sheet, Prof. "Mike" Snider circulated a piece of paper on which each of the boys was to sign his name. When the list was returned to the front of the room Prof. Snider promptly counted the number of names.

Finding there were 25 names on the list, he went on to count the number of fellows present—just checking. As he had guessed, there was a difference— three more names on the list than were sitting before him. So he checked the list for names.

After carefully scrutinizing the names, he announced, "I don't believe that Nick Roth, Joe Stalin and Franklin Roosevelt are actually in class today!"

Hinduism's Essential Doctrines

To summarize, Swami Nikhilananda offered the following essential doctrines of Hinduism. (1.) The essential divinty of the human soul, due to the spark of God in each one and providing a basis for brotherhood. (2.) The unity of all existence; all men are in reality one as they share in the nature of God. (3.) The nonduality of God (ultimate reality). "God is one, sages call Him by many names". (4.) The harmony of all religions; all are as the spokes on a wheel, nearing each other as they approach the common Hub we call God. Hence there is no basis for the ugly fact that "we hate each other for the love of God." These are the tenets fo this ancient yet ever-new religion; may I humbly suggest that we think on these things.

Masque Ride Starts At Sunderland Farm

Klare Sunderland is in charge of the Masque hay ride which will start at his farm in Newton Hamilton tomorrow evening.

A bus will transport the Masquers from the campus to the farm where they will board a hay wagon. The group will stop at Licking Creek where refreshments will be served. In charge of serving them will be Jane ellenberger, chairman; Sandy Ewing, and Barbara Maurer.

Hess To Be Instructor At JC Summer School

Two announcements concerning the coming Summer Season have been made by Dean Mays, one having to do with an instructor appointment and the other with the addition of a course.

Mr. Elvin E. Hess, member of the faculty of Huntingdon High School for 29 years will teach the course in Mathematical Analysis during both halves of the term. Mr. Hess is a graduate of Juniata College in the class of 1926 and received his master's degree in mathematics from the University of Pittsburgh in 1934. He taught in the Summer Session of 1940.

Miss Doyle will offer Fundamentals of Speech in the second half of the Summer Term beginning on July 25.

Play Producers Plan Free Entertainment

On the evenings of May 18 and 19 members of the play production class, under the direction of Mis Doyle, will present four productions on the Oller Hall stage.

On one evening two comedies will be presented arena style; that is, the audience will sit on stage to observe the performances. Two tragedies will be presented on the alternate night. Admission is free.

Kyler Band Set For May Dance

With decorations in keeping with the theme "Old South", the formal dance of the year, the Junior-Senior Reception, will be held May 14, at 8:15 o'clock in the Memorial Gym. Music will be provided by Buddy Kyler's Orchestra.

Refreshments will be served following the entertainment provided by members of the junior class.

Clarke Prof Demands First Aid Then Blood

(ACP)—Students at a freshman speech class in Clarke College here did a double take and then shuddered when their instructor blandly announced:

"Today we'll have first aid and then blood."

According to the college paper, The Courier, the instructor noted the looks of utter confusion in his class, hastily explained he meant the first speaker would be Nan Aid, followed by Shirley Blood.

an afternoon concert in the Presbyterian Church there. Sunday evening at 8 P. M. they will give their last public concert of the season in the Abbey Evangelical and Reformed Church in Huntingdon.

The evening sacred concert in the Abbey Church will be a union service for all of the cooperating congregations of the community.

The cantata, Our Glorious King by Camil Van Hulse, will be presented by the choir in the Commencement concert Sunday evening, June 5. The modern cantata, based on the story of Christ's assension has been included in all of the sacred concerts in the 36-program season.

Nothing But Mix-Ups Face Sidney G. Johns

(ACP) A University of Miami coed with a mixed up name is Sidney Gene Johns, who not only received a draft notice, but has been bombarded with literature urging her to join the Marines, the National Guard and Navy.

When she graduated from high school she ignored the deluge of folders from various men's colleges, came to Miami U. instead and found herself assigned to the men's dorm. Then she received an invitation to an intra-fraternity council smoker and another frat rush party.

Harassed Miss Johns was named after a male friend of the family, she reports.

Bedient, Padgett Plan Grad Work; Lockwood, Pena Resign Positions

According to an announcement from President Ellis, two members of the Juniata faculty, Prof. Phillip E. Bedient and Jack F. Padgett, will return to graduate schools next September to continue work on advance degrees, and two other professors, Dr. Theodore Lockwood and Fernando E. Perez Pena, have announced their resignation from the faculty.

Prof Bedient, assistant professor of mathematics who joined the faculty in 1950, has been granted a leave of absence to return to the graduate school of the University of Michigan where he will complete his work in the department of mathematics.

The College's instructor in Biblical Studies, Jack F. Padgett, will leave his position after two years here to resume his studies in the graduate school of Boston University in the department of philosophy.

Dr. Lockwood, assistant professor of history, joined the Juniata faculty in 1953. He has accepted an appointment as assistant professor of history in the department of humanities at Massachusettes Institute of Technology.

Mr. Perez came to Juniata as instructor in modern languages in 1954.

Mays Writes Article In Education Journal

An article by Dean Morley Mays will appear in the forthcoming issue of the Journal of Higher Education, one of the leading educational periodicals in the country and published at Ohio State University.

Dean May's article is entitled "Testing: Boon or Scandal?" and is adapted from a paper which he presented at the Faculty Conference last September. It deals with prevailing assumptions in testing which Dean Mays argues need revision.

This article is Dean Mays' second publication in the last year. The June 2, 1954 issue of the Christian Century contained a review by him of Paul Tillich's book, "Love, Power, and Justice."

Eight Seniors Attain Distinction In Comps

Out of 86 seniors who took comprehensive examinations eight passed with distinction.

Receiving distinction in Division I were Joy Rinehart, English; Lila Lee Englehart, French; and Barbara Grim, music education.

In Division II, James Boulton, Robert Godshall, and Arthur Shriver, all in economics and business administration, received distinction.

Thomas R. Meloy, biology, and John H. Martin, physics, passed their Division III comprehensives with distinction.

Marie Jaegar Performs On Oller Hall Keyboard

by Jackie Hayes

Last night Miss Marie Jaeger presented a magnificent piano recital in Oller Hall. The program was well balanced, beginning with the "Italian Concerto" by J. S. Bach, followed by the "Carnaval" by Robert Schumann. The final selection was "Feux d'artifice," a composition by Debussy.

Miss Jaegar obviously has an excellent conception of the music of the great Bach. The sparkling allegro movement was very nicely followed by the andante section in which the change in mood was well interpreted. The third movement, presto giojoso, was a return to precision playing coupled with a joyous air. The whole composition displayed the perfect control which Bach demands.

Carnaval Interesting

Schumann's "Carnaval" is a very interesting number. In it he included everything from "soup to nuts," the latter perhaps being portrayed by the sections, "Chopin" and "Paganini." The work is really a well integrated collection of some twenty numbers, each of which is a composition in its own right. The music ranged from light amusing airs to more heavy and profound selections.

The performance of the "Carnaval" displayed beautiful technique and expressive interpretation. Miss Jaeger definitely made Schumann's "Chopin" sound like Chopin! The finale of the work, "March of David against the Philistines," was done with remarkable strength of hand and needless to say, the audience well appreciated the composition.

Fireworks

The final selection on the program was brilliantly performed. It literally came alive with all the sparkling arpeggios which only Debussy can write so well. The number was truely "Fireworks," for jumping flames could easily be imagined. Miss Jaeger again in this composition proved her competence as a fine pianist of several styles and composers.

The audience was most impressed by the gracious stage manners which Miss Jaeger presented. She was indeed a pleasing performer to watch and hear. Her excellent display of pianistic ability was well followed and enjoyed by those who took advantage of the opportunity to attend a recital for good music.

Gearhart, Hayes Plan Voice - Piano Recital

Judy Gearhart and Jackie Hayes will present a joint voice and piano recital in Swigart Hall at 2:00 Sunday afternoon.

Miss Gearhart, a sophomore music major from Philadelphia, will perform the Schumann song cycle, Frauen Lieben Und Leben. Mary Louise Lehman will accompany her.

Miss Hayes, also a sophomore music major from Ebensburg, will play a program including piano selections by Bach, Mozart, Schumann, Prokofiev, and Liszt.

Southern Serenade Set As May Dance Theme

Gliding across the lawn of a southern mansion to the strains of Buddy Kyler's Orchestra is now foremost in every Juniata students mind as the annual Junior-Senior Reception draws near. The formal will begin Saturday evening at 8:15 P. M. and continue until 11:30 o'clock.

During the course of the evening, entertainment will be provided by the Junior class with Klare Sunderland as master of ceremonies. Included in the entertainment will be a group of southern songs by a girls trio, a dramatic reading by Mary Jane Hershberger and Bonnie Brumbaugh, acompanied by Ernie Lashlee, will do a musical number.

Following the entertainment, refreshments will be served, which will then be followed by a special dance for Queen Doris and Prince Jim.

Dean and Mrs. Penny, and Professor and Mrs. Bedient will be chaperones. The committee for the reception includes: Ann Yesko, Harry Garber, Maggie Sims, Klare Sunderland, Jane Ellenberger, Mary Jane Bridenbaugh, and Bill Collins.

Schedule Shows Minor Revisions

The schedule of classes for the Fall Term shows that a change has been made in the home economics and physics departments.

The Academic Policy Committee has given the home ec department permission to consolidate Home Ec 17, Clothing Selection, (2) and Home Ec 20, Fundamentals of Clothing (2) to make one three-credit course now listed as Home Ec 20, Basic Clothing (se catalog for description).

The course formerly known as Mechanics, Physics 9, has been expanded into a full year course, and the first half, Statics, will be given in the Fall. This course will give special attention to the needs of pre-engineering students.

Contemporary Literature, English 33, is also included on the Fall Term schedule of classes. Usually offered as a summer school course, it is being offered next Fall on sufficient demand.

Surrounding the Queen, who will be attired in white, her Prince, wearing a white dinner jacket, and maid of honor, Jean Baker, gowned in pink, will be the royal attendants. Lucille Eshelman and Joy Rinehart, wearing gray gowns; Nancy Freed and Sylvia Peterson, in gowns of powder blue; Shirley McNitt and Joy Wenger, attired in yellow; and Marlene Sterner and Ruth Perestam, wearing aqua, comprise the Queen's Court. All the attendants will carry parasols covered with real flowers.

Band Concert

Preceding the coronation ceremonies, the College band will present a concert at 1:30. They will play Connecticut March, Espana Cana, Stardust, Melodic Caravan, and On The Square.

At 2:00 the royal belles will process through the arbor and to the court mansion, constructed in front of Oller Hall. The attendants will be seated on benches on either side of the throne.

After the coronation the court entertainment will be given in honor of her majesty. Included on the entertainer's program, to be m. c.'d by Bob Hamm, are a men's quartet, doing southern selections; a modern dance to Jackie Gleason's Tawny, by ten freshman girls; a Dixieland jazz band; the traditional May Pole dance, featuring sixteen frosh coeds; Ron Dilling, singing Ole Man River; and Ann Willson doing a Mammy Dance.

Tennis, Lawn Party

Following the entertainment, the crowd may migrate to either the tennis match with Carnegie Tech, which will be in progress throughout the afternoon, or the Lawn Party, to be held in the

Dorms To Be Open To Receive Visitors

Open house, at which time guests will be allowed to tour the College residence halls, has been scheduled to begin at 10:00 A. M. and last until 12:00 A. M. in the morning and to continue from 3:00 until 5:00 in the afternoon, according to Doreen Fyock and Bernie Oriss, chairmen of women's and men's house.

Students are reminded to have their rooms in a clean and orderly condition.

From The Editor's Notes-

Tomorrow is May Day! That in itself is nothing new but May Day also means a day free of classes. It is not a vacation in student vernacular but a day set aside for every one in the college community to join in the celebrations of the day.

The college administration always hesitates to grant special reprieves from classes for occasions like this one tomorrow. They present the valid argument that it is used by many students as just another opportunity to leave campus. Statistics compiled on this day in past years and on similar special concession have borne out the argument.

Thus it is evident that if we expect to continue to receive consideration for our future requests we must remember the reasons they are granted.

Join with fellow students and outside guests tomorrow and celebrate the festivities of May Day. The real success of the activities depend upon the participation of all students.

The wearing of coats in the dining hall has been enforced during the past week. It seems a shame that actual checks have to be conducted at the entrances. At this stage of the game we could say 'we told you so but what is the use.'

Actually the only thing new about this action is that checks are being made and admission refused when male students are not properly attired. Certainly the standards have not been changed. Only the manner of enforcement.

When we came to JC there were a number of rules to which we were expected to prescrib—this is one of them. Flagrant violation during the past few weeks led to the ultimatum.

Intercollegiate Chatter

(ACP)—Spring (and April Fool) in all its glory was duly noted in the collegiate press of the nation during the recent weeks. In a thousand campus newspapers were a thousand editorials or columns dedicated to the arrival or postponment of the balmy season, while April Fool editions kept ACP editors in a cold sweat trying to distinguish the ridicule from the sublime.

Spring headlines featured elections, campus queens, proms and the inevitable "ugliest man on the campus," while the April Fool edition came in all conceivable shapes and forms: upside down, inside out and completely loaded with the most bizarre examples of writing this side of the Kremlin publicity bureau.

The Colorado School of Mine's Oredigger came up with the discovery of the world's most perfect Texan—he owns a herd of 100,000 cows that give oil. Long Island University's Seawanhaka announced the Suicide Club would meet for the last time today on the roof.

And the Iowa State Daily tells the story of the student who made a "fake" keg of dynamite, took it into a nearly filled lecture room, lit the fuse and rushed out the door as part of his April Fool endeavor. A few seconds later there was a tremendous explosion. "I failed," said the student sadly, "nobody was fooled at all. I guess I should have left out the powder."

Spring shenanigans, on the other hand, were in full bloom again this year. At Hillsdale College a pretty miss was named Miss Blood Drop of 1955 for her assistance with the recent over-the-top blood drive, and a new chain letter began to hit the campuses from coast to coast. Aimed at making student who might be tired of their wives, the letter suggests they bundle up their wives, ship them to each name on top of the letters they receive: then when their names come to the top they may receive 8,750 women. "Have faith," says the letter, "and don't break the chain. One man did and got his own wife back."

Young men's fancies were also turned to other accomplishments, such as the hugh sign someone erected over the Student Union at South Dakota State College, reading "We Buy Hogs Every Day," or the major feat of re-parking about 15 cars on the campus of Dana College at Blair, Neb.

According to the Hermes, student paper of Dana College, about 40 "parking specialists" on the campus heeded a plea for students to leave plenty of parking space for visitors coming to a Church School Workers Institute. In a midnight effort the crew moved about 15 cars up on the sidewalk in front of the Pioneer Memorial building. One car was wedged up against the front door, another on the first landing of the steps, and the rest from the door down along the walk to the street. They even removed the tires from the last car, which had to be repaired before the other 14 could be moved, said the Hermes.

Ah, Spring!

MASTERWORKS OF THE ORCHESTRAL REPERTOIRE, by Donald N. Ferguson. This guide for listeners analyzes and interprets the leading symphonies, overtures and concertos from the standard orchestral repertoire. The glossary of musical terms and wealth of musical quotations heighten the reference value of this compainion for the concert goer or the record listener.

QUITE EARLY ONE MORNING by Dylan Thomas. Published together in book form for the first time, these autographical sketches, stories and critical essays were written during the last decade of the late British poet's life. They not only confirm the author's reputation as a magician with words, but also indicate that he might have become a masterful literary critic.

3 Considerations To Amendment

After last year's failure, the Bricker Amendment is again being pushed to the fore. Perhaps it is thought that the atmosphere created by the release of the Yalta Papers will help its ratification.

There are three major considerations in this would-be amendment. One is superflous, the other sound, but unacceptable as a part of the Constitution, and the third is completely unacceptable. The provision saying that no treaty would be in conflict with the Constitution is so much wasted verbiage because that is the situation at present. The one calling for a roll call vote on treaties is reasonable but there is no need to incorporate it into the Constitution for the Senate Rules Committee could effect the change.

It is the last provision, calling for special legislation by the Congress or state legislature to ratify a treaty, that is the most crucial and dangerous part of the Bricker proposal. This would undermine the necessary freedom needed by the administration to carry on effective negotiations. Also, it would make the delay between the signing of a treaty and its ratification disasterously long.

Foreign relations are a delicate affair that must be carried on by trained and experienced men free from the untoward pressures of domestic politics.

In a democracy, it is necessary that there be a representative body to consider a treaty. The Senate, with its impunity of six-year terms, is in the best position to give a treaty the cool and deliberate consideration that is needed.

To expose a treaty to the demagoguery and ward-like politics that the Bricker Amendment would bring forth would be international suicide. The intrinsic value of a treaty and its political expediency are not always co-equal.

It is true that mistakes are possible under the present system and Yalta may be cited as a somewhat valid example. But the obvious deficiencies of the Bricker Amendment leave no doubt as to which system should be allowed to continue.

Finding ourselves one inch short of copy at deadline time, we racked our brains trying to find something to go in this space. A one inch hole would not improve the Juniatian's appearance, we felt.

The above comments explain the purpose of this article and also fill the hole. Thank you.

Running The Gauntlet

Here is the third in our series of Major League predictions. This week Larry Confer is our prognastcator.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

1. Brooklyn ----
2. Milwaukee
3. New York
4. St. Louis
5. Cincinnati
6. Philadelphia
7. Chicago
8. Pittsburgh

Having the advantage of four weeks of baseball having already been played, I will say that the fast start by the Dodgers will carry them to the pennant, even though their present pace will fall off considerably. The Giants will recover somewhat from their early season slump to climb to the first division of the senior circuit. The Cards lack the pitching to really be a contender. Philadelphia's Whiz Kids will go through the season without showing much Whiz at all. The Pirates, despite their surprising early season form, will falter, and, after a tough fight will land in the league basement.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

1. Cleveland
2. New York
3. Chicago
4. Detroit
5. Boston
6. Washington
7. Baltimore
8. Kansas City

Both the Yankees and the Indians have improved over the winter trading season but Cleveland has the edge in the person of one Herb Score, rookie pitcher for the Indians. Chicago will stick in to make it a fairly interesting three team race. Far behind the White Sox will be the Tigers and the Red Sox, fighting it out for the remaining first division berth. The Orials and the newly located but still hapless Kansas City A's will have a real ball battling it out for the cellar. The strength? of the Baltimore pitching staff will more than overcome the somewhat limited power of the A's.

Tribe Track Team Drops Dual Meets to Lock Haven and Red Devils; Rocky Scores Heavily

Juniata's track team followed its 1955 script to the hilt losing dual meets to Dickinson and Lock Haven STC Saturday and Tuesday while Gene Rothenberger continued to put on sparkling individual performances.

Against Lock Haven Rocky captured four firsts, in the 100 yard dash, 220 low hurdles, 120 high hurdles and the broad jump. Al Nyce also did his usual winning work in the field with two firsts and a second.

It was the third dual meet loss this year for the Indian thinclads. The figures for the LHST meet are:

Mile; Sweitzer (L), Brinton (J), Layman (J) 4:45.2

440, Long (L) Davis (J), Hughes (L) 54

100; Rothenberger (J), Ickes (L), Tarquinio (J) 10.6

120 HH; Rothenberger (J), Grimm (L), Shavo (L) 16.5

Javelin; Hanson (L), Nyce (J), Pizzaro (L) 156'4" Broad Jump; Rothenberger (J), Bitting (L), Kimble (J) 21'6"

Dickinson Victorious

Saturday the squad again failed to back up eight first places with sufficient seconds and thirds and was dumped by Dickinson 70.56.

Rothenberger again rolled up a high individual total with 18 points, with Nyce again backing him up with 13.

JC was beaten by only 37-35 in the track events but no one backed up Nyce in the field as the Red Devils scored a 35-19 gap.

The figures for the Dickinson meet:

120 HH Rothenberger (J), Moffet (J), Goldstein (D) 16.8

Mile; Brinton (J), Layman (J), Barrick (D) 4:46.4

Rothenberger Defends Middle Atlantic Record Today at Easton Meet

Gene Rothenberger will be one of Juniata's four representatives at the Middle Atlantic Track Championships at Easton today and tomorrow as he defends his broad jump crown.

Rocky set the record last year with a leap of 22'2¼".

In addition to the broad jump Rothenberger will enter the 220 low hurdles.

The other three JC participants will be Al Nyce in the shot put and discus, Pat Tarquinio in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, and Herbie Layman in the two mile.

Tribe Hitters Win 19 - 0; Drexler Belts 3 Homers

Juniata's baseball team put on its slugging shoes and came through with two hard-hitting victories, manhandling Lycoming 19-0 Wednesday, and edging Pitt 8-7 last Saturday on a last inning single.

3 Home Runs

Barry Drexler provided what was probably the most powerful hitting display in JC history as he belted three consecutive home runs, the last with the bases loaded, against the Warriors at Williamsport. Jack Golden and Lefty Alderfer also contributed circuit socks.

Jake Handzelek coasted in with a six hit shutout on the mound, racking up seven strike outs enroute. Bob Cioffi, Lyco third baseman, got four of the six hits.

Leading the 17 hit attack besides Drex's three for five and six rbi's, were Golden with three for five, Douds with three for four, and Alderfer's two for two.

The Tribe packed most of its scoring into the early innings, scoring five in the first and four in the third to drive Warrior starter Stu West from the mound. Diehl followed but was the victim of Drexler's grand slam in the fifth as part of a six run rally.

Pitt

Bud Douds singled home Don Pheasant in the last half of the ninth to gain an 8-7 victory against Pitt Saturday. Pheas led off the inning with a walk and was sacrificed to second by Joe Hinnish.

It was a see-saw battle from the start with the outcome in doubt until the final out. Lefty Ferrill Alderfer went the route for Juniata for his fourth triumph against one defeat. Three Pitt hurlers, Don Miller, Bob Barrickman, and Al Payne saw mound duty for the losing Panthers, who suffered their ninth defeat in 14 starts. It was the Indians' sixth triumph in nine starts.

Milt Emery led the Pitt nine at bat with four for five and two rbi's while Bernie Oriss led the Indians with two for five with two rbi's. Hinnish had the long hit for the Tribe with a triple in the seventh which brought in Pheasant and put Juniata temporarily in the lead. John Jacobs hit a two run homer in the third for Pitt's longest hit of the afternoon.

Today the team carries its 7-3 record to Lewisburg to face Bucknell, and will travel to Shippensburg for a battle with the Teachers.

Tennismen Break Even Top Albright 7 - 2 and Fall Under Pitt 5 - 4

Juniata's tennis team went over the .500 mark again Monday as they defeated Albright 7-2 in an often postponed match.

Dan Raffensperger and Chuck Gross dropped their single matches for the only Albright scores, but teamed up to win one of the doubles. Two points were rung up by default as the visitors were short in personnel.

The team bowed to Pitt Saturday by a close 5-4 score. The loss was the Indian's second in four matches.

Singles victories were posted by Phil Lankford and Chuck Gross, while doubles honors went to Lankford and Dick Fusco, and Don Ruhl and Gross. Lankford won his singles match in straight sets, 7-5 and 6-2.

Singles

Phil Lankford (J), defeated Pat Hughes (P), 7-5,6-2

John DeCaux (P) refeated Dan Raffensperger (J), 4-6, 8-10

Herb Thompson (P) defeated Dick Fusco (J), 3-6, 2-6

Chuck Gross (J) defeated Art Derabasse (P), 6-2, 4-6, 6-4

Jerry Davis (P) defeated Paul Wingert (J), 2-6, 6-1, 3-6

Neal Zweig (P) defeated Don Ruhl (J), 3-6, 6-4, 1-6

Doubles

Lankford and Fusco (J) defeated Hughes and DeCraux (P), 3-6, 6-2, 6-2

Thompson & Derabasse (P) defeated Raffensperger and Wingert (J), 6-3, 3-6, 2-6

Ruhl and Gross defeated Davis and Zewing, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4

Tomorrow the team faces a tough May Day match with Carnegie Tech.

Lehigh Wins Middle Atlantic Golf Honors; Juniata Finishes 7th

Lehigh University, paced by sophomore Leslie Norbury, captured the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference golf championship at the American Legion Country Club, at Mt. Union on Saturday.

The Engineers dethroned Juniata College, 1954 champions, as they finished 18 strokes ahead of second place Haverford. Lehigh's total for the 36 holes was 635. Following Haverford in the standings was Bucknell in third place, followed by Hofstra, Drexel, Franklin and Marshall, and Juniata.

Juniata, the defending champion, finished in seventh place, one stroke out of sixth and 51 out of first. It marked the first time in six years of the tournament that the Indians did not finish in first or second place. The 1954 champs played without the services of regulars Bill West, Barry Montgomery, and Keith Birmingham.

Norbury Medalist

Lehigh's Leslie Norbury captured the medalist honors for the day with a 153 score over the 36 holes. He came in low man on the first 18 with a one-over-par 75 and fired a four over 78 in the afternoon round.

The Juniata foursome and their scores: Ted Grothe, 168; Dick Hite, 170; Larry Shepard, 171; and Jim Cain, 177.

This week the linkmen close out their regularly scheduled team matches for the year. Today they face John Hopkins at Baltimore and Monday they travel to Lewisburg for a match with Bucknell. Tomorrow the team will send representatives to Westminster, Maryland to take part in the Western Maryland Invitational Tournament.

1150 on the Dial... Dorms Get Better Reception

At last all campus dormitories are directly connected to the WJC studio, which operates on the carrier current system, and excellent reception of the stations programs has been reported in most instances.

During the past weekend IBC technicians Maurice Henry and Joe Chidester installed the final link in this reception arrangement, a double line from the studio to the New Dorm power lines. About one week ago a direct line connected the girls' dormitories with the studio; the Cloister has received a direct signal ever since WJC officially opened in September.

Until the New Dorm received this improvement in obtaining the signal, a reception was practically a freak in some halls. Former station technical engineer Gene Hyssong pointed out that the New Dorm always has been receiving IBC programs by carrier current. Its just that there was no direct line. Until this weekend the signal had to jump from one power line to the next, and when it finally arrived at New Dorm radios, it was too weak to receive.

System Explained

Carrier curent is a name applied to a system of broadcasting in which the signal is not radiated through the air, as in the case of commercial stations, but rather along a wire, usually a wire carrying electricity. This of course is much more convenient.

About 150 colleges and universities in the United States employ this system, and its popularity is increasing steadily. Many college stations broadcast at a frequency below 700 killicycles because in such a case the Federal Communication Commissions permits more radiation through the air than would be allowed at a higher frequency. WJC's 1150 frequency cuts down air radiation permitted. However, station technicians feel that a radiation of much distance is practically unnecessary to serve our campus since carrier current lines are in use.

Present station technical engineer Les Querry commented that he felt that the completion of direct carrier current lines is a major step in the progress of the station.

25 Choristers Sing Wednesday

This Wednesday in chapel approximately 25 members of the Chapel Choir will perform for JC students under the baton of Miss Pfotenhauer.

Featured soloists during the program will be Bruce Dickey and Phil Lankford, whose voices will be backed up by the choir. Shirley McNitt will accompany the group at the piano.

Miss Pfotenhauer pointed out that the music the choir will use will be selected from various periods, ranging from di Lasso's Though Deep Has Been My Falling, a 16th century work, to the modern composer, Luvaas' Living Harvest. Featured in the latter will be the men of the choir.

Also on the program will be Elgar's As Torrents in Summer, a favorite of the choir which is based on one of Longfellow's poems; Be Still and Know That I Am God, by Bitgood, who took the words from the Psalms; For All Who Watch, by Dickinson, and Sine Nomine, by Williams.

Play Production Class In Oller Hall May 18, 19

On May 18th and 19th the Play Production class of Juniata College will present excerpts from four popular plays on the stage of Oller Hall.

On Wednesday evening the class will present two comedies. They will be played with the audience on stage in the now popular arena style. Those attending this performance are asked to enter by the side door near the parking lot and find seats on the stage. On this evening Maggie Sims and Alice Jean Hoffman will present their productions. Stage managers for these plays are Dorothy Fogle and Ronald Fink.

Thursday evening brings plays of two types—fantasy and tragedy. These will be presented in the regular style, and the audience will be seated in the auditorium part of the hall. Directors for these plays are Elaine Aiken and Richard Livingston, while stage managers are Ann Yesko and Bruce Bennett. Lona Beebes, another member of the class will appear in two of the plays.

The class extends an invitation to the student body to attend either or both performances; townsfolk living in the area are invited also.

German Club Outing Will Be Held Sunday

Sunday, May 15, is the day that has been set for the German Club outing, which will in all probability be held at Greenwood Furnace.

Featured during the day will be a German play, games, and entertainment. Sauerkraut and wieners will be among the food to be served to an anticipated 40 participants.

Norma Hottle is in charge of arrangements. Mr. Dolnikowski is the sponsor of the group.

Time's Survey Shows Big Student Market

Time magazine's research department says U. S. Colleges are the nation's fastest growing consumer market for apparel. They say college students spent a total of $626 million for apparel last year, or "232 for each of 2.7 million students.

Freshmen are especially good customers for furnishings for their rooms, sports equipment and study materials. Last year they spent $58 million on such items and an additional $179 million on new wardrobes with which to start their college careers.

Debate Club Orators Discuss Recent Issue

Last evening four members of the JC Debate Club debated on an issue which has possibilities of becoming the national question for collegiate debate clubs next year.

Pros and cons of the guaranteed annual wage as proposed by United Auto Workers were discussed by Dave Amidon, Clint Betz, Dick Backus, and George Carnahan.

Wednesday evening, May 4, the entire club traveled to Penn State where its members participated in an unjudged series of debates on the question of recognition of Communist China by the United States.

their forms. Those completing their second year at Juniata will fill in a form Tenative Choice Of Department Of Concentration. The card calls for student's name, department and division in which he expects to take comprehensive examinations, and the name of the department chairman.

Draft Forms Necessary

Non-veteran men must obtain three (3) copies of Selective Service Form 109 at the entrance desk at registration. Students required to fill out this form should complete items 1-6 only. All copies must be returned to the check desk.

After obtaining the forms and the work sheet, students should proceed to their advisers located in various classrooms in Students Hall. When the forms are completed they will be checked and collected at the check desk.

Registration is not completely official until clearance by the Office of the Treasurer. Registration forms will be available in that office at the opening of the Fall Term.

Rubber Co. Gives Moore Handbook

Each year the Chemical Rubber Company of Cleveland, Ohio, presents the Chemistry Achievement Award to the freshman student who has made the greatest advancement in chemistry. This year Robert Moore of Aitch has been chosen by the chemistry department to receive this award which is a book of standard chemistry tables.

Juniatians To Receive Alfarata Before Finals

Juniatians are looking forward to the day when they will receive the 1955 Alfarata. As of yet the exact date of distribution has not yet been disclosed. However, the editor, Sue Jamison, feels that the day of release will be soon. The Alfarata, therefore can be expected sometime before finals begin.

area between Students' Hall and the Women's Gym from 2:30 to 3:30.

The old fashioned lawn party, sponsored and planned by the clubs and organizations on campus, will also be in a garden atmosphere, complete with lawn furniture, arbors, stone walls, and apropos music, such as Showboat selections and Negro spirituals, played by WJC through an amplifying system.

Lawn bowling, sponsored by the outing club; quoits, by the chemistry club; and croquette and horseshoes by the WAA, will be at the disposal of the guests. In addition the camera club and the art club have combined to set up a polaroid picture taking booth, at which visitors will be able to have souvenir photos of their heads, and the bodies of a southern lady and gentleman dressed in colonial costumes, at a cost of 25¢ per photo.

Lemonade, Too

The lamba gamma girls will be on hand to circulate through the guests serving lemonade. The masque and the FTA are in charge of the fence, the arbors, and the stone walls, while the pyrenees, German and scalpel and probe clubs are taking care of the lawn furniture.

This is the first time the clubs have combined to produce the after-coronation May Day entertainment. In all, thirteen clubs are participating in the project.

Closing the 1955 May Day will be A Southern Serenade, that is the Junior-Senior Reception, to be held in the Memorial Gymnasium. Dancing to the strains of Buddy Kyler and his orchestra, will last from 8:15 - 11:30.

Rain Would Spoil All

In the event of rain, the band concert and the coronation will be held in the new gym, and the lawn party in the Women's Gym.

Nan Heller is general chairman of May Day, while Miss Barbara Cochran is serving as the faculty advisor.

Jean Baker Will Sing, Allegra Forney To Play For Joint Music Recital

A senior voice and piano recital will be presented by Jean Baker and Allegra Forney, tonight in Oller Hall at 8:15 P. M.

Miss Baker will sing three groups of songs. Her first selection will be from the Mozart motet, Exsultate, jubilate. In her second group will be the aria Voi lo Sapete from Cavalleria Rusticana by Mascagni, and the aria Papers from Gian Carlo Menotti's opera, The Consul. The final group will consist of a collection of Chinese Mother Goose Ryhmes by Crist, Brother Will, Brother John, by Sacco, and White Horses of the Sea by Warren.

Miss Forney will accompany Miss Baker. She will also play two groups of numbers. In her first group will be Preludio and Fughetta by Bach, and the Allegro from Sonata No. 1 in F by Mozart. The Little White Mule by Ibert and Gitanerias by Lecuona will conclude her program.

Miss Baker is a resident of Waterside, Pa., while Miss Forney is from Martinsburg. Both girls are senior music education majors.

Pictured above are Allegra Forney, pianist, and Jean Baker, vocalist. The two girls will present their senior music recital tonight in Oller Hall at 8:15.

Rubber Co. Presents Books To 2 Students

The Chemical Rubber Publishing Company will present two awards to Juniata students. Dale Baugher, a freshman from York, will receive the Mathematics Achievement Award and Lee Byers, a sophomore from Hagerstown, Maryland, will be presented the Physics Achievement Award.

Byers' award is the 36th edition, latest one published, of the Handbook of Chemistry and Physics. Baugher's award consists of the mathematical tables of this handbook.

Each year the publishing company presents a handbook to a first year student in the departments of Chemistry, Mathematics and Physics. The recipients are chosen by the individual professors.

The Chemistry Award was presented last week to Robert Moore.

LIBRARY NOTE

All library books and pictures will be due on Wednesday, May 25.

Andrew Makes News Kilgallen Notes Sales

A former Juniata student has made news in the New York papers. In her Voice of Broadway column, Dorothy Kilgallen reports that juke box operators have ordered 40,000 copies of Andy Sheppard's Cadillac record, "I'm Crying Alone."

Spencer Depicts New Inkle Loom

Miss Edith L. Spencer, former dean of women at Juniata College, has written an article which appeared in the spring issue of the magazine Handweaver and Craftsman.

The article, entitled A New Functional Inkle Loom describes a new model of the Inkle Loom which Miss Spencer and a patient at the Pilgrim State Hospital developed, and which will correct the disadvantages of the older type loom. It can be used in therapeutics for developing muscle tone.

Miss Spencer is instructor in occupational therapy at the Pilgrim State Hospital, Brentwood, Long Island. N. Y. She is a member of the New York Weavers Guild.

The magazine, Handweaver and Craftsman, has a circulation of approximately 8000, and is published quarterly. This issue is the fifth anniversary issue.

Men's Dorm Dedication Will Take Place June 4

Dedication of the new residence hall for men at Juniata College has been scheduled for 11 A. M., Saturday, June 4, on the patio in front of the new building. This will be a highlight of the College's Alumni Day activities.

The dedicatory address will be given by Albert M. Cole, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, Washington, D. C. Mr. Cole will be presented in an introductory message from Congressman Richard M. Simpson.

Certificates of appreciation will be presented by Henry B. Gibbel, chairman of the Board of Trustees, to J. Alfred Hamme, architect, and John C. Yenter, contractor. In addition, President Calvert N. Ellis will acknowledge the efforts of those who aided in financing and construting the building.

JC "Joke Box" Plays Melody Grade Parade

by Nan Heller

Have you ever noticed how the trend of songs on the hit parade seems to be a little different at final time? "Birth of the Blues" is a lot more frequent, as is "Cry". Well we were reminiscing the other day about some of the old exam hits and here's one we all liked a few tests back: Jo Stafford had a neat disc of this one.

Finals are a'comin', No dancin' tonight.
Final are a'comin', Oh miserable plight!
Then we can hurry hurry hurry home
Then we can hurry hurry hurry home
Finals are a'comin', Hope you do all right.

Also we recalled that old standart:

They asked me if I knew
Was it false or true?
I couldn't have replied,
I just could have died
Or hung my head and cri-i-ed.

But this year there's a new number on the grade parade and here are the words to which we luckily (?) got the copyright.

Slip me a hint from across the room,
Say if I'm right or I'm not.
That's the only way that I'll get an A.
And those little things mean a lot.

Administration Lists Regulations For Examination Room Etiquette

The existing procedure for final examinations consist of the following rules:

1.—Students are expected to remain in the examination room until they are finished with the examination and have submitted their blue books to the proctor.

2.—No student may leave an examination room unless he is ill and explains to the proctor in charge. A student who is forced to leave because of illness will submit his examination book to the proctor who will make a notation of the illness.

3.—Students taking the same examination should be distributed throughout the examination room.

4.—Chairs in the examination room should be kept in proper alignment and position. There should be at least one chair space between desks.

5.—Notebooks, textbooks, and other materials obviously not necessary to writing an examination must not be taken into the examination room.

6.—Only one examination booklet is to be given each student at the beginning of the examination. Additional books may be acquired later.

These regulations are set forth "in justice to those who desire honestly to do their best". The administration further emphasizes the importance of all students "avoiding all acts that might raise suspicion of dishonest intention."

Clarence Cranford Will Speak At Commencement Exercises

Dr. Clarence W. Cranford, pastor of the Cavalry Baptist Church in Washington, D. C., has been announced as the speaker for commencement on June 8.

The speaker has been and continues to be active in youth work. Born in Sharpsville, Pa., June 19, 1906, he graduated from Bucknell in 1929 with an A.B., from Crozer Seminary in 1932 with a B.D., and received an honorary D.D. from Bucknell in 1942. The first position held by Dr. Cranford was that of director of youth in the Baptist Temple in Philadelphia from 1930 to 1932.

In 1932 he became pastor of the Logan Baptist Church in Philadelphia; in 1938 he went to the Second Baptist Church in Richmond, Virginia; and in 1942 he came to his present charge, Calvary Baptist Church. Dr. Cranford's church has the largest Sunday School in the District of Columbia, and two morning services are required to accomodate the crowds. To aid working mothers, the church sponsors a day nursery, and carries on a Christian Center for young people.

Author

Currently, Dr. Cranford writes for "Missions", "Altar Fires", "Open Windows", and "International Sunday School Lessons." He is the author of "Seekers of Life" and "Devotional Life of Young People". Along with his church duties, the speaker is a member of the Board of Trustees of Crozer Seminary and Bucknell, and chairman of the board of Storer College, and is past president of the Washington Federation of Churches.

Dr. Cranford is married and has two children.

JC Senate Delegates Danny Raffensperger To Lead JWSF Drive

The Senate has appointed Dan Raffensperger, a junior English major from Elizabethtown, to be chairman of the 1955-56 JWSF Drive.

Raffensperger, who was affiliated with the drive last year, has also been a member of the tennis team for three years, a member and former president of the band, and in the J Club. He also sang in the chapel choir and played in the orchestra for two years. The new JWSF Chairman was Chairman of Religious Activities last year.

Also approved by the Senate was the Athletic Committee, as submitted by Sonny Kaylor, chairman. Those comprising the committee include Dwight Good, Barry Drexler, Bill Haushalter, John Criswell, John Staley, Walt Vanderbush, Val Means, Larry Confer, Dan Raffensperger, and Don Pheasant.

Tonight the new and old Senate members will attend an outing at the Rockwells' home. The Senate picnic is an anual affair, sponsored by the Senate advisors, Dr. Crosby, Dean Dove, and Dean Penney, in cooperation with Dr. Rockwell.

'55 Grad Takes Over Physics For Summer

Professor Paul R. Yoder, head of the Physics department, has accepted an assignment to teach the summer session at LaVerne College in California.

Prof Yoder will be teaching a course in Physical Science from June 20 to July 29. In his absence, John Martin, will take over the Physics course at Juniata's summer session.

Martin will graduate from Juniata June 6 with a degree in Physics. He attained ditinction in his field.

One other change has been made in the summer schedule. Elementary school music will be offered the second half instead of the first.

Committee Approves Beard Business Mgr.

The Publications Committee has announced the approval of George Beard as business manager of the Juniatian for the year 1955-56.

Beard, who will take over the position vacated by senior Bill Dilling, is a sophomore business administration major from Clearfield. In addition to his Juniatian activities, he is a member and secretary-treasurer of the Outing Club, a member of the track team, and participates in the Tycoon Club.

As business manager, Beard will be in charge of handling financial accounts, soliciting and supervising advertising, and managing circulation.

Alumni Weekend Includes Dorm Dedication, Sports

The 1955 Alumni Weekend will be held on Juniata's campus June 4-6. Saturday morning's program will get underway with registration in Founders Chapel followed by a tour to look over additions to the campus. The Alumni versus Varsity golf match will take place at the Huntingdon Country Club.

At 11 A. M. the Federal Housing Authority Administrator, Albert M. Cole and Congressman Richard Simpson will speak at the dedication of the new residence hall for men. Luncheon will take place at noon in the college dining hall. At this time the 1955 graduates will be inducted into the Alumni Association. Dr. Paul M. Robinson, '35, of Chicago, Ill., will be the speaker. He is president of Bethany Seminary.

Baseball At 2:00

The baseball game between the Alumni and Varsity will get under way at 2 P. M. on College Field. From 3:30 to 5 P. M. there will be the Friends of the Library tea with Mrs. Eve Garrette as speaker.

Paul Buck Enumerates Library Contributions

1. Since universities began, the library has been the heart of education from the time when professors had to read books to their students until today when scientists despite their laboratories, must continue to consult books. Every educational advance is dependent upon library resources.

2. The library remains the great conservator of learning as methods and fashions in education change from generation to generation. An investment in a library is a permanent investment, guaranteeing returns for centuries to come.

From The Editor's Notes-

The completion of any period such as the termination of this school year is an opportunity for reflection of the past and for formulating plans for future action.

How have we grown during this year? What have we achieved? What kind of memories do we have?

Whatever our answers may be, we can try to think of what might have been wiser action for us and then put everything under the column labeled 'experience'.

Unless evaluation is made, whether it be consciously or unconsciously, past occurences cannot be utilized for future improvement. We may be ignoring a ready source of counsel. Such a waste is folly.

Student Reveals Grievances For Comprehensive System

Once again comprehensive exams have come and gone leaving in their wake a haze of resentment and personal tragedy. Perhaps it is futile but I believe that it might be valuable to review the whole comprehensive system and see if it can be justified in the face of its negative aspects which are so apparent to us as students.

The formal conception of the educational process here at Juniata seems to find its basis in the "Essays on Education" by Alfred North Whitehead. Whitehead analyzed the experience of learning into three phases; the period of wonderment and interest stimulation, the period of industrious study of specifics, and finally, the period of generalization wherein the student synthesizes and generalizes the sum of his learning experience.

Those responsible for the organization of curriculum here at Juniata have sagaciously attempted to implement this conception of the learning process. The integration courses correspond to the first phase of wonderment in introduction. The sophomore, junior, and senior academic years correspond to the second phase. Comprehensive examinations are meant to implement the third phase—that of generalization and synthesization on the part of the student.

Thus we see that comprhensive examinations find their theoretical justification in a profound theory of education. But now let us examine comps at another level. Let us assume that their theorectical basis is sound and question them as implements of this theory. For that is what they are—simply a device, mechanical means to precipitate the third phase of learning.

How do they work? Their dynamics are based upon the stick and carrot approach to education. The possibility of distinction is meant to inspire and the possibility of failure to prod. However, here is where the comps break down. To make a student take more than a passing interest in this period of generalization the threat of failure must be real—so some have got to go. With them go their graduation and in many cases their job opportunities—a truly traumatic experience.

Our question then becomes, can comps be justified as a device in the face of the personal tragedy which they wreak or might some other device serve as well in bringing about this period of generalization in a more merciful manner?

I believe the latter is true. For instance, students could be presented with study questions to be worked out as a paper, perhaps even a year in advance of when they are due. These papers might be marked in consultation with the student as distinctive, or unacceptable. If the paper is accepted the student is free of obligation and may graduate. Otherwise, he must modify and represent it until it is finally accepted. Such a system would provide a constructive and valuable experience for all and might avoid the negative aspects of the present system.

But let us not restrict our argument to one alternative. Surely, the wise and progressive professors of Juniata College could propose an even more acceptable alternative. Surely, they are not bigoted to the extent that they think that comps are THE WAY to implement Whitehead's conception of the learning process. Perhaps, they might be willing to consider another alternative in the mundane interest of mercy.

Sincerely,
Russel A. Hill

LITTLE MAN ON THE CAMPUS By BIBLER

News Views

By JIMM MONTGOMERY

Chou-En-lai has renewed his proposal to have talks with the United States concerning tensions in the Formosan area. The offer first came at the end of the Afro-Asian conference. The United States answered this with a premature and unwise demand that Chiang be at any such talks. This amounted to a verbal refusal, but the State Department reversed its ground and agreed to negotiate without Chiang. Then began a series of obscure moves to have talks through a third party. After a few more hazy manuevers on our part, the U. S. allowed the issue to drop. The question has not even appeared in the newspapers for the last several weeks.

Now Chou renews his proposal, the United States is again on the diplomatic defensive and Chou's charges that we have been evasive and equivocal appear valid. In the face of wide-spread Asian enthusiasm concerning the prospect of negotiations, our bungling of this opportunity was a major diplomatic blunder.

However, such inept diplomacy is but another manifestation of our anomolous position in regards to Red China. There has been a civil war in China and one of its contestants has been driven to Formosa. We did not support Chiang until the Korean War when Formosa became a vital part of our island defences. So, we say that Chiang is the legal government of the mainland which is now in the complete control of Mao, but we won't let this legal government attempt to regain control of the mainland because we know that's too dangerous, but we won't recognize Mao who has control of the mainland, because that would be selling our immobilized ally, Chiang, down the river, so, we still say he's the legal government of China and in the meantime we haven't even achieved a modicum of communication with the most powerful nation in Asia. Confusing isn't it?

Here is the cause of our diplomatic paralysis. The only cure is that our diplomatic assertions be in accord with the realities of the political situation.

3. A quality education is impossible without a quality library. Teaching with textbooks means offering the student only a guide-book instead of the variation and depth of experience to be found in living books.

BEN-GURION OF ISREAL by Barnet Litvinoff. More concerned with Ben-Gurion's services to the country which he helped to found than with his personal life, this biography is in effect a detailed history of Zionism, and the efforts of Ben Gurion—his participation in the Jewish colonizing attempts of the early 1900's, his recruiting visit to the United States and army service with Britain, his zeal in working for the independence of Isreal, and his vital contributions to the government of the infant state.

GLADSTONE, a biography by Sir Philip Montefiore Magnus. From the first chapter to the last this biography catches the spirit of an eminent Victorian and his era. Unerringly the author pinpoints those incidents that emphasize Gladstone's romantic and sentimental side which went hand in hand with his rigid code, his passion for reform, and the humorless pomposity that so repelled the equally ironbound Victoria.

Covites Top Softball League; Staley Takes I-M Golf Tournament

The boys intramural program drew to a close this week with the completion of the softball league and the tennis and golf tournaments.

Golf

For the second consecutive year John Staley emerged the victor in the annual Juniata Golf Tournament, a division of the campus I-M program.

Staley fired a three over par 74 in the final match against John Corson at Mt. Union Country Club. Corson scored an 82.

Other participants in the tournament were Andy Ross, Harry Swope, Jim Stayer, Dan Replogle, Neil Beefelt, Bill Adams, Arnold Olt, and Howard Angstadt.

Tennis

The intramural tennis tournament is complete to the semi-finals and has shown some pretty fair court performances. Dick Lantzy will play the winner of the Arnold Olt-Dick Hite match with the survivor facing the winner of the Joe Hinish-Staley semi-final.

Softball

In softball the season was completed after the monsoons threatened to ruin the schedule. The Covites coasted in, losing only to the Wibbers. A playoff had been scheduled, but due to the necessity of playing off ties for second and third place the time element would have made it impossible.

Baseball Squad Breaks Even; Tops Shippensburg STC 7-2, But Loses to Bucknell 11-9

The Juniata College baseball team went on the road for two contests in the last week and split the pair of games. The Tribe fell at the hands of the Bucknell University Bisons 11-9 at Lewisburg last Friday, then bounced back to easily trim Shippensburg STC Wednesday by a score of 7-2.

Jake Handzelek hurled the Indians to an impressive victory over the Red Raiders at Shippensburg as he gave up only four hits, two of them of the infield variety. Jake did not walk a man and struck out eight.

There was no score in the game until the top of the fifth when the Tribe collected two runs off Shippensburg hurler Beam who went the distance. Lee Hallman led off the inning with a single and was sacrificed to second. He scored on Jack Golden's safety and Golden came home on Bob Sill's double.

Juniata picked up two more markers in the top of the sixth after Oriss led the inning off with a single, advanced to second on a sacrifice, and scored on Drexler's hit. Drexler scored when the Raider shortstop threw the ball away.

The Tribe continued the scoring with still another pair of runs in the seventh. Golden and Douds opened the frame with safties and scored on a sacrifice and error respectively.

Rally Stopped by DP

In the home half of the seventh, Shippensburg threatened as they collected two of their four hits but the rally was cut short by a double play.

The Indians added one more in the ninth when Golden hit safely, advanced to second on Sill's free pass and scored when the Shipper shortstop again threw the ball away.

The Raiders collected both of their runs in the bottom of the ninth as Golden committed two successive errors at first base but further trouble was avoided when the Indian infield executed a snappy double play.

The Indians garnered eleven hits for the afternoon and Golden was the leading producer with three for five. The game was played rather loosely afield as the Indians committed four miscues and the Shippers blundered six times.

Bucknell

The Bisons snapped the Tribe's three game winning streak and handed Lefty Ferrill Alderfer his second loss against four wins. Juniata's team record for the season is now seven victories and four setbacks.

Bucknell got off to a fast start as they pushed four markers across in the bottom of the first inning when Gene Zartman got his forst two of his four runs-batted-in with a two run double. The Lewisburg diamondmen upped the lead to a healthy 6-0 on a single by Jack Sisto that scored two runs in the second inning.

Juniata bounced back in the third as Lee Hallman slamed a three run homer to right center. The Indians further cut the lead in the fourth on a hit batsman, consecutive singles by Bob Sill and Bernie Oriss and an infield out.

The Bisons pulled the game out again in the home half of the fourth when Truck Sneath led off with a round-tripper and three Indian errors aided them to four run, making the score 10-5.

Sill Gets Four RBI's

The Indians kept in the scoring melee as they pushed across three markers in the fifth on Sill's two run single and Alderfer's safety that scored Sill. The Tribe cut the lead to one run in the seventh when Jack Golden singled and scored as Sill doubled for his third hit and fourth run batted in.

Bucknell added its insurance run in the eighth on a walk, sacrifice and a single by Jim Hummel.

JC Golfers Win Tourney But Drop Twin Matches

Juniata's golfers won the Western Maryland Invitational Golf tournament for the third straight year Saturday at Westminster, Maryland, but dropped dual matches to John Hopkins and Bucknell on Friday and Monday.

The tournament victory gave six out of seven firsts since entering the event in 1949. Bill West won medalist honors by one stroke, as his seven over par 143 edged Ivan Welinda of Hopkins. As a team the Indians shot 621 to top Loyola's 622.

Barry Montgomery clipped in a wedge shot on the 36th hole for the team victory. Behind by three strokes in the morning round, the Tribe pulled ahead, sparked by West's 69 on the last 18.

Larry Shepard fired 72-80 for 152, while Ted Grothe had 154 and Montgomery 164. Gettysburg was third in team standings with 635, followed by John Hopkins with 644 and Western Maryland with 645.

John Hopkins

On Friday the team was edged by Hopkins 5-4 in a rain soaked match at Baltimore. JC lost the deciding point in a play-off for best ball in the second foursome, as Joel Fine and Mark Leventhal scored a one-up victory over Ted Grothe and Larry Shepard on the 20th hole.

Victories were recorded by Shepard, Grothe and Montgomery, with the other points coming on a best gall. West lost to Bob Harris 3 and 2 despite a strong comeback after being eight holes down.

Bucknell

Monday the squad ended its intercollegiate season with a 4-4 record by losing to Bucknell 7-2, a reversal of last year's match. West and Shepard recorded one-up decisions over Pete Stroup and Jim Ladd on the 22nd and 19th holes respectively.

Saturday, June 4 the linksmen will play their annual exhibition match with the alumni.

Netmen Lose Close Matches To State 5-4 And Carnegie Tech 6-3

The Juniata tennis team dropped two matches during the past week, one to Carnegie Tech, 6-3 and to Penn State, 2-4. Both losses were suffered on the home courts.

Last Saturday, May Day, the Tribe netmen had their season's record evened at three and three.

The Indian netmen were able to secure only two wins in the singles and one in the doubles. The deciding match come when the visitors Jim Miller and Allen Glasser defeated the Tribe's Phil Lankford and Dick Fusco, 6-4, 6-4. Chuck Gross and Paul Wingert posted the singles victories for Juniata, while the doubles win went to Gross and Dan Raffensperger.

Summary

Singles

Chuck Gross (J) defeated Larry Dussaire (CT) 6-2, 6-0.

Paul Wingert (J) defeated Chas Schaul (CT) 6-3, 6-1

Jack Rugheemer (CT) defeated Don Ruhl (J) 6-2, 6-1.

Doubles

Miller and Glasser (CT) defeated Lankford and Fusco (J) 6-4, 6-4.

Raffensperger and Gross defeated Rawley and Schaul (CT) 6-4, 6-3.

Dussaire and Naworsky (CT) defeated Wingert and Ruhl (J) 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

On Wednesday, the Tribe again went down to defeat, but not without giving Penn State a rough itme. The winner was not decided until the final match. The final score was 5-4.

Phil Lankford, Dick Fusco, and Dan Raffensperger each posted singles wins. Lankford and Dick Fusco posted the only doubles win for Juniata.

Krazy Kids Top Girl's I-M V'ball League; Undefeated in Twelve

Radical changes took place in the volleyball league standings in the last two weeks as the Dead End Kids suddenly came alive, jumping from seventh to third while the Rowdies dropped from third to fifth and the Spoofers from fifth to eighth.

On Thursday, May 5, the Spoofers forfeited two to the Dumb Dutchmen, the Dead End Kids took two of three from the Dead Eleven 21-11, 21-16 and losing 17-21 and the Krazy Kids taking two from the Rowdies 21-10, 21-2. On Tuesday, May 10, the Punchy Pack forfeited two to the Red Devils, the Spoofers forfeited their two to the Krazy Kids and the Dumb Dutchmen forfeited two to the Dead End Kids. Thursday, May 2, the Dead Eleven forfeited two to the Red Devils and the Spoofers forfeited two to the Dead Eleven. On Monday, May 16, the Dead End Kids took two of three games from the Punchy Pack 21-10 and 21-13, and losing the third game 22-20. The Krazy Kids downed the Red Devils in two 21-12 and 21-11 while the Dumb Dutchmen and Rowdies were involved in a double forfeit.

Melba Smith held the most points with a total of 33, followed by Nancy Shirky with 21, Carol Jenkins with 23, and Lois Spiece with 18.

Rothenberger Defends Middle Atlantic Crown Successfully at Easton

Gene Rothenberger ended his Juniata College track career by successfully defending his broad jump crown at the Middle Atlantic Championships at Lafayette College in Easton Saturday.

Rocky leaped 22' ½" in the second of his four qualifying jumps, and this was good enough to take the event. It was the third consecutive time that Gene has won.

During the qualifying Rocky suffered a spike injury to his left leg. He completed his jumps but was unable to top the second one.

Nyce Sixth

Juniata's other representatives failed to score. Herb Layman finished eighth in the two mile with a time of 10:42. Al Nyce just missed scoring in the discus, finishing sixth with a 124' toss. Fred Stark of Lehigh won it with 142' 11". Nyce did not qualify in the shot put.

St. Joseph's won the team championship, edging LaSalle 45½ to 42. JC's only points were the five picked up by Rothenberger.

Intercollegiate Chatter

by Nancy Freed

Chryssoula Counelaki, a Cedar Crest co-ed from Greece, was upset when she was informed that people in general were of the opinion that Grecian marriages were "fixed" due to the absence of a "dating system" such as has been institutionalized in the U. S. She points out that this does not necessarily mean you are betrothed in childhood, nor does it mean that young people do not come to know each other. To the contrary "Greek youth has conceived a tricky device to solve the situation". From the age of 15 every boy or girl is allowed by his or her parents to invite home for a party boys and girls of about the same age.

However there are certain requirements before a young person can attend these parties. The first is that he or she must have studied the lessons for the entire week following the party; second is that the parents have to know every single detail about the family of the boy or girl having the party from the father's occupation to the telephone number! The last prerequisite is that the girl is not to be escorted by a boy back home but by her brother and even more properly by her father not later than 11:00 or 11:30 P.M.

Lots of Fun

Miss Counelaki concludes that parties in her country are lots of fun and have a special victorious excitement which springs out of the feeling that it takes some patience and preparation to persuade your parents to give you the so longed for affirmative answer.

During the exam sessions at Allegheny University the College Union sponsors a "Mourner's Corner" for all students to be held after each test. At these get-togethers coffee is served to soothe the nerves and to supply one with enough caffine to keep awake that night and cram for the next day's finals.

A student at La Verne College, California, who chooses to call himself Simple Simon has the following to say on chapel: "Walked into chapel last Tuesday and found my favorite spot in the last pew. About broke my leg trying to reach it; everyone turned their knees the wrong way. My friend was listening real hard up front, I saw, but its hard to keep track of words in the back. When I looked at the program I was sure sorry I didn't hear the anthem, but I always stay in the library after everyone leaves to read the funnies. Only way I can get to read the paper. A freshman and a sophomore were talking in front of me and I told them to pipe down. How can a fellow concentrate on his knitting with so much noise? Sure wish people were more considerate in chapel Seems that every college has the same troubles with compulsory chapel!

Another Class, Another Candy Bar

Prof Dotterer of Manchester College has found a sure fire method to insure class attendance during the spring term when its such a terrible temptation NOT to go to class. He walked into his 11 A. M. geometry class, noted that everyone was there and treated the whole class to candy bars. It would probably take 25¢ candy bars to make JC'ers come. They'd want to be sure they were getting their time's worth.

'Will of God' Topic At IVCF Tonight

The Will of God is the topic for discussion at this evening's meeting of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

To be conducted in Founders Chapel, the meeting starts at 7:15.

1150 on the Dial . . . Gray's Show Last One This Year

When Harold "Goose" Gray hangs up his earphones tonight after concluding the House of Wax show, he will be marking the end of both his own association with IBC and also the station's current broadcasting year.

When WJC returns to the air September 15, two other key personnel will be absent from the station roster—Gene Hyssong and Joe Chidester. Much has been said about Gene, an IBC "father," and his WJC activities during the past year. Readers will remember that WJC was originally his idea. Joe is transferring to Carnegie Tech next year. Many times he could be seen climbing telephone poles to untangle the station carrier lines.

Hamm Says Thanks

Station program director Bob Hamm has expressed his appreciation for the interest in WJC, displayed by so many JC'ers during this year. Next year, he reports, a revised program schedule, including many of the favorite shows of this year plus several new ones will go into effect.

Class reunions will begin at 5:30. At 8:15 in Oller Hall there will be a recital consisting of Class Day exercises and a Faculty Instrumental Trio. The former includes the Candle-lighting and Mantle Ceremony.

Baccalaureate is scheduled for 10:45 A. M. Sunday in Oller Hall. The speaker will be President Ellis, whose topic is "The Educated Person."

Step Singing On Sun.

At 6:15 Sunday evening, there will be Step Singing and Vespers. The Rev. John D. Long, '36 of Lancaster will speak. The Juniata Choir and Orchestra will present a concert at 8:15 in Oller Hall.

The final aspect for Alumni weekend is the Commencement ceremonies, Monday, 10:30 A. M.

The new building, constructed at a cost of $450,000, is composed of two wings connected by a central lounge, and is located on the northern extremity of the campus. Construction of the dormitory for 132 men was financed by a loan from the HHFA and funds contributed by alumni and friends of the college.

Also present on the platform will be: David M. Walter, Acting Regional Administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, Philadelphia; Jay du Von, Director of the College Housing Program, Washington, D C; William J. Finley, District Engineer of the HHFA, Harrisburg; and John Fike, Treasurer of the college.

Registrar Announces Grades Out June 13

JC Clubs Will Launch Drives For Members

Monday's freshman Assembly will mark the launching of this year's club membership drive on College Hill.

At this time 17 clubs and organizations will be introduced to the freshman class in order that the new students may better understand the functions and purposes of the various clubs. During the week following this assembly each club will have its membership drive on an assigned day after the noon and evening meals in Totem Inn.

Specified days for the various drives starting Monday, September 26, are as folows:

Monday—Modern Dance; Tuesday WAA, FTA, Pyrenees; Wednesday— Camera, IVCF, Standing Stone Grotto; Thursday—IRC, Outing, Art, and Friday—Masque, Lambda Gamma and Orchestra.

Freshmen and all upperclassmen are urged to join the clubs of their interest.

'55 Weekend At Kanesatake Yields Numerous Resolutions

The 1955 Leadership Conference delegation, meeting at Camp Kanesatake September 9, 10, and 11, approved the following resolutions.

I. PUBLICATIONS

A. To the WJC Staff:

1. Resolved that WJC broadcast Sunday evenings from 10 until 12 p.mp. in addition to its regular schedule.

2. Resolved that WJC broadcast Juniata's football games for the 1955 season in collaboration with station WHUN.

B. To the Publications Committee:

1. Resolved that we favor reviving the publication of the basketball program known as the Tomahawk.

2. Resoled that the editor and business manager of the Alfarata be appointed at mid-year for the following year, and to assume full responsibility at the beginning of the college year in order to facilitate its publication.

II. UNDERCLASSMEN

A. To the Chairman of Underclassmen:

1. In behalf of improved academic performance, resolved that:

(a) the recent system of compulsory study hall for freshmen be abolished.

(b)the rooms in Student's Hall be regularly available for study to all students, particularly freshmen.

(c) addressed as well to the chairmen of men's and women's house that a renewed attempt be made to maintain the prescribed quiet hours in the dormitories.

III. MEN'S HOUSE

A. To the chairman of Men's House:

1. Resolved that the Senate establish regular visiting hours on a trial basis for women students in the lobby of the new dormitory.

IV. SPECIAL ISSUES

A. To the Senate:

1. Resolved that the Senate and student body promote "operation recreation" to the full extent of their respective powers.

2. Resolved that the results of Senate elections remain unpublished except under these stipulations:

(a) where all losing candidates for a particular office request such a publication.

such publications shall occur only after all offices have been filled.

(In favor—38; opposed—20)

B. To the Senate and Administration:

1. Resolved that Leadership Conference favors the concept of a disciplinary committee and urges the Senate to continue investigation, drawing up a tentative program to be submitted for student approval.

2. Recommended that the Senate and Administration attempt to work out a plan by which the road from the highway to the new dormitory may be repaired.

C. To the Institutional Manager:

1. Realizing that we might have to wait for our food, it is recommended

Members Are Chosen; Choir Practice Begins

The Juniata College touring and chapel choirs have reorganized for the new year, and their rehearsals are in full swing this week. Preparation for the annual tour in January is the function of the college choir, which includes the following personnel: sopranos, Bonnie Brumbaugh, Lois Dunlap, Judy Gearhart, Lois Heart, Mary Jane Hershberger, Alice Ann Wohlbruck, Sue Fawcett, Barbara Orner, Mildred Mandeville; altos, Alice Hoffman, Maggie Sims, Janet Binkley, Aileen Wright, Joan Fyock, Jackie Rowland, Jeanette Lowe, Lois Mezey, Carolyn Long; tenors, Paul Heart, Tom Amick, George Hess, Ernie Lashlee, Harvey Ressler, Charles Winter, Dan Raffensperger; basses, Don Lowdermilk, Dick Livingston, Ron Dilling, Larry Landes, Charles Longenecker, Ken Rockwell, E. J. Stutzman. Elaine Aitken is organist for the choir, and Prof. Johnson, director.

The chapel choir will sing anthems in chapel services and present a special Christmas Concert, which is a highlight of the season for the college, as well as the choir. The chorus, directed by Miss Pfotenhauer, includes the following: sopranos, Nancy Geisel, Violet Peters, Mary Louise Schade, Anna Mary Smith, Miriam Bricker, Lois Guldin, Carol Teeter, Marjorie White; altos, Nancy Grace, Jackie Hayes, Mary Snyder, Marlene Sterner, Mary Jane Bridenbaugh, Virginia Nixdorf, Shirley Nace; tenors, David Davis, Howie Kerstetter, Phil Lankford, Herbert Deuchar, Joe Senft, John Staley; basses, James Martin, Bryan Stauffer, Klare Sunderland, Jay Guyer, Bruce Dickey, Glenn Smeltzer.

JC Cast To Present I. Loewe's Brigadoon

On Parents Day, November 12, the all-college operetta, Brigadoon, will be given.

Brigadoon is a mythological musical play about a town that was condemned to disappear, but due to the schoolmaster, who has the curse lifted, the town sleeps for 100 years, then awakes for one day. It is on this day that two ex-soldiers who are on a hunting trip in Scotland discover Brigadoon. The musical revolves around the love story between Tommy Albright, played by Don Lowdermilk, and Fiona MacLaren, enacted by Mary Jane Hershberger.

Other members of the cast include:

R. Backus, Jeff Douglas; F. Hetrick, Archie Beaton; R. Dilling, Andrew MacLaren; B. Orner, Jean MacLaren; J. Gearhart, Meg Brockie; P. Lankford, Charlie Dalrymph; C. Betz, Mr. Lundi,

New Book Will Contain Information On Academic Standards & Routines

by Eleanor Newton

A new publication containing the essential academic information for the student in Juniata College will be published in the near future, Dean Morley Mays announced recently.

In addition to giving information concerning many standard routines, the new booklet will explain in detail the revision of quality point values adopted by the faculty last spring. It will also describe a new policy on probation which has modified and eliminated certain older practices.

The previous 3-2-1-0-0 point system was considered invalid, principally because of the inaccuracy caused by equal values attached to the "D" and "F" grades. Considering that many important judgments are based on the system, a change was recommended.

Another System

Another system was considered which gave a-1 value to the "F" grade. This was not adopted because it would create unnecessary complications and increase the possibility of errors. It is interesting to note that the Pennsylvania State University previously employed this system but has also recently changed to the 4-3-2-1-0 point system.

Evidence presented shows that this four-point system has a validity superior to the three-point system in that it applies to all students equally. This method can be more readily used as a method of comparison in consideration of graduation and academic discipline. Definite point-hour ratios have been set in each case. For graduation 120 credi 1.80hours and a point-hour ratio of 1.80 on all hours attempted will be necessary. Automatic probation will be imposed where an upperclassman does not achieve a ratio of 1.50. Freshmen below a 1.30 ratio will be included.

Standards Not Lowered

There is no possibility that the standards of Juniata College have been lowered. They are actually raised by the increase validity of the grading system. In raising the Faculty Presents Annual Reception

By Sandra Ewing

The faculty of Juniata has been doing a lot of home work these past weeks.

The reason? Their desire to make the annual Faculty Reception a big success for you—the student body! So, reserve this Saturday night, September 25th, between the hours of 8:30 and 11:30 P.M. to be the guests of your faculty.

The following program is planned, with dancing to the music of "Buddy Kyler and the Serenaders" (Vocals by Eddie Fogel). The Faculty encourages everyone to start the evening by passing through the receiving line.

Program:

(Entrance) opposite Geiger House)

8:30—The Faculty opens the doors to you!

8:30—9:00—Receiving Line

9.00—9:15—Dancing

9:15-9:30—Grand March

9:30—10:00—Dancing

10:00—10:15—Program

10:15—10:30—Intermission and refreshments

10:30—11:30—Dancing

Faculty committees for the affair include Jack Brammer, general chairman; Alice B. Dove and James F. Penney, general committee; James F. Wilson (chairman), Miss Miriam Dickey, William D. Fairchild, Jr., Gordo. Felton, Robert McFaddon and Miss Miriam Schlegel, decorating program; Mrs. Marjorie Joseph (chairman), Miss Marie Jaeger and Miss Frances Mathias, food; Donald Rockwell, grand march, and George Dolnikowski and Mike Snider, cloak room and chairs.

Chapels Will Feature JCA, Ministers' Day

Miss Doyle, who is in charge of the chapel schedule this year, announced the following schedule for the week of September 26.

Monday the JCA will present a program to JCers; Wednesday Dr. Kenneth Brown, executive director of the Danforth Foundation, will speak. The annual Huntingdon Ministerium program will be presented on Friday.

Fattman, Hunt Take New Editorial Posts

The Juniatian office announces the staff change of George Fattman from club editor to the position of news editor which was vacated when Carol Newborg accepted position as editor of the Alfarata.

Jim Hunt, who previously held the position of editor-in-chief and executive editor, is rejoining the staff as co-sports editor.

The new club editor has not yet been named.

Juniata Grad & 8 Others Added To JC's Faculty

Nine professors have been added to the faculty staff for the fall semester.

These include Mrs. Lula Baheri, languages; Gordon H. Felton, English; Miss Helen E. Werrall, education; Rev. Robert McFadden, religion; John A. Dale, mathematics; Miss Bernice Engman, Spanish; Philbrook Smith, history; Miss Annie Longenecker, mathematics, and William R. Schaeffer, physics.

Mrs. Baheri will teach both French and Spanish and will aid in the English conference program. She has taught English and French in Wyalusing Valley Joint Schools for two years. She received her bachelor of science degree from Mansfield STC in 1953 and studied French in the Sorbonne program of Temple University this summer.

Felton From Illinois

Mr. Felton, a native of New Virginia, Iowa, came to Juniata from the University of Illinois; he is teaching several courses in Division and is supervising the college's program in dramatics. He is a graduate of Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla. He received his master of arts degree from the University of Denver in 1954.

Miss Werrall received her bachelor of arts degree from Westminster College; University of Pittsburgh granted her a master of education degree in 1948. She has also studied at Slippery Rock STC, Thiel, Penn State and Columbia. The daughter of medical missionaries, she has been active in church and civic affairs.

Rev. McFadden received his bachelor of arts degree from Manchester College and was graduated with a bachelor of divinity degree from Bethany Biblical Seminary, Chicago, last June. A member of the Church of the Brethren, he has held the positions of assistant to the pastor in New Carlisle, Ohio, Church of the Brethren; assistant director and director for two work camps in Germany in 1953 under Brethren Service Commission, and student chaplain at Elgin State Hospital, Elgin, Ill.

From The Editor's Notes

Welcome to the JC campus from the Juniatian staff. We of the Juniatian shall try to present the campus news accurately and to be a reflection of campus opinion. Letters and suggestions to the editors will be of aid in our endeavor.

* * * *

Next week the clubs begin their campaigning for membership. All of us will be viewing the various programs offered with an evaluating eye. Important to remember, however, is that whatever kind of a program a club sets up, it is the caliber of the membership's participation which will determine the success of its program. Choose your clubs with the idea of being active in them.

* * * *

At this early date the Class of '59 seems to be making a quick adjustment to the life at JC.

Many Sources Donate Money; Juniata Funds Hit Record High

Juniata College and the Juniata Alumni Fund received a record high total of $137,409.09 in contributions during the past year.

Of this amount nearly 50 per cent was contributed by 1125 alumni and friends whose donations amounted to $65,340. This is most encouraging to Juniata because financial assistance has become of utmost importance to college officials now that they have embarked upon the 10-year building program, results of which are already beginning to beautify the campus.

Average Gift

The average contribution to the Alumni Fund amounted to $58.08, surpassing the former record of $56.95 established in 1950-51 when Juniata College ranked eighth in the nation on the "average gift" honor roll.

Telford B. Blough, immediate past president of the Alumni Association stated that it was a pleasure to review the results of the Alumni Fund. The class of 1921 topped all others in amount contributed with a total of $5,117.50 and also in avearge contribution with a record high of $426.45.

The Juniatian

Entered as second class mail at the Huntingdon, Pa., post office, this is an independent undergraduate newspaper published weekly throughout the College year except during vacation and examination periods by the Students of Juniata College.

The Juniatian is serviced by Associated Collegiate Press and is represented for national advertising by National Advertising Service.

Industry

Juniata also received $36,106 from foundation and industry gifts; $16,146 from the N. J. Brumbaugh estate, and $1,000 from the Helen Baker estate. The Church of the Brethren contributed $10,934. Of this total $5,259 was raised through the efforts of the church representative, Rev. Clarence H. Rosenberger; $3,675 from Juniata Day contributions, and $2,000 from the annual conference of the Church of the Brethren.

Miscellaneous gifts amounted to $7,880.

Pres. Ellis said, "This record is not only a testimonial to the loyalty of each of you who participated, but especially to the many people who gave leadership to the program. Contributions to the Juniata Alumni Fund in its 16th year have established a new record in giving for our college. You (the contributors) may be very proud indeed of your record of financial support during the past year."

Renovated JC Band Looks Optimistically At Coming Activities

By Janice Hoyer

The Juniata College band appears to be off to a "flying start" this year, if the initial meeting, held Monday, September 29, is any indication of enthusiasm.

The group elected Peter Wright as librarian, and Melba Smith was appointed uniform custodian. Possibilities for increased and varied band activity were also discussed. This includes building up a good concert program, cheering the football team at all home games, pep rallies, and a least one away game, and the possibility of sending several band members to the Intercollegiate Band Festival later in the year.

In addition to the upperclass members, a sizeable contingent of musical talent from the freshman class turned out for a session in which the constitution of the band and matters such as tryouts for new members were explained.

The new, newly uniformed J.C. band will be making its first appearance soon. Gone, fortunately, are the old, sombre uniforms, and in their places will be snappy white blazers, gray trousers, and white bucks. Band members are now hard at work making the organization sound as well as it looks.

News Views

by Jim Montgomery

The coming presidential election is going to prove very interesting. In previous years, the ballot has been divided into two general divisions, Democrat and Republican. This year, however, we can add another factor, Eisenhower. The popularity of this man is nothing short of phenomenal. The Republican party bosses realize this and are basing their election year on this one man.

This is a strange situation. We see a political party building its whole campaign on the popularity of a man whose popularity, to a large extent, is due to the fact that he has risen above party politics. It is interesting to note that the Republicans are having to go beyond their actual political boundaries for their vote getting strength. They can count themselves as lucky that Eisenhower happens to be on their ticket——maybe.

Just what will the Republicans do if Eisenhower decides that he's had enough of politics? The very thought of the brutal rat race that would ensue is appealing even to the most hard-bitten of politicians.

What then of the Democrats? I'm afraid that in the face of Ike's popularity and prosperous times the Democrats will be hard put to come up with a presidential victory. Ike was popular in '52 and more so now. But, no matter what the outcome of the presidential contest, the Democrats must do all in their power to elect a Democratic House and Senate. Without this, Eisenhower would be paralyzed. If Senator Knowland had been majority instead of minority leader the president's handling of foreign affairs would have been greatly hampered if not seriously curtailed.

But, underlying all this pre-convention speculation is the one big question——Will he run?

BEYOND ADVENTURE, by Roy Chapman Andrews. The lives of three explorers—Robert E. Peary, Carl Akeley, and Andrews himself—with emphasis upon the major exploits and accomplishments of each. Peary's heroic conquest of the North Pole, Akeley's unending efforts to recreate the jungle in New York City's African Hall, and the author's own important fossil discoveries in the Gobi Desert are all narrated with personal knowledge.

NANGA PARBAT, the killer mountain, by K. M. Herrligeoffer. A book that will enthrall the readers of ANNAPURNA and THE CONQUEST OF EVEREST, this is the story of men's efforts to conquer the world's most murderous mountain. Since 1895 attempts have been made to conquer it and in 1953 a German-Austrian expedition was successful. Included is an attempt by Hermann Buhl himself of his fabulous climb to the peak alone.

Outstanding Spring Athletes Honored; Rothenberger Wins Third Track Award

One senior, two juniors, and one sophomore were awarded individual trophies for excellent athletic performance in the 1955 spring sports program. Gene Rothenberger, Barry Drexler, Bill West and Phil Lankford were honored in track, baseball, golf, and tennis respectively.

Top honors in the spring sports program went to Rothenberger, senior trackman from Boyertown, Pa. Rothenberger's feats in track and field produced a season high of 94 points and a four-year total of 276, both recognized as all-time highs in the Juniata College record books.

"Rocky" also proved his track prowess in individual competition as he won the Middle Atlantic broad jump championship for the third straight year.

In recognition of his ability Rothenberger was honored by being the first man to win one of the College's individual trophies three years in succession.

By winning the J. Foster Gehrett trophy in track Rothenberger was stamped as one of Juniata's all-time track greats.

Two-sport star Barry Drexler walked off with baseball honors for the spring as he was awarded the Charles F. Goodalee Jr. trophy for baseball excellence. In adition Drexler received honorable mention on the District 2 NCAA all-star team.

Holding down the centerfield position the junior from McKees Rocks slugged six home runs and a double while compiling a .348 batting average.

Top batting honors, however, went to sophomore pitcher-outfielder Ferrill Alderfer, who led the team with a .442 average and Work Progresses On Operation Recreation — President Reports

"Successful strides have been taken toward the completion of Operation-Recreation", reports Senate President Jim Hunt. The project which envisions an area devoted to winter sports was first placed on the drawing board two years ago.

Action was taken at Leadership Conference to push the completion of the project. Present plans call for the skating pond to be available this winter.

A strictly student project, supported by college officials, the program places the burden of work on student volunteers. During freshman days upperclass students began work on the project.

A retaining dam was built ot flood the skating pond. This week work was also undertaken to complete the intake ditch to the pond.

Pipe was purchased two years ago by the college. This pipe wi utilized this week for the long ditch leading to the main area of the skating pond.

In the coming weeks work will be inaugurated on the main area of the pond.

Fourteen Lettermen Return For 1955 Pigskin Campaign

Segalavich, Veto Appointed To Aid Coaching Staff

Juniata College has appointed two of its former football stars, Anthony Segalovich and Joseph P. Veto, both of McKees Rocks, Pa., as assistant grid coaches under Bob Hicks.

Their appointment was announced by President Ellis after learning that Charles (Chuck) Godlasky, former Penn State gridder, would not be able to assume his duties. Godlasky had agreed to serve as assistant, but was unable to accept the post because of conflicting duties at the Pennsylvania State University.

Segalovich, a graduate of Juniata in 1953, has just returned from Army service. A versatile three year letterman in three different positions, Tony was selected "most outstanding back" on the 1952 squad.

Veto, captain of last year's undefeated team, is recognized as one of Juniata's all-time football greats. Joe, known as "The Toe," was named to the first team tackle position on both the Little All-America and All-Pennsylvania teams in addition to being selected "most outstanding lineman" on the Indians' squad. Earlier this fall Joe was a candidate in pre-season drills with the Edmonton Huskies of the Canadian pro-football league, but was released because of a severe leg injury.

Veto reported to Hicks for the opening of football drills on campus Labor Day, while Segalovich assumed his duties last week.

Charles R. (Chuck) Knox who served as Hicks' assistant last year is now on the coaching staff at Tyrone, Pa., high school.

From The Bleachers

Despite the continuing warm weather, football season is here. Amid the clamour of pre-season experts who annually stick out their necks, gridiron enthusiasts over the nation are getting the initial taste of football, 1955 style. There have been no major rule changes of a magnitude of the switch back to one-platoon which occurred two years ago. A few minor changes have been made and these we will attempt to point out to you in the coming weeks.

It is still a week until the charges of Coach Bob Hicks board the bus for Bethlehem, Pa. for the season opener against the Greyhounds of Moravian.

Similar to last year, this contest shapes up as, not only the initial test for the Hicksmen, but also one of the biggest hurdles to extending the winning streak.

Last year a stunning punt return late in the ball game pulled the chestnuts out of the fire for the Indians. Fran Wampler will not be around this year to repeat his performance but the Braves are working hard in preparation for the contest. Lets hope that this year a Merriwell finish is not in order.

* * * *

Fourteen lettermen return (see story elsewhere) to the gridiron wars this season, including two performers returning from an army tour of duty. Bill Waryck and Don Brumbaugh, both tackles, are back to attempt to regain positions they capably filled before the call came from Uncle Sam. Their return has been particularly heartening for Hicks who has to fill the spot vacated by Little All-American, Joe Veto.

* * * *

Coach Bob Hicks begins his sophomore year as head coach of a collegiate football team next Saturday. All indications show that he has no more than the normal jitters accompanying the coaching occupation.

Steping from an assistant's post at Albright into a seven game win streak existing at College Hill last year proved his meddle by directing the Blue and Gold to eight successive victories.

This season pressure mounts as the Braves begin efforts to extend a fifteen game win streak that is the longest in Pennsylvania.

* * * *

On alternate weeks Bill Smith and I will attempt to forecast the results of some of the major games across the country. In addition we will take the hazardous step of predicting the outcome of games in which the opponents of Juniata are involved. So, closing our ears to the cries of the indignant the picks for this week are ——

Rice over Alabama
Army over Furman
Boston U. over Penn State
California over Ilinois
DICKINSON over Western Maryland
Georgia Tech over Florida
Michigan St. over Indiana
U.C.L.A. over Maryland
Michigan over Missouri
Duke over North Carolina St.
Oklahoma over North Carolina
Ohio State over Nebraska
Notre Dame over S.M.U.
Pitt over Syracuse
Baylor over Villanova

Juniata College's grid squad reported to Coach Bob Hicks on campus here Labor Day (Monday, Sept. 5) for intensive two-a-day drills to prepare for the effort of extending a 15-game winning streak.

1954-55 Sports Record Shows Prosperous Year For College Hill Teams

Juniata has completed another winning year in its intercollegiate sports program in spite of finishing under the .500 mark in spring competition. Year-end totals in the 1954-55 season show that six Indian teams won 35, lost 30.

Coach Bob Hicks' football team topped all sports by recording eight straight victories and extending the Tribe's winning streak to 15—third longest in the nation.

The baseball team, also coached by Hicks, set the pace for four spring teams with an .7 record. Both golf and tennis teams finished with .4 marks, but the track team's failure to win in five meets resulted in an overall mark of .444 with 16 victories, 20 defeats for the spring events.

Despite its failure in intercollegiate meets the track team was well-represented at the Middle Atlantics as Gene Rothenberger won the broad jump championship for the third straight year.

Dr. Arnold Greene's basketball team topped .500 with 11 triumphs in 21 games.

Year-end totals of Juniata's sports teams follow:

	W	L	T	Pct.
Football	8	0	0	1.000
Baseball	8	7	0	.553
Basketball	11	10	0	.524
Tennis	4	4	0	.500
Golf	4	4	0	.500
Track	0	5	0	.000
	35	30	0	.538

Spring Athletes —

18 runs batted in. Alderfer was also the pitching workhorse with a 4-4 record. Jake Handzelek took pitching honors with a 3-1 record and a 2.91 earned run average.

Golf

Bill West, number one man on the JC golf team(was selected as the recepient of the annual C. Blair Miller golf trophy. Although the golf team failed to post a winning record it continued to dominate the Western Maryland invitational tournament, winning for the sixth time in seven tries since 1949.

To round out the spring sports awards Phil Lankford was awarded the tennis trophy. Lankford was the only sophomore to be honored.

Twenty-six holdovers from last year's undefeated team, including 12 lettermen, will form the core of the 50-man squad. In addition, two former letter-winners have returned from military service and are expected to report to provide Hicks with 14 lettermen.

Pat Tarquinio, All-Pennsylvania halfback from McKees Rocks, will lead the returning quintet of backfield lettermen which includes Ron Bechtel, John Winterstein, Don Pheasant, and Bob Sill. All except Sill are seniors.

The veteran linemen include a trio of ends—Keith Birmingham, Bud Douds, and Barry Drexler. Other linemen are: Charles (Moon) Mullen, tackle; Charles Haines, and Bill Haushalter, guards; and John Staley, center. A pair of tackles, Don Brumbaugh and Bill Waryck, have returned to college from service.

Coach Hicks invited a total of 29 upperclassmen and 21 freshmen for pre-season practice. From this group, he must find replacements for Joe Veto, Little All-American tackle; Myron Sevick, guard; and Fran Wampler, wingback.

Upperclass players returning to Juniata College's football squad include:

Ends: Birmingham, Douds, Drexler, Ed Kohl, Don Medwid, and Don Randall.

Tackles: Ken Fassnacht, Bernie McQuown, Mullen, Bob Schnably, Brumbaugh, and Waryck.

Guards: Haines, Haushalter, Bill Schott and Jim Stayer.

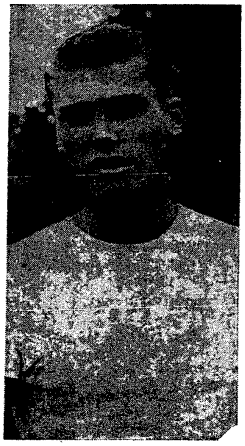
Centers: Anthony Chirico and Staley.

Backs: Bechtel, Glenn Hassinger, Bob Lesnick, Pheasant, Winterstein, Harry Samuels, Sill, Tarquinio and George Zeh.

Freshmen invited to pre-season drills included:
Bill Artz, Cressona; Bob Beach, New Enterprise; Francis Christinia, Bentleyville; Tony DiMarco, Collingswood, N. J.; William Howe, Lewistown; Richard Hummel, Bellwood; Fred Mathias, Carnegie; Larry McAfee, Pottstown; John Miller, East Orange, N. J.; Kenneth Opipery, McKees Rocks (Stowe).

Hugh Robinson, Pittsburgh; Ray Rossi, Altoona; Albert Sellari Aliquippa; John Shaffer, Ingram; Don Shover, Lemoyne; Kenneth Smith, Altoona; Joe Sopata, Pittsburgh; Don Swope, Turtle Creek; Alanson Taylor, Hollidaysburg; Don Thomas, Patton; and William Wise, Pottstown.

Bill West Captures Local Golf Championship This Summer



Bill West
Golf Champ

Bill West, Juniata senior, came from behind to unseat defending titlest Blair Miller by a one-up score in one of the biggest upsets at the Huntingdon Country Club in the club's annual championship.

West, who had been beaten two straight years by Miller in the finals, didn't take the lead until the final 18th hole, but it won him the crown. It was the closest championship match at the Huntingdon club in the past eight years.

West found himself two down after the first two holes and at times pulled within one, two and on even terms with Miller, but never was ahead until the 18th when he took an even par four to Miller's one-over-five.

At the end of nine holes, Miller was three over and West four over. The champion ended up seven over and Miller eight over in the match play.

For West, a member of the Juniata golf team, it was his first club title and snapped a seven year grip on the crown by Miller, who had won the championship since 1948.

value of the letter grade, the requirements have been raised accordingly. At present only the freshmen are affected by the 1.80 graduation requirement.

Upperclassmen will now need a minimum of 120 credit-hours and 240 quality points. An adjustment of the total quality points will be made on their records. This adjustment will not be available until the grade sheets are issued at the end of the fall term.

Further details will be included in the new booklet which will be given to each student and a copy sent to each parent. An opportunity will be offered for students to ask questions and seek clarification of the material contained in it.

H. J. Heinz Employs Chamberlin Mathews

Two Juniata College students were among 38 chemistry and biology majors from leading colleges and universities throughout the nation who were selected for summer employment as microbiologists by H. J. Heinz Company.

They are Ronald Chamberlin and Mickey Mathews.

As part of their work the students assist regular staff technicians in testing Heinz tomato products at the food processing company's research and quality control laboratories. All participated in the company's student program for the first time.

JCA Members To See Yon Kipper Celebration

This Sunday evening at 6:30 the Jewish Congregation of Huntingdon will celebrate Yon Kipper.

All interested Juniata students have been invited to attend services at the synogogue on Washington St. A speaker from the Hebrew Theological Seminary of New York will deliver a sermon explaining the significance of this holiday. Those wishing to go will meet at 6:15 on Founders Porch and walk down together.

Senate

Grove, and Janet Binkley complete the house committee.

Other items on the Senate agenda included the skating pond, or "operation recreation", the new band uniforms and the final discussion of the study hall issue.

Pond Progresses

A progress report was given on the skating pond. Work is ready to begin on the pond itself, and much student labor is going to be required, volunteers will be greatly appreciated.

The new band uniforms are slated to arrive in time for the Homecoming game on October 15

Rosalie Langer and Bob Hamm are in charge of planning a short program in honor of this event,

Finally, the Senate put its stamp of approval on the study hall issue as resolved on by the Leadership Conference delegation. It was decided that, although there will be no compulsion, freshmen are to be encouraged to make full and extensive use of the many facilities provided on campus for the establishment of good study habits.

Office of Dean Names Spring Term 'Brains'

Nineteen Juniata College students were named to the Dean's List in a notice issued by the Office of Dean Morley Mays.

Among those named, the seniors had 11 representatives, the juniors 1, sophomores 3, and the freshmen 4. Those seniors who achieved the 2.75 scholastic average included Joyce Rinehart. English from Westminster, Md.; Gail Roach, Mathematics of Washington, Pa.; Kaydonna Bubeck, Elementary Education, Schuykill Haven, Pa.; Adelheid Campbell, Modern Languages, Lewistown, Pa.

The balance of the seniors were John Martin, Physics, of Huntingdon, Pa.; Thomas Meloy, pre-med., also of Hunitngdon, Pa.; John Corson, Economics and Business Administration, Mount Nnion, Pa.; Arthur Shriver, Economics and Business Administration, Bellwood, Pa.; Robert Godshall, Business Administration and Economics major, Souderton, Pa. and Scott Hommer, pre-med., Huntingdon, Pa.

The junior on the list was William Smith, History, from Waynesboro, Pa.

Sophomores who attained this status were Carol Titus, Elementary Education, Paulsboro, N. J Jim Stayer, English and Philosophy, Denver, Pa.; and Richard Livingston, pre-min., Johnstown, Pa.

To complete the list are the freshmen: Nancy Grace, Music Annville, Pa.; Nonnye Huddleston, Dietetics, Ambridge, Pa.; Robert Moore, Chemistry, Aitch, Pa.; and Wilfred Bryan Stauffer, Liberal Arts major from Greensburg, Pa.

Frosh Rendezvous By Candlelight

My name's Tuesday. I'm a court member. This is Juniata—I work here. Freshmen disobey rules. My job—Catch them! DUM DE DUM DUM.

It was 8:07 p. m. when it all started. Agent x lit the candle. All the court members admired the lovely azalea on his Hunt's Tomato Sauce matchbook cover.

Case No. 1 was brought in as she tried to suppress her giggles. When quieted she finally stated her offense. It was awful! She had put her foot on ye olde holie diagonal! A crime like this cannot go unpunished! The agents held a confab—shoe boxes on the feet were the verdict. (She was still giggling!)

Another victim came in and complained of the color clash when the blue and yellow dink had to be warn with vari-colored outfits. Her sentence? Naturally! A conglomeration of hues must be part of her daily wearing apparel.

"Button, frosh" was converted to "Bubbles, frosh" just for the sole purpose of using on frosh's nice baritone voice. Yell "Bubbles frosh" and watch his bubbling performance!

The court then undertook a punishment to warn all freshmen that regulation must be worn in the laundry room. Two young ladies were obliged to help warn their fellow classmates by displaying an assorted array of clothespins and soap boxes. A word to the wise—

If your personality tends to be described by an adjective in the meat department, take heed! Your fate may be that of a ham sandwich.

"All work and no play make frosh very lazy" so that possibility was eliminated. Upperclass men will not be alone as they work on Operation Recreation this week. Four strong specimans from the class of '59 will be shoveling along with the best of the upperclassmen!

Runners Tony Quarantillo, Val Means, Jill Derstine and Sandy Johnston were relieved when the whole affair was over—well over until next Tuesday anyhow. Ah but frosh—it isn't over for you! Remember your regulations or YOU might be shooting down the enemy planes in next week's air raid!!!

Conference Kills Frosh Study Hall

In response to a resolution passed by Leadership Conference, the program of compulsory study halls for freshmen has been abolished by the Student Senate, and a voluntary plan of study substituted in its place.

This new program entails the addition of a reading room in the library, instruction in study habits offered in Freshman Assembly, a renewed attempt to maintain the prescribed quiet hours in the dorms, and the expanded use of Students Hall as a study sanctuary.

Specifically, the latter proposal will include the utilization of the first floor of Students Hall for typing, the second for quiet study rooms, and the third floor for blackboard work. Upperclassmen will be on hand, but a rigid system of proctoring will not be followed.

The system, effective Monday, will be entirely voluntary, with students free to come and go as they please. Although this new plan is designed especially for Freshmen, all students are encouraged to use these facilities.

Vol. 32 No. 2 | Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. | Friday, September 30, 1955

Senate Names Skinner, Gipprich All Class Night Chairman, Ass't.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Student Senate Wednesday evening, Alma Skinner was appointed to head this year's All-Class Night. Eileen Gipprich will serve as assistant chairman.

In addition, Jeanette Lowe and Danny Raffensperger were appointed to serve as student representatives-at-large on the foreign students committee. The Senate elections committee will be comprised of Bill Smith, chairman, Betty Beatty, Joan McClure, and Barry Drexler.

Pep rallies for home football games will be taken care of in this manner: The juniors will be in charge of the Homecoming Day rally; the seniors, October 29; the sophomores, November 5; the inter-club council, November 12, and the frosh, November 19.

Finally, the following members were approved to serve on the men's house cimmittee: Bob Sill, Glen Hassinger, Bernie Cohen, Dwight Good, Tom Woodrow, Skip Bateman, Bill Schott, Ron Bechtel, Bernie McQuown, Don Randall, John Yates, Carl Valore, Sam Malenkof, and Charlie Passmore.

C'Mon-A-My-House Is Sat. Night Theme

C'mon-a-my-house for the Saturday night House Party! The social committee has planned dancing, card games, and parlor games which will take place in Swigart Hall at 8:15. Refreshments will be served consisting of cider and donuts. All those on campus and returnees from the game are invited to attend.

Twenty Painters To Invade Church

For those Juniata students who missed out on the weekend work camp last spring there will be a repeat performance of it on Saturday, October 8.

Fellows and girls alike will don dungarees and spend the afternoon painting the inside of Mt. Olive Baptist Church. This church is just one of the several Negro mission churches in town and is probably the smallest. It has never been able to support a full time pastor, undoubtedly because its congregation numbers only 25, most of whom are older people.

Consequently it is unable to pay to have the church painted, although it can afford the cost of paint. Twenty JC students, thirteen boys and seven girls, will do the job for them.

These work camp projects, which are sponsored by the JCA, were initiated last April when JCers washed windows, mowed lawns and painted for seven families of old folks in the community; others canvassed the town for games, playing cards, puzzles and magazines for the Hollidaysburg State Mental Hospital.

13 Seniors Are Trial Teaching In High Schools

Juniata this year has sent 13 senior students majoring in secondary education into neighboring high schools as practice teachers in the field to which they have been devoting their four college years.

In the Huntingdon High School are found five members of the senior class. Vivian Livingston of Alverton, a mathematics and English major; James Cummins of Huntingdon, Spanish and French; Carmen Ciarracca from Rockhill Furnace, biology and science; Pat Tarquinio, McKees Rocks, history and English, and Walter Vanderbush from West Orange, N. J., history and English are student teaching.

Traveling daily to Mt. Union to teach in that town's school system are Ann Appleby from Mt. Union, an English and Spanish major; Howard Kerstetter of Shamokin, history and English; John Koontz, Everett, mathematics; Marty Woy, Everett, Spanish and David Appleby from Huntingdon, a history and English major.

Alfarata Junior High School is the location for Larry Confer from Muncy, a chemistry and physics major, and Stewart Kerchner of Huntingdon, a history and Spanish major.

Professor Kiracofe is the secondary school adviser for this group who upon graduation will be certified to teach subjects in those fields of endeavor in which at least 18 credit-hours have been achieved.

Well-Known Artist To Appear In Oller Hall Chapel Program

• Grant Reynard An Outstanding Artist •

Students and faculty of Juniata College will hear Grant Reynard, an outstanding artist, Monday during chapel.

Reynard, who has spent three years preparing this lecture, will have projected on a screen his drawings of life in New York City as he speaks.

Born In Nebraska

Born in Grand Island, Nebraska, he has studied at Chicago Art Institute and the Acadamy of Fine Arts. He has also studied in London and Paris. Among his accomplishments is the 1939 Carrington Prize for painting. For several summers he was in association with such other greats creative workers as Edwin Arlington Robinson, Willa Cather, Thorton Wilder, Rollo Walter Brown, DuBose and Dorothy Hayward, William Rose Benet and others at MacDowell colony in New Hampshire.

Reynard's lecture has been a success in such colleges and universities as Smith, Cornell, Buffalo and Mount Holyoke. He has given demonstrations in New York at the Art Student's League, National Arts Club, Grand Central Galleries, MacDowell Club and the National Academy.

Other Chapels

Wednesday, October 5, the chapel speaker will be President Ellis; Prof. Yoder will speak on Friday.

JC Campus Talent Can Improve Hospitalized Veterans' Outlook

by George Fattman

One evening per month, or less, of a JC sudent's time can introduce a treasure chest of happiness into the depressing, uneventful existance of the veterans who are receiving treatment in he Veterans Hospital, Altoona.

During the past three years JC students, under the direction of Miss Doyle, have at irregular intervals been traveling to the Altoona hospital to provide entertainment for the vets. One such show was presented last Monday evening.

Volunteers Welcome

However, this story is not to publicize this fact primarily, but rather to seek volunteers in the student body who can sing, dance play a musical instrument or give readings to insure a vast wealth of entertainment so that the project can be carried out every month.

Participating students usually prepare a program to be given in an auditorium before an audience of those who can leave their beds. Following this, students visit the rooms of bedridden patients. "The patients just love it," remarked Miss Doyle.

Not Professional-Like

The names of those who care to participate will be kept on file, and from these the programs will be prepared. Miss Doyle pointed out that the various acts needn't be "finished" and professional-like in order to be a big hit with the veterans.

Everyone is invited to help out with this community project which will not only brighten up the lives of those who have done so much for us, but which will also give a great deal of pleasure to the participants. Those interested should see Miss Doyle or Shirley Baroody.

Alice Waite Advances To Paper Club Editor

Alice Waite, a junior sociology major from Hollidaysburg, has been named Club Editor of the Juniatian.

Miss Waite, formerly a member of news and feature staffs of the paper, will work with representatives of the various clubs to present publicity in their behalf and news of their activities in each issue of the Juniatian.

JCers Should Clear Own Tables In Totem

Those concerned with Totem Inn urge everyone to clear all their dishes off the tables and deposit them in the space provided for them.

This policy has been in effect since the student center has opened in order to help out those who are working there. Everyone is requested to continue this practice.

Juniatian Staff Adds 12 Student Members

Eleven people have been added to the various staffs of the Juniatian.

These include Eleanor Newton, Emmalyn Heed, Elizabeth Shearer, Del McQuaide, Barbara Zoellin and Ross Nahrgang, news Liz Shearer, features; Bill Ebner, Allen Custer, Bill Mariotti and Carl Wass, sports, and Nancy Hoffman, business.

Summer Months Bring Campus Improvement

When upperclassmen arrived, they noticed that there had been "some changes made" during the summer months to facilities on campus.

The outside trim of the girls' dorm, Faculty Club, Home Management House, home economics building and Geiger House ha been painted. The fence and grandstand of College Field ha also received a new coat of green paint.

In the Cloister 33 rooms were painted, and 45 in the girls' dorm were redecorated. Rooms in Home Management House and the Faculty Club were also painted. There were four bathrooms remodeled in the girls' dorm, but the bathrooms in Oneida and Founders are not completed yet.

In Brumbaugh Hall two bathrooms were redone in pink enamel-coated steel wall tile with light gray plastered walls and ceilings. The floor tile is charcoal gray and pink. The wall tile in Oneida is yellow with a black band trim, and the floor tile is tan. The four new bathrooms are equipped with fixtures, countertop sinks with sliding doors beneath and light gray steel partitions. One hundred new beds and airfoam mattresses have also been ordered for the girls' dorm.

In the library a new reading room has been remodeled and has been opened in the basement. Work is continuing on the utility building being constructed adjacent to the heating plant, and also on the steam line.

JC's Cheering Squad Has Eight Members

As a result of recent tryouts the 1955-56 cheerleading squad will include the following:

Eloise Holsinger, Nancy Hess, Jean Rubicam, Nancy Nevin, Janice Gilroy, Barbara Mauer, Ann Willson and Lois Mezey, captain.

WJC & WHUN To Do Game Broadcast Sat.

The Juniata-Moravian game will be broadcast Saturday afternoon through the facilities of WHUN, featuring WJC program manager Bob Hamm at the microphone accompanied by Bill Smith supplying the color.

The game will be broadcast directly from Bethlehem and will start at 12:50 P. M. Huntingdon time. The dial setting for WHUN is 1150.

Brigadoon Cast Now Rehearsing

Chorus rehearsals began Monday for the all-college operetta, "Brigadoon," to be presented on Parent's Day weekend, Friday and Saturday, November 11 and 12.

Professor Donald Johnson, who is in charge of music, called the chorus "nicely balanced." Those who are members of it include Miriam Bricker, Bonnie Brumbaugh, Lois Dunlap, Lois Guildin, Lois Heart, Carol Teeter, sopranoes; Nancy Grace, Lois Mezey, Muriel Rudolph, Mary Alice Snyder, Alice Waite, Aileen Wright, altos.

Herbert Deucher, Paul Heart, Ernest Lashlee, Harvey Ressler, Joseph Senft, Gordon Winter tenors; Bruce Dickey, Jay Guyer, Lawrence Landes, Dick Livingston, Bryan Stauffer, Earl Stutzman, basses. Alice Jean Hoffman is pianist.

Committee chairmen were announced by Shirley McNitt and Elain Aitken, student managers. Jane Ellenberger is in charge of costumes; Dot Fogle, properties; Barbara Mauer, make-up; Bruce Bennett, lighting; Phil Marcocci, stage crew; Maggie Sims, tickets; Ann Yesko, programs; Alma Skinner, publicity; Sandy Swartz, promptress, and Flo Wenzel, set construction.

Prof. Brammer Names 41 JC Band Members

Dr. Brammer announced that this year the band will consist of 40 members, including six majorettes and drum major, Peter Fahney.

In the group are Caroline Merroth and Joan Fyock, flute; Barbara Phennicie, Charles Fox, Carol Holsopple, Phil Shreiner, Melba Smith, Norma Hottle, Kathryn Holsinger, Virginia Kelly and Sally Grove, clarinet; Dick Lantzy and Nancy Phennicie, saxaphone.

Carol Olbrich, Shirley Nace, Janice Hoyer, George Fattman and Daniel John, horn; Alfred Norris, basson; Paul Adams, Horatio Isenberg, Harvey Ressler, James Snare and Nancy Grace, trumpet; Dick Wenger, Jay Guyer and Fred Guion, trombone; Joe Senft and Chuck Seeley, baritone; Spencer Ward, tuba, and Dewey Mayes, Peter Wright,

From The Editor's Notes

There is on campus at this time a group of young men aspiring to become the Juniata College Dance Band.

The need for such an organization to play for big dances and for Saturday night affairs has been increasingly evident.

Arrangements for backing a college band were discussed at Leadership conference this year. Such a group, upon the approval of the Senate, would be granted the privilege of calling themselves the Juniata College Dance Band, a small renumeration for their performance at the big dances and sheet music under the stipulation that they play whenever needed and would not play for other than college functions. It seems upon inspection that the college (as a whole, students included) would be getting the better end of this deal.

This present group, which is lead by Pete Wright, although not polished, has the possibilities of becoming a good band. The group consisting of underclassmen as it does, has a potential of continuing after this present school year. They have the necessary talent but they need more experience playing togther and working up numbers than they have gotten these past few weeks. With a lot of hard work, they should be able to do a passable job within a few weeks. Even more improvement should follow.

Although they have the ambition and the will to try to succeed, the fellows also need the assurance that the student body is behind them in their strivings to provide music for the dances. A few words to Pete, looking in on the practice sessions and offering constructive criticism may help this group to come up to a standard of which they and we can be proud.

Letters To The Editor — —

Like most students attempting to comply with the college regulations, I read the Grey Paper. However, this year I reacted to the often repeated affirmation, "It (the college) heartily disapproves of uninhabited displays of affections in the social rooms, the corridors and elsewhere in public."

Throughout the year resident men and women's house meetings will provide an occasion for the recitation of this affirmation with or without comment. Yet few students will object to a statement of administration policy.

Particularly when the authors of the Grey Paper seem aware that social relationships among students lead to displays of affection which should be in private rather than in public. Such a sentiment in the college regulations is in keeping with the thoughts of many sensitive individuals who appreciate expressing the meaning of their relations in private.

The difficulty is that various cases throughout the years form evidence for a conclusion that the college "heartily disapproves" of any thing more advanced than an occasional good-night peck. Even more, there seems to be an unstated policy of making every private spot on campus public. The problem, as I see it, is that there is no private spot allowed for displays of affection which result during social relationships. The problem then is with the college's unstated policy rather than its Grey Paper policy.

For instance, here is a typical student reaction. The men who live up on the hill need lights from the Cloister to the New Dorm. The question was raised what would be the quickest and surest way to get them. The answer: "just let Mac find a couple necking on the walk."

That such an action would bring the desired result seems evident when you realize one of the biggest contradictions on campus. That is, the library step lights are constantly left on when the building is not in use despite the librarians conscious conservation of light in the reading rooms on cloudy days.

Such attitudes and actions reveal that the unstated policy is either locking or lighting every nook and cranny on campus. These measures may not be an administration policy. It does not really matter whether they are or not. My purpose is not to find a scapegoat for the less-than-desirable conditions of social relations. My purpose is to point out that what actually is is not what is desired. The students don't enjoy playing hide and seek, and the administration, unless they are of a sadistc temperament, probably do not enjoy playing the part of detectives. The problem has already been stated. Two alternatives seem apparent. To all those interested in the social relationships on this campus, either defend the present solution or propose a new one.

But no matter which position you take face the fact that displays of affection in social relations are here to stay.

You can rest assured that I am sincere in my challenge and not baiting an issue for the entertainment of Juniatian readers. So next week in letters to the editor, I await your response to this challenge.

Sincerely,
Jerry Richards

Dear Editor, Juniatian:

It was resolved that Oneida Dining Hall be opened precisely at the scheduled time for meals for a trial period of one month.

When, may I ask, does this trial period start?

Accent On Reading

THERE IS NO ASIA, by Dwight Cooke. The author takes you on a tour of the Far East into the homes and temples of its vastly different peoples; shows you how they live, eat, and love; what they think, and sometimes even how they die. He says, "The only things the nations of Asia have in common are negative. They are not white. They are not well fed. They do not trust and admire the West."

FIFTY YEARS IN CHINA, by John L. Stuart. Memoirs of an American missionary, educator, and diplomat, who spent half a century in China as President of Yenching University, prisioner of the Japanese, and United States ambassador. More than half the book takes up the postwar period when the author aided General Marshall in the ill-starred negotiations between the Nationalists and Communists. Some readers may not share the author's enthusiasm for Chiang Kai-shek and the Nationalists.

CLASS DUES DAY

Class dues day is scheduled for next Wednesday, October 5. The three upperclass treasurers, Al Nyce, senior; Ray Burket, junior; and Ken Fassnacht, sophomore, or their representatives will be in front of Students Hall at this time to collect your dues.

Can the GOP win in 1956 without Eisenhower?

With the news that the President suffered a heart attack last week, it looks very much as though they may have to try it.

However, one should examine the reasons for the President's great popularity. Many of the Americans who "like Ike" and tell the pollsters they will vote for him must also approve his program.

Eisenhower has been President 32 months. The major policies of his administration have been clearly outlined. They would include ending the Korean War, building military and political alliances against communism in Asia, using every possible device and forum to work for an honorable peace, an effective and sensible program for removing security risks from the federal government, decreasing federal control over the national economy and showing great concern for minorities and persons of less fortunate economic status.

These policies have brought the nation the greatest prosperity in its history. They have had the almost unaminous support of the Republicans in Congress, the farm issue being the sole exception. All these policies have represented a very definite change from the approach of the Truman Administration. Many of them have been strongly opposed by the Democrats.

The Eisenhower program is a matter of record. Why would the President be so tremendously well-liked by the nation's voters if his program were not approved by them?

Assuming the nation does generally approve the Eisenhower record, why can't Richard Nixon or any other Republican of character and ability who believes in this record and the spirit of government behind it be elected?

Opener Pits Indians Against Moravian Tomorrow

From The Bleachers

Tomorrow afternoon Juniata's football fortunes will hang in the balance as two well primed football machines meet on the Moravian field. The undefeated Indians, who now stand with mighty Oklahoma as the only unbeaten elevens in the country, will run into a veteran Greyhound squad which still seems to be running on the momentum it gathered halfway through last season.

After being nipped by Fran Wampler's punt return last fall, the Greyhounds won six of their last seven games closing out with four straight, each more convincing than the last.

Virtually intact, the same squad rolled through a pre-season scrimmage schedule which was cause for dismay among JC fans. F&M fell before the Bethlehem team six TD's to zero to an attack evenly balanced between passing and running. Then Drexel Tech was crushed 33-7 by a powerful split-T running attack.

As shown by the Lock Haven scrimmage however, Coach Hicks squad is vastly improved over last year at this same time. Tomorrow's battle then will decide who has improved the most.

Indications are that a host of JC rooters will trek to Bethlehem for the game. The team will need all of their support, for this shapes up as the stiffest test in three years for the winning Tribe.

In the opinion of the veteran members of the football team this year's rookie crop may be, as a whole, the best since the present senior class appeared on the scene. Although the prospect of injuries at certain positions would be frightening, the problem of depth shapes up much better than last year when the "14 iron men" hung on for eight games.

Freshmen like Dick Hummel, Butch Mathias, Ken Oppipery, Al Sellari, Don Shover and Joe Sopata, to name a few, stand out as a steady group who could easily evolve into outstanding players in a year or two.

Likewise sophomores like Bernie McQuown, George Zeh, Tony Chirico, and Bill Schott have quietly matured into reliable reserve.

After hearing the wolves yapping over some of last week's football forcasts I approach this part of the column gingerly. So let's start off with a breather—
California over Penn
Army over Penn State a squeaker
Maryland over Baylor
Georgia Tech over SMU
Notre Dame over Indiana
Navy over South Carolina
North Carolina over North Carolina State
Ohio State over Stanford
Oklahoma over Pitt.

GROVE CITY over Wash & Jefferson, unknown quantity
HAVERFORD over Wagner

Hicks Expects 'Tough Game' Sat. When JC Braves Engage Moravian

by Allen Custer

Coach Bob Hicks said, "the boys will have their work cut out for them this Saturday afternoon when they tackle a tough Moravian eleven." He also was quoted as saying, "the team as a whole is in good physical condition, and mentally they are confident that they will come out on top."

Coach Hicks plans to line up at scrimmage in a T formation, and then shift into the single wing. The Indians will use an unbalanced line.

"Probably the greatest load the boys will have on their shoulders Saturday is the fact that they must win to keep their win streak intact," Hicks went on to say.

The probable starters for Saturday's game are: At left end, Keith Birmingham; left tackle, Bernie McQuown; left guard, William Haushalter; the center position will be John Staley; rigrt guard, Charles Haines; right tackle, Charles Mullen; and at right end Barry Drexler. The backfield includes Pat Tarquinio at tail back; Robert Sill, fullback; Don Pheasant, wing back; and the blocking back is Ron Bechtel.

Some freshmen who looked very good in practice and who might see some action are: Robert Beach, Richard Hummel, Kenneth Opipery, Albert Sellari, and Don Shover.

Men's "55 Intramural Football Competition Initiated By Kaylor

by Dave Suloff

Football became the first intramural sport to start this semester on college hill. Senate Chairman of Athletics, Elwood "Sonny" Kaylor has set up the schedule to include the twelve teams that presented rosters to him by the deadline last Thursday.

The games will be played in the afternoon at 4 o'clock. The latest possible starting time is 4:15. Six men will constitute a team, three or more on the line of scrimmage. Games will be played in 15 minute quarters, and the free substitution rule will be in effect.

One time out for each team will be permitted per quarter before a penalty will be invoked. Twenty yards will be required for a first down. The home team on each schedule is responsible for finding an official for that contest. One substitute from each team will be responsible for running the yard markers.

Spike shoes of any type are illegal. No participant may shift from one roster to another after his original team has played one contest. Additions to rosters must be reported to the chairman of athletics.

Juniors Cap Win In Hockey League

Dottie Stricter scored four goals for the Juniors as they sent the Seniors down to a 7-0 defeat in the opening game of the intramural hockey league, Monday, September 26. Norma Hottle also helped the Junior cause by scoring two points and Nancy Backman came through with one point.

Norma Hottle, chairman of the girls' hockey league, lists the remainder of the schedule as follows:

Oct. 3	Sophomores vs. Frosh
Oct. 6	Seniors vs. Frosh
Oct. 10	Juniors vs. Sophomores
Oct. 13	Seniors vs. Frosh
Oct. 17	Juniors vs. Frosh
Oct. 20	Seniors vs. Sophomores
Oct. 24	Sophomores vs. Frosh
Oct. 27	Seniors vs. Juniors
Oct. 31	Seniors vs. Sophomores
Nov. 3	Juniors vs. Frosh

Each game will begin at 4:30 p.m. In case of rain the games will be rescheduled at a later date.

The Blue and Gold games will be played on Monday, November 7, Thursday, November 10, and Monday, November 14.

Fifteen Game Win Streak Placed On Line Against Heavy Hounds

The charges of Coach Bob Hicks will place a fifteen game win streak on the line when they open the 1955 grid season against Moravian College tomorrow afternoon.

Experience will be the keynote when the two elevens clash on the Bethlehem, Pa. stadium. Fourteen lettermen are listed on the roster of both clubs.

Coach Rocco Calvo of Moravian expects to field a starting team that will outweight Juniata ten pounds per man in the backfield and 20 per man along the line. Last season when JC eked out a 14-12 victory of the Hounds they had conceeded a similar weight advantage.

Marsh Returns

Three year letter winner Bill Marsh is back to direct the t-formation for the hometowners. He will be backed at the quarterback slot by Bob Wickizer another three letter-man, giving Moravian exceptional depth at that spot.

Calvo's charges, in the past years have utilized the option play against the Braves. This year early reports from the Hound campus predict a stronger offense then last season despite the loss of standout halfback Jim Evanko.

Paul Slifka, a sophomore, is slated to fill the left halfback spot with Joe Geremeser, leading scorer last year, at the right halfback. Rod Miller will handle the fullback chores.

Storch Heads Line

In the line, the Greyhounds are solidly set with a veteran studded array. Captain Champ Storch, a strong candidate for All-Pennsylvania last year, will be back to handle the center chores. Storch, a 200 pounder, is a three letter winner.

At the guards Sherwood Gum and Sam Mugavero, 186 and 181 pounds respectively, a pair of three lettermen are set to start.

Gene Potter, 241 pounds and Myron Savacool, 190 pounds are slated to start at the tackle slots. Both are veterans of several seasons on the Moravian line.

Jerry Potter, 195, and Harry Shropshire, 195, will be at the ends when the contest gets underway.

Despite the experienced front line Calvo has expressed concern over a weak bench.

The Tribe coaching staff of Tony Segalovich, head coach Bob Hicks and Joe Veto check strategy in preparation for the season opener.

1150 On The Dial... WJC Back On Air After Delay

WJC is on the air again.

The start of the current broadcasting year was delayed a week when nearly everything in he station that could break broke—practically simultaneously. The IBC's staff of engineers spent a week repairing everything from the microphone pre-amplifier to faulty monitor speakers.

However, normal broadcasting got underway with the best schedule of programs yet to be arranged, and few complaints have been made about reception except for areas in the girls' dormitories.

When this year's Leadership Conference resolved that WJC broadcast Sunday evenings from 10 to 12 p.m. in addition to its regular schedule, program director Bob Hamm dreamed up "Dreamers' Serenade," a two hour period of sweet music to be interrupted only by occasional station breaks.

Audience Participation

While the WJC studio usually contains several interested students who dropped down to see how things work, two shows have been designed to include and encourage audience participation namely "I've Got A Secret," and "Around the Clock."

"I've Got A Secret, which claimed to be the most popular WJC presentation on campus last semester, will certainly continue in popularity this year. Its ad libbed quips and fresh slants on JC students places it high on the preferred list.

A newcomer this year, "Around the Clock" has proved to be an equally exciting show, especially since various Huntingdon merchants are using it as a channel for giving away all sorts of prizes. Surprisingly enough, the main worry of producing such a show is getting someone to bestow the prizes upon. Freshman Court takes a large number of possible contestants, as do threatening Wednesday tests.

Of particular interest in relation to "Around the Clock" was the eagerness expressed by local merchants to contribute prizes for a mere mention of the donor and his business establishment's address. They must realize the potential of the customers residing on College Hill.

Debate Club To Hold Practice Wednesday

The debate club will hold its first practice debate on Wednesday night at 7 in Room A.

The question will be the guaranteed annual wage. Participants will be De McQuaide and Chuck Martin, affirmative, and Jackie Hayes and Newt Taylor, negative.

Irrepressible Desires Overwhelm Freshmen

by Nan Heller

Listen my children, and you shall hear
Of the fate of the frosh at the start of the year.
Hardly a student is now alive
Who doesn't remember that internal drive
To whitewash diagonals and all 'cept' lands
And most of them do dye by their own hands!
So we're glad in a way you kept up this tradition,
But punishments might just find you a-wishin'
You hadn't revolted and shown irritation
'Cause you might be repaid at initiation!

Test Is Available To Law Students

The Law School Admission Test required of applicants for admission to a number of leading American Law schools, will be given at more than 100 centers throughout the United States on the mornings of November 12, 1955, February 18, April 21, and August 11, 1956.

During 1954-55 nearly 10,000 applicants took this test, and their scores were sent to over 100 law schools.

A candidate must make separate application for admission to each law school of his choice and should inquire of each whether it wishes him to take the Law School Admission Test and when. Since many law schools select their freshman classes in the spring preceding their entrance, candidates for admission to next years's classes are advised ordinarily to take either the November or the February test, if possible.

The Law School Admission Test, prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service, features objective questions measuring verbal aptitudes and reasoning ability rather than acquired information. Sample questions and information regarding registration for and administration of the test are given in a bulletin of information.

Bulletins and applications for the test should be obtained four to six weeks in advance of the desired testing date from Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, N. J.

In The Clubs

It was obvious that this past week was "Club Membership Week" on campus, the Totem Inn bulletin board being swamped with advertisements of the many clubs on campus. The membership campaign was launched last Monday at Freshman Assembly when eighteen representatives introduced their clubs to the frosh. Some of the unique introductions used were a puppet show demonstrating the importance of belonging to the Pyrenees Club, still shots of various athletics in which the WAA participates, and a record of a march song which could be the way our JC band would sound if interested frosh join up.

Those participating in the program were: Sigma Gama—Gipp Cimmera, Debate—Jimm Montgomery, FTA—Becky Guyton, German—Skip Osterling, IVCF—Tory Froisland, WAA Dotty Schicker, Camera—Les Querry, Art—Les Querry, IRC—Bill Smith, Band—Carol Olbrich, Lambda Gamma—Mary Jane Breidenbaugh, Masque—Dick Livingston, Pyreenes—Jim Cummins and Marion Fairbairn, WJC—Bob Hamm, Outing—Tom Walker Standing Stone Grotto—Ralph Mumma, Chemistry—Dick Wenger, Scalpel & Probe—Harry Garber, and Modern Dance—Lu Weimar. Judy Gearhart took charge of the program.

Modern Dance, although not a club at the present time, was included in the program due to the enthusiasm its members have shown in becoming a club in the near future.

Intercollegiate Chatter

by Nancy Freed

The school year on college campuses near and far has just commenced, but there are already many newsy and amusing tidbits concerning their activities seeping out.

The State Council of Education has authorized Elizabethtown State Teachers College to add courses in special education to the present curriculum. These courses will enable a student to be certified in special education in the elementary field.

Dr. Harry V. Masters, president of Albright, officially opened Albright's 100th year at ceremonies on September 20. The opening convocation was the first of five major events planned for the centennial celebration. Others include Centennial Homecoming Day, Educational Convocation Saturday, a Centennial Service Sunday, and special centennial activities in connection with Commencement Weekend. It's going to be a big year on the Albright campus.

President of McPherson College made a public statement concerning "the old prof—friend or enemy?" He says that at the start of every school year "almost unconsciously begin to think of the teacher, not as your friend, but as your testmaker and enemy. This is a wrong and unfortunate attitude, for the teacher is really your friend. He has gone through everything you are now going through. In fact, before he could get his M. A. degree or his Ph. D. degree, he went through things which make what you are now doing seem relatively easy. He is thinking of you ten years from now: you may be thinking of yourself only now."

It seems befitting to add a few words to the wise on this subject. From Ferrum Junior College come these thoughts: "The educated man is he who is SOBERLY aware of his ignorance. Courage is not the absence of fear—it is the mastery of it." Keep that in mind, Frosh, when you walk into your first college exam.

On the lighter side of the news, Mark Thompson, Daily Trojan columnist on the USC campus, had a new type of shampoo recently. While seated in the campus grill, quietly sipping a coke, a coed suddenly poured a chocolate malted milk over his head, shouting, "Take that for your column!" As the old saying goes, "Women sure are unpredictable."

(ACP) From the column in the Holcad of Westminister College, New Wilmington, Pa., comes this frightening thought for editors: "Wouldn't it be embarrassing if our errors were tabulated and published every day like those of a ball player?" It is even more frightening to think of having one's errors in daily life tabulated and published.

JC Students To Select Homecoming Queen Mon.

Four senior and six junior coeds have been nominated as candidates for Homecoming Queen and attendants.

Mary Jane Bridenbaugh, Nancy Freed, Nancy Leatherman and Maggie Sims are the senior nominees; Eileen Gipprich, Carol Jenkins, Rosalie Langer, Shirley McNitt, Alice Waite and Joy Wenger comprise the junior candidates.

The Homecoming Queen competition is sponsored by the Juniatian, and candidates are selected from the junior and senior classes by the male members of the Juniatian editorial staff and the male members of the Senate. Monday has been set as election day, with the polls being open starting at 7:45 a. m., between each class, after lunch until 1:30 p. m. and after dinner until 7 p. m. in Totem Inn.

Qualifications Listed

Voters should keep in mind appearance, personality and wholehearted participation in college activities as qualifications for a good queen. Each student will have the opportunity to vote for one coed—the one receiving the highest number of votes will reign as queen, with the next two highest serving as attendants.

For the convenience of the voters, here is a thumbnail sketch of each candidate:

Mary Jane Bridenbaugh, a senior home ec major from Martinsburg, is a member of the women's house committee, the chapel choir, WAA, Lambda Gamma and JCA.

A senior elementary education major from Telford, Nancy Freed is chairman of decorations for the Homecoming dance and a member of the women's house committee, the social committee, FTA and the Juniatian staff. She was also May court attendant for two years and Homecoming attendant last year.

Perkasie Lass Runs

Nancy Leatherman, who hails from Perkasie and is also an elementary education major, is a member of FTA, the girls' trio and the women's house committee. Miss Leatherman is a senior.

Maggie Sims, a senior music major from Turtle Creek, lists the touring choir, FTA and JCA among her activities. In addition she was May court attendant her freshman and sophomore years.

Student Body To Elect Three Movies For Year

This year, in order to show movies which will satisfy the tastes of the greatest number of the student body, the Social Committee has selected eleven movies from the Films Incorporated Catalog. The committee has decided that the three movies receiving the highest number of student votes will be shown this year.

Ballot sheets will be placed in each mail box Monday morning, and ballot boxes will be provided in Totem Inn until 9 p.m. Monday. When voting, select one of the first three to be shown Spiritual Emphasis Week and any other two. The first three were selected for their serious themes.

1. GRAPES OF WRATH by John Steinbeck, starring Henry Fonda. "People of drouth and dust who failed to restore their land—and the terrible vengance exacted by the ravished land."

2. GENTLEMEN'S AGREEMENT, starring Gregory Peck, Dorothy McGuire, John Garfield. "You must have the courage of your convictions when faced with intolerance and injustice. A tense adaptation by Moss Hart of an outstanding novel which shows prejudice on both sides."

3. HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY, with Walter Pigeon, Donald Crisp, Maureen O' Hara, Anna Lee "Profound family issues, 19th century economic conditions and labor problems, basic factors in all communities, are poignantly set forth in this straight forward recounting of the transformation of a lovely valley in the hills of Wales into a grim and grimy mining district. As the district disentegrates so do the lives of its people."

4. ARSENIC AND OLD LACE with Josephine Hull and Cary Grant. "The story of the batty Brewsters who had a penchant for poison—in elderberry wine for tired old men."

5. CALAMITY JANE with Doris Day, Howard Keel, and Phillip Carey. "A hilarious and tuneful musical comedy based on the exploits, true or legedary, of the straight shooting Calamity Jane and Wild Bill Hickok in

Hedgerow Theatre Group To Give 12th Night Presentation Oct. 11

The hilarious Shakespearian comedy "Twelfth Night" will be presented by Hedgerow Theatre Company of Moyland, Pa. on Tuesday evening, October 11, at 8:15 in Oller Hall and is being co-sponsored by Huntingdon Kiwanis Club and Juniata College.

With two capricious and facinating heroines, Viola and Olivia; four oddly assorted comic characters, Malvolio, Sir Andrew Aguecheek, Sir Toby Belch and Maria and the court jester. Feste, Twelfth Night exhibits Shakespeare's rollicking humor at its best.

Time Of Celebration

Twelfth Night, or as it is called in France, The Night of Kings, actually commemorates the visit of the three wise men from the East with their gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh, the first Christmas presents. In the lusty life of Elizabethan days, this festival became a time of carnival, drinking, dancing, boisterous fun and practical jokes. It is in this spirit that Shakespeare's play is designed.

The play begins with a shipwreck, a subject touched on in many of Shakespeare's plays; for, what with the exploration of the new world, the circumnavigation of the globe by English sailors,

13th Annual Contest Is Open To JC Poets

Entries for the 13th annual college competition sponsored by the National Poetry Association must be in by November 5, according to a press release made by the group.

All college students are invited to submit original verses to be considered for possible publication in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry. Entries should be mailed to National Poetry Association, 3210 Selby Ave., Los Angeles 34, Calif.

Manuscripts must be typed or written in ink on one side of sheet. Student's home address, name of college and college address must appear on each manuscript. Students may submit as many as desired. Theme and form may be in accordance with the wish of the contributor. Shorter efforts are preferred.

Heller Work Printed

Last year a short poem written by Nan Heller, a senior, was printed in the College Poetry Anthology.

Homecoming's Climax To Be Autumn Frolic

The "Homecoming Frolic" under the sponsorship of the "J" Club and WAA will be held Saturday night, October 15th at 8:30 in the Memorial Gym.

Music will be furnished by Pete Wright's band. All are welcome.

Steel Holding Up Work At Maintenance Plant

Juniata College's new maintenance building is now being erected in the area adjacent to the present heating plant on Oneida Street.

Construction of the two-floor concrete block structure costing approximately $20,000 is progressing slowly because of a steel shortage. As soon as steel for the roof can be obtained the building should be completed within three weeks.

A general shop, paint room and tool and supply storage rooms will be located on the first floor. Bulk material and government documents, which were removed from the library to provide room for the freshmen reading room, will be stored on the second floor.

A loading dock will be constructed at the south entrance for receiving shipments of supplies and equipment. Another entrance will be made on Oneida Street.

No Chapel Wed. Due To Mt. Day

Miss Doyle has announced the following chapel schedule for the week of October 10:

Dr. Kiracofe will speak Monday morning; there will be no chapel Wednesday, annual Mountain Day. Professor Johnson will present an organ recital Friday.

Plaid In Keeping With Brigadoon

by Sylvia Shemeld

With this being the year for Scotch plaids it seems only fitting that Juniata students should put aside the Indian headress on November 12, and don black watch kilts in preparation for the musical "Bigadoon".

Many JCers will spend sleepless nights in order to prepare for the play which depicts what happens when a town that has slept for 100 years awakes again. The chorus has been chosen, and rehearsals have begun for the All-College Musical, which this year is being held on Parent's Day. The undercurrents of thick, Scotch brogue are not new foreign students, but members of the cast "brushing up" in preparation for their rehearsals which begin October 12th.

Brigadoon is doomed—but to success, under the guidance of Prof. Johnson, Mr. Felton and Elaine Aitken, student director.

Unlucky 13th Frosh Initiation Night Here

Tell me, Frosh, what was the most embarassing moment you have ever experienced?

The most terrifying? And tell me, also, about the worst moment in your life. What! You call those rough? Oh, you kids! Are you in for a surprise, for believe me, the sophomores are going all out to make plans for your discomfort (which probably accounts for that glint in their eyes.) Yes, initiation is drawing close—very close! too close, perhaps.

Don't be frightened—just get plenty of rest and food to build up your mental and physical stamina for those impending dangers which await you in the very near future.

This message I bring
All Freshmen take heed
For your beloved sophomores
Do many a kind deed.
For their hearts are cold
And their mercy is dead
To Freshmen they give warning
Danger lies ahead!

Girls May Now Visit Lounge Of New Dorm

The Senate, Administration, and men's house committee have approved a trial program whereby women will be allowed to visit in the lounge of the men's new dormitory from 2 to 5:30 p.m. and from 6 to 12 p.m. on Saturdays and from 2 to 5:30 and 6 to 10 on Sundays.

If, however, when the program is re-examined after Thanksgiving, it is found that the coeds have not been taking advantage of the lounge facilities, or other undesirable situations have arisen the Senate, administration and men's house committee have the option of revoking the privilege. The program will go into effect this weekend.

Jerry Richards presented to the Senate a petition, signed by 124 students, to have a committee formed to investigate the existing policy and pracice for expressing affection in social relationships on campus. The committee, as set up, consists of Bob Hamm, chairman; Jim Stayer, Alice Waite, and Jim Hunt.

College Students and Faculty To Go To Spruce Creek Wed.

by Ross Nahrgang

Almost as old as the thousand hills that surround Huntingdon is the traditional Mountain Day, when the entire Juniata student body faculty, staff and their families take to the hills, this year's day to be held Wednesday, October 12, in Colerain State Park, Spruce Creek.

This is one of the big dates on the Juniata calendar, a day set aside for enjoying the outdoors. The day includes an hour-and-a-half to two hour hike along mountain trails, where untold sights such as Ice Cave Gap, where natural ice may be found throughout the year, and Spruce Creek, one of the state's best trout streams, can be seen. F. H. Dutlinger, district forester, will explain the natural history of the terrain after which a park ranger will guide the hikers along the mountain trails starting at 10 a.m.

Transportation Provided

Classes, labs and college meals will be curtailed for the day. Buses for those without cars will leave from the school between 8:30 and 9 a. m. All students desiring bus transportation are requested to sign up before Monday so that the correct number of buses can be procured.

Details of this year's Mountain Day have been left to a committee of four—Prof. Yoder, Miss Mathias, Alice Waite and Sonny Kaylor. Besides the traditional hike there will be a noon meal "picnic style" to be followed by various games, such as volleyball and softball.

From The Editor's Notes

Monday morning our polls will open for the student body to elect Miss Homecoming IX. The fall queen represents Juniata's spirit and hospitality to the visiting alumni and guests. With this in mind, the candidates were chosen on a basis of personality, appearance and participation in campus activities. We hope that you will consider the meaning of "Miss Homecoming" as you vote.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR—

Dear Editor, the Juniatian:

A situation has arisen leaving the Sophomore Class without a president. Since it is the opinion of several members of the class that this situation cannot be conductive to the efficient functioning of the class, we suggest that a reorganization meeting be called and a new president be elected in a formal manner in order to relieve the present vice president of the duties temporarily left to him.

Intercollegiate Chatter

One of the readers of the "Fog Horn", newspaper of the University of San Fransisco, got a bit of publicity in the local newspaper when the family of a USF student sent him a bit of something to eat. The student: John Crillo, whose parent's own a delicatessen. The reader: Dwight D. Eisenhower, who receives a complimentary subscription. The sandwich consisted of a six-foot long loaf of French bread filled with all the goodies that a delicatessen holds. Ike apparently enjoyed it (Mamie too) for the Crillo's received an official letter of thanks in return. For approximately five dollars you can get one too (while they last) and eat like a king. Or a president!

Phil Goldfedder, an Albrightian, while relating his summer experiences, uttered this choice description: "For temporary relief, (from the heat, no doubt) I decided to visit the movies. I picked a most relaxing picture—that is, it was up until the time Grace Kelly stopped conjugating irregular verbs with Cary Grant and put her obicularis orises into a state of contraction—I left m the middle of one of those love scenes." Obviously the movie wasn't cooling Phil off any.

Time magazine research department says U. S. Colleges are the nation's fastest growing consumer market for apparel. They say college students spent a total of $626 million for apparel last year, or $232 for each of 2.7 million students.

If you had no idea that there was as many as 2.7 million persons enrolled in colleges and universities, hold your hats. College enrollments are expected to go up to 4 million in ten years and to 4.5 million by 1970.

E-Town has set up a newly furnished and appointed Prayer Room open to all denominations and faiths for private meditation. This would be a wholesome project for JCA to undertake, since we have no real chapel on the campus.

Once again its time for the lads 'n lassies of DePaul U. to don their favorite tarton and treat themselves to a real Highland Fling at the annual Scotch Hop. Plaid will be the order of the night from socks to bow-ties. Aye, that r-r-right. From the finest of highland styles to the sweet-smellin' heather it'll be a wonder-rful dance.

MAKING DEMOCRACY A REALITY: JEFFERSON, JACKSON, POLK, by Claude G. Bowers. Lectures by a noted historian on three presidents and their influence on American traditions of democracy. Subjects covered are: Thomas Jefferson: His final and decisive struggle for American democracy; James K Polk: why was he one of the great American presidents; Andrew Jackson: his substitution of party government for personal politics; Andrew Jackson: the heroic battles of his administration.

THE HOPE THAT SETS MEN FREE, by Howard J. Conn. A Congregational minister analyzes the hopes that sustain men in daily life, in meeting trouble, and in contemplating the future. There are, he says, several kinds of hope to which men cling—some based on daily experience, some on scientific, technical, cultural, or governmental achievement, and some on religious faith. His book is a persuasive and eloquent championship of Christianity as the true hope of the troubled world.

News Views

by Jim Montgomery

A new area of East-West tension appears to be developing in the Near East and North Africa. This situation could prove to be a long-range and dangerous significance. There are two main centers of tension, one is the Arab-Israel question and the other the crisis in French North Africa. Russia has projected herself into both situations.

The trouble in the Gaza strip has proved to be more than just a local squabble. This incident served notice on Egypt of the relatively great military strength of Israel and driven by the fear Egypt has looked for support. She has found the answer in the Soviet offer of arms. The Western powers have managed to keep Russian influence out of this area to a great degree, but this present crisis is a ready made opportunity which the Soviet would be hard put to ignore. Playing on the fears of Egypt, Russia has gained a position from which she may be able to antagonize the West for years to come. And as long as this state of turmoil is to her advantage, there is no reason to hope that she will do anything to lessen the tension in this area.

Russian intervention in North Africa is more subtle than her arms deal with Egypt. Russia is playing the anti-colonial and nationalist feelings of this spot to her own advantage. While the French walked out and the United States abstained, the Soviet Union and her satellites voted to discuss the question of Norh Africa in the U. N. In this manner she shows herself sympathetic towards these national and anti-colonial aspirations thereby driving a wedge between these fledging nations and these powers which do not actively support them,

Russia is making a play for the uncommitted millions of Africa and Asia under the guise of championing their freedom from colonial rule. These people will be the make-weight in the balance of the East-West struggle. The question is two-fold; how far will Russia live up to her promises at Geneva to lesson tensions and will Russia steal from the United States the reputation of being the patron saint of new nationalities.

ence business, the Senate modified the resolution concerning the publication of Senate election results to include the stipulation that losing candidates who want to petition to have the results of their office published must do so in writing before 10 p.m. the day following the announcement of the winner for that particular office. It was decided too, that all results to be published will be released simultaneously, but not before all twelve Senate positions have been filled.

Also in connection with Leadership Conference, Jim Stayer and Sonny Kaylor were appointed as Senate representatives to a committee which will investigate the existing religious program on campus.

Braves Dump Moravian 14-6; Face Mainliners Saturday

Sill, Tarquinio Score For Indians; Extend Win Streak To Sixteen

The Juniata Indians won their 16th consecutive football game with a bruising 14-6 win over the Moravian Greyhounds in the season opener at Bethlehem last Saturday.

Capitalizing on Moravian fumbles the Tribe scored early in the first quarter and then hung on to a one point lead until the last quarter when Bob Sill climaxed an 83 yard drive by plunging over from one yard out to clinch the game.

Courageous play by the JC line held back several Moravian offensive drives and finally wore down the heavier Greyhound forward wall. Offensively Sill's plunging and Pat Tarquinio's passing were outstanding.

Break For JC

The alert play of center John Staley put Juniata on the Moravian 15 yard line after a quick exchange of fumbles early in the first quarter. A 15 yard holding penalty moved the Tribe to the six. Four plays later Tarq slashed over from the three and Keith Birmingham converted to make it seven to zero.

Moravian's powerful split-T attack then pushed the Indians back to their own one in a lightning attack which chalked up five first downs. With their backs to the wall the JC line, bolstered by the play of McQuown, Waryck Schott and company held.

During an exchange of punts in the second quarter Don Pheasant bobbled a Moravian punt and the Greyhounds recovered at the Juniata 26. Eight plays later workhorse fullback Rod Miller drove over from the one to make it 7-6 at the half way mark.

In the third quarter a bad punt gave Moravian the ball on the Juniata 34 but a fumble halted the drive on the 17.

From that point on the Juniata offense jelled and marched 83 yards in 16 plays as Tarq, Sill and Pheas alternately rambled through the Greyhound line. Sill scored, Birmingham again converted and the line kept Moravian out of striking distance until the final gun.

In first downs the teams were even at 12 each but Moravian outdistanced the Tribe 235-185 in total yardage. Individually Moravian's Miller was the leader with a net of 111 yards.

Three Unbeaten Squads Assume IM Football Lead

With over 100 boys making up 12 teams the Intramural football program is now underway. Each squad will play 11 games under the schedule drawn up by IM sports chairman Sonny Kaylor.

Already the unbeaten teams have dwindled to three through Tuesday's games. These include the JC Juniors 3-0, the defending champion Collegians 2-0 and the Crazy Eights 2-0. The Collegians have the same team back as last year with the exception of two players. But those two have been adequately replaced.

Juniors Impressive

The JC Juniors are given the best chance of dethroning the Collegians. Already the Juniors have snowed under all opposition by comparatively easy scores; Hilltoppers 40-7, Nitwits 46-13 and the Iron Men 26-6.

The Collegians have actually played only one game as they won their opener on a forfeit. In their other game they rolled over the Cloister Creeps 34-0.

The other unbeaten outfit, the Crazy Eights, got by the Jabberwockies 13-6 and nipped the Vets 14-13.

The only other teams considered as having an outside chance to cop top honors are the Maulers Iron Men, Hilltoppers and Vets.

Second Contest Of Young Season Sends Gridmen Against Haverford

by Carl Wass

The Juniata Indians journey to Haverford this weekend in quest of their 17th straight win. Their opponents, The Haverford Fords, boast a line averaging 190 pounds and a backfield averaging 165.

Of the 11 starters seven are returning lettermen.

Like every other Juniata opponent this year the Fords will be gunning to end the third longest winning streak in the nation.

Last week the Mainliners won a squeaker from Wagner (N.Y.) College by a score of 7-6. With no opportunity to send a scouting crew the Indians will have no way of judging the strength of this year's Haverford squad until meeting them face to face.

JC Leads 6-3

The Indians defeated the Fords last year 14-6, and stand 6-3 over them since the rivalry began in 1924. The margin of last year's game and the returning Ford lettermen hint that Coach Bob Hicks' boys will not have a push-over.

● Pat Tarquinio ●
Triple-Threat Tailback

Haverford will field a team consisting of: Bill Ortman, Ted Regan, Don Cohill, George Keezy and Tom Martenis, seniors; Skip Block, Joe Torg and Pete Zavitz, juniors; and Bill Sayles, Bill Harvey and John Crawford, sophomores. No freshmen will start although eight are carried on the team roster.

Veteran backs Ortman and Cohill pose as major rushing threats to the JC line, as well as Reagan, who recently shifted to halfback, and Harvey, a transfer from Colby and reportedly an adept ball handler and passer.

Torg, Block and Zavitz form a veteran core for a line which will again put the Indian forward wall at a definite weight disadvantage.

Additional Rooter On Hicks' Side

Coach Bob Hicks of Juniata College has a new cheerleader this season. His wife, the former June Rhinhard, presented a new daughter during the summer. Melissa is the Hicks' first child.

From The Bleachers

by Jim Hunt

Sports scribes and sportscasters throughout the state have begun to take note of 'little' Juniata College again this year. Following Saturday's victory over Moravian many of the football fans in Pennsylvania remembered that JC had a winning streak of 16 straight. Thus next week at Haverford additional attention will be directed at the Mainline area as the Braves set out to make it 17 straight.

The Fords managed to eke out a close win over Wagner last Saturday but unfortunately the Indians were unable to have a scout at the game. Therefore the Indians of Coach Hicks will be forced to rely mainly on information gathered against Haverford last season.

Two seasons ago on the Mainline field the Fords almost stopped the JC win streak before it really started but the charges of Bill Smaltz pulled through to win in a touch and go contest.

A few final observations on the Moravian game before we turn our attention completely to this week's encounter.

The JC gridiron forces as well as most of the College Hill fans were mildly surprised at the ineffectiveness of the Greyhound passing attack. Veteran quarterback Bill Marsh, with experienced ends, was expected to hit the airlanes frequently. Perhaps his failure to complete more than three of 12 passes can be attributed to alert Indian defense. Whatever the reason it forced the Hounds to rely primarily on a ground attack which failed to produce at crucial points in the contest.

The game was not without its bad points for the Braves lost the services of blocking back Ron Becktel for at least one contest due to a knee injury sustained in the Moravian game. Tailback Pat Tarquinio, who found the going rough against the over-shifted hound defense, and guard Bill Schott also received injuries that may hamper them next Saturday. The JC gridders can certainly expect the backing of College Hill residents this season. Despite the long trip to Moravian a great number of students followed the Hicksmen to show they were behind the team all the way. Last year's graduating class displayed a strong interest in the fortunes of the 1955 grid edition as they turned up in force to witness the contest.

On the intramural scene a large league of 12 teams began action in the IM football season last week under the direction of Chairman of Athletics, Sonny Kaylor. A number of frosh teams augment the returning upperclass outfits to provide a league that should produce some good action in the forthcoming weeks.

Soccer was also inaugurated on the IM scene during the past week. It is interesting to note that soccer has continued to pick up followers on College Hill during the past two years. Perhaps somewhere in the future the sport will find its place on the list of intercollegiate activities.

Two weeks ago we climbed out on the limb and took first crack at picking the top intercollegiate games around the country. Despite the failure to predict the result of our neighbor's game we managed to select 11 of 15 correctly which isn't too bad for a starter.

For this week we call:
Navy over Pittsburgh
Minnesota over Northwestern
Notre Dame over Miami
Ohio State over Illinois
UCLA over Oregon St.
Penn State over Virginia
Rice over Clemson
Michigan State over Stanford
Swarthmore over Susquehanna
Drexel Tech over Ursinus
Lycoming over Lincoln
Grove City over Hiram
F & M over Dickinson
Moravian over Upsala

Five International Students Presently Attending Juniata

A recent release prepared by the college entertainment bureau gives a short biography of each of the five international students enrolled at Juniata.

The following are stories of their backgrounds, interests and hopes for the future printed in order that their fellow Juniatians may get to know them better.

Paul Amash, a junior, is a native of Jerusalem, Jordon. He attended the Friends Boys School at Ramallah, Jordon, and was first in his class of 16. He enrolled at Juniata in September of 1953 and is being assisted by a college scholarship and by the college student Senate. He is presently interested in concentration in education and foreign languages.

Eventually he hopes to obtain a master's degree in romance languages and to teach in a college. During the past summer Paul worked as a psychiatric aide in the Institute of Living, Hartford, Conn. He is president of the campus International Relations Club.

In Sook Choi, whose many friends call her Susie, came to America in December of 1951 from Seoul, Korea. She has been living with Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Cassel, Lititz, during her stay in the States.

Her father formerly was Secretary of Public Health and Welfare in President Rhee's cabinet; he served in this capacity for three years, from 1951-54. In Sook's mother is president of the Korean Nurses' Association.

Joseph Bozicevic's home was in Rakovica, Croatia, Yugoslavia — he's a refugee who four years ago came to America to live with relatives in Hermine, Pa. He entered Juniata as a freshman having advanced standing; he had taken a few courses at the University of Pittsburg.

While in Yugoslavia he attended school in Bihac and in Zagreb (capital city of Croatia). The latter, a school of economics, was taken over by Croatian nationalists during the Second World War. Before coming to Juniata Joe was employed by Woodville State Hospital. Here at school he will probably major in history.

Brothers In America

Hang Du Kim was born in Whang Hei, Korea, and attended senior high school in Seoul. He also attended Seoul National University for a year. Coming to America in October 1954, he enrolled at Juniata and is majoring in engineering. His brother, who journeyed to the States with Hang du, is attending Grove City College.

His father is a Korean government officer. His mother and younger sister are also at home.

Heng-Feng Lim, just plain Sam to Juniatians, was born in Negri Sembilan, Maylaya, where he later attended a Methodist mission school located there. For a few months he taught English in a Chinese school. He came to the States just prior to the opening of the fall term at Juniata.

Here he is majoring in the premedical cuhhiculum. His brother is attending the Pennsylvania State University. While in his native country Sam was active in the affairs of his church, especially the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

In The Clubs

Although many of the clubs have not had a chance to begin their year's activities as yet, a few have taken on worthwhile projects.

JCA

Final plans have been completed for this weekend's work camp which is being sponsored by the JCA. Tomorrow twenty fellows and girls will spend the afternoon painting the inside of the Mt. Olive Baptist Church on Cherry Lane. Throughout the course of a few hours what are now dirty and unsightly walls will take on a new attraction, for the color scheme will be gray and rose. Earlier this week the cracks were plastered and supplies assembled.

A short worship service will begin the activities following the noon meal tomorrow. Any JC students wishing to drop in at the church to view the "operation" are welcome to do so.

Tycoon

An organization meeting of the Tycoon Club will be held Friday at 7:15 in Student's Hall. Plans will be made for the coming year and a discussion held in anticipation of the future visit of a representative of Industrial Business Machines.

Lambda Gamma

Lambda Gamma will meet Monday, October 10th at 7:15 in the Home Economics building. The program will feature a local beautician who will give an illustrated lecture on hair styling. Any interested students are invited.

"The personal history of a young mental patient who underwent the harrowing experience of life in a mental institution and whose despair and illness are overcome by psychiatric treatment and the love and faith of her husband. The shocking conditions of over-crowded mental institutions are given documentary treatment."

10. A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE with Vivian Leigh, Marlon Brando, Kim Hunter, and Karl Malden. "The realistic actions show the disintegration of a woman who apparently was unable to resist drives and inclinations foreign and abhorrent to her better side." Based on the play by Tennessee Williams.

11. WHERE'S CHARLIE? with Ray Bolger, Allyn McLerie, and Robert Shackleton. "The delightful musical comedy in which Ray Bolger cavorted with such success on Broadway comes to the screen with all its fun and intact—In a fast moving sequence of chaperoning and dating Charley impersonates his aunt and also tries to be himself."

Bruce Cloud Finishes Naval OCS Training

Ensign Bruce L. Cloud, a 1954 graduate of Juniata, received his Navy Commission in graduate ceremonies at the United States Navy's Officer Candidate School.

Cloud, who majored in history and political science, resides in Philadelphia.

The graduates have just completed a four-month intensive indoctrination course in seamanship, operations and tactics, naval weapons, marine engineering, navigation and naval orientation and military law, an academic schedule about one and a half times that of the average college, which, coupled with the rigid military routine of the school, has qualified the men to serve as junior officers aboard the Navy's warships and the other commands.

In the class of 530, 310 officers were commissioned in the Naval Reserve. All were college graduates, representing 160 colleges and universities across the country.

1150 . . . WJC Features News

While the Indian Broadcasting Company's primary objective is to entertain JC students, WJC is doing a great deal to inform its listeners as well, especially when it comes to news.

Each weekday evening at 11 p. m. Bernie Cohen reports the day's happenings on "Headline Edition" with Bob Hamm sitting at the sports desk. This newscast is one of the best-prepared and best-presented programs on the WJC schedule. The boys could easily pass for professionals.

In addition to "Headline Edition" are two other WJC news shows, each of which can be heard Friday evening. "World News Roundup," a summary of the happenings throughout the week, reported by Jim Montgomery, is on the air at 9 p.m.

Spencer Ward brings JC students all the "News from College Hill" at 10. This program serves as an "on the air" bulletin board as well as a means of catching up on what's going on on campus.

and the conflicts at sea with the power of Spain, Elizabethean England was very conscious of the perils of the sea.

Viola and her brother Sebastian have been separated when their vessel is lost and each lands separately on the fabulous seacoast of Illyria, Viola in the company of a sea captain and his men, Sebastian rescued by one of the sailors, Antonio, and each believing that the other has been lost at sea.

Hedgerow stages the play with Elizabethean simplicity, depending on the beauty of poetry, acting, and lavish costumes to dress the stage. Since the play is not overburdened with scenery and the action is not delayed by scene shifting, Hedgerow presents the complete text.

The Hedgerow Theatre Company presented Shaws "Arms and the Man" in Oller Hall two years ago. The appearance of the group will be the first major entertainment feature on the college public event calendar for the season.

Juniata College students will be admitted to the performance by presenting their student activity card. Tickets for others can be obtained at the Public Relations Office or from any member of the Kiwanis Club.

Joy Wenger Will Reign As Miss Homecoming IX

Frosh Will Get More Initiation

Thursday night is over, Frosh, but that is only the beginning!

Now for Friday and Saturday. After lunch on Friday, you will report for constructive iniation (and your destruction, so I hear). That night you will be expected to attend the pep rally in full Indian costume—also, Frosh, show plenty of spirit and cheer with a very loud voice!

Saturday morning, in full iniation dress, you will report to Sherwood to cheer the class of "58" to their victory and another two weeks of regulations for you. The football and hockey games are at nine o'clock and the tug-of-war over the creek at ten o'clock. You had better bring your boots for we don't want any little Frosh catching cold because of wet feet!

Saturday afternoon wil be the climax of the three best days of your college life, when you will report to the football field in full Indian costume to dance your little shoes through for the Class of "58" at half-time. Also, we wantum freshmen squaws and braves to makeum plenty loud cheers for football team! All powerful Sophomores have spoken!

Buffet Lunch To Be Served In Dining Hall

Because of the Homecoming Day activities this Saturday a buffet luncheon will be served in place of the noon meal.

The luncheon will be served in shifts from 11:15 to 12:45. Due to the large number of guests and alumni expected to attend, the students are requested to leave as quickly as possible after eating.

Juniata Grads Attend Katherine Gibbs

Suzanne Jamison, Juniata '55, is enrolled in the Special Course for College Women which opened at the Katherine Gibbs School in New York on September twentieth. Margaret Hershey, also Juniata '55, has recently completed her training in the One Year Course which began last February.

Best Display To Get Prize of Ten Dollars

Beginning this year we have a new source of income for the annual Homecoming campus display contest.

The president of the Alumni Association this year. Dr. Joseph W. Howe of Burlington, N. .. is making a personal contribution of $10 to be awarded to the winning display at Homecoming time.

Senate Social Relations Committee Will Poll Juniata Student Body

The Social Relations Committee of the Senate has decided to poll the student body on the question of whether the existing procedure of expressing affection in social relationships on campus should be investigated or whether it should be allowed to stand as is.

The committee was formed as the result of a petition, signed by 124 students, requesting the aforementioned situation to be investigated. It was felt, however, that a larger amount of student opinions should be sampled, as it is possible that such an investigation could lead to the adminictration's enforcing its policy as stated in the Grey Paper. Then again, allowing the situation to remain as is does not clear up the confusion which, several students have pointed out, exists.

Voting To Be Sun.

Voting sheets will be brought to the students' room after 10 p.m. Sunday and will be collected after 10:30 p.m. Monday by the Senators. Day students will not be polled, as they are not intimately concerned with the issue, and, since it is felt that freshmen have not been on campus long enough to become thoroughly familiar with the situation, they, too, will be excluded from the poll.

Clear Tables, Please

Also discussed at Senate meeting was the problem of the students refusing to clear off their tables in Totem Inn. Totem Inn was built as a student project, with the entire cooperation of the student body. It is expected that this spirit of cooperation will continue in matters dealing with the Totem Inn employees are not paid to clear off tables; the original understanding was that each student should do this for himself. Plesae do your share in relping to remedy the situation which has arisen.

Variety Show Program To Include '57 Skit

The annual Homecoming Day variety show will be held this year in Oller Hall at 7:30.

The first part of the program will be a repeat performance of the 1955 All-Class Night skit presented by the Class of 1957. The director will be Jackie Hayes who is also credited with writing the skit.

In the cast are Jim Corrigan, Joan McClure and Skip Oesterling as professors; Max Ardary, freshman;, Bernie Cohen, sports announcer; Hoot Gibson and John Staley, football players, and Doug Wilson, the Indian. The pianist will be Shirley McNitt.

The chorus includes Rosalie Langer, Jeannette Lowe, Judy Gearhart, Mickey Matthews, Alice Waite, Lois Mezey, Tom Chase, Phil Lankford, Jim Martin, Ron Chamberlain, Dick Livingston and Ray Burkett.

Illustrated Lecture

Following the skit Thomas Knepp, of the Class of '31, will present a lecture on Pennsylvania. He will illustrate this lecture with colored slides.

All visitors are invited to attend. It is planned that the program will be completed in time that those present may attend the Homecoming Dance.

Nancy Freed and Carol Jenkins To Serve As Queen's Attendants

317 Students Cast Ballots

Lovely, dreamy-eyed Joy Wenger is Queen of Homecoming. Miss Wenger, a junior home ec major from Elizabethtown, was swept to the regal position in Monday's election in which 371 ballots were cast. About 57.9 percent of the eligible voters participated in the election.

The black-haired, blue-eyed miss has represented her class twice in the May Court. This is the first year that she was eligible for the Homecoming Queen position, since only junior and senior women are considered. She is a member of WAA and Lambda Gamma.

This is the ninth year that such an election has been held. The affair is sponsored by the Juniatian. Candidates were selected by male members of the Senate and Juniatian staff.

Attendants Chosen

Runner-up in the election were Carol Jenkins and Nancy Freed; They will comprise Miss Wenger's court. Miss Jenkins, a junio. sociology major from East Prospect, is on the JCA Council, is Brethren Student Christian Movement representative from Juniata and is active in WAA. Miss Freed, a Homecoming attendant last year as well, is a member of the women's house committee, the social committee, FTA and the Juniatian staff. A senior elementary education from Telford, she was a May Court attendant for the past two years.

Dance Honoring Grads To Be Held Sat. Night

One of the many highlights of Homecoming Day will be the Hats Off to the Alumni Dance that will be held at 8:30 p.m. in the Memorial Gym.

The dance, co-sponsored by the J Club and WAA, will feature the music of the Juniata College Dance Band under the leadership of Peter Wright. This will be the premier performance of the group.

The main motif of decoration will be a follow through on the theme, and the various occupations of the alumni will be represented. Dress for the dance is optional, as are corsages; party dresses or gowns are recommended for the women. During intermission Barry Drexler, president of the J Club, will present a gift to the Queen. Also during intermission refreshments will be served and there will be some entertainment.

The committee in charge of the dance includes Nancy Freed, chairman of decorations; Ann Yesko, entertainment; Eileen Gipprich, program and Eddie Lantz, refreshments.

J Club Buys Scoreboard, Donates $200 To Band

An aluminus electric score board erected at the east end of College Field at a cost of over $1500 has been purchased through the efforts of the Club.

During the next few years the J Club intends to reimburse the administration for the total amount. The board, which has been erected to the right of the goal posts on the east end of the field in time for tomorrow's game, was purchased from Shenk and Tittle, a large sporting goods firm in Harrisburg.

On the board is a 15-minute clock and in addition it will indicate the score, down, yards to go and quarter.

Money For Uniforms

Last spring members of the club voted to give $200 to the band to be applied to the cost of new uniforms. This was done because J Club members feel that the band is an important factor in the sports scene, according to president Barry Drexler.

At the present the group is considering purchasing pictures of the two undefeated football teams to be hung in the lobby of Memorial Gym.

From The Editor's Notes

Tomorrow JC will resemble a scene from the Gold Rush days as alumni and friends of the college pour into Huntingdon to visit their Alma Mater—viewing the campus improvements and changes and renewing old friendships.

A full program of events scheduled for their pleasure has been designed by a special committee of students and administration personnel. Our warm reception of the 'old timers' will help to make them feel at home on this the 24th Homecoming Day at Juniata.

The Senate is taking a poll of the student body to discover if there is sufficient backing for a special committee to investigate the confliction of administration policy toward the expression of affection on campus as stated in the Grey Paper and the existing conditions.

Opinions seem to vary. There are those who feel that the discrepency is an untidy matter which should be clarified and there are those who feel that to let the sleeping dog lie would be better than to wake him up and have him chase in either of two possible directions—one of which would be strict enforcement of the rules regulating (or stopping) necking on campus and the other (not likely) one of specifying certain places for practicing the perennial favorite indoor and outdoor sport.

Where do you stand?

Little Man On Campus Created By College Professor, Dick Bibler

by Alice Waite

To all students at JC the cartoon "Little Man On Campus" is a familiar figure. Many times last year when you were "blue" at exam time or feeling "weighed down" with themes, tests, and the like, this cartoon showed you the ironical and humorous side of your college capers. Perhaps you have been wondering just where the "L.M.O.C." with all its "crazy cool" characters (specially Worthal, the coed's hero, and Prof. Snarf, the campus terror) first originated.

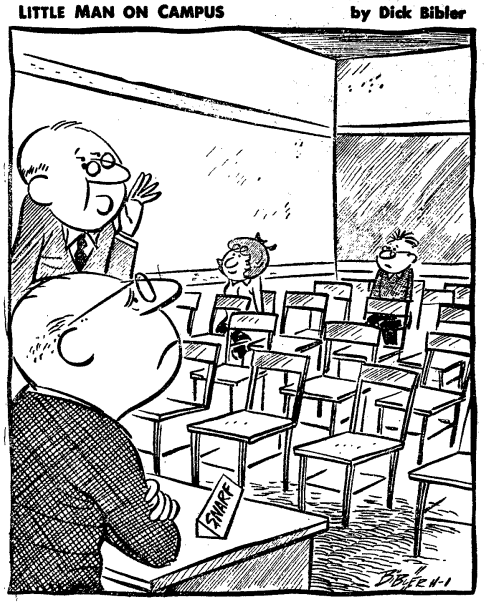
Dick Bibler, a thirty-two year old Humboldt State College Art prof in Arcata, California started cartooning when he was fourteen. By 1947 Worthal (the "Little Man On Campus") and Prof Snarf came into being. Today they hold a position in over two hundred papers including some not in the college field.

Prof Snarf, Worthal's constant tormentor, is running a close race with him for popularity as a national campus character. Many campuses including Colorado State's election of "Prof Snarf" and the University of New Mexico's annual "burning" of Prof Snarf, sponsor contests.

A recent survey of student opinion on "L. M. O. C." produced constant disagreements on such subjects as drinking, smoking, mean prof jokes, sex, fraternities, and dating, the argument resting between whether too much or too little emphasis was placed on these.

Worthal and Prof Snarf will again reign on J.C.'s campus this year and probably as long as there exist happy but complaining students, accentric profs, or even just plain colleges in general.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler



"It's obvious this course doesn't have anything to offer anymore... so we'll just have to make it a required."

Accent On Reading

AMERICA IN RUSSIA, by Harrison E. Salisbury. A New York Times correspondent, who spent the last five years in Russia, now tells the world about it. Aided by a good knowledge of the language, gift of observation, and trips leading him from Leningrad to Eastern Siberia, he is able to report on many aspects of this vast and complex country from modern Moscow to medieval inner Asia. He not only lived through the new tyrannical period, that of the aging Stalin, but also the beginning of the new times in which the monster state is somewhat loosening up.

THE CHALLENGE OF SCANDINAVIA, by William L. Shirer. The author of Berlin Diary recently spent considerable time in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Finland to examine the impact of the Second World War and its aftermath on Scandinavia. He had informal, but searching conversations with kings, cabinet ministers, diplomats, businessmen, farmers, and labor leaders about problems facing Northern Europe today; among them the uneasy position betwen Russia and the West is most important. Shirer reports with sympathy, but not uncritically, about the political, social and cultural situation in each Schaninavian country.

Few world figures have been more intriguing and yet as little known as India's V. K. Krishna Menon. This wiry Indian diplomat, who seems to have a hypnotic influence over Nehru, regularly visits the various world capitals extoling the virtue of communism, both Chinese and Russian style. As the personal ambassador of the Indian Prime Minister and as head of India's delegation to the UN, Krishna Menon commands a shocking amount of respect.

A man who has spent most of his life in England, he has a long and intimate association with communism. This began in the early 1920's at the London School of Economics and has continued to the present. In 1939 after the Hitler-Stalin pact, he referred to Britain's war with Germany as an "imperialistic conflict" · however, when Hitler invaded Russia, Krishna Menon was one of the first to yell about the "Hitlerite menace". He was finally expelled from the British Labor Party because of his close ties with the communist movement.

Clinging to his phony, shop-worn description as a "neutral", Krishna Menon has worked to sever American ties with the British Commonwealth, Latin America, the Near East and 9Asia. He has referred to SEATO as "imperialistic agression", He has supported the charge that the U. S. used germ warfare in Korea. He denies that Red China has shown any aggressive intentions in Asia. When confronted with the fact of communist slave labor camps, he calls them "unimportant".

He has pushed Nehru's sister, Madame Paudit, and professional Indian diplomats to the side. In the past they have tended to be much more friendly to the West. Nehru now seems to hold almost no checks on his hot-tempered friend.

The diplomatic trouble shooting of V. K. Krishna Menon has been a great source of strength to the communist wirld.

Meet The 1955 Indians - - -

Hicksmen Stretch Streak To Seventeen After Close 7-0 Victory Over Haverford

Facing its second straight tough Eastern Pennsylvania opponent on foreign soil, Juniata College's injury ridden gridders extended the states longest collegiate winning streak to 17 games Saturday afternoon with a 7-0 victory over Haverford.

The lone score came as a result of a pass from Pat Tarquinio to captain Barry Drexler with two minutes remaining in the initial period on a play covering 14 yards. Keith Birmingham booted his third extra point of the season.

This win, Juniata's 23rd in 24 starts, ruined a Haverford homecoming crowd's hopes for an upset.

In the first period Juniata had the ball for all but five plays. After the kick-off the Indians marched 65 yards rolling up four first downs to the Haverford one yard line where the attack halted.

Haverford kicked on the first play and JC took over again on the Ford 47 yard line. Eight plays later Tarq spotted Drex off to his left in the corner of the end zone. He fired to him and the sure-fingered end snatched the ball away from three Haverrord defenders for the day's only touchdown.

The rest of the first half was played in mid-field with no scoring threats.

The third period became a see-saw battle as a light drizzle continued to slow the action. Penalties were a thorn in the Tribe side, while the Juniata line was a headache for the Fords.

In the third period Haverford made its biggest bid, when Bill Ortman intercepted a Tarquinio aerial at mid-field and raced down the sidelines to the JC nine where he was knocked out of bounds.

On the first play from scrimmage coach's son Mark Randa tried a jump-pass. The ball was deflected by a charging Indian lineman and Bob Sill intercepted at his shoe tops returning the ball to the nine.

Until the final whistle then it was Juniata's game, except for the last four minutes when Haverford attempted a flock of desperate passes.

60 Minute Men

Seven Juniata players saw 60-minute action. Drexler, Birmingham, Moon Mullen, Bill Haushalter, John Staley, Pheasant and Sill all went the distance.

Sill was the offensive standout for the day with 128 yards gained in 25 carries.

Coach Expresses Concern Over JC Battle With Lyco

It looks lige Juniata is in for another trying afternoon of football. At least that is the feeling of Coach Hicks as the Indians take the field tomorrow against Lycoming.

"We are going to have a tough afternoon against a greatly improved team," relates Hicks. "Besides outweighing us they have a very speedy backfield that will be hard to keep in check. They looked real good in downing Lincoln last week. They will really be keyed up for tomorrow's game."

JC's ace Pat Tarquinio will see limited action, if any, because of a torn ligament. Thus the Tribe's passing attack will be considerably hampered. Don Pheasant will try to take up some of the slack by shifting into Taq's spot if necessary. Ron Bechtel and John Winterstein also have been injured and will see limited action.

On reviewing the first two Indian games Hicks has this to say: "We looked real good downing Moravian and the defense continued to sparkle at Haverford. But our offense definitely has to pick up. Thus far it has been lacking considerably."

The coach also stated that it is good to be back home and hopes JC can keep on the victory trail.

Injury Riddled Tribe Opposes Lycoming in Homecoming Tilt

The JC Tribe will make its bid for 18 consecutive wins this Homecoming weekend, against a much improved Lycoming eleven. This is Lycoming's second season of football following a three year layoff.

After giving a no win performance in 19g4, the Warriors have retaliated to take their first encounter this season by an 18-6 victory over Lincoln University. Although LC sports an experienced squad composed of freshmen and sophomores, Coach Busey feels that size, speed and hard work will pay off in victories. The Warriors have 10 returning lettermen and a line averaging 195 pounds, putting the Indians at a decided weight disadvantage.

The Juniata gridders defeated the Warriors by a 20-0 score last year.

Heavy Line

The Lycoming line will be well padded with letter winners. Dick Kaluza, Ken Polcyn and Rich Fisher will man the end positions. Wilbur Wilson, 220 pound sophomore from Williamsport, will fill the guard spot. At the tackle slots are Rick Kock and Dave Himes, 210 and 205 pounds respectively. Don Baity will be at center.

Three sophomore letter winners, Dick Hayes, Don Enigk, and Rich Reinold share the backfield duties.

Major threats are Rich Fisher, six foot two inch end; the only junior on the lineup, and fullback Don Enigk. Both are from Williamsport.

Freshmen worthy of mention are: Joe Sivoc and Richard Cramer, former Lebanon stars who won All-State honorable mention last year, and Johnny Grier, o William Penn High School, holder of several Central Penn records.

Colligians Top IM Loop With 4 Early Victories

The intramural football season entered its third week with several games being played. Last Wednesday the Collegians beat the Maulers 39-0. The Hilltoppers topped the Vets 12-7, and the Crazy Eights whipped the Cloister Creeps 26-0.

On Monday, the Hilltoppers won by forfeit over the Cloister Creeps. The Collegians squeezed past the Crazy Eights 7-6, and the Maulers defeated the Pioneers 26-0.

Tuesday, the Nitwits, Vets, and the Jabberwockies won by forfeit over the Cloister Creeps, Ironmen and the Snarfs respectively. The standing of the teams, as of games played on Tuesday.

From The Bleachers

Last week's 7-0 win over Haverford should serve as a warning to Juniata football fans who expected easy sailing after the Moravian game. Perhaps we will not face a stronger opponent than the Greyhounds this year. But we must be on the lookout for another threat to the Indian's 17-game winning streak. Namely, old Lady Luck, a capricous friend at best who can go disguised as injury, weather, officiating or over-confidence.

Haverford was undoubtedly outplayed last week. On the ground they could gather a net of only 47 yards against the staunch JC forward wall. However the opportunity for an upset was lurking and may be there again tomorrow. Juniata's offense bogged down and one more break Haverford's way could have offset the outstanding play of the Indian line.

First of all the penalties. Four Times Juniata had 15 yards marched off against her for major violations. Twice they halted Indian offensive drives, twice they set the Tribe back on its heels deep in its own territory. Both times resulting eventually in Haverford scoring threats.

Then there was the weather. Not wet enough to bog the game down into a muddy morass, but enough to keep a sustained passing attack from developing, The Haverford defense was able to pile up our ground attack before the line could shake anyone loose, while leaving the secondary comparatively vulnerable to passing. Tarq hit a good percentage but later in the game could not shake loose the big pitch.

Finally the injuries. Freshman Don Shover did a bang-up job as the game progressed in replacing Bechtel at quartrback, but a few defensive lapses early in the game may have proved fatal against a stronger offense. At tailback Pheas looked like his old self on several slices off tackle, but again some afternoon when the long pass is needed Tarq may not be available.

Tomorrow we face an eager Freshman dominated Lycoming team. Their inexperience should prove their downfall but that mental attitude of "everything to gain and nothing to loose" will be an asset to them and to every opponent gunning for the Tribe's scalp.

So let's root the Tribe home one week at a time and let speculation on the season's record drop until November 19.

Juniata Christian Association Rates Work Camp Successful

The first week-end work camp of the year turned out a huge success when last Saturday 21 fellows and girls put on their working clothes and really worked.

The main job was to paint the inside of the Mt. Olive Baptist Church, which is just one of Huntingdon's Negro mission churches. A short devotional service under Jerry Richards preceded the activities which consisted of emptying the church, dusting the walls, puttying and washing all the windows, cleaning rugs and furniture, painting the walls, washing the floor and finally putting everything back into place.

Materials Supplied

Materials to complete the job were supplied by the church with the exception of step ladders, which were borrowed from several of the profs and a local painter. A treat was in store for the work campers when they were given dinner.

Those participating in the work camp were Carol Jenkins, Jay Fast, Nancy Bachman, Eddie Lantz, Ray Burkett. Arnold Maurer, Lucille Frey, Shirley McNitt, Carol Olbrich, Oscar Schumucker, Marian Fairbairn, Kerin Narbut, John Yates.

JCA To Be In Charge Of New Variety Shows

The social responsibility commission of JCA has taken over sponsorship of talent shows to be presented in institutions of the Huntingdon area.

Two or three programs per month will be given at such places as the Veterans Hospital in Altoona and the State Mental Hospital in Hollidaysburg. Miss Doyle will continue to act as advisor of the group with Shirley Baroody and Dottie Stricker serving as co-chairman. Miss Baroody will set up talent shows with Miss Stricker in charge of arrangements. It is hoped that several of Huntingdon's service clubs will aid in transportation.

Shows will be close together so that one rehearsal will suffice. Those in charge want to establish a card file of available talent. Both ward and formal shows will be presented. All interested persons should sign lists posted on the bulletin boards or see Miss Stricker or Miss Baroody.

Fulbright Schooling Applications Due Soon

United State Government educational exchange grants for graduate study abroad, it was announced recently by Kenneth Holland, President of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City, with one month remaining in which to apply for awards under the Fulbright and Buenos Aires Convention Programs for the 1956-57 academic year.

Scholarship application blanks are available at the Institute, at its Regional Offices in Chicago, Denver, Houston, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Washington, or in the offices of Fulbright Advisers on college and university campuses. A brochure describing the overseas study awards may be obtained from the Institute.

The programs under the Fulbright Act and the Buenos Aires Convention for the Promotion of Inter-American Cultural Relations are part of the international educational exchange activities of the Department of State. They will give almost 1000 American citizens the chance to study abroad during the 1956-57 academic year. Since the establishment of these programs in 1947, over 4,000 American students have received grants for study.

Countries where U.S. graduate students may study under the Fulbright Program are Australia, Belgium and Luxembourg, Burma, Ceylon, Chile, Denmark, Egypt, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, India, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, the Philippines, and the United Kingdom.

Eligibility requirements for these foreign study fellowships are: (1) United States citizenship; (2) A college degree or its equivalent at the time the award is to be taken up; (3) Knowledge of the language of the country sufficient to carry on the proposed study; (4) Age 35 years or under; (5) Good health.

Final selection of Fulbright grantees is made by the Board of Foreign Scholarships appointed by the President of the United States.

In The Clubs

Now that the clubs are in the "swing of things' for this semester, they are presenting many interesting programs.

Modern Dacne

The Modern Dance organization, after a successful membership drive, has decided to become a unit under the WAA instead of forming an individual club. By doing this they will follow the WAA constitution receiving points for their various activities. Miss Esther Doyle has consented to be their advisor.

One of the first projects of the organization is performing some of the more difficult dance routines in the college musical "Brigadoon."

Modern Dance meets every Monday at 8:00 P. M. All interested persons are welcome.

FTA

Friday at 7:15 the FTA is featuring a movie travelogue of Europe after which the members will participate in several get-acquainted games so that they may meet the new freshmen members.

Scapel and Probe

Dr. Will is the main feature this Thursday night at Scapel and Probe. He will speak on "Insect Life Histories" supplementing his talk with slides.

Debate Group Meets For Second Practice

On Wednesday, October 19, the Debate Club will hold its second practice debate.

Jim Montgomery and Dick Backus will take the affirmative while Bill Redpath and Dottie Stricker will debate the negative. Recently Jim Montgomery, Jim Stayer and Dave Amidon attended a workshop on the guaranteed annual wage question held at Sylvania Hotel in Philadelphia.

Homecoming Queen

Crowning at Game

The formal crowning of the queen will take place at half-time tomorrow at the Lycoming game. Miss Doris Markey, last year's Homecoming Queen, will be present to crown Miss Wenger "Miss Homecoming IX." Miss Wenger will preside over the annual WAA-J Club frolic, the "Hats Off to the Alumni" Dance.

Schools Accept Juniata Seniors

Five Juniata Seniors have received early admittance to medical school for the fall of 1956.

Bradley Nicholas has been accepted at Temple University, School of Medicine, Don Davis will attend Hahnemann Medical College, and Barry Montgomery, Phil Volk, and Bill West have been admitted to Jefferson Medical College.

Interviews With Baheri, Felton Tell Of Profs' Lives, Interests

To acquaint JC students with the ten new professors on campus this year, the Juniatian will carry thumbnail interviews with two of the new teachers in each of the next five issues.

This week interviews were held with Mrs. Lula Fuller Baheri and Prof. Gordon H. Felton.

Mrs. Baheri, who comes from Middleberry, Pa., is teaching French and Spanish at Juniata College and is also aiding in the English Conference program.

After being graduated from Wellsboro High School in Pa., she received her Bachelor of Science degree from Mansfield State Teacher's College in 1953. During the past two years she has taught English and French in Wyalusing Valley Joint Schools. This past summer she studied French in the Sorbonne program of Temple University.

When asked her impressions of Juniata College Mrs. Baheri replied, "Juniata is a typical small college in a typical Pennsylvania town." She also mentioned the fact that there was such a friendly atmosphere on campus which cannot be found in the larger schools.

Prof. Felton, a native of New Virginia, Iowa, is an instructor of the Arts and Humanities course and the History of English Drama. He also supervises the college program in dramatics.

Prof. Felton is a graduate of Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla. and received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1946. In 1954 he obtained his Master of Arts from the University of Denver.

He has worked for Look Magazine in the public relations field as well as contributing some of his own poetry, short shories, and reviews to many non-commercial magazines. He was also among those who compiled the annual publication "Index to Little Magazines."

Prof. Felton has been an instructor of English at Fairleigh Dickinson College in Rutherford, N. J. and for the past year he held the same post at the University of Illinois. He has served in the United States Army as well.

Prof. Felton is a member of the Theta Alpha Phi, the national honorary dramatics fraternity; the American Business Writer's Association; and the Phi Society, a scholastic honorary.

Intercollegiate Chatter

Application of one's "brain power" gains little recognition on the JC campus except the name "mumbler". Even the Honor Society fails to carry with it the proper prestige of such an organization. On the George Washington University campus, however, its quite an honor to be thought of as an intellect. The University's honorary recognizes sophomore women who have attained an average of 2.6 in their freshman year with participation in two activities, 2.9 with participation in one activity, or 3.0 with no activities, at an affair known as Big Sis Tips-n'-Tea with Topnotchers. The eligible girls are said to be tapped for Tassels; the organization is known as the Motor.

All Tassel members devote two hours a week to service projects and extra-curricular Board. Perhaps a more informal organization and an ACTIVE one, rather than our sophisticated and stagnate Honor Society, would be a step in the proper direction toward giving the "mumblers" their deserved and well-earned recognition.

This being the Centennial year on Albright's campus, they're going all out. The Student Council voted to have a combined Homecoming queen. All Albright coeds are eligible to fill the position. To top it all the lucky gals will be riding on a float decorated by the freshman class.

The night before the first home football game on MacPherson College campus the students traditionally parade downtown decked out in their pajamas. The parade really starts at suppertime when the students appear in the cafeteria in polka-dot, striped, plaid, ruffled, and tailored PJ's. Following, the pep rally starts off by all forming a line and intertwining in and out of the places of business. The purpose of this rally is to interest the town in supporting Macollege on to victory in the first home football game. Most of the town will be out just to see the students in their pajamas. A unique and clever idea of rallying support!

Finally a word of advice from one of our related colleges: "Many find it is far easier to keep character when you have it than to recover it when it is lost."

JC Senate Recommends Gym Initiation Program Be Abolished For Future

The Juniata College Student Senate has sent a recommendation to the Administration that the traditional gym initiation, or any similar substitution, be abolished.

The mass hysteria which the initiation invariably arouses, the individuals who get out of hand, the danger of injuries even more serious than those that have been incurred in the past, and the high cost of the initiation to the sophomore class were among the reasons advanced for this Senate move.

Suggested as alternative plans were execution of community and college projects by the Freshmen, the performance of duties, such as bed making, for upperclassmen, and the placing of more emphasis on regulations.

Further details on the matter pend approval of the Administration.

Committee Reports

As the results of the recent social relations poll were 161 negative to 86 affirmative votes, it was decided that a student administration committee will not be formed to look into the matter of social relations on campus.

The Senate urges that members of the student body refrain from marring announcements placed on campus bulletin boards. The Senate would also remind students that Students Hall is open for study, not social purposes in the evenings. Failure to utilize the facilities for the designated purpose may result in revocation of the privilege.

Opportunity To Study In Scandinavia Offered

An opportunity to spend nine months studying in the Scandinavian countries is offered to American college students and graduates for a special fee of $800, including tuition, board and room, plus travel.

Students will study at famous residential colleges or folk schools it is announced by the American-Scandinavian Council for Adult education, 127 East 73 Street, New York 21.

The non-profit making Scandinavian Seminar for Cultural Studies offers studies in Denmark, Norway or Sweden, and applications and brochures may be secured from the Council.

Estimates for the nine month seminar including fee of $800., trans-Atlantic travel from New York to Copenhagen and return, and field trips in Scandinavia are approximately $1250.

Incomplete Grades Due Next Wed., Oct. 26

Any students having incomplete grades from the 1955 spring semester are required to make up the work before the end of the sixth week of this term unless special permission has been granted by the dean of the college, it was announced recently.

The six-week period will end Wednesday, October 26. After October 26 all incomplete grades will be recorded as failures.

Mays Tours Oswego

Dean Mays has been a member of a committee representing the state of New York touring Oswego State Teachers College in Oswego, N. Y., during yesterday and today.

Student Ballots Choose Movies

As a result of the recent voting by the student body, the following three movies will be shown here this year:

1. HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY, with Walter Pigeon, Donald Crisp, Maureen O'Hara, and Anna Lee.
2. SNAKE PIT, with Olivia de Haviland, Mark Stevens, and Celeste Holm.
3. A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE, with Vivian Leigh, Marlon Brando, Kim Hunter, and Karl Malden.

The first of these movies will be shown during Spiritual Emphasis Week, while the remaining two will be shown at times to be announced later.

Topic of Lecture To Be New Bell Solar Battery

The Bell Solar Battery, one of the most significant scientific discoveries of our time, will be the topic of a lecture-demonstration to be given by Eugene D. Lavery in Room 104 of Science Hall next Thursday night, October 27, at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Lavery is Supervisor of Customer Information of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania. According to Dr. Rockwell, one of those responsible for Mr. Lavery being here, "This solar battery has created a lot of interest because it gives the possibility of generating electrical energy directly from the sun. Already it is used in rural locations for providing current for telephone lines."

Following a discussion of the structure and general characteristics of this battery, Mr. Lavery will present a series of demonstrations in which the battery will be used, among other things to power a small electric motor and a miniature telephone line. He will also discuss some of the possibilities which this revolutionary new development holds for the future.

JC Catalog Receives Excellent Evaluation

The Juniata College Catalog for the 1955-56 term was one of three college bulletins to receive an honorable mention during a recent evaluation made by American College Public Relations Assoc. in Chicago.

Awards were made in ten areas of college publication, one of them being catalogs. Entries were judged on content, purpose, organization and attractiveness of type and layout. This is the first time a JC catalog has ever been given such recognition.

Dean Mays, assisted by Mr. Engel, edited the catalog. First place went to the catalog of Sweet Briar College, Virginia; second to Colorado Women's College, Denver, and third went to Wittenburg College, Ohio. Also receiving honorable mention were Randolph-Macon College, Ashland, Va., and Milwaukee-Downer College, Milwaukee, Wis.

WJC To Tape-Record Dickinson Game Sat.

Three members of the WJC staff will journey to Carlisle Saturday to tape record a broadcast of the Juniata-Dickinson game.

Bob Hamm, giving play-by-play description; Bill Smith, handling the color, and Les Querry, taking care of technical details will be in charge of recording the program which can be heard over WJC Sunday evening at 10 p.m.

Committee Plans Masquerade Ball

by Eleanor Newton

The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker—which will you be on Saturday, October 29?

What do I mean? The Masquerade party, of course, to be held in the Memorial Gym. Everyone is invited—both students and faculty. Prizes will be awarded for various costumes. One of these will be for the person whose identity is hardest to guess. Don't forget to come masked.

Princeton To Sponsor Test Service For Grads

The Graduate Record Examination, which will be of interest to seniors contemplating graduate study next year, will have its first administration on Saturday, November 19, 1955. The deadline for receiving applications is Friday, November 4.

The Graduate Record Examination is a nation-wide examination administered by the Educational Testing Service, of Princeton, New Jersey. The results are sent to graduate schools to which the student may be making application. These results are then used in determining eligibility for admission.

Further information and application forms are available in the Office of Dean Mays, who in commenting on the examination, said, "Every senior who expects to enter graduate study next year should determine whether the results of the examination are required in the institution to which he expects to go."

Editor Announces Alfarata Meeting

Anyone wishing to work on the editorial staff of the Alfarata is invited to attend a meeting this afternoon at 1:30 in Room A, Students Hall, according to an announcement from Carol Newborg, editor.

Those who would like to work on the Alfarata business staff should contact Harry Garber, Room 320 New Dorm, immediately.

JWSF Chairman Announces Goal Of Nov. Drive Is $1955

Dan Raffensperger, named general chairman of the Juniata World Service Fund drive by the Senate during the spring semester, has announced that the goal of this year's drive has been set at $1955.

● Dan Raffensperger ●
JWSF Chairman

The drive will get under way following a special chapel concerning it to be held Wednesday, Nov. 9. The all-college operetta, Brigadoon, to be given Nov. 11 and 12, will officially launch the drive for funds. Proceeds from the production will go to JWSF.

Mary Jane Bridenbaugh has been named chairman of solicitations; Al Nyce, treasurer; Dottie Stricker, club and class solicitor; Joyce Warfel, chairman of publicity and Miss Miriam Dickey, advisor.

Money received in this drive will be distributed to four recipients; namely, the International Christian University in Japan, the Foreign Student Aid Fund, the World University Service and missionaries in foreign fields. An average donation of two dollars per student is anticipated; students may indicate to which recipient they wish their donation to go.

The JWSF goal is met by the combined efforts of students, members of the faculty, administration and class and club contributions.

Warfel and Cape Do Honors Work

The registrar's office has reported that two students, Larry Cape and Joyce Warfel, are registered for honors courses during the fall semester.

Cape is taking a course in abstraction and oil painting under the guidance of Dr. Wilson, and Miss Warfel is taking a course in principles and practices of child welfare; she is being supervised by Dr. Henry.

Seniors who have demonstrated their ability to do superior work in any department may enroll for an honors course in that department. An honors course, which is directed by a member of the faculty in frequent conferences, provides for somewhat independent study or research beyond the scope of listed courses.

Admissions to honor courses is granted by the curriculum committee upon application of the student and on recommendation of the faculty member who will direct the study.

Kilts, Plaids Apropos For Sat. Scotch Hop

A Scotch Hop has been planned by the social committee for Saturday night at 8:15 p.m. on the mezzanine of the Memorial Gym.

It is planned in keeping with the "Brigadoon" theme, so everyone should come decked out in something plaid. During the dance refreshments will be served and all are invited to attend.

Concessions Support Collegiate Activities

When members of the Senate concessions committee met last spring, the following decisions were made concerning concessions for this semester.

Milk and donuts in the women's dormitories, Women's House Committee; cigarette machines, camera and chemistry Clubs; football programs, booster tags and soda pop machines in the men's dorms, J Club; candy machines in men's dorms and day students room, IRC; candy

Classes To Be Short For Saturday's Game

Because a schedule for Saturday classes designed to give students ample time to motor to Carlisle for the Juniata-Dickinson game has been approved, members of the Senate urge that students refrain from cutting classes tomorrow morning.

Each of tomorrow's classes will be 40 minutes in length, with the complete schedule as follows:

First period, 7:45—8:25
Second period, 8:30—3:10
Third period, 9:15—9:55
Fourth period, 10:00—10:40
Lunch will be served at 10:45 in the college dining hall.

Juniatian Reporters Interview Additional Two New Professors

This week the interviews will include Miss Bernice Engman and the Reverend W. Robert McFadden.

Miss Bernice Engman, a friendly, dark haired instructor comes to Juniata from Wooster, Ohio.

Originally a native of North Dakota, Miss Engman was graduated from Wooster High School and received her bachelor of Arts degree from the College of Wooster in 1953. She majored in Spanish and now holds a Master of Arts degree in Spanish which she obtained from the University of Kansas this year.

Miss Engman also attended a summer session at the University of Havana. She is a member of the Sigma Delta Pi and Phi Sigma Iota language societies.

In addition to teaching Spanish, Miss Engman is also assisting in the freshman English Conference program. While on campus she is living in Geiger House.

McFadden Replaces Padgett

The Reverend W. Robert McFadden has come to Juniata College as an instructor in the Biblical studies. He is replacing Mr. Jack Padgett, who is furthering his studies in graduate school this year.

The Reverend McFadden hails from Smithville, Ohio and was graduated from Troy High School in Troy, Ohio. He then attended Manchester College in North Manchester, Ind. where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1951. While he was studying he served assistant pastorates in North Manchester as well as in the Methodist Church at Lombard, Ill. Just last June the Reverend McFadden was graduated from the Bethany Bibical Seminary in Chicago with a Bachelor of Divinity degree.

During the summer of 1953 Mr. McFadden, a member of the Church of the Brethren, acted as assistant director and director for two work camps in Germany. This work was done under the Brethren Service Commission. He also was an assistant to the pastor in New Carlisle, Ohio.

The Reverend McFadden, who is 26, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Glenn McFadden of Elgin, Ill.

From The Editor's Notes

First of all we want to thank everyone for the help they gave the Juniatian on its end of the Homecoming festivities. The day's success was due to the efforts of many persons.

* * * *

Every now and then we hear complaints about JC social life and "classless" attitude in general. Some say that JC doesn't seem collegiate but more like a "glorified" high school.

Last Thursday night, the JCA presented a satire on (or was it a direct reflection of) society at JC. It pointed a caustic finger at us—showing many of our immature and slobby habits.

The skit makes one think about the situation. None of the student body was accepted at Juniata because of ability to act like unrestrained teen-agers but because they had potential for developing into rational, responsible adults.

If we want a surrounding of social and cultural maturity as well as intellectual, we are the ones who will have to make it by contributing to it.

Concessions

machine in women's dorms, FTA.

Mum sales for football games, ice cream, Outing Club; peanuts, cider and French fries at football games, WJC; soda pop in women's dorms, WAA; soda pop, coffee and candy at football games, Pyrenees Club; bake sale, sandwich spread in Totem Inn, soda pop and peanuts at baseball games and hot dogs at football games, Lambda Gamma.

Corsage Concession

Corsages for major dances, social committee; hot dogs and soda pop at basketball games, cheerleaders; dry cleaning in women's dorm, Nancy Freed; dry cleaning and laundry in men's dorm, Bill Hershberger and Glenn Hassinger; personal supplies in women's dorms, Rosalie Langer; a program for basketball games, J Club.

The concession of renting folding chairs at basketball games was eliminated by unaminous vote.

Accent On Reading

The Contemporary French Novel, by Henri Peyre. The author provides a shrewd and deep appraisal of twentieth century French novelists. Awareness of the subtle and interesting influences among French, British, and American writers of prose fiction enables Peyre to clarify many French tendencies for the American reader. The information on the younger French novelists, whose reputations have been established since the end of World War II, is particularly useful reference material, as are the retailed bibiographies on each major writer and the selective bibliography on the general aspect of the novel.

The Opposing Self, by Lionel Trilling. In these nine essays on criticism the author has gone back through literature to show how it suggests ways of being, how an attitude toward the self has developed, and the various places under which it appears. He constantly sheds light on the values in literature that escape the ordinary reader, and enrich it so greatly when they are pointed out to him.

A FOREIGN ECONOMIC POLICY FOR THE UNITED STATES, by Clarence B. Randall. In three lectures sponsored by the Walgreen Foundation of the University of Chicago, a world minded American industrialist outlines his basic philosophy of foreign economic policy.

The Juniatian

Entered as second class mail at the Huntingdon, Pa., post office, this is an independent undergraduate newspaper published weekly throughout the College year except during vacation and examination periods by the Students of Juniata College.

The Juniatian is serviced by Associated Collegiate Press and is represented for national advertising by National Advertising Service.

News Views

by Jim Montgomery

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has recently expressed the hope of discussing the problem of the Near East with Molotov in informal side talks at the forthcoming Big Four Conference in Geneva. Russian projection into this area has become a serious threat to the already uncertain situation.

Traditionally, Russia has sought a foothold in this area but in recent years her activities here have been rather negligible. However, the explosive situation between Israel and Egypt has given the Soviet their needed opportunity. Their first overt move was to offer Cheyh arms to Egypt. One of the first reactions on our part was to consider dumping surplus American cotton on the market and thereby drive down Egyptian prices. This would be extremely unwise for it would play right into the Russian hands by driving Egypt closer to them.

Since the arms offer, Russia has offered to help Egypt build a $600 million dollar dam. This is a move to foist the U. S. from the position as the traditional benefactor of backward countries. They have also offered to sell arms to Israel. This indicates that Russia is not interested in aiding one particular side, but rather they wish to keep the unrest alive. Continued trouble in this area could be a source of extreme vexation for the Western powers while offering the Soviet the possibility of high returns with relatively little strain on their resources.

Our source of action in the situation lies in two directions. Senseless retaliation against the nations accepting this aid will do nothing but further aggrevate the situation. We must work through the UN for a relaxation of tension—thus lessening the need for arms. And furthermore, we, the richest nation on earth, can ill afford to let Russia get the jump on us in the field of economic aid. It is here that we have the breatest poteniality for effective persuation and we must utilize it to its fullest extent.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

I know now why it is that the weekly social dances are as the JCA portrayed them. They are like that because of a few weak-minded individuals who just can't understand or even tolerate another man's views. These are the people who just can't quite conform to the mutual respect and courtesy shown to others at such events. It seems to me that the greatest sport of these people is to come to these After Dinner Dances and ridicle their fellow students because they enjoy dancing dances other than the traditional two step they are so familiar with. These infantile individuals can hardly wait until, in their own words, "someone goofed and put on a jitterbug". This person conserves all his energy especially for the purpose of making the person who had the guts to start the dance feel like a perfect fool. In truth the only one who is the fool is the person who has the audacity to pitch pennies and ridicule.

A good many years ago the ban on social dancing was lifted from this campus. If these people don't like the idea and want to go backwards to the old system let them start a petition and see just who is on their side. What's the matter with college students and their attitude toward dancing? Is this activity too unsophisticated for the college student to lower himself from the regular slow two step into something faster? Is it too low a form of life for these higher intellectuals to even so much as tolerate the jitterbug? If so let them stay away from these dances for I am sure if a poll were taken on campus of those who knew how to dance something other than the slow numbers or those who would like to learn, about 90% of the student body would be represented. The only thing for the student who wants the dance to change to this different pattern is to enlighten this ridiculing fool to the facts of his unpopularity at these dances.

I may be a FANATIC FRESHMAN but never-the-less these are my views.

From The Bleachers

Football fans are a fickle group! When they read a story about an exciting football game they want to encounter a narration of the runs and passes leading to a touchdown. Their interest turns, perhaps you could say naturally, to accounts of the games' leading ball-carrier. Then in the next breath they turn around and wonder why sports writers don't place more emphasis on good blocks and tackling done by heretofore unmentioned linemen and backs.

This week we are going to turn our attention to a prime example of this paradox existing on our own football team. Most of you know him as 'Haus' or 'Billy Haus' but in the scorebooks for the past 26 football games he has been William Haushalter, left guard! We don't want to turn this into a stereotyped personality sketch about a football player for in our books he is more than just that.

Two of the favorite stories in vogue about Bill include direct reference to his size as a collegiate lineman. The first which was repeated at the pep rally last week is a happening that took place on his early association with the Juniata family. One of those so-called upperclassmen at JC was quoted as telling Bill "you will be lucky to make the traveling squad." Unfortunately for our opponents he was a starter in the defensive platoon his freshman year.

The second story, while we are on this point has to do with a scouting report made by one of our opponents later in Bill's career at JC. "Juniata has little guards; you can run over, around or through them." In that contest he teamed up with Myron Sevick and changed the scouting reports to "don't attempt to run the guards."

'Haus' has proven for three years that a lack or size can be made up for with an aggressive will to win. The two quickest ways to recognize the value of a player is through an outstanding display in one game or the performance of the team when that player is sidelined with an injury. It is hard to classify Bill by either of these two methods. In our book he has played constantly at such a high peak that any single performance would not be amazing.

Last season Bill was hampered a great deal of the campaign by a pinched shoulder muscle which was aggravated at various times. However, when game time rolled around on Saturday you were sure to see him in the lineup.

Before we become melodramatic about the 'rock' we'll wrap-up this reminder that Juniata really has one of the best collegiate guards. For fear of a jinx we won't tell you to keep an eye on his work in the up coming contests. But for the records we'll wager that you will see number 57 in the middle of most of the action when Juniata attempts to lengthen its win streak.

We have 24 correct out of 29 in our halt of this predictions parade so with a hopeful look at Mr. Upset the calls for this week are:

GROVE CITY over Allegheny
Army over Columbia
Texas A&M over Baylor
Harvard over Dartmouth
Notre Dame over Purdue
Duke over Pittsburgh
West Virginia over Penn State
Hamilton over Harvard
Michigan State over Illinois
Drexel Tech over LYCOMING
MORAVIAN over Lebanon Valley
North Carolina over Wake Forrest.
Oklahoma over Colorado
SWARTHMORE over URSINUS

Collegians Top IM Loop At Halfway Mark In Schedule

The IM football season reached the halfway mark this week with the Collegians and the JC Juniors still undefeated and the Crazy Eights holding their third place spot with a six win, one loss record. All three teams won games on Thursday. The JC Juniors defeated the Maulers 20-0, the Crazy Eights rplled over the Hilltoppers 27-7, and the Collegians swamped the Pioneers 47-0. The Collegians and the JC Juniors won their next games by forfeit over the Hilltoppers and Pioneers respectively and the Crazy Eights won a forfeit game from the Iron Men.

On Monday the Snarfs forfeited to the Vets, the Crazy Eights nipped the Nitwits 9-0 and the still scoreless Cloister Creeps won by forfeit over the Iron Men.

The Maulers gained a forfeit game from the Jabberwockies on Tuesday.

Wednesday's games resulted in a Snarf victory over the Cloister Creeps 14-0, and two forfeited games: Crazy Eights over the Iron Men and Nitwits over Hilltoppers.

Gridmen Dump Lycoming For Eighteenth Win; Braves Face Dickinson Red Devils Saturday

Second Period Surge Provides Margin For 14-13 Victory

College Field was the scene of thrill-packed football Saturday, as the Juniata Indians eked past the Lycoming Warriors, by a 14-13 score.

There was a feeling of upset in the minds of many Homecoming fans when the visiting team scored twice in the first quarter.

In the second quarter, however, Juniata launched a 72 yard drive which was climaxed by Sill's plunge to paydirt from the Lycoming nine yard line. Keith Birmingham, sidelined with a knee injury, came in and split the uprights to narrow the gap to 13-7,

Tarquinio Pass

With less than two minutes to go in the second period, Ron Bechtel intercepted a Lycoming pass on his own 34 and scampered to the Lycoming 26. On the next play Pat Tarquinio also sidelined with an injury, entered the game for the first time and tossed a long pass which found its mark in Don Pheasant in the end zone. Birmingham converted the extra point and the half ended with the kick-off.

The third and fourth quarters were more of a seesaw battle with Juniata providing the only major threat when the Braves had a first down on the Lycoming seven. The Lycoming forward wall wouldn't budge however and the Warriors took over on downs on their own one yard line.

Lycos Score Early

The Lycoming touchdowns were scored by Fisher and Grier. A 48 yard pass from Motta, the Lycoming quarterback, to Fisher netted the first score after about 9½ minutes had elapsed in the opening period. The extra point was added by virtue of Bohn's place kick.

A few plays later Juniata was forced into a punting situation and Grier took Pheasant's punt on the Lycoming 14 and carried to the 27. After two short gaines by rushing which placed the ball on the 35, Grier sliced off right tackle and raced 65 yards down the sidelines for another Lycoming score. Bohn's extra point attempt was wide to the right and at that point the visitors held a 13-0 edge.

The first downs were 21-8 in favor of Juniata. Sill was the leading ground gainer of the afternoon with a net gain of 88 yards in 25 tries. The victory, Juniata's 18th straight, kept intact the second longest win streak in the nation.

Tribe Set To Garner 19th Scalp Tomorrow Afternoon At Carlisle

The Indians of Coach Bob Hicks will journey to Carlisle Saturday, where they will invade the lair of the Red Devils of Dickinson College ,in search of their 19th straight win. The Indians are favored to continue the nation's second longest winning streak.

Coach Brinton Piez of Dickinson will be concerned about the defense for stopping the running of Don Pheasant, and the passing of Pat Tarquinio. This pair was largely responsible for Juniata's 31-0 victory over the Red Devils last season, when Tarquinio was a first team all-Pennsylvania choice. It is also expected that Bob Sill, Juniata's leading ground gainer this season, will be a big thorn in the side of the Red Devils.

Donatelli Dangerous

The Dickinson mentor is counting heavily on Joseph Donatelli, a halfback, to spark his team. A little used reserve last season, the 175 pound junior from Barnesboro, Pa., has blossomed into Dickinson's most dangerous back this fall. At the end of the first three games he led the team in pass completions, rushing, and total offense.

Dickinson will use a limited number of freshman players for the balance of the season as the alternative to cancelling the remaining varsity games for lack of manpower.

Dickinson's Athletic Director, David Eavenson, reports that a sucession of injuries has reduced the original 2 -player squad to only 18 able-bodied men and led the college to set aside temporarily its policy of ineligability of freshmen for varsity football.

Seven Frosh

Seven freshmen will be uniformed for the Parents' Day game Saturday against the Hicksmen of Juniata, and for all remaining games.

The coaches of Dickinson are all new this year. Along with their new coaches, the Red Devils have a new offense this Fall. Coach Piez discarded the split-T used by Dickinson the past three seasons under A. C. "Slim" Ransom, his predecessor, and installed instead a split box formation, a variation of the single wing.

Harold Kissell and Albert Barilar, senior, are experienced quarterbacks and will share the task of directing Dickinson's new attack. Runners like Barilar, Charles Garqood, and Joe Donatelli have made the team a real threat along the ground. John Smith, a 215 pound fullback, and Sam Rose, a fast halfback, have proven to be the best of the sophomore prospects.

Indians Trail 6-5 Against Dickinson

Tomorrow Juniata will try to even the slate against Dickinson who holds a 6-5 edge in their 34 year old football rivalry. The Red Devils are the only opponent on the Indians' 1955 schedule who holds a winning advantage over the Tribe.

Dickinson won four of the five games played between 1921 and 1931 after which relations were broken off until 1948. Since then Juniata has won four out of six, the last three in a row.

Three years ago Tony Segalovitch's field goal provided the difference in a 10-8 victory on College Field. In 1953 Joe Trimber ruined Homecoming Day at Carlisle by sparking a 43-13 runaway. Last year it was another romp as freshman Bob Sill made his debut with an 85 yard touchdown run in Juniata's 31-0 win.

Dickinson holds the record for winning by the widest margin with a 43-0 whitewash in the 1921 opener. Juniata's most convincing triumphs were rung up in the past two games, while the closest game in the series was an 8-7 squeaker won by JC in 1930.

AF Record Pilot Will Go To Paris

Major Arthur Murray, a JC alumnus and holder of the unofficial world's altitude record, who flew to fame over the Air Force Flight Test Center here at Edwards AFB, has been reassigned to Paris, France, where he will assume duties as the assistant Air Force advisor on NATO aircraft.

Major Murray came to international attention in August 1954, when it was announced he had flown the Bell X-1A rocket-powered aircraft to a new unofficial world's altitude record of more than 90,000 feet.

The major, of Harrisburg, Pa., was born in Cresson, Pa., on December 26, 1918. After graduating from high school in Huntingdon, he attended Juniata College as a pre-engineering student. Later he joined the Army, and transferred to the Air Corps shortly after Pearl Harbor.

He flew in the Tunisian and Mediterranean Theaters during World War II, and at war's end became a test pilot at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio. Major Murray performed stability tests on F-80 and F-84 aircraft, the jet fighter pioneers, and assisted in developing the techniques of air-to-air refueling. In 1947 he became the first pilot to sucessfully complete a fighter air-to-air hook-up with a B-29 tanker— a procedure which is now standard practice.

For the past four years Major Murray has been assigned to the AFFTC, and recently was Chief of the Programs Division here.

The eighth Oak Leaf Cluster to his Air Medal was awarded Major Murray when the RB-45 research bomber he was flying caught fire following a take-off from Long Beach, Calif., while on a routine test mission. He chose to land the disintegrating aircraft rather than abandon it over the metropolitan area.

He, his wife, Betty Ann, and their four children will travel to France together.

HIGH FLYING ALUMNUS—Major Arthur Murray, who attended Juniata in 1936, kneels beside the Bell X-1A in which he recently flew to a new world's altitude record of 90,000 feet over the Air Force Flight Test Center. Born in Cresson, he now lives with his wife and four children at Elwards AF Base where he is assigned as project planner for the Plans and Programs Division.

Busy Bees Save Time, Cure Writers' Cramp With New Type Letter

The Annapolis Log printed an easy-to-follow letter-writing form which might be of some help to Juniatians at the mid-term period. As our friend Mr. Fitzgerald says, "The moving hand, having writ, moves on—" so just clip along the dotted line and move on!

Dear (Folks, Mom and Dad),

In reply to your (telegram, letter, phone call, carrier pigeon) that I received during exams, I am not (dead; paralyzed on my left, right, side; in the Brig, incommunicado). Sorry I haven't written, but exams kept me (interested, occupied, busy, snowed). To be truthful, I didn't do so (good, bad) on them. In fact, I (bilged one, bilged two, am coming home soon, passed them all, starred). The weather sure is(fine, good, the least) this time of year.

Please tell (Sally, Joan, Jane, Lou, write in_____) that I'll get around to writing her next week. So long for now.

PRO Reports Church Affiliations

According to the JC Public Relations Office there are more Methodist students attending Juniata College this fall than any other church group.

The JC students affiliated with the Methodist church number 132. The Brethren group is second largest with 128 and the Presbyterians, Lutherans, and Catholics follow with members totaling 98, 75, and 70 respectively. The Evangelical United Brethren have 23 members and the Baptist 20. There are, however, 22 other denominations represented on campus with from one to 20 students in each group.

In The Clubs

Now that the clubs are on their regular schedules, we will be bringing you announcements of their programs and meeting times each week.

Tonight Sigma Gamma will have a brief business meeting to discuss the prospects of traveling to Lewisburg the first of November in order to tour the State Penitentary there.

IRC

Thursday at the I. Harvey Brumbaugh House, In Sook Choi will head the agenda for at this time she will show slides and speak of her native country, Korea.

A debate on "Guaranteed Annual Wages" will be in the spotlight next Wed. at 7:00 in Room D when the Debate Club presents Gale Backus and Jim Montgomery on the affirmative side while Dottie Stricker and Bill Redpath will hold up the negative end of the problem.

Mays Reports Test

The Selective Service College Qualification Test will be given for the first time during the present college year on Thursday, November 17.

The test will be administered on the Juniata campus, and all men registered with Selective Service who have not previously taken the test are advised by the local administrator, Dean Mays, to make application at once. Application blanks are available at the Huntingdon County Selective Service Office, 707 Washington Street, above the Weis Market.

The results of the test are sent to local boards as an aid in the classification of registrants. They are used as evidence to support claims for deferment while a student is in college. Applications must be postmarked not later than November 12.

Wilson, Kimbrough Obtain PhD Degrees; Dickey Earns M.S. In Library Science

Three members of the college faculty, James Wilson, Wilson Kimbrough and Miriam Dickey, recently received advanced degrees in their particular fields.

Assistant professor of art James B. Wilson was awarded the doctor of philosophy degree in the field of fine arts by Ohio State University graduate school on August 26.

Mr. Wilson has done work at many schools including Princeton, John Herron Art Institute in Indianapolis and Indiana University, from which he received his bachelor of arts degree. His master of arts degree was obtained from Ohio State University.

Doctorate Thesis

In order to obtain his PhD degree Wilson was required to write a thesis. He chose Thomas Moran, a contemporary artist, as his subject. Thomas Moran is a native of Western United States who specializes in very large paintings and who proved to be a very interesting subject, according to Wilson.

Degree In February

Wilson W. Kimbrough has completed all requirements for the doctor of philosophy degree in psychology from the University of Maryland. Kimbrough, who is assistant professor of psychology,

Senate, Soph. Officers Discuss Class Problem

Because of a provision in the Senate Constitution which states that when a class is left without a president, the vice-president automatically takes over the presidency and a new election is held for vice-president, the sophomores will not be allowed to reorganize their entire class, it was decided at Senate meeting Wednesday.

At a fiery sophomore class meeting Tuesday evening, the sophomores had expressed a desire to reorganize the entire class, due to the fact that their former president, Vern Johnson, failed to return to school.

Initiation Definitely Out

Other items dealt with at Senate meeting included the official Administrative okay on the abolition of initiation, and word that preliminary steps for lights to the New Dorm have been taken. The lights should be installed before cold weather sets in.

Finally, the Senate approved the Constitution of the Juniata College Dance Band, as submitted by the Dance Band Committee, and sent it to the Student Activities Council for official sanction. Also in an attempt to alleviate the problem of inadequate laundry facilities for girls, boys' laundry days have been changed from Tuesdays and Fridays to Mondays and Tuesdays. This was done because girls are not allowed to use the inside drying lines on Mondays and Tuesdays and boys do not take advantage of them, anyway, preferring to use the drying machines.

Civil Service To Give Science Examination

A new examination is now open for Student Trainee positions in the fields of physics, metallurgy, chemistry, cartography, engineering, mathematics, meteorology and oceanography, the U. S. Civil Service Commission has announced.

The jobs are in the Potomac River Naval Command and in various other Federal agencies in Washington, D. C., and the nearby area, and pay from $2,690 to $3,415 a year.

Further information and application forms may be obtained at many post offices throughout the country, or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C. Applications must be filed with the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners for Scientific and Technical Personnel of the Potomac River Naval Command, Building 72, Naval Research Laboratory, Washington, D. C., and will be accepted until April 18, 1956.

Library Reveals Date Of Fall Book Auction

You can't afford to miss the library book auction which wil be held in the Pennsylvania Room of the library from Monday, November 7, to Thursday, November 11, at 4 p. m.

The practice which has been followed in other years of silent bidding will be used again this year. There will be a piece of paper in each book on which th bidders will write their names and bids. The minimum bid will be five cents, except on newer books on which the bid will begin at 25 cents. All books wil be plainly marked. Miriam Dickey, librarian, said that it is a good practice to check often to make sure that no one has outbid you. Those books in great demand will be offered for active bidding at 4 p. m., Nov. 11.

There will be great sacrifices because shelf space is needed for current acquisitions. Among the many subjects covered by the books are: languages, fiction, biography, psychology, religion, business, music, and art. The Pennsylvania Room will be closed from Friday, Nov. 4, until Monday in order to get ready for the auction.

Remember, the closing time is 4 p. m., Nov. 11, so get your bid in!

Middlekauf, Ellis Will Be In Chapel

The chapel schedule for the week of October 31 is as follows:

Monday, the Rev. John Middlekauff, pastor of the Stone Church of the Brethren will address the student body, while the Rev. Marlin Bottiger, chaplain of the Pensylvania Industrial School will be the guest speaker on Wednesday.

President Ellis will appear in chapel on Friday.

Funny Face Frolic Is Oct. Social Highlight

by Nan Heller

Saturday Night! 8:30! New Gym! That's the time and the place for the Funnyface Frolic, the social committee's contribution for Hallowe'en. Rosalie Langer, social chairman, has announced that her committee will sponsor one big event in each month. This month a masquerade party is the affair.

You don't stand a ghost of a chance of getting into the gym's haunting grounds unless you come equipped with a costume, mask and all. It is worth your while to find the proper garb for this occasion, however, because Peter Wright's band will be supplying the haunting refrains for the costumed JC'ers.

Decorations, refreshments, and entertainment will all be based on the Hallowe'en theme. You can't enjoy these facts without a costume, but you can join in even if you don't have a date. Who knows—you just might find cute little witch to whirl with after you get there.

You can come as the 'man in the moon', as Martin and Lewis or as Ling Ting Tong of the Orient, but remember to come to the Funnyface Frolic this Saturday night!

Poetess Warns Of Mid-Terms

By Sandra Ewing

'Twas the night before Mid-Semesters
And all through the dorms
To the books! To the books!
All students did swarm.
"Do not disturb" signs are hung with care,
As for "goofing off"—you just wouldn't dare!
Next week you won't have time to nestle in your rack
For there will be too many books for you to crack,
So get out your books and start burning midnight oil
What lies ahead of you now is only sweat and toil.
Those tests would be okay if they measured knowledge alone
But they want a few essays on quite a few unknowns.
If you don't pass papa will raise quite a clatter!
"To be or not to be" at J. C. is quite a serious matter!
So, as I take my books and flee out of sight, I say,
"Good Semesters To All — Start studying tonight!"

JC Scholarship Is Cherry Memorial

A scholarship fund of $2000 has been established recently by Mrs. Charles J. Cherry and Ronald Cherry in memory of Mr. Charles J. Cherry, formerly of Lewistown.

The sum will be placed in the endowment fund of the college as a memorial scholarship fo young people of the Church of the Brethren of the Middle District of Pennsylvania. An additional $100 has been placed in th library fund for the purchases of books in economics.

The scholarship wil be known as the Charles J. Cherry Memorial Scholarship.

New Booklet Explains Academic Procedures

Dean Morley Mays announced that a conference concerning the recently distributed Academic Guide for Students of Juniata College will be held Tuesday, November 1, at 10 a.m. in Founders Chapel.

At this time through the use of questions and answers any inquiries concerning the information in the Academic Guide on the part of JC students will be elucidated by either Dean Mays or William Engel, the registrar, who plan to be present.

The booklet, edited by Dr. Mays, deals with various phases of the academic procedure here. It deals with such subjects as grading, registration, credits, graduation, examinations, class attendance, academic discipline and withdrawal from college.

One of the main changes in college academic policy covered in the Guide is the substitution of the four-point system for the less desirable three-point system. It is believed that the new system will be fairer since the same value, namely zero, is no longer assigned to both D and F.

Students who began their work at Juniata before June 20 of this year must have twice as many quality points as credit-hours to graduate; those who began work on or after this date must have a credit-hour and quality point ration of 1.80. Dean Mays pointed out that in reality the college is raising its academic standards through using this new system.

At the present automatic probation will be imposed on freshmen who have an average below 1.30 and on upperclassmen having an average below 1.50. The Academic Standing Committee may assign probation for various reasons listed in the Academic Guide.

Classes Pick Heads For All Class Night

Preparations are getting underway for All-Class Night, which this year is scheduled for December 10.

Heading the senior skit will be co-chairmen Jerry Richards and Jim Hunt. Hunt will do the writing for the skit and Richards will direct.

The junior class elected Jim Montgomery chairman of their skit, the sophomores have not yet named their chairman, and the freshmen are temporarily being headed by the frosh steering committee.

Skits must be submitted for approval to the general chairman of All Class Night, Alma Skinner, by November 4.

Juniatian Interviews Center On Elementary Ed; Physics Profs

By EMMALYN HEED and LIZ SHEARER

Once again the Juniatian brings two interviews with the new members of the faculty to the student body. This week: Helen Worrall, William Shaffer.

A new insructor in elementary education on campus this year is Miss Helen E. Worrall, who comes to Juniata College from Greenville, Pennsylvania. Being the daughter of medical missionaries, she was born in Baroda, India. Her parents are the late Dr. and Mrs. H. R. L. Worrall.

Miss Worrall was graduated from the New Wilmington High School in Penna. She attended Westminster College and received her Bachelor of Arts degree there in 1929. She has also studied at Slippery Rock State Teacher's College, Thiel, Penn State, and Columbia. In 1948 she was given a Master of Education degree by the University of Pittsburgh.

Miss Worrall has been quite active in outside activities also. She belongs to the First Methodist Church in Greenville where she was active as a community worker, in the Sunday School, and the WSCS. She has also been a member of the Civic League, Thiel College Women's Club, Mercer County PTA, the National Education Association, Penn. State Education Association, WCTU, and the grange.

Miss Worrall has taught in the elementary schools in Greenville, Penna. She will assist Dr. Edgar S. Kiracofe and Miss Miriam Schlegel in the department of education this year by teaching three courses this term.

Mr. William R. Shaffer hails from Butler, Penna. and has joined the Juniata staff as a member of the department of Physics.

Mr. Shaffer was graduated from South High School in Youngstown, Ohio and went on to the University of Pittsburgh where he received his Bachelor of Science in Applied Mechanics at Penn State.

Mr. Shaffer served with the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics in Cleveland from 1944 to 1947. He was also employed by the Victoreen Instrument Co. in Cleveland for two years. He is a registered professional engineer and a member of the American Society for Engineering

Committees Prepare To Present Musical

By DOT FOGLE

"Work on Brigadoon is progressing rapidly; not only the cast and chorus, but also on the back stage scenes. Because of the complicated sets and staging in Brigadoon, there is much more work to be done in these last few weeks. However, with the continued cooperation of the chairmen and the hard-working committee members, I feel that there will be no trouble in meeting the deadline."

Elaine Aikens, student coordinator of Brigadoon, made these very optimistic statements about the forthcoming show to be presented on Friday and Saturday, November 11 and 12.

Bruce Bennett, technical director, states the need for additional boys to help on the stage crew committee. Any boys who are interested should contact Phyl Marcocci.

These statements tell of only a small portion of the work underway on the all-college operetta, Brigadoon. With the effort of many people shown, it is evident that the show will be a successful one.

JCA Sends Talent To Hospital To Give Program For Veterans

Nineteen students from JC journeyed to the Veterans Hospital in Altoona last evening to present a talent show to the patients.

This was the first of a series of programs which will be given monthly at various institutions around Huntingdon.

Last night the acts ranged from instrumental and vocal solos to whistling and dancing acts. Dan John MCed the show and Nancy Grace served as accompanist.

Saxophone Duet

On the program were Bonnie Brumbaugh and Ernie Lashlee singing Make Believe and Deep in My Heart; a sax duet by Dave and Chuck Longenecker; a trio composed of Nancy Leatherman, Mimi Lehman and Connie Schaeffer; a monologue my Anna Mary Smith; a piano solo by Pete Wright.

A whistling act by Mary Elizabeth Snider; a solo by Nancy Nevin, and a baton twirling routine by Shirley Baroody and Betsy Swope. The show was climaxed by a jam session consisting of Fred Guion, Pete Wright and Dave and Chuck Longenecker.

Miss Doyle, advisor for the shows, also made the trip to Altoona.

Pa. Leads Here In No. Of Pupils

A list of the geographical distribution of students enrolled at Juniata College has been released by the Office of the Registrar.

From a total of 643 students, Pennsylvania leads all other states in the enrollment with a total of 531. New Jersey, with 65, ranks second followed by Maryland, New York, Ohio and Massachusetts, Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Illinois, Indiana, New Hampshire, South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia are also represented on the JC campus.

Exchange students from Jordan, Korea and Malaya complete the list.

Huntingdon County leads all other counties in the state with a total of 87 students, followed by Allegheny and Blair, with 45 each.

From The Editor's Notes

There seems to be some questioning on campus about why Juniata doesn't get more newspaper coverage, especially since we have the second longest winning streak in the nation.

Upon invstigation, we found that the Juniata news bureau matches that of other small colleges and that a large emphasis has been put on football this fall.

Advanced Releases

Advanced releases are sent out on the Tuesday before a game to eighty newspapers and radio stations in this state, New Jersey and New York. These releases consist of three stories: one on th history of competition between the two sontesting teams; the second, a feature about the JC team's star players; and third, the accumulated statistics about the team.

Post Game Releases

During the game the score is sent by quarters to Western Union in New York, to the Associated Press and United Press.

Immediately after the game stories go to the Harrisburg Patriot News, The Philadelphia Inquirer, The Pittsburgh Press, The Youngstown Vindicator, The Altoona Mirror, the Associated Press in Philadelphia and the United Press in Pittsburgh. The Huntingdon Daily News does their own coverage. The United Press carried the Juniata game as their lead story for five straight weeks.

Football Letter

In addition to this, Bill Engle sends a football letter describing the game play by play and containing team statistics to 600 sports writers of Central Pennsylvania and the meropolitan areas.

Conditions

Whether a game is in the paper is dependent largely upon three conditions: time, space and location. Our game time has been moved up from 2:30 to 2:00 and now to 1:30 to facilitate reporting. The time changes to Standard Time have caused us trouble this fall. The Lycoming story didn't make the first edition (which is what Huntingdon gets) of the metropolitan newspapers although it appeared in the later editions. The same thing will probably happen this week-end with the Susquehanna story. It should not happen with the last three games because time will be synchronized.

The amount of space available in a particular newspaper is a variable beyond the control of the JC news bureau.

A district disadvantage is the location of Juniata. We are on the extreme fringe of circulation for both the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh papers. We are in the range of The Harrisbug Patriot Sun and get excellent coverage by it. Location isn't everything though. Last week the Philadelphia Sunday Inquirer's first edition had no coverage of the Swarthmore-Ursinus game. Both schools are in the immediate area. Time factor again?

Champions

Last year Juniata was the smallest school to receive All-State and Little All-American mention. This credit goes not only to he boys for their skill bu also to our news bureau for their publicity and promotion efforts at sports writers conferences, et cetera, where the honor teams are chosen.

The Things Around Us...

By Jim Hunt

SOMETHING OLD—There isn't anything that can fit this category better than this column itself. Two years ago The Things Around Us was a familiar sight to JC students and a thing of terror to the College administration. Now we are back to comment on the happenings around Juniata.

It will be hard to find some startling news for you each week but perhaps we will be able to keep you posted on items that are new to you. Of course there will be a bit of editorial comment tossed in along the way.

SOMETHING NEW— College Treasurer John Fike informed one of your Student Senate representatives this past week that there will soon be lights on the walk to the new men's dormitory. He explained that arrangements had to be made to select a proper power outlet. This might necessitate some re-wiring but he expcts it to be done before the bad winter weather descends on Juniata.

SOMETHING BORROWED—The remnants of the raiding party at Dickinson College two years ago can be glad they didnt' receive a reception like a number of Drexel students did at Ursinus College two weeks ago. The boys from Drexel Tech decided a night visit with appropriate calling cards was in order, but unknown to them a reception committee was to be on hand to greet them. Now, we understand, the big fad at Drexel is a haircut in the form of a U.

SOMETHING BLUE—It really seems a shame to us that a few people always forget(?) to remove their dishes from the tables in Totem Inn. Ever since the student center was opened the policy has been for voluntary cooperation of the part of each student. Unfortunately it only takes a few inconsiderate individuals to ruin the effectiveness of this pattern. Apparently these few individuals are in our midst this year.

If we sincerely want Totem-Inn to be a pleasant place for the students to spend a few moments each day as a place to bring visitors it is our duty to uphold this pattern. Remember to clear your table and encourage the few lax students to clear theirs.

FORD: THE TIMES, THE MAN, THE COMPANY, by Allan Nevins. The author sets forth the conditions prevailing in the 1870's as Henry Ford, and a dozen others would become automotive pioneers, grew to manhood. He describes the forces and men that produced the gasoline engine and the first automobile. It is a record of the mechanical, economic, and social revolution as traced in the story of one of the great industrial organizations of the United States and the men associated with it—the story of an age and a movement as well as that of a company and its head.

THE LIFE OF DAVID HUME, by Ernest Campbell Mossner. The author treats both the facts of David Hume's life and the ideas which provided the rationale of his actions. The result is an integrated portrayal of an exceedingly complex character, a man whose influence on human thought throughout the past two centuries has been incalculable.

In recent weeks there has been increased demand in many circles that Communist China be granted a seat in the United Nations. Let us examine the situation.

The Juniatian

Entered as second class mail at the Huntingdon, Pa., post office, this is an independent undergraduate newspaper published weekly throughout the College year except during vacation and examination periods by the Students of Juniata College.

The Juniatian is serviced by Associated Collegiate Press and is represented for national advertising by National Advertising Service.

Letter To The Editor

Some freshmen would like i known that it was freshmen an not upperclassmen that whitewashed the campus. The upperclassmen have undeservingly been getting credit for the frosh school spirit.

—the 59ers

The first requirement of Red China would be that she uphold the principles of the United Nations Charter. These principles are expressed in the preamble which reads as follows: "We, the peoples of the United Nations, determined to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, and to reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person, in equal rights of nations large and small, and to establish justice and respect for obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law can be maintained."

No Respect

A New York Herald Tribune editorial of August 9, 1955, mentions some powerful reasons why Red China should not be admitted. Red China showed its respect for 'the equal rights of nations large and small' by invading Tibet in 1950. Red China exhibited its desire to 'avert the scourge of war' by intervening in the Korean war in defiance of the United Nations police action and also when it repeatedly and contemptuously broke the treaty it had signed to end this war.

The Herald Tribune editorial cynically ridicules Red China as it states, "Red China proved its devotion to 'fundamental human rights' by establishing a dictatorship, by suppressing freedom of speech and thought and by imprisoning and expelling missionaries and seizing church properties, by expropriating businessmen and landowners, by setting up courts that were a travesty on justice."

Red China has established its regime through unparalleled massacres and brutality. It has been estimated that Red China has murdered fourteen million of its own citizens. Thirty thousand Korean war prisoners, including more than six thousand Americans, have 'disappeared.' A UN report accused Red China of "beating, deliberately planned starvation, cold-blooded murder, mutilation and torture."

Decency Important

There is much in this world that cannot be changed. However, it is most important that the United States uphold the minimum sandards of international decency by opposing the admission of the People's Republic of China to the United Nations.

Winless Crusaders Foe For Tribe Tomorrow

by Charles Brown

Juniata's unbeaten football team will open the second half of its eight game schedule tomorrow afternoon when the Indians entertain the Susquehanna University Crusaders on the College Hill gridiron. The Tribe will endeavor to extend its season record to five straight wins and thus put its three years' victory streak at 20 in a row.

• John Staley •
Aggressive Center

• Don Pheasant •
Topflight Tailback

In an effort to avenge a 46-6 defeat administered by Coach Bob Hicks' stalwarts of 1954, Susquehanna will bring a team to Juniata that has prompted its new coach, "Whitey" Keil, to say, "If spirit, hustle, and hard work will bring about an upswing in Susquehanna University football fortunes, then we're on the way back."

Five Lettermen

The Crusaders' T-formation attack is sparked this season by five returning lettermen. They are backfield men Dick Purnell of Ashland, Bob Lewis of Selinsgrove, and Bob Gulick of Sunbury. In the line Veryl Milroy of Milton and Walt Benham og Philadelphia are the only experienced performers. So far this year the visiters from Selinsgrove have lost to Ursinus, Swarthmore, and National Aggies.

Susquehanna has lost five letter winners through graduation. To handicap the Crusaders further, there are nine lettermen who are eligible to play this year who did not come out for the team this fall.

Eight Freshmen

There are eight freshmen on the Susquehanna squad that are trying to fill the shoes of those lettermen not returning. The most promising frosh are linemen Larry Haney from Mifflinburg, Fritz Hunter from Wyomissing, John Vought from Mifflinburg, and Joe Yocum from Northumberland. Carl Shoemaker from Ashland, Ted Sees from Northumberland, and Ronald Forester from Selinsgrove are the first year backs that are showing promise.

From The Bleachers

by Bill Smith

Now that football season is at the half-way mark we can look around and see how the 1955 Juniata team rates in comparison with the other small college leaders of the Middle Atlantic region.

Of course with 19 straight the Indians have far and away the longest winning streak in the state, and by virtue of it would seem to rank virtually unchallenged as the best in their class until it should be snapped.

Last year at this time there were many other contenders for recognition; PMC and Carnegie Tech were rolling to unbeaten seasons, Swarthmore, until shocked 39-0 by the Tribe, was the shining light of the Philadelphia sports writers, and Shippensburg STC and Westminster were among other teams not on JC's schedule who had impressive records.

This year the scene is too jumbled to present many clear-cut examples of outstanding teams. PMC's victory streak was halted two weeks ago by Moravian and none of the Teacher's colleges are outstanding. Only Westminster, which now has nine in a row, Hamilton (NY) and Drexel have spotless records. Drexel, 33-14 conqueror of Lycoming last week, seems to be the best in the Philadelphia area. Carnegie Tech's 18-16 win over Temple shows that the Tartans are strong again, although the footbal situation at Temple has just about deteiorated into a farce.

As for future JC opponents, Ursinus and Swarthmore seem to forebode the most trouble. Ursinus has convincing wins over Susquehanna 30-6 and Haverford, while Swarthmore, despite an early 8-0 upset at Dickinson, has come back strong and last Saturday edged Ursinus 7-0.

Susquehanna has another hapless record despite the versatile efforts of tailback Dick Purnell. Grove City has not won since its opening day 6-0 win over Washington and Jefferson. Although boasting a line averaging over 200 pounds the Grovers have been hampered by inexperience, carrying a total of 22 freshmen and 18 sophmores on a squad of 48.

Some highlights of Saturday's romp over Dickinson: the bruising blocking and vicious tackling of the Juniata line; spectacular runs by Bob Sill and Don Pheasant that were wiped out by a fumble and a penalty; Tarq's repeat performance on the first TD: George Zeh's excellent punts the hard running of the substitute backs: and Drex, Haus and Bibi getting a rest. Let's have more like that one.

This week, trying to improve a 23-30 record, I'll take:

Navy over Notre Dame
Penn State over Penn
Michigan State over Wisconsin
Michigan over Iowa
Pitt over Miami
Maryland over South Carolina
Duke over Georgia Tech
TCU over Baylor
Thiel over GROVE CITY
PMC over LYCOMING
MORAVIAN over Albright
Randolph-Macon over DICKINSON
SWARTHMORE over Wesleyan
URSINUS over Wagner

Red Devils Prove Easy 4th Victim For JC Gridders

Tarq, Drexler Combine For Two Touchdowns

The charges of Coach Bob Hicks ran their victory skein to 19 with a 27-7 victory over Dickinson College last Saturday afternoon at Carlisle. The Braves completely dominated the play against the scrappy but outclassed Red Devils.

The boys from College Hill garnered 21 first downs in running up a net rushing yardage of 341. Dickinson meanwhile was able to net just 72 yards rushing and seven first downs.

Pheasant Workhorse

On the first play from scrimmage tailback Don Pheasant, who picked up 118 yards during the game, took a buck-lateral pitchout and fought his way 71 yards for what looked like the first JC touchdown. However a holding penalty nullified part of the run. The Braves were not to be denied and eight plays later Pat Tarquinio entered the game and tossed a fourth down pass to Captain Bary Drexler for the first touchdown. Keith Birmingham came into the game to kick the extra point.

On the first play of the second quarter Tarquinio and Drexler again teamed up to add six points to the JC total. With the play starting on the midfield stripe Tark hit his sterling end on the 27 yard line and Drexler outraced the secondary for the score. Birmingham again booted the extra point, his seventh consecutive success.

Braves Dominate

After completely dominating play in the first half the Indians took up in the second half where they had left off. A 54 yard march in eleven plays was climaxed when Don Pheasant drove three yards for the third JC score. Birmingham failed to convert the placement for his first miss.

Midway through the third period Coach Hicks began to bring his substitutes into the ballgame. But, starting wingback Glenn Hassinger added the final touchdown on a perfectly executed reverse before the contest was completely turned over to the reserves. Don Brumbaugh kicked the point.

Dickinson combined a spread formation and fourth down daring to notch a score against the reserves in the final period.

Sophomores Sure Of Tie In Girls IM Hockey Play

With the curtain going down on the girls intramural hockey season it appears hat the Sophomores have sewed up the title. The sophs are assured of at least a tie for the crown.

The class of '58 has breezed through their first four games unmolested. In this week's only contest the seniors fell prey to the sophs by a 2-0 count. Margie Moyer notched two goals to lead the victors.

Moyer is the leagues' leading scorer thus far with six goals with Dottie Stricker, a member of the junior squad, second with four.

Next week the sophomores will square of against the juniors in an attempt to clinch the title.

After the regular hockey season is completed the traditional Blue and Gold games will be played. The teams are composed of the All-Stars of the league chosen by the four team captains and hockey chairman, Norman Hottle.

Braves Hold Slim Lead Against Susquehanna

The undefeated and untied Indians of Coach Bob Hicks will play host to Susquehanna here Saturday on College Field.

Juniata emerged the victor last year by the score of 46-6. Last year's win boosted the Indians' average above the .500 mark in the win-loss column against Susquehanna. The total for Juniata against Susquehanna over the 32 year period is 11 wins, 10 losses, and two ties. Both ties were scoreless deadlocks.

Susquehanna became the first victor in the series back in 1923 by a score of 5-0.

The highest score acquired by either side in a single contest is claimed by the Braves by virtue of last year's 46-6 triumph. This win also proved to be the biggest margin of victory over the entire series.

From a total score of 1,695 points for JC against 3,461 points for oponents, Juniata has scored 283 points of their total against Susquehanna, while the Crusaders holds a total of 217 points of the opponent's total score.

Osculation Advice Should Polish Bell, Fire Tower Savoir-Faire

Research has been going on under he auspices of the science department. It has produced a final report that will prove invaluable to any interested in the topic which it concerns. We have obtained the first published copy of this gem for you lucky Juniatian readers. Yes, after much investigation the details on 'How To Kiss A Co-ed' have been printed—use them as your guide to a happier romance.

1—LET HER KISS YOU

This method is resorted to by vary dominant chaps who, pillowed on some portion of their date's anatomy, attempt to look soulful. The girl thereupon kisses them upon the forehead or on top of the head, depending on whether they've washed their hair recently. It helps somewhat if the man has been reciting poetry and is carried away by the sound of his own voice.

2—YOU'VE GOT HER CORNERED

Sometimes referred to as the 'wall press', this style demands a rigid surface behind the girl. Wall are preferred, but nearly anything will do. The kiss is used most often by disappointed men, or those who fear rebuff. They simply back the girl up against the wall of their choice. If she doesn't co-operate she gets a crack on the skull.

3—IT'S RIGHT THERE FOR YOU

This procedure is nearly always used by either neophytes or advanced students. The face of the girl is grasped firmly in both hands and the kiss planted firmly upon her. Known also as the 'set-up,' it eliminates the bobbing and weaving target which is so troublesome to the beginner. The past master, adjusting the co-ed by the ear-lobes, knows what he wants from experience, and usually has it made to measure by this method.

4—LOOK! NO HANDS

In this circumstance the male is on the defensive until last, but finally submits to the biological urge. But he doesn't become the aggressor. He simply stands there and lets her kiss him (see method 1), without the slightest response on his part. Splendid self-control is here evident. He does no work just so much velvet.

5—YOU WON'T MISS A THING

Social awareness plays a big part in the execution of this style. The man is usually on the lookout and glances around the room during the kiss. Potency of the kiss is registered by the rapidity with which the eyes revolve.

6—WRESTLE YOUR WAY TO IT

When the girl straightens up from this one, you can hear the vertabrae crack. This is very dangerous because sometimes the male comes up for air in a permanently bent position. It is also risky when the man leans a little too far forward, and losses his balance. The trick of the whole thing is to see how far the girl can be bent without snapping something.

7—TAG, YOU'RE IT

This is only for the very patient man, and involves a great deal of maneuvering. Finally the girl lets him kiss her, but not for long. Just as he is beginning to light up on the forehead, and say 'tilt', she discontinues the act and turns away. It is considered good form for the girl to giggle at this point. Sometimes she buries her face in his lapel to avoid kissing. This, though, is apt to be rather tough on the lapels. Lipstick is very hard to get off tweeds.

8—THE PICK-ME UP

This technique seems to be a ridiculous waste of power, which might otherwise be used in the kiss. The man, carried away by the emotional consequence of kissing, tightens his grip on the girl and begins to straighten up. If the girl is much shorter than he, she soon finds herself a few inches off the floor. Then she's apt to kick him in the shins until he lets go. If the man is a few inches shorter than the girl, she yanks him off the floor. It is considered unmannerly to kick her; he just waits until she runs out of breath.

In The Clubs

This week we would like to begin a series of articles on the various clubs of College Hill, the first being Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship (IVCF).

Unlike JCA, whose scope is broader, IV is more specific, its main purpose being to study the Bible because of the belief that the Christian religion is based on the Bible and a deeper knowledge of this Book can lead to a deeper knowledge of God. Being fundamentalists, IV'ers believe in the Diety of Christ, the bodily resurrection, the blood atonement, the imminent return of Christ.

IV meets very Friday night at 7:15 in Founders' Chapel. Its advisor is Professor Dubbel and the president is Phil Lankford. As one member put it, IV is "more of a meeting than a club" for there is little business to be discussed, the main part of the hour being spent in discussion and open study. The leader for the week, who can be any member of the club, introduces the scripture to be studied and correlates discussion. The program begins and ends with prayer and song.

Many students have no idea of the functions of IVCF. No dues are required of members. However, they may contribute to two of the missionaries sponsored by the National IVCF. Conducting evening services at local churches is another function. There is also a Prayer Meeting held every Monday evening in the Upper Room of the Stone Church which is sponsored by IV.

Development Of Students' Outlook Indicates Direction Of Growth

As a college student "matures," his outlook on the various factors of classroom life tend to change, as is pointed out in this excerpt from The Book Strap, Charleston, W. Va., high school newspaper.

Ambition

Freshman: To be graduated with a 3.75 average.
Sophomore: To be graduated with a 3.00 average.
Junior: To be graduated with a 2.00 average.
Senior: To be graduated.

The Three R's

Freshman: Readin', Ritin', Rithmetic.
Sophomore: Recitation, Red tape, Report cards.
Junior: Records, Rapture, Recreation.
Senor: Relaxation, Romance, Remorse.

Tardiness Excuses (Day Students)

Freshman: 'I didn't leave home in time."
Sophomore: "I missed the bus."
Junior: "The bus was late."
Senior: "The bell rang too early."

Assignments

Freshman: "They say to do two hours, so I'll do three."
Sophomore: "They say to do two hours, so I'll do one."
Junior: "I'll do it in Totem."
Senior: "He won't call on me."

Failure

Freshman: "The world has come to an end."
Sophomore: "I can still be graduated with my class."
Junior: "What! Again?"
Senior: "I'll see you next term.'

Junior: "They get more classless each term."
Senior: "Did I look like this?"

Profs

Freshman: They know everything.
Sophomore: They know a lot.
Junior: They know something.
Senior: To err is human.

State Dep't. Gives Examination Soon

The Department of State announced today that the second written examination under the new revised procedures will be given in five cities on December 9, 1955.

Candidates must file their request to take this examination not later than October 21 and to be eligible should be:

(1) at least 20 and under 31 years of age,

(2) United States citizens of at least ten years standing, and

(3) if married, married to an American citizen.

Those successful in the one-day written test will be given a subsequent oral examination before a traveling panel which will meet in regional centers. Beginning salaries for Foreign Service Officers range from $4400 to $5500 depending on age and experience; additional benefits include insurance, annual and sick leave, and a generous retirement plan.

Informational material and application forms may be secured at the Placement Office or by writing to the Board of Examiners, U. S. Department of State, Washington 25, D. C.

will receive his degree at the February commencement.

The title of his doctorate thesis is A Study of Certain Implications of Attitudes as Implicit Verbal Responses; it comprised the majority of the work for the degree. Previously Kimbrough received his bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from the University of Arkansas.

Dickey Gets Degree

A master of science degree in library science was conferred on Miss Miriam E. Dickey, assistant librarian here, by the Western Reserve University of Cleveland, Ohio, in absentia, on September 9. For her master's project she wrote Henry W. Shoemaker: Pennsylvania Folklorist. It concluded with a biography with an annotated bibliography.

Mr. Shoemaker is still living and is director of folklore in the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission. Juniata College has probably the largest collection of his works in this area.

After receiving a bechelor of arts degree from this college, Miss Dickey taught at Hollidaysburg High School until she returned to Juniata as assistant libarian.

The Juniatian

Vol. 32 No. 6 | Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. | Friday, November 4, 1955

Profs Longenecker, Dale Reveal Pasts, Interests

by Emmalyn Heed and Liz Shearer

Miss Annie Longenecker and Mr. John Dale are the two new faculty members who were interviewed by members of the Juniatian feature department.

Miss Longenecker, who formerly taught in Huntingdon High School, is presently assisting Prof. J. Clyde Stayer in the department of mathematics teaching two sections of mathematical analysis.

Miss Longenecker received her normal school diploma from Millerstown State Teachers College and also holds a degree from the University of Pittsburgh. She has studied at both the Juniata Academy and Penn State University.

High School Teacher

A veteran teacher, Miss Longenecker has been a faculty member of several high schools in West and Logan Townships, in Manheim and Elizabeth, Pa., and in the United States Vocational School in Nauvoo, Ill. In 1928 she returned to Huntingdon Borough where she taught at the high school for 23 years before returing in 1951.

Miss Longenecker is residing at 1119 Washington St., while teaching part time at Juniata College.

Alumnus Joins Faculty

Mr. John Dale of Curwensville, Pa., has joined the Juniata faculty as a member of the department of mathematics. No newcomer to Juniata, Dale was graduated from JC in 1954 with a bachelor of science degree after majoring in mathematics. He then attended graduate school at the University of Wisconsin where he also served as a teaching assistant.

While a student at Juniata Mr. Dale held a four-year alumni scholarship valued at $1,000. He was elected vice president of his class in his junior and senior years, and as a junior he also served on the staff of the Juniatian in the position of sports editor.

Gives Impressions

Mr. Dale is a member of the Methodist Church in Curwensville. His interests lie in the field of sports and in teaching. When asked what his impressions of Juniata were, Mr. Dale replied smiling, "I went to school here, and my impressions are the same

Next week this feature will conclude with an interview with Mr. Philbrook Smith, assistant professor of history.

'Other Religions' To Be November JCA Theme

The J.C.A.'s emphasis on the consideration of other faiths will begin next Tuesday evening November 8, with an address by Mrs. Annamarie Honnold of Swarthmore, Pa. She will speak to us about the B'hai World Faith. Mrs. Honnold was sent to us by Horace Holey, executive secretary of the National B'hai Assembly of America. The B'hai faith believes that it has a basis for the synthesis of all religions into a universal world faith.

The following week on November 15 Rabbi H. Gorem Perelmuter will speak on "What Judaism Teaches About God, Man and the Universe". Rabbi Perelmuter is from the Temple Beth Zion in Johnstown and is associated with the Jewish Chautaqua Society. This is an organization dedicated to the non-sectarian consideration of Judaism and its basic teachings.

This series of programs will end on December 6 with the appearance of Dr. Ali Othman of the Arab Information Center. Dr. Othman will speak about the Muslim religion Tuesday evening and the following day in Chapel. He studied at the University of Cairo, at Syracuse and in 1950

Navy Men to Conduct Confab In Totem Inn

An information team from the local office of Naval Officer Procurement will visit the campus on Monday, November 14, 1955, to talk with senior men who may be interested in serving as commissioned officers in the Navy after graduation.

The Navy personnel will be located at Totem Inn from 10:30 a.m. to 4.00 p.m. In addition to its Officer Candidate (OCS) program which has been available since 1950, a new flight training program, the Aviation Officer Candidate (AOC) program, is available for qualified graduates. To allow men to report for active duty as soon as possible after graduation, seniors may apply for these two programs before their expected graduation date.

Any student who wishes to discuss the various programs which the Navy has to offer have been invited to meet the information team.

Juniatian Passes 31st Anniversary

Founded in 1924 as a result of a student petition for a weekly newspaper, the Juniatian this week started its 32nd year of existence.

Its predecessor was the Juniata Echo, a monthly paper published from 1891 until the Juniatian was initiated.

JC Coach, Captain To Star On TV Show

COACH HICKS and BARRY DREXLER, captain of the Big White, will appear on Ted Rhinehart's sports show this evening at 7 over WFBG-TV, Channel 10, Altoona.

ACP Awards Juniatian Rating Of First Class

The Juniatian has been awarded a first class honor rating for the 1955 Spring semester by the Associated College Press Critical Service.

The paper was given ratings of "excellent" in the departments of style, front page makeup, masthead, editorial page makeup, sports display, inside news pages, headline schedule, typography, and printing. All other departments were rated "good" or "very good".

Heading the staff for the first part of the Spring term were Jim Hunt, editor; Alma Skinner, managing editor; Joan McClure, news editor; Carol Newborg, club editor; and Nan Heller, feature editor. After Moveup Day Alma Skinner moved up to the editorship, Joan McClure became managing editor; Carol Newborg, news editor; George Fattman, club editor; and Nan Heller remained feature editor.

Possible honor ratings include All-American, first class, second class, and third class. Nine other college newspapers in the same enrollment class as the Juniatian were rated first class.

To make a more appetizing dish a cook adds a dash of seasoning. Adding that seasoning to Brigadoon (that college musical everyone's talking about) are members of the Modern Dance Group.

They will perform throughout the show with four interpretative numbers and two authentic Scotch dances, the Highland Fling and the Sword Dance.

Remember to circle either November 11 or 12 to attend Brigadoon. "Cross my heart" is a sure promise to be a hit. How do I know? I was peeking.

'Preserve Education' JWSF Group Urges

"Education—Freedom. Let's keep it alive.

That's the slogan for this season's Juniata World Service Fund Drive. The goal for this year has been set at $1955. In order to obtain this amount various projects will go into operation during this month to supplement funds received from individuals, the operetta and club donations.

Through arrangements with Mr. Fike, treasurer of the college, any amount over the average put into the Totem Inn jute box during Nov. 9-23 will go to JWSF. A lost and found articles auction featuring Dave Amidon and Jim Montgomery as auctioneers will be held Tuesday.

During the time from Nov. 6-19 ice cream will be sold in the dormitories with proceeds going to the fund. This will occur three times per week at about 10:30, it was reported.

Marty

The movie, Marty, will be shown at the Harris Clifton Theatre Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. The management will give the fund a considerable percentage of the profits. In addition, other projects are in the planning stages and will be reported in the future.

WU Representative To Present Program

Miss Joan Titus, at present associated with World University Service, is scheduled to speak in chapel Wednesday morning, according to JWSF chairman Dan Raffensperger.

An attractive young woman, Miss Titus is described as having charm, ability, high ideals and integrity. Her appearance on campus is a part of the JWSF program.

She obtained her bachelor of arts degree in English literature from the State University of New York. She considers her editorship of the literary magazine Primer, the highlight of her collegiate activities. Upon graduation, Miss Titus was awarded a fellowship for graduate study at Mills College in Oakland, Calif. She received a master of arts degree from Mills, where she also spent considerable time as assistant to the dean of students, social director of the college and as assistant resident of a women's dormitory.

The World University Service is one of the four organizations to which JWSF funds are allocated.

Monday Chapel

On Monday members of the JWSF committee will present a special chapel to the student body. Dean Mays will speak on Friday.

Public Relations Branch Provides Campus Talent For Organizations

A division of the Public Relations Office here on campus known as the Entertainment Bureau has the responsibility of providing talent selected from the student body, administration and faculty for a number of civic organizations in Huntingdon County.

Area high schools and about 25 organizations are on the bureau's regular mailing list, but in addition to these, programs are provided for churches, alumni association meetings and groups associated with the Church of the Brethren.

Through the help of Miss Doyle, Dr. Brammer, Prof. Johnson, Miss Pfotenhauer and Miss Jaeger a three-page list has been compiled on which can be found the names of a basic amount of available campus talent. This list represents 256 people. Copies of it have been sent to the various organizations the bureau serves and also to the administrative offices.

This is a free service of the college.

Performances

Under the auspices of the entertainment bureau the following programs were presented:

Bruce Dickey, soloist, and John Fleming, violinist, performed in the Sunday school of the Evangelical United Brethren Church. Pete Wright, pianist, and Nancy Geisel, soloist, appeared at the Kiwanis banquet at Huntingdon Country Club; In Sook Choi spoke at a Kiwanis meeting.

Jerry Richards spoke in Pleasant Hill Church of the Brethren in Johnstown and In Sook Choi, danced; Jacqueline Hayes, pianist and Barbara Hootman, Stella Morgan and Marlene Sterner, trio, performed at a Rotary Club banquet in Mt. Union.

Mid-Term Grades Out November 14

Mr. Engel, registrar, has announced that in all probability mid-term grades will not be out until Monday, November 14.

The first half of this semester ends tomorrow, and grades must be in the registrar's office by November 9.

Ace Sports Announcer Interviews JC Greats During Mock Game

Jerry Richards looks like he's really enjoying himself as he interviews three of Juniata's "stars" (perhaps they saw some) players during half-time of the mock JC-Susquehanna gridiron tussel last Friday evening. Members of the Big White, Black and Blue pictured above include Bonnie Gunther, Nancy Leatherman and Mimi Lehman. This senior-sponsored preamble to Saturday's game, played on a torchlit field in front of Oller Hall, proved to be quite laugh-provoking to the largest turn-out to attend a pep rally this season.

Library's Book Sale To Close November 9

Instead of closing on November 11, the book auction will open Monday, November 7, and will close on Wednesday, November 9 at 4 p.m.

Books acquired at the auction can be picked up that afternoon or during the rest of the week. In addition to single volumes there will be several sets of books available.

From The Editor's Notes

All over the nation colleges and universities are concerned with the problem of enrollment. Larger and larger numbers of young men and women are seeking a college education each year. The colleges have been accepting more students than previously was their practice.

Now there is a problem of overcrowded facilities in classrooms and dormitories. Evidence of this is seen at Juniata, particularly in the Women's Dorm where three girls are placed in rooms which held two only comfortable before. Still there are many who apply and are refused.

What are the colleges doing about the problem? Some schools are going on the assumption that not everyone should go to college and are looking only for the exceptionally brilliant, versatile and otherwise gifted young people as prospective students. With such an oversupply of applicants, these schools are able to find many of these.

Other schools, feeling that people other than the genius are capable of making a positive contribution in higher education and need further study for later life and vocations continue to try to fit qualified people into their already overflowing school plants. Expansion of the student body and corresponding campus changes are part of plans for the future of some of these colleges.

Which choice should the small liberal arts college take? Traditionally,, they have favored keeping classes small so that individual attention is possible and also have taken the stand that a liberal education is important in developing the personality of many types of persons, not just the specially gifted.

The present Big Four talks at Geneva are perhaps not as interesting and exhilerating as was the spectacle this summer. These talks will, however, prove to be of greater significance than the pious exchange of goodwill that took place in July. The Summit Conference did nothing more than reaffirm a certain amount of good faith for there was no gains, promises or concessions from either side.

Now comes the hard task of seeking accomodation for conflicting national interests on specific issues and concrete problems. This is a job which requires infinite patience, delicate handling and the utmost of professional diplomatic skill. It is now that we see the tremendous responsibility of the diplomat.

In this era of self-centered, super nationalist fervor, it is hard to see a diplomat's responsibility going beyond the furtherance of his own nation's interests. But we must remember that this is also the era of nuclear weapons capable of destroying civilization. And the ultimate in forceable prosecution or national desires is the use of these weapons. However, war would be suicide for both the diplomat's nation and his civilization. So, his final responsibility lies with humanity. He must at all costs keep his nation from a position that would have war as the only answer.

But how can the diplomat consider the broad concept of humanity by using the necessarily self-centered and narrow-state as his point of reference? He can't.

Now we can see the responsibility of the diplomat's government and the citizenry of his nation. They too, must realize this larger responsibility and not pressure him unduly in a nationalist direction. Self-righteous nationalism admits of no compromise for that would mean the "good" nations making concessions to the "bad" nations. That would be tantamount to dealing with Satan himself.

But accomodation, of necessity, rests on concession and compromise. The issue is no longer; can we live with the Russians, but rather, we must live with them.

CONQUEST BY MAN, by Paul Herrmann. A reconstruction of the pre-history and early history of man, made to order for readers who find perpetual fascination in such reconstructions and the detective work involved. Although the author sometimes appears to fabricate elaborate structures out of significant material, most of his theories are based u ample documentation, and his conclusions are always provocative. A realist's eye for the detail, coupled with insight and imagination, enables the author to find recognizable patterns of human behavior in artifacts, fables, legends and travelers' tales.

EDITOR'S NOTE

In the October 21 issue it was erroneously reported that HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY would be shown during Spiritual Emphasis Week.

The movie committee has informed us that GRAPES OF WRATH was actually the winning movie.

Intercollegiate Chatter

The United Nations National Students Association has designated Allegheny College as the location of a special sub-committee on Human Relations. The group will investigate such areas as discrimination and faculty-student relationships in addition to exploring nation-wide problems in human relations. The commission will utilize findings of the AUC Citizenship committee and other groups towards the improving of human relations. The NSA group will give Allegheny students a chance to work with students of other colleges, to compare findings, and to participate in student government in general.

The University of Buffalo School of Education registered students for the first phase of a new program in the preparation of school administrators, including principals of elementary and secondary schools, central school principals and superintendents. Dr. Robert Fisk, dean of the school of education, stated that the program grew out of two years of study and development by the University faculty and the western New York school administrators as part of the statewide Cooperative Development of Public School Administration.

Dr. Fisk believes that significant changes in the state certification requirements for principals of elementary and secondary schools, central school principals and superintendents will result from the study. The University's program calls for increased background in the social sciences and the humanities, direct field experiences in school and community, and group and individual counseling, as well as a substantial increase in competence to deal with problems of educational programs, school finance, personal and community relations.

A new University of San Fransico tradition has been established this year. All freshmen entering on scholarships will receive especially designed pins in recognition of their achievements.

Near the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft plant in East Hartford, Conn., a fullfledged graduate center was established this fall by Renssalaer Polytechnic Institute. Located 115 miles from R. P. I.'s home campus in upper New York state, the new graduate facilities will enable working engineers from Pratt and Whitney Aircraft and other companies in the Hartford area to continue their studies. Without interrupting employment, it will be possible for students to obtain advanced degrees in specialized fields.

Heres' some food for thought from Grove City: The best way to save face is to keep the bottom half closed . . . Before you take time out to flare up at anyone's thoughts, take time to count ten—ten of your own . . . The biggest block to a man's success is his nead . . . . Don't smoke in bed! The ashes on the floor may be you . . . Today is the tomorrow you worried about yesterday and all is well.

intracollegiate chatter

by Joan McClure

It was recently brought to the attention of the Juniatian that we should run a column devoted to the humorous aspects of college life. We don't know how humorous this will be, but here are our feeble efforts:

Heard About Campus—A professor, cutting a student who left an hour test after 22 minutes, "I hope you can do just a well next year."

A student on the Susquehanna slaughter, "It was just like the skit at the pep rally Friday night."

A coed, having decided to cut a nine o'clock class, leaving the dorm at eight, "I won't take my book with me, then I won't even be tempted to go to class."

One of the gluttonous kitchen boys, griping about the shortage of desserts, "I only got three!"

A freshman, returning from a weekend home, to her roommate, "Guess what! I saw Jane at home and she doesn't look like a hag anymore."

Didja Notice?—The suitcase "brigade," after it was announced that there would be no classes Monday.

How all the freshmen are getting "broken in" right at the beginning—three mid terms on one day was quite the fad this week.

This and That—The Susquehanna paper mentioned our "200 plus pound line of fully scholarshiped heavies." Fully scholarshiped heavies!

Alumni Notes—A number of last year's grads have gone on to further study. Included are Charlotte Detwiler, assistant in child development and family relationships at Penn State; Bill Garrison, chemistry, at Illinois U.; Dick Godshall, Jeff Med School; Bob Godshall, Wharton School of Finance; Scott Hommer, Penn Med School; Herb Law, Lincoln Chiropractic College; John and Anna Lee Over ('54) Martin, teaching assistants in physics and math at Illinois U.; Tom Meloy, Jeff Med School; "Mikey" Mick, dietetics, U. of Calif.; Frank Moist, Drew University; Phyl Natale, research assistant at Temple Med College; Harry Sorenson, political science, Columbia U. night school; Paul Wingert, Penn Med School; and Gail Roach, assistant professor of math, Purdue.

Braves Face 'Heavy' Grove City In Quest Of Twenty-First Win

The Juniata Indians will play host to the Wolverines of Grove City College tomorrow afternoon at the College Hill gridiron. The Crimson and White will field a tough, heavy, but inexperienced squad composed mostly of freshmen and sophomores.

Coach Jim Curry of Grove City, using a wide open "T" formation, will depend upon passing and deception to end the Tribe's 20 game winning streak.

The Indians clipped the Wolverines 29-20 last year, and hold a seven win, two loss record in the nine game series which began in 1927. In 1954 Grove City compiled a 2-6 record by defeating Hiram and Allegheny colleges, 12-9 and 25-9 respectively.

1-4 Record

This year's team won only their first tilt, defeating Washington and Jefferson 7-0. They have lost to Hiram, 19-6; Westminister, 34-0; Allegheny, 13-7; and Thiel 19-12.

The 48 man team sports only three seniors and four juniors. Seniors are: Ron Altany, 180 pound left halfback; Don Bachar, 210 pound right guard; and Richard Greco, 212 pound right tackle. Jim Cross, Robert Glaser, William Peters and Richard Moon represent the junior class.

Cross-Country Squad Faces Opener to F & M

Cross-country took its place as an intercollegiate sport on the Juniata College athletic scene last Friday when the Indian harriers lost 26-30 to Franklin & Marshall College at Lancaster.

F & M's Ron Weaver was the winner as he covered the 4.4 mile course in 24:07. Charles Clark, also from F & M was second.

Wilson Third

Doug Wilson, junior from Altoona, was Juniata's first man across the finish line, coming in third. Wilson was clocked in 25:40. In fourth spot was JC's Herb Deuchar, freshman from New York City. The Tribe's Don Davis, Philadelphia senior, was the sixth man to finish.

Finishing in the eighth, ninth and tenth places were Indians Chuck Brown, freshman from Bellefonte, Herb Layman, junior from Somerset, and Ed Edenfield, Uniontown freshman.

Tomorrow afternoon at 1:15 Juniata will play host to Albright. The race will start behind Memorial Gym and proceed over a 4¼ mile course with the finish line in Sherwood Forest.

Collegians Clinch IM Championship

With the intramural football season drawing to a close the Collegians have clinched the title for the second season in a row, by sweeping through 11 games unbeaten,

Action in the past two weeks was limited to the top contenders as the lower teams ceased to appear causing a host of forfeits.

Besides winning three games by default the Collegians earned their title last week by defeating the JC Juniors 26-6, the Jabberwockies 10-6 and the Vets 25-24.

Howie Kerstetter's field goal enabled the champions to hold off a last minute rally by the Jabberwockies in the 10-6 win. The presence of two old pros named Veto and Segalovich livened the slambang clincher with the Vets Monday morning.

In addition to Kerstetter the roster of the Collegians included Lee Hallman, John Criswell, Ralph Mumma, Phil Lankford, Phil Volk, George Cline, Don Murdoch and Tory Froisland.

In other games the Vets shut out the Juniors 13-0 and the Snarfs blanked the Nitwits 14-0.

The only loss suffered so far by the second place Crazy Eights was an early 7-6 decision to the champion Collegians.

The IM football standings as of Tuesday, November 2:

Crazy Eights	8	1
JC Juniors	8	2
Vets	8	3
Nitwits	4	5	1
Maulers	5	5
Snarfs	5	5
Hilltoppers	3	6
Jabberwockies	3	6
Iron Men	2	8
Cloister Creeps	1	8
Pioneers	0	9

Meanwhile on the soccer scene a short-lived but exciting soccer tournament was won by the Sophomore All-Stars. The Stars won a best-of-five series from the Fudgefactors in three straight games, 3-1, 3-0 and 4-2.

Rosters are now in for a bowling league which will operate on Friday nights as last year.

Basketball will probably be organized later this month to begin operation after Thanksgiving vacation.

Inept Crusaders Provide Workout For JC Subs

By crushing a hapless Susquehanna eleven 54-0 the Juniata Indians stretched their noted winning streak to 20 games and the school's total wins to 100.

There was no doubt in the minds of the spectators what the outcome was to be from the opening kickoff here Saturday. It was the second largest score ever run up by a Juniata team.

After receiving the kickoff S. U. failed to move the ball and punted to Juniata's 44. The Indians were penalized to the 27 where they began a 73-yard touchdown march. A 39-yard reverse by Glenn Hassinger was the key play in the drive. Don Pheasant capped it by going over from the two and Ron Bechtel added the point.

Sill Scores

Midway in the period the Indians scored again on a 66-yard march. Bob Sill crashed over from the two while Pheas's 45 yard sprint sparked the drive. Birmingham added the PAT.

Susquehanna fumbled the ensuing kickoff and JC recovered on the 45. A Pat Tarquinio to Barry Drexler pass was good for the TD and Birmingham again converted ending the first stanza 21-0.

With the reserves in action in the second period Dick Hummel raced 59 yards unmolested for the fourth touchdown. Don Brumbaugh added the extra point.

Before the half ended the Tribe scored again on an eight yard dash by George Zeh making it 35-0.

First Play TD

On the first play from scrimmage in the second half Tarquinio went 61 yards for the TD that hoisted the marathon to 41-0.

Once again the Tarquinio to Drexler combination clicked, this time for 44 yards to make the score 48-0 at the end of the third quarter.

In the final period Hassinger ran 37 yards for the other score.

The statistical column was also lopsided; 21-5 in first downs, 437-13 in rushing yardage, and 119-30 in passing. Pheasant sparked the Indian attack with an average of nine yards a carry.

Indians Hold Wide 7-2 Edge In Grover Series

Going into its tenth meeting with Grove City Juniata holds a decisive 7-2 lead in the series which originated in 1927.

The Indians have now won five in a row over the Grovers in the past five years. Not since 1949 when they won 13-6 has Grove City been victorious.

1927's initial encounter saw the most lopsided score of the series when the Grovers rolled up a 60-0 margin. Since then the games have been close affairs similar to last year's bruising 29-20 scrap.

JC's 22-0 shutout in 1953 was the Tribe's most convincing win.

Handbook Released

Chairman of Athletics, Sonny Kaylor this week released a handbook of intramural sports. The book contains the seasonal rules for the men's intramural program.

In addition the booklet includes necessary information pertaining to intramural activities.

The contents of the book were compiled by Kaylor with the assistance of Director of Athletics, Mike Snider and the Intramural Athletics Committee.

The committee is composed of Larry Confer, John Criswell, Barry Drexler, Dwight Good, William Haushalter, Val Means, Don Pheasant, Dan Raffensperger, John Staley, and Walt Vander bush.

From The Bleachers

by Jim Hunt

The Juniata College Indians have had their breather! In the three games left on the schedule the records of the opposition may be thrown out the window. Twenty straight wins is a very enticing tidbit to hold in front of teams that have had unsuccessful or only mediocre seasons.

Tomorrow the Grove City eleven will provide the opposition. The records show that the Grovers have only a 6-0 victory over winless Washington and Jefferson. The statistical sheets also indicate that the visitors will probably field a team averaging 200 pounds.

In the following two weeks Ursinus and Swarthmore will provide the opposition. Dickinson defeated Swarthmore in an early season game. Just two weeks ago Swarthmore hung a defeat on Ursinus. Now according to our figuring the records would indicate three easy victories for the Braves.

However, the records always fail to mention that when a football team starts a game they forget all about past performance. Therefore since they don't remember what the record books say they can play way above the fans expectations.

This is simply a round about way of saying that we expect at least two real tough football games in the coming weeks. The Tribe is odds-on favorites in our book to extend the winning streak to 23. But we are just pessimistic enough to say "get them one at a time guys."

* * * *

Just in passing we thought you might like to know that JC doesn't have claim to the only member of the Tarquinio family that is a passer. The past few weeks we have witnessed some fantastic percentage passing by Pat Tarquinio. Tarq just shrugs it off and claims he would like to have the percentage his brother has.

The younger Tarquinio is a freshman at Cincinnati University and is playing on the frosh football squad. In a recent game 'little Tarq' threw seven passes, completed six and three were for touchdowns. Evidently he has been watching his big brother.

* * * *

Looking northward in the state we note that last week the Lycoming Warriors nearly upset another highly favored eleven. The Lycos lost to Pennsylvania Military College by a 14-13 margin. However the score was about the only place the Warriors were behind. Statistically they defeated PMC. They show signs of being a real formidable opponent in years to come.

In The Clubs

There is an increasing activity of clubs these weeks as programs for the year are getting underway.

Tycoon

The Tycoon Club will meet Thursday instead of the customary Friday. A representative of the International Business Machines Corporation will speak and show pictures.

Sigma Gamma

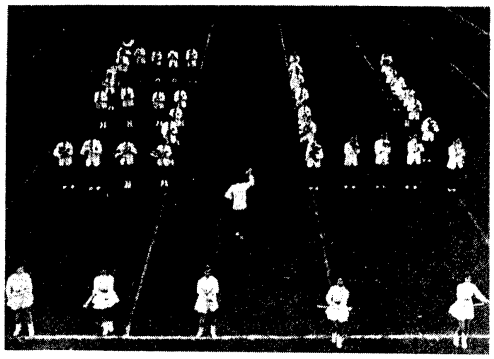
Last Tuesday was a "red letter" day for Sigma Gamma members for it was the day that twenty two sociology and psychology majors journeyed to Lewisburg to tour the Federal Penitentiary there (and we do not mean Bucknell!) The students were free to ask any questions they desired about the general living conditions of the twelve hundred and fifty men imprisoned there. The average age of these men is twenty two.

The tour consisted of a visit to the library which was extremely well-equipped, the gymnasium, the recreation rooms, one style of sleeping quarters which was an individual cell, and the metal plant which employs many of the men in the production of such things as lockers. They also viewed the dining hall in which the men are served cafeteria style, and an open dormitory.

The visiting room, unlike those pictured in movies, was a large comfortable lounge in which a prisoner could talk freely with his visitor. A surprising thing to most of the students was the fact that guards did not carry firearms, the only ones being in the look-out towers.

The students left Lewisburg feeling rather shocked at a condition of society which they had never before had an opportunity to witness at close range but with a renewed desire to do their best in coping with it.

Marching Band Performs For Susquehanna



TRIBUTE TO RIVALS—The Juniata College Marching Band is shown here as it appeared at half-time during the Susquehanna game. The band has formed the letters SU as the majorettes perform a routine for the enjoyment of those who traveled here from Selinsgrove to see the grid contest. Attired in handsome new uniforms, the group shows its ability to look good from a performance standpoint as well.

Committee Plans Sub-frosh Events

Charlotte Beltrame, president of the sub-freshman committee, has announced the following schedule and itinerary for sub-freshman weekends:

November 19-20 — Football game with Ursinus; social event, planned by the social committee.

December 10-11 — Basketball game with Ursinus. All-Class Night skits.

February 4-5 — Basketball game with Susquehanna.

March 24-25 — Masque Play.

April 21-22—Tarck and tennis matches.

Bidu Sayao To Open '55 Concert Agenda

Three Community Civic Concerts have been planned for this college year, the first of these to be Wednesday, November 16 when Bidu Sayao, Brazilian soprano, will sing in Oller Hall.

The other two concerts will feature the Vienna Choir Boys and the Griller String Quartet. They will appear Friday, January 6 and February 10 respectively.

Science Group To Offer Aid For Post-Graduates

The National Science Foundation has announced its plans to award approximately 700 graduate and 80 postdoctoral fellowships for scientific study during the 1956-1957 academic year.

These fellowships are awarded to citizens of the United States who are selected solely on the basis of ability. They are offered in the mathematical, physical, medical, biological, engineering, and other sciences including anthropology, psychology (other than clinical), geography, and certain interdisciplinary fields. Fields of convergence between the natural and social sciences are included this year for the first time.

7 Seniors Eligible

Graduate fellowships are available to those who are studying for either masters' or doctoral degrees at the first year, intermediate or terminal year levels. College seniors who expect to receive a baccalaureate degree during the 1955-1956 academic year are also eligible to apply. Post-doctoral fellowships will be awarded to individuals who, as of the beginning of their fellowships have earned a doctoral degree in one of the fields listed above or who have had research training and experience equivalent to that represented by such a degree.

The annual stipends for graduate Fellows are $1400 for the first year, $1600 for the intermediate year and $1800 for the terminal year. The annual stipend for post-doctoral Fellows is $3400. Dependency allowances will be made to married Fellows. Tuition, laboratory fees and limited travel allowances will also be provided.

Applications for graduate fellowships must be received by January 3, 1956. More information can be found on the Science Hall bulletin board.

Class Chairmen Start Work On All-Class Nite

The 19th annual All-Class Nite is being organized for its performance December 10 in Oller Hall. Class chairman of this always exciting contest for the coveted cup are Jim Hunt and Jerry Richards, seniors; Jim Montgomery, juniors; Sandy Ewing, sophomores; and Chuck Brown, freshmen.

The class skits are due to the general chairman, Alma Skinner, this afternoon at a meeting of the class chairmen in Totem Inn. They will be submitted to the All-Class Nite Committee consisting of Dean Dove, Dean Penney, Dr. Rockwell, Alice Waite and Alma Skinner for approval and constructive criticism.

All-Class Nite was originated in 1937 "to allow the inventive genius of the student to be stimulated in non-stereotyped programs".

Oller Hall To Become Highland For Big Musical Production

by Eleanor Newton

Brigadoon, the well-known musical by Frederick Loewe, will be presented in Oller Hall tonight and tomorrow evening at 8:15.

For many weeks the Scottish theme has invaded the college scene in anticipation of this event. It will be presented in conjunction with Parents Day and therefore a considerable attendance is expected for both evening performances. Students are urged to attend the production Friday evening.

The story of Brigadoon concerns two American hunters who lose their way in the Scottish Highlands. In their wanderings they come across the village of Brigadoon, which is quite unusual, because this town can come to earth only once every one hundred years. During the day spent in this village one of the hunters falls in love with a young maiden but leaves, for he is not sure that he can accept all that is a part of life in Brigadoon. He returns to America but realizes it is useless. And thus the story continues.

Cast Listed

The cast is composed of Don Lowdermilk as Tommy Albright, Dick Backus as Jeff Douglas, Ted Hetrick as Archie Beaton, Ron Dilling as Andrew MacLaren, Mary Jane Hershberger as Fiona MacLaren, Barbara Orner as Jean MacLaren, Judy Gearhart as Meg Brockie, Phil Lankford as Charlie Dalrymple, Clint Betz as Mr. Lundie, Aliceann Wohlbruck as Jane Ashton.

Bryan Stauffer as Harry Beaton, E. J. Stutzman as Angus MacGuffie, Jay Guyer as Sandy Dean, Paul Hart as Stuart Dalrymple, Dick Livingston as MacGregor and Jim Montgomery as Frank.

Felton Director

Brigadoon is progressing well toward a successful opening night performance under the direction of Gordon Felton, stage director, Donald Johnson, music director, and Elaine Aitken as student director and manager.

Most of the scenes for Brigadoon are in a Scottish atmosphere except for one, which is an American restaurant with costuming of an authentic nature.

Open House, Operetta, Swarthmore Game Are Parents Day Highlights

By Dottie Stricker

The plans have all been made, and tomorrow JC fellows and girls are set to show their moms and dads a great time on our campus.

Beginning at 9 a. m. parents may register in Brumbaugh Hall. Small name tags will be distributed, so no one can hide his identity. At this time parents may obtain complimentary meal tickets for the buffet luncheon.

Open house will be held in the men's and women's residence halls from 10 a. m. until noon. Once again this year rooms will be judged acocrding to the originality of the room plan, neatness and attractiveness, adaptability to given physical limitations and the suitability and utility value of the room. A total of $35 in prizes wil be given to the winners of the best single and double rooms in the dorms.

Parents In Class

Throughout the morning parents who arrive early are especially invited to sit in on classes. A list of classes thought to be of greatest interest to parents will be available at the registration desk.

Luncheon will be served in Oneida Dining Hall from 11:15 until 12:45. All students who can eat early are urged to do so in order to ease the incoming influx.

Twirp Season Nears-- gals cheer, guys jeer

Stake your claims, coeds! Juniata's own 'Girl Rush', Twirp Week, officially begins Sunday at noon. All shy and reticent males will have to take to the hills, for the gals are prepared to shell out (The Woman Is Requested to Pay) to satiate long frustrated gleams in their eyes.

Don't be shy (a shy female??), girls! Ask that gorgeous hunk of male you've had your eye on to have breakfast in Tote, a hoagie to skips, to take in a movie, or just go for a walk, besides, of course, going to the community concert and to other campus social events that will be planned.

So put away your wallets, guys, and listen for the phone—some cute little chic may be calling YOU!!

(Check the bulletin boards and tune in WJC for Twirp Week events and times, as they will be announced later.)

Parents Day Tradition Met By Mass Maladies

by Ann Willson

This is it, people. Parents are arriving—tomorrow is the day!

Parents Day is a traditional observence at Juniata, and yet it is never old stuff, even for upperciassmen, because, quite simply, parents are likeable folk, and we always enjoy having them around.

Many go "ape" in their parents' honor. Once each year, the day before parents arrive, students are affected by one of the following attacks:

Rack Cleanliness. Male vicums can be found not only airing bed clothing, but also rearranging it in the accepted manner (Mom calls this bed making). Females are even more susceptible; they suds rack clothings! Critical cases even clean under the rack.

Room Cleanliness. Those stricken pick up letters and books from the floor; even mild cases will clear a path underfoot. A severe attack may result in a campaign to get clothing out of sight and dirty clothes stuffed into the laundry bag and bureau drawers (there are no clean clothes anymore).

Sometimes minor attacks of desk orderliness strike, when every Juniatian suffers slightly and is obliged to donate all test papers to the waste collection (This is Be-Kind-To-Parents Day).

Poverty Pains. This is the most

Huntingdon Civic Concerts Association Opens Current Season With Bidu Sayao

Brazilian Performer To Sing In Oller Hall

Bidu Sayao, world renowned Brazilian soprano, will appear in the Community Civic Concerts Associations' first presentation in Oller Hall this Wednesday evening at 8:15.

Born into a wealthy family, Miss Sayao has been singing over since she began taking voice lessons at the age of 14. She was already famous on two continents, in Europe and in Latin America, when she was introduced to this country by Toscanini.

Bidu Sayao (pronounced Beedoo Sigh-yow) has appeared in many lead roles at the Metropolitan Opera and has spent many seasons starring with the San Francisco Opera. When she returned to her native Brazil recently and sang at the Teatro Municipal, she was feted by all Rio, beginning with the President.

International Linguist

Slim, petite, dark-eyed with her shining red-brown hair, she is glamorous and charming. Having mastered several languages, Miss Sayao speaks English, Italian, French, Portuguese and Spanish.

She was born into a wealthy Rio de Janeiro family that never dreamed their daughter would become the greatest singer their country has ever produced. Bidu Sayao studied in Paris under Jean de Reszke, returned to Rio to make her concert debut and soon went on to tour the foremost opera houses of Europe.

In North America she has appeared in opera, on the recital stage, as a soloist with orchestra and on radio and television.

Miss Sayao is considered the foremost attraction to come to Huntingdon under the auspices of Civic Concerts this season. She has been referred to as one of the most fascinating personalities of the music world today and also as Pan-America's most persuasive ambassador of good-will.

Miss Langdon Begins Fifth Year As Pres.

By George Fattman

It would be impossible for towns the size of Huntingdon to bring in such fine examples of culture as Bidu Sayao if it were not for such organizations as the local Civic Concerts Assoc. and its president, Miss Kathryn Langdon.

Miss Langdon, herself a patron of the arts, has served as president of the local organization for the past five years and was the general chairman of presentations when the group, then associated with Community Concerts Assoc., started to function in 1940.

Having attended Juniata Academy and several other institutions of higher learning, Miss Langdon studied voice in New York under Bessie Bowie. She had several piano students for some time and was chairman of the music committee of the Civic Club. Later a Music Club was formed which brought to Huntingdon a nationally known artist once a year.

Artists At Tea

Miss Langdon, who served as president of the organization three years, was instrumental in presenting various outside artists at occasional teas.

Having traveled extensively, Miss Langdon is interested in athletics as well as the arts. She enjoys summer theater work and recently took a course in occupational therapy.

During its 15 years of existence the Huntingdon concert group has presented 49 concerts, among them the Robert Shaw Choral, the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, Todd Duncan and Russell Stuart, who was the first artist to appear in Oller Hall after its dedication.

Miss Langdon has been instrumental in the success of the local concert association and has been rightfully hailed as "Miss Music" in Huntingdon.

From The Editor's Notes

We Are Not Alike . . .

The students all over the world are not like us.

A large number of facts and illustrations concerning the whys of giving to World University Service were discussed last Sunday afternoon at a WUS conference at the Bucknell recreation retreat. Among them was this item of food for thought.

Unlike the students in the USA and other western countries who think of taking some 15 years or so after graduation to 'arrive' in their professions and be in a position where what they think and say is of major importance, the young people like us in the Far East are the crucial leaders today and of the immediate tomorrow.

As an example, during the summer vacation the pre-medical and medical student is working out in the villages where there are no doctors for many miles, administering what help they have so far learned. The educated person is a rare being and has influence far beyond the relative importance of people with equal training in our country.

These students are greatly handicapped by poor facilities, lack of food and consequent poor health. It often seems to them that what they are doing seems useless in face of the great amount of improvement needed in their countries.

Two things spur them on—a sense of hope and a sense of belonging. A sense of hope in that they sometimes reach a resolution of the ideas learned in school and the surrounding environment. A sense of belonging to a larger group of educated persons helps them keep faith in what they are trying to accomplish.

As people living in a small world with these students, it is politic to consider the significance of the ideas they are forming and their power.

What's The Problem??

Why is there a lack of organization and planning for the JC social events? It has been brought to our attention that last Saturday night's program was not planned for enough in advance even to be announced in the Juniatian on Friday. The paper is the major means for the day students to find out what is going on around campus.

Again, next week is Twirp Week. This past Tuesday evening no plans had been made ahead of time for this, one of the high-lights of the social calendar. No request had been made for advertising space in the paper in the form of a story and outline of special Twirp activities.

At the dance on the victory celebration day after the Susquehanna win, there weren't lights to be had although the place was packed.

Credit must be given where credit is due. The masquerade dance at the end of October showed evidence of real organization and planning. It seems to be an exception to the general rule, however.

What is the difficulty?

In The Clubs

This Thursday Camera Club will hold a meeting at which time a short talk will be given on the principles of photography. Novices in the club will then be shown the photo lab and the technique of making pictures will be explained.

Masque

This Sunday the Masque will sponsor a reading by Esther Doyle—Emyln William's "The Corn Is Green". The program will take place in Swigart Hall at 3:30.

J Club

Did you ever wonder where that ten cents you pay for booster tags goes each week? And how about the quarter that goes for the "Indian"? They are two of many projects sponsored by our "J" Club—the same one that helped bring about the JC band's "new look." The proceeds from these two projects go toward the purchase of letter sweaters for those athletes who have earned them, so keep supporting a necessary and worthwhile club!

Accent On Reading

THE HOUSE ON NAUSET MARSH, by Wyman Richardson. A book of delightful essays, originally published in the Atlantic Monthly, recording Dr. Richardson's observations on bird life, the sea and nature in general as he found it on Cape Cod, in all seasons and all kinds of weather. Disarmingly simple in style, they are of high literary quality. While imparting fascinating information on a variety of subjects, and making many interesting conpectures, they hold the attention and admiration of the reader because of the light-hearted, easy rhythm of style.

THREE TICKETS TO ADVENTURE, by Gerald M. Durrell. The author continues to recount his animal-collecting adventures, this time in British Guiana. As in previous writings, The Overloaded Ark and The Bafut Beagles, the collectors misfortunes and fortunes are blended with unusual zoological information and amusingly pointed characterizations of his associates, both human and animal.

In these days of international tension and cold war, the issues and events seem to obscure the men who formulate them and carry them out. Yet it is in the hands of these top international diplomats that the peace lies.

The United States policy has been one of peace through strength. This policy has involved building a solid chain of defense around Soviet Russia so as to make any aggression by her or one of her satellites disasterous. This plan of defense involves careful diplomatic negotiation with each of the nations involved. No man has done more to build strength for the West than John Foster Dulles.

Dulles

Dulles, a man with a resourceful intellect and an indefatigable physique, has quietly but consistently scored one major diplomatic victory after another for the West. His skill and triumph have brought new hope to the West after the blundering tragedy that was so characteristic of U. S. foreign policy from 1945-1952.

The list of gains for the free world that Dulles has engineered are indeed impressive. They include the settlement of the long dispute between Britain and Egypt over the Suez Canal, the reopening of the flow of Iranian oil to the West, the defense pact between Turkey and Pakistan tightening the inner line of defense, the overthrow of the communist regime in Guatamala, the union of all American nations in the fight against communism, the settlement of the Trieste dispute between Italy and Yugoslavia, and the mutual defense treaty with Nationalist China.

Great Triumphs

However, these are rather minor when compared to the three great triumphs of his State Secretaryship. They are the Western European Union, the SEATO pact, and the Austrian peace treaty. WEU was particularly important in that it was created from the ruins of a major disaster, the defeat of EDC (the European Defense Community The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization represents the first attempt by the West to fill the political vacuum in Asia. This move to strengthen weakness is certainly in marked contrast to the policy of Dean Acheson. Such a policy six years ago would probably have prevented one of the great tragedies of our times, the Korean War. The success of the Dulles program has placed the Kremlin on the defensive. They have been forced for the first time to make major concessions. The result was the Austrian Peace Treaty and the "new Russian policy" exhibited at the Geneva Conference.

Dynamic Leaders

The last three years have seen the rise of three dynamic leaders who have proved to be a tower of strength to the West. Germany's Konrad Adenauer, the Phillipines' Ramon Magsaysay, and free Indo-China's Premier Diem. These men with the help of a positive U. S. foreign policy have brought new hope to the free world.

We agree with Vice-President Nivon that we should be thankful that a man such as John Foster Dulles is our Secretary of State today.

intercollegiate chatter

by Joan McClure

Mid-herm week has come and gone, and, as usual, has gotten the best of everyone. Craming, late hours (prof's, too, I guess), class cuts, the demands of extracurricular activities, the low grades don't make for the happiest college community. Fortunately, however, most people didn't lose their sense of humor, as evidenced by these witticisms.

A prof, breezing into class at 8:10 and dismayed to find a number of cuts (last minute crammers), announced, "I've been working on this lecture since breakfast and it's so good, I wouldn't want anyone to miss it, so I'll just save it for next time." Seems as if the students aren't the only ones who procrastinate.

And another prof, to one of his Saturday classes, complained, "After five days of hard work, I'm tired." Said one of the students, "I didn't know you had a job."

An "A" student, consoling himself on the 88 he had made in a test: "Oh, well, I'm not too worried: I can bring it up." Time out for a chorus of hearts and flowers. Outside the Classroom—At Saturday's game, when a Grove City player and a JC player were tangling for possession of the pigskin, one of the fans yelled, "Jump ball!" How's that for rushing the season?

Several boys, commenting on a rather thin Juniata coed: "She went over to Totem Inn and drank a cherry smash: a little while later they hung her up for a thermometer."

And did you hear about the scholar on the football team who once at an away game during the halftime pep talk in the locker room sat in the corner and read a novel for one of his courses? And Was My Face Red! Last Saturday a senior coed sat in Founders Hall lobby from 10-10:30 waiting for ethics class to begin. Trouble is there's no mid-morning break on Saturdays.

Another embarrassing incident occurred when three JC students were engaged in that favorite campus pastime, a bull session. The person under discussion, evidently ready to enter the room to return a pair of borrowed scissors, instead slipped them under the door and across the floor. Silence reigned supreme.

Don't forget to sweep the dirt under your rug, buy your mom a mum, and don your halo—tomorrow's Parents' Day.

Coach Warns About Tribes' Final Games

by Dave Suloff

Well, six down and two to go for another perfect season, but watch the Garnet of Swarthmore and the Ursinus Bears. This is what Coach Hicks implied in a special interview with him on Tuesday.

Hicks said that he was very well pleased with all the players in Saturday's 47-0 romp over Grove City, and that all the players were outstanding. Coach Hicks also said that he was well pleased because the offense was beginning to click like it should, and that fortunately for the Indians there were no serious injuries in the game Saturday with the exception of a few bruises here and there.

If there are no further injuries from now until the end of the season, Hicks said that he believed that the team would probably continue to improve on both offense and defense.

As for the future, the Indians have two toughies coming up in Swarthmore next, and Ursinus to end the season. Both teams will be "up" for the game in hopes that they might be able to sever the Brave's winning streak which now stands at 21 in a row. Against Juniata, both teams usually play their best. Last year, however, both teams were supposed to be tough, and JC beat Swarthmore 39-0, and Ursinus 26-6. Every opponent poses as a threat to the win streak, especially the two remaining teams.

In last week's action John's Hopkins defeated Swarthmore, 19-6. Ursinus also lost 40-0 to Moravian, which JC defeated 14-6 However, Ursinus was without the services of six starting players due to injuries. This large factor could have made the final result different.

As for the offensive formation of our two remaining opponents, only one has the single wing, that team being Swarthmore. Ursinus uses the "T" with a few variations

Tribe Faces Swarthmore in Parents Day Tilt

Garnet Out to Avenge Last Years 39-0 Loss

In last week's 19-6 defeat at the hands of Johns Hopkins, Swarthmore's lone score came as the result of an interference penalty on the part of Johns Hopkins. Van Hart fadded and tossed a pass to Blaine Brainiff on the Hopkins 12. The pass was knocked down, but ruled interference. In the next series of plays, Sam Criswell bulled over off tackle for the lone score. The PAT was blocked.

Probable starters for the Garnet of Swarthmore will be: Ends: Brainiff and Ellis; Tackles: Winde and Zimmerman; Guards: Roeder and Spitzer; and James at Center. Van Hart will be at Quarterback, with Sutton, Bell and Tawes rounding out the rest of the backfield.

Three other backs which will probably see action are: Thiess, Price, and Finkelstein.

Grove City tackler finally catches up with Tribe tailback Pat Tarquinio in last Saturday's 21st victory for Juniata.

Tarq, Drex Lead JC Offense As Tribe Trips Grovers 47-0

Coach Hick's tribe chalked up win number 21, on the College Hill gridiron Saturday, by romping a tough but outclassed Grove City team, 47-0.

Before a chilled crowd of JC rooters, the Indians rolled up their second largest score of the season, giving the blue and gold 101 points in their last two tilts.

On Juniata's first play from scrimmage, tailback Pat Tarquinio hit captain Barry Drexler with a 31 yard pass and the shifty end went the whole way. Keith Birmingham booted the bonus point to make the score 7-0.

Juniata again gained possession of the ball when Charlie Haines recovered a Grove City fumble on the enemy's five yard stripe. Three plays later, Bob Sill bolted through the middle for the score. Birmingham's kick was blocked and the Indians led 13-0 with only 5:50 elapsed in the game.

Four plays later Drexler blocked Earl Stout's punt and center John Staley recovered on the Grove City 46. A Tarquinio pass to wingback Don Pheasant set up the touchdown. On the next play Drexler went over from the five after snagging a 13 yard toss.

Late in the first period the Wolverines moved to the Tribe's 22 yard line on a fumble recovery. The hard charging Indian line held the Grovers to no gain and Pheasant carried to the JC 30 on a fourth down interception.

Sill Scores

A 57 yard Tarquinio to Drexler pass set up the next T.D. Tarquinio gained six yards around end and Sill hit paydirt on a center plunge.

On the first play after the kickoff, Tarquinio intercepted a Wolverine pass and caried six yards to the Grover's 0. Eleven plays later he scooted seven yards around end for the six pointer. Birmingham converted and the score stood 33-0 at intermission.

Juniata drove 70 yards in six plays in the opening minutes of the second half. Tarquinio's 42 yard run set up a 10 yard touchdown drive for the fifth JC score. to score was a drive to the Indians 10 yard stripe. The attack was driven back nine yards by the solid Juniata line.

For the final score, the JC gridders marched 80 yards with four minutes left in the game, with the subs seeing plenty of action. Sill made the longest run by crashing the secondary and galloping 60 yards to the goal

All-Stars Named Girls' IM Hockey

Due to inclement weather, no hockey games were played in the intramural loop last week. There are, however, several games to be played this week and next week before the season is completed. The standings of last week are the same with the sophomores, juniors, freshmen, and seniors placed in that order.

Last Sunday evening, the four team captains: Elaine Aitken, Patience Kinloch, Jeanette Lowe, and Laura McAvoy met with the women's athletic chairman, Norma Hottle, and selected two all-star teams to play a best of three series beginning on Thursday, November 10.

Seniors on the teams are: E. Aitken, N. Phillips, J. Hutchinson, N. Freed, and L. Van Erden. Juniors include: D. Stricker, H. Schmidlen, N. Hottle, N. Bachman, N. Lowe, and F. Wenzel. Sophomores are: K. Beltzhoover, S. Morgan, P. Kinloch, J. Rubican, J. Dustine, M. Moyer, L. Guilden, and M. Ruldoph. Members from the freshman class are: B. Wittenbrock, D. Rosewarne, L. McAvoy. The five substitutes, J. Summy, A. Wohlbrook, J. Gilroy, L. Madge, and J. Rhodes.

The three game all-star series between the Blue and Gold teams is the highlight of the girls hockey season. The final two games of the series will be played on Monday the 14 and Thursday, the 17.

From The Bleachers

According to the latest statistics released by Bill Engel Juniata College has moved up among the nation's small college leaders in total offense. 23rd last week, second behind Gettysburg in the state, the Tribe has certainly moved higher by virtue of last Saturday's offensive display against Grove City.

According to official NCAA statistics Juniata now has a 362.8 yards per game average. Since Gburg and its powerful split-T offense led by quarterback Frank Gagliardi was held to less than 100 yards in losing to Delaware 36-0 they may have relinquished their spot to us.

The defense too is improving. Grove City netted 35 yards rushing Saturday. In six games now the Tribe has permitted only 82.8 yards per game rushing with a total offense record of 135.0 per game. This should rate us higher than last weeks '17th place.

Individually several of the Indians are beginning to stand out statistics-wise. Bob Sill is the leading ground gainer with 541 yards while Barry Drexler holds the scoring lead with 42 points.

With two TD passes plus two others for 138 yards against G-City Drex is established as one of the nation's small college leaders among pass receivers.

Saturday's total boosted Drex's season record to 20 passes caught for 478 yards, easily among the nation's top five in total yardage, pending this Friday's official releases. His seven TD catches rate him above all other leaders listed in last week's NCAA pass receiving statistics.

Drex's four-year record is weekly establishing a new record for all future JC ends to shoot at. In four seasons he has gained 1022 yards with 51 catches and scored 84 points. An especially impressive record when we recall that he was not the number one target in his freshman year.

Indian Harriers Defeat Albright

After giving up the first two places, the Juniata cross-country team finished strongly and eased by the visiting Albright harriers, 27-28, Saturday afternoon. This was Juniata's first cross country victory and set its season record at 1-1.

Albright's Bill Shirk was first across the finish line, as he covered 4½ miles course in 23:17½. Shirk's teammate, Don Gottshall was second. Herb Deuchar was JC's first finisher as he took third place. Deuchar was clocked at 28:51½.

The next three places were filled by the Indian's, Ed Edenfield, Herb Layman and Don Davis. Following Albright's George Mack and Dick Thrasher was the Tribe's Doug Wilson. The tenth spot was gained by Paul Gehris of Albright. The Braves sixth starter, Chuck Brown, finished twelfth.

Today five members of the JC team are in Allentown competing in the Middle Atlantic Cross Country Championships. Layman, Davis, and Wilson are entered in the 4½ miles varsity run, while Edenfield and Brown are running in the 3½ miles freshman competition.

10. Iron Men	2	8	0
11. Cloister Creeps	2	9	0
12 Pioneers	0	10	0

With the intramural season at a virtual end, the Collegians are the undefeated champions, followed by the Crazy Eights and J. C. Juniors with identical records of 8-2. Although the Collegians led for the entire season, the outcome wasn't decided until the last week of the season.

In the two games played this week, the Snarfs upset the Crazy Eights and moved into fifth place, and in the other game, the Cloister Creeps defeated the Pioneers by a score of 13-6. The Crazy Eights 19-12 loss to the Snarfs forced them into a playoff game with the J. C. Juniors, the only game left on the intramural schedule.

With the completion of the football season, the bowling league will begin for the year. The first match will be played Friday night.

Senate Appoints Ginger Watson To Act As Temporary Chairman

Ginger Watson, a senior chemistry major from Collingswood, N. J., was appointed by the Senate to fill temporarily the position of women's house chairman, due to the illness of Doreen Fyock, regular senator. Miss Watson will have a representative vote on the Senate.

The Senate also received a report on excuses for Christmas vacation employment. The faculty, feeling that the student's first obligation is to his academic program, has decided not to grant excuses to students who wish to leave campus early in order to assume Christmas employment.

Also in connection with Christmas, the annual dinner and dance will be held Thursday, December 15, instead of December 19, as previously announced.

Anyone wishing to drop a line or send a card to Doreen Fyock should address it to R. D. 2, Box 213, Johnstown.

Alumni Group To Play

Juniata College is extending an invitation to former members of the college orchestra to play in an alumni-student orchestra on Saturday, June 2, 1956, on the campus.

Dr. Jack Brammer, director of the symphony orchestra, is working in cooperation with a committee of alumni headed by Thomas H. Knepp '31 to organize the group. The concert will be a highlight of commencement week-end activities.

A classical symphony, a concerto and several light compositions will probably be included in the program.

Montgomery, Amidon Will Be Auctioneers

Do you have an interest in rare and priceless items at bargain prices?

The place for you then is in front of the master auctioneers Dave Amidon and Jim Montgomery as they make available the contents of the lost and found department for the benefit of the Juniata World Service Fund Drive now in progress.

As for the items available, that is a surprise, but they are guaranteed to be rare and practically priceless, the degree of pricelessness depending on the price you, the bidders, are willing to pay.

Parents' Day . . .

Afternoon Open House

Open house will round out the afternoon's activities. Promptly at 8:15 the curtain will rise on the all-college musical, Brigadoon, in Oller Hall.

On Sunday morning parents and friends are especially invited to the President's Bible Class at 9:30 in Founders Chapel.

Rabbi To Speak To JCA Group

The JCA will continue its emphasis of Other Religions with an address by Rabbi H. Gorem Perelmuter of Temple Beth Zion in Johnstown.

Rabbi Perelmuter is associated with the Jewish Chautaqua Society. This is an organization founded in 1893 and dedicated to the non-sectraian consideration of Judiasm and its basic teachings.

Rabbi Perelmuter will speak on the topic "What Judiasm Teaches About God, Man and the Universe." The meeting will be held Tuesday evening, November 15 at 7:15 in Oller Hall.

The next day the Rabbi will speak in Mr. McFadden's history of religion class.

widespread of all student ailments. It cannot honestly be listed here among those limited to annual visitation, yet Parents Weekend certainly involves the greatest number of emergencies. The desperate Juniatian points hopefully to the empty safe and empty tummy; fortunately his parents, who cannot see his empty cranium, rescue him for the sake of education.

So this is it, people—Parents Day '55 and vim, vigor and vitality among Juniatians.

New JC History Instructor Was Iowa U. Student, Prof.

by Emmalyn Heed

This week's feature concludes the interviews with the new faculty members of the Juniata College teaching staff.

Mr. Philbrook Smith hails from the town of Caldwell, New Jersey and is, at present, an instructor in history at Juniata College. He has spent a great deal of time at the State University of Iowa where he was both a student and an instructor. Mr. Smith received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1951 after having majored in English literature.

He went on with his studies in such courses as Greek and Roman history, medieval history, the Renaissance and Reformation and in June 1952 he received his Master of Arts degree. He has also completed his final year of graduate work in history and has only to complete his dissertation before obtaining his doctorate.

Mr. Smith spent the past three year in teaching four sections of the Western Civilization core course, also at the State University of Iowa. He left Iowa in order to take the position of instructor in history here at Juniata.

Brigadoon . . .

Dance Club will perform with authentic Scottish dances as well as interpretive dancing. Some of the songs in Brigadoon are Waitin' for My Dearie, From This Day On and Almost Like Being In Love.

Working behind the scenes are Dick Livingston, stage manager; George Carnahan, his assistant; Bruce Bennett, technical director; Lee Hallman and Torry Froisland, business managers, and Bruce Dickey, house manager.

Other chairmen include Flo Wenzel, set construction; Dot Fogle, properties; Jane Ellenberger, costumes; Jack Barger, lights; Enyl Marcocci, stage crew; Maggie Sims, tickets; Alma Skinner, publicity; Ann Yesko, programs; Sandy Swartz, Sylvia Shemeld and Shirley Dixon, promptresses, and Barbara Maurer, make-up.

JWSF Benefits

Proceeds will go to the Juniata World Service Fund of which Dan Raffensperger is chairman and Mary Jane Bridenbaugh is chairman of solicitations.

There are many plans for raising funds for JWSF besides Brigadoon; these will be discussed more fully in later stories. The total fund will be donated to four areas.

The first is the World University Service which helps needy educational institutions to help themselves by providing books or helping in maintenance.

The second area is the International Christian University in Japan. Here the money is used for scholarship aid. In the third area two graduates of Juniata are helped by the fund. Dr. H. S. Kuap, who is now in Africa, and Dr. Hoover, in India, are being aided in their missionary work.

Foreign Students

Part of the fund goes to help pay for the scholarships for the foreign students on campus.

JC To Remain A Small College In Special Committee Decision

by Bill Engel

Juniata College, faced with a country-wide "rising tide of students," intends to remain a small college with its enrollment "limited to the facilities available," Dr. Calvert N. Ellis, president of the college, reported recently.

This statement of intention, approved by the college's board of trustees, came as a result of an intensive study by a 12-member committee composed of three of each of the following groups: planning commission of the trustees, alumni association, faculty and administration.

The 80-year-old college of liberal arts and sciences, is even over-crowded this year with an enrollment of 668—an increase of eight percent over last year and highest since 1948.

Building Program

The college is currently in the midst of a two and one-half million dollar "Build Juniata" program aimed to secure "adequate faculty and facilities for the present student group."

This program "must be completed before consideration can be given to any change in size," the committee has agreed.

It is anticipated that the facilities made available by the two year program, launched three years ago, will permit a maximum enrollment of 750. In today's era of expanding enrollments, "that is indeed a small college," Dr. Ellis stated.

"The college is fully aware of its responsibilities to society and the nation, but its purposes are such that it cannot compromise its ideals simply to push students through," the president emphasized. The college was founded in 1876 in the Christian tradition and supported by the Church of the Brethren. It was dedicated to "the Christian faith and the American heritage."

Higher Endowment

At the present time, the college is concerned primarily with obtaining sufficient funds to provide "adequate endowment" for faculty and staff salaries and en-

Bounds Will Compete In National Contest

By Joyce Burkett

A lucky coed here at Juniata, Sylvia Bounds, is now looking forward to taking part in the national dress review to be held at the 4-H Club congress in Chicago during the week of November 27.

Miss Bounds won this right in August when she received first prize in the Maryland 4-H Club dress review. She was among 58 girls who took part. Each participant was judged on the basis of construction of her garment, its becomingingness to the girl, choice of fabric, fit and the value for the money spent. The judging was also based on previous 4-H records.

Having been active in 4-H work for the past six years, Miss Bounds is not only an expert seamstress—she is also a capable cook. She won second prize in the Maryland cherry pie competition last summer.

Miss Bounds comes from Hagerstown, Md., and is a sophomore home economics major here at JC. She says she especially enjoys work in the clothing field and hopes to enter into designing in the future.

Kenton and Band At State Tonight

Stan Kenton, winner for five consecutive years of Down Beat Magazine's popularity poll as leader of the nation's number one jazz orchestra, will appear with his twenty-piece organization on the Penn State campus this evening at 8:30 in Recreation Hall.

One of the most colorful and controversial figures in the music world, Kenton will give local enthusiasts a chance to hear some of his latest developments presented at the concert stage level.

Tickets are available at the Hetzel Union Building on the Penn State campus, and from members of the Jazz Club.

Engel Notes Change In Registration Dates

The date for registration has been changed, according to the registrar's office.

In all probability registration will begin Tuesday, Dec. 7 and will last until Friday, Dec. 9. The schedule of classes for the spring semester will be distributed before the Thanksgiving vacation

Coed Lauds Brigadoon; Praises All Connected With College Operetta

by Mary Ellen Blessing

Terrific! Stupendous! Marvelous! Great! What am I talking about? Why the college operetta, Brigadoon, of course. Congratulations are certainly in order for the whole cast and production staff of the recent production.

I must admit, when I heard that Brigadoon was the operetta to be presented this year, I had my doubts as to our ability to produce such a show; however, after seeing the performance I believe that anything is possible. It would have been impossible for the casting to have been any better than it was, and, if this is possible, the chorus and the dances by selected members of the Modern Dance Club added to the superiority of the performance.

The audience was enthralled by the outstanding performances of Mary Jane Hershberger and Don Lowdermilk, the sarcasm of Dick Backus, the forwardness of Judy Gearhart, the naturalness of Clint Betz and the preciseness of Ann Willson in execution of the sword dance.

Laurels should also go to the technical staff and the lighting crew for the special effects in the chase scene, the funeral dance and the flashbacks in the restaurant scene. To sum it up in a few words I'd say that it was the most to say the least.

The following announcement was sent to the Juniatian office:

"We wish to thank everyone who helped with the production of Brigadon. The co-operative efforts of not only the cast, chorus and orchestra, but also of the behind-the-scenes crews and committees, merited the enthusiastic applause of the two large audiences. Time, interest and effort were responsible for the success of our show."

Ellises To Embark On World Tour; Plan Six Week Sojourn In Bombay

President Calvert N. Ellis will leave November 26 as one of two representatives of the Church of the Brethren to survey missions of the church in Bombay State in India.

He will be accompanied in the survey by W Newton Long, an outstanding layman of the church from Baltimore, Md. Mr. Long is president of Miller Chemical and Fertilizer Corp., Baltimore, and has been a member of Juniata's board of trustees since 1923.

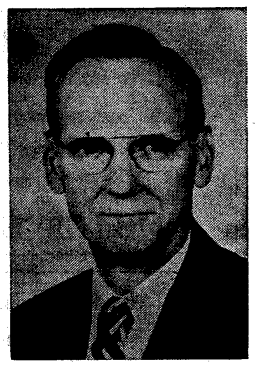
Both Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Long will accompany their husbands on the tour.

Dr. and Mrs. Ellis will fly from New York Saturday, Nov. 26, to London. After several days there they will go to Kassel, Germany, to see the work of the Brethren Service Commission. While there, the Ellises will visit with alumni of Juniata College and with exchange students.

Dr. Morley Mays, dean of the college, will serve as acting president of Juniata College during the three-month absence of President Ellis.

The appointment of Dean Mays has been approved by the board of trustees of the college. Dr. Mays holds the top academic position as dean of Juniata College. He accepted the post in September, 1948, and also has served on the faculty as professor of philosophy.

En route to India from Germany, Dr. and Mrs. Ellis will visit Rome, Athens and Istanbul before arriving in Karachi, capital of Pakistan, on Dec. 9. A three-day visit to Delhi, capital of India, also has been planned.



● President Ellis ●
Leaving For World Tour

During their six-week stay in Bombay, from Dec. 15 to Jan. 22, Dr. Ellis and Mr. Long will be accompanied by Rev. J. Henry Long, associate secretary of Foreign Mission Commission of the church's headquarters staff in Elgin, Ill.

Headquarters In Bombay

Their headquarters in Bombay will be with Keneth E. McDowell, at the Church of the Brethren Mission, Inter-mission Business Office, Bombay.

Dr. Ellis and Mr. Long will meet leaders of the Christian Council of India and are scheduled to report to the National Council of Churches on return to the United States. Dr. Ellis is a member of the section on foreign missions of the National Council.

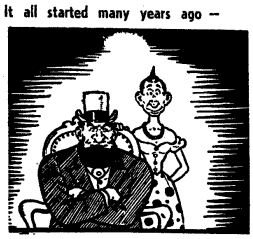
Dr. and Mrs. Ellis will complete a tour around the world on their return trip. From Bombay, they will fly across India to Calcutta. Then they have scheduled two to four-day stops in Rangoon, Burma; Bangkok, Thailand; Hongkong, China, and Manila in the Philippines. In each city, except Hongkong, the Ellises plan to visit with Juniatians.

A one-week visit in Tokyo, Japan, also is planned during which time they will visit the International Christian University. On the return flight across the Pacific, Dr. and Mrs. Ellis will stop in Honolulu, Hawaii, before arriving in Huntingdon at the end of February.

Tomorrow Night Will Include Slobovia's Symbols & Snacks

Ever since Hezebiah Hawkins created it for his homely daughter, Sadie Hawkins Day has been a memorable date in everyone's life. This Saturday night will prove to be no exception among times.

It all started many years ago —



SADIE HAWKINS WAS THE daughter of one of the earliest settlers of Dogpatch, Hezebiah Hawkins. She was the homliest gal in all them hills. . . . . .

At 8:30 p.m. in the Women's Gym the event will commence. Girls may call for their dates in the lobby of the New Men's Dorm or if your male resides in the Cloisters you can find him in Harold Brumbaugh's apartment. All men will be available between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock.

Girls MUST BRING some form of snack such as potato chips, cookies, apples or something similar in a decorated box or bag. These contributions will be auctioned off at refreshment time and the proceeds will go to JWSF. Kickapoo Joy Juice will be provided for all.

Decorations will be on the L'il Abner theme and will include the entire Yokum family, the Wolf Girl, Shmoos and even the mysterious creature with the big brown eyes called Bald Iggle. The latter is the National Emblem of Lowest Slobovia.

Entertainment will include Marryin' Sam who will perform the marriage ceremony for any couples who wish to tie the knot. Gals, if you're having trouble getting that guy to say yes, there'll be two Dogpatchers fully equipped with shotguns to urge him on.

The top tunes of the day will be provided for dancing. There'll be fun for all so we'll see you there—8:30 — Women's Gym.

JWS Fund Chairman Lists '55 Solicitors

The list of student solicitors for the coming Juniata World Service Fund Drive has been announced by Miss Mary Jane Brideenbaugh, chairman of solicitations.

In the girls' dorms they are June Gray, Janice Christie, Bonnie Brumbaugh, Judy Gearheart, Nancy Nevin, Marlene Sterner, Janice Mertz, Lois Van Erden and Alice Waite. The women living off campus will be solicited by Anna Leiter, Kate Spangler, Ginny Roos and Nancy Phennicie.

In the Cloister money will be collected by Jerry Richards, Neil Albright, Bill Collins, "Lefty" Alderfer, Bryan Stauffer, Ernie Lashlee and John Yates. In the new dorm the job will be done milk, Charlie Haines, Bob Sill and John Bowser.

The Village will be covered by by Dick Wenger, Don Lowder-Ron Morgan and day students will be canvassed by the following people: Shirley Smith, Janice Hoyer, Bill West, Richard Kimmel, Newton Taylor, James Cummings and Richard Gill.

No Edition Next Week

Due to the impending Thanksgiving holiday Issue No. 10, Volumn 32 of the Juniatian will not appear until December 2.

Frosh Pick Officers; Ed Edenfield Is Pres.

Edward Edenfield, a pre-med major from Uniontown, was elected president of the freshman class at Monday's freshman assembly.

Charles Brown, a pre-law major from Bellefonte, was elected vice president; Marjorie White, a music education major from Everett is secretary, and Ann Larkin, home ec, Pittsburgh, treasurer.

JCA Chooses Dec. 17 For Christmas Party

by Dottie Stricker

The JCA Christmas party, to be held Saturday, December 17, is just around the corner, so fellows and girls, here is your chance to be "parents" for an evening.

Each year the JCA gives a party for the underprivileged children of Huntingdon. Included on the party's agenda are gifts, a real Santa Claus, refreshments, and entertainment.

"Parents" may be a fellow and his girl, two fellows or two girls. Each buys the child an appropriate gift, not to exceed $1.00 in cash. So come on fellows and gals, sign the list on Founders bulletin board and indicate whether you want a boy or a girl and the age of the child desired. We're sure you'll have as much fun as the children themselves.

Seven Students Win Dorm Room Judgings

Seven students won prizes totaling $35 in the recent Parents Day room contest.

These include Nancy Freed, Carol Olbrich, and Shirley McNitt, girls dormitories; Carmen Ciarracca and Bill Collins, Cloister, and Roger Bennett and George Fattman, New Residence Hall for Men.

Holiday Recess Begins Nov. 23

That long awaited time is almost here.

Just five days (or 120 hours) until November 23 and Thanksgiving vacation. Classes will end at 12:00 non on Wednesday, and will resume Monday, November 28, at 8:00 a.m. when 600 tired, but happy JC'ers will begin counting the days until Christmas vacation.

From The Editor's Notes

College editorial columns have been devoted to the problem of extra-curricular activity management this fall. A recent Dickinsonian pin-pointed the following issue.

The value of the programs themselves cannot be denied, but the skewed distribution of the student body in the executive positions can. We have a group of over-worked 'activities people' which engage in several extra-curricular pursuits while the majority of the student body participates in only one activity or none at all.

No one can force the inactive student to take part in campus activities. We are able to entrench the overly ambitious (and do by the major and minor office limitations set-up) but they are not our real concern. It is the person who hangs back, letting his potential go to waste, who should be investigated and urged into participation if outside activities are to perform their real purpose and the education of the majority is to be complete.

By delegating some of his responsibility to these people, the overworked person will not only free himself of too large a burden but will increase the interest of the person delegated by giving him a real part in the activity.

* * * *

TO THE JUNIATIAN EDITOR

I wish to take this opportunity to attempt to answer the question you brought forth in the editorial entitled, 'What's the Problem?'

Evidently the writer of the above mentioned editorial feels that the social program in which he or she participates has not been properly planned. My personal feelings are not in harmony with this opinion. However, I am certain that the chairman of social activities, Rosalie Langer will do everything within the power of her committee to correct the deficiencies that you feel exist.

It was pointed out in the editorial that "the paper (Juniatian) is the major means for day students to find out what is going on around campus." In the following paragraph you mentioned "no request had been made for advertising space in the paper." Evidently I have been laboring under the false pretense that a newspaper is organized with the reporters on the staff for the purpose of finding and revealing news. Unknown to me and I'm sure other people on campus is the new policy of 'requesting space'. By the space you devoted to the discussion of the social problem I suspect you consider it an important aspect of college life.

It might be relevant to point out at this juncture that the social committee has not had the availability of the girls gymnasium.

In pin-pointing the social program for the night of November 5 your ire would more profitably be directed towards the clubs which failed to assume their scheduled duties.

On the night of the victory dance for the Susquehanna Game we must admit there were no lights for five minutes.

I sincerely feel that on close observation you will agree with me that the social program for the first part of this year has been properly planned. However, if lapses have occurred I am confident the social committee will attain your standards for the remainder of the year.

James D. Hunt
President, Student Senate

EDITOR'S NOTE—

In regard to Jim Hunt's third paragraph, we should like to mention that assignments covering social events have been given out to reporters every week.

News Views

by Jim Montgomery

There has been a tendency as of late to speak of great American diplomatic victories. This is especially true in relation to the "Geneva Spirit" and the new smiling Russian face. Russia has become friendly and retreated from Austria because of the strength of our position. However, is this a valid analysis? Can one-to-one relationship be esablished? Is this new Soviet attitude a negativistic response to a positive Western policy or is it perhaps a new and more effective method of gaining the same ends?

Public conferences between heads of state have always been notorious in that nothing concrete is accomplished. The July Geneva conference was no exception. The only thing of consequence that can be pointed to from this summer's proceedings is that the world now knows that we all want peace. And the present Geneva Conference is but a further demonstration of the fact that diplomatic discussion carried on in the glare of public scrutiny accomplish nothing more than further reiteration of nationalistic propaganda. Where then are our diplomatic gains at Geneva?

Has our system of alliances effectively stopped Russian interference in areas beyond the Iron Curtain? Russian arms have stimulated an arms race in the Near East. Russian capital is flowing into Pakistan and India while American foreign aid has been cut from four billion to ½ a billion dollars. Russia has established diplomatic relations with West Germany, buried the hatchet with Yugoslavia and effected the withdrawal of American troops from Austria with the neutrality clause in the recent Austrian treaty. No, at this point Russia has nothing to loose and everything to gain with a friendly policy in Europe. The more amiable Russia can appear to the countries of Europe the less need they feel to ally themselves with us in opposition to the Soviet. The support of a military establishment is a tremendous burden on these countries and they are looking for any excuse to lessen their responsibility in this area. Russia's smiling new face is giving them that needed excuse.

As I See It ...

by George Fattman

Having been on campus for close to three semesters, this writer has yet to hear someone say something good about the college alma mater.

It's criticisms are multiple: its words are overly sentimental, its rhythm poor, its pauses too extended and its overall nature ineffective.

Perhaps the Senate could determine more exactly the sentiments of the student body through a poll. If the students dislike the alma mater, as seems to be the case, a Senate committee could possibly encourage the music department to initiate a search for new words and music to be adopted by vote of the students.

A college alma mater is an important part of campus tradition; our alma mater should be one of which all Juniatians are proud.

After the ball is over. And what a ball it must be Sunday evenings in the television lounge at Tote. When the crowd clears at 10 p.m. it leaves the floor littered with cups, plates spoons and unconsumed food, all of which gets thouroughly tramped in during the curfew rush to the dorms.

Students should be able to accept the responsibility of carrying dishes back to the snack bar after they've used them.

In the dining hall. Talk of the new girls dorm and the possibility of a new dining hall in it set me to thinking about our method of nourishment in general. It would be interesting to have members of the faculty sitting at student tables for a trial period. Students always seem to enjoy eating with the faculty at picnics and social affairs; perhaps their presence at student tables would add a little more dignity to Oneida Hall meals.

Also, why can't the prayer be delayed a minute or two until all the girls reach their seats?

Accent On Reading

HUMBOLDT: THE LIFE AND TIMES OF ALEXANDER VON HUMBOLDT. This readable synthesis of the life and contributions of a very remarkable man should fill a real need, since much of the literature about Humboldt is available only in German. Blessed with boundless energy and insatiable thirst for knowledge, this amazingly versatile scientist observed, interpreted and recorded throughout his long life, and made significant contributions in an almost unbelieabl number of sciences. Observations made during his journeys into the jungles of the Amazon and other remote areas were later recorded in his voluminous writings in which he coordinated and interpreted his amazing field of knowledge.

Pat Tarquinio Scores Three Touchdowns As Braves Thump Swarthmore 39-0

Bears Only Obstacle to Unblemished Record

Runners Compete At Mid-Atlantic Fall Track Event

Last Friday afternoon, Juniata had four entries in the Middle Atlantic States cross-country championships at Allentown. After participating in two experimental meets with Franklin and Marshall and Albright, these members of the team were running to see how they stood with other college harriers in this region.

Juniors Herb Leyman and Doug Wilson ran in the 4 1/4 mile varsity competition, while freshman Ed Edenfield and Chuck Brown were entered in the three mile freshman run. The varsity race was won by Joe Sloan of St. Joseph's, as he set a new course 51st in a field of 85. Wilson was forced to drop out after three miles due to illness.

Alfred's Frank Finnerty won the frosh race. Out of the 57 starters in this run, Edenfield finished record of 21:44.2 Layman finished 13th and Brown was 32nd. St. Joseph's won both the varsity and freshman team championships. Juniata was not entered as a team.

Athletic Director Mike Snider has expressed hope that, after having started a cross-country program this year, Juniata can have meets with other colleges on a real competitive basis.

Juniata Machine Sweeps Past Quakers With No Wasted Effort

by Dave Suloff

Juniata's small but mighty Indians rolled over Swarthmore here Saturday, 39-0, before an overflow Parents Day crowd of 3,000. The victory was Juniata's 22nd in a row, second only in the nation to Oklahoma. Pat Tarquinio proved to be the "big gun" for the Braves of Coach Bob Hicks, as he completed 8 out of 12 passes for 129 yards and then added 56 yards rushing, before retiring from action in the third period.

The Indians opened the scoring early in the first period. After Keith Birmingham partially blocked Sam Criswell's punt, the Indians rolled 54 yards in seven plays. Tarquinio passed to Drexler for 23 yards, Tarquinio flanked end for 13, and Don Pheasant sliced inside end for 14 yards on a reverse to the Garnet 4 yard line. Here the Swarthmore line held and on fourth down Tarq flipped a short pass into the flat to Drexler for the 1-yard score. Birmingham's kick was good!

Tarq Again

In the second half, Tarquinio scored early in the third period on a 1-yard plunge. It was at this point that Tarq left the game with the Indians leading 26-0. Bob Sill intercepted a Van Hart pass and returned it to the Swarthmore 39. Pheasant, taking over at tailback, scored from the two a few plays later. Ron Bechtel added the point, and JC led 33-0.

The final score of the afternoon came as a result of a Swarthmore fumble in the end zone. Al Sellari fell on the loose ball for the TD. Don Brumbaugh's try for the extra point was wide to the right, and Juniata defeated Swarthmore for the second year in a row by the score of 39-0.

Tribe In Top Condition For Game With Ursinus

Another milestone in the amazing Juniata football story is within sight as the unbeaten Indians go after their 23rd consecutive win tomorrow against the Ursinus Bears on College Field.

Ten seniors will be writing finish to a remarkable career as they shoot for the school's third consecutive undefeated season as well as a new team scoring record. The Tribe needs only 20 points to break last year's team scoring record of 221 points.

Coach Hicks added his weekly note of caution as he expects a rough game despite the Bear's unimpressive 3-4 record. "Its the same story all over again," said Hicks, "we are everybody's target", so the spectre of an upset cannot be discounted.

Last year in a damp fog at Collegeville, Ursinus gave the Tribe some anxious moments before the injury riddled Indians pulled away 28-6.

Ursinus, hampered recently by injuries, has a 3-4 record for 1955. The Bears split even with four common foes of Juniata, beating Susquehanna 30-6 and Haverford 12-6 while losing to Swarthmore 7-0 and Moravian 40-0. In other games they lost to unbeaten Drexel 20-13, Lebanon Valley 20-21 and defeated Wagner 14-6.

Heavy Bear Line

The Collegeville squad will come in heavy with a line averaging 192 pounds and a backfield at 165 for an overall average of 182.

Ursinus starting lineup will probably include five seniors, four juniors and two sophomores; at the ends Harry Donnelly and LeRoy Krasley, at tackles 215 pound Jerry Nunn and 200 pound sophomore Bill Rogers, at guards Dick Heydt and Al Stipa and at center senior George Aucott.

The backfield will again be directed by senior quarterback and captain Paul Neborak, assisted by halfbacks Bob Famous and Don Carver and fullback Bob Crigler.

Haines Out

Juniata's lineup will be unchanged except for Bill Scott who will replace Charlie Haines sidelined with a rib separation.

10 Seniors Finish Collegiate Action Here Tomorrow

Juniata's "golden era" of football ends for 10 seniors on College Field tomorrow afternoon.

During the playing days of this veteran contingent, Juniata's grid team have won 28 out of 30 games and now hold the nation's longest small college winning streak at 22 straight.

Barry Drexler, captain will lead seven senior regulars against Ursinus in a 'shoot the works' effort to extend that winning record and complete a third consecutive undefeated and untied season for the Indians.

Joining him on the line will be Keith Birmingham, Bill Waryck and Bill Haushalter.

In the backfield, the pair of triple threat halfbacks, Pat Tarquinio and Don Pheasant will be playing their final collegiate contest.

The seventh regular is Ron Bechtel who is generally regarded as Juniata's unsung hero as the blocking back on the Tribe's single wing system.

Kaylor Outlines IM Basketball

A turnout of 15 to 20 teams is expected as Juniata's intramural basketball loop opens its 1955 program. The season will begin immediately following Thanksgiving vacation, and all team rosters must be given to Chairman of Athletics, "Sonny" Kaylor, in room 310 Cloister by November 23.

Games will be divided into two halves of 20 minutes each ,with only two time outs allowed in each half. When the ball is dead an unlimited number of substitutions can be made.

In case of a tie score at the end of the regular playing time a three minute overtime period will be added until completion. Teams must be ready to play within 15 minutes of the scheduled time.

All games will be held in the Memorial Gymnasium. Probable game time on Thursdays will be 7:15 and 8:30 p. m. Tuesday's schedule will be announced later.

From The Bleachers

The 1955 football season officially comes to a close tomorrow when the Braves entertain the Ursinus Bears. Many superlatives could be used to describe this season but suffice it to say 'it was a very successful year'.

Plaudits are probably in order for the members of the team and especially to the ten graduating seniors. However being superstitious we shall refrain from such action until after the game tomorrow.

The weatherman, when this was written, gives every indication of providing typical Ursinus-Juniata football weather. Three out of the past four games between the two colleges have been played in rain and fog.

* * * *

At this point we would like to turn our attention from the gridiron gladiators and focus on the 1955 edition of the cheerleaders. A number of times during this season we have been brought to consider the excellent job this group under the leadership of Captain Bunny Mezzey have been doing.

Each contest played this season, at home or away, has found these 'full-of-pep' girls leading the cheers for the victorious Indians. They have helped to stimulate spirited support of the football team by the addition of new and different cheers. This group also found the introduction of a male member to the group.

The work of the cheerleading squad is not limited to game activities. Everybody associated with the program of pep rallies has been exposed to their very cooperative attitude. To the cheerleaders we tip our hat and say 'a job well done'.

* * * *

The football season has reached the point where the wheat has been separated from the chafe. Our predictions for this week are:

Pittsburgh over Penn State
Michigan over Ohio State
Notre Dame over Iowa
HAVERFORD over SWARTHMORE
LYCOMING over Lebanon Valley
MORAVIAN over Wilkes
Bethany over GROVE CITY
JUNIATA 28 URSINUS 0

IM Bowling Program Finished

by Allen Custer

The Intramural Bowling League gets under way this evening. The league is composed of ten teams, including both guys and gals. This year is the second year for the Juniata Intramural Bowling League and more enthusiasm and a keen interest is expected this year.

Due to the fact that some teams are unbalanced as far as ability is concerned, a very systematic method has been established by the chairman of athletics in order to put the teams on an equal basis. It is as follows: 70 percent of the difference between the team averages is given to the team with the lowest average. The team schedules are as follows up to January.

In The Clubs

Next Tuesday the JCA will hold a special Thanksgiving service. The program will be directed by a committee composed of Jerry Richards, Evelyn Brehm, Shirley Nace, and Phil Lankford.

On November 29 the JCA will visit the Huntingdon Roman Catholic Church.

Pyrenees

On Saturday, November 5, four Juniata students—Jim Cummins, Ann Appleby, Joyce Ann White, and Marian Fairbairn — attended the performance of Moliere's five act Comedy Ballet, "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" (The Would Be Gentleman), by the Comedie Francaise at Broadway Theatre in New York. "Le Bourgeois Gentil homme" was the charming story of a seventeenth century French businessman determined to absorb culture and social position at any price. This is the first time in its two hundred and seventy-five year history that the Comedie Francaise has appeared on American soil. Four other classical comedies will be presented this season.

Also attending the performance were two Juniata faculty members, Dr. Clemens and Miss Doyle, and two recent Juniata graduates, Peg Hershey and Sue Jamison. All were loud in their praise of the presentation.

FTA

FTA will present a special program tonight at 7:15 in the Women's Gym. Their guest, Mrs. Blais-dell, will teach folk dances. A special invitation is open to the Pyrennes and German clubs but all students are welcome to the program.

JWSF Brings Marty

Marty, credited by the critics as an outstanding motion picture, will be playing downtown Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. A considerable portion of the proceeds will go to the world service fund, thanks to James Kalos, manager of the Harris-Clifton Theatre. Moreover, JWSF will benefit even more if tickets are bought on campus.

Chapel Choir Makes Initial Pageant Plans

The annual Christmastime presentation of the Chapel Choir will be held this year in Oller He Sunday afternoon, December 18, at 3:30.

A program of Christmas music, old and new, sung in a church-like setting is planned. Miss Pfotenhauer directs the group.

ough buildings to house the current enrollment.

Even with the completion of the building program, which includes a library, residence hall for women and economics building, "the college would not have sufficient space or staff to add many more students," the president pointed out.

Continue To Serve

Although Juniata intends to remain small and exercise "increasing selectivity in admission of students in order to maintain a quality college," it will continue to serve its constituency, Dr. Ellis maintained.

Included in its constituency are the residents of Huntingdon and Juniata Valley; alumni of the college, and members of the Church of the Brethren.

Juniata Will Sponsor Hospital Entertainers

Two more entertainment shows will be given by JC students next week when they journey to the State Mental Hospital at Hollidaysburg and the Tuberculosis Sanatarium at Cresson.

In all probability a different group will go to each place. Unit one will head for Hollidaysburg on Monday evening and unit two will go to Cresson on Tuesday evening. The programs will include songs, dances, instrumentals and JC's jazz band.

Ellis Will Speak In Only Chapel

President Calvert N. Ellis will be the speaker for the Thanksgiving chapel program on Monday, November 21.

College Completes One Building, Makes Plans For Girls' New Dorm

With the completion of another building on campus has come the announcement that the federal government has set aside $575,000 for a loan on a proposed new dormitory for women.

Finishing touches are now going into the new maintenance building located at seventeenth and Oneida Streets. It has been erected in the area adjacent to the present heating plant.

The new dorm will in all probability be located at Eighteenth and Scott Streets. Geiger House will be removed to provide room for the new structure. It has been announced unofficially that the dorm will have kitchenettes on each floor and a dining room seating about 200 students.

The Board of Trustees has voted to employ Hunter, Caldwell, and Campbell of Altoona as architects for the proposed new dormitory. Mr. Fike reports that preliminary plans are being drawn up and will be completed by February 2, at which time formal application for the government loan must be submitted.

Ten Year Plan

The construction of a women's dormitory is the second stage of the 10-year Build Juniata program, a system organized to supplement present facilities, particularly through the construction of a men's dormitory, a library and a home economics building. This program also provides for supplementing the endowment and other funds.

NEW MAINTENANCE BUILDING—Here is shown the new concrete block maintenance building, located on Oneida Street, which will be completed by the end of this month.

Outing Club Sponsors JC "Florida Hoedown"

Want to get into the Southern mood early? No easier said than done for the Outing Club is sponsoring a "Florida Hoedown" this Saturday night in the Women's Gym from 8:15 to 11:15 (or there abouts). Dr. Rockwell will do the authenic calling. All Florida bound JC'ers pull out your cottons and clothes suitable for square dancing and come stag or drag. Refreshments may not be mint juleps but they'll be good.

Special IRC Meeting To Hear John Biddle

John Biddle, publisher of the Huntingdon Daily News, will speak to the IRC this evening on the topic "Russia Revisited". All interested persons are invited to attend.

Mr. Biddle belonged to the group of journalists which visited Russia a few years ago. Last summer he traveled there again.

Chapels To Feature Two Speakers, Trio

Two speakers and a musical program are scheduled for next week's chapel, according to Miss Doyle.

Monday, Rev. Carl Myers, minister of Roaring Spring Church of the Brethren will speak. Wednesday's chapel is in charge of the Juniata Christian Association which will present a speaker.

The well-known faculty string trio will perform Friday. Dr. Brammer, violinist; Dr. Ernest Wagner, cellist, and Miss Jaeger, pianist , comprise the group.

All - Class Night Skits Continuing 19 Yr. Tradition

by Aliceann Wohlbruck

Since 1937 All-Class Night has been one of the most exciting events of the college year.

Rehearsals have already begun on this year's 22-minute skits which will be presented in Oller Hall Saturday, December 10. As each class prepares its skit, which must be a drama this year, there is hope of winning the coveted silver cup which the winning class retains for one year.

There will be a board of judges from out of town to choose the best skit on the basis of the originality of the show, the performance of the actors, the evidence of good staging and direction, the use of special effects, make-up, lighting, costumes and the general audience appeal.

Sophs Champions

All-Class Night was originated to stimulate students in "nonstereotyped programs". In 1954 it was decided that the skits should be divided into four catagories—history, music, drama and comedy. These will rotate every four years as themes for the class productions. The class of 1958 won last year with a musical variety skit.

Alma Skinner, a senior psychology major from West Whiteland, is the general chairman and Eileen "Peep" Gipprich, junior English major from Altoona, is her assistant. Ron Beantel, senior business major from Roaring Spring, is the business manager.

Juniata Christian Assoc. Will Treat Area Children

The plans for the annual Children's Christmas Party sponsored by the Juniata Christian Association have been announced by Carol Jenkins, chairman of recreation on the JCA Council.

The party is to be held on Saturday evening, December 17, in the Women's Gym for the benefit of underprivileged boys and girls in the Huntingdon area. The names of the children to be invited to the party will be supplied by the local unit of the Salvation Army.

Any two JC students who wish to become parents for the night may do so by placing their names on the list located on the main bulletin board in Founder's Hall. The list also contains space for the age and sex of the child desired, and will be taken down this Saturday, December 3.

Buy A Gift

As in previous years the couple is asked to procure a gift costing no more than two dollars to be given to their child by Santa Claus during the party. The children will be ages ranging from four to twelve; couples are asked to use their own discretion in choosing a gift.

Miss Jenkins pointed out that there are always about twice as many children available than are asked to come to the party, so there is no chance of not enough children. She hopes to make this the biggest Christmas party ever, but needs the support of the students to do it.

Three Senators Will Attend NSA Convention at Allegheny

The Juniata Student Senate will send three delegates, Bob Hamm, Bill Smith, and Joan McClure to the NSA Conference at Allegheny College in Meadville this weekend, December 2, 3, and 4.

The conference, entitled "Student Government—Necessary or Tolerated", will include general sessions and specific workshops, at which time delegates will have an opportunity to exchange ideas and information with representatives from a total of 20 Pennsylvania and West Virginia colleges. The Juniata delegates will attend workshops on disciplinary committees and foreign student policy, both issues with which the Senate is presently concerned, and curriculum.

Leadership Conference Issues

Also dealt with at this week's meeting were reports on Leadership conference matters. The campus religious investigation committee reported that in order to resolve the issue of whether or not the chairman of religious activities should also be president of JCA, the JCA should broaden its scope so that its head will not be in opposition with other campus religious organizations. A revised JCA Constitution, which Senate approved, provided for this.

Sonny Kaylor and Barry Drexler reported that there will be no sports awards chapels, as it was impossible to have them scheduled. Instead, the spring sports banquet will be continued.

December 8, 9, and 10 were set as the dates for classes to do their campus Christmas decorating. A dance, following All-Class Night will wind up the decorating festivities.

Spring Registration Begins Next Tuesday

Registration for the Spring Term will be held in Students Hall December 6 to 9.

After Friday, December 9, all registrations will be considered late and will be subject to the late registration fee of $5. The schedule is as follows:

Tuesday, Dec. 6 — 1:30 to 3:30
All Senior students in elementary sducation and music.

Wednesday, Dec. 7 — 1:30 to 3:30
Juniors

Thursday, Dec. 8 — 1:30 to 3:30
Sophomores

Friday, Dec. 9 — 1:30 to 3:30
Freshman and All students concentrating in home economics.

Students are requested to register at appointed times. If a class or lab conflict prevents a student from registering at that time it will be necessary to report to the Office of the Registrar at 10:00 a.m., Tuesday, December 6, with a written request.

Consultation Advised

Consultation with the student's faculty advisor or department chairman is urged during the week of November 28 in order to formulate a program for the spring term. All pre-engineering students must check with Professor Yoder.

Classes for spring term begin Monday, January 30.

Ex-JC Coed Mary Lou Zimmerman Relates Experiences In Germany

President Ellis passes on this letter from Mary Lou Zimmerman, ex '57 elementary ed major from Baltimore, Md., picturing her life as a student in Germany.

Kapellenstrasse 14
Braunschweig, Germany
November 11, 1955

I certainly was glad for the opportunity to get to know the people at the Brethren Haus and to see the work of BSC in Europe. However, there in the rather American atmosphere I did not feel that my actual German experience had begun. Now that I am here in Braunschweig with my German family and attending the Kant Hochschule I feel that I am right in the midst of what I am here to experience.

I have not found it particularly hard to adjust to the German family living but things are definitely different from my own home situation. I would say that the Staats' home is quite comfortable compared to most of the German homes in which I have been. Of course here we do not have all the comforts and conveniences of most American homes, things such as a central heating system, warm water all the time, electrical household equipment, and other little things. But I haven't found it difficult to become accustomed to this and actually feel that this is a valuable experience in itself.

Attends Teachers' College

School started for both Johann Friedrich and me on the first of November. He is studying law in Gottigen University and I am attending the Kant Hochschule, the teachers' college here in Braunschweig. I have had several interviews with Dr. Zietz, the director of the school, and he was quite friendly and cooperative. He had been in the States for several months visiting our colleges and universities and was so warmly welcomed that he wanted to do the same for me. Yesterday aftrnoon I weent to his home for tea and we had a very friendly and interesting chat—mostly comparing educational and other situations in America and Germany.

Most of the courses that I am taking are ones that could be found in our American "liberal arts" colleges. Because the education courses are so strictly aimed at the "peculiar" German school system I thought it would be more profitable for me to take other subects. Dr. Zietz has told me that I will be given a certificate here at the end of my studying so I am hoping that perhaps I will be able to transfer these credits to Juniata. I am taking four (4) courses in psychology, two hours for each course, one(1) hour course about the origin and nature of the German language, a two (2) hour German geography course, covering alone.

What the professors say in their lectures but the Deutsch is slowly

From The Editor's Notes

Going to Orlando? These familiar words are buzzing all over campus. Congratulations to our football team for its invitation to the Tangerine Bowl! See you there?

This stretch between vacations is usually characterized by a general feeling of good will here at JC. People seem to take time out to get to know each other a little better, to walk in the snow and to devote their efforts to such projects as class decorations, the JCA Xmas party, caroling, Dr. Binkley's Christmas Carol reading, social events, etc. In addition to the usual activities, this year's All-Class Nite falls within this period.

With all of these tempting diversions, we are inclined to let other things (such as homework) go by the board, only to discover that finals are only a few short weeks after the return from Christmas vacation. Far from a wet blanket, this reminder is an encouragement to plan time more carefully than it is necessary during less busy months in order to get more pleasure from the activities now and more happiness later due to the lack of need for frantic cramming.

News Views

by Newton C. Taylor

In two hundred and thirty-four days the 1956 Democratic Convention will open in Chicago. Already the political scene shows a considerable amount of jockeying by the various candidates for the Democratic nomination.

On November 15 Adlai Stevenson became the first democrat to "toss his hat into the ring". He followed this up with the announcement of a national campaign organization headed by James Finnegan of Philadelphia. In a major speech in Chicago a few days later he appealed to his party to realize that "moderation is the spirit of the times."

Kefauver

However, the high-flying Mr. Stevenson was not without his critics. U. S. Senator Estes "Davy Crockett" Kefauver charged that the Democratic National Committee was showing favoritism toward Stevenson. Kefauver, acting and talking more like a candidate than ever, said he would announce his 1956 political plans in mid-December.

Harriman

The day following Stevenson's Chicago speech Governor W. Averall Harriman of New York called a press conference at which he said, "There is no such word as moderation in the Democratic vocabulary."

Williams

A week later the Democratic Governor of Michigan G. Mennen Williams said that he was made "Heartsick by the spirit of temporizing with present problems."

However, if Governors Harriman and Williams had paid closer attention to other Stevenson statements, the one about moderation probably wouldn't have bothered them so much. Alluding to moderation only on rare occasions, Stevenson had used the terms "incompetent", "bungling" and "tragic" in referring to the Eisenhower Administration. He has consistently been calling for "maturity", "strong leadership", etc. in our national government. He strongly gives the impression that a return to the days of the Truman Administration would be ideal.

Nevertheless Stevenson is in the driver's seat and unless the others can head him off, the nomination will be his.

Albright Coed DeWald Analyzes Collegiate Bluffing Categories

Jane DeWald of Albright has given in her column, "Nobody Asked Me But" an essay on a familiar campus personality, the bluffer, that we thought you would enjoy as much as we. It follows:

"Feignmanship, as it applies to the class room, is the art of circumventing the obviously posed, direct question of an instructor. While there are almost as many approaches as there are possible questions, certain guiding principles have evolved; equivocable or irrelevant answers, statistical abstractions and circular statements cover the main avenues of deceit.

Persons endowed with a high degree of fair play and sportsmanship conduct usually rely on the DIRECT BLUFF, and are most likely to outdo themselves when confronted with a direct 'yes' or 'no' answer. Then the instructor has a 50-50 chance to ensnare the student. The feigner considers this only fair and should he lose, he's never heard to complain. To him, the play's the thing. All the 'A' students and half the 'F' students fall into this category.

Another method, largely preferred by the more colorful feigners, is the RHETORICAL SMILE. After the question is posed, he passively sits there, his whole manner conveying the idea to everyone that the answer is so obvious to all that it certainly doesn't merit or need coment. The instructor who would never 'talk down' to his students self-consciously reminds himself to make his next lecture more stimulating and pencils a 'B' beside this discerning student's name. But doubts may still plague him Did he even ask the question he intended? The student has now won a decisive victory.

The IT'S NOT QUITE THAT SIMPLE approach is invariably chosen by the artful pedant. This person reasons correctly that the best way to kill a question is to broaden its scope. Statistics and quotes are extremely useful.

The instructor must accuse himself of over simplification of the problem which he realizes now has no simple 'black or white' answer. Perhaps better preparation for his next class will free him of his obvious narrowness of viewpoint.

The gaming personality loves the I DON'T SEE WHAT BEARING THIS QUESTION HAS to what has gone before. This is, of course, a direct slap to the professor's intelligence, organization and general teaching ability. But that's the chance you take. Usually, however, the instructor becomes so confused that he begins to leaf frantically through his notes to see if he is, after all, on the right page. An early dismissal of class is likely to be forthcoming—a most dramatic victory for the feigner."

Accent On Reading

SALAMANDERS and OTHER WONDERS, by Willy Ley. The author follows his excursions into romantic geology with tales of animals and plants that are either extinct, fossilized, orisolated, and virtually unknown survivors. Experiments with olms and toads hint at fascinating discoveries in evolution and genetics, stories of pygmies and snow men provide material for speculation, a wierd tale of a man-eating tree is traced to its much less startling source, tool-using animals, the discovery of the missing link between birds and reptiles, and other marvels are included.

JUNIATA MATCHED WITH MISSOURI VALLEY

Greene Expects Winning Season; Indiana STC First Home Game

by Bill Mariotti

Opening the season at Susquehanna last night, Juniata College fields a basketball team that faces one of their toughest schedules in years. Indications are that the Tribe will be more than able to hold their own against all these foes.

The starting squad, under the tutelage of Doc Greene, will be composed of seven first stringers. The boys are so equal in their own right that not one of them can be classified as second string material.

The center spot is well intact with big Walt Vanderbush. Lee Hallman and Jake Handzelek will be at guard while Torry Froisland and Barney McLaughlin will be at forwards. Rounding out the so-called seven starters will be Bernie Oriss and Mike Armstrong who will play either forward or guard according to the situation.

Birchfield Ready

Another boy that expects to see considerable action is Bill Birchfield whose knee is sound once again. His JV performances two years ago prove his ability to score.

Coach Greene is especially elated over the showing of senior Froisland. Tory, after having had tough luck with his shooting here, lost confidence and was unable to match his tremendously accurate high school record. This year, however, he seems to have regained his confidence and accuracy and should be an invaluable asset.

Greene's Best

"This is the best basketball squad I've had since I've been here regardless of what happens during the year," is what Coach Greene thinks of this year's team. "The opponents are tougher than usual but if we don't have a successful season I will be disappointed"

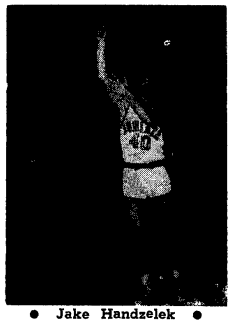
The coach also thinks the freshman crop this year is pretty good. He is especially pleased with 6'6" Bob Ewald. Greene admits he has a lot to learn and will not rush him along too fast.

Bucknell Tomorrow

Tomorrow night the Indians travel to Bucknell to face a squad that is greatly improved over last year's 3 and 18 record. Last year's fine freshman team will be stepping in to fill the varsity slots.

On Monday night the Tribe opens its home season with Indiana STC which has last year's entire squad returning. Many observers rank this years Indiana team as their greatest.

To round out the week's schedule Franklin and Marshall will be here Wednesday night.



● Jake Handzelek ●
Senior scoring sensation has accumulated 1458 points in 3 years.

Geiger Girls, Kids Win Openers In Girl's Basketball

The Punchy Pack and the Buffalos opened the 1955-1956 Girls Intramural basketball program this past Monday evening. The Buffaloes, a freshman team, chalked up their first win by defeating the Pack 10-4. High scorer for the game was the Buffaloes' Darlene Deshong with six points.

The second game of the night proved to be the most exciting. The Geiger Girls nipped the Chow Hounds by the close score of 32-31. Marlene Sterner of the Hounds was the high scorer of the game with 17 points. Nan Winters helped out by adding eight points. The score for the victors went as follows; Sandy Ruppenthal 14, Carol Klein 10 and Laura McAvoy eight points.

Excellent play was also turned in by the guards of both teams.

The Krazy Kids trounced the Brumbaugh "One-Ders" by a score of 58-8. Carol Jenkins with 29 points and Norma Hottle who racked up 27 led the Kids throughout the game. Barbara Wittenbrook was high for the losers with six points.

The schedule for next week is as follows:

December 8th,

7:00—Buffaloes vs. Chow Hounds
8:00—Geiger Girls vs. Krazy Kids
9:00—Brumbaugh "One-Ders" vs. Squaws.

21 Teams Begin Play in Boys I-M Basketball Loop

Juniata's intramural basketball season got under way last night in Memorial Gym with a full slate of four games. Last year's champions, the Wolverines, who did not see action last night, are back this year to defend their crown against 20 other teams.

Games will be played on Tuesday nights at 8:30 and 9:30, Thursday nights at 7:00 and 8:30, and Saturday afternoons at 1:30 and 2:30. Each game will be divided into two halves of 20 minutes each. The contests will again be played on the two short courts in the gym. There will be two games played at the same time. All 21 teams will have played their first game by Tuesday, December 6.

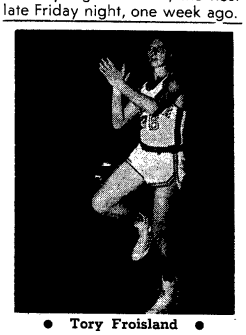
Because of continued football practices football players will be ineligable until after New Years. Teams with a majority of football players have been given a choice between disbanding their teams and allowing the non-football players to join other teams, and forgetting all their games until January. This would result in no more than three or four losses for any one team.

Tomorrow's games will find, at 1:30, the Galloping Ghosts going against the Wolverines and the Whips meeting the Mumblers. At 2:30, the Dukes will battle SIO and the Kourt Kids will engage the Sunbrookers.

Team Will Play In Tangerine Bowl; Rooters Plan To Hit Trail South

by Dave Sulloff

At last, all the students and people who had anxiously awaited the news, now know both sides of the story. Missouri Valley College of Marshall, Mo., was named as Juniata's opponent in the Tangerine Bowl classic on January 2 in Orlando, Florida. The bowl selection committee revealed the choice of Missouri Valley late Monday night. Juniata, the host team for the contest, was selected late Friday night, one week ago.



● Tory Froisland ●
Senior guard looking forward to his best season.

Juniata's opponent has a very good record over a three year span, dropping just two contests over that pediod of time. This season's record stands at eight victories and one defeat including a 31-6 victory over Hastings, Nebraska, in the Mineral Water Bowl on Thanksgiving Day. Last year's slate shows seven victories, one loss, and two ties.

The small midwestern college consists of just 358 students and is a co-erucational school affiliated with the Presbyterian Church., JC, as you probably know, is affiliated with the Church of the Brethren and has an enrollment of 668 students.

MVIAA Champs

This season, Missouri Valley was champion of the Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletic Association, but is not a member of the NCAA according to the 1955 Guide.

Coach Bob Hicks revealed Tuesday that he does not know much about Missouri Valley, but that there is a possibility that both schools will exchange film's of this past season's games.

For the first time since Juniata got the "bid", Coach Hicks called a meeting with the squad last Monday. At that time, it was decided the Braves will practice three days a week, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, from 4 to 5 p.m. prior to their departure for the sunny south on December 22. In Orlando, the team will work out in heavier drills on a high school field.

3 Teams Considered

Three teams were in the running to be named as the opponent of JC in the Bowl game. Up for consideration besides Missouri Valley were Southeast Missouri State of Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Central State Teachers College of Stevens Point, Wisconsin.

Head coach of Missouri Valley is Volney C. Ashford, a graduate of that same institution in 1931. An interesting sideline feature arises here due to the fact that Mr. Ashford and P. M. (Mike) Snider, Juniata College athletic dircetor, were friends while serving in the Physical Education and Military Training Section of the Deputy Chief of Naval Air Operations Division at Chapel Hill, N.C., preflight school during World War II.

From The Bleachers

If experience means anything we should see last year's 11-10 record bettered on the hardwoods of Memorial Gym in the coming basketball season. With five seniors with a total of fifteen years experience in Walt Vanderbush, Jake Handzelek, Lee Hallman, Tory Froisland and Bernie Oriss, plus such eager basketball-wise underclassmen as Armstrong, McLaughlin, Kramer, DiNicola and Birchfield to draw from Doc Greene's charges may conceivably come up with an outstanding season.

The "Shickshinny Sharpshooter", as Handzelek has been labeled in Pennsylvania circles, will have a chance to reach the elite circle of players with 2000 points to their credit. Although he failed to match his 26.3 average and 553 point total of 1953-54, Jake finished last season with a three-year total of 1458 points.

Opposing teams may find it distrous nowever to gang up on Jake this year. Hallman and Vanderbush each scored over 200 points last year, and with the scoring potential of the rest of the team spread pretty evenly the slack of a bad night on the part of any of the three leaders could be taken up elsewhere. All in all a healthy situation for prospects of a winning season.

Final statistics for the past eight football games show that Pat Tarquinio rolled up a total of 1115 yards rushing and passing. 789 through the air by completing 38 of 68 passes and 326 in 68 carries on the ground. His three-year total now stands at 2,568 yards, topping "Meteor Mike" Dzonar's record of 2181 set in 1947-8-9.

Intercollegiate Chatter

By NANCY FREED

Men who go to Ivy League colleges are "natuarally superior" to their less fortunate associates in the other schools, according to Henry Morton Robinson (Columbia '23) in the November issue of Holiday magazine. In one of the three articles devoted to the Ivy League schools, Robinson asserted that the "educational rabbit-warrens known as the state universities" and the liberal arts colleges not in the Ivy League would "democratize" the B.A. degree by bringing it down to the level of vaccination certificate. "Ivy League colleges cling to the somewhat mystical notion," he continues, "that a candidate for the 800-year-old degree of Baccalaurues in Arbitus shall be, among other things, a person of marked intellectual promise." Accompanying Robinson's article was the following excerpt from a letter he had received in reply: "Your article was mighty saddening to one like me who missed schooling in the Ivy League. I almost cried out loud as I drove to the bank in my cadillac."

Like These Lates?

Brace yourself for this one, girls. Senior women at the University of Colorado will be free to stay out as late as they wish this year, according to an announcement by the dean of women. Under this plan, door keys will be issued to each senior girl. The women will be required to sign out of their residence when they intend to be out beyond the regular closing hours or overnight. Falsification on sign-out slips or abuse of the key privilege will be subject to severe penalty. The dean's office believes senior women are mature enough to be trusted with the new plan. It's about time someone set out to prove that college students are men and women and no longer giddy teen-agers who need guidance along each step of the way.

Junior Program

The Washington semester program of Allegheny College sends students to the American University in Washington, D. C. for the last semester in their junior year. It's purpose is to provide these students with an opportunity to work out source materials and government institutions in the nation's capital and observe and study the machinery of our government in actual operation. The program is composed of a guided seminar which is concerned with the study of various branches of the national government; an individual project which usually involves specialized study and research in one phase of government, interviews with officials, and completion of a final written report; and the enrollment of two or three elective courses, for which the field of history and social science are recommended. "Attending the program is a valuable and interesting experience—for anyone interested in gaining awareness of the problems of national government. Apart from its educational worth the social and cultural experiences are inestimable," said Pat Cambell one of the participants in the program.

JC Band Desires To Go To Orlando

Members of the marching band have indicated that they are definitely interested in attending the bowl game in Orlando as a unit and are presently investigating various possibilities.

According to conductor Jack Brammer and various interested members of the band who met after a recent practice, funds supplied personally by the bandsters would have to be supplemented by at least $1500 to make a plan including all band members feasible.

It has been rumored that various alumni and patrons of Juniata are willing to help the cause in a financial way. Band members are also looking into other ways of raising money and of making the trip most economically. In all probability the band would spend six days on such a journey including time enroute.

Ohio Engraver Gets Year Book Contract

Harry Garber, business manager for the 1956 Alfarata, has announcer that a contract for the production of this season's yearbook has been signed with Canton Engraving and Electrotype Co., Canton, Ohio.

Also, the business staff reports that the minimum amount of advertising required has been obtained and that details in this department will be completed within the next week.

Carol Newborg has announced that group pictures will be taken sometime in January. A considerable amount of the literary material for the Alfarata is ready for printing, it was reported.

Anthology To Contain 4 Juniatians' Poetry

The National Poetry Association has announced that the works of four Juniata students will appear in this year's edition of the Annual Anthology of College Poetry.

The works and their authors include Reverie, by Mark Beech; Sunset, by Nonnye Huddleston; Joseph's Garden on Easter Morning, by Ted Hetrick, and a Question of Color, by Liz Shearer.

The Anthology is a compilation of the finest poetry written by the college men and women of America, according to the association secretary, Dennis Hartman. Selections were made from thousands of poems submitted from all parts of the nation.

Copies of this year's anthology may be ordered by sending your name and one dollar to the news editor of the Juniatian by December 10.

Dinner and Dance Highlight Calendar

December 15 is the date for this year's Christmas formal dinner and dance, the former being presented by the women's house committee and the latter by the social committee.

Both affairs are formal and provide one of the nicest evenings throughout the college calendar. The banquet will be based entirely on the Christmas theme, but the dance will play a dual holiday role. The first half of the dance will be in honor of St. Nick and other traditional customs, whereas the second half will be a New Year's celebration.

Peter Wright's college band will supply the music for dancing. Flowers and fancy duds are in order for this special evening also. All are welcome to the dinner for which reserve tables will be available next week. However, dates are needed for entrance to the dance, so men—the time is now.

Campus To Don Holiday Garb; Seniors, Juniors Set Themes

The fact that Christmas is coming will soon be quite evident on College Hill. Within the next few weeks our campus will be decorated for the holiday season.

The senior class, as usual, will be doing the decorations in the social rooms, using as their theme "Christmas Around the World". Under the direction of co-chairmen Nan Heller and Nancy Freed the seniors will attempt to show the students of JC how people of different nationalities celebrate Christmas. They will divide the social rooms into six different sections, and in each section will show a scene typical of a different country. The different countries and their chairmen are Bernie Oriss—Czechoslovakia, Bob Hamm and Klare Sunderland—Palestine, Joan Knapp—America, Cindy Zonies—Germany, Nancy Phillips and Rebecca Kitchen—England, and Janice Merz—Mexico.

The junior class, with Mary Johnson, Carol Titus, and Nancy Nevin as co-chairmen will be decorating Totem Inn. They are planning to use as their theme "Santa Claus' Workshop", with Dottie Stricker acting as chief co-ordinator.

So far, neither the sophomore nor the freshmen class has selected a chairman for their decorating committee. However, as is the tradition, the sophomore class will decorate Founders Porch, and the freshmen will do the front entrance to the campus and the balcony of Students Hall.

Worship Different

I believe the church has been the hardest thing for me to become adjusted to. The service of the German Evangelical Church (the State Church which follows the ideas of Martin Luther) is very similar to the Catholic service with its chanting and responses and its formality. It is just so different from our rather informal Brethren service that I find it difficult to worship as I would like to. Of course, not being able to understand all of the sermon and all that is said adds to this difficulty. Perhaps in time I will become accustomed to this type of worship.

There are many, many things for me to do here and I have met so many wonderful people that it is hard to know just which thing to do and with whom to do it. I am not always "on the go" for I have found much time for reading, writing and thinking. There certainly are a lot of thought provoking experiences connected with living in another country and knowing a foreign people. Sometimes I can hardly believe that I am really here and having this opportunity. It is wonderful! But, unfortunately, it is impossible to tell others the deep impressions and ideas which are formed throughout the experience. One must have the experience himself. I often think how good it would be if every young person could have the chance to learn to know the people of another land, and then, I wonder what effect it would have on the world and its situation. And if more Americans could only see what effect war has on the people it touches I know that that terrible thing would not be able to survive, to exist! Yes, the longer I am here and the more I see he more I appreciate the fact that I have been able to have this experience.

As I close I bring greetings from the Staats family along with my best regards to all.

Sincerely yours,
Mary Lou Zimmerman

Manual Clarifies Student - Faculty Committee Jobs

For several years both students and the faculty of Juniata have been searching for ways to realize more fully the main asset of the small, liberal arts college: a a close rapport between all the members of the college community. The Student Senate is currently working on initiating a student-faculty disciplinary committee to promote this sense of community. It appears, moreover, that a pattern already in operation to promote this end is not fully understood or appreciated by the student body, generally, namely the participation of students on several standing committees of the faculty.

Two years ago the faculty undertook a thorough revision of the structure of its own organization. The result, put in operation last school year, consists in part of seven committees whose functions and personnel are described in the official Faculty Manual in the language which follows. It should be noted that these committees are intended to supplement, not to supplant, the work of the Student Senate.

Activities Council

Four of the seven committees are part of the Student Activities Council whose membership consists of the chairman of each committee working under this council, the student deans, the director of publicity (to serve as a calendar coordinator) and the president of the Student Senate. The committees represented are Social Program, Student Publications, Religious Activities and Student Citizenship.

The Student Activities Council serves as a coordinating group for all student activities. The policies of subordinate committees are subject to the approval of this council. It brings before the faculty all requests for groups to be excused from campus for other than class activities and works with the director of publicity in drawing up the college events calendar.

Social Program

The Social Program Committee working under the council is composed of one member elected by the faculey, one member appointed by the President of the College, the dean of women and the Senate chairman of social activities. They are responsible for developing a balanced program for student social affairs and for making policies to guide establishment of a social program and extra curricular affairs of the campus.

Coeds, Loyal to Team, Shop for Tangerines

It's not every college coed who takes time out during a busy afternoon to trot to the food mart—just to by tangerines. However, Nancy Leatherman and Nancy Nevin, excellent examples of loyalty to the Tangerine Bowl bound Indians, are doing just that. Many JCers, catching on fast to the new fad, have been buying tangerine juice at Tote. These girls, however, must prefer to squeeze their own. All the vitamins they consume this way will help them to develope lusty voices which will really come in handy in Orlando January 2

Juniata Alumnus Oldest In Nation

The latest distinction in a long line of distinctions held by Prof. William Berry, a member of Juniata's class of 1882, is that of being the oldest living college alumnus in the United States.

Confirmation of this is in the American Alumni Council which last year published an article listing Prof. Beery at that time as the third oldest. Leading the oldtimers then was Miss Ella Miller, Hollins College, and Rev. Harvey Chapman, Bowdoin. Both have died during the year at the age of 104.

Prof. Beery was 103 last April 8. He came to Juniata shortly after its founding in 1876. He attended classes in the Brethren Normal School (now Juniata) and was a member of the faculty from 1878 to 1908.

Chapel Programs Set

Three speakers and a carol sing have been scheduled for the four remaining chapels before the Christmas vacation.

Mondey's speaker is Prof. McFadden, and on Wednesday Rev. Frank Montgomery, a Methodist minister in State College, will address the student body.

A carol sing will be held in chapel Friday. On Monday, December 19, Dean Mays will present an address.

Penney To Move Into Students Hall Office

The office of the Dean of Men, James Penney, will be moved from its present location in Founders Hall to the basement of Students Hall. In addition to the Dean's office there will be a special conference and testing room to be used by the Dean and by faculty comittees.

A new ceiling, walls and light fixtures will be installed by the maintenance department. They expect to have it completed within two or three months.

The new office will be located in the old book store area. It will be advantageous to Dean Penney because of the greater amount of space and advantageous to the students because of its accessibility.

JCA Plans For Yule Programs

The JCA Christmas plans include two services of worship.

Tuesday evening a program of and carols will be presented in the Stone Church.

Communion will be served at the annual Christmas candlelight service to be held in Oller Hall the following Tuesday beginning at 9 p.m.

Santa Will Bring Holiday Happiness And Financial Ruin

by Nan Heller

(To be sung to the tune of Santa Claus Is Coming To Town')

You better watch out how many hoagies you buy;
Don't spend all that dough—I'm tellin you why—
Christmas bills are comin to town.
You'll have a long list of gifts you must get.
Cash is needed for that, and then there's Florida yet!
Christmas bills are comin' to to town.
Sue dreams when she is sleeping
Of the hit she's gonna make
At the dance with her gown and your corsage
So save dough for Susie's sake!
Yup, you'd better watch out, save cash like I said
Gifts, flowers, and trips — you'll be in the red.
Christmas bills are comin' to town.

Dr. Binkley's Reading And Caroling Will Highlight Holidays' Festivities

Christmas time is upon us again, and to get into the spirit of things many pleasing hours have been planned with a host of activities to bring the Christmas spirit to all before their vacations.

Highlights of the activities are the Christmas banquet and formal on Thursday, December 15, the JCA Christmas party on Saturday, Dec. 17, the Christmas pageant on Sunday, the 18th, and the reading of Charles Dicken's Christmas Carol by Dh. Harold Binkley on Monday, December 19, in the Social Rooms.

Scrooge, Bob Cratchet and Tiny Tim will come alive again for the listeners as Prof. Binkley reads this immortal classic that continually warms the hearts of millions at Christmas time.

The caroling season gets under way Wednesday night, the 14th, when all are invited to go caroling around the campus between 8 and 9:30 p.m. with the final destination the Library and refreshments. On the 16th Howie Kerstetter will lead the singing of carols in the Social Rooms after the evening meal where a special added feature, the varsity quartet, will join their voices in song.

A second post-dinner carol get-together will be directed by Keith Birmingham and Ron Bechtel on Tuesday, December 20, when the Senior girls' trio will be featured. On the day of departure for vacation, all ambitious students who can't sleep can join in the traditional early morning caroling of faculty homes starting at 5:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The season is here, so come on JC, let's get in the spirit.

Classes Perfect Dramas For Saturday's Contest

by Barbara Zoellin

All the hustle and bustle on College Hill for the past few weeks will climax with the presentation of the 19th annual All-Class Night program tomorrow night at 8:15 in Oller Hall.

This exciting yearly event is composed of skits, each 22 minutes in length, presented by each class. The classes will be vieing for a coveted loving cup. This year's sophomore class won these honors last year with the winning skit, Main Street.

Skits will be judged on originality, costumes, make-up, performance, staging, direction, lighting and special effects.

Decision

The freshman class will be first in the spotlight for tomorrow night's show. The skit is entitled Decision and it relates an incident taking place in a prison camp somewhere in Korea. Chuck Brown will direct the skit.

Philosophical

Appearing in second position are the seniors. They will present a Quest For Meaning, a philosophical drama dealing with the universal search for meaning in life. The cast will be under the direction of Jim Hunt and Jerry Richards.

Arbitration

The third skit, Arbitration, will be staged by the junior class. It will be a conflict of demagoguery and reason, directed by Jim Montgomery and Dave Amidon.

Little Wings

In last place will be the sophomores, the class presenting the winning All-Class Night skit last year. This year they will do Little Wings. It will be directed by Sandy Ewing and John Moore.

General chairman of All-Class Night is Alma Skinner of West Whiteland, a senior psychology student. Her assistant is Eileen Gipprich, an English major from Altoona.

Ron Bechtel, a senior from Roaring Spring, is in charge of business matters.

Chapel Choir Preparing For Yuletide Program

Sunday, Dec. 18, is the date for the annual program of Christmsa music to be presented by the Chapel Choir under the direction of Miss Mary Jo Pfotenhauer.

The program, which will begin at 3:30 p.m. is divided into two parts, the first being a selection of Christmas carols and the second a short cantata.

The first section will include The Cyprus Tree Carol, a Pennsylvania Dutch carol arranged by Shure; Let Christians All, by Elmore; On This Christmas Morn, Job; Sleeps Judea Fair, Mackinnon. We Three Kings will be sung by a trio consisting of Howie Kerstetter, Joe Senft, and Jay Guyer.

The cantata, The Song of Christmas, is by the contemporary composer, Roy Ringwald, and will feature Violet Peters, Margy White, Phil Lankford, and Bruce Dickey as soloists and a quartet composed of Nancy Geisel, Nancy Grace, David Davis and Bryan Staufer.

Lois Guldin will be organist, and Jim Montgomery will serve as narrator for the program.

Faculty Approves Beginning Jan. 5

By the action of the faculty classes will be resumed following the Christmas recess on Thursday morning, January 5, instead of Wednesday morning, January 4 as previously announced.

In reporting the action of the faculty Dean Mays indicated that it was taken in order that classes may resume at full strength. This seems desirable in view of the fact that only several days more than a week will remain before the beginning of the final examinations. The dates for the written comprehensives, January 5 and 6, will remain as announced.

JWSF Short Of Goal; Statistics Unavailable

Chairman Dan Raffensperger has announced that the Juniata World Service Fund has not yet realized its campaign goal of $1955.

In the near future an official total will be announced, but as yet, due to the uncertainty of how much of the proceeds of the college operetta will benefit the drive, the exact total is not known.

State To Give Test For Graduate Record

Dean Mays calls attention to the fact that the Graduate Record Examination will be administered at the Pennsylvania State University on January 21, 1956. The closing date for registration is January 6.

Application forms and bulletins of information are available in the Office of Dean Mays. All seniors who contemplate graduate study are advised to determine whether they will need the results of the Graduate Record Examination in order to qualify for admission. In the event that the results are required or requested Dean Mays recommends the January testing date as the one which is most convenient for the students here.

Classes To Transform Campus With Gala Christmas Adornment

Students are working on the Christmas decoration that are to be displayed on campus during the holiday season with each class responsible for decorating a particular section of campus.

World Customs

The senior class is responsible for decorating the social rooms and has chosen as its theme Christmas Around the World. There are six sections in the social rooms, each representing a different country. Co-chairmen are Nancy Freed and Nan Heller. Working with them are Bernie Oriss, Klare Sunderland, Joan Knapp, Bob Hamm, Janice Mertz, Nancy Phillips, Cindy Zonies and Becky Kitchen.

Rudolph

Under the co-chairmanship of Mary Johnson, Nancy Nevin and Carol Titus, the junior class is decorating Totem Inn as Santa Claus's workshop, complete with Rudolph and Santa's post office. Dottie Stricker is assisting the co-chairmen with the display.

Blue and Silver

The sophomore class is decorating Founders Porch, using a blue and silver color scheme. The display carries out the theme of an old fashioned scene. Those acting as committee heads are Jay Fast, Joan Hannaford, Nan Winters and Bruce Dickey. The general chairman is Kerin Narbut.

Snowfall

The freshman class is responsible for the entrance to the campus and the balcony of Students Hall. The theme for the front entrance is Gateway to Christmas; it is complete with bells, tinsel and reindeer. The balcony is being adorned with a Christmas tree appearing through an artificial snowfall. Directing the work of the displays are Ann Larkin, Margie White, Ed Edenfeld and Chuck Brown.

A prize of $10. will be awarded to the class with the most outstanding decoration.

As I See It....

by Geosge Fattman

Let's take an objective look at the automatic laundry situation on campus, an issue which recently was brought up for discussion at Senate.

The conclusion has been reached that the two campus laundries are over-crowded; JC women face this problem more than male students for various reasons: (1) one of the laundries is open exclusively to men at any hour of the day, any day of the week; (2) the laundry in the women's dorm area is open to both men and members of the faculty and administration as well as coeds; (3) girls just naturally have more laundry to do on campus than do men, and (4) drying space is not available in the older laundry on Monday and Tuesday since this area is used to dry linens for the dining hall and other campus buildings.

Miss Mathias, institutional manager, has offered several suggestions which will be helpful in alleviating the laundry problem. These include (1) closing the laundry in the women's dorms area to men and putting automatic washers and driers in the Cloister (The Senate is trying to determine when this can be done, I understand); (2) adding more washers and driers to the older laundry; (3) using line space when it is available except for clothing that must be dried in an electric drier, and (4) being more considerate—should remove their clothes from washers, driers and lines as soon as possible.

Faculty members, she believes, should use the laundry in the Faculty Club, not those provided for students. However, Miss Mathias best suggestion was the following:

The administration should hire an attendant to be in charge of campus laundries. Her duties would include (1) collecting and sorting students' clothes; (2) operating the laundry machines, and (3) keeping an exact schedule of when each student's laundry could be done.

Miss Mathias pointed out that the advantages of having such an attendant would be that students who don't know how to operate the automatic machines wouldn't be putting them out of order all the time, fewer clothes would be stolen, more laundry could be done in the same amount of time and students wouldn't have to waste so much time trying to get a washing machine for their laundry.

She went on to point out that such a system is being used successfully at Penn State.

It seems to me that students wouldn't lose so many dimes this way either. And by the way, did you ever try to get back any of those dimes you lost in the laundry coin boxes? You won't if you do. It seems that the official policy is don't believe anybody who says he's lost a dime in a washer.

Miss Mathias is not in favor of keeping the laundry in the women's dorm area open any longer than from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. since there is no one around at other hours to watch over equipment and to keep the noise down.

The final gripes about the campus laundries are that the water, especially in the New Dorm laundry, doesn't even approach the required temperature to wash a load of clothes properly, and that driers just don't dry nine-pound loads.

Accent On Reading

The Dignity of Man, by Russell W. Davenport. In this study the author states that Communism has a strong intellectual and emotional appeal; that it has attracted and is still attracting many peoples and many countries into its sphere. He believes that our crucial problem is that we refuse to recognize the reality of its appeal, refuse to accept the fact that many of communism's ideals are the same as our ideals, that much communist propaganda is not simply a pack of lies to be dismissed with scorn; and urges that we re-examine our own ideals, our own way of life so that we ourselves truly know why and how American Democracy is preferable to Russian Communism—then we can tell and convince the world.

There Is No End, by William West Tomlinson. The author has visited countries of Western Europe five times since the close of World War II. The book takes us into the minds of people living on that tragic and troubled continent which so significantly seems to hold the future in the hollow of its uncertain hand.

News Views

by Newt Taylor

It is a long established American political tradition that the governor of a large state is carefully considered by his party as a possible presidential candidate.

Because of this tradition, many prominent Democrats are frequently mentioning the name of Frank Lausche, Governor of the "Great and Sovereign State" of Ohio. Lausche is a most unusual man and even more unusual politician. An ex-professional baseball player, Democrat Lausche has been elected governor five times in a Republican state.

Vice and Labor Bosses

Frank Lausche's first important public office was the mayoralty of Cleveland to which he was elected in 1941. His city administration was noted for transportation reform, labor management relations and post-war planning. In 1944 he was elected governor. Defeated in the Republican landslide in 1946, he came back stronger than ever in 1848 and was reelected in 1950, 1952 and 1954. His record as governor lacks spectacular achievements; however, he has been an excellent and honest administrator and has kept the state on a solid fiscal basis. A vigorous campaign against vice has been maintained.

Lausche has been most bitter in his criticisms of 'labor bosses' and has constantly been opposed by organized labor. Yet, the election results prove that the working people vote for him in over-whelming numbers.

Republican Friends

National Democratic leaders have two criticisms of the man as a presidental candidate. The first is his reluctance to make bitter attacks upon the Republicans. He was a personal friend of the late US Senator Robert Taft and supported Taft in his 1950 Senate fight. Lausche has been friendly with President Eisenhower and has publically praised the Eisenhower Administration.

Roman Catholic

The second point against Lausche as a candidate for President is the fact that he is Roman Catholic. The fact remains yet that there is a genuine feeling of shame among many Americans because of the disgraceful campaign of 1928. We have become much more mature and tolerant in the past twenty-eight years. If this outstanding American cannot be elected President because of his religion, it is certainly a most powerful condemnation of our concept of democracy.

The American people may hear much more about this man Frank Lausche in the coming months.

Student Government What Is Its Scope?

Last weekend 73 delegates from about 20 Pennsylvania and West Virginia colleges, ranging from institutions with enrollments of 300 to those as large as Penn State, which has a student population of 12,500, met at Allegheny College in Meadville to discuss student government problems at the regional convention of the National Student Association.

As Juniata is not a member of the NSA, the JC representatives merely sat in as "observers", nevertheless being allowed to participate in discussions. Some of the ideas and information obtained from other colleges should prove stimulating for our student senate to re-evaluate itself and perhaps channel some of its energies in new directions.

Student Government's Role ?

One of the issues on which many of the conference discussions and addresses centered was "Just what is the role of student government?" Interestingly, the ideas and opinions stressed were quite different from what the Juniata conception of student government seems to be. Many of the delegates contended that a student senate, or a student council, whatever the case may be, should not be primarily a service organization — that is taking charge of social events, financial matters, and the like: instead it should be an organization with a very broad scope and a long-range outlook.

They cited the University of Utah as an example. A plan whereby students are divided into thought groups, each meditating on various student and world problems, such as the international situation or the coming "tidal wave of students" due to the high birth rate during the war is in operation there.

These groups then pass on recommendations to the student governing body.

What about Juniata ?

Granted, such a plan could conceivably work well on a large campus where there is unlimited talent available; it does not, however, seem applicable to a small college such as Juniata. Would the students here be satisfied with their senate of, instead of dealing with more mechanical matters, such as the Tangerine Bowl arrangements for sturents or campus decorations, the weekly sessions were devoted to the more remote problems of how to expand our enrollment or how to revise our curriculum so as to provire for this "rising tide of students"? We can't believe it would, for who would handle these other matters, which, after all, cannot be completely ignored? It seems that our student body expects more concrete action from its senate.

Nevertheless, it is true that we should make our scope as broad as possible, as we have been trying to do by dealing with issues such as a disciplinary committee and an improved foreign student policy. Yet, to be realistic we must recognize our limitations and strive to do the things that are within our power.

Tarquinio Again On All - State; Five Juniatians Receive Recognition

Pat Tarquinio was one of four repeaters on this year's All-State football team, while Barry Drexler, Bob Sill, Bill Waryck and Don Pheasant all received honorable recognition.

Along with Tarq in the first team backfield were Lenny Moore of Penn State, also a repeater, Joe Gerencser of Moravian and Bob Ford of Bucknell.

Drexler was named to an end position on the second team, being nudged off the first team by a pair of Pitt wingmen John Paluk and Joe Walton.

Waryck and Sill were named to the third team while Pheasant received honorable mention.

Rounding out the line on the first team were center John Cenci, Pitt, guards Ray Oncay, Scranton and Walt Sylvester, Westminster, and tackles Otto Kneidinger were the other repeaters from last year, while Vidas was Little All-American tackle this year.

Players from Juniata opponents mentioned besides Gerenscer were center Chap Storch of Moravian, on the third team, and Frank Angello, Lycoming tackle, John Joe, Lyco fullback, Al Barilar, Dickinson guard, and Jim Nellas, Dickinson center received honorable mention.

Drexler Chosen Third Team All - American; Tarq, Haus Mentioned

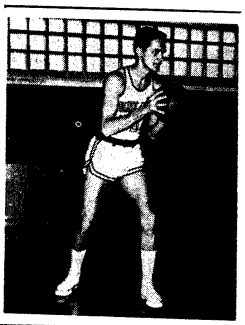
Three Juniata players received mention on the Asociated Press Little All-America team last week, led by Barry Drexler's selection as third-team end. Pat Tarquinio and Bill Haushalter were given honorable mention.

Drexler and Vince Vidas, Drexel tackle picked on the first team, were the only Pennsylvania players named on the first three teams. Other Pennsylvania players given honorable mention were Sheldon Yingst, Gettysburg center, Frank Gagliardi, Gettysburg quarterback and Jooe Gerencser, Moravian halfback.

Last year, Joe Veto became the first Juniata player to be honored with a first team berth.

Indian Cagers Dump F & M For Third 1955 Victory; Set New Scoring Record

The 1955-56 edition of the Juniata basketball team made it three victories in four starts as they defeated the Diplomats of Franklin & Marshall 71-50 in Memorial Gym Wednesday night. Jake Handzelek led the scoring with 19 points.



● Guard Lee Hallman ●

The Indians of Coach Dr. T. Arnold Greene got off to a slow start missing several easy shots early in the first half. About midway in the half the Braves began to "hit" and led at intermission 31-24.

F&M narrowed the lead as the second half opened but Mike Armstrong, sophomore forward, set the Indians on the right path with two long shots from the side. Juniata then continued to cut the Diplomat zone to pieces and widen the gap at will.

Susquehanna

The current campaign opened at Sellinsgrove last Thursday where Juniata defeated the host Susquehanna five 87-70. Handzelek was high man for the Indians with 24 points. Romano gathered 37 markers for the Crusaders to take individual honors.

Saturday night the Bucknell Bisons handed the Indian cagers their lone defeat to date 71-68. Handzelek again led the attack with 18 points, followed by Walt Vanderbush with 17.

Indiana STC

Juniata opened the home court season Monday night with a rousing 103-80 win over highly-rated Indiana STC. The win set an all time Juniata scoring record covering 52 years of basketball on College Hill. The old record, 99, was set against Shippensburg STC last February in a 99-85 victory. The Memorial Gymn record, however, is held by Geneva through its 113-87 win over Juniata December 7, 1953.

Indiana led early by virtue of their foul shooting ability but midway in the first half Juniata found the range and led 51-36 at halftime. Early in the second half Indiana narrowed the gap to 53-55 but Armstrong entered the contest and hit for six of seven field goal attempts, The Tribe regained its form, widened the gap and set out after 100 points.

Handzelek added the 101st point and sub Bill Birchfield made it 103. Handzelek was high for the night with 36, connecting on 11 of 22 field goals and 14 of 16 fouls.

The Junior Varsity opened their season with an 82-53 loss to Bucknell. Wertz and Ewald had 13 points each. Tony Quarantillo with 30 points led them to a 62-49 victory over F&M Wednesday to even their record at 1-1.

Tomorrow night the Tribe faces Ursinus at Collegeville and Monday night travels to Lock Haven. Little is known about these opponents but last year the Indians defeated both easily, Ursinus 78-56 and Lock Haven 85-63.

After Monday night the team lays off until January 4 when they travel to Westminster. The next home appearance will be January 11 against Geneva.

Exciting Season Ahead For Boys' I-M B-ball League

With only one week gone in the boy's intramural basketball season enthusiasm is already mounting at a furious pace. A Tital of 20 teams and approximately 150 boys compose this year's league.

The unbeaten teams as of Tuesday night were pared down to nine.

In Tuesday night's games the Cloister Crusaders, a freshman team, gave the other teams a scoring mark to shoot for. Led by Jim Heck and Francis Cristina with 22 and 20 points respectively, the Crusaders rolled the Sons of Italy into submission 85-29. It was the Crusader's second win in two starts.

The Jabberwockies opened their season by downing the McKees Creekers 50-38. Al Nyce had 21 points for the Jabbers, while Steve Ulch bucketed 21 for the winners.

In other games Tuesday night the 19th Holers, despite a 17 point effort by the looser's James Aike, downed the Pretzels 40-27, while the Rack Hounds opened their season with a 49-27 victory over the J.C. Juniors.

From The Bleachers

It is the time of year for "all" teams to be released. Elsewhere on the page we have given recognition to All-State and All-American picks; here we would like to mention some less publicized selections.

Ursinus College released its all-opponent team recently and nine Juniata players were mentioned. Three, Drexler, Tarquinio, and Haushalter made the first team, Mullen and Sill the second, while Birmingham, Staley, Bechtel and Pheasant made honorable mention.

Drexel, also undefeated, and Moravian, JC's most outstanding opponent, were common opponents of Ursinus and were well represented on the Bear's opponent team, giving a comparison of sorts between three outstanding teams. The unbeaten Dragons also placed three players on the first team, but overall did not stack up to Moravian who matched the Indians total of nine representatives.

Ursinus lost to Drexel 20-13, Moravian 40-0 and Juniata 38-6 this year.

The other day an All-American team was selected based on academic achievement, including such stars as Freddie Wyant of West Virginia and Paul Hornung of Notre Dame. Also there are annually All Teams based on nationalities such as the All-Ukranian or All-Polish teams. One JC player seceived such recognition lately when center Tony Chirico was named to an All-Team composed of chemistry majors throughout the country.

Doc Greene's courtmen, after Mondey's Lock Haven game, will have a three week layoff, before returning to action Janaury 4 to fahe their strongest test. In five games they will face such powerful opponents as Westminster, Elizabethtown, Geneva, American U. and Lycoming. If they can get through that stretch with more wins than losses a successful season would virtually be a cinch.

Punchy Pack, Squaws Red Devils Win in I-M

The Red Devils downed the Rowdies 40-19, the Punchy Pack defeated the Hobo's 31-18 and the Comrades yielded a forfeit to the Squaws on the first of December to continue the fast pace being set by the girls intramural basketball league.

The Squaws, in the first scheduled game of the night, received a 2-0 win via the forfeit route by the Comrades. Joyce Warfel scored 20 points to aid the Red Devils in defeating the Rowdies 40-19. Helen Schmidlen tossed in 12 points for the losers. In the finale, the Punchy Pack with the aid of June Gray's 12 points landed the Hobos to a 31-18 defeat. Anabelle Pomeroy had 11 points ot her credit for the winners. Wright led the Hobo's scoring with 12 points.

Next week's games will include three games on Monday night; Comrades vs. Rowdies at 7:00, Red Devils vs. Hobos at 8:00, and Punchy Pack vs. Chow Hounds; and a trio of games Thursday night, Buffalo's vs. Gieger Girls at 7:00, Krazy Kids vs. Squaws at 8:00 and the Comrades vs. the Red Devils at 9:00.

Coed Pens Poem To Praise Indians For Achievements

by Dot Fogle

"We can't," they muttered. "You can he replied.
And off they went and did it.
Coach Smaltz, proud of his team, reluctantly left it.
"We can," they said. "Well, maybe - -," he replied.
The team worked hard and Coach Hicks with it,
And off they went and did it again, and even again.
Three undefeated seasons, three undefeated teams,
Some swell coaches and some of the nicest guys in the world
Will be traveling to Orlando, Florida, three days before Christmas
To bring home, if nothing else, an outstanding football record,
The experience of a once-in-a-lifetime trip and bowl game,
And a gang of the cleanest and most respectable fellows known.

'Obert' Practical Pet SDSC Students Find

ACP—The South Dakota Collegian reports that a student at SDSC has received an alligator with the beguiling name of Obert as a pet.

At last report, the gator hadn't grown too much, but he was getting livlier. Maybe this guy plans to grow his own luggage.

Hotel Solves Problem Of Housing For Girls

ACP— Augsburg College officials had to reach off campus to find a solution to a housing problem.

Faced with a surplus of 40 girls who could not be accommodated in dormitories, the college rented the entire fourth floor of a nearby hotel.

Two girls are assigned to each hotel room and transportation to and from the college will be provided three or four times a day. Washing, pressing, and kitchen facilities will be available, and the girls will have the use of a cafe and recreation room on the ground floor of the hotel.

Regular residents of the hotel won't be seeing much of the young ladies, however. The fourth floor of the building will be closed off from the main part of the hotel with keys issued only to the girls.

So, for the boy friends, it'll be just like a dormitory.

Dance On Sat. Night

The Social Committee will hold a dance on Saturday evening, December 10 in Totem Inn, following the All Class Night program in Oller Hall. This dance is the social which will bring to a close the annual Christmas decorating. The social committee wil furnish the juke box with coins througnout the evening.

In The Clubs

The energetic atmosphere that comes to JC every December has affected the clubs too for they have planned varied and interesting meetings.

Tycoon

The Tycoon Club will hold its December meeting tonight at 7:30 in the I. Harvey Brumoaugh House. Mr. John Strait, president of the First National Bank of Huntingdon will discuss banking as a career.

Camera

A short business meeting followed by a series of slides entitled "Introduction to Picture Making" is on the agenda for the Camera Club next Wednesday evening. The slides depict procedures for making pictures.

FTA

Although FTA is not having a scheduled business meeting this month an informal group is planning to go to the Blair Memorial Hospital and sing Christmas Carols for the patients.

Lambda Gamma

Lambda Gamma is meeting Monday night at 7:15. The program will consist of a work session at which time the girls will make Christmas favors for nospital trays and bake pies and cakes for a bake sale here on campus. The sale will take place Tuesday after the noon meal in Totem Inn.

Outing

Bouquets to the Outing Club for the success of their "Florida Hoedown" last Saturday night. Reports have it that everyone had a wonderful time square dancing and, of course, eating tangerines.

intracollegiate chatter

by Joan McClure

With All-Class Night just around the corner, it brings to mind suggestions that were made for possible skits the year that the theme was to be historical. One of them was "The First Quaker Meeting"—twenty minutes of stark-raving silence by the freshman class and another was "The Charge of the Light Brigade"—600 white stallions dashing down the aisles of Oller Hall.

On The Sports Scene

Although at this time of year there are so many things going on that the campus is just a buzz of activity, perhaps the main topic of discussion is still Florida and Tangerine Bowl plans. As one person suggested, perhaps the campus theme song should be What Are You Doing New Year's Eve That Can't Be Done Better In Orlando?

Of course, now with the basketball schedule now underway, Juniata sports enthusiasts have another consuming interest. Several years ago, a very spirited frosh girl, not realizing tnat the tower bell is rung for football victories only, rushed to the dorm after a basketball win and started to tug away madly. The unfortunate thing about it was that the bell is also a signal for the downtown fire company.

Allegheny Anecdotes

Several amusing incidents occurred at the NSA Conference at Allegheny last week. One of the delegates was heard to introduce herself as being "from Chaddam College, formerly Pennsylvania College for Women." This prompted on of the JC representatives to comment that he should introduce himself as being "from Juniata College, formerly Brethren Normal School."

And the Temple U. delegates informed us that the evening before the conference was to begin their student council had a meeting, and at 8:30 someone jumped up and said, "I move we send representatives to the Conference at Allegheny tomorrow." So they did! Nothing like making snap decisions.

Tragedy of the Year

A male Juniata student decided to alight from the rack one morning this week, only to find that someone had borrowed his shoes. Rationalizing to the nth degree, he reasoned that he couldn't get up without his shoes, so he thought he would stay in bed for awhile and read a magazine, but, alas, someone had taken his magazine. Next he decided to occupy his time listening to records. No—the record player hadn't been borrowed— it had been broken. By this time, being thoroughly peeved and practically irate, the fellow gave vent to his frustrations by vicously kicking the wall and he broke his toe.

Evidently there are still some people left with plenty of time on their hands—last week several guys held a pinochle marathon in the dorm. It lasted from 2:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Tsk! Tsk!

Ex-JC'er Making Good

Andy Sheppard (Pastuszek), Cadillac recording artist and former Juniata student, this week sent WJC a copy of his latest fine release—Because I Know and, on the flip side, All Mine.

Holiday greetings and happy (and safe) motoring to all!

Vol. 32 No. 12 | Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. | Friday, December 16, 1955

Ford Foundation Gives Juniata $138,000 In Nation-Wide Financial Aid Program

Juniata College is the recipient of a grant of $138,600 from the Ford Foundation, which gave a half billion dollars to the nations' privately owned colleges, universities, hospitals and medical schools early this week, according to Acting President Mays.

Six hundred fifteen private colleges and universities—virtually all such institutions in the nation will receive financial aid from the foundation, it was learned Monday. Fifty-seven Pennsylvania colleges and universities are included in the plan. Thirty six of these will get more money than Juniata.

Applied To Salaries

The money will be invested as part of the endowment fund. Only income from the investment (which at five percent would bring nearly $7000 annually) may be used. The money must be used to increase the salaries of the college faculty.

Expressing his gratitude over the grant, Dr. Mays stated, "Naturally Juniata College is deeply grateful to receive a share in the greatest single act of philanthropy in history. The income from the gift is to be used to increase faculty salaries.

This we are happy to do, since in recent years the real income of college teachers generally has declined by five percent while every other major professional group has kept ahead of the rising cost of living.

Hospital Grant

Also of interest is the fact that the local J. C. Blair Hospital has been granted $68,200. In all $200 million was allocated to 2700 hospitals.

The nation's medical schools will receive $90 million. While all 615 colleges and universities received part of $120 million, many of them also received a share from an additional $50 million. Juniata, however, was not among this group.

Bechtel, Birmingham To Conduct Caroling

The next few days will round out the agenda of the Christmas activities.

Tomorrow night, the JCA sponsors its annual Christmas party for underprivileged children in Huntingdon and the surrounding area. The affair will get underway at 8:00 in the mezzanine of the Memorial Gym.

For Monday Dr. Binkley's reading of Scrooge has been scheduled. It will take place in the social rooms at 7:00.

Ron Bechtel and Keith Birmingham will lead carol singing in the social rooms Tuesday after the evening meal. A special feature of this get-together will be a performance by the girls trio, Mimi Lehman, Nancy Leatherman, and Connie Sheaffer.

On Wednesday morning those wishing to go caroling should meet on Founders Porch at 5:30 a.m. After touring faculty homes and Taylor Highlands, sleepy-eyed carolers will comeback to the social rooms, where there will be a fire lit, to await a hearty breakfast.

Senior Class Cops Decoartions Prize

The Class of '56, for the second successive year, has been awarded first prize in the class Christmas decoration competition for their decorations in the social rooms, the theme of which was "Christmas Around the World".

Judges this year were Mrs. Kenneth Crosby and Dr. James Wilson. The prize of $10 was donated by Rosalie Langer from her Senate social activities fund.

Nan Heller and Nancy Freed were co-chairmen of the senior decoration committee.

Chapel Choir To Give Annual Pageant Sun.

Barbara Orner, director of publicity for the chapel choir concert Sunday, has announced a reminder to Juniata students to see the production at 3 p.m. in Oller Hall.

Many townspeople in addition to students are expected to be present to hear this annual Christmas concert.

JWSF Should Net Close To $1750

The goal of the Juniata World Service Fund has not been reached.

According to Al Nyce, JWSF treasurer, the fund is still ntarly $300 short of its goal of $1,955 even after the estimated operetta profit of $260 is added.

Net profit to date has been reported at $1501.25. There is one bill yet to pay for the production of the All college musical, Brigadoon. When the net profit of the musical is finally determined, the total JWSF amount will be about $1760.

JCA To Sponsor Worship Service On Tuesday Night

The Juniata Christian Association plans to culminate the pre-Christmas observances at Juniata with a late evening All-College Christian Worship Service in Oller Hall. The service will be held from 9 to 10 p.m. on Tuesday, December 20, the night before Christmas vacation.

The Christmas service, under the direction of Dick Livingston, will be presided over by Dr. Kenneth Crosby, will be participated in by several faculty members and will feature special music, including a special choir with Marlene Sterner at the organ. The program will strive to create an impressive finale to Juniata's pre Christmas activities.

The next edition of the Juniatian will appear January 13, 1956.

Article Gives More Information On Faculty - Student Committees

This week we continue the explanation of student-faculty committees functioning here on the JC campus.

Last week, the Student Activities Council and two of its committees were discussed. The two remaining committees under this council are the Religious Activities Committee and the Student Citizenship Committee.

Religious Activities

The chairman of the Biblical studies department, the Senate chairman of religious activities and one member elected by the faculty make up the Religious Activities Committee. This committee encourages the religious life of students and faculty, acts as a coordinators between students and community churches and is responsible for chapel policy, programs and selecting a chapel coordinator to plan these programs.

Student Citizenship

The Student Citizenship Committee has the largest membership of the student-faculty committees. It is composed of one member selected by the faculty, the faculty advisor to the Senate, the student deans, the chairman of men's house, the chairman of women's house and the Senate chairman of underclassmen.

This group is responsible for promoting good morale and ideals of citizenship in college life. They act as a policy making group, with authority to make decisions concerning student personnel policies and procedures, including matters relating to residence halls, discipline, conduct, counseling and student welfare in general.

They also authorize clubs, defining their responsibilities, and authorize concessions.

In addition to these responsibilities, the Student Citizenship Committee acts as a board of appeal available to students who are not satisfied with the ruling of a student disciplinary committee or one of the student deans.

Programs and Convocations

Operating independently of the Student Activities Council are the Public Programs and Convocations Committee and the Physical Education and Athletics Committee.

The first of these has five members, four of which are appointed by the President of the College plus the Senate Chairman of General Activities. They plan and contract, in consultation with the President, for all public programs undertaken by the college, including commencement, baccalaureate, convocations, college dramatic and musical productions, May Day and All-Class Night.

Athletics

Another large committee, the Physical Education and Athletics Committee, has in its membership two members elected by the faculty, one member appointed by the President of the College, the directors of physical education for men and for women and the Senate chairman of athletics.

They develop policy on intercollegiate athletics including the number of games, opponents and scheduling and approve sports which will be entered in intercollegiate competition.

Intramural athletics programs for men and women are developed and supervised by this committee which appoints directors responsible for activities, schedule equipment, etc. They must submit athletic schedules in writing at least two weeks prior to the regular faculty meeting at which action is to be taken. The committee sets up policy for athletic awards and selects recipients of these awards.

Vienna Boy's Choir To Sing Here In Jan. 6 Civic Concert Program

by Clint Betz

The internationally famous Vienna Choir Boys will give a concert in Oller Hall on Friday evening, January 6 at 8:15, as announced by Miss Kathryn Langdon, president of the local Civic Concerts Association.

● Vienna Choir Boys ●

Having been founded by Imperial Austrian decree in 1458, the group has had a long and varied history. After performing exclusively for the Austrian Imperial Court until the fall of the Empire in 1918, the choir and the historic Konvikt Seminary School which trains it, found themselves in danger of extinction.

Forced into a position of self-dependency at the end of World War I, the school instituted a series of public concerts to remain solvent. These concerts received such public acclaim that eventually world tours were organized under the direction of Impresario S. Hurok, the first of these reaching the United States in 1932.

These concerts have continued here in this country since then except for the duration of World War II when the rector of the group disbanded the choir to prevent its use as a Nazi propaganda weapon. The choir was then reorganized in 1948 and is now taking its twelfth tour of North America.

Extensive Recordings

In addition to personal appearances people have become familiar with the Choir Boys through their extensive recordings and an appearance in Cinerama and several television programs. This present tour includes a visit to some 70 major and minor Uorth American cities, including a series of appearances with the Bach Aria Group, Christmas week concerts at Manhattan's Town Hall and at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Three Choirs

To fulfill its tremendous schedule, the school has three choirs on tour each year. A rotation system allows every lad fortunate enough to be enrolled in the school to visit each country on the far-flung itinerary at least once before he is overtaken by the period of adolescent voice change which renders him valueless to

Second Semester Bill Payable Next Month

Second semester bills will be due before the end of the first semester, and each student will receive his bill in his post box early in January.

Students will be responsible for having bills paid before January 30, 1956. They are requested to pick up their registration cards in the treasurer's office between January 16 and 28 and will not be admitted to their second semester classes until they have done so.

Student copy cards, stamped and approved by the office of the treasurer, will be given to the students after financial settlements have been completed. Those students who do not have the properly approved registration forms will not be admitted to their second semester classes. The spring term will begin on Monday, January 30, 1956.

'58 Wins All-Class Night Cup; Critic Writes Candid Review

by Bob McFadden

What is drama, and what is its value and purpose? These at least were two of the questions which I was asking when I left Oller Hall last Saturday following the 19th annual All-Class Night performance.

I did not know what to expect when I went,for it was my first such occasion, and I had been warned in advance that the skits were usually unpredictable.

Interesting Skit

The first skit of the freshmen found me more interested than impressed, and I joined with the audience in their moments of seriousness and laughter, and their shock at hearing the two shots at the end.

There were several who wondered what the momentous decision was. Was it mankind's never ending choice between freedom and slavery? Or was it the ethical problem of staying with or leaving one's wounded buddy? Or was it a decision made out of fear and not out of conviction?

Verbose Introduction

The introduction to the senior skit was a little too verbose for me, but I was quickly caught up in the dialogue between the "old man" and the groups of people from whom he sought an answer as to the meaning of life. The lighting effects were particularly well done.

There seemed to be partial answers all along the way (and I partially agreed with them), but I wondered if we didn't receive a double-punch at the end. Did we have both a definite Christian connotation in the modern magi, and a more human answer in the father-daughter symbol of the idea of mutual love? Nevertheless, I felt comfortable and satisfied at the end—but I wondered if the authors of the skit wanted me to feel that way then!

Excellent Technique

If one were looking for excellent technique and a well-written script, it was to be found in the junior production. The use of a single theme to point out the conflict between demagoguery and reason contributed to the power of the presentation. If the idealists in the audience were thinking about ultimate in the senior skit, they were brought "about-face" to consider apparent reality in the current world situation.

It was a piece of drama well done, and frankly, I thought we had reached the high point of the evening—even though I wondered what the sophomores would produce from what seemed to be meaningless poetic lines at the bottom of the program.

Average Acting

The technique of the sophomores was not as outstanding as the previous one; they simply combined choral speaking and average acting to say what they wanted to say. As for me, I was busy most of the time wondering what they were trying to say! When it was over, I turned to my neighbor to ask, "What was the point?"

He wasn't sure either, so we began to discuss the possibilities, and soon found ourselves on the verge of a discussion of the question, "Is God responsible for evil?" A few minutes later I was ready to agree with the decision of the judges and award the tro-

From The Editor's Notes

Christmas . . . .

The classes have done a good job of decorating the campus this year. It certainly adds to the atmosphere of the approaching holidays.

Speaking of the holidays, what is Christmas to you? Pines, bells and Santas can be seen everywhere on campus and in town. Christmas lists for all purposes are being prepared. But is the real meaning of holiday, Holy Day, of significance to us as we start on our merry whirl?.

A child was born one thousand nine hundred and fifty five years ago in Bethlehem. He was named Jesus, the Saviour of mankind. Christmas or Christ's Mass is the celebration of His birthday, a rejoicing for the message of love He brought to the world.

How often do we think of this as we send and receive greeting cards decorated with snowmen and reindeer and perpetuate the commercialism of Christmas in other ways to the extent that many children connect Santa Claus and gift receiving rather than Jesus and the Church with Christmas? Do we instead approach the coming vacation with a euphoria based on an anticipation of release from college responsibilities, of gifts we may receive and of friends we will see once again at home?

What is Christmas to you?

The Speeder's Song

Cincinnati, Ohio—(ACP) The Xavier University News recently printed this advice especially for people with a heavy foot on the gas pedal. It's entitled "Sing While You Drive."

At 45 miles per hour, sing:
"Highways are happy ways"
At 55 miles per hour, sing:
"I'm but a stranger here."
At 65 miles per hour, sing:
"Nearer my God, to Thee."
At 75 miles per hour, sing:
"When the roll is called up yonder, I'll be there."
At 85 miles per hour, sing:
"Lord, I'm coming home."

Hope we stick to the first few lines on the Orlando trip.

News Views

The foreign situation has degenerated greatly since last summer's sunny days at the "summit".

The Soviet has launched an all-out campaign to capture the minds and imaginations of the opposed people of the world. This can be no more plainly seen than in the recent Kruschev -Bulganin tour through India. They received one of the biggest and most impressive welcomes ever accorded visiting dignitaries in India. They went through the country preaching peace, conciliation and offering economic aid to India's self improvement programs. While the Russian statesmen made their triumphial tour, the United States sent arms to Pakistan. This more than perturbed India and it did much to increase the tension between these two countries.

Also at this time Secretary of State Dulles issued a statement concerning the Portuguese province of Goa that greatly annoyed India. While Russia spoke of economic aid we spoke of cutting our foreign aid expenditures. This new Russian offensive is swift, many-sided and very flexible. If the present trend continues and if our past actions are any indication of our future reactions, we stand a good chance of losing much in the face of this renewal of active combat in the cold war.

War Of Ideas

We are fighting a war of ideas as well as one of possibly guns and planes. The predominantly military approach is a purely materialistic and negativistic approach. This policy is valid and effective only insofar as it is subordinated to the realization that this conflict, especially since the recognition of a nuclear stalemate at Geneva, is one that is going to be mainly fought and ultimately won in the realm of ideas.

The proposed cuts in foreign aid have been only in the economic and propaganda realm, military spending is to remain the same. Such a policy can spell out disaster in the face of this new Russian offensive.

We must realize that Russia is spending more money in a years time on propaganda alone than we spend on foreign aid. It will be indeed ironic if the richest nation on earth, and one noted for its high pressure salesmen, is on the losing end of this conflict because of an insufficient budget and unimaginative salesmanship.

Accent On Reading

Now Is the Time, by Lillian Smith. A southern woman's uncompromising analysis of the dangers inherent in segregation and the fallacies behind it, with an eloquent but practical plea for the recognition of racial equality. It is a vigorous tract for the times on the background and present status of segregation in the United States schools. Miss Smith, a southerner and author of several strong works on Negro-white relations, faces issues squarely, with direct answers to questions as "Would you marry a Negro? and "What is wrong with a separate but equal way of life?" She asserts that giving up color segragation would be the best way to restore Asian and African faith in that sincerity of American claims to true democracy.

Crow, by Comer Vann Woodward A short history of segregation in the South, from the withdrawal of federal troops in 1877 to the Supreme Court decision of May, 1954. The author stresses the fact that segregation, which began only after the Civil War, is not a fixed folkway in the South; it can gradually be eliminated. He traces the economic, political, and social factors behind the anti-segregation movement which started about twenty years ago and has gained so much momentum since the end of World War II.

The Web of Victory: Grant at Vicksburg, by Earl Schenck Meisers. The reader who relishes Civil War military history will especially like this detailed and readable account of Vicksburg and the events leading up to that famous Union victory in July, 1863. The author presents the forces and factors which produced Ulysses S. Grant at Vicksburg—both those forces the General did control and those he did not. Then the author describes the battles, which were fought in the days and weeks before the attack on Vicksburg began. Finally, he portrays vividly the 47-day siege of Vicksburg, Mississippi, which brought about the capitulation of the city. The author frequently quotes from contemporary accounts of the battles and from letters and diaries written by persons who were part of the events described.

Keglers Corner

The IM Bowling league, now in the fourth week of its second season as a part of the college sports program, is showing signs of becoming a permanent part of the program. Off to a slow start last year because of limited interest, the league lasted the season and re-emerged with a much healthier complexion under the guidance of Athletic Chairman Kaylor this November.

There have been various changes in the make-up of the league. This season almost seventy keglers are trying their skill on the recently refinished Arcade Alleys. So that eight teams can bowl every Friday, the length of each match has been cut to two games. The three-point match scoring system is used—one point to the winning team in each game and an additional point to the team scoring highest in the match.

After three weeks of action, the top team in the standings is Ginney's Men. However, they have only participated in one match. The best looking team to date is the Flames whi have won eight points and lost only one in three matches. The Keystoners, Jabberwockies (both 5-1) and the Alleykats (4-2) round out the first five teams.

Top individual bowlers thus far this campaign are Arnold Olt, Klare Sunderland, Dick Bachus (all of the Flames), Don Pheasant (Ginney's Men), Bill West (Day Students), Don Brumbaugh (Alleykats), and Dick Hite (Crazy Eights).

Standings as of December 10:

	W	L
Ginney's Men	3	0
Flames	8	1
Keystoners	5	1
Jabberwockys	5	1
Alleykats	4	2
Senior Goof-offs	3	6

State Senate Honors Juniata Team, Coach, College For Victories

On December 6, 1955 the Senate of Pennsylvania adopted a resolution introduced by Senator Charles R. Mallery honoring the undefeated Juniata Indians, their coach Bob Hicks and the College. Here is the statement and resolution as presented by Sen. Mallery.

"The Juniata College football team, undefeated since 1952, and with a record of 23 straight victories, unequalled among Pennsylvania and second only to Oklahoma with 29 in the national ranking, has been signally honored with an invitation to play in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Florida on January second.

The team is coached by Bob Hicks of Lancaster who played with Penn State in the Cotton Bowl in 1947.

The commonwealth takes great pride in the accomplishments of its sons in every field of endeavor and in particular in their gaining national recognition; therefore be it

RESOLVED, that the Senate of Pennsylvania extend its commendatory "well done" to each member of the victorious football team of Juniata College and tender its congratulations to the college and the coach for their contribution to the extraordinary accomplishment of the team; and be it further

RESOLVED, that the secretary of the Senate present certified copies of this resolution to Dr. Calvert N. Ellis, President of Juniata College and to Bob Hicks its football coach."

Courtmen Improve Record To 5-1; Come From Behind Twice To Win

With a pair of victories over the past weekend, the Juniata basketball team saw its pre-holiday record soar to five wins and just one defeat.

Last Saturday the visiting Indians rallied to down Ursinus 80-64 and on Monday the JC courtmen nipped Lock Haven STC 58-55 at Lock Haven. Juniata is now idle until January 4 when it journeys to Westminster to do battle with the powerful Titans.

Ursinus

Although the score does not indicate it the Tribe trailed until there were only nine minutes left to play in the Ursinus game. Juniata then tallied 11 straight points to win going away.

The major factor in keeping the Braves in the contest until then was their amazing 100% accuracy from the free throw line. Jake Handzelek led the Indians' attack with 24 points with Walt Vanderbush close behind with 23.

Lock Haven

On Monday night, without the services of Vanderbush and Mike Armstrong, the charges of Doc Greene were in Lock Haven where once again they had to come from behind to grab a victory.

With only three minutes gone, the Indians trailed 8-0. At the six minute mark the JC quintet was behind 12-1. From here on in the Braves surged back to grab the half-time lead 23-21. The Juniatians then held on to their thin margin in the second relf.

Once again the major factor in the Juniata victory was the accuracy from the charity circle, where the Tribe connected for 18 of 23. Veterans Lee Hallman, Bernie Oriss and Torry Froisland led the JC scoring parade by garnering 18, 12, and 10 respectively. Albright led the home team with 17 tallies.

Handzelek hit his career low in scoring and field goals as he was able to collect only two field goals and five fouls for nine points.

With only a 71-68 loss to Bucknell blotting their record the Indians will open the post-holiday reason with two road games, at Westminster Wednesday, January 4 and at Elizabethtown Saturday, January 7. They will open their 1956 home stand against Geneva Wednesday, January 11 and American University Friday, January 13.

From The Bleachers

Final small college statistics show Juniata a top ranking power team-wise and individually.

In total offense the Indians ranked 1st in Pennsylvania and 14th nationally with 359.5 yards per game. Centre, Ky. was first with 431 with Westminster and Moravian 27th and 28th.

Broken down into rushing and passing offense, Juniata was unranked in rushing with Moravian 14th and Westminster 29th. The Tribe was 18th in passing with 118.9 yards per game. Winless Hamline was first with 210.7 and Ursinus was ranked 30th.

Total defense found Juniata 12th, 5th in the state with 136.3 yards. National Aggies, Geneva, Moravian and Shippensburg STC all ranked ahead. In rushing defense JC was 13th, 1st statewide, and was unranked in passing defense.

Individually, Pat Tarquinio was number eight in the country in total offense with 1115 yards. Stehlin, Brandeis quarterback, was first with 1455, and just ahead of Tarq was Little All-American halfback from Centre Gene Scott who racked up all his 1138 yards on the ground.

Rushing offense showed Scott on top with Slifka of Moravian 38th, Juniata's Bob Sill 40th and Gerencser of Moravian 63rd.

Juniata's most impressive representation came in the passing department. Tarquinio was ranked 49th but this ranking was based on number of passes completed. Foley of Hamline led with 87 for 1034 yards, Tarq had 38 for 789 yards. But percentage wise Tarq ranked sixth with a mark of .559 and was second in TD passes thrown with 14, behind Alexander of Trinity with 17.

Barry Drexler also was ranked lower in pass receiving that total statistics would justify. Drex was 11th according to number of passes caught with 26, Donlin of Hamlin ranking first with 41. However, in yards gained and TD passes Drex stood number one in the country with 623 yards, 10 more than anyone else in the top thirty, and 10 TDs, two more than Cox of California Poly.

Now for this season's last, and most risky, football selections, the Bowl Games:

Undefeated Tribe Trains To Tackle Heavy Vikings In Tenth Tangerine Bowl

The Juniata College Indians take off by train Monday, December 26 for Orlando, Florida to prepare for their Tangerine Bowl clash with the Missouri Valley Vikings Monday night, January 2.

37 players are making the trip by special coach and will begin working out immediately after their arrival Tuesday afternoon.

Missouri Valley comes into the game with an 8-1 record plus a 31-7 victory over Hastings, Neb. in the Mineral Water Bowl. M.V., under the reign of coach Volney C. Ashford, has won 119, lost 28 and tied 7, including nine conference titles. At one time MV owned a 41 game winning streak, beginning in 1941 and ending in 1948 with a 13-7 loss to Evansville, Ind. in the Refrigerator Bowl.

7 Bowl Games

All in all MV has appeared in seven bowl games and recorded a 3-2-2 record. In addition to the two previously mentioned bowls they defeated McMurry, Tex. 20-13 in the Mineral Bowl and West Chester ST 26-7 in the Cigar Bowl in 1947, tied St. Thomas 13-13 in the Cigar Bowl in 1948, lost to McMurry 20-13 in the Oleander Bowl in 1949 and tied La Crosse, Wisconsin, Teachers 12-12 in the 1953 Cigar Bowl.

The Vikings can field a team averaging 202 pounds plus from end to end and 180 in the backfield for a team average of over 190. A possible starting lineup would include end Kenny Gibler 189 lb junior and captain Dick Butterfield 217 lb senior, tackles Cecil Naylor 207 lb senior and Jim Heinzler 199 lb junior, guards Lavon Norvell 214 lb senior and Bill Dennis 188 lb senior, center Don Blankenship 205 lb senior, 200 lb sophomore quarterback Glenn Dolence halfbacks Bobbie Joe Seats 167 lb senior and Bill Perrin 186 lb senior or Dave Ochsenschlager 176 lb senior and fullback Dick Lehman 170 lb junior.

NCAA Charity

The Tangerine Bowl is sponsored by the Florida State Elks Association and is the only charity bowl fully recognized by the NCAA, with benefits accruing to a children's bone hospital near Orlando.

This will be the tenth year of the Tangerine Bowl. Previous results were: 1947 Catawba 31 Maryville 6; 1948 Catawba 7 Marshall 0; 1949 Murry State 21 Sul Ross 21; 1950 St. Vincent's 7 Emory & Henry 6; 1951 Morris Harvey 35 Emory & Henry 14; 1952 Stetson 35 Arkansas State 20; 1953 East Texas State 33 Tennessee Tech 0; 1954 East Texas State 7 Arkansas State 7; 1955 Omaha 7 Eastern Kentucky State 6; 1956 Juniata? Missouri Valley?

Four Teams Still Unbeaten In I-M

Intramural basketball entered its second week with only four teams still in the unbeaten column. The FR & M, Sunbrookers, Jabberwockys and the defending champion Wolverines now sport unblemished records.

Other strong contenders for top honors are the Crusaders with a 3-1 slate and the 19th Holers and the Galloping Ghosts, each of which sport a 2-1 record.

In Thursday's games the Senior Goof-offs defeated the winless Court Jesters 39-20 and the Ubangis were edged in a close game with FR&M 32-30. The 8:30 action resulted in a Galloping Ghost victory over the Whips 45-33 and a 55-45 win for the Wolverines over the Mumblers.

The Kourt Kats rolled the SOI in Saturday's match by a 44-34 score, the Sunbrookers swamped the Senior Goof-offs 50-16 and the Jabberwockys battered the Rack Hounds into submission by a 60-24 count. McKees Creek took its first win beating the JC Juniors 51-28.

On Tuesday the Galloping Ghosts nipped the 19th Holers 37-26, handing them their first defeat of the season. The Crusaders went on to their third consecutive victory by blasting the Pretzels 80-34 despite the 21 points by Jim Aike. Fran Cristina was high man for the Crusaders with 20 points.

FR&M outscored the Court Jesters 60-37 and the Senior Goof-offs suffered a 62-27 defeat at the hands of the Ubangis.

Krazy Kids, Buffalos, Squaws Rack Up Wins As Lowe Fires In 24

The second round of play in the girls' basketball league began on December 8 as the Buffalo's, Krazy Kids and Squaws all racked up a game for the win column. The Buffalo's downed the Chow-Hounds 27-8, the Krazy Kids defeated the Geiger Girls 44-14, and the Squaws took their game at the expense of the Brumbaugh Oneiders 45-14.

Jeanette Lowe, Krazy Kid forward, bounced in the high number of points for the night with 24. Norma Hottle also helped the Krazy Kids with 13 points. Jill Derestine with 19 and Patience Kinlock with 18 accounted for the majority of the Squaw scoring. DeShang and Cohick helped the Buffalo's cause with 12 and 10 points respectively. High for the losing teams were Sally Grove 9, for the Brumbaugh Oneiders; Carolyn Klein 7, for the Geiger Girls; and Betsy Swope 4, for the Chow-Hounds.

On Monday night, December 12, the Punchy Pack chalked up a 15-3 win over the Chow-Hounds in the only game played. Joan Greenwood got the lone goal for the Chow-Hounds. Joanne Haines and Annabelle Pomeroy got 4 each for the winners. The Red Devils and Comrades gained forfiet wins from the Hobo's and Rowdies respectively.

Games next week are as follows:

Meaning of Wings

Since Saturday evening, I've asked a number of my friends what message they thought the author of Little Wings was trying to convey. Some have responded with blank facial expressions. Others found meaning in the skit, and I became involved with them in discussions concerning such themes as the meaning and effectiveness of prayer, the nature of mental illness, the faithfulness of God, the responsibility of people within the community and even child psychology! I fell that the thought-provoking questions, the information, and the deepened friendships resulting from the discussions of the skit have made me a better person.

And that, I believe, must be the real value of drama—to make better persons out of the participants and their audiences.

P.S. I'm still looking for an answer to the question, "Whence did it come?" And I'd be quite happy to give a milkshake for the most satisfacory answer!

The group visiting Huntingdon will contain twenty-one of the fewer than one hundred boys that are members of the institution. This is less than ten percent of the applicants the school receives. Before admission to one of the choirs, students receive two years of intensive training.

It appears certain, that with such careful preparation, the appearance of the Vienna Choir Boys here in Huntingdon will be one of the high points of the Civic Concert Associations' program to present fine music to the people of this area.

Juniata Gets $2,500 Of Institutional Grant

Juniata College will receive $2,5000 from the Pennsylvania Foundation for Independent Colleges as a result of a contribution to it from The General Foods Fund, Inc.

Thirty-seven other colleges in the state will also receive a like amount. General Foods' aid-to-education program for 1955 includes grants to various institutions in the nation totaling $278,000.

Spring Convocation Set

On Monday, January 30, at 10 a.m. the annual mid-year convocation will be held in Oller Hall in keeping with the usual custom.

Classes for the day will follow the regular schedule and attendance at the convocation will be required of all students, according to Dean Mays.

J-Club WAA To Open 1956 With A "Bang"

The J Club and WAA are starting the New Year out with a bang on Saturday, January 7, by sponsoring their annual comedy — the game in which members from the opposing clubs meet on the basketball court.

Sounds unfair? Well, don't worry 'cause the boys have to wear boxing gloves, a definite handicap which turns the game into a close contest.

After this gala event, refreshments and informal dancing will be on the agenda in the Women's gym.

Ford Foundation

Dr. Mays is not yet aware of the method used by the Foundation in determining the amount to go to each institution. The decision was made last Saturday at a meeting of the board of trustees of the foundation; Dr. Mays was informed of the grant by telegram Monday.

Trustees Announcement

Ford Foundation trustees made this official announcement:

"To supplement and encourage the efforts of the American people in meeting problems affecting the whole nation, the tructees of the Ford Foundation have approved special appropriations of $500 million for privately supported institutions in communities all over the land."

The Foundation owns 88 percent of Ford's stock; its capital amounts to $2,500,000,000 making it the nation's largest foundation.

Originally the foundation had planned to give a somewhat smaller amount to colleges for the purpose of increasing faculty salaries; however, only a few more than 100 of the 615 eligable colleges would receive this aid, and they would have to apply for it and promise to match the amount received at a ratio to be determined by the particular college and the Foundation.

Juniata has applied for such a grant.

Orlando - "The City Beautiful"

The Orlando, Florida Chamber of Commerce has sent to Juniata literature on their city which should be of interest to those planning to attend the Tangerine Bowl Game there January 2.

In addition to the 47 fresh water lakes located entirely or partly within the city limits of Orlando, the Chamber of Commerce recommends the following points of interest to sight-seers:

TINKER FIELD—Located on West Church Street, it is the training camp of the American League Washington Senators.

ROLLINS COLLEGE— Located on the banks of Lake Virginia at Winter Park.

MEAD BOTANICAL GARDENS—Containing the famous orchid and bulb collection of the late botanist, Dr. Mead, it is located between Orlando and Winter Park and is open 9-6 daily.

SANLANDO SPRINGS AND TROPICAL GARDENS—crystal clear springs surrounded by ancient oakes and stately palms. Located between Orlando and Sanford and open daily 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

BEN WHITE RACEWAY—World's largest winter headquarters for trotters and pacers with daily workouts in the mornings.

In addition, all the major publicized spots are within two hours drive from Orlando, including Silver Springs, Cypress Gardens, Bok Tower, Marineland, Ponce de Leon Springs, Sanlando Springs, Rainbow Springs, and Daytona Beach.

Orlando's population is approximately 52,000, with 50,000 visitors normally coming there during winter months. The average winter temperature is 64 degrees.

Dictionaries Don't List These New Definitions

ACP—Here are some definitions of collegiate terms not to be found in any dictionary:

Blue Book— A Green book containing 16 pages of blank paper in which answers are written before and during examinations.

Cramming— The desperate hours.

Cut—Being where your class isn't when it is.

Finals—Hell week at the wrong end of the semester.

Nonchalant Vt. Coed Lets Belongings Burn

(ACP)—At the University of Vermont, coeds were routed out of beds early on morning during a two alarm fire at one of the dormitories. Damage was slight and firemen had difficulty convincing some girls that there was an actual fire. Many thought it was only a drill. One young miss who made no effort to save her belongings seemed perfectly content clad only in pajamas. But she had thoughtfully pinned her fraternity and sorority pins on the pajama top.

In The Clubs

Pyrenees

Did you ever see a pintata broken?

The members of the Pyrenees Club will be able to answer this question in the positive after their Christmas party tonight.

The party starts at 7:15 in the Women's Day Student Room, with entertainment consisting of carols in Spanish and French, the Christmas story from the scripture in these languages, and playing games of the two countries. Refreshments will be served.

Final Examinations Ordeal Draws Nigh; Oppressed Students Hibernate To Cram

Regulations Require Emily Post Manners In Examination Room

The existing procedure for student conduct during final examinations is as follows:

1. The students are expected to remain in the examination room until they are finished with the examination and have submitted their blue books to the proctor.

2. No student may leave the examination room unless he is ill and explains to the proctor in charge. A student who is forced to leave because of illness will submit his examination book to the proctor who will make a notation of illness.

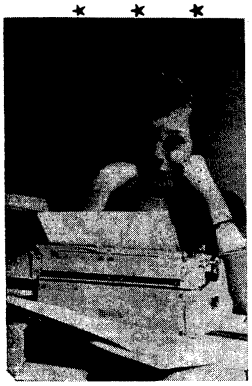
3. Students taking the same examination should be distributed throughout the examination room. They should not sit in neighboring seats.

4. Chairs in the examination room should be kept in proper alignment and position. There should be at least one chair space between desks.

5. Notebooks, textbooks, and other materials obviously not necessary to writing an examination must not be taken into the examination room.

6. Only one examination booklet is to be given each student at the beginning of the examination. Additional booklets may be acquired later.

These regulations are set forth "in justice to those who desire honestly to do their best—" The administration further emphasizes the importance of all students "avoiding all acts that might raise suspicion of dishonest intention."



Freshman

Mary Ann Hixenbaugh obviously is thinking about next week's finals, and it appears as though she is doing something about keeping up the curve. By now most students, anticipating the worst, have finally got down to mastering—or is it cramming—all sorts of pertinent information in preparation for the blast come Monday.

Student Sets Forth Suggestions To Make Finals More Bearable

Now is the time for all good procrastinators to start cramming furiously—final examinations period, that invention of the devil, looms large in the immediate future of college students everywhere. For ten glorious days professors who are henpecked at home, professors who feel they are underpaid (and what professor doesn't?) and professors who just hate the world in general, have their chance to get even. Here are a few hints for this "hell week at the wrong end of the semester," as it has been called, which might prove helpful, especially to those of you who will undergo this excruciating experience for the first time.

In Preparation:

1. You will want to stock up with a couple dozen or so No-Doz tablets, a few bottles of murine, a coffee maker and an adequate supply of coffee, several cartons of cigarettes (for men only!), and four or five extra soft pillows.

2. As you cram for each final be sure to have at your fingertips copies of that course's examinations from the previous ten years, any class notes you can scrounge from those who have already taken the course, as yours undoubtedly will not be up to date, and the students' bible, the College Outline Series.

3. Purchase your crib sheets at the bookstore—the bookstore is open from 1-4 a.m. and during meals.

4. Be sure to plan your study

Social Committee Announces Party

Are you interested in world affairs and the problems being considered in the United Nations today?

We can't promise any solutions to the problems, but we can promise an enjoyable Saturday night if you come to the United Nations party. Mrs. Blaisdell will conduct dances from many lands at 8:30 in the Women's gym.

Included will be round and square dancing, and even some American fox trots and jitterbugs. So, take that break before finals by coming to the United Nations Party.

The Social Committee

NEXT EDITION

The next edition of the Juniatian will appear February 3 since the paper is not published during final examinations.

House Committee To Refresh Examinees

The women's house committee will once again sponsor afternoon teas during final examination period, according to Doreen Fyock, women's house chairman.

Joan Schwartz has been named chairman of these teas, which will be held every afternoon from 3:30 to 5:00 in the social rooms from Monday to Friday, January 16-20.

Faculty and administration, as well as students, are invited to attend these afternoon affairs.

Les Querry is Nominee For Air Force Academy

Les Querry, Juniata junior from Hagerstown with a life-long interest in flying, has become a nominee for the new Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Querry was nominated for the academy's next class by Maryland Representative Dewitt S. Hyde. If he passes the final physical and written examinations, he will enter the academy next July to begin the 4-year course which will lead to a lieutenancy in the U.S. Air Force.

He first contacted Congressman Hyde last June and told him of his wishes to enter the academy. He took and passed a preliminary physical exam at Bolling Air Force Base and a preliminary written exam.

Les has obtained consistently good grades in high school and college. He is president of both the Art club and the Camera Club at Juniata in addition to acting as technical director of WJC.

While in high school, Les was an active member of the local Civil Air Patrol and took a CAP exchange trip to Europe one summer. The CAP awarded him his Observer's rating and a Certificate of Proficiency.

Masque To Present The Glass Menagerie

The Masque has announced the selection of Tennessee Williams' The Glass Menagerie to be presented March 23 and 24.

Gordon Felton will direct the production. Tryouts for the four roles will be held the week of February 5.

Havens, Wilson College President, To Speak at Spring Convocation

Dr. Paul Swain Havens
• Wilson College President •

by Del McQuaide

Convocation exercises marking the opening of the spring term will be held Monday morning, January 30, at 10 a.m. with the speaker for the occasion being President Paul Swain Havens of Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa.

Dr. Havens has been president of Wilson College since 1936. He received his A. B. from Princeton in 1925 and attended Oxford, Washington and Jefferson and Dickinson to receive his doctorate.

Prior to his becoming president of Wilson College he was an instructor of English at Princeton and George Washington University, assistant professor of English at Scripps College, and a member of the graduate faculty of Claremont College.

Among the many offices he has held are the editorship of the American Oxonian from 1949 to 1955 and the presidency of the Presbyterian College Union in 1944. Dr. Havens is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, board of directors of the Association of American Rhodes Scholars and the commission on liberal education of the Association of American Colleges. He has also had the distinction of being decorated by King Christian X of Denmark.

The usual weekday schedule of classes will be in effect for the morning, with the convocation to begin at the usual chapel hour. There will be no candidates for graduation, since those who will have completed their work by the end of the first semester have elected to return in June to receive their degrees.

Under the circumstances the usual attendance regulations will prevail at the chapel service.

Grade Reports Out By Feb. 5

Final course grades will be available to the students before Wednesday, February 8.

In order to obtain these grades unofficially each student must attach to the first few pages of his examination book a stamped self-addressed postal card containing the name of the course for which he desires the mark. Do not use envelopes. When the exam has been graded the final mark will be placed on the card along with the initial of the instructor. Members of the faculty are not compelled to grant this favor to their students.

The official end-of-term report will be sent to the student and his parents from the Registrar's Office approximately ten days after the end of the term. Instructors will have the grades in about January 30 and they should officially be out no later than February 8.

This year Juniata is using a new system of adding up the quality points. All upperclass students will have a new entry made on their record changing their previous average for the past years to meet the requirements of the present system. A brief guide explaining the new quality point average will be given each student with his grade sheet.

Mobile Coming For Blood Gifts

Blood donors are needed for the January 25 visit of the American Red Cross Bloodmobile under the sponsorship of the American Legion Post No. 24.

Applications for student donors are available in the Admissions Office (ask Mrs. Weaver). Others who wish to donate may also register in the Admissions Office.

Register by January 20.

What Is Christianity? Is Central Theme of JCA Program Series

by Dave Amidon

What is Chrisianity?

One of college's unique opportunities is at hand. It demands the attention of any alert JC student. Since alert JC folk are busy people, they deserve some explanation.

Any of us old enough to belong here at JC has somehow had to face Christianity. He may have embraced it, rejected it, or just ignored it, but he has considered it. And, regardless of his own attitude, he has probably sensed its relative importance to other people. Now, at the college level of experience, for all of us, the JCA asks "What Is Chrisianity?"

The Christian tradition is a diverse one, so that no single answer to this question could be fairly representative. Four qualified speakers should provide us with a much more useful basis for broadly understanding contemporary Chrisianity.

Four Views

On Tuesday, the Rev. Father Cavanaugh came from Penn State to open the question; the Roman Catholic answer was presented to a large roomful of interested students. Other Christian viewpoints forthcoming are those of Fundamentalism, Unitarianism, and the New Orthodoxy, It is definitely known that the latter two will be set forth by Dean Amos Horlacher of Dickinson and our own Acting President Mays respectively.

At this point, the JCA has arranged to try our new and vital conceptions in elemental conflict. A pointed dissent from the Christian tradition should highlight its problems and open our minds. The dissenter will be the learned Doctor Benjamin Miller of the Society for Ethical Culture, until two years ago an active Episcopalian minister.

Thus the conclusion of this program of self-examination, Spiritual Life Week (Feb. 27—March 4),

Around the World with the President

SPECIAL TO THE JUNIATIAN

by President Calvert N. Ellis, D. D.

Ed. Note: This is the first of a series of reports from Dr. Ellis on his trip around the globe.

The first three weeks of our mission are over and we are here in India about to begin our specific assignment. The airplane had made it possible for Mrs. Ellis and me to cover a great part of the world in a very short time. We are grateful that we have experienced no bad weather and no delays. We attended the meeting of the Middle States Association of Colleges held at Atlantic City during the Thanksgiving holiday and left from Idlewild International Airport, New York City on Saturday evening, November 26.

Our plane flew non-stop to London where we spent two days. It seemed to us that economic conditions in England have improved since we were there in 1952. A large number of buildings have been restored in London and new housing developments opened. The people seem happier and better dressed. There is still a vast reservoir of good will for the United States in spite of diplomatic misunderstandings and a flood of American tourists.

At Kassel we conferred with Dr. M. R. Zigler and the leaders of the Brethren Service work in Europe. The people of West Germany are very friendly to the United States in spite of an occupying army and the reluctance of many to join the new army being recruited in West Germany.

We were glad to meet Mary Lou Zimmerman, ex '57, who is an exchange student living in a German home. Refugees continue to come across the border from East Germany and other countries. In Germany Mr. and Mrs. Newton Long of Baltimore, Maryland joined us. Mr. Long has been a trustee of Juniata College since 1923. With the Longs we flew to Rome and had four enjoyable days in the Holy City, renewing old acquaintances and visiting the antiquities. Italy, too, seems to be enjoying prosperity and the Communist party has been checked.

As I See It...

by George Fattman

Now that football season is over and that the energetic art (or is it a science) of cheerleading has entered the slack season—you'll know what I mean if you listen to the cheering section at basketball games—it is a good time to look at Juniata's cheers from a critical standpoint in order to determine just how collegiate or effective they are.

There is an opinion that our cheers are poor—this is NOT to be blamed on the cheerleaders. We all agree, especially after seeing what some other colleges we play have to offer, that we have a pretty swell team of cheerleaders. Their job is primarily to lead the student body in the traditional cheers. At times such a job is somewhat trying.

It seems to me that the trouble lies in the cheers, and the primary fault of most of the cheers is that they are too long with a close second being that they are too "high schoolish". Jingles are cute in high school, but those such as the one starting, "We've got the coach—" are too long—its next to impossible to keep the cheering section together.

Perhaps Pitt's most effective cheer consists of one word, "Go!" Granted, Juniata's cheering section will never sound like Pitt's, but it would be beneficial to know what the big colleges and universities use when it comes time to select JC's cheers for next season.

The best cheer of last season (after everyone learned how to do it) seemed to be the one for personal players, "Yea———a, team! Rah!"

Cribbing At Finals

Juniata is fortunate to have so many honest students and so little dishonesty during examinations. However, it does go on. Professors who are too lazy to prepare new tests, but instead resort to those given in past years with hopes that no one took tests from the examination room only encourage dishonesty.

Let's face it— it's nearly impossible to keep copies of examinations from getting out. It has happened, we all are aware. I know of several students here whose final grade dropped two letters because they refused to read copies of tests from previous years that weren't suppose to get out; the professor graded on the curve. That's quite a price to pay.

intracollegiate chatter

by Joan McClure

With Florida fun, Christmas presents, and New Year's Eve parties come and gone, students have settled down for their semi-annual bout with final examinations.

Even finals have their humorous aspects, though, such as the students in the past who have stayed up all night to study, only to sleep through their exams, or those who get their schedules confused and appear in the afternoon for exams that were given in the morning. This is humorous?

Some of the questions, too after the initial shock has worn off, can provoke a smile or two. Examples from actual Juniata exams: Outline the history of mankind from earliest to modern times; Briefly outline the course; Discuss the nature of Christianity. Seven or eight hours is sufficient time to write any final.

Too Academic-Minded?

And this year a coed had to postpone her wedding in order to take two exams. It seems there's just too much academic emphasis in college.

Did you notice the little boy at the JCA Christmas Party who was determined to crawl over the edge of the mezzanine to the main floor? There was also the brave little girl who said very audibly that she thought one of JC's football "greats", who happened to be passing by, was a "fat slob".

Juniata was certainly well represented at Orlando on January 2— about 500 students, faculty, trustees, parents, alumni, and other friends of the college milled around the lobby of the San Juan. In fact, perhaps the most charitable person at the game was a Juniata coed—she purchased three $4.75 tickets, having misplaced the first two.

Another JC student felt he had a legitimate gripe because his $4.75 seat on the end of the row was directly across the aisle from a $3.00 seat.

Prof. Purchases Peanuts

Although this incident is a little stale, as long as we're on the subject of football, did you hear about the Juniata professor who purchased a bag of peanuts (h plebeian!) at a football game, with the comment, "I suspect I shall need some sustenance for this festive occasion"?

Another old (very old) item: A fellow commenting on a certain girl during Twirp Week said, "Why she even twirped someone for listening hour!"

And a more recent happening: fire cracker and fire alarms have kept the Cloister jumping. One fellow, seeing the steam (which incidentally had short circuited the fire alarm, and consequently summoned the engines in the middle of the night) and mistaking it for smoke had all his clothes ready to move out of the room. To be realistic, maybe this practice should be incorporated into girls' fire drills.

That's it for this semester. Happy cramming and good luck to all!

Mademoiselle Stages Coed Fiction Contest

Now under way is Mademoiselle magazine's college fiction contest for 1956, open to any woman undergraduate under 26 years old who is regularly enrolled in a degree-granting college.

The two winners will receive $500 each for the serial rights to their stories and publication in Mademoiselle. Runners-up will receive honorable mention in the magazine, which reserves the right to buy their work at regular rates.

Stories should run from approximately 2,500 to 5,000 words and each contestant may submit as many entries as she likes. Stories that have appeared in undergraduate publications are acceptable if they have not been published elsewhere.

Typewritten

Entries must be typewritten, double-spaced, one one side of the page only. All work must be clearly marked with contestant's name, age, home address, school address and school year. A manuscript-size Manila envelope, self-addressed and stamped, should be enclosed with all entries. Mademoiselle assumes no responsibility for manuscripts and will not return any stories received unless the are accompanied by a return envelope. Stories must be original and fictitious.

Judges of the contest will be Mademoiselle editors, whose decisions will be final. Entries should be submitted to College Fiction Contest, Mademoiselle, 575 Madison Avenue, New York 22, New York, and must be postmarked no later than midnight March 15, 1956.

Accent On Reading

Nationalism: Myth and Reality, by Boyd Shafer. If men are not brothers today, according to the author, it is not because of inherent differences. It is because a sentiment of unity and exclusiveness keeps them apart. And this sentiment the author calls nationalism. Although nationalism, as we now understand it, became popular in Western Europe, only toward the end of the 18th century, it has a powerful appeal at the present time. In spite of this situation, the author insists that nationalism cannot be permanent. There is, he agrees, no biological, historical or psychological basis for it; and this book is a discussion of the myths and realities surrounding the concepts of nationalism.

UN: The First Ten Years, by Clark Mall Eichelberger. A short evaluation of the UN, in its first ten years stresses the organization's value as a symbol of moral unity. Touched on briefly are its developments as a guide in collective security, peaceful adjustment and disarmament, and concrete achievements in encouraging technical assistance, self government, and the establishment of human rights. He presents his recommendation for strengthening the world organization, chief of which is the ideal that each nation, led by the United States, should make the UN a basis for carrying out its foreign policy.

The Juniatian

Entered as second class mail at the Huntingdon, Pa., post office, this is an independent undergraduate newspaper published weekly throughout the College year except during vacation and examination periods by the Students of Juniata College.

The Young Man Who Came Around

Whom will the Republicans nominate for President?

At the present moment this seems to be the $64,000 question of American politics. Will Eisenhower try for a second term? If not, who will it be?

Many astute political analysts have studied this question. In recent weeks they have shown a tendency to agree that Vice-President Richard M. Nixon is the most likely candidate if the President doesn't run.

Nixon has received much more publicity and attention since the President's heart attack. The manner in which he has conducted himself during the past couple months has won him acclaim even from his enemies. Recent public opinion polls have shown him to be by far the choice of GOP voters after Ike. A poll taken by George Gallop since the heart attack shows Nixon running neck and neck with Stevenson in a trial run. He is the overwhelming choice of state chairmen, national committeemen and other GOP professionals.

Active

Richard Nixon has certainly been our most active vice-president. He has done much to take some of the load off Eisenhower's shoulders. He has won many friends for the U.S. on his good will tours. There is a very strong case for the statement that Nixon is the BEST vice-president we ever had. His sincerity, integrity and ability have impressed all who have come in contact with him.

Whittier, California

Richard Nixon was born on January 9, 1913 in Whittier, California, into a thrifty, hard-working middle class family. He graduated from Whittier College where he was on th football squad, but not in the game too often. After college he attended the law school of Duke University where he got his LLB degree. During the war he was a naval officer in the South Pacific.

In 1946, a group of citizens in the Whittier area disgusted with their Congressman, placed an ad in a local newspaper asking qualified young men to come around for an interview. Nixon came around and was selected to oppose the incumbent. He and his wife moved into a trailer in order to save money for the campaign. It was a tough fight but Nixon won.

As Congressman

During the Republican-controlled Eighteenth Congress, Nixon made one of the all-time great records for a freshman in the US House of Representatives. He was chairman of the sub-committee that heard Whittacker Chambers reveal Alger Hiss as a Communist agent. Nixon, more than any other man, pressed the charges that led to Hiss' conviction for perjury.

In 1950 he was elected to the Senate from California and then in 1952, he was picked as Eisenhower's running mate.

The case for Nixon was best stated by one GOP state chairman who parsaid, "Nixon has the very attributes Mr. Eisenhower has said the party needs: intelligence, youth and vigor."

Juniata and M. Valley Tie 6-6 In Tangerine Bowl

Cagers Face American U. Here Tonight In Attempt To Break Losing Streak

Doc Greene's cagers will face American University tonight in Memorial Gym and attempt to break a three game losing streak which has brought their season record to 5-4.

An 86-47 trouncing by Geneva Wednesday night followed on the heels of consecutive defeats at Westminister and Elizabethtown to spoil the Tribe's pre-vacation 5-1 record.

The visitors from Washington will come in with a team averaging just under 6' 3", led by 6' 3" sophomore center Frank Weiss whose 28 points were instrumental in last year's 65-62 American U. victory.

Geneva

Wednesday night Bill Blair and company left the town in shambles in a loosely played contest. Four Covenanters hit double figures led by Blair's 29 and Stan Yukica's 19.

Neither team could hit for the first two minutes and Juniata kept within striking distance until midway through the first half trailing only 16-12. Then famine struck and the roof fell in as the Indians failed to score for nearly seven minutes while Geneva rolled up 12 points, eight by Blair, and increased their lead to 35-18 at halftime.

Jake Handzelek was held to two foul shots in the half, as none of the Indians scored more than four points, getting only six field goals as a team.

Covies Pull Away

The pace picked up in the second half as both defenses relaxed enough to let the outside shooters get set. But Juniata could not put two field goals back to back until Geneva had widened the gap to 39 points 75-36 with about six minutes to go.

Handzelek was high for the Tribe with 13 followed by Barney McLaughlin with 11. In one of their poorest shooting nights the Greenemen could collect only 16 field goals.

Ken Woodeshick with 12 and John Swogger with 13 also hit double figures for the Covies.

Westminister 54-76

The first game of 1956 last Wednesday night saw a powerful Westminister team win easily 76-54. Foul shooting kept the Tribe respectably close hitting 22 for 35 to offset the home team's 32-16 superiority in field goals.

Handzelek again led the scoring with 25 while Jim Riley had 17 to top the Titans.

Elizabethtown 70-84

Last Saturday night in Elizabethtown's cheesebox the home town Blue Jays used only five players to top the Tribe 84-70. Foul shooting and 16 points by Walt Vanderbush kept JC in contention in the first half trailing by 38-37.

Handzelek led both teams with 29 points, scoring a perfect 11 for 11 from the foul line. Vanderbush finished with 20. All five E-towners hit double figures topped by center Jim Sarbaugh's 22 and Dick Chase's 20.

Lycos Here Jan. 21

One home game will be played during finals when Lycoming comes in next Saturday night. Veterans Al Zaremba and Joe Hawkins and sophomores Al Wilson and Ron Kitt pace the Warriors this year. Last year Juniata took both games from the Lycos 82-67 and 63-62.

Jabberwockies, Sunbrookers Pace Boys I-M

With only the Jabberwockies and the Sunbrookers as the undefeated teams, the Juniata intramural basketball program is now in full swing. Already things are shaping up as a real dog fight for the championship.

As of last Tuesday's games there are at least four teams besides the undefeated squads that are in good position to grab on to the top spot. Directly on the heels of the Jabberwockies and the Sunbrookers, who have each won five straight, are the Galloping Ghosts, who have lost just one out of six games. Close behind the Galloping Ghosts are the Kourt Kids (3-1), Crusaders (4-2), and the Wolverines (4-2). With the football players now able to play IM basketball, many of the teams whose earlier record has not been too good should be able to move up and make things rough for the teams now in the high positions.

Since December 15, the Jabberwockies have defeated the JC Juniors, 58-17; the Wolverines, 37-24; and the Crusaders 42-39. The Sunbrookers have kept pace by downing S. O. I., 78-48, and F. R. & M., 89-32. The Galloping Ghosts won three straight over the same period to keep in contention.

Tuesday night's game found the Whips hitting the season's high for team scoring as they walloped the Senior Goof-offs, 93-28. The other games had the Mumblers trouncing F. R. & M., 76-27; the Dukes winning their first game over the JC Juniors, 67-24; and S. O. I. downing the Rackhounds, 48-42.

The standings after Tuesday's games look like this.

Jabberwockies	5	0
Sunbrookers	5	0
Galloping Ghosts	5	1
Kourt Kids	3	1
Crusaders	4	2
Wolverines	4	2

Tribe Narrowly Misses Victory; Drex MVP, Named Little All-American

Drexler, Staley, Tarq Honored

Captain Barry Drexler capped an outstanding football career with double honors, as he received the Most Valuable Player award in the Tangerine Bowl game and was named to a first-team end position on the Williamson Rating Little All-American Team.

The sports writers covering the bowl game picked Drex for his brilliant all-around performance, catching nine of Pat Tarquinio's passes for 164 yards and standing out on defense. Tarq was the only other player of either team to receive a vote.

This week Drex was paired with pro-pick Dick Donlin of Hamline as end in the Williamson 1955 Little All-American Poll. Tarquinio and center John Staley received honorable mention in this, one of the country's most scientific sports rating organizations.

Champ Storch of Moravian received a second team spot while Cecil Naylor of Mo. Valley as a third team tackle. Juniata opponents given honorable mention were Joe Gerencser of Moravian. Jerry Nunn and Bob Famous of Ursinus, Dick Purnell of Susquehanna, Chuck Ortmann of Haverford and Don Blankenship of Mo. Valley.

Williamson's final football rating table listed these JC opponents and Pennsylvania teams as follows, out of a possible 100 score: Penn 85.3, Bucknell 84.6, Missouri Valley 84.6, Drexel 82.9, Bloomsburg STC 81.3, Westminister 81.1, West Chester 80.5, Carnegie Tech 80.1, Juniata 80.0, Moravian 79.5, Temple 78.4, and PMC 78.4.

Tarquinio To Drexler Combination Offset Favored MV Depth Power

Juniata College's gridiron Indians met their sternest test nobly by battling to a rib-rocking 6-6 tie with the Missouri Valley Vikings before 10,000 fans in the Tangerine Bowl January 2. Outweighed 12 pounds per man and seven point underdogs the Tribe fulfilled the 3-D formula that has described their play for three years.

Two great scoring opportunities for the Tribe in the last quarter were halted by magnificent goal line stands by the Vikings, after an exchange of TD passes in the first quarter accounted for all the scoring. Pat Tarquinio and Barry Drexler put on a sensational exhibition of passing attack to offset the bruising depth of the Mo. Valley team.

Tarq hit for 15 of 26 passes for 216 yards, while Drex's inspiring play on offense and defense won him the game's most valuable player award. Only 15 Indians saw action in an iron man exhibition that won them still more cheers.

Missouri Valley had been favored by seven points in what turned out to be the third tie in the ten year history of the bowl.

Vikings Score Quickly

From the kickoff the Vikings moved quickly downfield by way of running plays and a 39 yard pass, lost the ball, got it back immediatey at the JC 14 on a fumble by Bob Sill and scored two plays later on an 11 yard pass from Bobbiejoe Scates to Ken Gibler. Norvell's extra point try was barely short after a five yard penalty for delay of the game had set them back.

Juniata struck right back, marching 67 yards in 11plays including four Tarq to Drex passes, with a 30 yard play from Tarq to Drex the clincher. Birmingham's placement was off to the left.

Mo. Valley continued to threaten intermittently with their passing but relied mainly on its crunching ground game. Despite the shuttling use of 14 linemen and 13 backs potential MV offensive drives were continually halted by a determined Juniata defense.

Twice in the half the Indians moved over mid-field but bogged down. With time running out the Vikings began a relentless drive toward the Tribe's goal line but ran out as the Indians pass defense stiffened and stopped them at the ten.

Defensive Battle

After the intermission the game settled into a tense grinding defensive battle with Juniata controlling he ball until late in the third quarter. Then, moving inside the MV twenty Tarq passed to Birmingham for a first down on the Viking 19 only to lose the ball on an attempted lateral.

Valley's balanced line single wing attack got under way in the fourth quarter after recovering a partially blocked punt on the Indian 45.

A flat pass from Portell to Lehman for 29 yards to the Juniata 14 put the Vikings in a commanding position to break the deadlock but an inspired Indian line shoved them back 15 yards by the time four downs had passed.

Two plays later Tarq fired a pass toward mid-field which Drex took at his 40 behind the Viking half back, and raced down the sideline until knocked down and out from behind by Portell at the Mo. Valley four, the play covering 69 yards.

Sill pushed up the middle for three in two plays, but Tarq was thrown for a four yard loss on a wide sweep play and Sill was stopped on the two after taking a short pass.

Second Try

Moments later a short Viking punt went out of bounds on Missouri's 27. Two successive penalies gave JC another first down on the 17. Another Tarq to Drex toss was good for one more first down on the six.

Sill hit for two, then a quick pass into the end zone fell incomplete. Sill again battled for three to the one but was stopped cold on the last try by the monstrous MV line anchored by 253 pound Skip Molnteer.

MV ran out the less than three minutes left in the game moving out close to midfield as the game ended.

Statistics showed the teams even in first downs with 16 apiece. In total yardage JC outgained MV 311 to 271. MV had the edge in rushing 152 to 95 but was offset by Juniata's 216 to 119 superiority in passing. A host of Viking passers hit 7 for 13 to compare against Tarq's 15 for 26.

Juniata's ground offense was led by Sill with 44 yards in 19 carries, Don Pheasant with 29 in 6 for the best average, Tarquinio with 20 in 16 and Glenn Hassinger's 2.

Touring Choir To Begin Swing Through Eastern Penna. Jan. 27

Members Ready

The plans for the annual trip of the touring choir have been announced by E. J. Stutzman, who is in charge of the choir publicity.

The trip is to begin on the morning of January 27 at 8:30 when the members of the choir will board a bus here on campus after completion of finals and head east for a ten day engagement. This year the choir will be accompanied by organist Elaine Aitken rather than the ensemble as has been the custom in recent years. Professor Donald Johnson, as in the past, will direct the 33 singers.

The first engagement will be sung the afternoon of the first day in Susquehanna Township High School and the next that evening in the Kennett Square Presbyterian Church. Approximately the same plan will be followed for the remainder of the trip—singing a partially non-secular concert in the afternoon and changing the program slightly to make it suitable for church presentation in the evenings. Highlights of the trip will include appearances on WCAU Radio in Philadelphia on the afternoon of the 28th, WGAL Television in Lancaster on the afternoon of February 4th and in Atlantic City, Burlington and Central Bucks High Schools.

Concert On Sun.

A practice concert of the touring choir has been scheduled for Oller Hall on Sunday at 2:30 in which the choir will present the selections which will be used on this year's trip to begin January 27.

Highlights from the program wil include a series of selections from the all-college musical Brigadoon, a pair of selections by both the men and women alone of the 33 voice choir and a motet, or short cantata, by H. Alexander Matthews entitled Lord, I Have Loved the Habitation of Thy House.

The entire college community is invited to hear the group in its only appearance this semester.

Rosalie Langer Lists Future Social Events

With an eye to the future, Rosalie Langer, social committee chairman, has announced the events to come in February.

On February 4, the Vet's Club will be in charge. The big event of the month will be the Valentine's Dance sponsored by the social committee. It is the policy of the committee to sponsor one event each month.

The Junior Class is planning their event for February 18 and the freshmen are in charge on February 25.

time wisely, as the theatres always show the best movies of the year during these two weeks and you will surely want to attend.

5. Above all, don't panic!

Inside the Examination Room: (As a special service, WJC will pipe in "Music to shoot the bull by," designed especially to soothe coffee nerves.)

6. For open book finals, you are permitted to take along anything you can carry on your back, including a grad student.

7. Students taking the same examination should sit together, thus facilitating discussion on the more difficult questions.

8. Only severe elephantiasis and galloping consumption will be considered adequate reason to leave the examination room. The afflicted should first present his bluebook to the proctor, however.

9. At the end of the bluebook be certain to compliment the professor at great length—not only on the course, but on his stylish dress, his keen wit, good humor, fine personality, etc., as well. This is the grade clincher. (also sure to make you popular with your fellow students who may hear about it.)

10. As you leave the examination room, turn in the copy of the test, as the professor will no doubt want to use it for the course next year.

These suggestions are set forth "for those who desire to make good grades and are willing to risk expulsion."

Class Officers Must Be Petitioned Candidates

The Senate has modified the existing procedure for the nomination of candidates for class offices.

Instead of nominations being made at class meetings, as is presently the custom, it was decided to have the nominating done in much the same manner as is used for Senate offices — that is, through petition. Petitions for the positions of president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer of each class will be circulated among the members of the class, with the signatures of 10% of the class enrollment being required to qualify the aspirant as a candidate.

It is felt that this will stimulate interest in class elections and also will increase the efficiency of class functions, as only those students who are really interested in the various jobs and who are willing to perform the duties conscientiously will bother to run for office.

Tentatively, the time for class officers elections has been set as the week of March 19.

The Senate also recommended that Move-Up Day be held Monday, March 26.

Nolan Not Only Prof To Threaten Failure

Mr. Nolan isn't the only professor who hints at giving students the opportunity (?) of retaking his courses, according to Associated Collegiate Press.

At Albuquerque, N. M., when Prof. Norton Barr Crowell commented that he served in the last war, a student cracked, "Oh, are you that young?"

Replied Crowell breezily, "I'm pretty young. And I'm younger now than I'll be next year when you take this course over again!"

should find us in a state of spiritual and intellectual flux, highly sensitive to experience. At this point—"The Case for Christianity". Dr. Fred Berthold of Dartmouth will spend the week with us, guiding the thought and prayer which should lead us to a belief of new vitality and personal significance. We will then have begun for ourselves a working answer to the question, "What is Christianity?"

Why Bother?

First, by appreciating many points of view other than your own, to learn tolerance. This does not have to mean indifference. On the contrary, we may move toward a more sympathetic interest in those who honestly disagree with us. If our ideas are genuinely superior, they can only prevail in a friendly atmosphere.

Second, and most important, to bring our faith into focus in light of all the new and different facets of our intellectual growth. We lie to ourselves when we allow a new life to rest on relatively immature foundations. If we desire consistency, if we desire a set of beliefs appropriate to our broadened grasp of life's realities, then we will take this opportunity to examine our faith.

A Real Faith

As your religious guide on campus, the JCA will be at work in the next two months to lead the search for real faith. It's safe to guarantee a worthwhile return on your invested time and attention.

Yacht Club Guests

We had a beautiful daylight flight from Rome to Athens. The restoration of the Stoa in Athens, about which Prof. Homer Thompson of Princeton spoke in Oller Hall, is more impressive than I had anticipated. Through the kindness of Congressman Simpson we were the guests of Mrs. Stephen Stephano for luncheon at the Royal Yacht Club. She and her uncle, a deputy of the Grecian parliament, explained the antiquities of this great city to us. We wished so much for more time to study Athens and her history!

In Athens we had dinner with Mr and Mrs. Peter Kruger of Annville, Pennsylvania, who are distributing surplus commodities from the United States under the auspices of the World Council of Churches in cooperation with the Greek Orthodox Church. Greece does not grow sufficient food for its population and its economy hac been supported by the United States.

Territorial questions are not easy. When new nations come into being or nations throw off foreign domination there are questions which have two or more sides and almost defy solution. In Greece we heard about Cyprus and the terrible September riots in Istanbul which destroyed Greek stores and churches. Then in Istanbul we heard Turkey's claim to Cyprus and why the riots against the Greeks had taken place. The Cyprus question will not be settled for some time because it is an important military base for the western nations.

Polio isn't licked yet!

PRESIDENT TELLS OF BULGANIN IN INDIA—p. 4

Two JCA Members Review Mays' Neo-Orthodoxy Views

by Jerry Richards & John Moss

At the last JCA meeting, acting president Morley Mays presented his views on Neo-Orthodoxy.

Dr. Mays began with Neo-Orthodoxy's genesis as a reaction against the liberal theology current in his own college days. He stated that liberalism has linked its view of human nature with the popular evolutionary concepts of the 19th and early 20th centuries a hopeful and optimistic gospel.

In reaction to this the Neo-Orthodox movement found the sources for its position in the Bible and the voices of truth everywhere. The Bible, "a manual of religion and not a scientific textbook" is more meaningful if interpreted as symbolic, paradoxical and mythological rather than literal.

The voices of the prophets also provide truth. In this respect the Neo-Orthodoxy can reconcile science and religion because the truths of science are legitimate in their own field of inquiry. Religion has nothing to say of a factual nature about that which science studies. Religion is not the intellectual acceptance of beliefs, creeds, tenets and ideas but is rather a relation of man with God. As contrasted with content, religion is perspective and context. Differing with Booth, Brunner and Niebuhr, the high priests of Neo-Orthodoxy, Mays said he considered the attempts of philosophy to argue for the existence of God as "imitations of God."

Who Is God?

The most significant of Mays's contributions was his answer to the question which he called "of primary importance," "Who Is God?" The answer derived from Paul Tillich and Alfred North Whitehead converged with Paul's statement—"Him in whom we live and move and have our being." God then as the creative ground of existence is the source of everything that is. Supplementing his view with the thought of Heidegger and Kiekegaard, he said that if God were not now creating, all would be nothing.

College Policies Need Revitalized

TO THE EDITOR:

Dear Madame:

Many of us must reflect on the occasional dissatisfaction with the disciplinary policies here at JC.

Who will ever forget last October's popular revolt for a more adequate social relief center? (With 668 students and five couches in the social room, progress has been slow indeed. That's 133.6 Juniatians or 66.8 couples per seat.)

At any rate, we all recognize inconsistencies between student behavior and college policy. Could these problems have one common root? Where, after all, do policy and reality meet? Easy, the so-called "Grey Paper."

We will overlook the Un-Americanism whereby good old gray becomes an obsolete "Grey." If that were the only confusion, my bitterness would be unjust.

No, my point is far more telling: the "Grey Paper" is written on gray paper! So gray it cannot be read. Black print against gray paper! No man is bound by laws obscured against his view.

Juniata needs a White Paper. Do I get help, or is the spirit of justice dead?

D. A. and A. W.

PENNEY IN NEW OFFICE

Wednesday afternoon Dean of Men James F. Penney's office was relocated in recently completed headquarters in the basement of Students Hall near the Senate Office.

Pre-Engineers to Take Aptitude Test Tuesday

The Pre-Engineering Ability Test will be given at 3:45 p.m., Tuesday, February 7, 1956, in Room 104, Science Hall.

Freshmen who have enrolled as pre-engineering students are requested to take this test at this time and have been individually notified.

If any other students interested in engineering wish to take this test, they may do so provided they so indicate by seeing either Prof. Paul R. Yoder or Dean Mays' secretary before noon Friday, February 3. The examination will take 80 minutes and no previous preparation is required.

Miss Doyle Lists Chapel Speakers

The chapel schedule for next week has been announced by Miss Esther Doyle.

John Biddle, publisher of the Huntingdon Daily News, will speak on Monday, February 6; Wednesday's chapel will present Dr. Friedman of the Western Theological Seminary. Dr. Crosby will address the student body on Friday.

Ruth Draper To Entertain Here

Acclaimed 'One-Woman Theatre' To Present Monologues Monday

Monday evening, February 5, the Public Events Committee of Juniata College will sponsor Miss Ruth Draper, monologist.

● Ruth Draper ●
A Delightful Entertainer

It is perhaps more fitting to say "one-woman thretre" rather than merely monologist in Miss Draper's case, because her repertoire of more than 60 characters in 40 original sketches is done completely by her—writing, staging, directing and acting are all Ruth Draper.

Toured World

Miss Draper has had a long, successful and fascinating career. Starting her solo work professionally on the advice of Henry James and Ignace Paderewski, she has performed before many audiences in many parts of the world including the United States, Great Britain, England, France, Italy, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South America, Ceylon, Burma and Java.

World wide acclaim for her work is the natural result of her appearances. Rewards for outstanding service to the theatre and capacity audiences wherever she plays are a further indication of Miss Draper's success.

The program, to be presented in Oller Hall, has been rated by various members of the faculty and administration as extremely worthwhile.

Vets To Be In Charge Of Saturday's Affair

The social event for this Saturday evening will be under the sponsorship of the Veterans' Club.

The Vets have decided to hold a record dance after the basketball game. Due to the lack of time they had little chance for variety and intend to attempt a much more enterprising event in the future.

The Social Committee is making plans for the Valentine Dance to be given on the 11th of February.

Five Seniors Complete Degree Requirements

Five students had finished their degree requirements by the end of the first semester.

These have elected to return in June to receive their diplomas. They are Frank DeRusso, Bud Douds, Faith Milliron, Bill Shull and Melba Smith.

The Registrar's Office announced that as of December 12, 1956, the registration for this semester had dropped to 663. This is composed of 376 men and 249 women. This results in a ratio of 1.51004 men to each woman. Seven men and one woman are carrying a schedule load that exceeds 17 hours.

Felton Announces Try-Out For Play

Gordon Felton, director of the Masque production The Glass Menagerie to be presented March 23 and 24, has announced that tryouts for the four roles will be held next Thursday at 4 p.m. in Oller Hall.

Copies of the play, a work by Tennessee Williams, are on reserve in the library.

Berkebile Begins To Teach Here

Dr. Morley Mays, acting president of the college, anounced the appointment of Fred D. Berkebile of Indiana, Pa., as assistant professor of education for this spring term.

Mr. Berkebile, an educator and free-lance writer, joins the staff after being area supervisor for school facilities and school building program with the Department of Public Instruction in Harrisburg since 1952.

During the Second World War, he was the assistant to the dean of University Training Command in Florence, Italy, and served as chairman of the education department at the Army University. After the war he taught at Indiana State Teachers College and worked one year as a free-lance writer.

Mr. Berkebile is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh from which institution he has received the degrees of bachelor of science and master of letters. He has been an instructor in elementary and high schools, a high school principal and a supervising principal. Mr. Berkebile has also been state and western district director of the Adult Education and Recreation programs of the state of Pennsylvania.

As a writer he has had many stories published in educational and popular magazines. Mr. Berkebile has published more than 250 short stories and has been a newspaper columnist for the Johnstown Tribune.

Joan McClure has accepted the position of editor-in-chief of the Juniatian for the coming semester, replacing the retiring Alma Skinner.

A resident of Harrisburg, the new editor brings many and varied experiences to her job including her major, history, chairman of publications on the Student Senate, makeup editor of the Alfarata and assistant leader of a local girl scout troop.

Other staff changes for the semester include new faces in almost every department. George Fattman, Tarentum journalism major, moves up from news editor to fill the gap left by Miss McClure, former managing editor. Eleanor Newton, a home economics major from Hagerstown steps up from the news staff to news editor.

The sports editorship goes to a Lewistown chemistry major,

JWSF Treasurer, Chairman Report Drive Surpasses Goal

The financial report for the 1955-56 Juniata World Service Fund drive, as submitted by Al Nyce, JWSF treasurer, and Dan Raffensperger, general chairman, shows that the drive reached and slightly exceeded its goal of $1955.

Miss Miriam Dickey served as advisor to the committee in charge; Dottie Stricker was in charge of club and organization contributions; Mary Jane Bridenbaugh, solicitations, and Joyce Warfel, publicity.

Raffensperger, pleased with the results of the drive, announced a general thank-you to all who contributed and to all the workers on the committee. He was especially pleased with their cooperation and with the success of the various projects initiated during this drive.

Room for Improvement In Dining Hall Matters

It seems a shame that men and women of college age should have to be reminded of common everyday courtesies, but a look around the Oneida Dining Hall shows that something is definitely lacking in manners.

Although it has been pointed out time and time again, the noise and inattentiveness during the prayer and the announcements has not subsided to any great extent. Often students do not hear important announcements because of he racket throughout the dining hall. Poor table manners and such childish antics as throwing water-soaked napkins shouldn't even have to be commented on. How about it, table heads?

Abused Waitresses?

Also, the manner in which the waitresses are treated often leaves room for improvement. It is not uncommon for them to have to withstand even swearing. The privilege of having reserved tables, too, is likely to be revoked as a consequence of the manner in which the students have abused it recently, especially during finals. It should be realized that the head waitresses cannot put each group at the particular table they request and that some tables have to "go down" at every meal; naturally those tables which are not full are the first to go down. However, students are often quite discourteous to the waitresses over the matter of reserved tables.

One more thing—there have been complaints, mostly from the boys, that the doors do not open at 6:00 sharp. The girls doors do open at six but the doors cannot be opened to the boys until the faculty is in the dining hall, thus the two or three minutes delay is unavoidable.

What About the Food?

Griping about the food is one of the favorite pastimes of many a college student on practically every college campus. Maybe a wider variety of food is not possible on the Juniata budget, but if the food we do have were better and more thoroughly cooked, perhaps there would not be so many complaints. The approvimately 500 students who pay $165 a semester (500 x $165 equals $82,500) for board too often do not find hard boiled potatoes and ultra-rare meat, especially pork, to cite two examples, too palatable.

And the Waitresses' Wages?

The recent difficulty encountered in procuring waitresses for the dining hall just might be attributable to the fact that the waitresses are underpaid. Reputedly, waitressing is the best paying student job on campus. Perhaps they do get the most money per semester, but a student spending the same amount of time at practically any other campus job would make even more money.

When one considers that the waitresses work at least an hour at each meal—at dinner it is an hour and a half—40¢ a meal (that is what they have to pay their substitutes out of their own pockets) does not sound too lucrative. And having to pay personally for all the dishes they break plus all those that students at their tables break certainly does not add to the financial attractiveness of the job. Carrying heavy trays and racing around a crowded dining room is not exactly the softest job around. Why not let them punch a clock and get 60¢ an hour as the kitchen boys do? (The kitchen girls get the same as waitresses.) Or they should be paid at least the same as almost all other student employees of the college—50¢ an hour.

Where Are the Coat Racks?

Finally, for the past week the fellows have either had to throw their coats on the floor in the cloak room or bring them into the dining hall with them. What happened to the coat racks?

Just a little more cooperation on the part of all those concerned will make that hour and a half or two that we spend in the dining hall everyday much more enjoyable. Let's all cooperate.

Chou-en-Lai has again started rumblings on the issue of Formosa. The renewed pressure in that area brings again into sharp focus our whole China policy. A possible attack on Formosa poses anew the recently submerged question of our position on Quemoy and Matsu.

Last year at this time the administration was subjected to the dilemma of whether to abandon these islands in the face of a threatened Communist attack. However, the diplomacy of Dulles was given a reprieve when, at the onset of the Geneva Spirit, Chinese threats were toned down to a great degree. The decision was not forced and we even had a chance to withdraw with a minimum of embarrassment. However, we agreed to remain and now the over extended and untenable nature of our position is once again brought to the fore.

One key to this shortsighted approach to the Eastern question is due to our over-involvement with the politically bankrupt regime of Chiang-kai-Chek. The only factor which maintains him in power is the United States support. However, this support costs us heavily on the international scene.

The most recent example was our fiasco in the United Nations concerning the admission of new members. Because of committments to Chiang we had to support his opposition to Outer Mongolia, thus costing us the much needed admission of Japan and also allowing Russia to appear as the magnanimous benefactor. Most of the other members were against Chiag but we were committed to support of his obstructionist stand.

The question of Red China's admission to the world organization will perhaps be the next embarrassing situation to face us. If the question of their admission becomes one of credentials, which it could well do, it will be up to the General Assembly to make the decision. Our veto power would have no effect there and the administration will then be put in the position of having to support a policy on the international scene that will bring us the emnity of the majority of members. To do otherwise would be domestic suicide. Also being an election year it is doubtful whether any intelligent decision will be reached on this question.

Our political posture in the Far East is unrealistic in light of the power political realities of the situation. Our support of Chiang is costing us dearly at the moment and will continue to do so at an increasing rate in the time to come. If I may be "Dullesian", perhaps our policy in this area needs an "agonizing reappraisal."

Letter to the Editor —

To the Editor:

Those of you who examined your bill for the spring semester will recall that one item listed was "Social Center contribution, $2.00." In the very limited space allotted me I would like to discuss this matter.

When Totem Inn was completed in the fall of 1953, the Senate asked the administration for a voice in running it. This was granted on the condition that the students would help retire the debt. It was agreed that when the debt was paid, Totem Inn would go into the Senate treasury.

According to a letter by Dr. Crosby in the October 2, 1953 Juniatian, the total cost of Totem Inn was about $35,500. A fund-raising drive among friends, parents, and alumni netted $10,500, leaving a debt of about $25,000.

The 1953 Leadership Conference proposed the $2.00 per semester assessment against each student. This was approved by the student body in September 1953 in a secret ballot vote by a margin of about 5-1. This fee, Totem Inn profits, and additional gifts were to pay off the debt.

This fee, collected from 600-plus students for five semesters, should be more than $6000. But what about Totem Inn profits?

The March 19, 1954, Juniatian says that although the snack bar lost money, the total profit for the first semester was $337.48.

In these last two years no more information has been given. Those who attended the 1955 Leadership Conference will recall that I inquired about this. Different persons, including our Senate leaders have tried to get the facts on this complicated subject, but always there are obstacles.

It seems to me that a committee of students appointed by the Senate should thoroughly investigate this matter. They should report on (1) the profit and loss situation of Totem Inn over the past five semesters, (2) methods for determining and releasing such statements at the end of each semester (3) the amount of the debt remaining to be paid, and (4) ways and means of paying off the debt with the idea of eliminating the assessment as soon as possible.

I believe the whole Totem Inn situation should be reviewed and re-evaluated before the graduation of the classes of 1956 and 1957 and the students who remember the beginnings of Totem Inn are no longer members of the college community.

Respectfully submitted,
Newton Taylor

Intercollegiate Chatter

By NANCY FREED

Recently Yale University authorities have felt compelled to raise the requirements for being named to the Dean's Honor List in order to preserve its prestige, for it seems that in the past ten years the list has grown to the point where it now contains the names of almost half the undergraduate students in Yale. Two basic reasons are given as the basis of this trend: one, competition for admission is becoming more difficult because of the increased number of applicants; hence, colleges today are getting the cream of the the top; second, today a distinct majority plan to enter graduate or professional schools and are thus striving for the high grades necessary for qualification. What's happened to JC? I've failed to notice any increase in the number of persons receiving Dean's List honors.

If any of you elementary education students are feeling ill-at-ease and nervous as you set out to do your student teaching, imagine how Marie Kinney of Elizabethtown College felt as she sat in the classroom on that first terrible day of practice teaching trying her best to look and act like a schoolmarm. Along came a cute litile moppet with, "Miss Kinney, are you going to be a teacher when you grow up?"

Having been approached innumerable times in the past week concerning my possible possession of such and such a book which I might wish to lend, rent, or sell, the Used Book Store set up by the Senate of Drury College of Springfield, Mo., strikes me as an excellent idea. During the five days at the beginning of the semester, used books for the new semester may be turned in. The student submitting them places his name and address in each book plus the selling price. The senate attempts to sell the books, obtaining a 25 cent fee for the service. Much futile scurrying and inquiring hither and there could be eliminated by such an organization.

If you girls have been "freezing" lately because the radiators simply don't work, there just isn't any heat to be had, or because the wind blows in through the cracks in the windows and floorboard, cheer up! Conditions could be worse. Said a fellow from a near-by college, "My room is so cold that I could make snowballs out of hot water."

From The Bleachers

by Dave Suloff

Although the football season has long since departed, and we are now beginning the spring semester, a few good words have again come our way concerning Juniata's great football squad, and the showing that they made in the Tangerine Bowl Classic at Orlando, Florida.

The following news items were extraced from Sports Editor Bob Howard's column "Top O' The Morn" in the Orlando Sentinel, Orlando, Florida.

Buffalo's Stay Unbeaten In 5

The girls' basketball league finished a busy week of games during the pre-exam period to correspond with the other activities which seemed to pile up at the same time.

On January 10, the Brumbaugh Oneiders downed the Chow Hounds 42-38 and the Squaws gained a 2-0 victory via forfeit of the Punchy Pack. Two nights later, January 12, the Buffalo's sneaked past the Red Devils in an upset, 18-9. The Punchy Pack won over the Geiger Girls 18-14 and the Rowdies triumphed 43-26 over the Hobo's on January 14.

Three post-exam games were played on January 30; the Red Devils trounced the Punchy Pack 57-15, the Chow Hounds ran off with a 27-2 victory over the Hobo's, and the Buffalo's were credited with a 2-0 victory via the forfeit route from the Geiger Girls.

The feature of the league, however, was on January 13, when a non-league game was played between the Geiger Girls and the faculty, with the faculty coming out on top 47-32. Mary Ann Baily, of the faculty, added to the informality and humor of the game by tossing in a goal for the Gieger Girls. High scorers for the evening were A. Flemming and Cochran, both of the faculty, with 20 and 19 points respectively and McAvoy, Gieger Girls, 15 points.

Buffalo's	5	0	1.000
Krazy Kids	3	0	1.000
Squaws	3	1	.750
Red Devils	3	1	.750
Brmbagh One'drs	3	2	.600
Punchy Pack	3	3	.500
Rowdies	1	2	.333
Gieger Girls	1	4	.200
Chow Hounds	1	4	.200
Conrades	0	2	.000
Hobo's	0	4	.000

Though the Tangerine Bowl game failed to attract a capacity crowd for the first time in five years, the estimated 10,000 who attended had high praise for the match between Juniata and Missouri Valley.

The Elks Tangerine Bowl Commission, for the third straight year, turned in a remarkable job in the selection of opponents for the charity tilt. In the last three games, two have ended in ties and another was decided by an extra points.

When the Indians and Vikings were picked in late November, there was considerable abuse directed at the commission. Because the schools were so small, many refused to purchase tickets. The customers who did turn out weren't expecting good football, and many feared a mismatch.

It was a pleasant surprise to have the game develop into one of the best in the history of the series. Small as the schools were, the talent was much better than any had dared to anticipate.

JUNIATA offered something new in this era of specialists and hugh squads when it used only 15 players. There's no recollection of any other college football team having employed such iron-man tactics in the last 10 years. The Indians, despite their infrequent substitutions, didn't appear to tire in the late stages and had every reason to feel they deserved a victory. They offered conclusive proof that the elimination of two-platoon football didn't wreck the appeal of the sport as many had predicted.

The passing of Pat Tarquinio and the sensational receiving by end Barry Drexler was described by most observers as the finest ever seen in a Tangerine Bowl game. Col. H. S. Wurtele, who annually films the Gator Bowl, the Tangerine Bowl and many of the leading college games around the South, said it was the best passing he had seen since Babe Parilli was firing for Kentucky about five years ago.

Zips Top JC In Overtime Thriller

Vanderbush Scores 25 In Heartbreaking Defeat

by Bill Mariotti

On Wednesday evening the charges of Coach Doc Greene lost a real thriller, 84-77, to the University of Akron, of Akron, Ohio, which can field the tallest collegiate basketball team in the nation.

It was nip and tuck through the entire contest, until Akron pulled away in the overtime to win 84-77. The teams were deadlocked, 35-35, at halftime, and knotted at 68-all at the terminal of regulation time.

Six foot seven Akron center Ray Pryear opened the scoring in the overtime period with an easy lay-up shot to pull Akron in front, 70-68. A few seconds later, Jake Handzelek hit on one of his noted set shots from the outside to even the count. The Tribe immediately stole the ball and scored on a close jump shot by Lee Hallman. Once again freshman Pryear came through from under the hoop, to tie the score at 72 each. About a minute later, Mike Harkins scored in a jump shot giving Akron a lead they never relinquished.

Harkins was a thorn in the Indian's side all evening as the 6'2" guard tallied 31 points to top all scorers for the evening. Pryear contributed 16 for the Zips. Walt Vanderbush led all Indian scorers with 25 markers, followed closely by Jake Handzelek with 23.

The win was the Zips 14th in a row and their 16th win in 17 outings this season, including the Christmas Basketball tournament. The Indians ledger now stands at seven wins and six losses.

New Records Set

Memorial Gym foul shooting records went out the window the night of January 21, when Lycoming College of Williamsport visited the JC campus. The Tribe managed to pull away and win in overtime, 98-85. Barney McLaughlin, steller forward of the Indians, played probably the best game of his career scoring 22 points.

Juniata led at the half by two points, but at the end of regulation time the count stood at 79-79. The Greenemen, led by McLaughlin, had little trouble deciding the outcome in the extra frame.

Walt Vanderbush and Jake Handzelek each chipped in with 19 points for JC. But Juniata scorers were by far overshadowed by senior Joe Hawkins of the Lycos. Joe rang the bell for 35 tallies. At one point in the game, Hawkins garnered 10 straight markers. He also sank 19 of 22 from the charity lane for new records in both departments. Teammate Al Wilson also had a good night scoring 29. The loss was the fourth in eleven games suffered by the Lycos.

Lose To STC

On Saturday, January 28, Juniata visited Indiana STC and lost a race-horse type ball game to the teachers, 114-100. This total of 214 points tallied by the two teams set a new record for any Juniata team and their opponent in total score. The win was In the outcome of the extra frame. diana's ninth in 13 games played and avenged an earlier loss to the locals.

Jack Crossman could not be stopped by the Indians switching man to man defense as he racked up 38 points. Big Joe Delise dropped in 21 for the teachers. The Tribe was paced in a loosing cause by Jake Handzelek and Mike Armstrong with 27 and 20 points respectively.

Handzelek Still Paces Scoring

Jake Handzelek's 27 point performance against Indiana STC upped his season total to 262 points for a 21.9 per game average, maintaining his four year reign as top scorer for the JC courtmen.

Walt Vanderbush is second with 148 points for a 13.4 average followed by Lee Hallman with 127 and a 10.6 average. Torry Froisland with 109 and 9.1, Barney McLaughlin with 96 and 8 and Mike Armstrong with 75 and 7.5 round out the top scorers.

Armstrong continued to lead the shooting percentages after ten games with a 51% record, hitting 25 for 49 shots. Vanderbush and Hallman followed in accuracy with 39.3% and 38.9%.

Handzelek upheld his sharp foul shooting record by sinking 11 for 12 against Indiana, giving him 96 for 117 and an 82.1% for the year, a few points below last season's average which ranked him amoung the best in the country.

Vanderbush led in rebounds the first half of the season with 128, followed by Froisland and McLaughlin with 76 and 51 respectively.

The team scoring average took a leap after Saturday's point deluge, with the Tribe's average now 76.1 per game and their opponents hitting an average of 7? 9

Whips Snap Win Streak of I-M Pace Setters

With the league leaders knocked from the undefeated ranks, Juniata's intramural basketball league is drawing tighter.

The fast surging Whips have beaten both the top teams in their last two outings. On January 14, the Whips dropped the Jabberwockies, 77-35, and on Tuesday night they downed the Sunbrookers, 67-48.

As of Tuesday night, the Jabberwockies and Sunbrookers are still tied for the league's top spot with five wins and one defeat. They are followed closely by the Crusaders, Pretzels, and Wolverines, who have all won six and lost two. The Galloping Ghosts, 19th Holers, and Whips are also in good Positions to move up on the leaders.

In other games played on Tuesday night, the Pretzels topped the Rackhounds, 46-33; the Mumblers trounced the Kourt Kats, 66-40; and the Crusaders trampled the JC Juniors, 823-1.

After Tuesday's games the standings look like this:

Jabberwockies	5	1
Sunbrookers	5	1
Crusaders	6	2
Wolverines	6	2
Pretzels	6	2
Galloping Ghosts	5	2
19th Holers	4	2
Whips	4	2
Kourt Kats	3	3
Mumblers	3	3
McKees Creek	2	2
Ubangies	3	4
F.R.&.M.	3	4
Dukes	2	3

CHAMP

John Staley Wins Light-Heavy Title In Golden Gloves

by Del McQuaide

John Staley, star center of our championship football team, has recently added another laurel to his array of distinctions in the sporting world.

Between semesters, he won the light-heavyweight title of the Central County Dapper Dan Golden Gloves Tournament in Altoona. John decisioned Harry Slep who, incidentally, went on to win the title in the heavyweight division of the tournament.

The bout was a three round contest with Staley winning the first two rounds handily and, after some difficulty, coming on to win the third for a clean sweep. He received a trophy and a jacket for his efforts but he will not be able to follow up his victory in the Pittsburgh Tournament because of his class schedule here at Juniata.

John has played nearly 60 minutes of every gridiron contest for Juniata in the past two years, including the entire Tangerine Bowl Classic at Orlando, Florida. He was chosen for honorable mention on the All-State Football Squad at the end of the regular season, and honorable mention Little All-American by the Williamson Rating soon after the bowl classic.

His victory at Altoona marks the fourth time John Staley has appeared in the Golden Gloves competition, and the second time he has carried off the title. On the other two occasions he was defeated only after reaching the finals.

Mademoiselle Sponsors Contest For Students With Art Abilities

Mademoiselle's second annual Art Contest is now under way.

The two winners will interpret the two winning stories in the magazine's 1956 College Fiction Contest and will receive $500 each for publication of their work. The closest runners-up will receive honorable mention and will be kept on file for possible future commissions by Mademoiselle. Winners and honorable mentions will be announced in the 1956 August College issue.

If you're a woman in college or art school and submit your entries before your twenty-sixth birthday, you are eligible to compete. Submit enough work to show your ability—at least five samples, in any medium: line drawings, oils or water colors, collages, anything. Mademoiselle will accept photographs of originals, either color transparencies or black and white glossies. Remember, this is not a commercial art contest. Mademoiselle is not looking for fashion illustration or advertising layouts, but for imaginative, original work in whatever medium or style you work best.

The contest closes March 15, 1956. Judges will be: Aline B. Saarinen, Associate Art Critic of the New York Times; Hans Hofmann, painter and teacher; and Bradbury Thompson, Art Director of Mademoiselle. For complete retails write: Art Contest, Mademoiselle, 575 Madison Avenue, New York 22, New York.

In The Clubs

Here's a greeting to all new students of JC and a welcome to join any of the campus clubs which interest you. The new semester ushers in these clubs.

Debate

Monday night is the big night for the Debate Club when they meet the Penn State Women's team on this year's problem of "guaranteed annual wage." The meeting will take place at 7:00 in Room D.

JCA

Now that you have heard the Roman Catholic and New Orthodox answers to the question "What Is Chrisianity?", Tuesday night at 7:15 another answer, that of the fundamentalist, will be presented. This will be the third in a series of four programs.

Vets

Good luck to the Vets on their program this Saturday night. Knowing their members, they'll do a good job.

Here's WJC's Schedule For Coming Semester

Something new has been added to WJC this semester.

A committee of students are writing and producing at least two new programs in the WJC schedule. There two programs are Off the Record which is replacing Personality of the Week and Everybody Wins, a new quiz show replacing Around the Clock.

This is the complete revised schedule of this semester's WJC programs.

Around the World with the President

by President Calvert N. Ellis, D. D.

ED. NOTE—This is the second in a special series of reports on his trip around the globe written by President Ellis for the Juniatian.

Turkey is having economic difficulty. There is a black market in currency, little evidence of construction, and limited food. Economic and military aid has come from the United States but there is little evidence that it has really benefited the country. This country has also received refugees from the Balkan countries and we saw some of the efforts being made to help these refugees.

Turkey is a Mohammedan country and feels strongly about the establishment of Israel. The question of Israel and its relations with its Arab neighbors is always an interesting subject of conversation.

We stopped a few hours in Beirut, the capital of Lebanon, between planes. This little country has been greatly influenced by the American University here which has educated so many of the leaders of the Arab states. I should have mentioned that we had a delightful visit to Robert College near Istanbul, overlooking the Bosporus. This American college, ten years older than Juniata, has had a vast influence upon Turkey and the Balkan countries.

Pakistan

In Karachi, Pakistan, we were the guests of Ambassador and Mrs. Hildreth. Dr. Hildreth, prior to 1952, was the president of Bucknell University. They were most gracious to us and helped us to understand this new country, just seven years old. Pakistan is divided and overcrowded with almost no industry. It is a Mohammedan country which is throwing its lot with the western nations in the cold war against Russia.

The American government has given a vast amount of financial and military aid to this new nation. American cars and trucks crowd the streets of Karachi and English is heard in the hotels. Here again we listened to the story of disputed territory—Kashmir.

The United Nations with the support of the United States has decided that Kashmir should decide by free elections whether she wishes to be a part of India or Pakistan. The Pakistanians are urging the elections because the majority of the people of Kashmir are Mohammedan but India refuses since she claims Kashmir should belong to her.

Bulganin In Delhi

We were in Delhi, the capital of India, while Mr. Bulganin, the Russian Premier, and his party were there. The city was decked with flags and banners. The newspapers were full of details of the visit. Mr. Bulganin embarrassed the Indians by his rash statements.

However, at the same time Mr. Dulles made his statement about Goa which was very disappointing to the Indians and gave Mr. Bulganin something to talk about. There are many people from Goa here on the west coast of India near Bombay and the issue is hot—so hot that just a few weeks ago there were riots in the streets.

We have talked with Indians—business men, farmers, professional men and peasants—in the weeks we have been here. They have been most friendly and appreciative of the United States and what our government has done for India. We now will spend three weeks in the villages and towns of this Bombay state observing the work of Christian missions, especially the Church of the Brethren.

World Famous St. Olaf Choral Group To Appear Here For Concert Wednesday

The St. Olaf Choir, founded and developed by Dr. F. Melius Christiansen, will appear in Oller Hall on Wednesday evening, February 15, at 8 p.m.

The choir, which is appearing in Huntingdon for the first time, is composed of 60 students from St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minnesota. Today the college has some 1600 students.

The music department of St. Olaf is held in high esteem. The college was hardly 25 years old when Dr. Christiansen, in 1903, was brought to the campus and helped to mold a choir which earned national and international fame. Through this man's influence, "a capella" singing has grown throughout the nation.

Recently In Europe

The choir which Dr. Christiansen developed began its nation-wide tours in 1920, and since then has appeared annually throughout this country and abroad. Its most recent tour to Europe took place this past summer where 31 concerts were given in the Scandinavia and Germany.

Its purpose is to perform the best in choral literature with the highest degree of perfection and artistry. That this has been accomplished has been proved by the long list of reviews from the nation's finest critics for more than thirty years. These reviews have always acclaimed this choir as the greatest of its kind.

Admission tickets for the concert to be given by this outstanding choir can be purchased from Mrs. Hazel Jenson at 301 Penn Street. Tickets may be reserved by calling 1298.

Admission to the concert will be by ticket only. Students may get their tickets by showing their activity cards at the information window in Founders Hall prior to Monday noon.

There will be a conflict that evening with a home basketball game since the game could not be rescheduled and since February 15 is the only date the choir could appear in Huntingdon, its only Pennsylvania concert this series.

Too Little Money Limits Varsity Debate Program

The Debate Club has been financially incapable of carrying out its aims during the past few years and prospects look even dimmer for this coming year according to a unanimous opinion of the Debate Club demonstrated during a recent meeting.

Jim Montgomery, club president, pointed out that the lack of necessary funds results from the fact that the debate team is on a club basis in Juniata's extra-curricular activities organizational setup and as such cannot get adequate financial aid from the administration.

SEE EDITORIAL—P. 2

This puts the debate team at a distinct disadvantage when competing with other colleges who receive enough financial aid to attend as many as 30 debates, whereas the Juniata debate team cannot afford 3 or 4. Montgomery said further that the debate team is the only intercollegiate team on campus that is not given adequate financial assistance.

Financial Information

To prove their point the following information concerning last year's financial status was issued for publication.

Expenses

Financial Aid	$100.00
State Debate Tournament	$65.00
Debate Association Dues	$15.00
Debate Handbook	$ 8.86
Entertainment for Penn State Women	$ 5.00
Geneva Tournament	$26.00
Dickinson Tournament	$30.00
Carnegie Tech Tournament	(approx.) Undetermined
Workshop in Pittsburgh	$20.56
Total	$149.56

Dick Backus, club treasurer, said that these figures show why debate at Juniata doesn't attract too many students. Much of the expense must come out of the students own pockets even on this limited scale of competition and if the debate team were to expand their field of competition, as they so desire, it would necessitate their paying for nearly all of the expense.

Sell Candy

The Debate Club has been trying to supplement the $100.00 they receive from the administration by selling candy at the basketball games. But, according to the club treasurer, the business has not been lucrative, to say the least.

What the Debate Club wants is for the college administration to underwrite expense for six or seven tournaments this year in order to give debate at Juniata its rightful position in extra-curricular activities. Plans include getting student senate approval and a conference with the administration.

The team hopes to participate in the State Debate Tournament, and to attend tournaments at Kings College, Dickinson College, Mt. Mercy College, and Carnegie Tech. They have also extended an invitation to the Penn State Women's debating team to come to Juniata on February 17.

President Of Senate Reports Inn Situation

I would like to take this opportunity to reply to the letter in last week's Juniatian concerning the financial situation of Totem-Inn. This reply is not a criticism of the letter for it vividly pointed up a situation that does exist. Too many students do not know the facts about Totem-Inn.

The original debt on the Student Center was over $45,500 of which the college retired $20,000 through their capital building fund. An additional $11,532.02 of the debt was retired through gifts given to the Student Center thus leaving a total debt of $14,233.45. It was at this point that the students on College Hill voluntarily decided to shoulder their portion of the debt, since it was the result of a student project and pay it through the $2.00 per semester contribution.

During the five semesters that Totem-Inn has been in operation every effort has been taken to keep profits at a minimum and thus provide students with the services at a low cost. This policy will be continued and after the debt has been retired the profits from the Center will be used to provide new facilities in that area. In other words the profits will continue to go back into Totem-Inn.

Our space is limited so our attention must turn to the elimination of the debt over the five semester period. The financial report which is included in this article is for the 1954-55 fiscal year. The one from the preceeding year has already been published. The student contributions began with the Spring Semester of 1954 and $1,118.00 was collected from the student body that year. During the two semesters of the following year the students of JC contributed $2,324.00 thus dropping the debt to $10,791.45. In addition approximately $2,500 has been contributed this year (this figure will be available in the financial report for the fiscal year of 1955-56). Therefore the esti-

Griller String Quartet To Perform Here Tonight

by Emmalyn Heed

The world-famous Griller String Quartet, now in its ninth tour of America, will present a concert in Oller Hall at 8:15 on Friday, February 10.

The Quartet was founded by four students at the Royal Academy of Music in London where it was soon recognized officially. When Sidney Griller, Jack O'Brien, Philip Burton, and Colin Hampton graduated from the Academy in 1928 they agreed to stay together as a quartet instead of each performing separately. They gave more than 800 concerts in Great Britain and Europe before arriving in the United States in 1939.

Perform In Armed Forces

When war broke out the Quartet joined the Royal Air Force and for the next few years they performed for all branches of the British and United States armed forces. Among some of their stops were Buckingham Palace, the National Gallery, and Army Camps.

In 1945 the Quartet left the armed forces to return to their tours. Since 1948 they have taught at the University of California as well as serving as quartet-in-residence. In their spare time they continue performing on tours.

Play For Coronation

The Griller String Quartet has given more than 2500 concerts in Europe, the British Isles, Australia, New Zealand, the United States, and Canada. They played for the Coronation ceremonies in England. Their repertoire includes music for the string quartet from Haydn and Mozart to present composers. It also includes a dozen or so pieces written especially for them by contemporary composers. The group is known by music critics for its perfection of ensemble which is unexcelled by any other group in the world.

Senate Approves WJC Heads; Names Hoyer '56 Scout Editor

The Juniata Student Senate this week appointed Janice Hoyer to edit the 1956 Scout and approved George Carnahan, George Fattman, and Ray Ono, as WJC program director, assistant program director, and technical director, respectively, for tht coming year.

Miss Hoyer, a sophomore history major and a resident of Huntingdon, is a member of the Juniatian, Alfarata, and Indian staffs and is in the band, orchestra and modern dance group. The new editor is in charge of selecting her own staff, which will be announced at a later date. Anyone interested in working on the Scout should contact her.

Carnahan From Dayton

Carnahan, a junior business major from Dayton, Ohio, and formerly assistant program director of WJC, will fill the position of program director, vacated by the retiring Bob Hamm. Fattman, managing editor of the Juniatian, takes over the duties of assistant director, while Ono, junior physics major from Seabrook, New Jersey and formerly technical assistant, will replace Les Querry as technical director.

Senate Hears Reports

Also included on the Senate agenda were reports from the JWSF Drive and All-Class Night. The JWSF netted $1955.01, while All-Class Night profits, which are used to finance May Day, totaled $71.03.

In addition, the Senate has completed the revision and standardization of the many and varied Senate constitutions which were in existence and new copies were distributed to the senators at Wednesday's meeting.

A discussion on the problem of the library felonies, (see Accent On Stealing, page 2), rounded out this week's agenda.

March 14 Is Date For Annual Exam

The General Information Contest has been scheduled for March 14 from 4:00-5:30 p.m.

All students are eligible to participate in the contest which will be given in the library. Any entrant may begin at the latest at 4:45.

Questions will be submitted by a faculty committee. A first prize of $15 and a second prize of $10 will be given by John H. Biddle, the publisher of the Daily News, in memory of his parents. Scores will be kept secret except to the entrants themselves.

— Chapel —

February 13—Father Benjamin Lavey of the Trinity Episcopal Church, Chambersburg.

February 15—Ash Wednesday Program—Dean Mays, Miss Pfotenhauer and the Chapel Choir.

February 17—Rabbi Bleich from Lewistown.

HEY SHUTTER BUGS!

Do you possess snapshots which would be suitable for the Alfarata? If so, and you are willing to lend them to the yearbook, please contact any of the Alfarata editors or drop them in Box 102-C as soon as possible.

Valentine Dream Theme Of Dance

by Aliceann Wohlbruck

"I had a dream, dear.
You had one too—"

This may be an old song, but its very appropriate for Saturday, February 11, here at JC. At 8:15, Saturday, in the Women's gym, the social committee will present a Valentine Dream.

Peter Wright's orchestra will play and there will be refreshments. The highlight of the evening will be the crowning of a Queen of Hearts. As each girl enters the dance she will be given a heart with a number on it and later in the evening a heart will be drawn, and the girl with this number will be Queen and her escort will be King of Hearts.

The gym will be "dressed up" in the old fashioned tradition of Valentine's Day—hearts and flowers, so, why don't you get dressed up and come to the Valentine Dream.

When Isn't The Line Busy? ? ?

Any of the Juniata resident students who have had much occasion to use the pay telephones in the dormitories will no doubt agree that the phone situation leaves something to be desired.

Of course, when approximately 400 students are expected to share four telephones, there are bound to be problems. In the girls' dormitory there are two pay phones for about 180 girls, but one of them has an unlisted number; this is not conductive to receiving incoming calls. And as one almost always has to wait in line to make outgoing calls on the other phone, imagine how disconcerting the constant busy signal is to the person trying to call in,—sometimes a parent with an emergency call.

In the new dorm there is one phone for 134 men. Although the answering system with the buzzer set-up is basically good, it cannot really be effective with only one telephone for the entire dormitory.

The only place that one does not inevitably encounter a busy signal is in the Cloister—no one ever bothers to answer the phone there. This might be because the boys are reluctant to go outside and over to the arch in all sorts of weather (there is no indoor connection), when calls come for arch residents. Perhaps, then, if a phone were installed in the arch this situation would be remedied.

Inconsideration on the part of the students does not help matters any, either. Monopolization of the phones for as much as an hour at a time—couples are the most habitual violators—is contrary to good phone etiquette. At some colleges a five minute time limit is set on calls. Even though no such limit is imposed at Juniata, out of consideration for others, students should take it upon themselves to keep their conversations short.

Basically, however, we just need more phones. Even if calls are kept short, expecting four phones to accommodate 400 persons is not being realistic. It does not seem that the telephone company should be reluctant to install more phones, for in light of the many long distance calls that are made to and from the college it is inconceivable that they would lose out financially. Even though most of the calls are paid for at the other end, the money still goes to the same phone company.

No Money Hampers Debate Club

Obviously, interest in the Debate Club has been running high for the past few years or else the club members would not have undertaken to pay for debating trips mostly out of their own pockets, as is reported in the lead article on page one.

However, this interest is in danger of dying out unless the club is given some financial support from the college. Debating is the only intercollegiate activity on campus that is not underwritten by the college. Certainly no one would expect the varsity athletes to pay their own expenses on game trips; this would be no more ridiculous than it is to expect the debators to foot their own bills.

Juniata has made a name for itself in intercollegiate athletics; it would indeed be a shame if we were to fall down in debating, an academic activity. In light of our college's high academic standing, then it would be well worth the Administration's time to look into the feasability of changing the Debate Club's status to a team and underwriting its costs. The members themselves should not be expected to bear the financial burdens of debating.

Knowland -- A Man Misunderstood

by Newt Taylor

William F. Knowland, United States Senator from California and Senate Republican leader, is one of the best known, and at the same time, one of the least known figures on the national political scene. We say best known because he has received much publicity as Republican Senate leader and as a possible GOP Presidential nominee. Yet the untruths, misconceptions, and ignorance that exist about the man and his views are almost unprecedented for a man of Knowland's stature and prominence.

The forty-seven year old Knowland, member of a prominent and wealthy California newspaper family, was elected to the state legislature the year following his graduation from college. Except for three years' military service in World War II, he has held public office since that time. He was appointed to the Senate in the spring of 1945 by Governor Earl Warren upon the death of Hiram P. Johnson.

On foreign affairs Knowland has strongly supported all efforts to strengthen the free world politically, economically, and militarily against communism. He was a firm supporter of the Truman Doctrine, Marshall Plan, and the North Atlantic Treaty. However, it is his views on Asia that have received the most attention. He has been critical of our policy there because he feels that had the Truman Administration taken strong measures against communism in that section of the world, China and Indo-China could have been saved and the Korean War prevented. Senator Knowland has been most strong in his warning against any "Munich" or sell-out to communism anywhere in the world. He feels that appeasement is one of the greatest dangers the United States faces today. Consistent with this is his opposition to both U.S. recognition and U.N. membership for Red China.

In 1952 Knowland, who won both Republican and Democratic nominations in the primary, was elected to the Senate, establishing himself as the best votegetter in California history. He succeeded Taft as Senate leader in 1953. In the Eighty-Third Congress he supported the Eisenhower Administration better than ninety per cent of the time, more often than any of the other 530 members of Congress.

Knowland's enemies call him a "right-wing Republican," and isolationist," "anti-Eisenhower," and other such names. However, an examination of the record shows it just isn't so!

Accent On Stealing

Last semester fifty books were stolen from the library, not borrowed or misplaced, but stolen.

This is certainly not news. President Ellis spoke on the deplorable subject in chapel before leaving on his tour, and the chairman of men's and women's houses quite recently made a personal appeal to the freshman class, as most of the missing books are those used for freshman integration courses. The response has been less than overwhelming—two books have been returned.

Students Immoral?

Indeed this does not speak well of our college community, particularly of the character of the freshman class. It is a reflection on the students' morality and integrity. The librarians have promised that no punishments will be inflicted on the violators, not even fines will be imposed. Actually, they should be punished the same as girls' smoking on campus or student drinking in Huntingdon would be punished, for if the college believes these to be un-Christian activities, what must be its views on stealing?

Rooms Could Be Checked

However, that's neither here nor there. The point is that every opportunity has been made available to return the books and yet only two students have availed themselves of it. Conceivably, rooms could be checked, but in a "adult" community with inhabitants who supposedly possess adult senses of responsibility, such policing methods should not be necessary.

The library normally allows for a loss of about 15 books a semester; a loss of 50 is utterly ridiculous and totally unnecessary. The first semester's courses are over, why not return the texts? Slip them in the magazine rack or drop them inside the door and run (as long as these methods are being approved), but do return them.

Look At Platform Vs. Action Shows Just What Senate Did

Last March the position of Senate president was voted to Jim Hunt. At the time of his election Hunt, who had impressed many with his pointed Juniatian editorials and senatorial activities, produced a platform containing 10 basic issues and the expected statement of interest in such a position.

The platform which appeared in the Juniatian of March 4, 1955, was well-rounded and sound, but a rather large bite. However, few of his supporters doubted that Hunt could succeed in doing everything he considered his "duty to fulfill." Looking back, let's see just what the Hunt Administration has done.

In the first place, Hunt said he wanted "to insure and protect the interests of the students in he operation of Totem Inn." Recently he procured the information on the functioning of Tote which appears on page one of this issue. He has arranged to have Totem Inn "concepts" published in the Scout so that students may know the score concerning this project.

Controversy Over WJC

In a recent report Hunt had this to say about Plank No. 2 "expand and insure the future of" WJC: "We (the Senate) have attempted to aid this facet of college life by alleviating financial problems—"This statement has raised a bit of controversy; reliable sources have reported that WJC did not benefit financially through any action of President Hunt or the Senate. Indeed, many know of the deplorable financial condition of the campus radio station, which at present is operating on practically no money at all.

By the time Jim Hunt took office Plank No. 3, to complete the band uniform project, which he had inaugurated as a senator, had been completed except for writing the report.

Operation Recreation

President Hunt worked hardest, at least physically, on Operation Recreation, but unfortunately this project was not completed, as he had hoped it would. Hunt reports that the Senate will prepare complete plans for the next Senate to finish he project.

The fifth plank called for the formation of a College Dance Band. Thanks to Hunt and the Senate we have one of the best.

In plank No. 6 he wished to improve day student relationships. This is another controversal issue. Reports from some of the day students who voted for Hunt show them to be displeased with his neglect of them. It seems they wanted him to do something about the day students' rooms. (I can't blame them.) However, as I see it, he has shown his interest in this group through announcing social and athletic events to them in order to encourage participation and through having a day student representative appointed to the Men's House Committee.

No definite action has been taken concerning setting up an Athletic Alumni Association, the consideration of such a project having been Plank No. 7.

Plank No. 8 stated, "To rehabilitate the social program of JC." Hunt feels that this year's social program has been comparatively "very good." I disagree. The dance band and the one "big" social event per month are fine, but what about the other three or four Saturday nights a month?

The only improvements in College Field (Plank No. 9) since Hunt took office were the painting of the wall and the installation of the scoreboard, neither of which can be credited to this year's Senate. During next summer, however, a sign containing JC's football schedule will be erected on the Oneida St. end.

Hunt in his final plank wanted to extend relations of the Senate with the National Student Government Association, which he did through sending representatives to the recent convention at Allegheny College.

Other Achievements

The Hunt Administration made several notable accomplishments not included in the platform, such as elimination of "bloody" initiations, new system for election of class officers, a successful JWSF drive, a disciplinary committee and revision of the old Senate constitution.

After reviewing carefully the past year of the Senate, I have come to the conclusion that I would rate this year's as just "average." Certainly others could paint a blacker picture of the recent Senate administration than I did, and of course many are completely satisfied with it. What do you think?

EDITOR'S NOTE

In the JCA article which appeared in the February 3 issue of the Juniatian, Dean Mays was quoted as saying that he considered the attempts of philosophy to argue for the existence of God as "imitations of God." This was a typographical error and was actually meant to read "intimations of God."

Coach Bob Hicks has been invited to be a guest at the annual Pittsburgh Post-Gazette Dapper Dan Club banquet this coming weekend.

Twelve district athletes and sports figures who were outstanding in the special fields will be honored by the Post-Gazette's Dapper Dan Club at its annual banquet to be held Sunday night, February 12, at the William Penn Hotel in downtown Pittsburgh.

The 12 men will take their place on the dais alongside Johnny Michelosen, University of Pittsburgh football coach, who won the top Dapper Dan Award for 1955 as the sports figure who did most to publicize Pittsburgh during the past year.

The list released by officials of the Dapper Dan Club are as follows, just to name a few:

BOB FRIEND, Pirate pitcher, who led the National League in earned runs average.

ARNIE SOWELL, Pitt's brilliant track star, who gained fame by his star performances.

BOB PELLIGRINI, University of Maryland's All-America center from Yatesboro, Pa.

ED VEREB, University of Maryland's All-America backfield ace, and Orange Bowl game star.

SI GREEN, Duquesne University's All-America basketball star of the past three years.

BOB HICKS, Juniata College football coach, whose teams were unbeaten the last three years and tied in the Tangerine Bowl.

Last year, 11 such players and coaches were invited. Unlike the top Dapper Dan Award winners, district figures may appear only once.

Cagers To Play Heavy Schedule

The College Hill Braves will travel to Carlisle tomorrow night to battle the Red Devils of Dickinson. Doc Greene's cagers will return home the 13th to play host to the Grove City five and then they will encounter Dickinson in a return engagement her the 15th.

This year under the direction of a new coach, Joe Ducharme, the Dickinson Red Devils have had tough sledding while losing to such teams as Penn State, Elizabethtown, and Albright, twice. Despite its poor showing so far this year, the Devil's squad has the Dickinson College scoring recordholder, Jim Connor, in the line up. Along with Connor, coach Ducharme has last year's frosh scoring leader, Jack Wiley, in the starting quintet. Besides Elizabethtown, the boys from Carlisle have played Susquehanna; both of these teams have played JC. Dickinson lost to both teams, while Juniata lost to Elizabethtown, 84-70, in their first meeting, and defeated Susquehanna last Saturday, 84-76.

The Wolverines from Grove City, who are also under a new coach this year in the person of James Curry, will bring a team with a not too impressive record to Huntingdon. The Wolverines will be seeking revenge for last year's loss of 80-67 to the Indians. This year's schedule has Grove City and Juniata playing just one common opponent—Indiana, while the Greenemen split with them, winning 103-80 and losing 114-100.

END OF AKRON STRING

Youngstown snapped Akron's 16-game win streak Wednesday evening during the final seconds, 76-74.

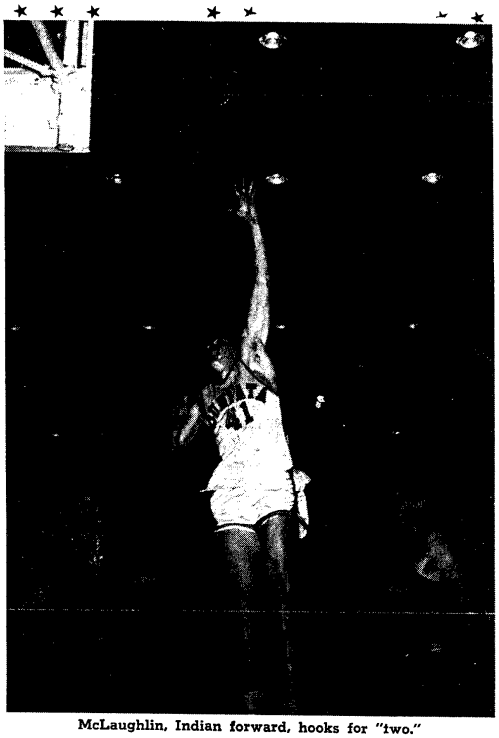
A week ago Wednesday Akron defeated Juniata 84-78 in overtime play.

Buffalo's And Krazy Kids Still Unbeaten

Four games were featured by the girls' basketball league on Wednesday night, January 31. The Red Devils triumphed over the Geiger Girls 46-13, the Squaws defeated the Rowdies 36-7, the Buffalo's took the Brumbaugh One'ders 27-16, and the Krazy Kids gained a 2-0 forfeit victory from the Hobo's. On Tuesday night, February 2, the Squaws won over the Geiger Girls 62-13 and the Krazy Kids slid past the Punchy Pack by a 37-6 score.

Joyce Warfel, Red Devils, racked up 24 points as high in the games played on the 31st. Jane Summy, also of the Red Devils, scored 16 points. Patience Kimlock with 15 points and Jill Derestine with 13 led the Squaw scoring for the night. Sandy Cohick scored 17 points for the winning Buffalo's. As for the losers, Joyce Lashley ran up seven points for the Geiger Girls, Helen Schmidlen scored all seven Rowdie points and Grove had 10 for the Brumbaugh One'der cause. "Ruby" Rubicam hooked up an amazing 32 points to aid the Squaws on February 7. Patience Kimlock, Squaws, had 19 points to her credit. Jeanette Lowe and Norma Hottle racked up 18 and 17 points respectively, helping the Krazy Kids on the same night. Sandy Ruppenlal, 6 for the Geiger Girls, and Haines, 4 for the Punchy Pack, were high for the losers.

Juniata Downs Crusaders, 84-76



McLaughlin, Indian forward, hooks for "two."

The Juniata Indians, led by Walt Vanderbush with 27 points, downed the Crusaders of Susquehanna Saturday evening, 84-76.

The win gave Juniata 13 consecutive victories in the series between the two schools. The Crusaders have not garnered a victory over the Tribe since 1948.

The contest was close the entire way, with Juniata usually holding a slim lead. The Greenemen held a 35-34 lead at intermission time. Susquehanna then pulled to within three points with 1:17 showing on the clock, but a free throw by Jake Handzelek and a tip-in by Barney McLaughlin settled the issue.

Crusader ace forward Frank Romano, though hampered by four fouls for the last 15 minutes, came through with 19 for the losers, which was somewhat low for his average 29.9 points per game clip. Dick Purnell led the Crusader attack with 20 points, while freshman Gene Witiak contributed 16.

Following Vanderbush with 27 were Handzelek with 19, and sophomore McLaughlin with 14. The win was the eighth in 14 outings for the charges of Coach Greene, while the log of Susquehanna stands at six wins and five losses.

JV's Post Win

Journeying to Altoona Penn State Undergraduate Center, Juniata's JV squad returned victorious, 72-61. The "Little Indians" hopped off to a 41-28 lead at halfway.

Mike Miller paced the Tribe time, and glided the rest of the 17 markers. Big Bob Ewald added 16 while Gordon Ewers dumped in 10 to help the winners. Critzer, Rutherford, and Stevens were the main cogs in Altoona's offense with 14, 13, and 11 points respectively.

The win was the sixth in nine outings for the Howie Kerstetter coached squad.

Sunbrookers Win 7th

As boys IM basketball entered its third week, the once defeated Sunbrookers pulled into the number one spot. The league grew tighter as the Wolverines chalked up two wins to edge the Jabberwockies from second place and the Galloping Ghosts moved into fourth position by beating the Ubangies, 49-39.

In Thursday's matches: 19th Holers 42, Jabberwockies 32, an upset; McKees Creek over Court Jesters, forfeit; Mighty Mites 56, Sr. Goof-offs 21; Galloping Ghosts 49, Ubangies 39; Crusaders over Kourt Kats, 73-40; and the Wolverines 66, Rack Hounds 40.

Saturday's results: Whips 101, SOI 55; Mumblers 47, Dukes 42; Sunbrookers 81, Court Jesters 21; Kourt Kats over the Rack Hounds, forfeit; Jabberwockies 52, Sr. Gof-offs 22, and in the evening, Wolverines 53, Crusaders 50.

Tuesday's action: Sunbrookers 51, JC Juniors 31; Jabberwockies 36, Mighty Mites 30; McKees Creek 38, Pretzels 33; and the Crusaders 59, Court Jesters 37.

Reporter Reviews Recent Draper Show

by Nan Winters

Last Monday night, those who left the command of their books or faculty responsibilities to see Miss Ruth Draper's one woman theatre were not sorry one bit.

It seemed to be one of the rare times that an entertainer had so large a majority of the audience in sympathy with her. Even the most unaffected individual had to smile or chuckle a bit to see himself or his friend prancing across the stage or solemnly doubting the existence of his character.

Technically, I noticed several points of perfection: Miss Draper had amazingly quick changes of character. She had unusual talent in the portrayal of age scope; however, each age seemed to be stiffly portrayed. This afforded little room for individual differences of character within each age group. Her facial and hand expressions were so paralleled that few people were acutely conscious of them. After each monologue, she gracefully came to a conclusion. Objectively, it seemed to me that the audience had lost their personal contact with the character by the time the last few monologues were presented.

I am quite certain that Ruth Draper will long be remembered at JC for her sympathetic portrayal of the ridiculousness of human nature. It was a rare pleasure to be part of an audience that could be so freely entertained by their own peculiarities.

AFTER THE PERFORMANCE—Miss Doyle, attending her first public event since a recent illness, pauses backstage to meet Ruth Draper after Monday's performance. Herself a patron of the theatrical arts, Miss Doyle was quite enthusiastic about Miss Draper's appearance at Juniata.

Ed Majors Are Student Teaching

This semester a number of senior education majors are doing student teaching.

The departments involved include elementary education under the direction of Miss Schlegel, home-economics under the direction of Miss Butler and the music under the direction of Prof. Johnson.

Thirteen elementary education majors have been placed in Huntingdon and nearby communities—Mt. Union: Betty Ann Beatty, Ann Beers, Gerald Dore, Mary Ergler, Caroline Merroth and Violet Peters; Smithfield: Nancy Leatherman and Sylvia Shuler; Alfarata: Janice Mertz and Mary Louise Lehman; and Tyrone: John Swope, William Smith and Barbara Phennicie. There are twelve more elementary education majors who will begin their student teaching on March 22.

The home-economics majors are living in the various communities where they are student teaching: Mary Jane Bridenbaugh, Blacklick Township, Twin Rocks; Joan Knapp, Somerset; Anna Leiter, Myersdale; Pauline Shaffer, Altoona Senior High School; and Shirley Smith, Berlin Brothersvalley, Berlin.

The music department has placed seven senior girls in Huntingdon. The girls will practice-teach in Alfarata and William Smith elementary schools and in the Huntingdon High School so that they will have experience in both elementary and a secondary school work. The following girls are involved: Elaine Atkin, Bonnie Brumbaugh, Lois Heart, Mary Jane Hershberger, Alice Jean Hoffman, Margaret Sims and Ann Yesko.

Results Of Comp Exams Now Given

The Registrar's Office has announced that the four students who took their comprehensive examinations in January have fulfilled the requirements.

These students are Melba Smith, who took the exams in Spanish; Joe Veto, history and political science; Bill Shull, business and economics and Bud Douds, elementary education.

Grades Bothering You? Here's Some Advice...

When in doubt about a shady grade,
Your cries imply, of course, remorse;
But never, ever,
Let yourself become Tearful, fearful
That you may be dumb.
The situation in relation to a dark mark
Is disclosed, I suppose, when we feature the teacher;
He, plain to see,
Has limits all soo slim:
So why, then, cry
If you're too much for him?

In The Clubs

All the ice and rain this week didn't stop these JC clubs from being active.

JCA Cell

The problem of organized labor poses social issues which an alert Christian cannot afford to ignore. This and other equally engaging questions will occupy the attention of the new Political Action Cell of the JCA. Why not introduce yourself to an exciting educational opportunity?

JCA

On Tuesday night at 7:15 the JCA program will consist of the Unitarian answer to the question, What Is Christianity?, presented by Dean Amos Horlacher of Dickinson College. This is the last in a series of four answers to this vital question.

IVCF

The IVCF will meet tonight at 7:00 in Founders Chapel and then walk to Mrs. Deck's house where the meeting will be held. The subject is going to be "Sunday and the Sabbath".

Lambda Gamma

Lambda Gamma will meet Monday at 6:45 in the Clothing Lab. Dr. Wartzler will speak to the group about the place of chemistry in home economics.

mated debt on Totem-Inn is $8,291.45. This in all probability will take three years to retire.

Before the present Senate goes out of office we will prepare a pamphlet on the student part in Totem-Inn which will be issued to each student in order to familiarize them with the operation. In addition provision will be made in the Scout henceforth to provide incoming students with complete information on Totem-Inn.

The report for the fiscal year 1954-55 follows:

20 JC Students Make Dean's List In Fall Semester

Twenty students attained the necessary 3.75 or better academic average necessary to qualify for the fall semester's Dean's List.

Seniors included on the list were Bob Fisher, chem; Ernie Lashlee, history; Helen Sell, Spanish; Bill Smith, history; and John Yates, chem. Jim Corrigan, pre-med; Larry Davis, pre-med; Dick Livingston, English; Jim Martin, pre-med; Jim Stayer, philosophy and Carol Titus, elementary ed, were the junior distinguished students.

Sophomores attaining the necessary average were Nonnye Huddleston, secondary ed; Bob Moore, math, Bryan Stauffer, liberal arts, and Spencer Ward, chemistry, Freshmen Joan Fyock, music; George Hess, chem; Arthur Norris, English; Barbara Shaffer, language; and Barbara Walls, liberal arts, round out the fall list.

Gay Nineties On Video Variety Show's Theme

The junior class will produce a Gay Nineties in Modern Day program in Oller Hall Saturday night, February 17.

Talent will be drawn from all classes for the show which will have as its theme a television program. The first half of the program will include songs by a sophomore trio, Marlene Sterner, Barbara Hootman and Stella Morgan; a monologue by Anna Mary Smith; a waltz by Lil Wiemar, Ruth Perestam, Pete Fahrney and Jerry Richards; and a can-can by the Modern Dance group.

The second half will be set in the present day and will include such talent as Pete Wright playing a Gershwin number, a return engagement of the trio, the Midnighters and a showbusiness finale. Jim Martin will act as master of ceremonies, while Joan McClure will be in charge of commercials.

The program will begin at 8:15 Following the show there will be a dance, at which refreshments will be served, in the Women's Gym.

Human Motion Pioneer To Give Lectures Here

Miss Betty Meredith Jones, pioneer in the study of human movement will be on campus next Thursday and Friday to hold classes in human action, dance, etc.

In 1952 she came to the United States from Great Britain. She had been teaching at the University of California in Berkeley in addition to lecturing and demonstrating at various institutions. More recently she conducted a workshop at Duke University and teaches at Columbia University.

Former Minister To Challenge JCA At Next Meeting

by Dave Amidon

A speaker of rare qualifications and wide experience who will address the student body from the Oller Hall platform this Tuesday at 7 p.m., Benjamin Miller comes to Juniata from the Society for Ethical Culture, voice of humanism in the United States.

An MA, he has held teaching posts at the State Universities of Missouri, California and Vermont, at the University of Southern California and elsewhere. Professionally he is affiliated with the National Association of Biblical Instructors and the American Academy of Political and Social Science, among a half-dozen others. Respected journals which have published his work include THE CHURCHMAN, THE CHRISTIAN CENTURY and THE SOCIALIST CALL, to name a few. In THE PERSONALIST of Spring, 1955, appeared A Minority Report on Religion, his most recent article.

Miller occupied Episcopalian pulpits in California from 1941 to 1948; thereafter he was active in the Diocese of Missouri until 1953. On April 2, 1954, he formally left the Christian ministry.

In the past four weeks the JCA has brought forward a series of very able Christians to answer the question What Is Christianity? These men were not in close agreement, but they accepted some common ground in trying to answer the same question. Whether openly or by implication, Miller will be addressing a very different question: What's Wrong With Christianity?

His answer will be a pointed dissent from the Christian Church.

College To Up Debaters' Aid

John Fike, Treasurer of Juniata College, has announced that the administration will double the grant to the debate Club this year increasing total aid to $200.

This action was encouraged by an article appearing in last week's Juniatian in which the Debate Club reported that they were lacking necessary funds because of their status as a club in the extra-curricular activities program. However, Mr. Fike stated that nothing could be done about changing the group's status until President Ellis returns to campus.

Mays Approached

When President Ellis returns from his around- the-world trip the Debate Club intends to continue its drive to be put on a varsity team basis.

Jim Montgomery, club president, also approached Acting President Mays on the subject and received further encouragement. Dr. Mays said that he felt debate was the type of activity which should be supported by everyone on campus. He plans to present the issue at the next meeting of the administration.

Students Will Have Chance To Consider Senate Proposal

by Bill Smith

The Juniata College Student Senate has completed work on the Disciplinary Committee which will be presented to the student body for acceptance or rejection in a general election before the end of this month.

This proposed Committee represents an attempt to alter the regulation of student behavior on this campus by shifting the responsibility for adjudication and punishment of misconduct from the administration to the students themselves.

Three successive Student Senates have worked on the concept of a Disciplinary Committee and this version represents the culmination of those three years of progressive effort.

Through this Committee we hope to provide an opportunity for more mature and responsible student self-government, and closer understanding and cooperation among students, administration and faculty. It is not intended to be merely an arm of the administration but a predominately student agency, subject only to the ultimate discretionary powers of the President, in cases of extreme misconduct.

It will remove from the shoulders of the Deans the task of imposing punishment on students, shifting it to this Committee which possesses the machinery to provide a judicial apraisal of the cases. By placing such power in the hands of the students it is hoped to reduce the inherent feeling of a student body that the administration is capricious or inconsistent in its application of rules. By assuming such power then it is hoped that the students will come to realize the problems and responsibilities involved in regulating student conduct.

Rather than attempting to enforce specific penalties automatically incurred through certain offences, the Committee, through its wide discretionary powers of decision, will be able to build up through the years, case precedents on all types of misdemeanors.

A majority of students, six in all, four elected directly by the student body, and two elected indirectly by way of the Senate along with two members of the administration and one member of the faculty will comprise the Committee

Its jurisdiction would coincide with that of the Grey Paper, which in its scope covers all of student life The Disciplinary Committee would not make new laws but, in light of the general nature of the regulations of the

Proposed Disciplinary Court Format

I. PURPOSE:

To implement the rules as stated in the Grey Paper, to give the student body an explicit means toward self-discipline, and a greater opportunity for self-government, and to improve cooperation between Administration, Faculty and Students.

II. COMPOSITION:

The Disciplinary Committee of Juniata College shall consist of four members of the student body, selected by their fellow students at a special election designed singularly for that purpose; the Chairman of Men's House and the Chairman of Women's House, as representatives from the Student Senate; the Dean of Women; the Dean of Men; and a member of the Faculty to be chosen by the Faculty.

The Dean of the College shall preside at the meetings but shall not be a voting member, except in the case of a tie vote. In his absence, the Dean of Women or the Dean of Men shall preside as hereinafter provided.

ELECTION OF STUDENT MEMBERS:

In the first Senate meeting in the month of April the Senate, providing a quorum is present, will nominate candidates for election to the Disciplinary Committee.

The nominees will be members of the junior or senior class in good academic standing. From each class not less than three nor more than four male students will be nominated. The Senate shall also nominate not less than three nor more than four female students from each of the two aforementioned classes in the same manner.

Petitions shall be made available to the general student body whereby any additional member (s) of the junior or senior classes may have his or her name added to the list of candidates by completion of a petition carrying the signatures of 10% of the full-time students of Juniata College. All petitions must be in the possession of the Vice-President of the Senate 24 hours before the election polls open.

The proposed nominations will be submitted to the Student body within 24 hours after they have been verified by the Senate. The Senate officer charged with the conduct of elections shall be responsible for furnishing equal opportunities for publicity for all candidates.

The first Monday following the first Senate meeting in April shall be designated as election day for student members to the Disciplinary Committee. No other elections shall be conducted at this time. From the names of the nominees one male and one female shall be selected from each (junior and senior) class, making the total of four student members of the Committee selected directly by the student body. The rules and procedures normally followed in student elections shall be observed in elections to the Disciplinary Committee.

III. TERM OF OFFICE:

The Chairman of the Disciplinary Committee has the responsibility to organize the Committee as soon as possible after the student members have been elected. This group shall serve until the installation of new members one year hence.

Vacancies occuring during the year among student members shall be filled promptly by the Senate in accordance with the procedure above prescribed.

IV. JURISDICTION:

The Disciplinary Committee shall have jurisdiction over all infractions of the Grey Paper. It may delegate authority over infractions of dormitory regulations (such as those regularly handled by the Men's House Committee) to one or the other of the respective House Committees.

MAJOR AND MINOR INFRACTIONS:

Minor infractions will be handled by the Disciplinary Committee according to the three-step procedure hereinafter described.

THE 3-STEP DISCIPLINARY PROCEDURE FOR MINOR INFRACTIONS:

1. When the Committee resolves by majority vote that a Juniata College student is guilty of misconduct, the student will be notified by the Committee that additional misconduct will result in further action.
2. With a second offense the student will appear before the Committee. A letter will be sent to the student's parents or guardians (in cases where appropriate) by the Committee telling of his misconduct and notifying them that a further offense will result in sterner disciplinary action.
3. Upon the third offense the student's case will be treated as a major infraction, subject to the recommendations of the Committee.

Matters delegated to a House Committee may be returned to the Disciplinary Committee. If the matter be so returned because of its gravity, it shall be considered a major infraction.

Infraction of a severe nature may be judged major by a 2/3 vote of those present, thereby passing over the above described three-step procedure.

REPORTING:

Infractions may be reported to the Committee by:
- Any member of the Committee
- Any member of the Faculty, through the Dean of the College
- The respective House Committees
- The Administration, by way of the respective Deans or the Dean of the College
- Members of the student body-at-large, through members of the Committee
- The head-waitress of the dining hall.

V. PROCEDURE:

The Disciplinary Committee will meet on a given Monday of every month. Special meeting may be called at the discretion of the Chairman, or at the suggestion of any member of the Committee. The Dean of the College will sit as Chairman in all meetings. In case of the absence of the Dean of the College, either the Dean of Men, in cases involving male students, or the Dean of Women, in cases involving female students, will preside over the meeting.

Six members of the Committee being present will constitute a quorum.

In the case of minor infractions the three-step disciplinary procedure will be executed by the Committee.

The student or students being charged with misconduct shall have the privilege of making a statement before the Committee in open or closed sessions, as determined by a vote of the Committee. Both the defendants and the Committee have the right to present testimony from persons having knowledge of the matter. Any member of the Committee is free to question both the defendant and others testifying.

When the Committee is satisfied they have a full report on the situation they will discuss in closed session what action will be taken. All Committee votes on such action will be by secret ballot, with a simple majority of those present being sufficient for a decision, except in the case of recommendations for expulsion from college, which requires a 2/3 vote of those present.

When a decision or recommendation has been agreed upon the defendant (s) will receive a copy thereof.

The student receiving the punishment may have written appeal to the Student Citizenship Committee which after examining the records may return the case to the Committee for reconsideration. If the Disciplinary Committee reiterates its decision it will be implemented in the regular manner.

In the case of major infractions the Committee may recommend severe punishment, i.e. suspension, expulsion, etc., Such recommendations shall be made to the appropriated Deans and the President of the College. If the President of the College does not concur with the punishment in grave cases he may indicate to the Committee the reason for his disapproval along with a direction for action. The Committee may then invite the President to discuss the case in a closed session for the purpose of reaching a final decision.

Execution of the Disciplinary Committee's final decisions will be handled by the appropriate Dean in the name of the Disciplinary Committee.

editorially speaking

Proposed Disciplinary Court Merits Careful Consideration

For the past few months a Senate committee, with the aid of Dr. Crosby, Dean Dove, and Dean Penney, has diligently been preparing a format for a proposed student-faculty disciplinary committee. Last week the Senate approved their format and resolved to put the proposed disciplinary committee to a student vote.

Before voting day, sometime during this month, each student should read thoroughly the format as printed on page one and carefully weigh he advantages and disadvantages, some of which are spelled out below.

This past year the students have made much ado about the Grey Paper — clarifying its rules, making enforcement uniform, and so forth. If this disciplinary committee goes into effect, students, through their elected representatives, will have more to say over the Grey Paper. The disciplinary committee members through their decisions will be able to clarify the Grey Paper rules and establish precedents to be followed in the future. This is one of the aims of the proposed organization — to expand student government.

It seems that students often feel that the Administration is harsh and unjust, that they cannot understand the student point of view. A disciplinary committee whereby violators would be tried by their peers, as well as by Administration representatives, should to some extent eliminate this problem. Then, too, the Administration so often bur[illegible] down with petty details and decisions would be relieved of some of these responsibilities.

On the debit side, one of the major drawbacks to such a system seems to be that those students on the court might habitually commit the same offense — drinking, for example — for which they must punish a violator who was unfortunate enough to get caught. Would his really be fair ?

There is the additional danger of partially being shown by those on the court. It would be difficult to be completely objective if a roommate or close friend, for instance, were to appear before the court. Likelihood of the students' electing to the court those who they know would not be so "rough" in their decisions should be somewhat lessened by the format's provision that the Senate appoint the candidates to be elected by the student body. However, as in any democratic organization, the responsibility of electing to the court students of high integrity will ultimately lie with the electorate.

At Asbury College, Kentucky, Dean Kenyon in recently explaining the reason that student members would not be allowed on Asbury's disciplinary committee, wrote "The difficulty of student representation is that the student group assumes only the responsibility of protection; as we might say, for the student. No student group or committee will assume the responsibility of reporting the discipline where needed in regard to students . . . . ." If this were to happen, the disciplinary committee would defeat its own purposes.

Be sure to look at both sides of the ledger closely and give careful consideration to the matter before casting your ballot. The disciplinary committee, as set up, can be a powerful organ — student representatives outnumber those from the Administration 2-1 and have an equal vote, and the committee will have jurisdiction over all infractions of the Grey Paper. If this system goes into effect it will undoubtedly have a tremendous influence on future as well as the current student generation at Juniata; if it is voted down, the students may be deprived of a good opportunity for more and better self-government. As responsible citizens of the College community, it is the duty of every one of us to vote conscienciously and help make this important decision.

Not Everyone Loves Lucy

by Jim Montgomery

The students of the University of Alabama have struck a blow for Southern rights. By a court order, the first Negro student was admitted to classes. Miss Lucy attended classes for three days and then some mature students took action into their own hands and rioted. After these students made their opinion known in such an enlightened and intelligent manner Pres. Carmichael took heed and ordered that Miss Lucy be banned from classes for her own safety. She had to leave town with a police escort.

The Supreme Court has given a decision concerning equality of education. This pertains to all 48 states, including Alabama. Colleges and Universities usually have an enlightened air wnich allow their students to see beyond provincial prejudices. Apparently, some students at Alabama don't have a sense of common decency, let alone an outlook that will lift them out of their local bigoty. These "students" have no respect for law and order, but rather prefer barbaric mob action against a defenseless girl. Such galantry!

Pres. Carmichael has promised action against the rioting students. So far, no news of such action has been forthcoming. The University's student government is now faced with a crucial decision; it may either submit and remain quiet to such lawless behaviour or it may take a strong stand against it. Stiff action must be taken against these rioters if the University is to redeem itself.

That the South has racial problems is true. But, this does not condone such senseless behavior on the part of the supposedly more intelligent members of our society. That the racial problem is deep-seated is, unfortunately true. But this does not allow for unthinking and brutal bigotry. No problem, no prejudice is sufficient justification for this shameful and stupid action by the University's students.

— Letters To The Editor —

Ed. Note—With all due apologies to the writers, the following letters have been greatly shortened because of a lack of printing spac.)

Dear Editor:

The column written last week by George Fattman entitled "As I See It" was devoted to an objective consideration of the 1955-56 Senate. After reading this study, which showed that the writer had failed to do adequate research, I felt it was my duty as a student to make a thorough investigation and report my findings.

I wish to point out that Fattman used only the success of a platform as the basis on which to judge the Senate. Perhaps he fails to realize the tremendous importance of Leadership Conference and the Senate's prompt reaction to events of the ensuing yar.

Upon perusal of the minutes of the Senate I discovered facts which led me to the conclusion that the 1955-56 Senate or the Hunt Administration, if you wish to personalize it was far above average . . . Because of space limitations I shall devote my letter to calling your attention to some achievemens of the Senate that lead to my conclusion:

Band uniforms - more than just a report; . . . disciplinary program, formulated with great effort; . . . New Dorm lobby opened to visitors through Senate action; plan for the use of Memorial Gym, manipulated by President Hunt to eliminate friction; German Club constitution unfinished by predecessors; financing of two foreign students, an additional student aided through cooperation with IRC; faculty chaperone program, prepared by Rosalie Langer; . . . . Inter-Club Council; . . . Intramural guidebook; . . . . frosh study halls abolished; . . . . . .

Gym initiation eliminated - an example of a progressive Senate which also gave sugestions for next year; . . . . road to new Dorm - Bernie Oriss has investigated this thoroughly but township and borough disagreement has detained action; folk dance program - something new in social programs and good only if students participate; representation at NSA Conference, through which our Senate representatives acquired valuable suggestions; usher program for Oller Hall established; . . . revised JCA Constitution.

Tangerine Bowl arrangements- bus transportation and lodging arrangements resulted from Senate action; revised method for election of class officers; . . . . Senate Constitution revision; Treasurer's office - Bary Drexler did an outstanding ob in cleaning up this area which was neglected over the years.

. . . . They made a promise of good government and by completing the above tasks they adhered to it. Hence the list represents a sample of forward progress of the 1955-56 Senate and as "I See It", Mr. Fattman, your obligation is to report more factual material in the future. At times I discovered the Senate fell short of hoped for goals but these you managed to point out last week. Match these achievements with those of previous administrations and you will come to the same conclusion as I: the 1955-56 Senate was indeed above average.

Respectfully submitted,
Bill Collins

In view of this additional information, columnist Faiman agrees that the 1955-56 Senate was above average. However, the statments made in his column last week were based solely on the campaign platform and a report which he had requested and received from Pres. Hunt. — Ed.

A DISSENT

To the Juniatian Editor:

Too often the efforts of those who attempt to serve our student body have met with destructive and opinionated criticism as their only reward. From year to year the social committee and its chairman have been number one scapegoats of such criticism, whether enlightened or otherwise. It is almost a "Juniata tradition". Once by direction and last week by indirection the people running our campus social activities have been accused of ineptitude in the Juniatian.

When pointed and biting criticism is leveled, justice demands that those who dissent from it give voice to their dissent. I have been much impressed by the originality of the social program of this year and the enthusiasm of its leaders—the Halloween Dance, the JWSF Box Luncheon, and the recent Valentine Dance, to cite but a few of this year's programs, have used intelligently executed new ideas—I believe the 1955-56 social program to have been one of the best in recent years, and I believe most of the criticisms leveled against it to have been either vague or petty.

Sincerely,
JIM STAYER

DUST COLLECTOR?

Dear Madam:

I, like others, am of the opinion that your paper is being used by certain 'elect' as a spring board for political endeavors. Their views on the news, which is actually a rewrite of the current Time and Newsweek, is so 'out of it.' The space could be used to a better advantage—.

What can be done to rid your paper, improving with every issue, of this dust collector?

BORED
(Name withheld upon request)

Dear Editor:

Something must be done to rectify the absurd state of the News Views column. There are three choices you have: (1) revise the method of writing, (2) get new writers or (3) dispose of the column. I suggest the last two means and prefer the latter.—

I regret to say that I continuously come across a noteworthy amount of deep-seated prejudice against non-caucasians on this supposedly Christian campus. I advocate no violent change; however, because this is a prominent and extremely explosive condition in the present world we owe ie to ourselves and our fellow students to provide the opportunities for them to reappraise their views. The methods would consist of more emphasis on nonnative American visitors on campus, but most important of all, the administration of this college must see that this campus is provided with Negro students. In other words, the presence of Negros on this campus is essential to remove prejudice.

The topic of Negros in this college was fairly well discussed in the April 29, 1955 Juniatian editorial. Although the administration's view was given as "There is no discrimination in admission because of race," there are no Negros currently at Juniata. I strongly urge the Student Senate to consider a resolution asking for definite procurement action by the Administration.

by Alma Skinner

In spite of Huntingdon slush and snow snow sloppily ushering in the second semester, there have been a few campus wits brightening the gloom.

During the that traumatic period of a few weeks ago, one student quipped as he viewed the examination questions, "I always like identifications. They're like the vocabulary tests in the Reader's Digest. You never know what they are but it's fun to look them up afterwards."

Then there was the elusive prof who when questioned in advance about the format of his exam informed the inquisitive one that it would be a gigantic crossword puzzle. I like crytograms better. How about you?

At the game between the JC Indians and the Covenanters, a time out gave someone opportunity to observe, "And there we have Cards Anyone?
a Geneva Conference."

A harrassed coed was fumbling through her class cards in a thus far vain attempt to come upon the proper one when the prof dryly commented that, really, they weren't playing pinochle.

One of the more glib JC students, upon seeing a prof whose class he had just cut, said, "Hi, how was class?" "Fine," the prof answered volubly, "The lecture was tremendous."

Perhaps some of you are feeling like the fellow at another college, who hoping to pick up a few points through a snap course, enrolled for basket-weaving. Much to his dismay he found two curve-breaking Navajos as classmates.

Hope you won't be like the girl who was overheard as she passed by the crowd grabbing for the Juniatian after chapel on Friday. "Oh, I won't bother. I got one last week."

SEGREGATION AT JC

To those responsible for the policy described herein:

Brotherhood—being a real practice rather than an intangible idea—is not completely present on the segregated campus of JC.

We practice brotherhood among ourselves, but unfortunately we are handicapped in that, although we may enjoy fellowship with students from other nations, we are deprived of the opportunity of learning what lies in the minds and hearts of yet another—the Negro, not only our friend, but Brother.

Oneders Pack Up Pack Kids Take First Defeat

Two very hard fought games were played in the girls' basketball league Thursday, February 9 with the Brumbaugh One'ders taking the Punchy Pack 14-12 in overtime and the Red Devils edging past the Krazy Kids 43-39 for the Krazy Kids first defeat of the season.

This consequently put the Krazy Kids in a three-way tie for second place.

Joyce Warfel, Red Devils, was high scorer for the night with 30 points. Jeanette Lowe racked up 20 for the Krazy Kids. Custer Wittenbrock, however, was the star of the night as she tossed in the two overtime points which won the game for the One'ders.

Former Professional To Bring Gettysburg To Play Indians Mon.

Bob Davies, former Rochester Royel and Seton Hall All-American, will bring his Gettysburg Bullets basketball team to Memorial Gym to battle the fighting Indians. The Bullets had compiled a record of six wins and eight losses. Among those losses were two to Temple, one to Bucknell, and one to Elizabethtown. One of the wins was an impressive, 100-94, victory over Muhlenberg, lone conquerors of Temple. Besides Bucknell, who nipped the Indians, 71-68; and Elizabethtown, who dropped J. C., 84-70; the Bullets have played and lost to Franklin and Marshall who lost to the Greenemen, 70-51.

Davis, in his first year as mentor at Gettysburg, has five lettermen back from last years squad that posted a record of nine wins and fourteen loses. Among those wins was a 92-73 trouncing of Juniata. This quintet of letter winners is led by captain Dick Hockenberry, from Philadelphia, and junior Al Teti, from Haddon Heights, New Jersey.

From The Bleachers

by Dave Suloff

It seems as though we are in the wrong season for sports for our stories, but nevertheless, here is a story taken from "The Herman Hickman Reader" that I would like to pass on to you.

The story was told to Hickman at a combined Yale-Harvard dinner, and of course, this oldest of all rivalries is a very warm one. A Yale man told a story about a brave Yale football captain saving a crippled newsboy's life when he had fallen in front of a streetcar in New Haven on a frozen, slippery day. The brave Yale football captain rushed out and picked up the newsboy just in the nick of time, and saved his life.

Heywood Broun, a Harvard man, said this was nothing. Practically the same event had taken place at Harvard, except that instead of it being a cold day, there was a blizzard blowing, and instead of it being a streetcar, it was a fast interurban moving at sixty miles an hour, and instead of it being a crippled newsboy, a mother had been crossing the street and she slipped and she and her little baby had fallen on the track before the onrushing interurban car, and instead of it being the captain of the Harvard team, a substitute end of the Harvard junior varsity rushed out, and instead of picking up the baby and the mother who had fallen on the tracks—he tackled the interurban car and threw it for a 100-yard loss.

Handzelek Leads Tribe To 96-93 Win; Red Devil Rally Falls In Final Minutes

Paced by Jake Handzelek, the Juniata Indians extended their winning streak to five games as the locals nosed out a stuborn Dickinson five 96-93.

These are the most points Dickinson has scored in any one game his season. The Red Devils of Carlisle trailed by as much as twelve points at various times during the fray but fought to within two points of the Tribe in the waning seconds.

With forty seconds to go Don Leggett tossed in a jump shot to cut the Indians lead to 95-93, then with ten seconds to go Walt Vanderbush was fouled and he promptly added the marker that decided the game. Vanderbush again had a good night as he dropped through twenty-five point.

The star for Dickinson was undoubtedly Jom Connor, who scored 37 points. That was the most points scored by an individual in a Juniata game this season. Juniata's Handzelek tossed in 33, while Leggett chipped in with 18 counters for Dickinson. The loss was the 12th in 13 games for the Red Devils while the Greenemen's record now stands at twelve won and six lost.

Indians Set Record

On Monday night Juniata entertained Grove City at the local gym and walked off with a 107-79 victory. These points established a new record for a Juniata team on the local floor. The win snapped a seven game Grove City winning streak. It was a race-horse type ball game all the way with the rules of basketball thrown out the window. A total of twenty-two boys participated in the game and they all scored.

The Tribe high scorers for the night were Walt Vanderbush with 25 and Jake Handzelek with 21. Sophomore Jim McElrath paced Grove City with 16 points. The visitors slate now stands at nine won and four lost.

Last S aturday Juniata traveled to Carlisle and came back with an 84-74victory over Dickinson. Juniata led by as many as twenty points at different times during the game. Dickinson cut JC's lead considerably in the second half after Walt Vanderbush fouled out. Walt ended with 28 points and Handy Handzelek and Lee Hallman had 21 and 18 points, respectively for the Greenemen.

Down SSTC

Last night a week Juniata defeated Shippensburg STC at the latters court 85-77. JC leading scorers were: Handzelek 26, Vanderbush 19, and Oriss 14. The Teachers were led by Pete Fackler with 20 and Jake Corwell with 18.

Boys IM Schedule Passes Mid-Point

As the intramural season reached the half way mark the defending champion Wolverines again moved into the number one slot.

The competition grew tighter as the fast moving Whips hit over the 100 mark defeating the Ubangies 104-44 to take their eighth win. The Galloping Ghosts, Sunbrookers, and 19th Holers are also top honor possibilities.

On Thursday the Ubangies upset the 19th Holers 51-49, and the Galloping Ghosts took a 58-27 win over the Sr. Goof-offs. FR&M was downed by the Whips 73-30 as the Wolverines dropped the Kourt Kats 34-29. The 9:00 action resulted in McKees Creek over Mighty Mites 50-26, and Mumblers over Sunbrookers 62-40.

In Saturday's games the Mumblers outscored the SOI 84-22 and the Dukes won by forfeit over the Rack Hounds. The Sunbrookers were defeated 59-30 by the Mighty Mites and the 19th Holers swamped the Kourt Kats 63-49.

Tuesday's games resulted in the 19th Holers edging the Kourt Jesters 54-51, McKees Creek over the Crusaders 77-54 and the Pretzels rolling the Sr. Goof-offs 102-48.

Authority Looks At 1956 Boxing

"With Archie Moore disposed of, who remains to challenge the mighty Marciano? Who, indeed."

With this question Ed Pazdur, one of sportsdom's top authorities, opens Playboy magazine's third annual ring preview for 1956. His article, entitled "Boxing 1956," appears in the February issue of Playboy.

Moore, the 38-year old light heavyweight champion, still ranks as Rocky's number one contender because of his showing against The Rock in their bout last year. But it is doubtful if Marciano and Moore will be matched again. The championship match was Marciano all the way.

Patterson Might

Best bet to beat Marciano comes with Floyd Patterson in 1957, writes Pazdur. Patterson, 21, copped the 1952 Middleweight Olympics championship and is the top light-heavyweight contender.

"Once Patterson has won the crown," predicts Pazdur, he should wear it for a long time."

Archie Moore rules the roost of the light-heavyweights. Top challengers are Floyd Patterson and Harold Johnson, but Patterson's managers, already looking toward a match with Marciano, are not expected to throw their boy against Moore.

Promising Newcomer

The most promising newcomer to the light-heavyweight ranks, says Pazdur, is Willie Pastrano. Because Johnson and Bob Satterfield have been beaten by Moore and because Patterson is being held to challenge the Rock, Pastrano may be pushed into a title fight with Moore prematurely.

Sugar Ray Robinson's remarkable comeback and smashing defeat of "Bobo" Olson in the second round of their Dec. 9 middleweight championship bout makes him the only man to win the middleweight title three times.

Trouble From S. A.

The Robinson-Olson rematch will be a "honey". If Sugar Ray loses he'll certainly retire. But whichever fighter wins, he can look for trouble from Eduardo Lausse, the hard-hitting South American.

The welterweight title has changed hands three times in the past year and a half. Johnny Saxton won it from Kid Galivan and lost it to Tony DeMarco. But Saxton, after several impressive victories, seems the next logical contendderd.

Carter Past Peak

Wallace "Bud" Smith successfully defended his lightweight title against three-times ex-champ Jimmy Carter. But Carter is now past his peak. Ralph Dupas and Duilo Loi are the only fighters with any chance of upsetting Wallace.

RELIGIOUS ACTIVITIES

by Jim Stayer

On this Sunday, February 19, the Juniata student body will observe World Day of Prayer.

In part, those who participate will be worshipping according to an order of worship translated into many languages and dialects and used by similar groups in all lands. The service, held in the Stone Church at 2:30 p.m. will not be in any sense a repetition of the normal Sunday worship service; it will represent an attempt by some of our fellow students to produce a brief (30 minutes) and powerful litany of prayer, emphasizing both prayer and our community with Christian students throughout the world.

New JCA Constitution

Primarily as a matter of good housekeeping the JCA Cabinet has drafted a new constitution for the JCA this year. Very often constitutions, especially those with rigid ammendment procedures, become worthless to the campus organizations they supposedly guide as those organizations evolve from year to year. This was the case with the old JCA constitution.

The new constitution makes numerous changes in procedure, has a more flexible method of ammendment and contains a purpose which more clearly recognizes the duty of the JCA to represent the whole of campus religious interest in its program. This constitution has already been approved by the Senate and the Student Activities Committee.

Some time next week JCA publicity director, Jim Montgomery will make a detailed explanation of the new constitution to the interested membership. It will be submitted to the membership at the time a new cabinet is elected.

Fundamentalist Answer

About sixty students were treated February 7 to a calm, consistent fundamentalist answer to the question, "Wnat is Christianity?"

The JCA was addressed on this subject by the Rev. Richard Myers of the Saltillo Calvary Independent Baptist Church. Rev. Myers stressed his belief that the doctrines of the liberal inspiration of the Bible and the Virgin Birth are central to Christianity.

Faith Supplements Quest

February 14 Dean Amos Horlacher of Dickinson College spoke for Unitarianism to a group diminished by an hour of waiting for the gentleman's arrival. Horlacher, while recognizing the importance of religious faith, stated that such faith should be a supplement to, not a contradiction of, rational quest for truth.

Mark-H-Group To Aid WJC Programming

A group represented by the letter—H— may be contributing much to a radio station represented by call letters WJC.

Mark —H— Productions, originated two weeks ago with the dual purpose of bettering campus radio programs and providing experience in producing and presenting campus radio programs and providing experience in producing and presenting radio shows for its members, has already made its impression in the current program schedule.

The 15 member committee has already taken charge of two weekly shows, Off the Record, heard Wednesday at 10, and Everybody Wins, Thursdays at 9. In the future the group would like to present a dramatic series and programs on procuring summer jobs. Also, after the committee better establishes itself, it will welcome the problems of other WJC shows to be of service in improving programs.

Named For WJC Founder

As an example of how Mark —H— (for Gene Hyssong, reputedly the father of WJC) works, let us look at how a typical program, Everybody Wins, is prepared for broadcast.

A committee prepares the questions, another obtains the contesants and provides for any audience there may be, a third committee is in charge of publicity and a fourth obtains prizes. Thus in this manner each show is efficiently produced to present as interesting a program as possible.

It is the desire of the committee to increase its membership so that it may carry out its aims and to increase program ratings through better planned programs.

LIKE TO SING?

Students who like to sing are invited to join the combined college and church choirs of Huntingdon in learning Stainer's cantata, The Crucifixion, to be given Palm Sunday evening. Those interested should come to rehearsal this Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Oller Hall.

FINAL TOUCHES — Paul Reetz, Tab Lyons, Margretta Davis and Ted Hetrick practice a skit to be used on a Mark-H-Production, while Mary Ellen Blessing readies sound effects.

Spiritual Emphasis Starts Sunday

Freshmen Plan Dance For Saturday Evening

Come on board tomorrow evening at 8:15 when the freshmen class sponsores a dance, Anchors Aweigh.

The place is the Memorial Gymnasium, so ship ahoy all you landlubbing laddies and lassies and trip the light fantastic toe to morrow evening with the class of '59.

Four Debaters To Go To Mt. Mercy Meet

Tomorrow four members of the Debate Team will travel to Pittsburgh to participate in a tournament at Mt. Mercy College.

The question will again be the guaranteed annual wage. George Carnahan and Clint Betz will present the affirmative case and Dick Backus and Jim Montgomery the negative. They will be accompanied by Miss Dickey.

Last Saturday the club compiled a record of one win and seven losses at the Kings' College Tournament at Wilkes-Barre. The negative team of Del McQuaide and Newton Taylor scored the lone win over Georgetown University.

Berthold To Lead Week's Activities

Dartmouth College News Service—Fred Berthold, assistant professor of Religion at Dartmouth College, will be on campus next week to lead Juniata's Spiritual Emphasis Week.

He is a 1945 graduate of Dartmouth, and during his undergraduate days here was a Rufus Choate and Phi Beta Kappa scholar. He received the Bachelor of Divinity degree from the University of Chicago in 1947 and took further graduate work at Columbia University.

Joined Faculty In 1949

After teaching a year at Utica College of Syracuse University, he joined the Dartmouth faculty in 1949 and became assistant professor of religion in 1951.

Both Professor Berthold and his wife, the former Laura B. McKusick, of Minneapolis, Minn., were ordained as ministers in the Plymouth Congregational Church of Utica, N.Y. They and their two children live in Hanover, N.H.

Something New — Books On Display

This year a new feature of Spiritual Emphasis Week activities will be a display of current religious books of interest to college students.

The display will last from Monday until Friday and will be set up in the alcove of the social rooms. Three different publishing companies have sent books ranging from those in theology to novels and devotional materials.

On Friday, the time to be announced later, the books will be offered for sale. Those not sold will be returned to the publishers. All are invited to visit the display.

Senate Hears Report On Day Student Issue; WJC Gets $25 More

The Student Senate has voted to allot WJC $25 yearly out of the Senate activities fund, which accrues from the linen concession.

This grant will be added to WJC's annual allotment from the College in order to insure the station's financial solvency, which has been a problem in the past.

Day Room Renovation

According to Bernie Oriss, Mr. Fike has announced that the College will undertake renovation of the men's day students room, in response to a Senate report and recommendation. Specific plans will be announced at a later date.

Bill Smith, Senate vice-president, submitted the dates for petitioning, campaigning and Senate elections. Petitions can be obtained from Smith or from Betty Beatty after meals in Totem Inn, starting today, and must be returned to them when the candidate has secured the signatures

The following have been set by the Senate as the dates for Senate and class officer elections, petioning and campaigning:

Friday, February 24—

Annual Campus Event Includes Discussions, Talks, Worship Period

by Barbara Smathers

As has been the custom for many years Juniata will observe Spiritual Emphasis Week from February 26 to March 4 with Fred Berthold, assistant professor of religion at Dartmouth, serving as leader and main speaker for the week's events.

Spiritual Emphasis Week will get underway this Sunday evening with the first of four discussion seminars which will be conducted by Prof. Berthold. Sunday evening's seminar entitled Reason and Revelation will begin at 7:30.

The second seminar will be held Monday on the subject, The New Law and the Christian Social Responsibility, and Tuesday night's discussion will center around The Importance of the Historical Jesus.

Both Monday and Tuesday night's discussions will take place at 7:15 in Founders Chapel. The final discussion due to the conflict with the Elizabethtown basketball game is scheduled for 6:30 in Founders Chapel and will have to do with Christianity and History.

Afternoon Teas

Afternoon teas will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at which time Mr. Berthold will be present to lead discussions while enjoying a period of socialization with the students.

Monday's discussion period will be a consideration of The New Attitude Towards the Bible and Tuesday's will involve a look at the Protestant View of the Church. For the final tea there will be an open discussion in order that the students may have an opportunity to raise questions.

Eileen Nelson and Carol Olbrich will act as hostesses for the teas which will be sreved in the social rooms.

Available For Counsel

During Prof. Berthold's stay on campus from Sunday through Thursday, he will be available for personal counseling appointments with any students who are interested in discussing with him problems of a religious or personal nature.

Neil Albright will arrange any desired appointments. While he is here, Prof. Berthold, will be es-

Mays Announces Test For Service Deferment

Students interested in takin the Selective Service College Qualification Test have until midnight Monday to submit application, it was announced today by Acting President Mays, test supervisor.

The test will be given at Juniata on April 19. The purpose of the testing program is to provide evidence for local Selective Service boards so they may consider student deferments for military registrants.

To be eligible to apply for the test, a student must intend to request deferment as a student, be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction and must not have previously taken the test.

Students are urged to have their completed application postmarked no later than midnight, March 5. Applications dated after March 5 will not be accepted.

For additional information, applications and addresses of test centers, students should consult any Selective Service Board. The Huntingdon County Board, No. 75, is located at 707 Washington St.

Architects Finish Plans For Women's Dormitory

Architects' plans are in and the site has been selected for a new residence hall for women on the Juniata College campus.

A four-floor, red-brick structure has been designed by Hunter, Caldwell and Campbell, architects of Altoona, and will be erected on the site of the present Geiger House at 18th and Oneida Streets.

The college has presented its plans to the Government's Housing and Home Finance Agency with the hope of gaining approval for a loan of $575,000 in order to begin construction in late summer, according to John T. Fike, treasurer.

Present plans call for the dormitory to house 120 girls and provide a dining hall for 200. Space also has been provided to include a college dispensary to replace the infirmary. The entrance to the proposed L-shaped building will be at the corner of 18th and Oneida Streets. Wings will extend on 18th Street to the East and on Oneida to the South.

The first floor has been designed to include a kitchen, dining room and activities room. Included in the kitchen area will be a serving area, cooler, freezer and office space. The dining area will include a main dining room, a meeting room and activity room—all of which could be used for a large banquet. A small kitchenette also is planned. Trunk storage, washing, ironing and drying rooms have been planned for the ground floor.

A looby-lounge is planned at the main entrance on the main floor. Its estimated size is 38' x28', but will have glass brick wall to make space appear greater. A sign-out desk will be located off the lounge. The suite for the residence housemother and guest room and bath will be located off the lobby. In addition, 12 rooms for girls are planned for this floor.

On the south wing along Oneida Street, the dispensary area will be included in the building. It will include four semi-private rooms, two baths, a doctor's examining room, nurses' station, utility and waiting dooms. A suit for two nurses also is located in one area.

The third and fourth floor plans are identical with 24 rooms located on each. Bathrooms, storage space and ironing rooms also are included in the plans.

Test Your GIQ

The annual general information contest is scheduled for March 14. Test your knowledge with the following questions:

1. What great actress is costarring with automation?
2. What book, written in Asia, is far better known in Europe and America?
3. Was Grover Cleveland the only American President who was a bachelor when he assumed office?
4. Geographically speaking, what non-American country is closest to North America?

H. B. Brumbaugh Pens 'How To' Mag Articles

An article entitles "How To Work With Students and Faculty in Fund Raising," written by Harold B. Brumbaugh of Juniata College, has been published by American Alumni Council in its 200-page book on Educational Fund Raising.

Mr. Brumbaugh is alumni secretary and assistant to the president of Juniata College. In addition, Mr. Brumbaugh contributed an article on "How To Survive As An All-Purpose Secretary" to a recent issue of the American Alumni Council News.

Choir Plans Tour To Area Churches

The touring choir will continue this season's round of visits during the coming week when Sunday, Feb. 26, three stops will be made in this vicinity.

In the morning the Church of the Brethren, New Enterprise; in the afternoon at the Church of the Brethren, Roaring Spring and completing the day at the Memorial Church of the Brethren, Martinsburg.

The other stop of the week occurs Friday, March 2, at Bellefonte High School.

Reporter Reviews Life Of Menagerie's Author

The Juniatian presents a biography of Tennessee Williams in connection with the future production of his The Glass Menagerie by the Masque.

by Jan Schall

Tennessee Williams has had sufficient experience in his life to fill a casebook.

As a child, he lived in Columbus, Missouri, where an image took root which has haunted much of his work: the South-fading mansion of gentility. The first great jolt of his life occurred when his family moved to St. Louis.

"We suddenly discovered," Williams says, "that there were two kinds of people, the rich and the poor, and that we belonged more to the latter."

His world split into two halves the soft feminine world of the room that he and his sister filled with little glass animals and the cruel, male world of the alley outside.

Worked In Factory

He entered the University of Missouri, but the depression sent him to work for three memorably detested years in a shoe factory. The result was a heart attack followed by a complete physical breakdown. He later returned to his studies and took a BA at the University of Iowa.

Subjecting his life to its second great jolt, Williams left home, did odd jobs and some writing. Perhaps because of a literary disappointment he developed a cataract in his left eye. The next two years found him a vagabond in Bohemia, the victim of a hectic nervous system.

Hollywood Contract

During a six month contract in Hollywood, he spent most of his time writing The Glass Menagerie. In this his twin worlds of fact and dream came out for the first time ristinct and whole. Its success gave him security, but "security," he wrote, "is a kind of death." To escape, he returned to New Orleans, cheap hotels, rented apartments.

He was able to release all the built-up emotional content in Streetcar. Since then Williams completed several outstanding works: Summer and Smoke, The Rose Tattoo and Cat On A Hot Roof.

Closing Snack Bar, Post Office During Chapel Is Asinine Policy

Last Thursday morning students were "requested" to attend an All-College meeting in Oller Hall; in order to assure that this meeting would be well-attended, the Totem Inn snack bar and post office were closed to the student body. On Monday morning Katherine Bacon performed in chapel; to assure that this program would be well-attended, it was not announced that the chapel would last an hour.

It is not enough that these under-handed attempts to make attendance almost doubly compulsory are employed for chapel, now they are even being used for All-College meetings. It is pretty sad if college students cannot be left to decide for themselvs whether or not to attend a meeting without outside pressures being brought to bear.

Culture Compulsory, Too?

As for chapel attendance, students are allowed six cuts per semester, supposedly to be taken at their own discrimination. If they want to cut an hour chapel, they should be given the opportunity to do so. Admittedly we should take advantage of cultural opportunities, but culture, like almost everything else, is much more effective if it is received on a voluntary basis. Hour chapels should be publicized.

Then, too, Totem Inn was a student project, and the students were given a voice in running it with the stipulation that they help retire the debt. The $2.00 assessment has not failed to appear on each semester bill, but when an Administrative decree was handed down that the snack bar and post office were to be closed on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 10-10:30, they were closed—period. Students were not consulted at all as they should have been through their representives, the Senate.

Another thing, the College post office is a sub-station of the Huntingdon post office, thus making it subject to federal regulation. One of these regulations is that it remain open at the scheduled hours. Indeed it is open to any of the townsfolk who may wish to patronize it, but students are discriminated against. It is doubtful if federal regulations would sanction such discrimination.

Stamp Purchases Harmless

Withholding mail until after the chapel period is another matter—rustling newspapers and tearing envelopes might very well unnerve the chapel speaker. However, a student who wants to take one of his cuts and get a cup of coffee or purchase a stamp would not be doing anybody any harm.

Finally, if those who take more than their share of cuts were punished, this will be under the disciplinary committee's jurisdiction if the committee is accepted, and the punishment were uniform—not expelling one person for ten cuts or so and completely overlooking another who had more than thirty, as has been known to happen, a device as childish as cutting off the "kiddies'" supply of "goodies" would not be at all necessary. This is college, not kindergarten. Why not try more adult methods?

JC Deserves Clean Campaign

With the coming days politics, so often unsavory, will arrive on campus.

It is unfortunate that we at Juniata have to be subjected to demagoguery and boisterous campaigning when the important thing is the value of the candidate as a leader. Campaigns are fun of course, but we can place too much emphasis upon them when emotions get involved.

A warning: Beware of "Dear Friend" letters, rash promises, etc. Check each candidate's actions in other organizations. Find out his contributions at Leadership Conference (if he went) and just what he's done for the student body in the past. This will be a pretty good indication of what to expect in the future. Students have a right to be subjected to decent campaigns.

Impending Danger

There is a physical situation on our campus which is extremely serious, namely the pit of water (at least six feet deep) located in the remains of the Lodge on the north end of campus.

This pit is within ready access of a number of children who wonder on campus and who have been seen playing in this area. At times a thin layer of ice has formed over this water... need I say more except to plead for action.

Space limited me from being more specific in my comments on the social committee in my last column. While I still don't know just what the author of the "pro-social committee" letter meant in describing Juniatian comment on its chairman so inconsistently as "pointed and biting" but "vague and petty," I know of no time during the year when this paper carried any articles condemning Rosalie Langer.

However, the social committee has been overpopulated with drones who accepted the appointment and then did nothing. It is therefore a small wonder that Miss Langer with the few workers who stuck by her accomplished what she did. But even she will admit that the job would have been much easier if the majority of the committee hadn't alibied out of work.

But don't get me wrong—it's roses to Rosalie for the hard work she's done.

Republicans, Democrats Will Vie For Control Of 85th Congress

by Newt Taylor

While the attention of the nation is focused upon the Presidential election the battle is shaping up for control of he 85th Congress.

The fight for control of the House of Representatives (now held by the Democrats) is more closely tied to the Presidential race because there is always much straight ticket voting.

Both parties will concentrate on the districts that were close in the past couple elections. In 1956 the GOP will seek more seats in the South. The Democrats have a good chance to gain in California and in the heavily populated Eastern states.

GOP Needs 2 Seats

The Senate picture is more complex. The Senators up for re-election are those elected in 1950 a year the Republicans made sharp gains because of the Korean War. Many GOP Senators that face re-election are from states where the division between the parties is small. The Republicans must gain two seats to control the Senate in the 85th Congress.

However, the Republican Senators elected in 1950 are, for the most part, a mediocre group. The Democrats are putting first-class men up against them. Here in Pennsylvania Senator Duff faces a tough fight from the very able former Mayor of Philadelphia, Joseph S. Clark, Jr. The popular Democratic Governor of Connecticut Abraham Ribicoff is challenging the mediocre Republican Prescott Bush. In Ohio Democratic Governor Frank Lausche is a strong threat to burly Republican George Bender. Other GOP Senators who face tough fights are Wisconsin's Alexander Wiley, Illinois' Everett Dirksen, and Idaho's Herman Welker.

Chance In Nevada

Democratic Senators whom the GOP could unseat are far left Herbert Lehman in New York maverick Wayne Morse in Oregon and playboy Warren Magnuson in Washington. They have a good chance in Nevada where popular Democrat Alan Bible is retiring.

However, the possibility that key Republican Senators may be defeated is greater than the chance for GOP gains. This is one reason why Republican leaders would like to have the magic name of Dwight Eisenhower at the top of the ticket.

Accent On Reading

Inside Africa, by John Gunther. In the familiar manner of his earlier surveys the author investigates political and social conditions on the African continent. Pleading the magnitude of this task, he apologizes for the length of a book into which he has compressed a staggering amount of information, some of it fairly widely known, and some not so well known. In journalistic fashion the text follows the general path of the author's itinerary, from the north and east to the south and west.

Intercollegiate Chatter

by Nancy Freed

In keeping with tradition the co-eds of McPherson College celebrated the week of February 7-14 as Heart Sister Week.

During the week each person is expected to do some deed of kindness for her Heart Sister, the name of each Heart Sister having been obtained by chance drawing. On February 14, St. Valentine's Day, a big party terminates each girl's role as the secret, good fairy when all the Heart Sisters are revealed. To develop deeper friendship, to create a feeling of brotherhood, and to have everyone, perhaps for the first time, experience the true joy of doing something for the other fellow with a sense of good-will as the only motivation; indeed these are worthwhile aims for any activity.

A student from Susquehanna U. gathered her wits together and produced a humorous dissertion concerning her time spent during semester vacation. The following is a schedule she worked out in some detail for the present semester: in economics class I read magazines; history is for drawing pictures; in chemistry class I chat with my neighbor; in math class I sleep; psychology is for analyzing the professor; in sociology I write my letters home; in language class I do my daydreaming; in music class I file my nails; in lit I do my studying for the next day; and in phys. ed. I get my two showers for the week. For all you professors who are snickering, be not amused, for sturally do work out such schedules!

Looking for some way to make your first million? A North Manchester University "Joe College" was doing just that, so a certain professor suggested he experiment and invest in an antiseptic lipstick. . . for that disinfected kiss. Mr. Joe College decided against any such action, for past experience and the power of observation told him that no one was afraid of germs.

PLATFORMS UNRELIABLE

Dear Editor:

...May I point out that Bill Collins' report was very one-sided in that it showed only the accomplishments of the Senate as recorded in the minutes.... It failed to mention the things the Senate didn't do as pointed up in the review of the president's platform and what about the issues brought up at meetings but dropped because action was not taken?....

One thing this whole issue seems to point up is how little students can rely on a candidate's platform.

P.S.

NORTH PREJUDICED, TOO

Dear Editor:

In response to a letter in last week's Juniatian (February 17) on segregation at JC, I, a person from the "wrong side of the tracks," would like to add a few comments.

I came to Juniata in ignorance of the apparent segregation existing here. I live in a town which is 65 percent Negro but at the same time, a town whose white population shows immense prejudice toward "our friend and brother"... Therefore, I anticipated.. knowing the opportunity of getting to the "heart and soul" of a few (at least!) Negros, to get their philosophies and thoughts. The lack of this opportunity has greatly disappointed me since I was under the impression there was much less prejudice in the North, especially on the college level, against the Negro.

As a personal note, I would like to add that I can't understand how the students and faculty here can feel so free and at ease at condemning the problems revolving around segregation in the South, when they are, at the same time, refusing to intregrate themselves.

NEWS VIEWS SHOULD GROW

Dear Editor:

I should like to answer the contributor of the "little gem" of an article entitled "Dust Collector." In my opinion one of the features which makes the Juniatian as great as it is is the fact that there is a place for those "elect" who feel free to, and eligible to, voice their opinion.

I feel that if BORED wishes to contribute to the success of the Juniatian, he or she should write challenging articles rather than eliminate freedom of the press.... I should like to see the column grow rather than be eliminated because of petty prejudices.

E-town Game Final Buzz To End 5 Court Careers

by Noel Plummer

When the final buzzer brings to an end the basketball game between the Indians and Elizabethtown next Wednesday, it will also bring to a halt the college basketball careers of five of Juniata's seniors, Lee Hallman, Bernie Oriss, Torry Froisland, Jake Handzelek, and Walt Vanderbush.

The main point getter for the Indians has been one Jacob Casper Handzelek, of Moscanaqua. In his four years on Dr. Arnold Greene's team, Jake has shattered every season shooting mark on the Indians' record books. He's registered the highest average per game (26.3), scored the most points (553), most field goals, and most foul shots.

He is also the first player in Juniata's 52 basketball seasons to score more than 400 points in four successive seasons.

Tall Man

The tall man of the team, 6-6 Walt Vanderbush from West Orange, N.J., is second highest in the scoring department. Walt has flipped in 1,072 points and has bettered 200 per season in his four years.

Lee Hallman, of Pottstown, has also had the best season of his career. Lee has dropped in over 200 markers the past two seasons and has been a steady floorman.

The team of seniors is rounded out by two blond-haired gentlemen, Bernie Oriss of North Braddock, and Torry Froisland of West Orange, N.J. Though they are not high point-getters, their defensive work and superior ball handling has definitely been an asset to the team.

Comments On Activity

Each of them had this to say when asked for a comment about their basketball careers at Juniata:

Lee Hallman—"A beneficial four years from the standpoint of experience, friendship, humor, and development."

Torry Froisland—"This season has been a little disappointing, but an interesting one as all seasons go. It has been a pleasure to play with the team."

Bernie Oriss—"The past four years at Juniata College have been ones filled with hard work, but ones that will never be regretted. Win or lose, it certainly has been a pleasure to play ball with a swell bunch of guys. Best of luck to future Juniata College Basketball Teams."

Jake Handzelek—"It was a pleasure to play with a fine group of men who had the elements of confidence, cooperation, determination and spirit which proved to be the most successful regime in Juniata's basketball history."

Walt Vanderbush—"I feel that I have profited in many ways through my basketball experience during the past four years. I express my appreciation to all those who have helped and encouraged me."

These boys have put forth a lot of effort, time and sweat for basketball fans. Wednesday night will end all of that. It may be happy or it may be sad but nevertheless we owe them thanks for time, loyalty and effort.

Buffaloes Lose First; Rowdies Smash Girls

The Buffaloes suffered their first defeat at the hands of the Squaws on Thursday.

Other than the 48-25 Squaw win, the Rowdies downed the Geiger Girls 40-25, and the Hoboes handed the Brumbaugh One'ders a 2-0 forfeit win.

Arleen Schmidlen, Rowdies, was high scorer for the night with 29 points. Patience Kimlock and Jill Derstine, Squaws, had 26 and 18 points respectively; Swartz, Buffalo's, 12; Nancy Backman, Rowdies, 11, and Lashly, Geiger Girls, 10.

Swansong Game For 5 Seniors Wednesday

Indians Will Close BB Seasuo Against Warriors, Blue Jays

Juniata's basketball team will bring to a close another winning season tonight and Wednesday night when the Indians encounter Lycoming and Elizabethtown, respectively. Tonight Doc Greene's charges will be in Williamsport. The season finale will be played here starting at 8:30 on Wednesday

Lycoming will be seeking revenge for a thrilling 98-85 overtime loss to the Braves here January 21. As of February 21 the Warriors had a 10-7 record. In competition with two common foes this year—Susquehanna and Elizabethtown—the Lycos have lost twice to both. JC downed Susquehanna two times and dropped its first contest with E-town. To win its seventh victory in this, the thirteenth meeting of the two schools on the hardwood, Juniata will have to check Juniata record holder Joe Hawkins, Al Wilson, and Ron Kitt.

Up until the 21st of this month, Elizabethtown had a fine 13-3 record. Those losses were to strong Lebanon Valley, St. Joseph's, conquerors of St. Francis of Brooklyn, and a team in the York Tourney. All the Blue Jay starters are averaging better than ten points per game. Bill Pensyl has the best average with 15.7, but Saul Paone has garnered the most points, 246. The Indians will be looking for a victory to ring down the curtain on this season on a successful note.

Teti Scores 30 Points To Let Gettysburg Snap Tribe's 5 Game Streak

by Bill Mariotti

Led by junior guard Al Teti's 30 points, Gettysburg snapped a Juniata five-game winning streak as they downed the locals 93-76 at Memorial Gym.

The Bullets, coached by famous professional star Bob Davies, kept their lead in the vicinity of 10 points the entire game. At one stage with about six minutes to go the Greenemen pulled to within four points of the Lutheran affiliated college.

Played Navy and Temple

Frank Capitani helped Teti in keeping Gettysburg ahead with timely buckets and finally ended with 21. Gettysburg, which has played such formidable foes this season as Navy, Temple and Muhlenburg, led by a 50-39 count at halftime.

Once again Juniata was paced in the scoring column by Jake Handzelek. Jake hit for 22 which, incidentally, is his average for the season.

Record At 12 and 7

Playmaker Lee Hallman dropped in 13. Juniata's record now stands at 12 won and 7 lost while Gettysburg's is 8 and 9.

Wolverines Hold Lead In Boys' IM Contest

Due to the postponement of all Saturday's games the intramural league standings remained relatively unchanged this week with the defending champion Wolverines still maintaining a half game lead over the Whips.

The Galloping Ghosts follow a close third. All three teams have suffered only two setbacks in the vital loss column.

In Thursday night's games, the Galloping Ghosts downed FR&M 45-34. McKees Creek defeated the Sunbrookers 65-53, and the Mumblers swamped the Rack Hounds 100-40.

The JC Juniors were edged by the SOI 57-51, and the Dukes outscored the 19th Holers 56-34, as the Whips took a 67-44 win over the Mighty Mites.

On Tuesday the Crusaders dropped the Ubangies 59-33, and the Wolverines nipped the 19th Holers 39-36. The Court Jesters were rolled by the Whips 112-35, as the Mumblers beat the Mighty Mites by a 53-39 count.

Folk Dance Group To Function Soon

Chairman of social activities Rosalie Langer recently announced an addition to the campus social calendar, a program of learning and enjoying the folk dances of many lands.

Mrs. Edwin Blaisdell will be in charge. At present is is planned to hold these dances each Friday evening in the Women's Gym. Miss Langer pointed out the advantages of the program in the categories of fun, relaxation and education and urges those interested to participate.

Senate . . . .

In addition to Smith, chairman of elections, and Miss Beatty, the elections committee consists of Barry Drexler and Joan McClure. Questions concerning elections should be addressed to these senators.

It was decided that discussion sessions on the proposed disciplinary committee will be held this coming week, with the proposal being put to a student vote Wednesday, March 7. The times and places of these sessions will be posted on the bulletin boards soon.

Students are urged to share the classrooms in Students' Hall when studying there. For each student to occupy one room is a gross waste of electricity. Also, all lights should be turned off in unoccupied rooms. Failure to comply with these requests will undoubtedly lead to revocation of the privilege of studying in Students' Hall.

Rosalie Langer reported that through the Memorial Gymnasium Program, permission has been granted to the freshman class to use the gym mezzanine for the dance which the class is sponsoring this Saturday night.

Morning devotions will be held at the Stone Church from 7:30 to 7:55 Monday through Friday of Spiritual Emphasis Week. Leader for the devotional period will be Charlie Haines.

A news sheet featuring the highlights of the week's events will be put out Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday with Lee Davidson acting as editor for the three editions.

Arrangements have been made by Sam Douglas and Ann Willson for discussion sessions which are to take place in the various dorms at 10:30 Thursday evening in order to give the students an opportunity to crystalize impressions of the week's activities. Six faculty leaders will be on hand in the girl's dorm and four in the men's to guide student reactions questions, and assertions.

Sunday, March 4, Spiritual Emphasis Week Activities will be brought to a close as various small groups gather in faculty homes to ponder issues dealt with during the week. Ann Willson and Sandy Johnson will be in charge of planning these gatherings.

Juniatian To Test Reporters' Ability

In an effort to better Juniatian write-ups, acquaint our reporters with their style sheets, determine the competence of our writers and limit the news, sports and feature staffs to only those interested enough to be efficient, the managing editor of this paper will conduct a Reporters' Competence Test Monday, March 5, at 1:20 p.m. on the second floor of Students' Hall.

In preparation for this exam, which all Juniatian reporters must take, writers should become familiar with the style sheet (available in the Publications Office) and with a supplementary list of style rules posted on the bulletin board of that office.

Those taking the test should be on time and bring a pencil. Those not on theJuniatian staff who may be interested in taking the test are welcome to do so.

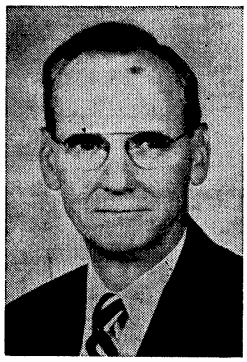
Welcome Back, President Ellis



Pres. Calvert N. Ellis, D.D.
Returns From Tour

President Ellis was in his office this morning after returning to the Huntingdon area last evening from his 3-month trip around the world.

He arrived here Wednesday evening: The president has been away since November 26 of last year.

In the president's absence, Dr. Morley Mays served as acting president.

Much of the three months was spent in Bombay, India, where President Ellis met with the leaders of the Christian Council of India representing the Church of the Brethren and the National Council of Churches here in the states.

Read the third in a series of articles on the president's tour on page 4.

Students To See Grapes Of Wrath

This Saturday evening students will see the 20th Century-Fox film, Grapes of Wrath.

Starring Henry Fonda, it will be shown in Oller Hall at 8:30 p.m. It is one of a series of three films to be shown this spring by popular choice of the student body.

Grapes of Wrath is a story of a people of drought and dust who failed to restore their land — — and the terrible vengeance exacted by the ravished land. This film is an Academy Award winner and is also on the Ten Best list.

The showing of the movie will be followed by a dance in the Women's Gym.

Senate Lists Campaign Rules, Postpones Disc. Comm. Vote

The student vote on th proposed disciplinary committee, originally scheduled for next Wednesday, has been postponed in order that consultation with President Ellis and perhaps faculty-administration consideration of the charter may be had first.

The Senate has also released the following rules for campaigning, which begins for officer candidates Wednesday, March 7.

1. a. nothing in the dining hall.
b. nothing inside or on the doors of Totem Inn.
c. nothing in the Social Rooms or the administrative area of Founder's Hall.
d. posters are not allowed to face Moore Street.
e. no posters are permitted in front of Oller Hall.

2 Candidates must be in good academic standing; before campaigning they must affirm that they intend to continue studies at Juniata for at least one year subsequent to taking office.

3. Each candidate's campaign expenses shall not exceed five dollars.

4. The campaign cannot begin before 6 a.m. Wednesday, March 7.

5. The campaign must close by midnight prior to election day. (for officers, Tuesday, March 13; for chairmanships, Tuesday, March 20.)

Chairmanship petitions will be available Wednesday, March 7. The Senate encourages all candidates for any Senate position to attend the open meetings between now and election time.

After some discussion, the issues of the major and minor classification system of campus offices and the awarding of credit hours for extra-curricular activities, both on this week's agenda, were referred back to the committees for further investigation.

Literally, Figuratively Student Is Washed Up

(ACP) — One student's curiosity got the better of him at the University of Illinois.

An employee of the student union, he became fascinated by a new fangled dishwasher recently installed . . . a conveyor belt affair that sends dishes through 24 feet of soaping and rinsing.

He figured, quite astutely, that if dishes could be washed in it, why not humans?

Since the water was turned off, he began a dry test run, climbing up and stretching out on one end of the conveyor belt.

He rode along the belt through the various compartments and as he sailed out the other end, he was "greeted" by a supervisor who happened to be passing by. Result of his curiosity . . . he's no longer an employee of the student union.

Hurrah For Game Wardens

Definition from the Omega, Georgia, News: The difference between a housemother and a game warden is that the game warden protects wildlife and the housemother prevents it.

From the Renesselaer Polytechnic . . . . A college freshman was being severely criticized by his professor.

"Your latest paper was very difficult to read," said the professor. "Your work should be written so that even the most ignorant will be able to understand it."

"Yes, sir," said the student. "What part didn't you get?"

'60 Scout Editor Names Reporters

Janice Hoyer, editor of the forthcoming Scout, has announced her staff.

Jay Muir has been chosen to be advertising manager and Doc Kramer, the business manager.

Reporters and contributors will be Janet Binkley, Chuck Brown, George Fattman, Nancy Hess, Joan McClure, Del McQuaide, Barbara Orner, Sue Peterson, and Jim Hunt.

Publication date for the Scout will be sometime in the late spring. The Scout is to be mailed to the incoming freshmen sometime during the summer.

Friend Removes Hazardous Hole

Paul Friend, Business Manager, took steps this week to alleviate the danger imposed by a hazardous pit in the remains of the Lodge.

Less than a half hour after the report of the danger on the north end of campus, carried in last week's Juniatian, was brought to his attention someone was sent to investigate the situation. Tuesday the area was drained, and Wednesday the remains of the chimney were blown out after which workmen started to fill in the pit.

He pointed out that the matter would have been taken care of much earlier except that the bricks from the chimney were to be utilized in building a fireplace for the Operation Recreation area, and his department was waiting for these to be removed.

ETS Announces Test For Pre-Med Majors

Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1957 are advised to take the Medical College Admission Test in May, it was announced by Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test for the Association of American Medical Colleges.

Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 5, 1956, or on Tuesday, October 30, 1956. AAMC recommends that candidates for admission to classes starting in the fall of 1957 take the May test.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information are available from Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, N.J.

Completed applications must reach the ETS office by April 21 and October 16, respectively, for the May 5 and October 30 administrations.

Spring Is Just Around Corner — Clubs, Social Comm. Plan Preview

Spring is just around the corner—and so to get a preview of the good old spring feeling, the Social Committee and Inter-Club Council are planning a big, full night of fun for College Hill.

On Saturday, March 10, the Women's Gym will be the scene of a gala Spring Carnival—complete with booths, music, entertainment, prizes, refreshments and fun for everyone. So put a great big X on your social calendar and plan to spend that Saturday night at the Spring Carnival. You won't want to miss a minute of it.

As part of the Spring Carnival, there is to be a hobby display. Students having any collections such as stamps, coins or salt and pepper shakers—maybe even a hobby of painting or photography should contact Rosalie Langer, P O Box 4, as soon as possible.

Professors as well as students are asked to contribute to the Campus Hobby Exhibit.

No Segregation At JC —

Recently a number of letters on the topic of segregation and whether or not it exists on the Juniata campus have been received by the Juniatian.

Although this matter was discussed in an editorial in the April 29, 1955 issue, in light of this new edition, we again approached the Administration for its views on the issue.

President Ellis was not available at the beginning of the week for a statement on the official college policy in regard to segregation, but both Dean Mays and Mr. Newcombe, Director of Admissions, definitely feel that there is no segregation of students here.

Righteousness on Sleeve

Dean Mays, in explaining his attitude on the subject, said that he feels that just as we should not refuse a person on the basis of his color only, neither should we seek him on that basis alone, for this would be "wearing our righteousness on our sleeve." Mays also pointed out that in the past there have been negro student girls who have lived in the dormitory.

Mr. Newcombe, too stated that if Negro applicants meet all the qualifications for admission, they are not turned down because of color. In fact, at the present the Admissions Office has its eye on a Negro basketball player for next year, he went on; however, he must come up to the College's academic standards for admission before he is accepted.

"If there is segregation practiced by the admissions committee, the chairman is unaware of it," Newcombe concluded.

Senate Not All Glory —

As is the case every year at this time, interest in the Senate is running at a fever pitch.

If one considers that after the elections are over, not many students pay any attention to their Senate, this intense interest certainly seems out of proportion. Certainly it should not be so all-consuming that one is willing to lose friends or jeopardize studies because of it. Besides, too many candidates are seeking "glory" and failing to realize that there is a lot of hard work connected with being a senator, too.

If you are thinking of running, first ask yourself these questions: Are you conscientious, dependable, and efficient? Do you have good ideas? Are you able to discuss them? Are you willing to give up Wednesday evenings, usually 2-3 hours (foregoing after-dinner dances)?? If you want to be president or vice president, can you conduct a meeting decently? Are you willing to work hard at committee jobs, such as table assignments, club constitutions, or constitution revisions, as well as at the duties your particular position would entail? Do you have tough skin (for presidential, social chairmen candidates)?

If you rate high on this quiz, chance are you will make a god senator, but those who are merely seeking personal glory will be sadly disappointed.

And voters, this is not a popularity contest! If you want your Senate to be effective, vote for the best-qualified, not the best-liked candidate.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

Hats Off To The JCA

The 1955 Spiritual Emphasis Week, which has been very efficiently planned and carried out, is typical of the fine job the JCA has been doing for the past year.

Throughout the year their programs have been varied, well-organized and well-executed, and the speakers, along with such excellent ideas as the new political action cell group, have been commendable attempts to inspire intelligent thinking on the part of the students.

Campus Capers

Even though the stretch from semester vacation to Spring vacation—at least until the Senate elections and the play take over the center of attention—as usual, is a long and dull one (noticed those mass exoduses of students from campus each weekend?), here and there one finds a bright-eyed student or prof doing his best to bring joy to the Cheerless.

Pun Fun

Just the other night, for example, a "witty" young fellow, commenting on an E-town player who had 29 points, punned, "Pennsyl was sharp tonight."

Think that's bad? Then you must not have heard about the fellow who, after making a bread and butter sandwich, said, "Oh, well, it's butter than nothing!"

Perhaps the one that tops them all, though, happened the other week in the dining hall when a stray dog wandered in. The comment was made that the dog's eyes looked bloodshot. "Maybe he's a boozehound," another student quipped.

Prof Conscientious

How's this for sheer industry? One JC prof claims that he will lecture during the class hour whether or not there are any students present—he is paid to teach that hour and that is just what he will do. What's more, he asserts, it has been known to happen.

When a student shrieked in class because he had been writing his notes in the wrong section of his notebook, a classmate suggested, "There's always suicide."

It has been observed that the dining hall announcements would probably be greatly spiced up with such announcements as: all those who received competence in the alphabet last semester can report to the treasurer's office to pick up their alphabet conference fee; tryouts for tomorrow night's school play will be held this evening; all those wishing lobster tail for tonight's meal can purchase bait in the bookstore; and tables down tomorrow—the faculty tables.

Praise For Hunt

Jim Hunt and his Tomahawk staff deserve a pat on the back for turning out a fine basketball program at each home game.

The extensive coverage of basketball news and features, excellent pictures, and technical perfection, certainly made the Tomahawk a good buy and would undoubtedly rank it among the best of college basketball publications.

Accent On Reading

Psychotherapy and the Christian View Of Man, by David E. Roberts. This book is a constructive attempt to bridge the gap which exists between psychotherapy and religion. It begins at the point where psychotherapy and Christian theology overlap, interwine, and conflict. Seldon does each group get a clear glimpse of the other, and that is what these pages provide. They prove that each group can meet on common ground and can work together toward objectives both desire.

Notre Dame of Paris the bio-Temko. The author has written a moving and engaging account of the building of a great cathedral. Neither an architectural history nor a guide, but rather the life story of a building set against the conditions, culture, and events of the time of its creation. The medieval spirit and craftsmanship is well conveyed in the book through forceful, skillful writing.

First Yes, Then No

Debaters Victim Of Indian Giving

by Jim Montgomery, Debate Club President

Several weeks ago after an article in the Juniatian, the college administration agreed to add another $100 to the Debate Clubs appropriation thus making the Club's total for the year $200. This article also produced other results. An anonymous sympathizer sent a check for $100 to Mr. Fike earmarked for the Debate Club.

It seems, however, that this check has encountered interference and has not reached its intended destination. Upon getting this check, Mr. Fike sent to Miss Dickey, the Club's advisor, a memo to the effect, that since the $100 has come the Administration will withhold its "promised" $100.

The Administration promised the Club $100 and now they have broken that promise. That $100 belonged to the Debate Club; it was only a matter of putting it on the books.

The implications of such a policy are appalling. The Debate Club had $200 from the Administration. A contributor sent $100 and the Administration took a $100 from the appropriation. It is logically conceivable then, if more contributions arrive in excess of the remaining $100, the Debate Club will owe the Administration money. Can the Club afford to accept such generosity?

The Administration made an agreement; now they wish to break that agreement. The check shall not go to the debaters, but rather to the Administration.

The only impediments to the expansion of the Club are financial. Interest and enthusiasm are there, as is evidenced by the way its members last year assumed much of the financial burden themselves. This extra $100 could mean more tournaments and greater participation. But, the Administration chooses to deny the Club this opportunity for expansion. An agreement cannot be broken that easily.

Mr. Fike's memo to Miss Dickey contained the following closing, obviously an empty formality: "If it is agreeable to you and the Debate Team we will make this money available to the Team instead of the promised appropriation from the College budget." No, it is not agreeable.

From The Mailbag

It has recently been brought to my attention that a letter was written to the Roddy Amusement Service who installed and service the juke box in Totem Inn.

The letter listed a number of records which the "letter senders" desired to have placed in the juke box . . . . If anyone has a sincere desire to have particular records available for playing, it is suggested that they contact Mr. Fisher, their social chairman or the juke box agency and I am sure everything that is possible will be done.

. . . . . the selections are placed on our juke box according to a national rating scale in combination with a poll (which is automaticaly recorded each time a record is played) taken from our individual juke box . . . . if we are not playing a record, they replace it.

And may I suggest that any future "letter senders" sign their own names to letters; there happens to be a law against signing anyone else's.

Sincerely,
Rosalie Langer

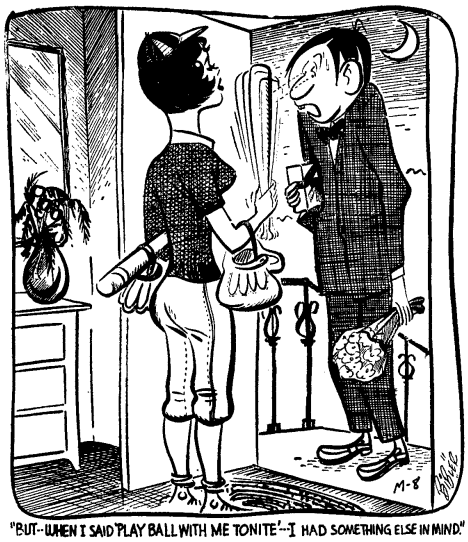
Baseball Isn't Only Spring Sport



"BUT--WHEN I SAID 'PLAY BALL WITH ME TONITE'--I HAD SOMETHING ELSE IN MIND."

Indians Submerge Jays In 91-78 Defeat As Team Closes Impressive 14-7 Season

by Bill Mariotti

Catching the Elizabethtown Blue Jays on one of heir worst nights of the season, Juniata rounded out the 1955-56 basketball campaign (14 wins, 7 losses) Wednesday night with a 91-78 triumph.

The Tribe's five seniors—Handzelek, Vanderbush, Hallman, Orriss and Froisland bowed out in a blaze of glory. After building up a 10 point lead at the outset of the second half, the Indians kept in the vicinity of that lead the rest of the way.

Juniata led by as many as 15 points during the fray. E-town never led in the tilt but did manage to hold a 23-23 tie midway in the first half. It was only the sixth loss in 21 games for the Jays with two games yet to play.

Ideal Night

It was an ideal night for the Indians as Coach "Doc" Greene emptied the bench for the finale.

Jake Handzelek paced the locals with 12 straight from the foul lane and a total of 32 points. Lee Hallman and Walt Vanderbush also hit double figures with 23 and 17 respectively.

In a losing cause William Pennsyl tallied 31 points for the rivals. Reliable Sal Paone tried to keep the E-towners in the game and registered 18 counters.

But all in all the Jays did not have it, and the Juniata Indians ended their season with a magnificent performance.

Win Over Lycoming

Tuning up for the final with Elizabethtown, Juniata easily downed Lycoming 91-63 last Saturday at the latter's court. The Tribe built up leads as much as 24 points during the encounter.

The Indians three big men—Handzelek, Hallman and Vanderbush tallied as many points as the entire Lycoming team. The three had 33, 26 and 24 markers respectively. These 97 points scored by the Tribe broke their all-time scoring mark with 1,620 points.

The Lyco's attack was led by Al Wilson with 21 tallies while Ron Kitt dropped 19 through the loop. Little Joe Hawkins, third in the nation in free throws, garnered a mere six points while being two for three from the charity lane.

FROM THE SUSQUEHANNA dated February 14, we gleaned the following hope-inspired bit: "Just a reminder that the first football game this fall will take place on Crusader Field against Ursinus on the first Saturday of the new semester. So don't plan anything on that first weekend, stick around and watch the gridders notch that first win."

Three IM Teams Ahead In Contest

Juniata's intramural league remained tight in the race for first place this week with three teams still sporting only two losses.

The Whips tied the first place Wolverines by defeating the 19th Holers 65-31 on Saturday, and the Galloping Ghosts rolled the Mighty Mites 46-25, maintaining their number three spot.

In Thursday's games, the Sunbrookers defeated the Rack Hounds 65-54, SOI lost to the Jabberwockies 69-44, and McKees Creek edged the Dukes in a close 48-47 match. The Kourt Kats outscored the JC Juniors 60-28, the Mighty Mites won over the 19th Holers 53-49, and the Crusaders lost to the Mumblers 44-38.

On Saturday, the Pretzels romped FR&M 60-42, the Jabberwockies won on a forfeit from the Kourt Kats, and the Wolverines nipped the Crusaders 53-50. In the 3:30 action the Ubangies took a 51-31 win over the JC Juniors, and the Dukes beat the SOI by forfeit.

Alumna Pens Letter To Students

Dear Juniata Friends,

"E sch'ne bonjour vum Letzebourg" is the message I brought back to America from my Luxembourg friends. It means "Greetings from Luxembourg".

On November 18, 1955, I returned home after a five months trip to Europe as an IFYE (International Farm Youth Exchange). The IFYE program is coordinated by the National 4-H Foundation in Washington, D.C., and financed by private donations. The purpose of the program is international understanding, which is accomplished by sending farm boys and girls from America to countries all over the world and in exchange farm youth from those countries come to America. Being an IFYE is very interesting and heart warming because you live right with the farm family and become a member of the household. I received my trip through my farm background and 4-H experience.

My first home was with a farm family with four children, ages 2½ to 17 years. Luxembourg people speak their own language, a combination of French and German and the strangest thing I had ever heard! But, before long, with the help of the 2½ year-old boy in the family I picked up some of their language and they learned a little English.

The people have many misconceptions of Americans. For instance, they though the purpose of an American woman is just to sit around the house as a decorative ornament with no need to work. This was too difficult for me, but with the language difficulty I could not explain that we do know how to work and we are human too, so I showed them. Well, I enjoyed eight wonderful weeks with this family working at home, in the garden, in the fields, playing, worshipping, etc.

For the last nine weeks of my stay, I lived with a family who owned and operated a feed mill. There were seven children, ranging from 16 to 30 years, six of them speaking English. So we spent many long hours explaining the strange customs of our two countries to each other. The thing that impressed me most was the family life. The families work, play, and worship together like a perfected machine and it is a wonderful feeling to be accepted as one of the family. The people work very hard but they take time to enjoy life and relax. That I really loved!

RELIGIOUS ACTIVITIES

by Barbara Walls

Sixteen members from Juniata's Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship are planning to attend, March 17 and 18, a conference in Lancaster, Pa., where representatives from all other clubs in the Eastern United States will gather together to discuss and exchange ideas about IVCF activities.

The IVCF, which meets weekly at 7:15 p.m. in Founders Chapel, is open to all college students interested in furthering their knowledge and gaining a better understanding of the Bible. In addition to their weekly informal discussions, the IVCF's programs include outside speakers and meetings with other clubs. Recently Pauline Hamilton, a missionary to China and a faculty member of Smith College, gave an interesting talk to IVCF members.

In addition to their regular meetings, the club conducts Bible studies open to all interested students in the men's and women's dorms. The IVCF, one of 600 clubs throughout the nation, puts emphasis on informal, friendly discussion for the purpose of gaining a better understanding of the Bible.

Spiritual Emphasis Week—and the intensive study of the weeks before—has helped Juniatians to re-evaluate the basis of their faith. Now, as the Lenten season develops, the March program of the JCA takes on a tone of Christian worship.

On March 6, the JCA will gather in the Stone Church for a sermon, The Meaning of Lent. The minister will be Rev. Botteiger from PIDD. On March 13, in Oller Hall, Dick Livingston and Jerry Richards will conduct a Protestant service of Lenten worship, while the following Tuesday, March 20, the Roman Catholic students have invited us to the celebration of a Lenten service of their Church, also scheduled for Oller Hall.

In the last week before Easter recess, the JCA will relinquish its usual Tuesday evening meeting. The occasion will be, of course, our annual All-College communion. This traditional Juniata observance is scheduled for March 26. Then, and throughout Lent, join your JCA in spiritual preparation for the most meaningful of Christian holidays.

CLUB News

Chemistry Club

The Chemistry Club will hold its next meeting in Room 104, Science Hall tonight at 7:30. At that time Dr. Andrew Benson, from Penn State, will present a lecture on photosynthesis. All students are invited to the meeting and those having four or more hours of chemistry are eligible for membership in the Chemistry Club. Members of Scalpel and Probe will find this lecture of special interest.

Scalpel and Probe

Next Tuesday at 11:00, 43 Scalpel and Probe members and 2 faculty members will meet in front of Science Hall to leave for the Altoona Hospital. They will view several operations and take a tour of the hospital.

JCA Cell

Is the good Christian a Socialist? This will be the issue when the Political Action Cell mets on Monday. Come to Room A at 7:00 and share an adventure!

IVCF

IVCF will meet tonight in Founders Chapel at 7:15. George Hess will speak on the effectiveness of the Early Christian Church. All are welcome.

Standing Stone

Twelve members of Standing Stone Grotto took an all day trip to Carnegie Cave about two miles east of Shippensburg. There were three people in the party for whom this was the first caving experience. About three hours were spent in the cave. This was the club's first trip into this area, but it plans to make more in the future.

Around the World With the President

by President Calvert N. Ellis, D. D.

During the past weeks we have passed through and over Burma, Thailand, and Japan. Our airplane has soared over a number of other places where we were glad we did not need to land! Any impressions which we received of these countries in such a short time are fragmentary and subject to correction.

Burma just recently received its independence and is struggling to find its place. It is a land of rice fields, teak forests and many pagodas. The people are of Tibeto-Mongolian stock who dress in bright vivid attire. One of our first sights in Rangoon was a new freighter flying the hammer and sickle tied up at the dock unloading machinery!

Rangoon still shows the effects of the bombing during the war and has many refugees. Here is a city with great poverty but a very hospitable spirit. The Burmese government claims to be neutral between east and west but we saw more communist publications in the bookstores than in any other city. There is a large Chinese population in Burma and no one knows how many are loyal to the "People's Government" of China.

The Russian visitors made a significant impression on this new nation which desperately wants recognition and the means to move into the industrial age. The She Dagon Pagoda with the golden spire is not only the largest Buddhist temple in the world but it also dominates the Rangoon skyline.

Thailand, formerly known as Siam, made famous by "Anna and the King of Siam," is a country of teak forests and rice fields in the river valleys. The people are Mongolian in origin, friendly happy and at ease. Here is no fear of or apparent interest in Communism. The Chinese minority is happy and prosperous. This country has not been under a foreign master for centuries and the tradition of freedom is well established under a constitutional monarchy.

Bangkok is a beautiful city of canals and the Oriental, one of the world's famous hotels. From the Terrace of the Oriental the life of this great city can be observed and sunsets, for which the east is famous, were appreciated. However, the air-conditioned room was a welcome relief from mosquitoes and fleas! The palaces and temples are beautiful examples of eastern art. We also saw the Royal Siamese classical dancing troup in a modern, perfectly equipped theatre!

Thialand has a large and strong United Church of Christ. The Presbyterian mission has been here for more than one hundred years and the Thai people have accepted the Christian faith as readily as any people of the east.

Tuesday's Election To Climax Fiery Senate Race

Carnegie Library Scene Of Exam To Discover Students' General IQ

by Emmalyn Heed

The General Information Quiz will be open to all students Wednesday from 4:00 to 5:30 p.m. in the library.

Any student who wishes may enter the contest. It is suggested that all entrants read the newspaper daily and have a generally well-read background of literature. The questions will be concerned with current events and other general information. The test is given for the purpose of stimulating outside reading and showing the importance of knowledge other than that in the college curriculum.

The contest is run on the number system and all scores are kept secret. Each contestant will receive a number which he will attach to his number sheet, keeping a copy of the number for himself. The judges will correct the papers and the two winning numbers will be announced in Chapel. Those with the corresponding numbers will receive the first and second prizes of $15 and $10 respectively.

The General Information Contest was started in 1925. According to the old issues of the Juniatian the prizes were originally donated by an anonymous "friend." It was later known to have been established by the Hon. Joseph Biddle, a United States congressman, and is now given in his memory by his son John Biddle, editor and owner of the Huntingdon Daily News.

Last year's winners were Dick Livingston, first prize, and Bill Smith, second prize.

Pianist, Vocalist Will Give Recital

Miss Marie Jaeger and Miss Mary J. Pfotenhauer, piano and vical instructors of Juniata College, will present a recital Wednesday evening, March 14, at 8:15 in Oller Hall.

They will be assisted by Dr. Ernest Wagner, cellist and former professor of chemistry at JC, and at present a professor emeritus at the University of Pensylvania.

Miss Jaeger is a graduate of Ripon College where she won the Yahr Music Award, and the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music where she received her master of music degree in 1952. This summer Miss Jaeger will study at th University of Munich, Germany, for three months.

Miss Pfotenhauer, contralto, received her master of music degree from the University of Michigan where she plans to study this summer.

For the recital Miss Jaeger will play Passacaglia and Fugue in C Minor by Bach (Arr. d'Albert), Jeux d'eau by Ravel, and Sonata Op. 1 by Berg.

Miss Pfotenhauer will sing the Schumann Song Cycle, Frauen Lieben Und Leben or Woman's Life and Love, which consists of eight songs. Julilate Domino or Praise the Lord is a solo cantata for a contralo, piano, and a cello Dr. Wagner will play the cello obligato.

Backus, DeNicola, Martin, Stayer Press To Grasp Student Support For Top Post

The election on Tuesday, March 13, will climax a week of fervent campaigning in the Senate Race.

President

Those who have petitioned for the office of president of the Senate are Dick Backus, Joe DeNicola, Jim Martin and Jim Stayer.

Backus, a pre-engineering major from Dayton, Ohio, lists among his activities the Brigadoon cast, Debate Club, WJC staff and co-stage manager for the Glass Menagerie.

Presidential candidate, DeNicola, hails from Altoona, Pa.; a business administration major, he is a member of the varsity basketball squad and the Tycoon Club.

A third presidential candidate, Martin, a pre-med student from Colver, Pa., includes in his activities the presidentship of the class of '57 and intramural sports.

Stayer, a history-philosophy major, is from Denver, Pa. Stayer serves as Senate Chairman of Religious Activities and JCA President in addition to membership in the Debate Club, the Ministerium, the Indian football squad and intramural sports.

Vice President

Running for the office of vice president are Dave Amidon, Jim Corrigan, Ron "Hoot" Gibson and Newt Taylor.

Amidon, a history major from Lititz, is the JCA political action cell leader, a member of the Ministerium and Debate Team, a Juniatian feature co-editor and a deputation team speaker.

A pre-med major from Pittsburgh, Corrigan is presently secretary-treasurer of Scalpel and Probe, a member of the Chemistry and German clubs and is a varsity track man. He participates in intramural basketball.

Another history major, Gibson, who hails from Aliquippa, is a member of IVCF and participates in intramural basketball.

Taylor, a day student and history major, is a Juniatian columnist, co-sports editor of the Alfarata, a member of the Debate Team, and went to Leadership Conference.

Secretary

Phyllis Marcocci and Helen Schmidlen are competing for the position of secretary.

A Spanish major from Dudley, Pa., Miss Marcocci includes among her activities the FTA club, secretary of the class of '57, Women's House and the chairman of the stage crews for Brigadoon and Glass Menagerie. Miss Marcocci will be student teaching next semester in an area high school.

Miss Schmidlen, an English major from Sheffield, Pa., is a member of the FTA and WAA. She also will be student teaching next semester.

Treasurer

Throwing their hats into the ring for treasurer are George Carnahan, Richard "Doc" Kramer and Bill Hershberger.

Carnahan has been active in dramatic productions on campus: Brigadoon, All-Class Night and the forthcoming Glass Menagerie. He is program director of WJC and a member of the Debate Team and Tycoon club.

Two business majors, Kramer and Hershberger both participate in basketball activities, Kramer also being the business manager of the Scout.

WAA TO ATTEND PLAY DAY

Tomorrow about 29 JC coeds will participate in Penn State's Play Day activities.

The WAA will send its members to participate in badminton, basketball, bowling, modern dance, swimming and volleyball.

Even A Kissing Booth!

Spring Carnival Comes Tomorrow

by Aliceann Wohlbruck

Hurry, hurry, hurry, right this way to the biggest little carnival on earth!

This Saturday night at 8:30 in the Women's Gym the Social Committee, with the Inter-Club Council, presents the Spring Carnival.

Step right up to the kissing booth, fellows and girls. Or how about shaving a balloon? For the guy who thinks he's a marksman there's a booth where you can shoot out the light of a candle with a squirt gun. The Senate presents a famous Far East (so, it's Far East Pennsylvania) mystic to tell your fortune. You can also see a puppet show, duck for apples or try to fool the "sharpie" who's guessing weights.

All this activity, and much more, will be set in a carnival atmosphere complete with music and a barker.

Another attraction you can find on the little midway is entertainment—featured will be a jam session by the Midnighters. Also, there are refreshments and as you enter the door you will be given a tag with a number which will make you eligible for one of the valuable door prizes that will be given every half hour.

Booths, shows, games of chance, and displays are in charge of the various campus organizations, and some activity is planned for every minute. Why not go to the movies on Friday night and come early so you don't miss anything. All the students and faculty are invited and Rosalie Langer, social committee chairman, said, "With cooperation the Spring Carnival will be a big success, and may become an annual affair."

Get out of that slump! Step right up and see if you can't win one of the many prizes.

HS Pupils Here To Vie Tuesday

The annual district contest of the Pensylvania Forensic and Music League will be held on the JC campus Tuesday.

High school students from 13 counties are expected to take part in the one-day competition, which is to be conducted by W. Clay Burkholder, superintendent of Mifflin Co. Schools. The winners in Tuesday's forensic activities will be certified to compete in state finals.

The contests, which will begin in the morning and continue through the afternoon, will take place in Swigart Hall and Oller Hall.

Touring Choir Will Go To District Churches

This Sunday, March 11, the Juniata College Touring Choir will travel to three churches in their schedule of appearances.

Sunday morning they will give their program at the Roxbury Church of the Brethern in Johnstown. That afternoon they will go to the Church of the Brethern in Everett and in the evening they will sing at the First Methodist Church in Tyrone.

Senate Releases Rules of Election

The following election rules have been released by the Senate.

1. The polls will be open from 7:45 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 13 for offices, Tuesday, March 20, for chairmanships; likewise on Wednesday, March 14, for officers, Wednesday, March 21, for chairmanships in case of runoffs.

2. Election will be by a majority vote of all votes cast; two-thirds of the student body must participate before the election is valid.

3. In accordance with the new constitutional by-law arising out of a Leadership Conference resolution, individual vote results remain unpublished except under these conditions:

a. where all losing candidates for a particular office request such a publication.

b. where the losing candidates in a run-off request such a publication.

Filing Of Requests

A request for publication must be filed in writing to the Senate chairman of elections before 10 p.m. on the day following the announcement of the winner for particular office. Forms for such requests will be made available to all candidates before the election.

All results that are to be published will be released simultaneously but not before all 12 Senate positions are filled.

In addition, all candidates are reminded to check the campaign rules printed in last week's Juniatian. Failure to comply with these regulations may mean disqualification from the election.

College To End Laundry Privilege If Students Do Not Come Clean

The administration has threatened that unless students cease to abuse the college laundry facilities, the service will be discontinued in the New Dorm, as well as in the women's dorm.

The laundry facilities are being provided for the students at a nominal cost, John Fike, college treasurer, pointed out. Thus the administration feels justified in asking for student cooperation. The frequent repairs which have been necessitated through student misuse of facilities have been quite expensive.

Just last week, for example, a "bargain-hunter," desiring a longer wash, jammed the time controller with a piece of wood. The cost—$25 for a new timer. Another type of student is the "free rider". Stopping the washer, he takes out somebody else's sopping wet wash when it is halfway through the cycle, then puts in his own laundry. Anything for a dime!

Finally we have Inconsiderate Isabel. Instead of waiting for a washre, she takes it upon herself to turn the timer ahead on another student's wash. The result? The college receives complaints that the washers are not getting the clothes clean. It is perfectly all right to stop a washer or advance its cycle, as long as one first pushes in on the dial, Paul Friend, college business manager, explained. However, he strongly urges that out of consideration for fellow students, one does this with his own wash only.

When using machine number one in the women's dorm, money should not be deposited while the light on the timer is burning. Thus, if the machines are properly operated, there should be little occasion to loose coins in them. If a lose does occur, however, in order to get a return students should see the laundress in the women's dorm or Fred Ross in the New Dorm, who will verify the loss of money and report it to the College.

Similarly, if a machine is in need of repair, it should be reported immediately to Fike or Friend. "Self-appointed engineers" are discouraged.

Which will it be—more cooperation or no laundry privileges? It is up to us, the students, to decide.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Since the present vogue for students seems to be the writing of letters to fill the pages of the Juniatian, I will bow to custom and write my first such epistle. Likewise, according to custom, I will remain completely biased throughout, taking care to avoid conceding a single point. This letter does deviate from custom, however, insofar as it defends an act of the college administration.

Last week the Debate Club President constructed a tearful story of the method by which the Debate Club was deprived of $100 which had previously been appropriated to them. The issue was clouded (by tears) at one point when the author stated that the administration was actually keeping a check given to the Debate Club as a gift. This I cannot believe!

The administration allocated an additional $100 (above the original $100) to the club because it felt that there was a need. However, since Juniata College has a rather fixed and limited income and because it is illegal to run of currency on the college mimeograph machine, another area of the budget must have suffered. . . The appropriations are tentative, subject to changing conditions.

Next, enter a gift check of $100 earmarked for the Debate Club Since the club could not present a proposed program which seemed to necessitate a $300 budget, the administration withdrew its recent $100 grant, to be reallocated to an equally worthy cause, I am sure. . .

Perhaps the Debate Club should be appreciative of the gift check, for now they have an extra $100 (what they sought) and another needy area of the budget is getting the blessing of an unexpected windfall of $100.

Sincerely
Larry L. Confer

The Debaters got the blessing for themselves.—Ed.

Economic Reprisal Is Weapon Of Alabama Negro Bus Boycotters

by Newt Taylor

Today in Montgomery, Ala., the Negroes are waging an effective fight for passive resistance to the segregation policies of the city bus lines. By refusing to ride the buses until their grievances are met, the Negroes are using the weapon of economic reprisal.

The trouble began December 1 when a Mrs. Rosa Parks refused to give up her seat to a white man. She was arrested for violating the city's segregation laws. When she refused to pay the fine, she was jailed. Released on bond, her case has been appealed to the Alabama Supreme Court.

The fight by the Negroes in Montgomery has been led by the Negro ministers and the city's two Negro lawyers. They originally planned the boycott for the day Mrs. Parks was to appear in court. However, it proved so successful that they decided to continue it until their demands are met.

Negro Drivers

These demands were originally quite moderate. The leaders were willing to maintain the custom that whites sit in front and Negroes in the rear. They merely sought the right to be seated on a first-come first-served basis without having to vacate their places for white passengers. They also ask that Negro drivers be employed on buses traveling mostly through Negro districts.

From the first the boycott hurt the bus company. It has been estimated that as many as 75 percent of their riders had been Negroes. Recently the city was forced to grant the company a substantial boost in rates.

When a compromise settlement between the company and the Negro leaders fell through, the leaders of the company and the city, including the mayor, denounced the Negroes and enrolled in the white councils.

Overthrow Segregation

The Negroes retaliated by filing a suit in federal court seeking to overthrow all city and state segregation laws. In bitterness the whites arrested a hundred Negroes and had them indicted for conspiracy to conduct illegal boycott.

Thus, with tempers on both sides in a fiery state, this latest episode of race trouble continues.

Backus —

To the Juniata Student Body:

It is my firm belief that the Student Senate President is a representative of all the students and that he is responsible to the students.

This is my basic idea behind the following planks which shall be my promises to the student body. Therefore if elected I promise:

1. To make every effort possible to obtain increased telephone facilities in the dorms.
2. To continue support of the dance band and to go ahead with the rotation of our dance band with other college dance bands to give the band experience and the opportunities of playing band dates for other campuses.
3. To push plans and work on Day Student Room improvements.
4. A closer check on the faculty safety committee in matters of geicing sidewalks, hall lights in dorms, and completing of the lighting of the walk to the new dorm.
5. Continuance of the policy o open Senate meetings.
6. Rotation of table assignment at least once a month.
7. To utilize a questionnaire see if students are in favor of the continuance of Operation Recreation and to quickly carry out the decision of the students.
8. A more representative Leadership Conference.
9. To encourage more student participation in campus activities.
10. Information of Senate issues by means of WJC.
11. Student questionaires on vital issues.
12. More student participation in the preparation and selection of chapel programs.
13. To continually bring to the attention of the Administration any student dissatisfaction with the food.
14. Signs bearing the legend Juniata College to be erected in front of the college and on Route 22.
15. A Senate used book exchange to aid students in the selling and buying of used textbooks.

DeNicola —

To the Juniata Student Body:

The announcement of my running for the presidency of the Student Senate was greeted with many comments and criticisms.

The seriousness of purpose behind my seeking the presidency has been questioned; and, to say the least, many other uncomplimentary remarks have been circulating. My only comment: I am as sincere as any candidate for the presidency has ever been.

As far as my platform is concerned, I am not going into a long list of promises and radical changes. This college is ranked scholastically as one of the finest in the nation. Its alumni are respected all over the country. Why make changes that could possibly jeopardize this reputation?

I realize, however, that there are a few sore spots and the utmost attention will be given to each of these.

Primarily:

1. Totem Inn—Administrative duties for students have been partially neglected. He who is paying the piper is not calling the tune.
2. Dining Hall—Selection of a parents' committee to discuss meals with Miss Mathias.
3. Athletics—Introduction of new sports: wrestling and soccer (men) Intercollegiate athletics for women.
4. Day Students—Follow up of Hunt's program. Attempt to bring vets closer to campus activities.
5. Dormitories—Demand an itemized account of everyone's $10.00 property damage fee.

I do not want to make my platform too extensive since I know that the student body is not interested in promises. Results are more favorable.

In closing let me say that platforms have importance but remember: It is not the blue-print but the finished construction that counts.

Very Sincerely,
Joseph R. "Horse" DeNicola

Martin —

To the Juniata Student Body:

I conceive the Senate as an organization which submits the temperament of the student body to investigation and ultimately to positive action. The Senate also coordinates this action with that of the Faculty and Administration..

Concerning the areas of student opinion which should at present be submitted to intense investigation and action are the following:

1. The Senate minutes should be published and the student body made more aware of its activities.
2. Day students should definitely have a voice in Senate matters.
3. Class officers ought to be made more aware of Senate problems.
4. Operation Recreation should be completed as presently planned and then expanded to include a recreation room provided with suitable equipment.
5. The administration ought to be approached concerning the condition of our athletic field.
6. Intramurals could be expanded to include wrestling and boxing if interest is shown.
7. A student-faculty planning board for chapel programs could be created.
8. The educational opportunities of Juniata College outside the classroom should be made more readily available to the townspeople.
9. Freshman initiation can give us an opportunity to weld a class as a unit, thus the aim of a constructive program should be continued.
10. The telephone situation is badly in need of expansion and revision.
11. WJC provides opportunity for new educational experience; this should be exploited.
12. Encouragement should be given the Social Committee in proportion to its important function on campus. This would include completion of the dance band exchange program. . . .

To the Juniata Student Body:

I pledge:

1. Completion of a number of projects and righting of a number of wrongs in our present campus situation which demand action from effective government:
   a. Completion of Operation Recreation by November 30, 1956.
   b. Preparation by campus musical talent of a more respectable Alma Mater to be submitted to students and administration next fall.
   c. An extension of dorm telephone service.
   d. Renewal of action for posting of dining hall menues at the beginning of each week.
   e. Pushing the present Senate plan for improvement of Men's Day Student Room.
2. Presentation this Spring to Student Body and Administration of a plan, already well-developed by former Senates, for a powerful Student Administration Disciplinary Committee, tending toward government of this campus by the real ethic of the entire Juniata community.
3. Searching re-examination of the Juniata comprehensive examination system by a committee of respected students, with presentation of a more desirable alternative plan if advisable.

One of this campus's greatest tragedies is the staggering load of responsibility on "campus leaders," as contrasted with the frustration of some hundred underclassmen who can find no outlet for their talent and enthusiasm in our community activities. In partial remedy I propose a Central Placement Bureau in which students who want to participate in campus activities can communicate their talents and interests to "wheels" who need their help. For myself, I pledge:

That your student government will be my first responsibility and my academic life a matter of secondary concern. I shall carry only 12 semester hours next fall and continue this practice in the Spring if necessary.

Whips Edge Wolvers From Top Position

This week the Whips edged the Wolverines from the number one spot in the intramural loop, by defeating McKees Creek, Dukes and Rack Hounds, 58-50, 49-43, and 82-50, respectively.

The Galloping Ghosts gained second place by taking a forfeit game from the Kourt Kats, and the Wolverines dropped their third game to McKees Creek.

On Thursday the Sunbrookers edged the Pretzels 69-63, the Crusaders downed the Rack Hounds 78-40, and the JC Juniors lost to the 19th Holers 51-43. The Court Jesters forfeited to the Jabberwockies, and the Kourt Kats took FR&M 49-33.

Saturday's action, resulted in a McKees Creek victory over the Ubangies 48-42, and the Wolverines rolled the Sr. Goof-offs 68-47. FR&M nipped the SOI 45-41, and the Mumblers won on a forfeit over the 19th Holers.

On Monday, the Whips took a close game over the Dukes 49-43, and the Mumblers romped the JC Juniors 79-26. The Sunbrookers defeated the Mighty Mites 57-54, the Rack Hounds lost to the 19th Holers 48-44, and McKees Creek beat the Kourt Kats into submission 65-54.

Girls, Pack Win In Close Battle

The Gieger Girls and the Punchy Pack each racked up a narrow win on March 1.

The Gieger Girls downed the Hobo's 14-12 and the Punchy Pack slipped by the Rowdies 16-14. The Squaws won over the Krazy Kids 39-29 on Feb. 21 and the Buffaloes, back on the warpath, scored a 29-24 victory over the Krazy Kids on March 5.

Patience Kimlock, Squaws, was high scorer for the Feb. 21 game with 22 points. Joyce Lashley with 8 and Ruppenthal with 6 led the Gieger Girls in their victory.

Joanne Haines, 8, and Joan Hanaford, 6, led the Punchy Pack scoring. Sandy Cohich racked up 16 points for the Buffaloes.

3 To Coach Spring Sports

The Blue and Gold will break spring training and open the 1956 baseball season on April 10 at Washington.

The team is coached by Hicks, who will be starting his second season as mentor. In 1955 the team compiled a record of eight wins and seven losses.

Snider is starting his 24th season as track coach. Last year the track team had a record of no wins and five losses. Juniata's overall track record is 50 wins, 55 losses and one tie.

Juniata's winningest spring sport is golf. Germann starts his third season as coach. Last year the team took four wins and lost four, the worst season in nine years.

In the past they won the Middle Atlantics three times (51, 52, 54) and the Western Maryland Tournament six times and were defeated in 1948 and 1950.

The tennis team will start, and perhaps continue, the season without a coach. It is rumored that a faculty manager will be appointed for the team. Dr. Theodore Lockwood, last year's coach is now at MIT. This will be the 29th season for tennis. Last year's team had a 4-4 record.

Basketball Team Statistics Show Many Records

by Bill Mariotti

With the release of the final 1955-56 basketball statistics of the current campaign, it is revealed that many records were broken by the Juniata hoopsters.

The most significant note in the statistics was the third straight winning season compiled by Juniata's five senior men (Handzelek, Vanderbush, Hallman, Froisland and Oriss). These boys climaxed their careers by pacing the tribe to numerous all-time scoring marks.

Opponents Score High

The Greenemen scored a grand total of 1,711 points for an average of 81.5 a game in garnering 14 wins in 21 encounters. Both of these scoring marks are new records. The Tribe added a sour note to the record books by allowing their opponents also to score at a blistering pace. Juniata's opposition racked up points at a 77.3 turnout per game.

Once again the individual that shone in the scoring spotlight for the Indians was the Shickinny sharpshooter, Jake Handzelek.

Jake tallied 492 points in averaging 23.4 points per game. He shot 40 percent from the field and a record breaking 81 percent from the charity lane. He became the first Indian player ever to exceed 400 points in four separate seasons. He compiled a record smashing 23.8 scoring average in 82 games under the Juniata banner.

Vanderbush and Oriss

Walt Vanderbush copped rebound honors with 246, while Bernie Oriss amassed the best shooting percentage by countering on 47 percent of his shots from the field.

HEARD ON CAMPUS

On a recent quiz show a contestant was asked if he liked fried chicken when it was served in the college dining hall. He looked questioningly at the MC and answered, "I'm only a freshman."

Religious Activities

Can We Afford To Oppose Religion?

by Bill Smith for Barbara Walls

The famous English historian, G. M. Trevaleyn, tells us that anti-clericalism was a stronger force than either Catholicism or Protestantism in the English Reformation.

To be anti-clergical is to be in rebellion against organized religion. Anti-clericalism is not a phenomenon isolated in textbooks on history and political science, it is a deadly fact on our own campus. I am sure you have all made or, at least, heard that classic snide remark, "After all, this is a Christian college!"

The implication seems to be that Juniata is something other than a Christian college. It is well known that the majority of JC students masquerade as Christians. Assuming that this school's student body is something other than Christian we must ask ourselves, "What is the major enemy of Christ on campus?"

Might it not be that Juniata's own anti-clericalism is the campus anti-Christ? Juniata's anti-clericalism is a strange hybrid. Students expressing themselves in the normal revolt against authority which makes them suspect the college administration must also suspect the supposed religious basis upon which the administration acts.

Besides, since college definitely proves religion to be "unscientific," to be irreligious is sophisticated and collegiate. But only a few students are energetic enough to resolve their irreligion into off-beat doctrines, the great majority simply ignore religious faith.

These are not the only bases of JC anti-clericalism. It is often justified by wrongs that the administration commits in the name of religion or by the smugness or incompetence of Christians on campus. But there is tructive about Juniata anti-clericalism. Most JC anti-clergicalism grows not out of a desire for reform, but rather from the belief that it is grown up and mature to suspect religion.

The point is not that the student body ought to give God a break. God can get on without Juniata, but sometimes it may be tough for individual Juniatians to get on without God. Suppose God were speaking to us; Christian denominations are almost unanimous in saying that the anti-clergy with the clased mind and the closed heart cannot hear Him.

Around The World With The President

Here is the fourth in a series of reports by the president on his trip around the globe.

Hong Kong, a British Colony, is a fabulous city of almost three million people, lying at the southeastern edge of China.

Like Vienna on the west it has become rich trading with the communist countries. Hong Kong is one of the world's most beautiful harbors and most difficult airports.

Planes can land only in daylight because of the mountains and buildings which surround the airport. The runway is very short but even then they stop traffic when planes land or take off because one of the highways crosses the runway. The Crown Colony is made up of the island of Hong Kong and the New Territories, which is made up of a few square miles on the mainland of China across from the island. There is no question that Communist China could take Hong Kong any time she wished but the colony is more valuable to China as a trading center than it would be as part of the country.

The drive around the New Territories is as beautiful as the Amalfi drive in Italy and the view of the city from the Peak at night is an unforgettable sight. Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. W. Emmert Swigart we were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lau. Mr. Lau was a student in the United States and now is a prominent attorney in Hon Kong. They served a Chinese dinner of ten courses to an international gathering in their hame on the Peak overlooking the harbor.

Many people remember Hong Kong because of what they bought there! It is a free port and it looked as though anything one wished could be purchased here. Suits and shoes are made in a few hours at very reasonable prices. American and European merchandise as well as contraband gods from China can be found on every street. I have never seen such a merchandise mart!

Aspirants Battle For Eight Senate Positions

Chairmen Have Various Duties

In order to aid students in electing the eight chairmen for next year's Senate, following is an outline of the duties each Senator will be expected to perform.

Students should keep these duties in mind when casting their ballots, in order to vote for the most qualified person.

1. Chairman of Athletics—plan and carry out an extensive program of student sports activity, including setting up the intramural program, serve as a member of the Athletic Committee and act as liason man in relations between the Senate and the athletic department.

2. Chairman of general activities— head the inter-club council, serve as general coordinator of club activities, plan class dues days and coordinate Homecoming weekend, Christmas activities, All Class Night, Move-up Day and May Day.

3. Chairman of men's house—keep order and provide good living conditions in the men's dormitory and day students room. He is aided by the men's house committee which consists of representatives from each hall. If the proposed disciplinary committee is accepted, he will serve on that committee. Only men students vote for this chairman

4. Chairman of publications—maintain high standards of journalism in the campus publications through associating with the editors of the Alfarata, the Juniatian, the Scout, write Senate news for the Juniatian, serve as head of the WJC executive board and keep a file of information and reports on Senate sponsored activities (All-Class Night, JWSF, Scout, etc.)

5. Chairman of religious activities—formulate and execute the year's schedule of religious activities, the most important of which is Spiritual Emphasis Week. He also automatically becomes the president of JCA.

6. Chairman of social activities direct the yearly round of social events, including the Christmas and Valentine's dances, be in charge of the college dance band and the dance band exchange program and act as a member of the student-faculty social program committee and the Totem Inn committee.

7. Chairman of underclassmen is in charge of the big-brother, big-sister program, the President's tea (transportation arrangements), freshman court and the initiation program and is house manager for all Oller Hall programs.

8. Chairman of women's house duties similar to men's house chairman. She, too, will be a member of the disciplinary committee if it is accepted. The women's house committee is also in charge of the Christmas banquet. This chairman is elected by the women only.

In addition to these duties, several of the senators serve on standing student-faculty committees, and all of them are expected to serve on many and varied Senate committees.

Dean Dove Announces Resignation, Betrothal

Alice B. Dove, dean of women at Juniata College, has announced that she will resign at the end of this year for the purpose of marriage to J. Bradford Shawn of Denton, Md.

The surprise announcement was made by the Dean at a women's house meeting held last Monday night.

Shawn is former chief of maintenance and operations for the Dupont organization in the Wilmington, Del. area. He retired from this position last June. The probable wedding date for the couple has been set at June 18. They plan to live in Hagerstown, Md.

Dean Dove attended Juniata College and the University of Pennsylvania, where she did work on her Master's Degree. She assumed the position of dean of women here September, 1952. Her resignation will become effective June 4 of this year.

JUNIORS AND SENIORS may pick up their portraits in the Social Rooms Monday afternoon if they can pay for them at that time, according to Harry Garber, Alfarata business manager.

This Is (Blush) Harmony Week !

In view of widespread campus concern over past weeks of dog-eat-dog student relations, the Juniatian cheerfully declares a seven day armistice in recognition of National Harmony Week, March 13-20.

Some skeptics will doubtless observe that the stated week embraces both Senate elections. How fortuitious! Indeed, one could hardly imagine a more appropriate season in which to commemorate our utter concord. With one voice, this little Brethren college acclaims its new leadership.

Now, we want to be sincere about this thing. Insincerity will never do. Accordingly, for the duration of N.H.W.:

1. Let an enduring broad smile light your countenance, shedding

Voters Elect Stayer For Senate President After Three Ballots

Jim Stayer was elected president of the Senate yesterday on a third ballot.

Newt Taylor was elected vice president; Phyl Marcocci, secretary, and Bill Hershberger, treasurer.

The election, generally regarded as the most hotly contested in years, was forced to an unprecedented second runoff when no one of the three remaining presidental candidates could pull the necessary majority of the total vote cast in the first runoff.

Eighty-three percent of the total enrollment, or 531 students, voted in the first election Tuesday, while 80 percent, 517 students, cast ballots in Wednesday's runoff.

The fury of the presidential campaign somewhat overshadowed another close race requiring a runoff where day student Taylor took the position of vice-president on the second ballot.

Miss Marcocci and Hershberger were elected on the first ballot last Tuesday evening. They, along with the president and vice-president and the eight chairmen who will be elected next Tuesday and Wednesday, will assume their new duties on Move-Up Day, to be held Monday, March 26.

Senate Classifies Posts On Campus

Last week a Senate committee on classification completed the annual revision of the major minor classification system for campus offices.

This system is designed to prevent students from holding too many major offices on campus. Major and minor offices are figured on the basis of time consumption and complexity of duties.

Major offices include all Senate offices except chairman of publications, editor of the Alfarata, and editor and managing editor of the Juniatian.

Minor Offices

Classified as the minor offices are the Senate chairman of publications, JCA cabinet members, editor and business manager of the Indian, assistant editor and business manager of the Alfarata, business manager of the Juniatian and Scout, editor of the Scout, program and technical directors of WJC, chairman of the JWSF Drive, student manager of the operetta, All-Class Night chairman, and manager of the choir.

All other positions are unclassified.

At the most, a student is permitted to hold one major, one minor, and one unclassified office;

Girls, Answer The Call: Go To Dance With HIM

A kiss or two before I die is all I need of you;
A treasured dream and heavy sigh is all I have of you.
As I gaze this endless doom, I can't but think of you
And wonder of the wasted room my heart has held for you.
I know it's useless more to try—my arms could never hold you
So pardon me as now I sigh for I have never met you.
but
You can change this miserable fate; put me in your trance—
Answer my call for this date and come to St. Patrick's dance.
—A JC Male

Aye, and ye'd be wise to heed that advice ye college men and colleens. Come along Saturday evening at 8:15 to the Women's Gym for a dance the likes of which the JC campus has never seen. Leprechauns, shamrocks and shillelaghs will add to the atmosphere and MacNamara Wright's band will be on hand to provide dreamable, danceable music.
